GOODWIN DIES

A POLICEMAN found his auto stopped at the roadside just outside town at 4:30 a.m. The lights were on, the engine running.

Goodwin, familiar to millions as announcer at various times for Bob Hope, Burns and Allen, Edgar Bergen, Frank Sinatra and other stars, was slumped in the front seat, dead.

ON CHEMISE

The Toreador Receives First-Class ACP Rating

Climbing two notches in one year, THE TOREADOR has received a first-class rating by the Associated Collegiate Press for the fall semester.

In the fall of 1956 THE TOREADOR was rated a scant third class. Last spring the rating was a second class.

COMPETING in the all-enrollments university division, THE TOREADOR amassed 3,260 points—240 points shy of the 3,500 needed for an All-American rating, the highest a paper can be rated. A minimum of 3200 was set for first-class ratings.

Only four papers in Tech's class received All-American honors. Eleven received first-class ratings; six, second class and five, third class.

THE TOREADOR scored highest in front page layout, garnering a superior rating and 220 points in this department. Copy editors in charge of front page layout are James Hamm, Tuesday; Mary Alice Atchison, Thursday; and Tommy Schmidt, Saturday.

A total of 720 points was scored on coverage. Excellent ratings were received on news sources, balance and copy treatment. A rating of good was given for creativeness. An article by editor C. J. Wren, "Just a Little Ways Now," in the Nov. 26 issue received special commendation.

720 POINTS were scored in news stories and features, with the news feature series on "Whatnik" receiving praise. Departmental pages scored 510 points, with editorial page columns receiving the most praise.

THE TOREADOR scored heavily in the layout department with a superior rating, three excellent ratings and a good rating. 680 points were scored.

530 POINTS were scored in the headlines, typography and printing department. THE TOREADOR received three excellent ratings and a very good rating. An excellent rating and 100 points were picked up for photography.

A few of this year's innovations on THE TOREADOR were morning delivery, Associated Press wire service, Klishograph engraving machine and reporting and editing labs.

Extra Staffs Edit Issues

Dorms and sororities nominate candidates for the Miss Venus title. There is no limit on the number of nominations. Life guards will act as judges, and a trophy will be awarded the winner.

A Clown Diving Contest and general swimming are also scheduled between 6 and 7 p.m. The DJ

Arts and Sciences Dean Advocates Revamp Teaching

Dr. R. C. Goodwin, Arts and Sciences Dean at Tech, believes that improved teaching methods are needed.

In recent years, "how to make a living has become as important, if not more so, than the concept of how to live," said Dr. Goodwin.

An increased burden has been placed upon teachers in trying to give their students a complete education in only four years.

"Professional training superimposed upon that of liberal arts will provide the leaders of the future," he said. New procedures must be developed if the college program is to remain at four years.

The importance of the Arts and Sciences is that students receive their basic education in English, math, natural science, history and government, stated the dean.

The Arts and Sciences is the largest of Tech's six schools. An advantage to the size of the school is that with the greater volume of freshmen and beginning courses there is usually a greater amount of graduate work.

Dean Goodwin proposed the idea of a five year program in which the student takes three years in Arts and Sciences and two in Engineering.

He added, "Unfortunately for this program, too much Arts and Sciences work is more of the applied nature."

AXO Honors Two Seniors

Alpha Chi Omega members selected Sandra Sherrill Walker outstanding senior of the year at their last meeting Wednesday.

Best active awards were given to Pat Cullum, Monahans and Yvonne Skinner, Lubbock, for April and May.

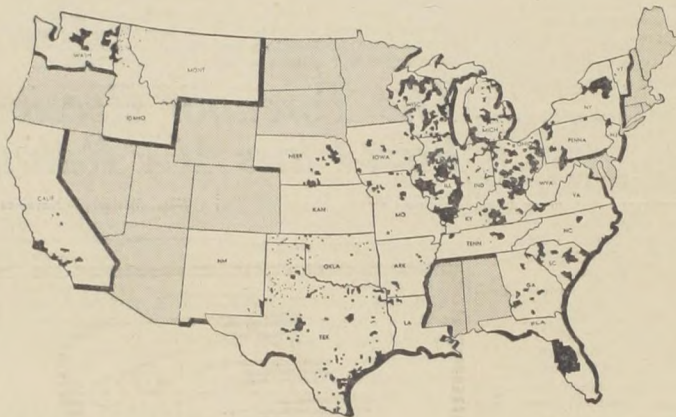

Miss Cullum received recognition for her work on La Ventana and her selection to Tech Salutes.

Miss Skinner, song leader, was elected for the great amount of time and work she devoted to sing-song.

They were presented with carnations.

Best pledge award for May went to Jill Jost, Marlin.

We're proud to be No. 2

The people who live in the United States have more of almost everything—including telephones.

Therefore it's possible, in such a fabulous country, to be the No. 2 communications system in size—and still have a great opportunity for service and growth.

General Telephone serves, for example, more telephone customers than the total number of telephones in such a country as France.

And this list is growing—at the rate of 1,000 new customers every working day—partly because so many of the areas we serve are suburban areas, which are the fastest-growing areas in this country.

All of which confronts us with many challenges.

If we cannot be the largest, we can surely aspire to be the finest—to do whatever we do better than it has been done before.

So we're happy to be No. 2. It keeps you on your toes.

Judo Pays

by JIM WALSH

In order to pay for their college education, many students take part-time jobs, but Bob Burdette, Business Administration major has a unique job — he teaches judo.

"It's not a dangerous or even a hard job," said Burdette. "I've been thrown about a thousand times and I've never been hurt."

"It's all in knowing how to fall and break the throw."

"Although judo is superior to boxing and wrestling for self-defense, it can be mastered by anybody — even the physically handicapped," he went on to say.

"But self-defense is a minor phase of judo."

"It is a science which includes coordination and body building."

Burdette learned judo under his fellow instructor Vernon Eastwood who hold the highest honor in judo — the Black Belt.

Burdette holds the Brown Belt which is one grade below Eastwood. Both have been teaching judo for several years.

"We teach judo for self-defense," Burdette said.

"We don't teach it to start fights but instead, to eliminate them."

"Anyone who knows judo has self-confidence in himself and doesn't feel he needs to fight to prove a point."

TCU Game Good Trip Choice

TECH-TCU FOOTBALL WARS begin again Oct. 11 in Fort Worth, and the Student Council has decided that Tech students should be on hand when the Raiders and Horned Frogs collide. It has designated this time for the out-of-town trip.

Adding flavor to the trip will be football games between SMU and Missouri Oct. 9 and Texas and Oklahoma the afternoon of Oct. 11. Icing on the cake is the fact that the Texas State Fair will be going on at the same time.

Students shouldn't, however, let the other two games or the fair interfere with their taking part in the planned activities. The Raider football team will need all the support it can get to succeed against the perennially good Horned Frogs.

Also, the trip is made each year to help improve relations with other schools in the area. A poor turnout at one of the games wouldn't help relations any. Tech students have in the past, and should in the future, handle themselves as responsible adults when making a school trip.

One last request—go on the trip. Trips of this sort are costly both in money and in time. It is reasonable to assume that if enough tickets aren't bought, the trip will not be made. Even if the bare minimum of tickets needed to finance the trip are sold, it is still doubtful whether the trip would be feasible from the standpoint of the time the trip consumes.

But all in all, there should certainly be incentive enough for this trip to get Techsans out en masse.

BOOK REVIEW

Fate Supreme Is Theme Of 'The 21' Screen

by RONNY HORN

THE 21" SCREEN

A Book—Edwin Fadiman, Jr.

"The 21" Screen tells about a man who ruined a good part of his life, and the lives of several other people, with a dream of an ambition that he could never fulfill.

Rexall Lundt wanted to be a writer. He worked on his college paper and wrote a short story that was published by the "Literary Quarterly."

REX'S BOOMMATE, James Penmore, also wanted to be a writer, and the two were in a constant state of competition. They were good friends, however, and Rex often dreamed of them sharing a bachelor apartment and writing.

Rex was a popular man on the campus. He became editor of the paper and was well known and well liked. When finals came his senior year, he discovered he had spent too much time becoming popular and was behind in his studies. To pass he cheated on his botany test. A "slim, not-too-pretty girl, with steel-gray eyes and brown hair," Cecilia Rollins, saw him in this disgraceful procedure, and to keep her from telling Rex asked Cecilia for a dinner date.

CECILIA WAS overwhelmed by the proposal and Rex's personality, and hurriedly accepted. Rex took her to a fashionable speak-easy, and they had a very enjoyable evening. Cecilia fell in love with Rex, but he left before graduation.

Rex returned home, New York, and tried to realize his dream. His attempts were unsuccessful; he was lucky if he turned out two paragraphs a day. He became disgusted and frustrated, but he still believed he could become a successful writer.

THE DEPRESSION appeared and forced his father, a German immigrant, to give up two of his three grocery stores. The loss of the grocery stores destroyed something within the old man, and he turned to books for an escape. He lived in a "colored paradise of books." He shut everything out of his life except his books.

Meanwhile, Cecilia had gone home to a mother she disliked and a drunken stepfather she hated. She stayed long enough to quarrel with her mother and witness a drinking contest between her stepfather and his bootlegger (in which the stepfather won three bottles of brandy). Then she left for New York to find work. She got a job selling hosiery in a department store. The next day she called Rex Lundt.

AFTER A SHORT affair they decided to get married. Cecilia felt like the conqueror, and Rex felt conquered and trapped. Cecilia kept her job, and Rex continued, unsuccessfully, trying to write. Rex took his frustration and failure, which had turned into self-pity, out on his wife. After a series of violent quarrels Rex decided to get a job. He went to work for a newspaper as an assistant to the radio programs reviewer. Rex liked the job, and everything went well until the management was forced to fire him because of a shortage of funds.

Rex got a job with a local radio station as an announcer and met Jim Peele, a man who was later to become his best friend. Jim was an engineer at the station and saw from the beginning that Rex had a natural talent for radio. His voice and personality were right for the job and he fell in love to the grove as if he had been born for the job.

FROM THEN ON, it was up the ladder for Rex Lundt. He got better jobs and Jim Peele became his agent. However, Rex still wanted to write; he was dissatisfied and disgusted with his job and himself. James Penmore, Rex's old roommate, published a best-selling novel, and Rex was immediately jealous and even more dissatisfied. To top things off, Cecilia had a baby, and Rex had definitely not wanted a child.

Then Fadiman skips about sixteen years, to the point where the lives of the main characters are crumbling. Rex has his own TV show and famous, but he is even more disgusted and filled with self-pity. Cecilia feels she is losing Rex and her daughter, who feels she is a misfit. Rex is having a hopeless love affair with a girl who works at the television station, and finally, Issac Lundt, Rex's father, dies. The tragedy of the old man's death is not his dying, but the fact that he dies before finishing reading "Don Quixote."

HIS FATHER'S DEATH shocked Rex out of his self-pity long enough for him to think things out. He went to James Penmore for advice and found that the famous writer is no better off than he is. Rex decides that a man should do what he is best at doing, and the book ends as he is driving home, determined to patch up his life, Cecilia's and their daughter's.

Author Fadiman portrays the conflicts of his characters very clearly. The theme of the novel hinges on one subject—the tragic waste in the lives of his characters because of ambition, love and failure. He gives a vivid picture of man's incapability to cope with fate.

For What It's Worth

Regarding our recent editorial offering about an official label for Tech, everyone seems to have taken a long jump off the deep end.

We haven't yet quite figured out why the uproar. In fact when we wrote it, we figured it would probably go over like a lead balloon as far as there being any interest shown. Instead it went boom!

Well and good. But it seems there needs to be some clarification of the issue. The point of the editorial was simply the idea that there is a need for something to distinguish and designate Tech. This promptly brought screams of commercial tags, a waste of time, etc., etc.

We answered this pretty well in an answer to a letter in Thursday's TOREADOR, but by hook or crook, printers or whatnot, somewhere between our office and the press the answer didn't make it. Therefore: We didn't say definitely what should be the marker. We feel we even left it open enough to leave room for something besides a marker.

But allowing that a marker be put up. Whatever it is, we definitely will leave it up to the architects. We would scream as loud (probably louder) as anybody else if it was "commercial" or gaudy in any way.

Rather than blocking the view of the campus, we would want it to add to the view. It would have to enhance the view.

As for the practicality of the thing, we feel there is a real and definite need for some distinctive mark. What is Texas Tech? Granted, the architecture is beautiful (despite what some architectural students might say). The layout of the campus is fine. But there needs to be something to identify Tech.

Going a step further, there needs to be something to identify the Techs. A few years previous western garb was the mark of the Tech student, though by no means unique. This is gradually changing. There is less and less western wear on campus.

But this goes into the realm of speculation and imponderables. It is in the realm of tradition and time. We will leave it for future Techsans. If it is to come, in all probability it will come of itself.

In the meantime there definitely could be a structure of some form and shape, within the realm of good taste and reason, that would help distinguish and would add to the beauty of Tech.

Turning to a topic of more pleasure to ourselves is the rating THE TOREADOR won in the Associated Collegiate Press critical rating service.

The First Class rating is gratifying. It is a reflection of improvement in the TOREADOR in several fields.

The makeup — the way the paper is put together on the page — won a superior rating for a point of special pride. Balance of news play on page one and in the rest of the paper won an "excellent." So did variety of news content — "What-nik?", campus interviews, etc.

Editorials were well-written and effective. A point of special pride to the editor was special mention on "Just a Little Ways Now" (Nov. 26) in which a Tech-san driving home for Thanksgiving met a bloody end. Excellent creative journalism, said the judge.

But First Class is something to be satisfied with, but not content with. The next and ultimate rating is All American. If present circumstances are any indication, Tech can brag of an All American TOREADOR next year.

College Budgets Studied

Tech's budget was gone over item by item at a hearing of a two-man subcommittee of the Texas Legislature's Budget Board in an all day meeting here Thursday.

The purpose of the subcommittee is to study the budgets of various state agencies while the legislature is in recess. These agencies, the Texas Educating Agency, Texas Highway Department, State Welfare Department, schools for exceptional children and all state-supported institutions of higher learning, spend 87 per cent of the entire state budget according to Rep. Bill Heatly, Paducah, acting chairman of the subcommittee.

until it has made its report to the Budget Board at the next session of the legislature.

HEATLY SAID "we are not trying to 'cut anybody's heads off' in these hearings. What we want these agencies to do is to be realistic in their planning and operation.

"However, we have been well pleased to find officials in the agencies are more than ready to cooperate with us in every way, and when suggestions are made as to possibility of savings, everyone has been ready to accept them," he added.

REP. JIM COTTON, Weatherford, was the other subcommittee member present.

THE 10-MAN budget board, five from the Senate and five from the House, are making the study to promote economy in state government and to combat the financial crisis we are now going through. Legislation may possibly result from their studies.

No announcement as to findings of the subcommittee will be made

Flying Matadors Enter National AAU Tourney

by LEE SULLENGER
Tech's Flying Matadors are in San Fernando, Calif., where they are competing in the National AAU gymnastics tournament this weekend, according to an announcement by Edsel Buchanan, Tech physical education instructor and coach of the Flying Matadors.

Making the trip are Joe Naylor of Lubbock, Jay Johnson of Amarillo, and Charles Rittenberry of Amarillo. All three men are junior students.

"IF THEY have a good day and if they don't run into a streak of bad luck," said Coach Buchanan, "they should place at least among the top six teams in the nation."

The Flying Matadors are a self-supporting, independent organization. They have no connection with the athletic department, although they often work closely with the department during football and basketball seasons, appearing as half-time entertainers throughout the year.

DURING THE two years that the Matadors have been organized, they have appeared at many of the towns in the South Plains area, appearing at school assemblies and similar gatherings.

The Matadors appeared on television while at Houston recently. The group represented Tech at the Southwest Conference talent show, held at Texas A&M last year and Baylor this year. The Matadors have also appeared at several rodeos in the South Plains area.

NAYLOR, JOHNSON and Rittenberry have all won championships in trampoline in AAU competition. Naylor is the 1958 Gulf AAU junior and senior champion, and Johnson is the junior champion in Southwestern AAU gymnastics and holds second place in senior standings. Rittenberry was the 1957 trampoline champion in Southwestern AAU competition.

Buchanan, the coach, holds quite a large number of titles himself. While attending the University of Michigan in 1948-51, he won the National AAU trampoline title twice and the National Collegiate trampoline title three years in a row.

BUCHANAN IS the director of intramural sports and is an instructor in Tech's physical education courses.

"We are trying to build a strong gymnastics team," said Buchanan, "in order to be ready for the day when Tech will field an official team to compete in the Southwest Conference."

The Matadors have competed in several meets among Southwest Conference members, taking the top three places in the unofficial SWC meet this year.

All-College Track Meet Set This Afternoon

The 1958 all-college track and field meet will be run off this afternoon, starting at 12:30 on the Tech Track.

Phi Delta Theta will defend its 1957 title, against nine other intramural squads. Competing besides the Phi Delt is SAE, PIKA, the Fijis, Kappa Sigma, ATO, Doak Hall, BSU, the Roman Rushers and one other independent team.

INTRAMURAL DIRECTOR Edsel Buchanan, expressed the belief that several all-college records could be written into the books today, depending upon the weather for the meet, and the condition of the participants.

Only one record was set in last year's meet, by Neil McMullen of the Fijis in the low hurdles. McMullen is one of five returning all-college winners. The others include:

recorded for the first time.

This is in line with the official NCAA scoring for relay races, according to Buheanan, and places more emphasis on a team performance, as it should be in intramural athletics.

SEPARATE HEATS will be necessary in four events, with two of the events naming the winners according to the time run in the heats. These are the high and low hurdles. Otherwise, there will be preliminaries in the 100, 220, and 440-yard dashes.

The schedule for today's meet: 12:30—field events start 1:30—100-yard dash preliminaries 2:00—440-yard dash preliminaries 2:15—100-yard dash finals 2:30—Low hurdles 2:45—220-yard dash

3:00—880-yard run 3:15—220-yard dash finals 3:30—440-yard dash finals 4:00—440-yard relay 4:15—Mile relay

The all-college records, with event, record, year set, record-holder and his team listed in that order:

Pole vault—11.6; 1956; Bill Whitsett, Roman Rushers. High jump—6-4½; 1956; Lyle Harger, Roman Rushers. Broad jump—29-9¼; 1956; Walter Hobbins, Squirrel Shooters. TECH'S RAIDER tennis team sent three players to the SWC meet this weekend, including David Kent and Billy Edd Gowan, shown with Coach George Philbrick. Not shown is sophomore Bob Macy, who is playing in the singles division.

Eddie Southern Shines In SWC Meet Prelims

DALLAS (AP)—Eddie Southern of Texas whipped up a 20.7 220-yard dash Friday to feature opening events of the Southwest Conference track and field meet as Texas showed it would dominate in both varsity and freshman divisions.

The versatile Texas star ran one of the nation's fastest furlongs of the year as he sped the distance easily with a mild 1.32 m.p.h. wind at his back.

IT WAS ONLY .3 of a second over the conference record of 20.4 set in 1952 by Charles Thomas of Texas and equalled by Bobby Whilden of Texas in 1956.

All of the record setting of the day came in the freshman division where Olen Davis of Baylor vaulted 13 feet 3 inches and Jim Allison of Texas hurled the shot 51 feet 10 inches. Both were in final events.

Davis bettered the record of 12 feet 10 inches set by Donald Eric of Texas A&M in 1956. Allison was surpassing the record of 50 feet 2½ inches hung up by Larry Cowart of Baylor in 1955.

TEXAS SCORED five points in the only final varsity event held and qualified for 14 places in the five preliminaries. The Longhorns had 13 men in the meet and 12 of them qualified for places in the finals.

In the only varsity finals held, the discus throw, Robert Mears, Arkansas, won first place with 163 feet 7½ inches.

Rice with nine and Baylor and SMU with seven places each were the closest to Texas in the qualifying.

Texas took a long lead in the freshman division, which had six finals. The little Longhorns scored 29 points. Baylor got 21, Texas A&M 13, Rice 11, Texas Christian 7, SMU 5, and Texas Tech 3.

TEXAS QUALIFIED for eight places in the finals and Southern Methodist got the same number. Rice and Texas Tech qualified in six places each.

None of the record potentials in the varsity division were in action today except Ray Dyck of Arkansas, who is expected to crack the 880-yard mark of 1:52.1.

DYCK LOAFED through his heat of the 880 with Davis Moberly of Southern Methodist winning it in 1:55.6.

Cain Is Second In SWC Meet

DALLAS (AP)—Don Massingale of Texas Christian won the Southwest Conference golf championship today with 292 for 72 holes.

Tiddly Winks, Yet!

OXFORD, England (AP)—The Oxonian tiddlers defeated the Cantab winkers at tiddlywinks or perhaps you spell it tiddlewinks Friday and immediately claimed the world championship.

The score was a nip-and-tuck 113-111 favoring the Oxonians from Oxford University over the Cantabs from Cambridge.

The teams represented the cream of the world's winkers—or tiddlers—and the match, which was of varsity rating, was witnessed by several hundred fans. Tea was served at half time, with the Oxonians leading 89-87.

Pat Laugharne, a shapely 19-year-old right-hander from England, was the only girl in the match. She also was the star, winking in the decisive button which gave Oxford the lead it held until the end.

"It was a hard-fought match but it was fairly fought," she said. "There's nothing in the world like tiddling. I do love it."

A raging controversy immediately broke out among male members of the two teams over rightful ownership of the world title.

Elliott Langford, Oxford captain rose from his knees after the tiddling—snapping small buttons into a cup by pressing them with other buttons—and declared, "We are claiming the world title."

Capbridge captain, Peter Downes, said over his game-end cup-of-tea:

"It was not a championship match—just an experimental game." Oxford as Englishmen often use the plural verb with the singular noun just being small minded about this."

Miss England Contest Uncovers Two Fakes

LONDON (AP)—The Miss England beauty contest has been called off for the second time. Two lovely English roses have been found to have a thorn or two.

June Cooper, a curvy brunette with sparkling green eyes, was chosen for the 1958 Miss England crown two weeks ago. Then the organizers found that June was only 16, not 17 as she had said, and so too young even to enter the contest. Amid cries of "Foul," she abdicated.

Another contest was held last week and Wendy Peters, also curvy and also a brunette, won it. Right away the cries of "Foul!" started again.

Some of the other competitors charged 22-year-old Wendy was wearing a "waspie" under her white bathing suit when she won the title. A waspie is a device to flatten the tummy and pinch in the waist.

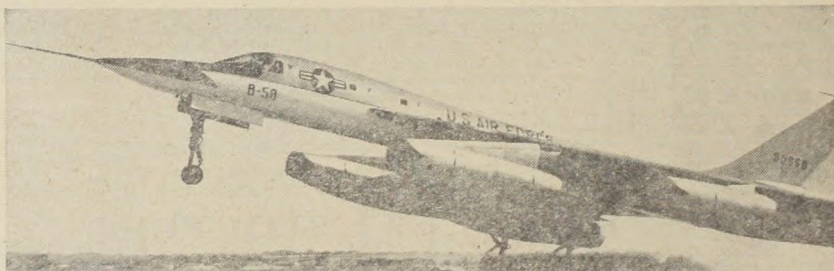

Wendy said she looked just as good without it, and offered to pose for the press in a bikini to prove it. Eric Morley, the harassed chief organizer of the contest, arranged the posing date. Wendy didn't show up.
