2,000 Techsans To See Raiders Wrestle Aggies

Late yesterday 1,328 of an expected 1,500 student tickets had been sold for the Tech-Texas A&M game to be played in Dallas, according to Morley Jennings, athletic director.

Buses chartered for the trip were cancelled at 5 p.m. Wednesday because only 12 of a minimum 15 students had signed up to go by bus, said Elizabeth Schovajsa, secretary of the student body. Only 30 women have signed up in the office of the Dean of Women to make the trip.

Alumni Reception
At 4 p.m. Raider boosters will begin the pre-game parade which will start at the Jefferson hotel and end in front of the Adolphus hotel. At the conclusion of the parade a pep rally will be held, followed by an alumni reception at the Baker hotel. The Dallas Alumni club will sponsor the reception. Last year over 1,200 students went to the "official" out-of-town game, which was with TCU in Fort Worth. Only a very few students went by chartered bus last fall, most students evidently preferring to make the trip by car, train or regular bus.

2,000 Expected
Approximately 100 band tickets are not included in the general total. Total sales of both student and adult tickets are expected to reach 2,000.

The Tech band will give a special performance for half-time activities. The program will consist of a salute to A&M, followed by a salute to Tech.

Students who plan to attend the game are urged to remember that they must show their activity tickets at the gate in order to gain admittance.

College Directories To Be Out Oct. 20

Student directories for the fall semester are scheduled to be out between Oct. 15 and 20, according to W. C. Cole, manager of the Tech College bookstore.

This semester, the books are being printed in Austin, he said. Price on this semester's directory has not been determined yet, since printing costs may vary slightly. Directories for last year were priced at 75 cents.

Directories have been compiled each year by the bookstore as a Bob Schmidt, Harold Brockett members. Directory cards filled out during registration provide needed information for the book.

Last fall approximately 1,500 books were sold to students, faculty members and Lubbock firms. Tech student enrollment was approximately 5,400.

This year's publication date on the books will be considerably earlier than last spring's, Cole said. The directory will go to the printer in approximately two weeks.

Talk By Wiggins Precedes Voting

Dr. D. M. Wiggins will speak and Student council officers and members will be introduced at the convocation to be held in the Gym from 10-12 a.m. Wednesday, announced Bob Schmidt, council president.

After the speech and introductions, students will assemble in appointed places to elect class officers.

Bob Schmidt, Harold Brockett and Charles Joplin will conduct the freshman elections. Jack Alderson, Mary B. Turner and Hardy Clement will be in charge of the sophomores. Harold Brannan, Kenneth Burgess and Jim McGraw are to lead the juniors. Elizabeth Schovajsa, Dick Robinson and Rodney Balke will lead the seniors.

Ralph Lacy, 1951 Tech graduate, resides in Greensboro, N.C., not in Charlotte as was reported in Tuesday's Toreador.

Committee Chooses La Ventana Editor

Dick Brooks, senior arts and sciences students from Amarillo, was named editor of 1952 La Ventana at a meeting of the Publications committee Tuesday.

Brooks, who will fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Allen Hammer, has announced a meeting at 4 p.m. Monday in La Ventana office, J205, for all persons interested in any phase of the yearbook work.

Positions to be filled on the staff include two paid photographers, an associate editor, assistant business manager, art editor and a working staff for preparation of pages.

Experience, while desirable, is not essential, Brooks emphasized. Any student desiring to help who will be unable to attend the Monday session, may apply at the office any weekday afternoon.

Benny Bruckner, La Ventana business manager, has announced that students may begin having their annual pictures made now at Palace studios, 1311 College Ave. Those who did not purchase a photo during registration may do so now at the studio. Deadlines will be announced in about one week. Freshmen are urged to have their pictures made promptly, Bruckner said, as the freshman deadline will fall on the earliest date.

Other business of the publications committee included approval of Pat Johnson and Shirley Johnson as Toreador associate editors and appointment of a committee to study the possibility of making a directory available to all students through the Toreador.

Applications Due Wednesday Night

Deadline for pledge applications for Saddle Tramps has been set for Wednesday night by president Charles Joplin.

Any male student with a C average and at least 30 hours of college work is eligible to submit a letter of application.

Joplin said the letter should state briefly why the student wants to belong to Saddle Tramps and what he believes is the purpose of the organization. Letters should go to Joplin in West Hall.

STOMP THE AGGIES—Tech's cheerleaders paint "Stomp the Aggies" posters in an informal get-together in the recreation hall. They meet frequently for practice of various yells and planning new ones.

Spirited Quintet Gets Praise For Work At Season Opener

By LUCILLE SEYBOLD
Toreador Society Editor

Yea, Red! Yea, Black! C'mon, let's give a cheer for the Red Raiders! But while we're doing that, let's give an extra "Rah!" for our five yell-leaders, Rhetta McMaster and Phil Thompson, head leaders, and Bob Anthony, Wanda Ramsey and Don Hancock, assistants.

This gang did a wonderful job at the Tech-West Texas State college game and we know they'll show just as much pep and energy at the Tech-A&M game in Dallas tomorrow and for the rest of the season, too.

Now for a bit of inside information on this quintet.

Rhetta McMaster, popular head girl cheerleader, is a senior physical education major from Abernathy. This is Rhetta's second year as cheerleader, since she was assistant to Jo Simmons last year. It is also her second year as president of DFD women's social club. Talented Rhetta started Tech's new song, "Forever Texas Tech," this year.

Thompson Is Pre-Law Senior
Phil Thompson, a pre-law senior, is from Plainview. In high school there, he was a member of the student council and was active in many clubs. This year is his first, however, as a yell leader.

Don Hancock was head cheerleader his senior year in Lubbock High school. He is a sophomore pre-law major. He held membership on the LHS student council and worked on the school newspaper, The Western World. Don was also active in sports.

Anthony Now Lubbockite
Bob Anthony is a sophomore student, majoring in petroleum engineering. Though now a Lubbockite, Bob was graduated from Amarillo high school in 1950. He leads yells for the Red Raiders, but he will play football this fall for Kemas fraternity, which he is pledging.

This winter he is planning to take a group of his friends to his cabin in Ruidoso on a weekend of skiing fun. Bob, who is 6 feet 2 inches tall with brown hair and blue eyes, dates freshman Pat Abernethy quite often.

Cheerleading Old Story
To petite Wanda Ramsey, cheerleading is an old story, for while a student in Shamrock High

College Auto Registration Begins Slowly; 537 Techsans Are First Day Signers

Campus auto registration got off to a slow start as 537 students of an expected 3,000 registered cars by 3:30 p.m. yesterday, first day of registration.

There will be no designated parking lots this year, Lewis Jones, assistant dean of Student Life, said yesterday. The policy of "first come first served" will be followed on all lots, he added.

Registration is taking place in the east rotunda of the Administration building and will continue until tomorrow noon. After that time students may register their cars in the office of the dean of student life, AD118.

Jones cautioned students about to a slow start in the truck driveway go-building lot. "Trucks sometimes ing into the new Student Union get to the parking lot."

"We expect over 3,000 to be registered this year, if this year compares with the last one," Jones said.

FIRST DRILL—Military science students assemble for their first drill session Thursday. ROTC cadets will drill each week during the school year. At the close of the spring semester a federal inspection will be conducted.

1,059 Men Sign For Military Science Setting Department's Record Enrollment

Approximately 1,059 members of the Reserve Officers Training corps organized in companies under a new system with new commanding officers yesterday afternoon.

According to Maj. Melvin Burnett, the enrollment of 694 men in the Air Force and 365 in the Army marked an all-time high for the Tech ROTC program.

Commanded by Cadet Col. Jack Alderson, the Army division is now a task force which is composed of three companies. Engineers make up Company A, Signal corps, Company B, and Infantry, Company C. They are commanded by Cadet Capt. Forrest Burnham, Gayle Ferguson and Leonard Holland, respectively.

The Air Force division which drills separately from the Army this year will have a wing formation because they have outgrown group size. The wing, commanded by Cadet Col. Bob Schmidt, is composed of two air groups which consist of four squadrons. Air Group A is commanded by cadet Lt. Col. Gerald Loeffler, and Air Group B by cadet Lt. Col. Charles Hamilton. Other subordinate commanders are expected to be appointed sometime this week.

Girls' Dorms Begin New System

Tech Dormitory Supervisors Work Hard To Keep Pleasant Atmosphere

By MARTHA GILLISPIE
Toreador Staff Writer

Probably most of you dorm and town students really don't know the system by which the dorms are operated, the careful planning and organization that make the dorms a pleasant place to live.

The boys' dorms are beginning their fourth year under a four year plan and it is the first year for the women's plan.

A counselor and program director serves as head of each women's dorm. She is a trained, professional worker who is responsible for the welfare of the dorm. She, along with the resident hostess, is a member of the Dean of Women's staff.

To see that the mechanical elements are smooth running is the duty of the resident hostess of each girl's dorm.

Students are employed to operate the switchboard and as office help for the dorms. Two graduate students serve as assistants to the counselor. Both are students interested in counseling and are taking courses pertaining to that field.

A senior supervisor heads the six boys' dorms. He co-ordinates all the dorms into smooth running enterprises and is also a supervisor in one of the dorms. The five other dorm supervisors are responsible to the senior supervisor.

Each supervisor is the director of the "way of life" of the dorm and is in charge of the counseling system and mechanical operation of the dorm. He is interested in the program and has at least a master's degree in counseling and guidance. Careful selection of employees is made so that they may give the best guidance possible to the students living in the dorm.

Helping the supervisor is one assistant, a graduate student, interested in the counseling program. Wing advisors or counselors are selected for each wing of the dorm from students who have shown interest. As one said, "I have to be repairman, chaplain, tutor and advisor to all the students."

Also under the supervisor are the switchboard operators and two men in charge of laundry and dry cleaning.

A married man is usually selected for a supervisor because his wife will give the dorm a little bit of a "feminine atmosphere."

A student government program is conducted in both men's and women's dorms. The boys' program consists of representatives elected in the dorms with the election of an executive committee from these representatives. This legislative body promotes the social activities of the dorm and encourages intramural athletic activities. Each dorm also publishes a newspaper.

A legislature of 24 members with the twenty-fifth member to be elected from freshmen girls after the first nine weeks constitutes the student government of the women's dorms. An executive committee is composed of the president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, AWS representative, Big sister-little sister program chairman, publicity and program chairmen.

The legislature is for planning all dorm activities both social and disciplinary, but mainly for the comfortable living of the girls in the dorms.

The Women's Inter-Dorm council, composed of the legislature presidents and a representative of each dorm and Casa Linda co-ordinates the dorms on an overall basis. This organization is to make changes in dorm living and

Contest Open To Student Architects

Architecture students have been invited to compete for $2,000 in prizes in a design contest sponsored by the Texas Society of Architects.

Best designs for a building incorporating advanced techniques in the use of expanded shale aggregate lightweight structural concrete will be judged by a local jury. Creators of the three top designs will be awarded $180; first place; $120, second place; $60, third place.

Tech's winning designs will be displayed at the TSA convention Oct. 22-24 in San Antonio, with those from the University of Texas, Texas A&M, Rice Institute and the University of Houston. An exceptional merit award of $200 will be presented for the best of the fifteen designs displayed.

Prize money will be paid by the Featherlite corporation of Dallas, producers of expanded shale aggregate marketed under the trade-mark "Featherlite."

to provide the best possible conditions in the dorm.

During the freshman orientation period this fall the previously elected leaders attended a leadership workshop to acquaint them with their jobs for this school year.

HE'S Hold "Howdy" Party For Division Newcomers

Approximately 100 girls attended the Home Economics club Howdy party Tuesday night in their new club room in the HE building.

The party was to acquaint the new freshmen and transfer students with the HE department and club. Get-acquainted games were played with Nancy Crosby of Lubbock in charge. Songs and charades also were on the program. Program co-chairmen were Mary Marie Biers of Plainview and Mary Ruth Sims of Lubbock.

Prizes were given to Frances McGee of Las Cruces, N.M. and Margaret Lee of Houston for the transfer and freshman who came the farthest to Tech. Refreshments were under the direction of Mrs. Joyce Henry and Ellen Mas-sengill.

Special guests were Mrs. Marjorie M. Neely, dean of women; Jean Ewing and Marion Thompson of the dean of women's staff; Mrs. Edna Eikle, House mother of Women's Dorm III; Esther Sorenson, district supervisor of home economics.

Miss Mayme Twyford is the club sponsor.

Why Not Free Directories . . .

For years the Tech College bookstore has been giving a splendid service to the college each semester in preparing a student directory.

Compiling such a book is no small task. The bookstore must hire special help for typing and checking of names, addresses, telephone numbers and home towns of all students. A special section for faculty members must also be compiled.

All the steps in preparation of the directory are expensive. High printing costs made it necessary for the books to be sold at 75 cents per copy, a price few students were willing to pay. The book may run even higher this semester, since printing costs are still rising.

Last spring the scheduled printer failed to accept the contract at the last minute. Directories were issued so late in the semester they lost much of their value to either students or the faculty.

Bookstore officials say they have actually been losing money on the directory, despite the seeming high rate at which it sold. Since bookstore profits go toward the Tech Student Union building, it is logical to assume that losses on the book have reduced the building fund.

Approximately 1,500 directories were sold last fall. Tech's enrollment then was 5,400 not including faculty members, who accounted for a good many of the book sales.

Shortly before school opened this semester, the Toreador received a suggestion from administrative personnel—a suggestion which the staff immediately supported. Why not print a student directory as a supplement to an early edition of the Toreador each semester? This would enable every student to have the information at no cost.

We are informed such a plan was tried on the Oklahoma A&M campus and met immediate success. The Toreador staff believes such a service would also prove a boon to Tech students. Personnel at the bookstore say they would be happy to see the Toreador take over this service and would support such a plan.

As directories are to be issued within a few weeks, the idea would not be practical for this semester, but with an okay from the Publications committee, the Toreador would make plans now for beginning the service in the spring session.

What do you, the student body, think of the idea?

Pat's Patter

Fellow students, we of the editorial staff will may be on the way out!

It's been nice working for you, but that's just the way things go. Why? A typewriter has been invented that thinks!

Yes, no longer will journalists tear out hanks of hair as they sit before blank sheets of paper. The mechanical reporter does it for them.

Just imagine walking into the Toreador office and telling a dainty 400-piece of mechanism your organization has elected new officers. No more pleading with the editor for "a good story." The new genius takes no backtalk, but uses electric impulses to change letters into type, then makes a photographic film which is ready for engraving and printing.

"Einstein jr." has one saving grace for us one-talent people. It costs $28,000. So until our business manager scrapes together that sum, readers will have to struggle along with us $20 and $65-a-month mortals.

Comment from the Women's dorm—after looking disgustedly at two small rather bad plums, one coed sneered, "For this we are paying $5 extra a month!"

Here are a few quotable quotes clipped from an exchange paper this summer.

Many a man wants his dream to come true without putting in any day time work.

Definition of intelligent voter: The one who votes the same way you do.

Selective service is thinking about drafting women. They will certainly have a vast selection. All women are under 30.

Revised: In times of peace, prepare for war by buying a set of automobile tires.

A scientist has traced man back to a fish. You can still hook a man if you use the right kind of bait.

Old Dobbin had his faults, but very seldom was the driver of a buggy ever arrested for reckless driving.

When money talks, no one ever tries to jam its voice.

It's a fast world. A girl can put on and take off her coat of tan in the same day.

Have you applied for a job with the State of Texas lately? No? First let us warn you, you must sign an oath which is an insult to reader comprehension.

By acts of the state legislature, eight paragraphs beginning "I solemnly swear," "I further swear" or plain "I swear" confront persons hoping to draw pay from the state through the medium of Tech.

Furthermore, five of the lengthy paragraphs essentially say the same thing, "I have never been or am not at present a communist or member of a subversive organization."

If the communist "witch hunt" has reached the state level, at least simplify "loyalty oaths" so singers will know what they are signing and won't have to say in five different ways, "I will not overthrow the government or adhere to a foreign government in the event of war."

We could ask should state employees including student workers be forced to sign "loyalty oaths" before beginning work for the government. And with this thought we leave you until next Saturday.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Please mail me the Toreador this year. Also, be kind enough to ask the bookstore to send me a couple of Tech "T" shirts, large. Could also use some decals and stickers. Sorry to bother you, but bill me C.O.D. Thanks a lot. Don Blake Tech '24-'27

Glad to hear from you, oldtimer. The Toreador is on its way and we'll see about those stickers, decals and "T" shirts, large. The Editor.

ALL RIGHT, SMEDLEY, GET IN THERE AND FIGHT!

Texas Tech Talk

By John Norcross, Toreador Editor

Wanted—letters to the editor! Staff members of the Toreador want to make this newspaper the voice of Texas Tech's student body in fact as well as theory. We can't expect to accomplish that end, unless we know what the student body is thinking.

Our letters to the editor department is your means of openly expressing your views to other students. Perhaps you have a suggestion or an idea that may help another student—if you have, write us about it.

Maybe you want to get something off your chest. So long as you have, or think you have a legitimate gripe, we will be happy to hear from you.

On the other hand, we believe in giving praise where praise is due. If you know of a person or a group of persons who are working hard for the school and have not received rightful credit for their job well done, let us hear about that, too.

Our letterbox at the moment is rather dusty from lying empty. Now that fall activities are in full swing, we're looking for letters to start piling in.

Here are a few things to remember when you start that letter—bet you've already got pencil in hand.

1. All correspondence should be signed. No anonymous letters will be published. (In some cases, name will be withheld if requested.)

2. Put some solid thinking behind your writing. What you say may influence others, so strive to be prejudice free.

3. The Toreador reserves the right to condense and edit in case of letters too lengthy to be used in full.

We'll be looking for your letter.

Digging around in some old Toreadors and La Ventanas the other day, we found that Saddle Tramps were organized in 1936 under the direction of Arch Lamb, head cheerleader for '36-'37.

According to the annual of that year Saddle Tramps went over big from the start. "A bright spot of crimson in the grandstand" was the way one writer described the Saddle Tramp section.

"After their first year," the yearbook predicted, "the Saddle Tramps should be established as an integral part of Raider athletic activities." The prediction has come true; the spot of crimson may still be seen today.

A hard grind is ahead for Dick Brooks, new La Ventana editor. Yearbook work is usually well underway by this time of the year. Brooks, however, is jumping into the work vigorously and is already getting his staff organized. At this rate, he'll be up-to-date before Homecoming!

For some reason, students didn't show much interest in the proposed bus trip to Dallas. Naturally, student council members were disappointed to see the plans they had carefully laid as far back as last spring suddenly fall through. The out-of-town game trip is a tradition in our campus. Are we going to allow it to "fade away" from lack of support?

A brighter thought to leave with you—if the yelling at last night's pep rally was any indication of prospects for high-spirited cheering at the game tomorrow, the yell leaders won't have anything to worry about.

With The Colors

Second Lt. William G. Solomon, who graduated from Tech with a regular commission in the Air Force in June, is now stationed at Mather Air Base, Mo., with the first class to be processed there. Solomon's wife, Joyce Worrrell Solomon, also a Tech student, will reside in Lubbock until he can secure suitable living quarters at the base.

Pfc. James W. Norcross, former Tech freshman and animal husbandry major, is stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif. Norcross, who has been in the Marines since January, is scheduled to go on a two or three week field problem starting Oct. 1.

Second Lt. Charles F. Watson, a member of class 51-F at the USAF advanced multi-engine pilot school at Reese AFB, received a medal of merit from the base commander, Col. Thomas J. Barrett, in recent graduation exercises. Lt. Watson led his class in the military phase of the training and was the only member recommended for a regular Air Force commission.

For the past year Joe Gayle Fleming has been serving in the U.S. Air Force and recently received his commission as a second lieutenant. Fleming, a 1950 Tech graduate, was a member of the Kamas social club and the Plant Industry club. He received his B.S. in agriculture.

Tommy Cooper, of Lubbock, recently left for Air Cadet training at Pensacola, Florida. Cooper, business administration student, was a member of the Wranglers.

Eugene Havrene, former management student from Olney, is serving in the Air Force in Okinawa Island in the Pacific.

Ralph Culver, from Seymour, is now undergoing training in the Air Force at Lackland Field in San Antonio. Culver, a finance student, was a member of the Wranglers and the Tech Institute of Finance.

Although It's A Privilege

New Dean Breaks Tradition; Knows What She Wants

Contrary to the popular notion that it's a woman's right and privilege to have a changeable mind, one new feminine faculty member knows exactly what she wants to do.

Mrs. Marjorie M. Neely, new dean of women, wants to educate college men and women to take their places in the post-graduate world.

Furthermore, she believes college-age persons must solve world problems which their elders have created and "It's high time they were given experience."

The charming newcomer's interest in people grew out of 10 years of personnel work done for the civil service previous to and during the Second World War.

Mrs. Neely's personnel experiences convinced her she should return to education, her first love; and she received her bachelor's degree in education at Eastern Washington college in Cheney, Washington in 1947.

Post Graduate Work

"My degree was only good for post-graduate study, so I then attended Ohio university in Athens, O., and received a master's degree in human relations in 1950."

While at OU, she was assistant dean of women and actively associated with the dormitory system.

Her next stop before coming to Tech was Pacific university at Forest Grove, Ore., where she was associate dean of students, a position similar to Tech's dean of women.

The native of Neepawa, Idaho, first studied English and drama in high school and later at the University of Idaho.

"But I soon realized I had no career potentialities and left school for marriage before finishing my undergraduate work," Mrs. Neely laughingly said.

Texas "OK"

The Northwestern finds Texas "not much of a change except the warm weather," and "loves the western spirit with its friendliness and graciousness."

Member of Kappa Delta Pi and Psi Chi, honorary education and psychology fraternities, the 45-year-old widow has one son, "Dick," who is a second-year law student at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Ex-Students Begin Homecoming Plans

Plans for the annual homecoming have been partially made, according to D. M. McElroy, executive secretary of the Texas Tech ex-students association.

Arizona university will play Tech on Oct. 27 as a highlight of the Homecoming celebration. McElroy is expecting approximately 5,000 ex-students to attend the celebration.

Schedule for the occasion will include an executive council meeting at 2:30 p.m., Friday, Oct. 26; registration in the lobbies of Lubbock hotel and Plainsman hotel at 5 p.m. the same day; a pre-game pep rally at 7 p.m.

Four reunion sessions are planned on Friday for the exes, McElroy said. A dance will be held in the gym starting at 9 p.m. for ex-Techans. Saturday morning, Oct. 27, will be occupied with early breakfasts, coffees, and receptions by clubs, sororities, fraternities and societies. The annual Homecoming parade is scheduled for 10 a.m., followed by a luncheon in the Tech gymnasium.

Veterans Administration Warns GI Checks Will Be Late This Fall

Veteran's Administration has warned GI students training in colleges and universities their subsistence checks may be late in coming this fall.

Delays in sending checks are a result of heavy GI enrollments this fall and reductions in VA office personnel.

When the checks are sent, it was added, they will include all payments due up to the last preceding month.

Veteran-students can help matters, VA said, by refraining from writing to the agency about the delays. Replies to letters take time that otherwise could be spent processing subsistence checks.

HALFBACK SCORER Jim Turner is off to a good season with two tallies in the Tech-West Texas game last Saturday.

Raiders Branded Underdogs In Game With Aggies Tomorrow

Tech's Red Raiders resume an old rivalry with the Texas Aggies at 8 p.m. tomorrow. Although meeting for the first time in Dallas' Cotton Bowl, the two teams have played eleven previous games.

A&M is rated a two-touchdown favorite over Tech for this contest, but Tech Head Coach DeWitt Weaver says, "We won't be afraid of them. Sports writers all over the nation have rated the Aggies as the seventh best team in the U.S., and we are probably rated about 200th. If you win or lose it's a gamble, and if you do lose, that's all there is to it."

Both teams will be working under the directorship of new coaches. Weaver will pilot the Tech crew in their second game since his arrival at the school, and Ray George will be coaching the Aggie eleven.

The Aggies hold a decided edge in the series which began in 1927. Of the eleven games played Tech has managed to win only two of them. A&M has won the other nine contests and there have been no ties. The series has formerly been held in San Antonio's Alamo stadium, but will be moved to Dallas this year.

Chief ground gainer for the Aggie crew is All-American candidate, Bob Smith. Smith was responsible for the Tech downfall in their last two encounters with the Aggies. Smith's total yardage gained last year was a tremendous 2,986.

George has not built a team around a single player, however. When the Aggies met UCLA in Los Angeles last week Smith was held in reserve by his head mentor in favor of a surprising pass attack. Making the trip for Tech will be 48 players, five coaches and a doctor. Elmer Wilson, a standout freshman back from Pampa, will not be able to participate in Saturday's game because of injuries suffered in practice sessions this week. Others on the ailing list for Tech are Pete Rinaldi, Alton Linne, Bobby Hunt and Ray Howard.

Weaver has been drilling his players this week on pass defense as well as running plays in an effort to strengthen Tech's chances of holding the Aggies in check. Many mistakes were made in Tech's game with West Texas State last week and the Raiders have been working hard all week trying to polish their defense and offense for tomorrow's game.

SENIOR RAIDER Bobby Close, 5-foot 11 inch halfback from Shamrock, will probably see action against the Aggies tomorrow in Dallas.

Withdrawal, Injuries Deplete Raider Line-Up; Week Of Scrimmage Prepares For Aggie Game

Tech's new Raiders whirled through a week of heavy scrimmage in preparation for this weekend's tilt with the Aggies in high spirit despite injuries of four teammates and the withdrawal of another from school.

Head Coach DeWitt Weaver announced Wednesday that Bobby Fudala, freshman halfback from Chicago, had withdrawn from college in order to return home. Personal reasons prevent the scabbak's continuance of classes. Fudala was all-city, all-area and all-state at Schurz high school, Chicago, in 1949. He was selected "Player of the Year" for Chicago after gaining 1,250 and scoring 109 points in his last high school season. Bob made a creditable showing in the opening game with Tech this year and will be missed, according to Weaver.

Confirmation then followed that freshman fullback Pete Rinaldi probably will not play against the Aggies tomorrow night. Rinaldi was sidelined last Saturday when he was cleated on the foot by a stray cleatless spike. The "New Jersey Bull" buffaloed his way to the goal dragging three opponents with him Saturday as he punched over one of the landslide of scores posted by the Raiders in the West Texas tussle.

Then in rapid succession, three Raiders have been laid up with injuries for an indefinite period. First, diminutive Elmer "Scooter" Wilson was knocked out. Secondary examination disclosed that he had suffered a concussion and may be out of action for at least two weeks. The "Scooter" had already endeared himself to Raider followers with his sensational punt run-back against the Buffaloes.

That was followed by Barton Massey, all-American high school center from Bowie, Texas, injuring his left leg, both at the knee joint and at the ankle. He may not see action tomorrow night.

Jack Bass, the Mississippi all-stater, then re-injured his right arm. However, he will probably be used against the Aggies.

In spite of these blows the Raiders left this morning with the intention of making a good showing in the Cotton Bowl.

American Chemical Society Will Hold Meeting Monday

American Chemical society will have its first meeting of the school year at 7:15 p.m. Monday in CG, according to David Smiley, vice president.

The organization is for chemists, pre-med majors and chemical engineers.

Other officers of the club are Henry King, president; Bettie LeSturgeon, secretary; Harry Parker, treasurer. Sponsor is W. M. Slagle, professor of chemistry.

Foot

BALL-pointed pennings . . .

By Jimmie Henley

As Tech heads into its first major game of the season, the prospects are definitely against the Raiders despite their on-sided victory over the visiting Buffaloes last week.

They must again face the celebrated running of Aggie fullback Bob Smith, who spelled the difference for the Aggies at San Antonio in 1949 and 1950.

When the Raiders journey to Dallas Friday they have as much as 14 points spotted to them by the "experts." While we feel sure that the "experts" have the Aggies doped rather accurately, we wonder if Tech has been underrated.

While a considerable margin must be allowed for the fact that West Texas is far below the standard of last year, 46 points are not to be sneezed at when it is scored with several freshmen on the squad.

On the other hand, it must also be considered that West Texas was playing freshmen. The Aggies will have none. That might be argued to their disadvantage, since they will have no Elmer Wilson, the Pampa freshman who scored the first time he touched a pigskin in collegiate football.

From the opening game it is obvious that the Raiders have a scoring machine that will be fairly effective even against the bigger teams.

But, all too much like Coach DeWitt Weaver predicted in the Raider brochure, Tech's only sure way of scoring may be after receiving the kick after the opponent's td.

That is rather underestimating the Raider defense. But the statistics of the Saturday game show all too clearly that the Raiders' defense is not at the standards of past years.

However, it is not the statistics, but the score that counts. Tech has the needed scoring punch which it lacked last year.

In the light of the Aggies' rating, the speed of Bob Smith and the aerial attack unfurled by Coach Ray George against UCLA as opposed to Tech's inexperienced, but scorehappy freshmen, we will venture A&M 34, TECH 27.

While the Raiders promise greater football fortunes for Tech (and we are not referring to the famed $400,000), on the local front good touch football is in the offing as the intramural season begins to take shape.

Expect to see two Lubbock High school stars and Red Raider hopefuls playing intramural football this season. Denton Lambert will likely be in the backfield for the BSU and Garnett Reeves will be playing for Kemas in the Social Club league.

Tracksters Meet Scheduled Monday

George Scott has called a meeting of men interested in track for 5 p.m. Monday at the old stadium.

Scott, football trainer and track coach, plans to start working on distance running immediately. He has planned meets with both Abilene Christian College in Abilene and North Texas State college in Denton.

Most of the track team will be made up of non-scholarship students. Some assistance will be offered to those participating in the program if they qualify, but the Athletic Department is limiting its number of track scholarships.

The school will furnish all equipment, however.

Track meets in which Tech will participate next spring are the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show relays in Fort Worth, Odessa Relays, Texas Relays, Drake Relays, Border Conference meet, Albuquerque meet and the Kansas Relays.

Philbrick Urges Intramural Entries; Football Games Will Begin On Oct. 8

Tech's intramural season got underway last week with the opening of entries in touch football, the first sport in the men's intramural program.

Entries in intramural football close Thursday and play will begin Oct. 8. As last year, entries will be in three leagues, the Independent league, Dorm league and MICC league.

George Philbrick, director of intramural sports, is hopeful for a big year in intramurals. He urges that freshmen find a place in some sport their first year.

The purpose of intramurals is five-fold, Philbrick explains. It is aimed at placing the student in a sport that "adds to his enjoyment of college life, makes worthwhile friendships, develops and maintains his endurance and organic power, gives him relief from the strain of continuous mental effort and gives him the activity necessary for proper functioning of his vital organs."

Last year 17 teams competed in touch football in the three leagues. Sneed hall won the Dorm league, the Baptist Student union won the Independent league and Los Camaradas were victorious in the Men's Inter-Club Council league. BSU defeated Sneed and Los Cams for the college championship.

In other sports there were 30 entries in basketball and 35 teams in softball. In all there were 1,907 men participating in the intramural program.

Sports in the intramural program are touch football, tennis, handball, table tennis, basketball, swimming, bowling, fencing, free throws, badminton, volleyball, softball, horseshoes, golf and track. A schedule of dates for entries and for start of play in the various sports will be published next week.

Campus Locksmith Praises Teachers

Teachers are not so absent-minded if you take the word of J. H. Grimsley, who is locksmith for the Tech campus. Grimsley said teachers hardly ever lock themselves out of their classrooms.

Grimsley, who has been at Tech since 1928, reports that the materials situation gives him much more trouble than absent-minded professors. Tech's "Jimmy Valentine" said that he services about 4,200 locks scattered over the campus.

He said he helped the departments move into the Chemistry and Engineering buildings when he first came here 23 years ago. Before Grimsley came to Tech, he was locksmith at Oklahoma College for Women at Chickasha, Okla. for 12 years.

Grimsley is assisted in his duties by James Lee Benton so the next time you get locked in the shower, direct someone to fetch Grimsley or Benton "on the double."

Committee Issues Float Invitations To Campus Clubs

Invitations to participate in the 1951 Homecoming parade have been mailed to campus organizations, according to Harold Brannan, Homecoming committee chairman.

The Homecoming parade, a part of the annual Homecoming celebration, has been set for 10 a.m. Saturday, October 27. Trophies and plaques to be awarded winning floats will be announced at a later date, Brannan said.

An organization which has not received an invitation by the end of next week, and which wishes to participate in the parade, has been urged to contact Brannan at the student council office, west wing of the Ad building, or to call the Ex-Students office, extension 428.

Serving on the Homecoming committee with Brannan are Brian Boyett, Rodney Balke, Melvin Brock, Nancy Davis and Jane Foster.

Boyett, an agriculture student, and Rodney Balke, engineering, are in charge of parade planning.

Handling the campus lighting and decoration will be Brock, engineering student. Miss Davis, arts and sciences, is in charge of registration, and Miss Foster, home economics, will handle plans for the annual Ex-Students luncheon to be held following the parade, at noon Saturday.
