BA Is Recognized; Among Nation's Best

"Texas Tech's business school is now recognized as one of the top schools in the nation." This statement of Dean George Heather, came after Tech's School of Business Administration was accepted for membership in the American Assn. of Collegiate Schools of Business.

"It is usually necessary for schools to apply several times before admission is granted said Dean Heather. "However, Tech has attained the necessary standards and is among the few schools to be admitted on the first application."

Membership was announced after the school was visited by three deans of business in member schools, was recommended by the executive committee of the association and finally approved by member schools.

HEATHER SAID that although the membership would not technically affect the degree which a student receives in Business Administration it does open new academic opportunities to him, in that several honorary business administration societies can be obtained only at AACSB member schools.

ONLY 85 U. S. COLLEGES have attained membership in the organization and Tech is the third Texas member.

Dr. E. N. Jones, Tech president, had a congratulatory word for the BA school. He said, "The attaining of membership, which is equivalent to accreditation for the School of Business Administration, is another victory in Texas Tech's growing list of achievements."

7:20 a. m., --Not 7:30

Prospective summer school students get ready for a shock.

For the first time, classes will begin this summer at 7:20 a. m. instead of 7:30 a. m. They will run on a full 1 1/2 hour schedule.

Even more happiness has been injected into the summer session with the announcement that during the first term there will be classes on two Saturdays, June 7 and July 12.

In the second term, classes will be held on three Saturdays. The reason for the three Saturday classes in the second session is because the term is being cut short one week.

"I EXTEND hearty congratulations to the entire business administration faculty, and to the students who now hold — and to those who are yet to receive — degrees in business administration from Texas Tech."

When visiting a school which has applied for membership, AACSB representatives examine it for certain standards. Such considerations as the number of credit hours taught by persons with doctorates and other graduate degrees, instructional and administrative loads, and political influences prevalent in the school are examined.

Circle K Group Sponsors Annual Old Clothes Drive

An all-campus clothing drive sponsored by the Circle K organization in cooperation with the Hub City Kiwanis will begin today.

This drive, an annual Circle K function, is for raising money for the Children's Milk Fund, a fund for underprivileged children.

Students are asked to place old clothing or shoes in the barrels provided in the dorms and in the Tech Union. All contributions were urged by Jim Bell, president of Circle K. He said, "Bring all clothes, regardless of condition."

The clothes will be collected by Circle K members, and later in the year will be sold and the money contributed to the Children's Milk Fund in Lubbock.

Jerry Hostie is heading the project.

The clothes drive will be on the agenda at the regular meeting of the Circle K. Members are urged to bring their wives or dates to the meeting, as it will be Ladies Day.

The meeting will be in the Tech Union ballroom tomorrow at noon and Dub Rogers, general manager of KDUB-TV will speak to the group.

THE GREAT CAP AND GOWN CONTROVERSY

It will soon be cap and gown time again, so let us, without delay, take up the vexing question: which side of the cap should the tassel hang on?

For many years the practice was to hang the tassel over the front of the cap. This practice was abandoned in 1948 when the entire graduating class of Northwestern University, blinded by tassels hanging in their eyes, made a wrong turn during commencement exercises and ended up at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center where, all unwitting, they were inducted into the submarine service for five-year hitchies.

Let us take up the Vexing Question:

There is a growing body of opinion which holds that the tassel should hang over the back of the cap. The tassel, they say, is a symbol like the bullfighter's pigtail, signifying honor and courage.

This makes a good deal of sense because when one wants a Marlboro, one wants one with a minimum of delay. One does not relish being kept, even for a second, from the heaps of joy, the barrels of pleasure, the seeds of content, the loads of glee, the lumps of ecstasy, that one gets from that filter, that flavor, that flip-top box.

There is another group, small but vocal, which insists the tassel should hang over the back of the cap. The tassel, they say, is a symbol like the bullfighter's pigtail, signifying honor and courage.

They are wrong. Bullfighters wear pigtails for only one reason: to keep the backs of their necks warm. Do you have any idea what a draft a bull makes when he rushes past you? A plenty big one, you may be sure.

In fact, upper respiratory infections, contracted in the wake of passing bulls, is the largest single cause of bull-ring fatalities. I have this interesting statistic from the Bullfighters Mutual Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut. Incidentally, Hartford, the insurance capital of America, is a delightful city and well worth a visit if you are ever in New England, as northeastern United States is laughingly called. Try to make your visit in spring when the actuaries are in bloom.

But I digress. We were talking about what side to wear the tassel on. An ingenious solution to this problem was proposed not long ago by Humboldt Sigafoos, perhaps better known as "The Quoit King of Delaware." An early forbear of Mr. Sigafoos was granted a monopoly by King George III, on all quoits manufactured in Delaware. Somehow this royal patent was never rescinded and from that day to this, every quoit made in Delaware has been a Sigafoos Quoit.

Well sir, Mr. Sigafoos suggested that the way to solve the great tassel controversy was to starch the tassel so it stood upright and hung on no side of the cap at all. But I'm afraid that sly Mr. Sigafoos was only seeking to broaden his market because after graduation, what can you do with an upright tassel except hurl quoits at it?

The makers of Marlboro have no opinion about what side to hang your tassel on. But with cigarettes, they say firmly: Stay on the light, mild, tasty side... with Marlboro, of course!

committee working on the Fall Orientation Program. Orientation will be held the first week of school for presidents, vice presidents, treasurers, secretaries and public relations chairmen from all campus organizations.

The fall program is designed to enable the organizations to "get on their feet quicker" and to give quick leadership orientation to the people in office and in leadership positions.

A PUBLIC RELATIONS committee, headed by Glen Cope, is currently revising the system of publication and communication on the campus. Its nine members work on communication problems of different Tech groups and advise them on how to best publicize their individual activities.

An Advisory Board of the Public Relations Committee, consisting of representatives from all departments of the Public Relation field will advise and coagulate publicity for all-campus activities beginning next semester.

THE SOCIAL calendar committee is currently working on regulations for activities of campus organizations. A booklet is being prepared containing these rules and standards. Patsy Mullins is chairman of this committee.

Studying constitutions that are out of date is the primary function of the Constitution Committee. This committee, headed by Karen Smith, makes specific recommendations that will apply to those organizations with outmoded constitutions.

THE LIBRARY Committee is setting up a leadership shelf in the Library. Books concerned with student leadership and various aspects of different offices will be placed on this shelf for student use. Martha Kenley is chairman of this committee.

So ended the spring semester. Have a great sun-burning time on the picnics this weekend and don't forget about the Fiji Island Dance and especially don't forget Mother on Sunday.

Fijis Plan Island Hop

Natives of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity will dress in their tribal costumes Saturday for their annual Fiji Island Dance from 8 to midnight in Fair Park Coliseum.

"Fiji Island" is open to all students, and sororities and fraternities are urged to attend the annual event, Keith Cecil, chairman of the dance, said.

Music will be furnished by the Dunbar Combo and admission is free.

Costumes for the dance will be native or sailor.

In past years, Phi Gams have had the dance outside, but rain spoiled the event last year and it had to be moved to the Tech Union.

Fijis come dressed as early natives of the Fiji Islands and an island atmosphere is created by grass huts and bonfire.

At one time, the women were rowed to the dance site in canoes by their escorts.

"THE BARBER OF SEVILLE" is being presented by foreign language students in the Foreign Language Theater. Performances will be at 7:30 p.m. today and 2:30 p.m. Saturday. Discussing the plot to keep Rosine in seclusion is Franz L. Helbig, Count Almaviva; Joe Ben Hudgens, Gigaro and Marsha Reily, Rosine. (Staff Photo).

NATIVES OF FIJI ISLAND invite Texas Tech students to attend their annual dance in Fair Park Coliseum from 8 p.m. to midnight Saturday. It is a costume dance sponsored by Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and this "native" is representative of some of the costumes that will be seen at the dance.

Le Cercle Francais Has Play Tonight

Such comments as "Should Le Comte's hair be showing?" and "What kind of background music does that scene need?" could be heard as the members of Le Cercle Francais, a club for students of French, made last minute preparations for their play "The Barber of Seville."

The play will be staged in the Foreign Languages Theatre at 7:30 p.m. tonight and at 2:20 p.m. Saturday. Tickets will be 50c and may be purchased at the door.

Congratulations to BA

TECH'S Business Administration school has come into its own. With acceptance in the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, Tech gained status of rank with the leading business colleges and schools in the nation.

Membership in AACSB, the equivalent of accreditation, is based on qualitative rather than simply quantitative evaluations — which means a great deal more than just size of a school.

Tech's BA school was found to have favorable qualifications in the number of credit hours taught by persons with doctorates or other graduate degrees, the size of instructional and administrative loads, whether the school was subject to undue political influence, library facilities and faculty research by the investigators.

And membership was granted first try contrary to at least two investigations as the rule.

Important side benefits afforded by membership in the AACSB are new academic opportunities to business administration students. These will take the form of business administration honor societies which can be installed only on campuses of member schools.

And, above all, is the value added to a degree in BA from Tech. The membership, by accreditation it gives, materially increases the value of the degree.

Congratulations are due Business Administration on their work to raise the standards of the school and for their success in becoming a member of the Association.

BOOK REVIEW

'The Steadfast Man' Treated With Intelligence by Gallico

by GAY PHIPPS
"The Steadfast Man" by Paul Gallico. Doubleday & Company, Inc., Garden City, New York, 1958. $3.95.

"Although I am imperfect in many things, I nevertheless wish that my bretheren and kinsmen should know what sort of person I am, so that they may understand my heart's desire," wrote St. Patrick shortly before he died.

PAUL GALICO'S biography of the man who Christianized Ireland lifts Patrick out of legend and shows him as a personality, a man with a heart's desire.

Patrick, who was born in 385 A. D. in England, was captured by the Irish and made a slave while he was still a young boy. When he received his religious call, he escaped to the Continent for study and training only to return to Ireland for religious purposes.

HE SPENT most of his life there converting the people and building churches, but he never really loved Ireland. He always felt an alien in their country — a man who had a duty to God and was doing it the best he could. Patrick's one and all-absorbing love was for God. He considered it a privilege to be called to serve Him and he made all his sacrifices joyfully in his loves of God.

"THE STEADFAST MAN" contains a wealth of background information and feeling for his subject which Gallico absorbed during the nine months he spent in Ireland doing research for his biography. The spirit and mood that he was able to inject into the book kept it from being a tedious recitation of conjecture.

SO LITTLE IS really known about Saint Patrick that a skilled hand is required to separate truth from fiction.

Only two of his writings, his confession and his letter to the soldiers of Coroticus, have survived to tell us what manner of man Patrick was. Gallico writes intelligently and with discrimination of a man about whom there is probably more erroneous legend than any other.

Techsans Talk Back

Newspaper Minus Head Editor,

THE OFFICIAL TECH LABEL?

I found your TOREADOR comments Tuesday in "A Newspaper Without a Headline" very interesting. I must say, however, that I disagree with you in that I feel the Texas Tech campus does express meaning and very definitely does contrast with the city of Lubbock.

ITS LANDSCAPE and architectural design are quite unique and possess a dignified quality. I doubt very seriously if you could find a similar arrangement anywhere in Lubbock or for that matter on the South Plains. I am very proud of Tech and its campus for what it really is.

Wouldn't you just love to approach our campus some day and find a towering gaudy red and black Double T with a broad "WELCOME TO TEXAS TECH" sign, and with shining statues of the Red Raider stuck around? Of course this is a gross exaggeration of what you said.

BUT I ASK YOU this: Should it be like a commercial business which must have its large store front sign to attract its customers and visitors?

Our campus is a unique work of art and expresses meaning without having to display large granite signs, archways or statues which block the public's view of the real Texas Tech. Look at what our students, and I'm one of them, have done to our landscaping events. Isn't it pitiful that our society has become so accustomed to finding a large sign over everything that it misses seeing the real thing?

Think it over,
Tom Shamburger

Tech Gentlemen Editor,

I would like to thank two young men who came to my rescue Monday.

I was in the middle of the Administration Building parking lot struggling with a flat tire when these men stopped and offered to help. While they were changing the tire, several other men stopped and offered help.

Again, "Many Thanks"

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS Bibler

The Idealist

What! Tech without her own Arc de Triomphe, through which her victorious bands of ROTC cadets can valiantly march? We hadn't realized, we just hadn't realized.

Having become so disturbed—needlessly without doubt—at those overcrowded classes filling room after room in every building on campus and at the lack of adequate office space for instructors we quite neglected the need for showing Lubbock where Tech is—

WHY IF IT were not for an arch or statue we would never be known to exist. Think of it—how terrible it would be not to be known—unbelievable!

Why without such a symbol of Tech's existence they might well think her merely a farm—might mistake the museum for a silo and the other buildings for barns—but with an arch or statue all this would be changed—Lubbock would suddenly find that this was not Brook farm after all but rather Texas Technological College. What a rise in prestige!

THEN PEOPLE, in speaking of Tech, would stop talking of her scholastic standards and speak, instead, of her—Beauty. Yes, we must agree—Tech needs meaning and beauty, and as for an Arts and Sciences building, a new library, etc., well they can slip into the background. After all it's Spirit that counts—College Spirit—yessiree.

And as for getting more students—think of the aesthetic appeal which Tech will now have—

What's Coming off Here: New Type, Summer Paper

The headline on this story, those on other stories in this issue and headlines in Tuesday's TOREADOR are, in case you haven't noticed, in a different type than what has been used in previous issues this year.

The remainder of TOREADORS this year will use this type and this year's Summer TOREADOR and next year's TOREADOR will contain the new type—called Bodoni, just for the record.

This type is a step in the direction of some day having a full-sized (eight column) newspaper, which will be no sooner than 1960.

nothing drab now that we have a Spanish arch overlooking the circle.

Yes, if it's anything Tech needs, it's trained English instructors teaching Cattle Breeding, a Texas Tech chapter of the Young Socialists of America, and her very own Arc de Triomphe.

AND THEN on graduation night the graduating seniors, immediately after the graduating ceremony, could march through it chanting the Matador Song, their way lighted by multi-colored lights; and when through the arch they would be graduated with a memory and not just a diploma and an education.

Yes, it's all very clear to me now. The senior can walk up to the Arc de Triomphe, place his wreath of flowers at the foot, and weep tears of sorrow at leaving Tech—and all of this because of the memory which he will have because of Texas Tech's own arch.

EVEN seeing old Froggy Johnson, his zoology teacher, won't ruin this mood. He will be so sad at leaving Tech, so eternally homesick for the arch that he will feel a lump in his throat every time he thinks of it (after all now that he has a job he hasn't time to go out every night, even if his wife would let him.) And so it goes . . .

Every year at Homecoming he lays a wreath of flowers at the foot of the arch and wishes he had only been able to stay there at Texas Technological College forever and ever.

Fencers Win Second Place In 'Unofficial' SWC Tourney

by RON CALHOUN

Texas Tech's fencers won laurels this past weekend at Houston while competing in the unofficial Southwest conference meet and a U. S. sectional meet.

Led by Frank Griffin, Tech's number one fencer and student coach, the Raiders were nosed by the Texas Aggies for the over-all meet championship by only 12 points. The actual team matches were tied at 35 all but the Aggies were declared the winners on points 167 to 155 for Tech.

Placing behind A&M and Tech was Texas University, Rice and TCU.

THE TOP individual fencer in all three weapons was won by Griffin.

Tech took the team title in saber and seconds in foil and epee while A&M was taking firsts in the foil and epee and second in the saber. The Raiders picked up enough matches in saber to effect A&M gains in foil and epee.

Texas took thirds in epee and saber, while Rice took third in foil. TCU, the other team entered, failed to place as high as third in any division.

AFTER COMPLETION of the SWC meet, the Raiders competed in the U. S. sectional meet at St. Johns in Houston. This meet qualifies fencers for the National Fencing Meet which will be held this summer.

Tech's foil team of Griffin, Delane McLane and Royce Bruce won first place. In team epee action, Raiders Griffin, Bruce and Gray McLeod placed second. The sabre team of Griffin, McLane and Bruce placed first.

In individual competition, Griffin won a first place in the Senior foil and second in the Senior sabre. McLane placed second in the junior sabre.

THE RAIDERS had the honor of hosting the NCAA Fencing

Tournament in March which drew the top teams from all over the country and made a success of the event.

The team is not an official function of the athletic department but the school does aid the members in a traveling expense capacity.

The meet at Houston in which many of the Southwest Conference members participated was not an official SWC tournament but a gathering of collegians interested enough in fencing to keep the spirit of competition alive.

Bell, Pogue Lead 1958 Red Raiders

Jerry Bell was chosen captain and Mack Pogue alternate captain in a special election by the Texas Tech football lettermen which was called by Coach Dewitt Weaver at noon Tuesday.

Bell, quarterback from Ballinger and Pogue, halfback from Sulphur Springs, were elected to the responsibility of guiding Raider football fortunes for next season. They will captain opposing teams this Saturday night in the last spring practice game.

BELL PLAYED for the Picadors in 1954 but the following year passed up the grid wars to preserve a year of eligibility. His debut to varsity play in 1956 was hindered by a knee injury but by the end of the season he was able to play most of the time.

The Ballinger flash came into his own last year and was one of the few shining lights in what turned out to be a dismal season. By the end of the season, he was doing most of the quarterbacking and became the team's leading passer and one of the top ground gainers.

Pogue's career at Tech was interrupted first by an automobile accident and then a hitch in the Army. In this year's spring practice, he has been outstanding in his running ability and was one of the stars of the first spring game.

Tech, Buffs Play Complete Game!

Texas Tech's varsity baseball team came from behind Tuesday to win 8-7 over the West Texas State Buffs who had left the field after the seventh inning of the game last Saturday leading 7-5.

The Techs rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth to tie the score at seven-all and in the bottom of the tenth Bill Tombs, the Raider pitcher, reached base on a single and scored the winning run when Dave Allen scored his third hit of the game.

With the matter of the continued ball game settled the teams proceeded to play a second game, this time going all the way in a single afternoon, but Tombs wasn't up to the "iron man" test, as Tech lost, 5-1.
