KEEP THE DRINKING FOUNTAINS CLEAN

A college is elevated high above the actions, manners and curricula of the average high school. Why then, is there a tendency for stunts, not even typical of a high school student, to be carried out in our college. To get straight to the point in the most concise manner, don't leave chewing gum in the drinking fountains.

Whether it be done unconsciously or through a decided neglect in training, neither is excusable. Stop and think! Chewing gum is bad enough on the bottom of chairs, thrown carelessly on the floors of prominent buildings, or stuck showily on the walls of residence houses, but in the drinking fountains it is absolutely undesirable, unsanitary and unquestionably an absurd detractive measure for the reputation of our institution.

Remember that there are two thousand students enrolled in Texas Tech and that the part each plays determines the welfare of every other student. Guard against disparaging actions that will reflect our characteristics to visiting strangers.

A NEW LEARNING

A great university is now in the making. Different from the regular academic institution of learning that teaches how and why things were done in the past. This new institution will be known as the first industrial university and is being built by Henry Ford. Dealing with what already is known and finding new uses for raw materials that will no doubt revolutionize industry and be the next greatest world advancement, students in the school are now at work in the well equipped laboratories on various economic problems.

The world has admired Mr. Ford as a financial wizard and now extolling words will greet him as an educational genius if his recent plan is a success. There is no doubt that much good will come from it.

"Nature wastes nothing. Civilization wastes more than it uses. That accounts for a good many of our economic pains," Mr. Ford says, and it was for that reason that he introduced the new school of learning. Solving problems of the waste conditions of our country will undoubtedly aid in lessening times of depression like the one we are now witnessing.

Students are to be thoroughly trained and prepared for the business world.

Here And There With The Office Boy

Well folks we do have aspirants to write for the Toreador. And here 'tis.

A student writes in that he is no professional composer of the so called English masterpieces but that he has fiddled down a few lines as a beginner.

Whether it be praise or sarcasm I will print it as written; According to Dean Gordon's speech at the last All College fun night, Floyd Woodridge is the Moses who lead the Liberal Arts intramural football squad from the wilderness into the football milk and honey. And how the engineers met their Waterloo. Woola we are for you. We are looking forward to the game between the Liberal Arts and the Trojans of Southern California.

Since the Varsity cagers have fought their battle and sang their last song they will soon be ready for the cinder path where James Foley can show the public that he is a Ding Dong Daddy from Meadow and you should see him do his stuff. However, Hodges is going out to gather his basket of strawberries in baseball.

Oh yes, have you noticed the interest taken in the Library lately? There is going to be a serious need for a bigger Library if this spring weather stays on much longer. Has any one noticed "Wild Oats" Jones talking to Mary Chauveaux. Webster had small vocabulary compared to that of Mr. Jones.

And so, folks, that is the end of the contribution to this column from some unknown person. We relish and wish that more writings of the students would come into this office but as has been stated before they must be signed by the student. The student's name will not printed if the author does not wish it but for safety first the contributor's name must be known. This will be the last article to be printed of the anonymous type, that is, it will be the last printed word for word. Some comment might be made on anything that appears in The Toreador office.

J. Frank Doble who now accomplished that which most men desire. He has become, in the eyes of critics, a famed writer. The reason for this is that he has written about the things that he knew best and the things that he loved.

I was once, in a most fortunate manner, struck with his western style and strangely but interestingly watched him practice shooting holes through a tin with his six-shooter.

In all happened on a fishing trip near the town of Junction on a small creek known as the south fork of the Johnson. While I was more or less busy helping catch enough fish for our meals or snoozing restfully under the shade of a large pecan tree, Mr. Doble found his intertainment by popping his pistol at either a live object or a tin can. So it can easily be seen that with a strong love for a western atmosphere, a born outdoor man, and well acquainted with cowboy terms, Mr. Doble found it much easier and more fascinating to write about the things that he had grown up with than something far distant.

Somebody remarked the other day that the students were lacking in interest. If this be true what is the trouble? Probably if there are few who have enough energy will write in a solution, like the world is today, trying to solve the period of depression, will solve Tech's period of sluggishness.

Again people talk excitedly of "Burning Air"

When a public display of gas lighting was given in London in 1802 to celebrate the Peace of Amiens, people talked excitedly of burning air. Napoleon called it a grand folly, and Sir Walter Scott wrote that the world was going mad.

This was ushered in the era of gas illumination. It lasted for 75 years. Then electricity stole the field and the gas giant dozed through a quarter century, used chiefly for kitchen cookery.

Now it reawakens in a changed world, to new possibilities, greater opportunities. Eighty thousand miles of pipe lines already laid, extensively equipped with Crane valves and fittings, prove that the old problem of transportation is solved. Pipe lines crisscrossing the country as numerous as electric power ones are freely predicted.

What has brought this second greater gas era? The answer is: piping materials. Thanks to these, gas men can say for the first time that they are able to pipe gas in enormous quantities from Amarillo gas fields to Chicago, from isolated natural gas fields to users everywhere.

No matter what field of engineering you take up on graduation, you will find its future and its growth interwoven with the development of piping materials. And, as in the past this development has, time after time, been first reflected in the complete Crane line, it will pay you to keep in touch with Crane research and Crane materials.

Marshall And Coker Promise "Thrill" In 1931 La Ventana

The life of a co-ed is one thrill after another. Occasionally the men find time to allow a thrill to creep into their life.

"Red" Waller gave hundreds of the students a thrill last Thanksgiving Day when he raced through the Simmons "Cowboys" for a touch-down. Clarence Hodges spent a portion of the winter months sending field goals swishing through the basket to bring cheers from the Matador rooters. "Flo" Marshall and "Country" Coker will furnish the next big thrill in the daily routine of the students.

Waller put his thrill across in less than forty seconds. Hodges added his thrills during eleven hours of basketball. Marshall and Coker will present their sensation after eight months of painstaking work. To go into detail concerning this year's La Ventana would be as atrocious as announcing the outcome of the Kentucky Derby before the horses left the post. The thrill is left for you.

Marshall's addition to the files of the college annual will take its place among the truly beautiful publications of the collegiate world. The clever editor has assembled an unusual number of sketches portraying life on the "Old Chisholm trail" and has devised means to work these scenes into the channels of his book. As one astonished guest in Marshall's studio explained, "Boy Flo, you sure have got something great fixed for the book"—and the onlooker was not wrong.

La Ventana's staff have labored to lift the book from the small college class. This year the publication will be on a par with the best in the State, if not the entire nation. Unquestionably the art work that carries out the theme of the book is superb.

Students can transfer their library deposits toward the purchase of the book. Cooker, manager of La Ventana, announces that all interested in purchasing a copy should see him at once as the supply will be limited.

Plan To Pave Avenue Near Tech Campus

Tentative Plans Call For A Pavement 40 Feet Wide With Boulevards Similar To Those On Broadway

At a meeting of the commissioners court of Lubbock last Monday, it was decided to pave a twenty-foot strip on college avenue from fourth to nineteenth street. The vote came following the recent order issued February 28 by the state highway department to pave a twenty-foot strip on state highway No. 7 from fourth street to Broadway, and highway 137 from Broadway to nineteenth street, known as College avenue.

Talks Featured At Home Economic Club Gathering

Home life in other lands was the theme of the program when the Home Economics club met last Friday evening in room 104 of the Home Economics building. Mrs. C. J. Wagner gave an address on "Home Life in Egypt" and she illustrated her talk with slide pictures. Miss Jo Wilder then spoke on "Ireland".

About forty members were present. A marshmallow toast had been planned for the evening but because of the cold weather it was not held.

The difference between "petting and wrestling" is that, in wrestling, each tries to get out of the other's grip.

Matador Basketball Season Reviewed By Staff Reporter

With a total of twelve games won and nine lost the Tech Matadors returned to the home fold from a road trip into New Mexico and West Texas to play away the short pants and enjoy a month of comparatively inactivity until April 1 when Coach Cawthon issues a call for Spring football practice. Hodges was high point man during the season with a grand total of 231 points.

Opening their season during the Christmas holidays, while the majority of the student body was away, with Southwestern Teachers from Oklahoma was good for a win and a game lost.

The "top-tall" men from Canyon Normal arrived at the home court for games January 14 and 15 and without much effort on their part returned to their section of the prairie with the Matador's scalps dangling from their belts.

Tech with the defeat at the hands of Canyon fresh on their minds headed for Abilene, in West Texas. (If you believe the Abilene) Simmons took the measure of the Matadors with a score of 39 to 27 on a Saturday night. Resting over the weekend Goughly's squad moved out to the McMurry gymnasium for a one night stand. This being January 20, it seemed good for a victory over the Indians. The next night the victory song was again sung at the expense of the A. C. C. Wildcats.

Simmons Defeat Matadors Simmons came through Lubbock January 23 on a road trip and stopped long enough to ring up 42 points to the Matadors, 30. Simmons, incidentally, won the conference championship again.

The Wildcats from A. C. C. were tamed January 29 and 30 by a fighting Tech crew the first night and a bunch that looked like high school boys the second night. The McMurry Indians drew their scalps in the trophy room after the games February 9 and 10. Tech snapped out of it long enough to put these two games on ice to the tune of 45-20 and 20-22.

With four straight wins behind them the Matadors screwed up enough courage to invade the home of the Thundering Herd at Canyon. They returned to Lubbock with the short end of the score in both games. The Buffaloes took T. I. A. honors this year by defeating East Texas.

Leave On Road Trip Leaving the home state on their only road trip of the season the Matadors made a one night stand at Socorro where they won handsily from the New Mexico Miners 59 to 29. Continuing their march up the Rio Grande valley to Albuquerque, they met the University of New Mexico two nights in a row. The first night things didn't go so well but the next night they eked out a 29 to 24 win.

Doing an about face they headed for El Paso and the lair of the school that overlooks a famous river and a well-known Mexican city. On this side of the river they couldn't get under way the first night so the Miners won 29 to 26, but after a day of rest they smashed the Miners to the tune of 42 to 23 in their last game of the season. Goughly wound up the stay in El Paso by treating his men to a quail supper in Juarez.

Account of the illness of his wife, Dr. Raymond C. Sidwell was unable to meet his class in Geology Tuesday morning. Dr. L. T. Patton held the class in his place.

Boxing, Wrestling Eliminations Held

Texas Tech's boxing and wrestling eliminations started Tuesday afternoon at the gymnasium.

Each of the four schools of the college, the Liberal Arts, the Aggies, the Engineers, and the Military unit are represented in the events.

Tuesday afternoon's fights were limited to class eliminations. In the Liberal Arts group of ten boxers, six of whom had to fight in order to determine the representatives in the quarter finals. Melvin Havis, Lubbock, eliminated J. L. Dean, Crockett, in the 135 pound class. H. W. Houk, Waco, took the decision over Crews in the 155 pound class. Houk and Davis will meet in the quarter finals to decide the class representative. Garner won from Harris in the 175 pound division.

In the only Aggie scrap Tuesday, Cunningham, McLean, won a decision from Haskell Beard, Lubbock, in the 165 pound division.

M. W. Nott, Waco, defeated H. S. Battersworth, Amarillo, in the Engineers 130 pound group. Reagan won from Henry in the 150 pound division.

Dances To Slaton It's Endurance Season Again

"Highways are happy ways—when I'm dancing with gold in my eyes." Theme songs—well, that's the musical background for the pavement fantasies of a former Tech student. Lewis Walker danced his way to Slaton and back last Saturday. The blonde toe-tripper will tap and twist his way to Amarillo in a week or so and then—hold everything—he plans to start off by waving goodbye to the broads on Broadway and ending by clipping off a bit of gold from the Golden Gate. Walker has booked a transcontinental dance during the summer months.

Accompanied by a band-wagon, a miniature harem, and a new pair of shoes the former Techster left Lubbock near noon, arrived in Slaton five hours later, rested for forty-five minutes, and then—yes sir—a mighty tired young man danced down Avenue Q about that evening. And so the "endurance" season has been officially opened.

El Toro

BY JAY TIMMONS Here's one on the great athletes of our American country. Big Jim Thorpe, the greatest find of all athletes and Carlisle's main advertiser for years to come, was found digging ditches. This should serve as a warning to all athletes, especially those who are the main drawing cards to great football games. One is never so mighty that he cannot take a tumble.

This not only applies to football players but to even those who take their studies so seriously that they miss the other things that only college life can give. El Toro once knew a graduate of a large university who became an honor man with no grades lower than A's and two years after his graduation was selling newspapers on the streets of a large city. So, you see, one can be too much of a specialist and lose out on the simplest things of life that mean success in the practical world.

It is indeed great to be a football player but it's only when you are a professor cannot find a flaw in you, but it is still greater to be a happy medium with a fair knowledge of each side and the sort that can accomplish problems that will confront you in later life.

El Toro does not wish to disillusion anyone but only wishes to recall to the minds of athletes and scholars the advice of men who have made successes in the modern world. Do not take any one thing too seriously, except life itself. We are in college to broaden our views physically, mentally, and morally. Being a Jim Thorpe or a straight A student will not mean as much to us as the ability to make and keep friends and that making and keeping friends can only be accomplished by a fair knowledge of the happenings in the world about us.

Now that the prophesying or what have you is over let's look over toward the gym and see what they're doing over there. Intramural Wrestling and Boxing seem to be occupying the time of those diligent enthusiasts who are competing daily. Pete has certainly brought the manliness of this college to the front. We should show our appreciation as ordinary students by happening around every now and then to watch these artists in the arts of twisting bones and self defense.

It seems that the Texas Baseball league is playing havoc with the big boys from the Eastern ranks. In other words we can see just about the same baseball in our own state as those fellows who get all of the publicity in the bigger cities, etc.

Some of these days the great state of Texas is going to be among the top notchers in most every sport. Track, Baseball, Football and Golf have on their roll call, men of Texas. It is only a matter of time until these papers and other publications will see this and use the news to advantage. That is how we see it here.

It's beginning to look like Collier Parris and El Toro will have to find some other form of a livelihood in about five years if things along sports lines keep dropping out like that. (A thousand pardons to Mr. Parris).

Tech will have no intercollegiate baseball, tennis or track this year, so we hear, but will have kept competition in intramural teams along those lines. That should be a wonderful opportunity for the athletes, other than football players, to show their stuff when their muscles melt and it is safe to get out in shorts and get limbered up. Another thing that will no doubt happen is that it will decrease the usual gate receipts at those events and we won't have so much money for the overboarded athletic association to pile down in their sock. We have lots of money now in that department and don't need a bit from other sports besides football. Farden me if I'm wrong.

"Football isn't the only place where good interference is needed, it comes in handy at the All-College affairs too," says Bill Teal.

The girl in the Ad. Bldg. says that some people love to dance—others dance to.

Senior Invitation Samples On Display At Book Store

Samples of Senior Invitations are on display at the Bookstore and it is not too early to begin ordering them. No orders will be accepted after April 6, according to clerks in the store. Cards may also be ordered along with the invitations. A full line of samples is provided to assist the buyer in his selection. There are two types of invitations. One is the engraved and etched paper, and the other is black leather with the same type etching as is in the other.

The program will be followed by the class roll for each of the schools represented at the Bookstore and an etched Matador over which will be written the college Matador song.

Among the new courses to be offered during the Spring term is the Geology course, number 330, Geologic Mapping. It is open to all advanced students.

Coaching School To Be Held Here Next August

BY KEN HART Toreador Sports Editor The only coaching school announced in Texas at the present time will be held at Texas Tech August 3 to 15 inclusive.

Wallace Wade and Jimmy Phelan, nationally known coaches, have been selected to hold the school which will be in charge of P. W. Cawthon, head coach at Tech.

Wade, former coach at Alabama piloted the Tuscaloosa teams to Southern Conference championships with clocklike regularity, a conference champions they were invited to meet the Pacific coast champions. Three times they did this at the Rose Bowl and came off with the heavy end of the score. Wade, feeling that he had accomplished all possible at Alabama, resigned and took over the reins at Duke University in North Carolina. Duke is a school even younger than Texas Tech and under the tutelage of Wade won the North Carolina football championship last fall. The teams in other sports are also copping trophies and medals. Wade, always strong for blocking teams, uses punt formation plays and a balance line.

Jimmy Phelan, a star football player at Norte Dame under Rockne, coached the Purdue "Boilermakers" to their only Big Ten championship. Ambitious, Phelan accepted an offer from the University of Washington, and his teams are making an good record. Phelan uses the Rockne shift with a weakside off it.

Should Appeal to Coaches With two distinctly different types of play this school should appeal to an unusually large number of coaches. Open to college and high school coaches, the school is expected to set a record for a first year coaching school.

Mailing list already sent out include invitations to coaches in Texas, New Mexico, Southern Colorado, and Eastern Arizona. Approximately 450 invitations have been sent out with about 200 more ready to go into the mails.

Outstanding Coaches Wade and Phelan are the two outstanding football coaches who are holding coaching schools this summer. Rockne because of illness could not be secured, and Warner told Cawthon that he had covered the field pretty thoroughly with his coaching schools the past few years so this year he had decided to take a rest.

"This will mean a great deal to football in this section of the state," Coach Cawthon said, "and it gives coaches out here on the Plains an opportunity to attend a coaching school without having to travel hundreds of miles to reach the school. Because of the distance from the schools many have decided not to attend, but this gives them an opportunity to attend one of the best schools in the country right at home."

A large representation of the forty former Austin college men who were under Cawthon at Sherman will attend the school. They plan to make it a reunion with their old mentor.

Exes of Tech who are coaching will avail themselves of the opportunity to get the best schooling in football at their alma mater.

CLUB WILL NOT MEET TONIGHT Members of the Caps y Espada club are asked to not meet tonight account of this being "dead week" according to Miss Francis Whitley, sponsor.

The next regular meeting of the club will be on April 10. All members are requested to attend that meeting.

Rifle Squad Is Divided

Company C Wins Over Company A And B In The First Matches; Team To Be Selected To Represent Tech

In the first rifle match between the three companies into which the Girls' Rifle Team of the college has been divided, Company C won over Companies A and B. Both the matches were fired last week and in the first one Company C won over Company B with a margin of 13 points, and in the second with a margin of 43 points over A.

The five high point girls in the winning company are Lois Smith, Kathleen Watkins, Rheba Marie Boyles, Dillene Reed, and Mary Beth Sheely.

In Company A the five high point girls are Mary Frances Gayle, Ruth Wolfe, Dorothy Wilson, Louise Pfarr and Katherine Baskin, while those in Company B who made high scores are Alletha West, Edna May Dillard, Virginia Hash, Marie Bostick, and Virginia Cox.

A team to represent the college in matches with other schools will probably be selected after a second match between the companies has been fired.

Announcements for the Summer school include the following courses: for the first term, an entire year's work in Geography, and the second term, an entire year's work in Geology. A student can, by taking these two courses complete his science requirements for some courses.

The only thing that we can see that is wrong with Lonnie Langston's golf is that he stands too close to the ball after he hits it.

IN TECH SOCIETY

No Social Functions This Week, But Spring Term Fall

This week is dead week on Tech campus. Every collegian thoroughly realizes that dead week means no social affairs, because this week has been unusually quiet. Winter term examinations are scheduled for next week, and that also means that no social affairs are on the calendar.

The spring term, however, will resume the social functions of the college. The annual Sophomore Hedge Dodge is to be given on Friday evening, March 27.

An occasion which is always anticipated by the collegians is the annual Architectural ball which is to be given in April. The use of unique decorations painted by architectural students marks the ball as an unusual affair.

April 18 is the scheduled time for the coronation of the freshman queen, which will be followed by the annual freshman dance.

Pre-Med club members are planning a dance to be given in April. There are many social affairs to be noted for May. Later announcements will be made.

"Sit Tight" Is New Laughing Hit To Be Shown At Lindsey

The "human form divine" has a lot of odd curves and angles. Most of which are put up for study and in Warner Brothers new laughing hit, "Sit Tight," starring Winnie Lightner and Joe E. Brown, and featuring Claudia Dell, Paul Gregory and Hobart Bosworth at the Lindsey theater Sunday Monday and Tuesday.

Many of the scenes are laid in a "health" institute and gymnasium where hard-swalling Winnie presides as director of calisthenics for the would-be Venus or Adonis. Thirtly mirth-provoking patients make up her classes and provide an interesting insight into the fearful variety of means utilized at such places to rejuvenate the human figure.

Miss Catherine Jameson Is Crowned Queen At Prom

Miss Catherine Jameson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jameson, 2312 Broadway, was crowned queen of the Junior class of Tech by Dr. S. S. McKay, junior sponsor, at the annual junior prom which was given in the gymnasium Saturday evening.

Dancing preceded and followed the coronation which was the high spot in the evening's entertainment. The grand march, which was led by Bill Collins, president of the Class, and Miss Jean Shelley Jennings, came immediately after the queen was crowned. Approximately 200 attended the affair.

A replica of the Alamo was erected in the gymnasium for the promenade and it served as a stage for the queen and her court, who entered from one side. The coronation emphasized the Spanish theme, typical of Tech. The Alamo scene was further emphasized by simple ball decorations. In a plaque on the building, the class colors of silver and blue were used.

Miss Jameson appeared in white organdie and her crown was of white rosebuds. Organdies in pastel shades were worn by members of her court. Members of the court were Misses Vonnie Gilkerson, Camille Stobaugh, Wilma Parks, Kathleen Harmon, Cheville Whitehill, and Virginia Murray.

The queen's escort was John R. Johnson, and escorts for her court ladies were Vincent Foster, Frank Kelley, J. C. Hodges, Mose Witherspoon, Clayton Reed, and Jimmie Renfro.

Preceding the coronation programs were used for dancing, and following the coronation tag dancing was in order.

"The Painted Desert" Opens At Palace Theatre Saturday

When Bill Boyd went to Arizona on location for his new Pathe stat picture, "The Painted Desert," which comes to the Palace theatre on Saturday next, he returned to the scenes of one of his earliest motion picture triumphs, "The Last Frontier."

Although the locations selected by Director Howard Higgin on the Painted Desert are remote from those that formed the backgrounds of "The Last Frontier," they are still part of the stamping grounds of the colorful Hopi Indians where Boyd learned the lore and customs of this peaceful tribe.

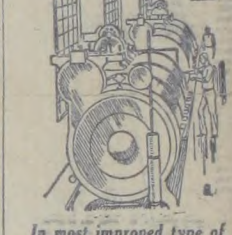

Incidentally, in "The Painted Desert," Boyd portrays a typical frontiersman of the old west for the first time since he made "The Last Frontier." Howard Higgin directed, Helen Twelvetrees, the only woman in the cast, plays opposite the star, William Farnum, veteran screen star, and J. Farrell MacDonaid also are in the cast.

GETTING OUR NAMES IN THE PAPER Another ten cents has come into our coffers. Bill Burnes, an engineer, has been up and paid-off. He says that he has a case of the "wozzles." If any of you know what they are tell us. We have heard of the "moopas," "grumpus," "gripas," etc., but never any "wozzles." We have just been hearing that besides having the ability to wear pink crepe sleeping pajamas, Jack Flowers can stand up girls for program dances with all ease and grace. "You are lucky, Jack, not many of us can do that and get by with it. Speaking of style shows, you really missed a good one when you didn't see the one at the Mixer the other night. Jimmie Dallas as a modest maid in the latest shorts for beach wear was certainly good. Rip Vinzant in the newest sports dress was strikingly attractive. We don't know who suffered over that the most—Rip, or Clyde. Poor Clyde turned every color of the rainbow! Bill Teal was about the cleverest, and daintiest thing in the entire show. His little beach pajamas and hat matched perfectly, and the style with which Bill wore them was excellent. In fact, all of the show was good. We have about decided that we will have the boys model in the next home town movie that is arranged! Some of you girls should be more careful about how late you keep Floyd Woodbridge out. He is kinda headed and must have his sleep. He came up to the Toreador office Tuesday and sleep about half an hour. He was on a box with his feet on a table. And oh, that sweet look on his innocent face while he slept! If you want to know who is a typical Freshman on the campus—just look at Bill McMurray. He's one—but we guess we can put up with them all right. Martha Knight, Creta Herndon and Faye Foote were here in the office begging to have their names put in the paper, so we are doing it. The window of our office is being used for a chair by Curly Arnold. He was the picture of contentment with a big chew of tobacco in his mouth. All we have been hearing lately from some of our paper of ficials is Reddy Winslow. G! It must be wonderful to be popular! Not very long this week, but we will try to lighten it again next time.
