Tentative dates scheduled for swine flu vaccination

By NAN BURK
UD Reporter

Tentative dates for administering the swine flu vaccine on the Tech campus are Oct. 13-14, according to Dr. Reagan Gibbs, director of the Tech Student Health Center.

Region Two of the Texas Department of Health Resources, which includes Lubbock and surrounding counties, received 30,000 doses of the monovalent vaccine Tuesday, according to Dr. John P. Board, director of public health for TDHR Region Two.

"WE ARE anticipating another 10,000 doses of the monovalent vaccine and 30,000 doses of the bivalent vaccine later this week," Board said. The vaccine is to be distributed throughout the 32 counties in Region Two, he said.

The monovalent vaccine is for the swine flu strain only. The bivalent vaccine also includes a vaccine against the Victorian flu strain.

Gibbs said he has contacted officials at the University Center to work out arrangements for setting up the immunization program at the UC. The ballroom is the most probable location for the program, he said.

THE VACCINE is free and is available on campus to all Tech students, faculty, staff and their dependents, Gibbs said. Informed consent forms must be signed before the vaccine is administered, Gibbs said. The forms will be available at the time of the immunization.

Gibbs said the vaccine will be administered with a jet injection gun, which speeds the vaccination process and allows more people to be vaccinated in a short time.

"We hope to have four or five injection guns so we can get most of the people on campus immunized in two or three days," Gibbs said.

VOLUNTEERS ARE needed to help with distribution of the consent forms and other information, Gibbs said.

"For every person giving the vaccine, we need about 15 people to help distribute the forms and file them," Gibbs said.

Texas received one million doses of the vaccine, which are to be distributed throughout the state. Priorities for receiving the vaccine are high population density areas and transportation centers, Board said. Transportation centers are areas where people are moving in and out frequently, he said.

TECH RANKS high in priority for the vaccine, Board said, because of the high population density and the mobility of the students.

The vaccine cannot be administered until Oct. 1, Board said, because of federal indemnity regulations. The immunization program will begin in the district Monday, he said.

Additional doses of the vaccine are expected to be delivered in one- to two-week intervals, he said.

Fair souvenir

Half the fun of going to the fair is buying a souvenir hat with your name sewn on it. Even if you wear it only at the fair, it still makes a good room decoration. This woman is sewing one of the many hats she has probably sold during the South Plains Fair's eight day run. (Photo by Norm Tindell)

Local radio station changes format from news to music

Lubbock radio's venture into an all-news format will officially end today at noon, according to Larry Ackers, President and General Manager of radio station KEND.

A new format, to be called "Country 16" will kickoff today at noon, and according to Ackers, will have a lineup of music, personalities, news and contests unlike any station in the Lubbock market.

Heading the list of personalities on "Country 16" will be well known radio veteran Lew Dee, and KEND's new program director, former television newsmen Chuck Hall.

The station has been an all-news operation since November of 1975, and according to Ackers, the all-news format made "definite progress in the Lubbock radio market." Ackers added that the change was due to several factors, but the main reason was "when something better comes along, like we have with the 'Country 16' format, then you have to make the change."

The first full day of the new format will be Monday, when Lew Dee once again begins his morning show.

Hall said the format would be a semi-progressive to progressive country format, with heavy listener participation and an array of contests and special features.

News will continue to be part of KEND's format. News director James Littleton will be joined by Bill Bandy with the emphasis placed on breaking news. Both Littleton and Bandy remain at KEND from the all-news format.

Tougher standards eyed for A&S dean's list

By WIN GOLDMAN
UD Staff

Procedures to correct inflationary grades in Tech's College of Arts and Sciences will begin next week, according to James Culp, associate dean in Arts and Sciences.

Culp said a dean's sub-committee will recommend a grade point average (GPA) increase from 3.0 to 3.5 as minimum requirement for the dean's honor list in the College of Arts and Sciences.

The request will be made to the administrative council. If passed by the council, the proposed GPA increase will be decided upon by the dean's council.

Culp said if the request is passed, the GPA requirement increase may go into effect sometime between December and next year.

More than 2,000 students in Arts and Sciences made at least a 3.0 last spring. The 2,000 figure is nearly half the students in the Arts and Sciences College, Culp said.

Culp said he felt the college is overcrowded and has become too easy. Students and faculty today have more outside activities which conflict with school, he said.

Because of this conflict, Culp said grading and general school work have become too lax. "The dean's list no longer means anything," Culp said.

Many universities have already raised their dean's list requirements, Culp said.

Counseling subject of Tech conference

About 130 Texas and Eastern New Mexico high school counselors are expected to attend the first High School Counselor's Conference at Tech today.

Counselors from as far away as Houston have indicated they are coming to the one-day, concentrated orientation into the offerings and facilities of Tech, Marc Scott, associate dean of admissions and records, said. "The purpose of the conference is to provide the counselors with as much information about Tech as possible in a short period of time," Jessie Rangel, Tech admissions counselor and conference coordinator, said.

At the morning session, beginning at 8:30 a.m., associate deans from the colleges and schools of the university will outline their academic programs. Other subjects include financial aids, tests and evaluation, admissions standards and honors programs in the afternoon session.

Housing and student affairs also will be outlined.

Tech students will give the counselors a perspective on the high school counselor's role, from the point of view of the student who has already gone to college, according to Rangel.

Dr. Floyd Perry, Jr., associate vice president for academic affairs and dean of admissions, will speak at the conference luncheon in the University Center Ballroom. Later, bus tours of the campus are scheduled with Saddle Tramps, a student spirit organization, guiding.

All hotels booked up for Tech-A&M game

Tech students who plan to attend the Texas A&M game should buy tickets and arrange motel accommodations soon.

According to the Chamber of Commerce in Bryan, hotels and motels in Bryan and College Station were full as soon as the football schedules were announced.

The only town in which Holiday Inn has any rooms available is Temple, 100 miles from A&M, according to the national reservation center. Ramada Inn has rooms available in both Temple and Waco, also 100 miles from A&M. Rodeway Inns are completely sold out in the area, according to their national reservation center.

Student tickets for the game will go on sale on Monday, October 4. Two thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight tickets are available. Students can purchase a maximum of four tickets of which only two can be guest-spouse tickets.

Regents meeting

The Tech Board of Regents convened Thursday at 5 p.m. and went immediately into executive session. The board will issue a statement today concerning the shared costs between the Tech Medical School and the Lubbock County Hospital District, which was discussed in the executive session.

The Board reconvenes today at 8:30 a.m., beginning with business of the Med School, followed by university items.

VD symptoms, treatments discussed

By DEBBIE WHITNEY
UD Reporter

A lot of people are getting it these days, and "when they do, they wish they hadn't."

Venereal disease cases are on the increase nation-wide, according to Paul Clay, public health representative from the Texas Department of Health Resources.

AS FAR AS Lubbock is concerned, though, Clay sees only a slight increase in syphilis and no increase in gonorrhea.

Clay feels higher VD rates are the result of more cases actually being reported, more people getting check-ups and more cases occurring.

Clay estimated that 45 cases of infectious syphilis will be reported in the city this year with approximately 2,300 cases of gonorrhea.

FIFTY PER CENT of venereal disease cases reported in the last two or three years have been in the 15-23 age bracket, Clay said. He looks for no shift in the age bracket this year.

Syphilis and gonorrhea are the main venereal diseases, Clay said, although another disease, Herpes II, was greatly blown out of proportion in a "Reader's Digest" magazine article two years ago. Clay said Herpes II has been in existence for a long time and is not even a true venereal disease.

Symptoms of gonorrhea in males include a pus-like discharge from the penis within 2-14 days after contact or a burning sensation while urinating. If the disease is not treated, it can lead to sterility and can spread to other organs. Clay said cases rarely get to such severe degrees, possibly because the infected male is in so much pain he will seek help.

AN INFECTED female, on the other hand, will probably not have any symptoms, Clay said. If she does, she may feel a slight irritation in the genital area or experience a discharge. Clay said, though, that females sometimes discharge anyway, so discharge may not be a sign of gonorrhea.

If the female does not know she has gonorrhea, the disease may lead to a massive internal infection. The infection is detrimental to child-bearing and can affect other organs.

The main sign of syphilis infection is a sore at the site of contact with an infected person within 10-90 days after contact.

IF SYPHILIS goes untreated, secondary symptoms include hair loss, swelling of the groin and most frequently, a rash on the palms, Clay said.

Over a course of years, he said, syphilis can hit the spinal column and later cause insanity.

Clay said an approximate 5,000 people in Texas were institutionalized last year with syphilitic insanity.

THE THREE programs Clay feels are most effective in reducing venereal disease cases are volunteer clinics for disease treatment, private physician work and lab reports and reports to epidemiologists from infected people and all their contacts.

Another possibility of increased disease, Clay said, may be more sexual activity, especially with more available birth control devices. Contraceptives, though, Clay said, do not prevent venereal disease.

Clay said the best place to get treatment is with the person's private physician since he knows the most about the person's medical history.

YOUNG PEOPLE though, he said,

Briscoe over his head--again

Gov. Dolph Briscoe thinks too many students are getting college educations.

Briscoe, at a meeting with the Texas College Coordinating Board Sept. 15, said that an "oversupply" exists of college students majoring in certain fields. The governor mentioned specifically such "glutted" fields as education, journalism and law. Those fields, he said, are causing a "waste of human resources as well as the taxpayer's funds."

Briscoe said students majoring in such fields go through four years of an education process, receive a degree and then can't get a job.

HE EXPLAINED that his only interest is in making education more accountable for the tax dollars spent.

Briscoe requested that the coordinating board install programs informing high school students of the "tight" job market in certain college-oriented fields. "They (high school students) need to know that a college education doesn't guarantee a job," he added.

Obviously, Briscoe doesn't keep up with the latest enrollment figures. All three of the majors that he specifically mentioned as over-producing graduates have shown a decline this semester at Tech. In fact, education majors at Tech and the University of Texas have had a steady decline for the past three and four years, respectively.

A 1974 RAND Corporation report, which forecast the job market for teachers in the 1970s, suggested that the projected teacher surplus of the 1970s has been over-estimated. In fact, a distinct possibility that a shortage of teachers will emerge in the early to mid-1980s, according to the report.

Briscoe doesn't seem to realize that colleges and universities must keep producing graduates in all fields, because of a natural attrition rate. Some teachers or lawyers leave the field for instance, so new graduates can take their places.

High school students should be able to make up their own minds about the degree they will pursue in college, without governmental interference. Briscoe doesn't seem to realize there are many avenues available besides the obvious in the fields of education, law, journalism, etc.

It is true that both journalism and law oriented jobs are hard to find in major Texas cities, such as Houston and Dallas, and in areas such as Lubbock and Austin, which have major universities. But jobs in those fields are in abundance in smaller, out-of-the-way places in our state. Those jobs may not be as glamorous, but let's face it, they're jobs and not bad ones at that.

Tech Education Dean Robert H. Anderson makes another good point in reply to Briscoe's statements. "He (Briscoe) is not thinking of the inherent value of the educational experience regardless of what program the student receives a degree in," Anderson said.

Briscoe's basic aim is praiseworthy. Both students and taxpayers should get their dollar's worth in higher education. But trying to "head 'em off at the pass" with negatively oriented high school counseling is not the path to quality education.

Teaching hospital study should be made public

If you can't figure out what's going on with the Tech Med School and the county hospital district, don't worry. No one else understand it either.

And don't expect to get any simple answers anytime in the near future. A preliminary report on projected operating costs of the Health Sciences Center Hospital won't be released to the public for a while, and the two boards involved in the dispute haven't set a definite date for a joint meeting at which to discuss the report.

MAX CARAWAY, an accountant hired by the Lubbock County Hospital District (LCHD) and the Tech Board of Regents as a consultant in the hospital dispute, has been working on the report for about a month. Caraway presented his report to the LCHD board recently, but the report was presented in closed session and was not made public. Harold Coston, LCHD executive director, said the board was operating on the assumption the report contained preliminary figures and might be misleading or erroneous.

But when, if at all, will the figures be made public? The hospital, under the present agreement, will be operated by the county and supported by county tax dollars. Therefore, don't the Lubbock County taxpayers have a right to know what's going on with the teaching hospital, since their tax dollars are directly involved?

HOW LONG WILL it be before this dispute is solved and the hospital is assured of opening on schedule? With all the controversy the hospital situation has created, one would think the regents and the hospital district would be anxious to get these cost figures out in the open so the shared services dilemma could be worked out. Closed sessions and private reports only prolong the agony of an unsolved problem.

For those who need a little background, the 245-bed teaching hospital, also known as the Health Sciences Center Hospital and connected to the Med School, is the center of the dispute. In 1973, LCHD and the Med School made what was termed an agreement (although the document is vague and is the basis for the dispute) which more or less outlined which services Tech would provide and which services the county would provide.

So what's the problem? The two boards failed to come to an agreement on the costs of these services, and the costs of these services are the sore spot of the situation. That's where Caraway comes in.

GRANTED, BOTH THE hospital district and the regents are tired of haggling over the shared services, and both would like to solve this mess. But why has it taken so long to get going? Why wasn't the shared services dispute solved three years ago, before the hospital was almost finished?

The hospital is scheduled to open in June for staffing purposes. And the first patients are expected to be admitted next September.

Let's hope these people don't have to enter a shell of a hospital because the hospital district and Med School officials are still fighting a three-year-old battle on the teaching hospital battleground.

A&M ticket sale policy clarified

To The Editor:

In order to clear up many of the questions asked about the Texas A&M game, I felt it necessary to spell out the Student Association Policy mentioned in The University Daily yesterday. There will be 2,088 student tickets available for the Texas A&M game distributed among seven (7) different sections. A maximum number of four (4) student half-price tickets may be purchased upon presentation of four (4) validated IDs.

Tickets may be purchased in the following ways:

1. One student may bring in four validated IDs and purchase four student half-price tickets.
2. One student may bring in three validated IDs and purchase three student half-price tickets and one spouse-guest full price tickets.
3. One student may bring in two IDs and purchase two student half-price tickets.
4. One student may bring in one ID and purchase one student half-price ticket and one spouse-guest full price ticket.

A&M tickets go on sale at 9 a.m. Monday. To avoid having students stay up all night, the Student Association has proposed a number card system that will guarantee students a place in line. These cards will be issued Sunday night between 6 and 7. Those students with numbered cards are asked to report to the Athletic Ticket Office at 8:30 a.m. to resume their positions in line. Students without numbered cards will be placed at the back of the line.

It is our hope that this system will help relieve problems encountered in the past.

Appropriations bill overridden

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House voted today to override President Ford's veto of a $56.6 billion appropriation bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

The vote was 312 to 93, 42 more than the two thirds needed to override.

It left the final decision to the Senate, which was expected to act promptly.

Ford had said the bill was inflationary, calling for $4 billion more spending than he had recommended for the departments.

Viking 2 finds no life

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - The Viking mission's chances of finding life on Mars were dealt a blow Thursday when latest data from the Viking 2 robot showed no sign of organic material in the Martian soil.

Life as we know it is not possible without organics—tiny chains of carbon atoms—and neither of the Viking landers have found organic matter in their probes of Mars' red soil.

Gentry Lee, director of the mission's science analysis, said there was still the possibility of life on Mars but admitted that it was difficult to "explain no organics."

Derby Day set today, Saturday

By DAWN OGLETREE
UD Staff

Sigma Chi fraternity will host the annual Sigma Chi Derby Day today and Saturday, according to Jeff Crannell, derby daddy.

Sorority pledges will participate in competition games, Crannell said. Derby Day is open to all spectators.

Today at 8 a.m., activities will begin with several events in which sororities compete for points. In the Mystery Derby event, pledges will search the campus for the Mystery Derby won by an alumnus or older brother in the fraternity. In the Derby Smile event, pledges will receive a derby if they make a Sigma Chi smile.

The Hidden Derby event, scheduled to begin at noon, will lead the pledges on a scavenger hunt for a derby hidden on campus. Thirteen derbies are hidden, one for each sorority. Three clues will be provided.

Today at 4:30 p.m., the pledge classes will present skits in the R-2 football field, across from Stangel - Murchough. Skits are limited to eight minutes, and all props must be hand-made.

Branding, the contest in which the fraternity brands the back of the sorority members jeans with white paint and a Sigma Chi brand, will begin Saturday at 9 a.m.

Actual game competition will start at 9:30 a.m., following the branding.

Competition games include tug-a-war, egg-toss, tricycle race, flour power, Don Quixote, whip cream shuffle, holy mackerel and mystery events for the sorority members and coaches.

Four trophies will be presented to the sororities who total the most points in each division. There are the Derby, Spirit, Games and Sweepstakes Trophies. The Sweepstakes Trophy will be awarded to the sorority having the highest number of points in all categories.

A Derby Doll candidate from each pledge class was judged Thursday night by a panel of Sigma Chi alums and Crannell. The Sigma Chi Derby Doll will be announced at the end of the games Saturday afternoon.

Trophies will be awarded at 1 p.m. Saturday. An All-Greek mixer will follow Derby Day activities.

Social welfare may get accreditation

BY JEAN MOHR
UD Staff

Accreditation may be granted to the social welfare program of the sociology department by next March or April, according to Jerry Matthews, director of the undergraduate social welfare program in the sociology department.

Accreditation would inform professionals in social welfare that students graduating with a degree from an accredited program have the minimal level of skills, knowledge, and competency, Matthews said.

STUDENTS WITH a degree from an accredited program often facilitates their rapid promotion by social welfare agencies, Matthews said. Of the 80 social welfare graduate schools in the United States, about half have some arrangement whereby graduates of an accredited program may receive an advanced standing and reduce the two-year graduate program.

Social welfare became a separate major within the department of sociology in 1970, Matthews said. Tech's social welfare program applied for approval status from the Council on Social Work Education in New York City in fall 1970.

Approval status was granted to Tech's program, and, by meeting council standards, was maintained until 1974, Matthews said.

HOWEVER, THE council changed its standards in status which became effective July 1, 1974, Matthews said. Accreditation status was a part of the change. The council said all programs with approval status as of July 1, 1974, would maintain approval status for one year but must apply for accreditation within that year.

Tech's social welfare program submitted an application for accreditation in July 1974, Matthews said. A sight-visit team was sent out in January 1975 by the council to study the program. The application was refused in April 1975.

Inadequate faculty resources, need for additional courses to complete the basic social welfare curriculum, and lack of visibility of the program on campus were reasons given by the council for denying Tech's application, Matthews said.

AFTER DENIAL, the social welfare program's efforts to meet the council's standards included adding five social welfare courses, developing guidelines and controls for enrollment, and adding a stipulative minor to aid in a human behavior program, Matthews said.

A rewritten application for accreditation was submitted in March 1976, but a technicality caused Tech's social welfare program to be withdrawn from a review in June.

Tech is currently on the agenda for review by the council in November.

Matthews said the program will either be adequate enough on paper to warrant further review or will require additional information about specific areas of the program that will then warrant review.

Approximately 100 students are currently enrolled in the social welfare program at Tech, Matthews said.

ON YOUR CASE

Students are told to read more pamphlets and catalogues than any other segment of society. I must admit that even after 11 years of law practice I don't carefully read all of those publications that control and direct my daily life. I am not about to set priorities and suggest, "If you never read anything else, you must read..." However, since traffic and parking concerns so many members of the University community, I do suggest spending ten minutes to read the campus traffic and parking regulations.

Q: Why do I have to go to municipal court on a ticket for running a red light when the charge arose on campus?

A: The state law grants municipal courts the jurisdiction (authority) to handle on-campus moving violations.

Q: Are all moving violations city tickets?

A: Yes.

Q: What about parking tickets?

A: No. Persons whose automobiles have campus parking permits receive pink (campus) tickets. Vehicles that are not registered on campus receive yellow (city) tickets.

Q: Are they handled differently?

A: Yes. Pink parking ticket appeals must be submitted in writing within 48 hours to the Traffic and Parking Counselor. Instructions for appeal are found on the back of the ticket. To appeal a yellow parking ticket, the owner of the vehicle should appear in municipal court on the date in the upper right hand corner of the ticket and plead not guilty. In either event, contact your legal office for detailed assistance.

Q: A parking ticket is $2.00 in Abilene, how can Tech charge $5.00?

A: Texas has no uniform fine schedule. The basic law is that for a traffic offense a person may be fined not less than $1.00 nor more than $200.00. Consequently, fines vary across the state.

Q: I parked six hours in a two hour zone; when I came back to my car, I had two tickets. How can I get two tickets for one offense?

A: Actually it is more than one offense. The expiration of every two hour period is a new and separate offense.

Q: Why are parking tickets hard to beat?

A: If there is any such thing as the yes or no legal offense, it is the parking ticket. Ordinarily, the charge is a simple question of fact. The car was parked overtime or it wasn't; part of the vehicle extended over the yellow line or it didn't; the car was in a nondesignated area or it wasn't. Such defenses as "I didn't see the sign," "I was in a hurry," "Everyone else was illegally parked," or "Someone was in my place," are not valid legal defenses. I understand these "human element" defenses and I know of some cases in which they have worked, BUT don't count on it.

Q: Does a mistake on a traffic ticket invalidate the ticket?

A: Unfortunately, this is not a yes or no question. The popular misconception is that any mistake invalidates a ticket. Wrong!! Most simple errors do not invalidate a ticket. Really, the answer is up to the judge. Judges vary and they have different standards as to what constitutes what many lawyers refer to as a "fatal" mistake. A typical example of a mistake that could invalidate a ticket is one where the ticket charges the driver with the wrong offense.

Q: I received a ticket in Sweetwater on my way back to Lubbock. May I call or write the judge to present my case?

A: No. Defense of a traffic ticket may not be conducted by long distance anymore than you could defend a major crime by phone or letter. You have a right to plead not guilty. If you do, it necessitates posting bond and returning to Sweetwater for your trial. It is possible that an attorney in Sweetwater could handle it for you and may even get it dismissed. Both of these procedures are expensive.

Q: Is a broken speedometer a defense to a speeding ticket?

A: I can give a 99 per cent answer, no. I am leaving room for 1 per cent of doubt because it is up to the judge. People have been found not guilty on practically every defense imaginable, but strictly speaking, a broken speedometer is not a defense; nor, are oversized tires.

Q: By what authority are tickets issued to bicyclist for traffic violations?

A: The Texas legislature included bicycles in the traffic law. In summary, the law states that bicyclists are subject to all the duties applicable to the driver of a vehicle. Tickets are issued on campus for bicycle offenses.

Q: If I plead not guilty to a traffic ticket and lose my case, will it cost me?

A: Ordinarily, no. A $2.50 cost fee is assessed whether you go to court or not. The problem in stating an absolute no arises because of something I mentioned earlier. The fine may range anywhere from $1.00 to $200.00. I have seen a few cases where because of a person's poor attitude in court or because of some aggravating factor (such as bad conduct at the scene) a higher fine was ordered by the judge. Usually, the fine remains constant—trial or no trial.

Council picks top student

Joel Green, junior agriculture education major from Woodrow has been selected as September Aggie of the Month by Tech's Aggie Council.

Each month, agriculture students give this honor on the basis of leadership and academic excellence.

Green, treasurer of the Aggie Council, is a member of Collegiate Future Farmers of America and Phi Eta Sigma men's honorary, and has previously served on the Freshman Council and Tech Senate. He received the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo Scholarship.

Independence celebration
BY NANCY LUBKE
UD Staff

Lubbock Chapter of the Nigerian Students Union will celebrate Nigerian Independence Day Saturday at the American Legion, 2412 Ave. Q, according to Oliver Owaba, executive member of the special celebration committee.

"Nigerian Independence Day is actually Oct. 1, but since most of our friends are students we will celebrate Oct. 2," he said.

A discussion on Nigeria, a demonstration of traditional dances, a display of traditional foods and a fashion parade will begin at 8:30 p.m. Seventy-five invitations have been sent, Owaba said.

Those invited include "heads of departments who are familiar to us, people working for the International Student Center, friends and host families of Nigerian students," according to Chukwudi Eminah, president of the organization.

Foreign students are attached to a host family when they arrive at Tech for social reasons, Eminah said, and these families are "extremely helpful."

The disco dance at 10:30 p.m. will be open to all students, he said.

Theaters provide 'Fair' competition

By JOHNNY HOLMES
UD Fine Arts Editor

Let's go backwards before we go forward. Daddy's Money played for two hours Wednesday in the new University Center Courtyard. Like Mike Williams, Daddy's Money provided a lunchtime crowd with a super bit of entertainment for absolutely no cost. This new courtyard with its soft, squishy carpet and ample seating facilities, is an excellent place to spend some time and the UC people are to be wholeheartedly commended for giving us a great way to spend our midday breaks.

Now for the movies.

ARNETT-BENSON: "The Longest Yard," starring Burt Reynolds and "Death Wish," starring Charles Bronson and Vince Gardenia, are combined in a super action-packed double feature. "Longest Yard," is about an imprisoned hip pro quarterback who throws together a ragmop football team to challenge the prison guards. Although on its second time around, it's one of the best in town. "Death Wish" is Bronson as an architect bent on revenge.

BACKSTAGE I: "Sleeper" and "Love and Death," starring the man without feathers, Woody Allen and his sidekick, Diane Keaton. This is the place to be if you're looking for fun.

BACKSTAGE II: "Misty Beethoven" is supposedly the coming of age of Hollywood porn.

CINEMA WEST: "Burnt Offerings," starring Karen Black and Oliver Reed, is about demons and cults and exorcists and all that other good stuff.

FOX: "Great Scout and Cathouse Thursday," starring Lee Marvin, Oliver Reed and Kay Lenz, is about 1908 Colorado and some characters like an old Indian scout, a loco Indian half-breed and a too-young prostitute. Pretty amusing and Lee Marvin is great.

FOX II: "Obsession," starring Cliff Robertson and Genevieve Bujold, is about a man whose wife is murdered. He meets her look-alike and falls in love with her. A pretty spooky horror movie.

FOX III: "One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest," starring Jack Nicholson and Louise Fletcher, is about a guy placed in a sanitarium and what happens to him. This thing won every award in the world (well, almost) and is well worth the effort if you haven't yet seen it.

FOX IV: "Alice in Wonderland," starring Kristine de Bell, is the X-rated version of the classic Lewis Carroll fairytale.

LINDSEY: "Crime and Passion," starring Omar Sharif and Karen Black, is about a guy who gambles with love, money and eventually his life, hence the title.

MALL I: "If You Don't Stop It You'll Go Blind."

MALL II: "Dog Day Afternoon," starring Al Pacino in a semidocumentary about two desperados who rob a bank and watch the whole operation blow up in their faces. Super good, super intense, and Al Pacino very nearly copped an Oscar for his role.

SHOWPLACE I: "Sparkle" is about a Supremes-type singing group and their attempt at fame and fortune. The stars are all no-names like Mary Alice and Dawn Smith, and the movie's selling point is that the music was all composed by Curtis "Superfly" Mayfield and sung by Aretha Franklin.

SHOWPLACE II: "Treasure of Matecumbe," starring Joan Hackett and Vic Morrow, is about the search for this treasure.

SHOWPLACE III: "The Omen," starring Gregory Peck and Lee Remick, is about a couple with a young son possessed by the devil and what must be done to fix the mess.

SHOWPLACE IV: "The Big Bus," starring Joseph Bologna and Larry Hagman, is a terrific spoof on disaster movies. Parts of "Airport," "Airport 75" and "Towering Inferno" are combined to make a hilarious adventure about the biggest nuclear-powered bus in the world.

VILLAGE: "Mahogany," starring Diana Ross, is a soapy account of a singer and some of her trials and tribulations. Sort of a one man "Sparkle" from a different angle.

WINCHESTER: "Return of a Man Called Horse," starring Richard Harris, is the much awaited sequel to "Man Called Horse." Harris returns to the Indian territory he left at the end of "Horse" and picks up the story. It's received good reviews across the country and is greeted here with great expectations.

UNIVERSITY CENTER: "Alice in Wonderland" is not to be confused with the one showing at the Fox. This one is the real, animated G-rated version of the fairytale.

Advisor announces additional winners

John Griffis, freshman council advisor, announced the names of four additional off-campus council members Thursday.

Gilbert Boucher, Cindy Farris, Gary Johnson, and Ken Ross all won as the result of a write-in vote.

Two off-campus seats are still vacant. Freshmen interested in occupying the seats should contact John Griffis in the SA office. The four were omitted in Wednesday's story.

Who's going to guard the cannon?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Cowboys, a men's service organization at the University of Texas, was suspended today for threatening new members with cattle prods at an initiation ceremony.

McClintock said. He said additional disciplinary action involving individual members "is being pursued."

The organization is the one which is in charge of guarding the UT cannon.

"Even though the prods were not used to shock anyone and no one was injured, the use of the prods in a threatening manner is considered a violation of both state law and the regents' rules and regulations that prohibit hazing," said Dr. David McClintock, assistant dean of students.

McClintock said the club's status as a registered student organization has been suspended until Nov. 1.

"During the period of suspension, the Texas Cowboys will not be allowed to use university facilities for their official activities, sponsor public performances or engage in fund raising or other solicitation of any kind on the campus.

"Additional violations during the remainder of the academic year will render the organization subject to cancellation of its registration."

Picadors clipped

By JERRY BURLESON
UD Sports Editor

LITTLE ROCK, ARK. — The Tech Picadors came to Little Rock looking for a gusher, but they came up with a dry hole as the Arkansas Shoats handed the Tech squad a 19-3 opening game loss Thursday night.

It was a night of frustration for the Pics. Fumbles and costly penalties hurt the offense, while a steady, time-consuming Arkansas offense wore down the Tech defense.

The Pics got on the board first when Russell Wheatly booted a 38-yard field goal with 2:49 left in the first quarter. The drive covered 32 yards and took 7 plays. James Hadnot's 27 yard tight-end around run was the key play in the drive.

After trading punts, the Shoats took over on the Tech 34, with 11:57 remaining in the half. Twelve plays later QB Mike Scott threw 15 yards to Doyal Thomas for the touchdown. This is the same Mike Scott who quarterbacked the Razorback varsity to a win over Oklahoma State two weeks ago. The point after was wide and the half ended with Arkansas in front 6-3.

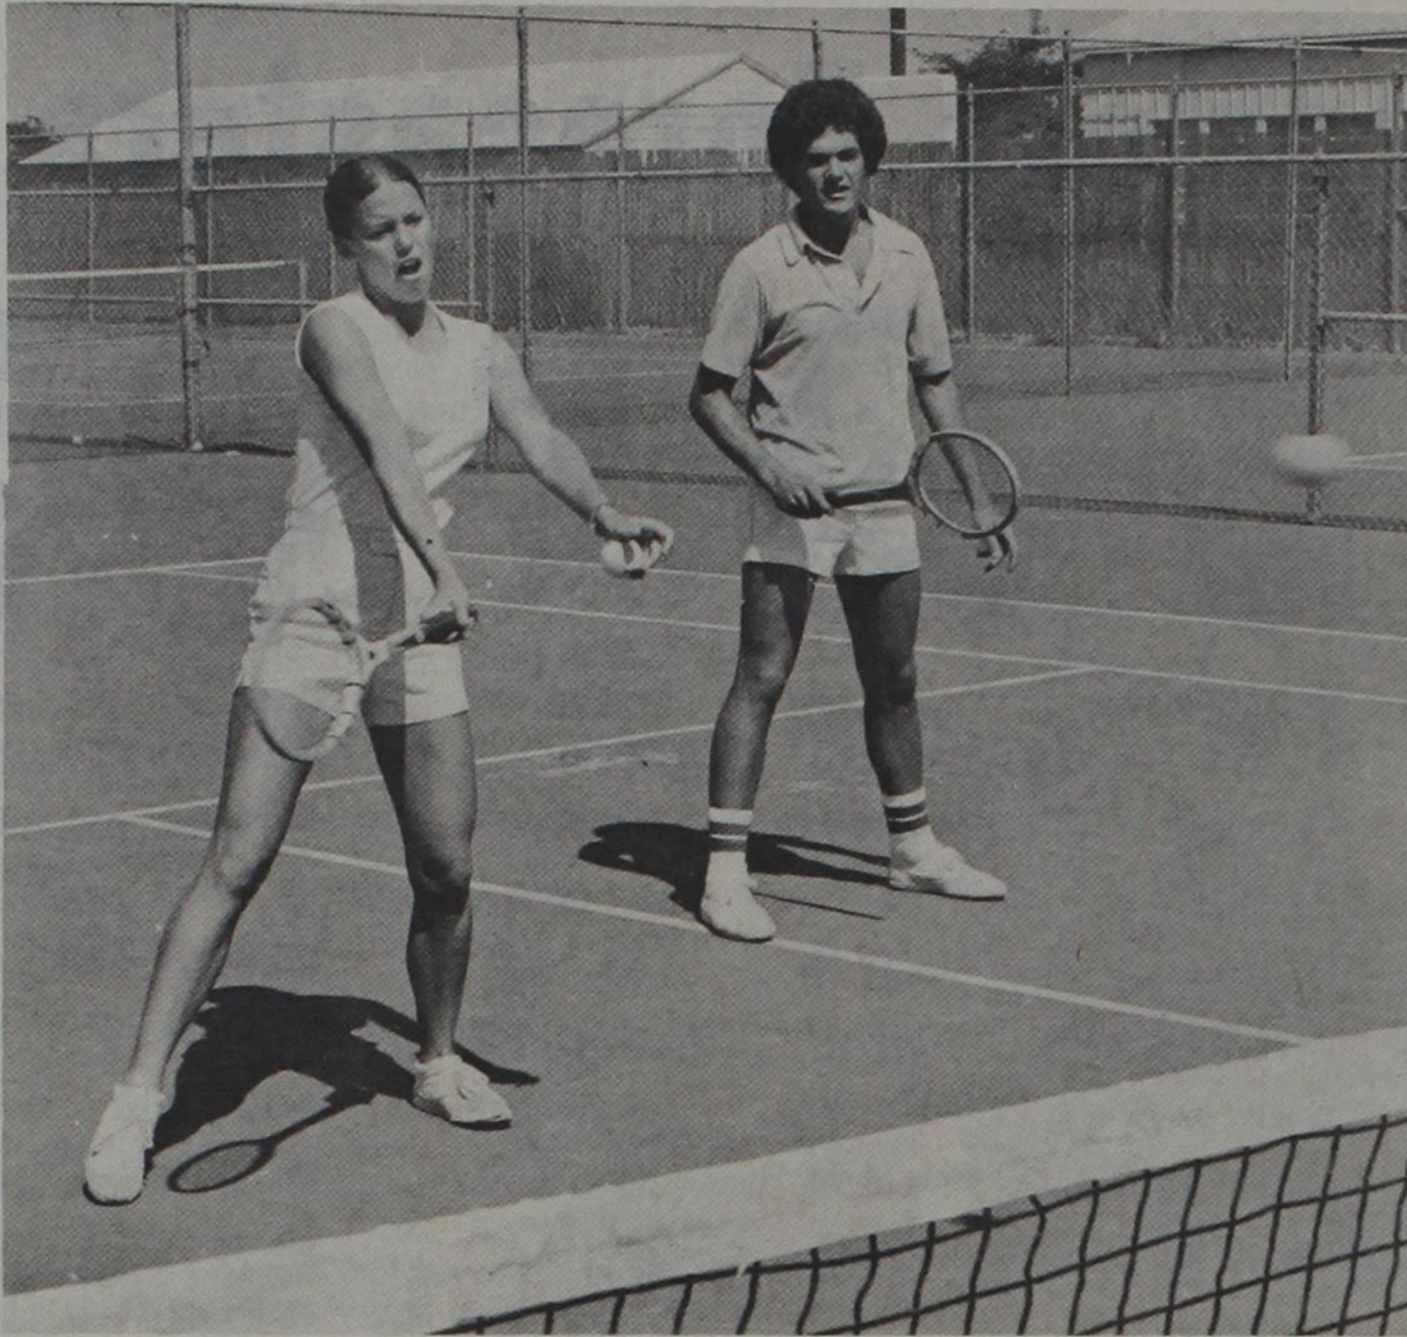

The Pics took the second half kickoff, but on the third play quarterback Johnny Johnson fumbled on the Tech 44. Scott needed only seven plays and three minutes to put the Shoats in the end zone, scoring on a two yard QB option play. The PAT was good by Russell Williams and the Shoats led 13-3.

Arkansas scored their last TD midway through the fourth quarter on an 80-yard, 11 play drive. Mark Montgomery went the final yard for the score. The extra point snap was fumbled and the Shoats led 19-3 with 2:52 remaining in the game.

The Pics finished the night with 175 yards rushing and 72 yards through the air. Sam Baily was the leading rusher for Tech with 67 yards on 18 carries.

The Shoats gained 269 yards, only 16 more than Tech. The difference in the game was the Pics' losing the four of eight fumbles and the 101 yards in penalties.

The brightest spot for the Pics was the play of Hadnot, who rushed for 47 yards on four carries and gained 59 yards on three receptions.

Mixed doubles

Teresea Williams, left, and David Crissey will represent Tech in a Pan-American sponsored mixed doubles tennis tournament. Others schools invited are Texas A&M, Texas and SMU.

SWC grid menu; Bears recall past

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Does Baylor ever remember South Carolina!

"We're going after them because we have a score to settle," says Baylor cornerback Gary Green, recalling last year's loss to the Gamecocks.

The Baylor - South Carolina match is one of the top inter-sectional matchups on this week's Southwest Conference football card that also has Texas Christian at Arkansas and Texas at Rice in SWC games.

Texas A&M is at Illinois and Southern Methodist is at Memphis State in non-conference games.

"We were terribly over confident the last time we played them (the Gamecocks)," Green said. "We had tied Auburn and Michigan and instead of figuring how we were going to beat South Carolina we were trying to decide by how much."

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff has lost three out of four collisions with teams coached by Jim Carlen.

Baylor is a three point favorite over South Carolina.

Arkansas is a 26 point choice over TCU, Rice is a 20 point underdog to Texas, Southern Methodist is a six point underdog to Memphis State and Texas A&M is a one-point pick over Illinois.

Aggie Coach Emory Ballard figures the Cadets will be at a psychological disadvantage against Illinois because of the beating Baylor inflicted on the Big Ten team.

"The way football is now, you have to be ready to play every week," Ballard said. "Any team we have left on the schedule can beat Texas A&M and we can beat any of them. But it's going to be a tough fight every week."

Some 60,000 fans were expected for the Rice - Texas game. Texas Coach Darrell Royal has a 15-3-1 record against the Owls.

Arkansas has won 17 consecutive games from TCU and the prospects are bright for making it 18 in a row.

"They'll have one of the best defensive teams we'll face all season," said TCU Coach Jim Shofner. "They really swarm around the football. That defense is what carried them to the Cotton Bowl last year."

SMU Coach Ron Meyer said Memphis State "has really an outstanding team and I don't say outstanding unless I mean it."

Houston, which leads the conference with a 2-0 ledger and unbeaten Texas Tech are idle.

Something for "clubbers" to think about.

There are night spots, and there are night spots. And if you're a clubber you probably know by now which places you really enjoy going to.

So what makes us think we'll ever get a crack at switching you? Well, we're going to try.

A lot of clubbers frequent discos, but when they're not bumping with their favorite partner they are ready for a change. A change like relaxing, sipping a cold beer, and talking to good friends.

Not surprisingly, what separates TOWNDRAW from ordinary bars is its friendly environment, quality drink and food, and sophisticated games.

Since you're the best judge of what you like best about clubs, don't just take our word for it.

Soccer team hungry for win

BY KIRK DOOLEY
UD Sports Editor

Tech soccer coach Sahab Ates is not having a problem getting his team up for the Midwestern game Saturday in Wichita Falls. But he still has a problem.

"I'm doing my best to calm them down," said Ates. "They want revenge very bad (from Tech's one point loss earlier in the season) because they played better and still lost. They were surprised early."

Midwestern scored three early goals in their last encounter with the Raiders to take a 4-3 win, although Tech controlled the ball more than the visitors.

Two key fullbacks, Rick Bjorkman and Sheen Smith were ejected from the last Midwestern tilt and after a brief suspension, both are back in the line-up.

"This team lacks the confidence it needs," said Ates about Tech. "But we are leaving the 4-2-4 line-up, the one I have been trying to teach them, for the 4-3-3, a formation which they are all used to and comfortable with."

Starting at fullback for Tech will be Bjorkman, Smith,

Larry Kelly and Vance Cheatham. Halfbacks will be Mark DeChellis, Dave Collins and Mike Benson with Juan Sanchez, Eugene Constantine and Lane Holmes on the front line. Eugene Barnes will start in goal.
