Discount houses lose in court

AUSTIN — Discount houses that want to stay open on both Saturday and Sunday — contrary to state law — have lost their last fight in state courts and must now fight it out in federal courts.

The Supreme Court denied a motion for rehearing yesterday in the case of four San Antonio discount houses that lost a 6-3 decision in the high court Nov. 5.

The stores filed notice of appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, and the state court granted their motion to "stay issuance of mandate," which means the stores may stay open pending that appeal.

A Fort Worth discount house, Sundaco, already has its case in federal court. Unable to reach a federal judge in Fort Worth, Sundaco said, it got Federal Dist. Judge Sarah Hughes of Dallas to issue a temporary restraining order Nov. 14, preventing Fort Worth officials from enforcing the state law.

Judge Hughes transferred the case to the Fort Worth federal court, where a Nov. 24 hearing on a temporary injunction was moved back to Dec. 10.

But the state law is valid, and it is up to local law enforcement officials to enforce it, said Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin.

Social security increased

WASHINGTON — A 15 per cent increase in Social Security benefits, effective Jan. 1, was approved yesterday by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said he expects the House to pass the bill probably next week. This would allow time for Senate action before Congress adjourns for Christmas.

To produce benefit-increasing legislation in time for enactment this year, the committee postponed action on all other proposed changes in both Social Security and welfare legislation, on which it held extensive hearings.

These were put down as the committee's first order of business when Congress returns in January.

The 15 per cent increase would raise the present average payment from about $100 a month, to about $115. The minimum payment, now is $55 a month, would go to $63.25.

Because of the time required to adjust the Social Security Administration's checkwriting machinery, beneficiaries would not receive the first bigger checks until April. At the same time, they would receive a retroactive payment for the increase from the beginning of the year.

The increase, costing $4.2 billion a year, can be financed from the surplus in the Social Security basic fund without raising the payroll tax or the wage base on which it is levied, committee sources said.

Income exemption increased

WASHINGTON—The Senate voted yesterday to increase the personal income tax exemption from $600 to $800, handing President Nixon his first major defeat on the tax reform bill.

In a 58-37 vote, the Senate ignored the threat of a veto and adopted an amendment by Democrat Albert Gore of Tennessee.

The Gore proposal would provide an average tax cut of more than 18 per cent by 1971 for families earning $5,000 to $10,000 and a far greater windfall for millions earning less.

It replaces in the big tax bill an administration-backed provision that would have cut tax rates without changing the exemption and delayed the impact until 1972. This approach has also been approved by the House.

The Gore proposal, if finally enacted, would raise the personal exemption to $700 next year and to $800 in 1971. Regardless of the outcome, income tax returns due next April for 1969 income will not be affected.

Tech athletic recruiters begin greeting schoolboys Saturday

By LOU ANN ADAMS
Staff Writer

Newly selected coed athletic recruiters will get their first chance to recruit for Tech Saturday.

This weekend is the first official one to recruit high school football players in the SWC. The visiting athletes will be greeted by the Saddle Tramps when they arrive tomorrow afternoon.

ON SATURDAY TWO Saddle Tramps and one girl recruiter will take the prospective Red Raiders on a tour of the campus.

A group of 64 recruiters were chosen from 335 applicants by a Saddle Tramp committee headed by junior Randy Brillhart. Brillhart said the girls were chosen from "the information on their application, their picture and the enthusiasm they displayed for Tech in a paragraph they wrote on why they wanted to be an athletic recruiter for Tech."

"We are so pleased with the girls that were selected. They are outstanding and will certainly be an asset in recruiting athletes to Tech," Brillhart said.

The committee deliberated on the applications for about 15 to 16 hours. Brillhart said that "about one-half of the recruiters are freshmen and the remainder are upperclassmen."

RECRUITING FOR FOOTBALL will also take place on Dec. 13, 14; Jan. 17, 18, 24, 25 and 31 and Feb. 1, 8 and 9. Feb. 10 is the first day the high school boys will be allowed to sign letters of intent.

About 16 or 17 prospective Red Raiders are expected this weekend. Brillhart said that as many as 40 or 50 athletes would come on some of the later weekends.

COACH BERL HUFFMAN will assign one football boy to each visiting athlete to act as an athletic sponsor. The sponsors will be responsible for showing the high school boys more of Tech and Lubbock Saturday afternoon and night.

Transportation to and from Tech and all weekend expenses for the visiting athletes are paid by the athletic department.

The athletic recruiters selected are:

DANI EUBANKS, Garland; Ann Strawhorn, Stephenville; Sharon Michie, Vernon; Linda Cook, McAllen; Anne Whittington, Fort Worth; Debbie Hefner, Odessa; Gay Shamblin, Midland; Deborah Campbell, Lorenzo; Jayne Williston, Austin; Kathy Kwilosz, Dallas; Christy Chapman, Washington D.C.; Carol Ann Buchanan, Plainview.

Sheila Watkins, Waxahachie; Rhonda Lewis, Littlefield; Barbara Zimmerman, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Judy Brian, Del Rio; Linda Young, Dallas; Marsha McCurry, Lubbock; Bonnie Craddock, Midland; Cheryl Decker, Childress; Mary Jane Rose, Pampa; Vickie Salmon, Farmers Branch; Pat Bland, Fort Worth; Jane Owen, Tahoka; Gina Bayl, Lawton, Okla.; Becky Trickey, Abilene; Nick Papaila, Midland; Carol Grannis, Killeen; Beverly Willingham, Dallas.

Debbie Houghton, Mineral Wells; Devora

Lewis, Littlefield; Lynn Alderson, Lubbock; Diane Effenberger, San Marcos; Susan Wiggs, El Paso; Linda Gilliam, Hondo; Lorrie Bartlett, Lubbock; Janice Nelson, Corpus Christi; Jane Morgan, Kilgore; Mitzi Sutton, Dallas; Julia Jones, Ballinger; Janet Eichhorn, Amarillo; Val Wilcox, Tyler; Lorraine Lievens, La Feria; Mandy Moholin, Waco; Billie Smith, Andrews.

JEANINE HARTNETT, Dallas; Margo Thornton, San Antonio; Sheila Poulson,

Lorenzo; LeAnn Ayers, Odessa; Patsy Kempson, Dumas; Janis Jones, Raton, N.M.; Jane Hastings, Waxahachie; Lanthia Ligon, Fort Stockton; Peggy Guttery, Sequin; Susan Adler, La Feria; Rita Isham, Amarillo; Debbie Wright, Tahoka; Peggy Williams, Muleshoe; Jan Griffin, Midland; Francine Tippen, Paducah; Ginger Cone, San Antonio; Nancy Sonntag, Dallas; Theresa Lowrance, Fort Worth; Barbara Specht, Friedrichsburg.

The athletic coordinators are Rene Brooks and Sherry Kirkland.

Tech prof conducts Antarctic exploration

McMURDO STATION ANTARCTICA — Scientists working in "this strange land learn never to put all their eggs in one basket." If the weather fouls one operation, another study begins.

This was the report Tuesday from F. Alton Wade, project leader for a National Science Foundation Antarctic Research Project. Wade, who is Horn Professor of Geosciences at Tech, is on his seventh trip of exploration to the south polar continent.

Weather prevented the party from reaching the Antarctic until Nov. 1, and then it was "rather pleasant when we arrived—plus 8 degrees F. and a gentle wind of 10 to 15 knots," said Wade.

Antarctica mountain system," Wade said. "Fortunately there are nearby areas where we can conduct our studies — places within helicopter range of McMurdo Station."

On Nov. 5, the three scientists from Tech—Wade, Dr. John Wilbanks and Lawrence D. Osborn, a graduate student—and a geologist from Ohio State set up a tent camp on Marble Point, about 75 miles from the main station.

"We remained there for nine days and were able to work on four of them," he said. "High winds on the other five days forced us to remain in camp."

THE PARTY WAS picked up and returned to McMurdo by helicopter Nov. 14, and on Nov. 18, Wilbanks and Osborn left for another area—about 60 miles from McMurdo—to continue the study of the basement complex for another 10 days.

Wade referred to the journey of Tech President Grover E. Murray to the Antarctic. Dr. Murray left Nov. 19 for an inspection tour of National Science Foundation sponsored research activities in the Antarctic.

"We hope to convert him to an enthusiastic backer of research in Antarctica," said Wade.

"I was assigned to the Senior Scientist Quarters and was started to find that the four young lady geochemists from Ohio State University were also quartered there. They had arrived one hour ahead of us and were busy getting settled in their rooms."

"TIMES HAVE certainly changed since I first visited this continent 35 years ago. But that is a long story in itself."

Wade said that he expected to return to the United States in late December, with Wilbanks and Osborn following in mid-January.

THE GOOD WEATHER didn't last, however, and for three weeks flying operations had to be curtailed.

"A radio communications blackout also had kept the planes on the ground. The station was overrun with scientists who were ready to be transported to their areas where they were to conduct their investigations, and they were forced to wait—really frustrating experiences for those who were here for the first time.

"The old timers have learned to relax and to live with the whims of Mother Nature in this part of the world.

"Our primary program, the determination of the thickness of the ice cover along a network of flight lines in Marie Byrd and Ellsworth lands suffered more than the others," Wade said.

ADDED TO THE BAD weather were equipment troubles.

Ready, however, was a secondary program which could go into operation during the wait.

"We are presently engaged in studying the basement complex of rocks that is the foundation unit of the great trans-

Murdough residents voice new complaints

Complaints concerning discontinued elevator service and bad shower conditions are being voiced by Murdough Hall residents.

"The head custodian said the elevators have been turned off because the residents have thrown coke bottles and cases down the elevator shaft and caused destruction. The residents are causing extensive damages, and the elevators will be turned off until they are completely repaired," said Vernon Paul, counselor of Murdough Hall.

RAY DOWNING, director of building maintenance and utilities, said, "The elevator service man came to my office and reported that Paul wanted the elevators turned off. We have no alternative to this decision. Paul said there had been some type of vandalism. I do not know what type or to what extent."

Bob Gentry, Murdough Hall resident, said he had overheard the custodians saying they had to do three times as much work carrying their cleaning equipment up and down stairs now that the elevators are off.

Gentry also said there is a number on the elevators to call in case of failure to work. He said some students had called the number and had not gotten an explanation as to why the elevators are off.

CONCERNING THE SHOWER conditions, Horace Tyree, supervisor of custodial services, said, "The shower curtains and rods are in, but they have to be put together. The order house had to get them from the factory."

Gentry said there has been a great improvement in the cleanliness of the toilets, but water is still standing in the showers and restroom areas."

Editorial

Housing--our best foot forward?

Three cheers for clean dorms, good dorm food and a good campus housing office . . . such necessities have yet to arrive at Tech.

Each year there are innumerable gripes about dirty dorms and a housing administration which fails to be progressive in any major area. Students appear satisfied most with the quality of dorm food, and that food has been the standing joke for years. When are major improvements going to be made?

Of all things on campus, what more significant first-impression could be made to out-of-town students than an outstanding housing system. By the same token, what worse impression can be created than when a student has to tell his hometown friends about the condition of Tech's housing program?

The resolution below is a prime example of the quality of work being done by Tech's housing office. Guy Moore, Residence Halls Director, seems to be the man responsible for the condition of Tech's housing system.

Few, if any, advancements are coming out of his office. Sure, television sets are allowed in the dorm rooms this year, but Moore was reportedly against the move. Too many of his decisions seem to be made without any real knowledge about the student needs or desires.

Students pay for the dorms. If they actually don't pay for the dorms, then why does rent go up because earlier administrative decisions over estimates the number of rooms needed? Since dorms appear to be financed by the students, why are they given so little consideration and even less voice in the housing program?

There seems to be no excuse for the lack of regard for the student, as displayed by the Housing Office and its director.

Defending King

By Mike McMahan

Another football season has been over almost a week now and already rumors have been spreading about a new head coach for the Red Raiders being named for next year.

It is not unusual for such talk when a team has had a few consecutive unsuccessful seasons but the Raiders really have not done that bad since head coach J T King joined the Tech staff in 1961.

In his first year at Tech King posted a 4-6 season mark after the Raiders had just won one ball game the year before in their first season in the Southwest conference.

The next year was a disappointment for the Raiders but King's recruiting the two years before was about to pay off. In 1963 the Raiders posted a 5-5 season mark and 1964 he boosted their record to a 6-3-1 and a berth to the Sun Bowl.

The next year in 1965 King had his greatest year as a Red Raider. The team went 8-2 that year losing only to Texas and Arkansas. For his efforts King was named coach of the year by Texas sports writers. The squad also was invited to play in the Gator Bowl that year.

In 1966 the team had its first losing season since 1962 with a 4-6 record but the team did beat Arkansas the final game of the season. In 1967 King started another non-losing streak as he has not had a losing season since 1966.

King has only had three losing seasons in his nine years of coaching which is a very good record in a conference that boasts two of the greatest college powerhouses in football today.

Arkansas and Texas brings up another point why the Raiders have not won the Southwest Conference championship so far in its ten year history. These two teams have consistently been ranked in the top ten the past decade.

Recruiting wise, it is only natural for the top players to decide to go to these two great teams instead of one who is the youngest in the conference. Texas and Arkansas are now ranked one and two in the nation. They meet Saturday for the national championship.

There are many great teams in this country that have been in their respective conferences for many years but Texas and Arkansas are the best in the country. This means that the Southwest Conference is one of the toughest if not the toughest in the country. It is quite an accomplishment for a team in its first decade to have a winning record.

A new coach for Tech would not be any kind of solution at all. Look what happened to Baylor last year when the school decided to fire head coach John Bridgers. Baylor had had some losing streaks before but this year marked the first time in over 40 years that Baylor has not been able to win a single game in a season.

Also, Tech has a very young ball club with only 16 seniors graduating. The team also has some very fine sophomores that have already proved themselves this season.

The team has had some bad breaks this season but still they managed not to have a losing season. Against Arkansas last week they played their heart out, but unfortunately they just were outclassed by the number two ranked team.

In a partial survey of Southwest Conference sports writers the question of King staying on with the Tech organization was discussed. It was decided that King was doing well with the Red Raider organization.

One Fort Worth sports writer put it this way. "I've always looked forward to talking with King. He is a very brilliant coach. He is by far one of the nicest coaches I've ever talked to. I think it is ridiculous that there is any talk about him being fired. It is a known fact that nice guys don't always finish last, but that does not mean that they have to finish first to be a good coach."

Has questions

Will some member of the Moratorium Committee please answer these questions?

Re: a phrase in an earlier edition of The University Daily: "The right of Tech students to participate in any Lubbock Vietnam Moratoriums which are not affiliated with a national moratorium committee."

If you do the same things the national moratorium does, at the same time they do them, and your objectives are the same, then how are you different from the national moratorium committee?

Is there a definite, formal, procedure for affiliating with it and is there a definite formal procedure for disaffiliating from it?

Please cite documentation.

Resolution

TITLE — The Murdough Hall Condemnation Resolution

WHEREAS — The elevators seldom run more than 50 per cent of the time; causing some residents 6 or 7 trips a day, up 6 or 7 flights of stairs.

WHEREAS — Elevator repair has been withheld frequently so that our residents who might duly suffer from the irresponsible actions of a few.

WHEREAS — The air-conditioner works unpredictably; seldom ever reaching the upper floors except as an outside breeze.

WHEREAS — When it rained in September, we were without power and lights for 3 days, without any form of compensation.

WHEREAS — The vending machines are locked at mid-night on weekdays because of the actions of a few; thus depriving the many who study late at night of any sort of refreshment.

THEREFORE BE IT:

RESOLVED — That the Murdough Hall Association permanently hire 8 campus cops to patrol the halls and vending areas and ride the elevators to deter any further delinquency.

RESOLVED — That in view of resolved No. 1, that Murdough be condemned allowing residents to move to lower priced dorm which financially compensate for the lack of elevators and air-conditioners, or else move off campus as is our inherent right anyway.

RESOLVED — In view of resolved No. 1 & 2, that the Housing and Maintenance departments correct these faults immediately and KEEP THEM CORRECTED!

Museum completion expected in April

Construction of the first phase of the new West Texas Museum is apparently on a new schedule with completion of the new facilities slated for sometime in April, said Dr. Eugene Kingman, new director of the West Texas Museum.

The first phase of the complex, which is located at 4th Street and Indiana Avenue, will include the central unit, three-fourths of the main exhibit, three-fourths of the industrial exhibit and the planetarium. Cost of this phase is approximately $2.5 million.

The second phase, which will be started when the funds can be raised, will include the rest of the exhibit areas, an auditorium with a fully equipped stage and a sculpture courtyard. The completed complex is expected to cost between $6.5 and $7 million.

Kingman said there are four problems facing the staff of the museum: the actual moving of the physical properties of the museum, the type of opening to have this coming spring, placement of new permanent installations and ICASALS exhibits and obtaining of funds for operation of the museum and sponsorship of individual exhibits.

"A great deal of good thought has been done over many years in preparing for the move into these new facilities," Kingman said. "They will represent activities in this museum but will be more full-blown." He also said that the TRIO IN CONCERT — The Marlboro Trio, comprised of Mitchell Andrews, pianist, Gerald Tarack, violinist and Charles McCracken, celloist, will play in the Coronado Room of the Tech Union Monday at 8:15 p.m. The ensemble has performed at nearly every major chamber music series in North America, as well as on coast - to - coast TV and radio, since they were formed in 1961 at Marlboro, Vermont. The Trio has also become internationally acclaimed in three European tours. The concert, sponsored by the Tech Artist's Course, is free and open to the public.

Tech delegation to attend range management meet

President Joseph L. Schuster of the Texas Section, American Society of Range Management, said Wednesday that approximately 200 are expected to attend the section's 19th annual meeting Dec. 4-6 at Green Oaks Inn, Fort Fort Worth.

Two honor students in the Department of Range and Wildlife Management at Texas Tech, six faculty members from the department and one consulting professor will participate.

Theme of the meeting is the "Conversion of Grass into Dollars."

Symphony, dancers give child's holiday concert

Music, ballet and story-telling designed to appeal to South Plains youngsters will be offered at Texas Tech's ninth annual Children's Christmas Concert at 2 p.m. Sunday in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

Tech's Symphony Orchestra under direction of Paul Ellsworth will join Tech's Dance Theater, directed by Suzanne Aker, in presenting a varied program. Selected works are by Russian composer Dimitri Kabalevsky and Texas musician Don Gillis.

The concert will be open to the public without charge.

Gillis' work, "The Man Who Invented Music," in which a grandfather tells his granddaughter how music came about, will be narrated by Robert Bernard of Tech's music faculty.

Tech dancers will perform 10 excerpts from "The Comedians," a ballet suite choreographed by Mrs. Aker to Kabalevsky's music for orchestra.

Campus visitors increase

The number of visitors on campus this year (1969) far exceeds the number last year.

In September last year, 14,431 visitors passed through the entry stations. The September figure this year was 29,741. The October comparison shows that in 1968, 20,175 people motored around the campus while in 1969, 39,646 people came to see the sights.

Fewer visitors came in November both years, although the 1969 figure, 28,273, is quite a few more than the 15,880 who visited the campus the same month last year. This comparison, on the large scale, shows that 97,660 vehicles in 1969 almost doubles the 50,486 who came to see Tech in 1968.

month by month comparison of the number of tickets and visitors passes.

In 1968, 11,319 traffic citations were given on the Tech campus during the first three months of school. The 1969 figure, 9,226, shows the downward trend.

An actual comparison of the total number of tickets shows the trend. In September 1968, 972 tickets were issued while the 1969 figure for September was 3,499.

Total for October 1968 was 7,326 and in October 1969 only 2,932 tickets were issued.

A comparison for November shows that in 1968, 3,021 was the number while in 1969, 2,805 people got the "little pink piece of paper."

In 1968, no city parking tickets were issued on campus. This year, 4,220 of the tickets on campus were for city parking violations.

THE ISSUANCE OF traffic tickets is also on a downward trend. This is especially true after the initial month of school, said Sgt. Richard Hamilton of Traffic Security, who gave a

Buchanan gets honor

Edsel Buchanan, associate professor and director of intramurals, will receive the Texas Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation's (TAHPER) Honor Award at the organization's 46th annual convention at 8 p.m. today in Corpus Christi.

Buchanan was selected by TAHPER's Honors Awards Committee on the basis that he has served the profession for at least 10 years; he has been a member of TAHPER for five successive years prior to nomination for the award; and he has made contributions to health education, physical education, and/or recreation through teaching, administrative achievement, leadership in professional associations, scholarly publications and community service.

IN INFORMING BUCHANAN of his selection, Ruth Cady, TAHPER president, said, "Few members have contributed as much to the profession as have you."

TAHPER is a professional association that is affiliated with the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. Both associations are member groups of the National Education Association.

Alpha Delta Pi wins food drive

The Alpha Delta Pi sorority recently placed first in the annual Phi Kappa Psi Thanksgiving-Christmas food round-up, with a total of 2,004 pounds of food.

Nine sororities participated in the drive, held Nov. 22, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. All proceeds from the round-up were donated to the Salvation Army, to be distributed among needy families.

Alpha Delta Pi was followed by Zeta Tau Alpha with 1,060 pounds, Alpha Chi Omega 1,054, Alpha Phi 924, Sigma Kappa 446, Kappa Alpha Theta 401, Chi Omega with 230, Pi Beta Phi 65, and Delta Gamma with 50.

Secretaries plan activities

Speakers, seminars and meetings have been the major activities of the Tech chapter of the National Collegiate Association for Secretaries.

This semester the chapter has helped with the Tech Tax Institute and has met jointly with the Tech Finance Association.

Plans for similar activities are being made for the spring semester.

OFFICERS OF NCAS are: Rita Keel, president; Janelda Hayes, vice-president; Laura Austin, secretary; Becky Lowery, treasurer; Camilla Nash, historian and Cathy Stooksberry, publicity chairman. Dr. Irol W. Balsev, professor of marketing and Dr. Ronald D. Johnson, associate professor of business education, are sponsors. Dr. Johnson is the national treasurer, with Jeannette Ehler serving as deputy national treasurer.

White House conference hears demands for food

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House conference on Food, Nutrition and Health heard Wednesday persistent demands for a $5,500 guaranteed income and for President Nixon to get food to "America's substantial number of hungry people."

Many of the 3,000 conference participants, divided into 20 working panels, are clamoring for quick liberalization of the food stamp and commodity programs as an interim measure to meet the needs of an estimated 20 million hungry people in the United States.

As the conference picked up steam toward its closing session Thursday afternoon, several ethnic and other groups took independent action to try and dramatize their demands.

The Mexican-American and religious caucuses joined forces in calling for participants to fast for the remainder of the conference and to turn in their $18.30 in daily food tickets provided by the conference to be given to some charity.

The Rev. Ralph Ruiz of San Antonio, Tex., said, "in my mind it is almost immoral for us" to be spending $18.30 for food when the participants are here representing the poor.

Dr. Jean Mayer, the conference director, told a news conference the fast was "a very regrettably thing. No way can the money be saved by turning in the tickets."

At a news conference called by the National Welfare Rights Organization, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference criticized the President's speech to the conference.

Band directors to come for music reading clinic

Band directors from a three-state area are expected to participate in a reading clinic of newly published stage band materials here Saturday.

The clinic will start at 9 a.m. in Room 1 of the Music Building, according to Paul Mazzacano, coordinator of the one-day session sponsored by the Tech Jazz Ensemble in cooperation with the music department.

The Tech Ensemble, directed by Mazzacano, will perform music from 20 of the nation's leading publishing companies. Visiting directors will be provided with complimentary scores of the music being performed so that they can evaluate each composition.
