Tech Will Celebrate Birthday Of Will Rogers With Parade, Exhibits, Ballad Singer And Movie

A parade, movie, ballad singer and exhibits will be featured in observation of Will Rogers' birthday, Sunday, according to Miss Ina Bacon, museum secretary.

At 3 p.m. the Sheriff's Posse, consisting of 60 horsemen and a chuckwagon will begin the parade from the fair grounds. The parade will end at the Will Rogers statue and a brief ceremony will be highlighted by the placing of a wreath at the foot of the statue. Kenneth Bozeman, Lubbock autioneer, will make a brief speech.

Brownie McNeil, famous Texas ballad singer, will give a program in the Museum auditorium at 4 p.m. He has been singing and collecting folk songs for 20 years which include songs from many

Rogers Is First 'Culture' Speaker

Just 25 years ago Sunday, the Tech band was preparing to greet a world-famous actor and humorist who would bring one of the first "cultural" programs to West Texas. The man was Will Rogers.

Campus tradition has it that the Tech band was especially interested in welcoming this personality to the campus because he had been instrumental in supplying them with new uniforms. The story is told that on a previous occasion, Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, and Will had watched in the Fort Worth train station as a bedraggled, poorly uniformed Tech band came in for the Matador-Horned Frog game. Shocked by their appearance, Will offered to give them a $1,500 check if Carter would match it.

Performs Despite Weather
Although the roads were almost impassible, Rogers performed before a sell-out crowd. Accompanying him were the famous DeReszke singers.

Will said that he was rushing to Lubbock to beat Queen Marie of Rumania and he did by a few days.

The famous actor began his career as a rope-throwing cowboy on a vaudeville stage but rose to wealth and fame as a foreign lands. He is now professor of English at Trinity university in San Antonio and teaches special courses on British and American ballads and Literature of the Southwest.

The movie, "David Harum," starring Will Rogers, will be shown in the Museum auditorium at 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Exhibits featuring possessions of Rogers will be on display in the museum. A bronze bust of Rogers which has recently been presented to the college by Amon Carter of Fort Worth will be among the items.

Metropolitan 'Roughneck' Trademarked By Hearty Laugh, Amazon Proportions

"The prima donna is a roughneck," a Saturday Evening Post writer says of Helen Traubel, who is to appear on the Tech Artists Course program at 8 p.m. Monday in the Lubbock High School auditorium.

In a Post article written about three years ago, Stanley Frank stated the great Wagnerian soprano just won't act like a great diva.

"Miss Traubel is a large woman given to large enthusiasms," said Frank. "Her laugh is an astonishing performance. It begins with a rolling rumble, then explodes in a shattering, triumphant peal. Nothing quite like it has been heard since the Amazons fell upon a hapless legion of male barbarians who outnumbered them only three to one."

Ardent Rooter

Although she is an ardent baseball fan, she is allowed to attend only a few games a season because she roots so hard she strains her voice, which nets her about a quarter of a million dollars a year. As proof of her loyalty to her home-town team, the St. Louis Cardinals, she was made honorary mascot recently.

Miss Traubel is 5-feet 11-inches tall and weighs 184 pounds. With all her height and weight the soprano is generally described as a handsome woman. She has "a magnificent mass of blonde-red hair, green-flecked hazel eyes, finely-chiseled features and a complexion that doesn't come in jars."

"Boy, do I like to eat!" is Miss Traubel's only comment.

Varied Concert

Miss Traubel's program Monday night will range from one of the Wagnerian arias for which she is so famous to Negro spirituals and folk songs.

Students will be admitted by presenting their activity books. General admission tickets will be $1.80 and will go on sale in the lobby at 8 p.m.

Hi-Y Group Will Gather Here Tomorrow For Pre-Legislative Training Conference

Two hundred Hi-Y youths will meet on Tech campus tomorrow in an annual pre-legislative training conference, according to Sterling H. Fuller, college co-ordinator for the program.

Tech has been host to the conference for the past three years. The purpose of the conference is to train high school young people in citizenship and government procedure.

Discussions Stated

Group discussions on eight legislative areas will be as follows: Doug Moore, department of economics, will lead the discussion on Commerce; James F. Adams, department of government, Elections; N. K. Peterson, department of agronomy, Conservation; S. M. Kennedy jr., government department, Constitutional Amendments; J. W. Jackson, department of government, Taxation; department of education, Education; Leo Healer, area supervisor of Texas Department of Public welfare, will speak on Public Welfare; Clay Dednar, district safety officer, Highway and Traffic Safety.

Speakers Announced

Points of emphasis in the creation and passing of legislation will be discussed by Fuller, Sen. Kilmer Corbin, and Rep. Wagoner Carr, state legislators.

Other speakers from Tech will be Kennedy, "Democracy and Law Making"; Mrs. Marjorie Neely, dean of women, "Welcome to Texas Tech"; James G. Allen, dean of student life, "A Christian in a Democracy."

Among the other activities scheduled are a banquet, tour of the campus, and election of officers.

The officers, who are elected will be sent to Austin later in the year for a conference in which they will receive actual experience in law making and administrative processes.

Positions Open For Women Grads

Women, there is a field open for you in industrial psychology. "I feel that there are opportunities for women in this area," said Dr. Kuntz, assistant professor of psychology.

Many college placement services receive calls for women students with a background in industrial psychology to do clerical work. If the firm needs a part time personnel worker, the stenographer who has had training in personnel testing and other industrial psychology courses has a definite advantage. Workers are more valuable to the company when they can act as part-time counselors or personnel directors, commented Dr. Kuntz.

"This is not entirely a man's field," stated Dr. Kuntz. Larger industries hire women counselors to work with women employees.

Industrial psychology is a new field offered at Tech. Dr. Kuntz began teaching here this semester. Personnel testing and advanced industrial psychology, which will cover projects dealing with problems met in personnel work, will be offered next semester. Evening courses will permit students who are employed to study industrial relations.

Ten Songs Written

Tech's First President Was Author Of 'O College Mother Beautiful' In 1926

In Tech's 26 years of existence there have been ten songs written for and about her. The first of these was the official school song, "O College Mother Beautiful" written in 1926 by Tech's first president, Dr. Paul W. Horn, and put to the tune of "America the Beautiful."

"The Matador Song" appeared in 1928, the words written by a Tech student, R. C. Marshall, who is now county attorney at Berger. The music was written by Harry Lemaire, band director at that time, according to Dr. D. O. Wiley, present director.

"Fight Raiders Fight" was born as a result of a school song writing contest held in 1937. Carroll McMath, a Tech student at the time, won the contest with his song. The music for the fight song was written by Adolf Lotter.

Frank Loesser, author of the hit tune "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition" wrote "Texas Tech" for the college around 1939.

Another prominent musician who contributed to Tech's song list is Fred Waring. Waring wrote "Red Raiders" based on the "Ford eador Song" in 1942, for Kappa Kappa Psi, honorary band fraternity, who requested a song by him. "Texas Tech On Parade" was written by Ed. Chenette, a friend of Dr. Wiley's.

Thornton Allen, a professional song writer and music publisher, has contributed three songs to Tech's file. "Texas Tech Has Got To Win," "Let's Go Texas Tech" and "Fight On For Texas Tech." All were published in 1945.

Rheta McMaster, present cheerleader, wrote the latest song, "Forever Texas Tech," this past year.

Ben Franklin And RE Week . . .

"The rapid progress TRUE science now makes, occasions my regretting that I was born so soon. It is impossible to imagine to what heights may be carried the power of man over matter. We may perhaps learn to deprive large masses of gravity . . . for the sake of easy transport. Agriculture may diminish its labor and double its produce; all diseases may by sure means be prevented or cured, not excepting old age, and our lives lengthened at pleasure . . . O that moral science were in as fair a way of improvement, that men would cease to be wolves to one another, and that human beings would at length learn what they now improperly call humanity!"

So spake Benjamin Franklin in 1780. The world then as now faced blackness and depravity at every hand, though man's knowledge of things physical has grown from generation to generation, carrying us to our 1951 era of pseudo-prosperity and nervously exalted standards of living.

Obviously the things which caused Franklin concern, and worried hundreds of others throughout the centuries from the time of Christ until the present are still with us in spite of our awesome scientific advances.

In these times of fear the words ring clear that "It is not within man that walketh to direct his own steps." Next week, Tech observes Religious Emphasis week. Six men, leaders and profound teachers in their various faiths, will be on the campus to direct and arouse the thinking of the student body. They are as capable of treating the "ills" of the world as leading physicians are qualified in the realm of medicine. The time is at hand, the opportunity is present for us collectively and individually to begin the long overdue advance of moral science and real humanitarian living.

Perhaps the keynote for this Religious Emphasis Week, and all other weeks could be the oft-quoted, "Christianity hasn't failed, it just hasn't been tried."—Dick Brooks

Frenchman Presents Latest "Rule Of Thumb" On Smokers

Even since Freud began explaining why people do the things they do, self-styled authorities have published "rules of thumb" for determining human traits from everyday acts.

The latest, according to a letter from the Beckett Paper company, is "Five Types of Smokers" by Monsieur Georges Ravon, obviously a Frenchman.

M. Ravon's five varieties of "wicked weed" puffers are:

1. The slow smoker, drawing reflectively on a cigarette, is methodical, self-assured, deliberate.
2. The "locomotive" smoker is nervous, wayward, a bluffer.
3. He who stares through the smoke is a dreamer, a sentimentalist.
4. Exhaling smoke through the nose denotes the gambler and the braggart.
5. Holding the cigarette between thumb and first finger suggests a discerning mind, an appreciation of the finer qualities of women.

One person at last Saturday's football game captured the hearts of everyone present. This person was acknowledged a hero, and rewarded with the admiration and awe of every Tech booster.

Our idol summarized the feelings of all those attending the game in a manner which was a masterpiece of subtlety and insult. We do not know the identity, age, sex or description of this genius; we know only that he is a member of the Tech band.

This demi-god was the trumpeter who created the clarion strains of "Three Blind Mice" as fitting repartee to some official judgments from the playing field. Gad, we wish we'd said that!

The impending celebration in honor of Will Rogers' birthday reminds us of an incident of last year. A chaste, white gravestone, standing over a mound of freshly turned earth, appeared near the statue of the gum-chewing philosopher and his horse.

Inscribed on the marker was "Here lies Wm. Lee Jackson, 1861-1951." Below these words was a Confederate battle flag and the words "The South shall rise again, KKK." The stone disappeared as mysteriously as it had been planted.

Could it be part of the fad for Confederate flags which has swept the country recently?

Student Council SPEAKS

Why haven't the chimes been ringing on the hour this year? Perhaps many students have asked this question and have probably received no answers.

In order to answer this question the Student council appointed a committee to investigate the matter thoroughly. Several years ago Tech received the chime system as a senior class gift and since that time the Student council has been responsible for its care.

This year, after investigation, we found that through age and stormy weather the chime system was in definite need of many new parts. The timing mechanism which controls the system was clogged with sand and failed to work properly.

The investigating committee found that through the years with the turn-over of responsibility from one group of students to another, the system was either neglected or abused so that now the committee is investigating the possibility of turning the responsibility over to the maintenance department of the college. Also they would like to tie the

BACKTALK

Dear Editor:

The purpose of your Letters to the Editor Column, I understand, is for the airing of the views and beefs of the embattled student. I have such a beef and believe that it is justified.

After due inquiry, I learned that a studio is awarded the contract to take the students' pictures for La Ventana on the basis of a competitive bid. This presupposes that the studio had sufficient knowledge beforehand of what the problems were and considered themselves able to meet them. Perhaps the employees of a picture studio think that their time is more important than that of a student; however, I believe that their time is no more important to them than a student's time is to him.

I made three trips to the studio this year before I was privileged to have my picture taken by a lone photographer. I have since made several trips to see my proofs or try to catch the proof man at home, but no luck yet.

The lunch hour period is a very important time to several rather large groups of students on the campus. There are those who work in the morning and go to school in the afternoon, or vice versa, and there are those who live off the campus, not infrequently several blocks from the school, and who must make an extra trip to College Avenue not knowing whether the trip will be in vain.

I would think that the studio could arrange its schedule for the few weeks that the students must be accommodated in order to provide for a minimum of delays and extra trips. And surely, a studio should have more than one photographer and proof man.

Sincerely yours,
Tony De Shazo

Unfortunately, other students have had the same experience you describe in your letter. Certainly, the studio should provide enough photographers to keep students from having to wait unreasonably long to have their pictures made. According to La Ventana staff members, it was agreed that two photographers would be kept on the job. Perhaps the fact that as the deadline for pictures nears larger numbers of students flock to the studio, may account for the delay you have experienced.—The Editor

About The Campuses

The University of Arkansas has acquired a new calliope for pep rallies and ball games. The instrument, a relic from one of the old circuses, was presented by the Razorback band.

A course in household employment is being offered for Negroes this fall by the Odessa college evening school. Plans for additional extension courses for Negroes are being discussed.

The dramatics department at Baylor university will present "The Madwoman of Chailott" at the Baylor theatre this fall. The play was presented in August, and most of the original cast has returned to fill their previous roles.

Dig Out Your Muffs Warns Weatherman

Bring out your winter coats and ear muffs, kids. According to the weatherman you'll be needing them from now on.

Have you noticed how much better the Rec hall coffee tastes these frosty mornings? There's nothing like it for warming up a person's spirits after an eight o'clock class in one of the X-buildings. Drop over in the morning and have a cup.

Hats off to the Student Religious council for the work they've done in securing excellent speakers for the Religious Emphasis week program to begin Monday.

The week's activities should be among the most important of the year for every student at Tech. Classes are being arranged to give the entire student body a free period for each morning's convocation in the gym.

Various instructors have invited the Religious Emphasis speakers to talk to their classes. This seems to us an excellent idea. Students will be given an opportunity to ask questions and discuss any topic that arises.

Not only will you be helping yourself by attending the convocations each morning, you'll be helping the speaker. A large audience is the best stimulant a speaker can have.

One of the important issues to be brought up at Student council meeting Monday night will be a petition calling for a vote on whether to retain the present school song, "O College Mother, Beautiful," make the "Matador Song" the official college anthem or have an entirely new song written.

"O College Mother, Beautiful," which is sung to the tune of the tune of "America, the Beautiful," was written by Tech's first president, Dr. Paul W. Horn.

A pre-law student, class of '31, wrote the words to the "Matador Song." R. C. Marshall, who now resides in Borger wrote the song in 1930. The words were set to music by Tech's first band director, Harry LeMaire. At that time the football team was known as the Matadors.

Clifton C. Wells, jr. of Silverton, is at present a marine private first class, serving as a machine gunner with the First Anti-Aircraft battalion at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Pfc. Wells enlisted in the marine corps in January of 1951 at Lubbock. Prior to enlisting in the marines, Pfc. Wells attended Texas Tech.

Another ex-Techman, Hubert D. Payton of Mertzon, Tex., is also a marine private first class, serving at Camp Pendleton, Calif., as an observer with the First Anti-Aircraft battalion.

Pfc. Payton enlisted in the USMC on Jan. 12, 1951, at Lubbock, and received his basic training at the San Diego recruit depot.

Marine Pfc. Riley H. Condon jr. of Throckmorton, Tex., is presently serving as a radar operator with the First Anti-Aircraft battalion at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Pfc. Riley was a '51 graduate of Tech, receiving a bachelor of science degree. He enlisted in the marines on Jan. 16, 1951, at Lubbock.

If Your Date Backs Upstairs She May Be Hysteria Victim

Has your potential date complained of a headache recently? Well, watch her closely next time you go out with her. See if she does anything else unusual, like backing upstairs, using only one arm, or many other things that might be considered idiosyncracies.

It's possible she's hysterical. Maybe you'd better take her to a doctor instead of a movie.

Woman Treated

A Lubbock physician recently treated a woman who had been backing upstairs for two years, convinced that that was the only way she could get up them.

"Hysteria is one of the most frequent diagnoses today," this doctor states. It occupies a much more serious place than most of us realize. But there is a difference between pure hysteria and hysteria caused by some internal disorder. Sometimes patients may become hysterical with good cause, and too many of today's doctors take the easy way out and diagnose a case as hysteria when there is really some basis for complaint, though in any case it is serious.

It's All Imagination

Pure hysteria, he points out, is imaginary, and has no basis in a physical disorder. For instance, the woman who backed upstairs for a couple of years was cured in less than an hour with psychiatric treatment. But hysterical patients can simulate the symptoms of any known disease.

Another woman who was treated by this doctor had been "paralyzed" in her right arm for six months. She had received a slight shock in her left arm, therefore there was no basis for physical complaint, and it was found to be a case of pure hysteria.

Most such cases are easily cured, this physician believes. The patient is usually relieved to find that nothing is really wrong with him. And, contrary to evidence given here, not all the patients are women. The number of men to women is about even. There is a little hysteria in all of us, he says. At least we have potentially hysterical stages of mind sometimes.

Not Easy To Detect

Doctors sometimes have as many as a dozen hysterical patients a week, but it isn't always easy to detect. It is the belief of some that the possibilities of hysteria should be thoroughly investigated before any other diagnosis is given.

Though we may have a lot to get excited about these days, let's not do anything rash. It's a thin line, you know, between sanity and insanity.

Morris Is Named Tech's Candidate

George Morris, senior business administration student, has been named Tech's candidate to represent Texas in the 56th annual Congress of Industry in America which meets in New York City Dec. 3-8.

Morris was selected Wednesday for his leadership, scholarship, and citizenship qualifications. He is president of the senior class, a member of the national scholarship fraternity, Alpha Chi, and Delta Sigma Pi, international business fraternity, and Wranglers, social club.

The record Morris has made at Tech will be compared with records from other Texas college representatives. The winner will be chosen by the Texas Manufacturing association, sponsor of the Texas contest.

Curling, a national Scottish game, was introduced in the 16th century from the low countries.

Stadium Installation Shelved By Board

A decision on installation of a new scoreboard and clock in Jones stadium was left to the local affair committee of Tech's board of directors when they met Saturday.

Mr. Roy Wells, secretary of the board, said a decision by the committee could not be expected before next spring, since the present football season is almost over.

The board accepted on behalf of Tech a painting as a gift from one of its members, C. T. McLaughlin of Snyder. The painting, the work of Percy Moran, portrays the Dutch negotiating with Indians in the early days of America. The picture is now hanging in the east wing of the museum, according to Dr. W. C. Holden, museum director.

Dr. Carl Rister, history professor, obtained permission to conduct research and write a history of the independent oil men of the Southwest similar to the book he recently wrote on the major oil companies.

The board also voted appropriations of $109,500 to finance contracts to reconstruct the Engineering building.

Car Owners Asked To Fly Tech's Colors On Saturdays

A campaign to encourage the flying of Tech's colors in the form of streamers on student's cars has been initiated by Arnold Air Society, according to James E. A. Kovach, air executive of the southwestern area.

The campaigners wish to "place streamers of red and black on all students' vehicles every Saturday during the fall semester to build collegiate spirit and pride," he said.

All car owners in the society signed a pledge agreeing to "display Tech's colors and thereby animate college life on the campus."

Eleanor Miller, sociology major, has accepted a position with the First Presbyterian church of Brownfield. She was graduated in '50.

Baptist Student Convention At Baylor Draws 40 Tech Students And Sponsors

Dean Of Women Speaks To Joint Banquet Saturday

Mrs. Marjorie Neely, dean of women, addressed a joint banquet honoring exes of Kappa Kappa Psi, bandmen's fraternity and Tau Beta Sigma, women's band club, Saturday night in Luby's cafeteria. Her subject was "What Does It Take to Make a Good College or University?"

December Date Set For Draft Tests

Men who wish to take the December College Qualification test leading to possible draft deferment must make application by Nov. 5, according to information received by the president's office yesterday.

Any full-time male college student who has not previously taken the test is eligible for the three-hour examination which will provide information for use by local boards in considering deferments. Students wishing to take the test should go to any Selective Service board for a bulletin of information, an application blank and a mailing envelope. Instructions in the bulletin must be followed carefully.

The qualifying score for undergraduates was set at 70 last year and no announcement of a change in policy has been received. The required score may be altered at any time, however, according to manpower needs.

Dear Buck:
Has it occurred to you that the Thanksgiving holidays are practically upon us? And you know what that means—turkey, parties, sleeping late, parties, no homework and, of course, a few parties.
Naturally some of the parties will involve dancing and, though I hate to be critical, I do think most of us could learn something from "Lewis and Larry-mores" about ballroom dancing. Don't you?

Anyway, I think it would be money well spent to become a smooth ballroom operator and although I haven't advanced beyond the lesson of "overcoming two left feet," I have hopes.

Wesley Wildcats tangle with the Baptist Student Union Bums Monday afternoon in the feature game in the Independent league next week.

Both clubs are undefeated thus far in league play. The Wildcats have defeated the Tech Band and Unknowns while the Baptists have beaten the Dairy Manufacturing club and the Westminster Student Fellowship.

Following the tactics of Arkansas prior to the University of Texas game, the Wildcats have declared next week as "Beat the Baptist Bums week."

One other game in the Independent league Monday pits Tech Band against Dairy Manufacturing club.

Dorm Leaguers Will Meet Today

Four teams meet in matches in Dorm league intramural football contests at 5 p.m. today.

Only one of the four teams goes into its game with a perfect record. Sneed Westerners, who Monday shaved the Sneed Easterners 7 to 6, engage Men's Dorm III, once defeated. The match will feature the passing of Robert Levalien for the Sneed nine and Oris Reynolds for the Dorm III squad.

Dorm III was defeated only in their opener, a match with Doak Green Hornets, who today take on a once defeated squad from West hall.

Raiders Slated To Maul TW Miners Tomorrow

By JOHN LEE
Toreador Sports Editor

It's Homecoming in El Paso this weekend but the outlook is dark for the Miners of Texas Western college as they will face the heavily-favored Red Raiders in a battle royal 8 p.m. tomorrow at Kidd field.

The Raiders left this morning by bus in quest of their third conference win of the season and only a major miracle can save the Miners.

The Raiders have an added incentive in that they haven't succeeded in winning a game away from home this year. All three wins have been in Jones Stadium before the Lubbock fans.

The only basis for comparison of the two teams is the Arizona games, Arizona being the one common foe faced, by both teams thus far. Arizona defeated Texas Western in a saw-saw battle, 18 to 15, in Tucson earlier this season.

Tech, on the other hand, humiliated Arizona 41 to 0 last week. This would automatically give Tech the favored role but cannot be taken for concrete evidence on the final outcome of the game. There are several items to be taken into consideration. First, the Miners played Arizona in Tucson while Tech met them on home grounds. The Miners could be favored in familiar surroundings.

Second it's Texas Western's Homecoming, and Weaver knows only too well how fired up a team can get at a Homecoming as evidenced by the trouncing Tech handed Arizona last week. Third, the Miners may rebound following last week's defeat. Twice the Red Raiders have rebounded after losing on the previous week-end. The local lads upset Texas Christian 33 to 19 after losing to Houston 6 to 0, and Saturday's victory followed a disappointing 40 to 20 loss to Baylor. Texas Western was downed last week 53 to 18 by a University of Cincinnati team celebrating Homecoming.

Tech has won six of the nine meetings between the two schools, the largest margin of victory coming in last year's 61 to 7 win by the Raiders.

Foot
BALL-pointed pennings . . .
By Jimmie Henley

With half of their Border conference victories accomplished, the Red Raiders have virtually assured reposition of the loop football crown lost last year to West Texas State.

The most significant opponent still to be dealt with is Hardin-Simmons university, presently in a tie with the Red Raiders with two conference wins.

The two teams meet in Jones Stadium Dec. 1. Before that engagement Tech will have played its other conference game and two more non-conference tilts. The conference billing with Texas Western this week is of importance only in so far as an upset can occur at the most unexpected time.

The Raiders should trample the TWC Miners by some 30 points even though it will be the Miner's Homecoming.

As intramural football at Tech continues, a problem from past years is again appearing. The problem to which we refer is that of the Men's Inter-Club Council league beginning its season so late in the year.

On last Sunday weather prevented six of the eight teams from playing scheduled matches. The weatherman may again stop those games, now scheduled for Saturday afternoon, as well as four games set for Sunday.

Not only does it hurt the quality of ball played in the MICC league, but it also makes the all-college playoff fall at a very inconvenient time, usually crammed in the week just before dismissal for Christmas holidays—hardly an appropriate time for most students.

What can be done about the problem, if anything. All three leagues would have difficulty in opening play at the same time, since the field space is limited. However, it should be noted that all league games in the MICC loop are played on Sunday afternoon. None of the other leagues play on Sunday. It, therefore, seems highly possible that the MICC loop could open play earlier in the year.

Femme Football Fight Scheduled

Probably the earliest "bowl game" in the nation will be played in Jones Stadium November 9 when the second annual Wash Bowl game featuring the Pink Plungers of Women's Dorm IV and the Sophisticated Stoppers of Women's Dorm III is expected to attract over a thousand fans.

The teams, which consist of only nine men oops, women each instead of the usual 11, play a version of touch-pass football.

Last year's game saw the speedy Stoppers from Dorm III soundly trounce the Plungers 20-0. Predictors this year are calling the teams even, and not favoring either team by even one touchdown.

Highlight of last year's game was the crowning of the Wash Bowl queen. Tentative plans this year also provide for the crowning of the queen. Red Raider football players will act as cheerleaders.

TROUBLE FOR MINERS—Buddy Barron, Raider offensive regular, has been given high praise by the coaching staff for his excellent work in past performances. He will start in the right guard spot against the Miners tomorrow night.

'Mural Basketball Signing Begins; 40 Teams Expected

Entries for intramural basketball will be received beginning Monday. George Philbrick, intramural sports director has announced.

Some 40 teams are expected to compete this year in five or six leagues, Philbrick said.

He pointed out that last year two Dorm leagues operated with an Independent league and Men's Inter-Club Council league.

If there are sufficient entries Aggie and Engineering leagues will be organized, Philbrick added. Nov. 15 is the deadline for entries to be turned in at the intramural office in the Gym.

Play will begin immediately following the Thanksgiving holidays.

An Independent quintet, the Cherry Pluckers, won the all-college playoff last year from Kemas, winner in the MCCC league. The Cherry Pluckers are again expected to enter a team.

Clubs To Vie In Grid Battle

Tomorrow at 2 p.m. six social club football teams open the season by making up games missed because of bad weather last Sunday. Only two of the teams played the game scheduled Sunday.

In that game Centaur club defeated Adelphi 6 to 0.

Following the initial meetings tomorrow, the clubs play regularly scheduled games on Sunday afternoon.

Sneed West Beats Easterners 7 To 6

Robert Levallen displayed an accurate eye Monday afternoon as he completed 8 of 19 passing attempts to ride the Sneed West team to a 7 to 6 win over the Sneed East team.

A 43-yard pass from Levallen to Joe Bullock set up the score which came on a pass from Levallen to Sammy Fitzhugh. Levallen flipped to Arthur Runion for the all important extra point.

Sneed East tallied on a spectacular kick-off return. John Weaver hauled the ball in and lateraled to Jack Harris who went all the way. The try-for-point failed and the Westerners had the Sneed championship packed away for future reference.

Bill Killough and Wade Hardesty played top ball for the Easterners.

Jack Walker, journalism graduate of '49, recently moved from Dallas to Fort Worth where he is associated with Striplings Department store advertising department.

Superior Aerial Play Gives Doak Hall 14 To 0 Football Win Over Dorm IV

Doak hall tallied twice to down Dorm IV 14 to 0 in a rough and tumble touch-pass game Monday afternoon.

Doak's superior aerial game kept him play for the most part in the Dorm IV end of the field.

Sonny Stanford carried the brunt of the attack with his downfield passing.

But the play that took the cake was the scoring catch of Bill Williams. Bill was goalward bound but the pass was apparently too short when suddenly, Williams made an abrupt halt, reversed his field and made a shoestring catch cant inches from the turf. It was then but a matter of falling over the goal line to score.

The Doakers marched to the five-yard line late in the game before the Dorm IV team threw back to the twenty. Trying desperately to score, they managed to re-reach the five but Dorm IV took over on downs and it looked as if time would expire before the Doakers could regain the ball.

But a Jack Dyer pass was intercepted and the stage was set for a Stanford to Ed Burrus aerial for the score.

Ben Street caught both extra point passes.

Don Fortenbury, Richard Bourland and Green Chorn stood out for the Doakers while Dyer, Clyde Grappe, Neil Atchson, Arthur Wilson and Burk Roberts excelled for the Dorm IV team.

Report Shows 1,155 Students Visit Rec Hall Daily; Rush Hour Is From 9-10 A.M.

Students who have looked around the Recreation hall between the hours of 9 and 10 a.m. have undoubtedly wondered just how many people go through the building an hour.

In a report to the Recreation Hall Governing board meeting yesterday, Dan E. Pursel, director, gave the results of a tabulation taken recently—between 500 and 850 students appeared at that hour.

Throughout the day a total of 1,155 persons came through.

The Rec hall program includes something for every taste.

From 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. the Green room is open for coffee, fruit juices, milk, doughnuts and sweet rolls. The Rec hall is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, except for a possible closing hour of 11 p.m. in case of a special Friday night program.

Saturday hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., with any special night programs held from 8 to 11:30 p.m.

Eight committees, headed by students, plan the program for the Rec hall. These committees are hospitality, dances, square dances, movies, games, socials and parties, entertainment and lectures and house committee.

Student organizations may rent the Rec hall for $10, if they have less than 30 members, or for $15 if there are more than 30 members. The Green room may be rented by clubs for a money-making project for the regular rental fee plus 5 percent of the cleared profits.
