Toreador Wins Second In Texas College Contest Collegiate Review Showing At Gymnasium Saturday First Annual Aggie Fair Scheduled For Friday

Many Attractions Being Perfected

A parade, a polo game, horse riding, Vaudeville, burro rides, side shows and agricultural exhibits are some of the things which are being planned for Tech's first annual Aggie fair Friday. Elaborate preparations have been under way for several months now, and it is predicted May 3 will be a red letter in the history of Tech as well as in the history of the Agricultural Club. Every department of the Agricultural school and many of the departments of the other schools of the college will be represented.

NEWS BRIEFS

When Big Spring walloped Tech's baseball nine here Saturday Carl Peterson, Tech third baseman, batted 1000 per cent. He got three out of three.

Hal Lary and Alvin Allison will be in charge of the Toreador next year, according to results of the publication elections held last Thursday and Friday. Ralph Brandenburg will be manager of La Ventura.

A second election is called by the Student Council for Friday of this week to determine who will edit the 1930 yearbook.

Editor For 1930

Hal Lary, present feature editor of the Toreador, succeeds Otis Koen as editor-in-chief. He will assume the editorial helm about mid-summer when, according to custom, the "homesick edition" is published and sent to the students at home.

Third Frolic To Show-Off Talent

Women's Forum To Produce Snappy Jazz Wedding, And Also Something About Pink Pajamas

Outstanding among the many important events rounding out the big college year of 1929-30 is the Collegiate Review to be given at the College Gymnasium Saturday evening, May 4, at eight o'clock during the first two years of the existence of Tech La Ventura staff sponsored an all-college frolic which proved to be a very successful affair. Last year this event was temporarily discontinued. This year the Frolic has been working to revive this entertainment by which they hope to show some heretofore undiscovered Tech talent, let the student body glimpse for a moment the already well-known talent of the college, and at the same time reimburse their organization in a financial way for the all-college women affairs which it has put on this year, according to the president, Sylvia Wilson.

PSEUDO-IMPORTANCE

Of all the criticisms which has been thrown at the college student—skepticism, laziness, cynicism, rudeness, and what not—it seems to us at the present time that the pseudo-importance which he attaches to himself is perhaps the most justifiable. It is not a direct expression of egotism. It is a kind of condescension on his part which he assumes when talking to someone who is not of college.

True it is that there is a vast majority of Tech students to whom this criticism will not apply. But to some it does apply. Business men down town are in many cases shrewder than the college student with whom they come in contact. Nevertheless, it is a fact that some Tech students hide behind the qualification: "a Tech student", and then assume an unnatural role, thereby creating an unfavorable attitude toward the college.

Now, Tech has the right to expect certain things of Lubbock. On the other hand Lubbock has the right to expect certain things of Tech.

One thing that Lubbock business men have the right to expect of the Tech student is that he be an ordinary customer—that he express not his desire for special privileges because he is "a Tech student".

To the one who has not seen such a student as we have mentioned, it might occur that he is a freshman. But it is not always true. Upper-classmen have been guilty of the accusation.

Thus a few students—we suppose there are a few in every college—cause criticism to be thrown at the college student in general. And, we repeat, it seems to us at the present time that this criticism is most justifiable of all that is handed collegians.

THE LAST LAP

As we, the present Toreador staff, near our last lap in the publication of the paper, some pleasant thoughts come to us. In a measure we feel happy. We are exceedingly grateful in the first place for the splendid cooperation and encouragement which students and faculty members have given us this year.

We are pleased in the second place because one of our staff members will assume the editorship for next year. While seniority does not necessarily qualify a man for promotion, none can deny that it is an asset. The editorial position for next year will be filled by Hal Lary, our present feature editor. The ability of Lary is undisputed. He has proven himself in debate, in oratory, and in scholarship, to say nothing of his work as feature editor this year.

Student Opinion

TECH'S REPUTATION

This matter of what people think of us seems all-important to me. I am jealous about Tech's reputation and quite sensitive concerning it. The reason for calling attention to this is because that in some places I have found the opinions concerning us always to be as worthy as would be desired. Of course there are some places I have not been, and in such instances I cannot speak with accuracy, but wherever I find the rating of our student life and campus to be lower than that of similar institutions I feel a natural indignation. I feel I am justified in being touchy, for in every instance which I have investigated I have found the opinions of each type to be based too largely on mis-information. I am a transfer, and as such, have had the opportunity of direct contact with several other colleges in this western part of Texas. I feel that I know their faults as well as their good points, and on the basis of open comparison I would not exchange the privileges here at Tech for any of them. The fact that I am a transfer makes me think not any less of Tech, but rather makes me envious of those who have been able to do all their college work here.

Tech Tennis Ace Victor At Canyon

FISH DAY ANNOUNCED James Whiteside has announced that May 8 is to be the day of all fish supremacy for 1929.

Whiteside says that this day will be the biggest one of the year for the class of '29. Plans for a special train of 500 freshmen to Crosbyton are under way. The fare is to be $2.75 including everything. Dancing, skating, dining, boating and swimming makes up the list.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Yesterday was President Horn's birthday.

The thirtieth of April, 1793, has a connection with some other president. On that day Washington was inaugurated as the first president of the United States.

Dident (with apologies to Rogers) we tell you a long time ago that we know so much because we had been to so many places?

We can't help it because we have crossed the boundary line of Texas.

"Few men or women will help another up the social ladder because his steps are so insecure."

The foregoing statement is really ours but we enclose it in quotes for fear someone will want to claim it. You see, it's just our own little, economical way of copyrighting it.

"Tis an evil wind which blows too much sand."

Convocation Friday, we hear. And if student politicians get control for a minute it will be one more assembly.

It's hard to think these days without thinking a little about campus politics. Which reminds me about the spelling of some of the free lance political advertisers. You remember seeing privilege spelled PRIVILEGE and La Ventana spelled LA VANTANA on any of the blackboards last week? We do. But we guess it's fair in politics.

A little yearning is a dangerous thing.

As far as the relationship between youth at college and the parents back home is concerned, it is probably a good thing that half the world does not know how the other half lives.

We sometimes think that if a person of even ordinary intelligence and industry were to come to college, he would be mistaken for a genius.

If a man's body were compressed, it would be very minute. Likewise, if a man's mental life were compressed, his hours of concentration would be very few.

A great problem lies in believing enough to be firm and yet doubting enough to be progressive.

Getting Our Names In The Paper

James Lindsey, notorious Scotchman, says that when he gets married he intends to send his wife to Niagara Falls alone on the honeymoon, because he has already been there.

Henrie Mast went to call on his girl last week, and asked her to wait while he went out for a second. About an hour later he came back, and she said, angrily: "I thought you were only going out for a second."

Bill Pitman says that he is a student of Hebrew engineering, otherwise known as business administration.

Lois Snoddy says that she really knew the answer to a question which her English prof asked her; the only trouble was that she couldn't get her tongue unraveled from her chewing gum in time to answer it.

Carl Hudgens has been agin' the entire female sex ever since his last "heavy" date stepped on his toe at a dance.

Lena Burt Medlin says that for once she had a date who didn't try to get fresh; it was at the all-girls dance last night.

Eloise Cook is reported to be called "Cookie" because she is so hard-baked.

Moral Faults? Students of Ethics Look Tech Over

Advanced students who are taking a course in ethics have attempted to enumerate some of the most serious moral shortcomings of the Tech student body. Results follow:

In the first place, some of the gravest moral faults or what the usually means as such, while mentioned in one or two instances, were relegated to the background or completely ignored. Whether this was due to lack of frankness and thoroughness in thinking things through, or to the fact that Tech students are relatively free from these faults, or whether these alleged shortcomings are not considered to be moral delinquencies by the class, does not appear.

Most often mentioned is the matter of dishonesty, whether on examination or otherwise, "swiping," or petty thieving. Being included somewhat allied with this, perhaps, there is mentioned a failure to put oneself heartily into his work, or as otherwise stated, a lack of sincerity and seriousness. It may be that something like the same fault is in mind when it is stated that due to several reasons students do not get enough sleep. Smoking and profanity are mentioned; also indifference to constituted authorities and frivolous love-making. Gossip and "story-telling" are attributed to girls. One student is explicit in saying that these faults apply to only a comparatively small minority of the students.

It may be noted also that practically all believe in a single standard of morality for men and women, the exceptions being more apparent than real, and the majority are opposed to capital punishment.

Students Discuss Law Requirements

Two members of the Pre-Law club made speeches at the meeting of the organization last week. Clarence Whiteside spoke on "Entrance Requirements in the Law School of Harvard University," and James Abernathy took the subject "On Going to Law School." Beautiful but dumb

We are reliably informed that the above familiar phrase is applied mainly to certain poor dears in whom all the pituitary runs to pulchritude. A gargoyle is "int'restin'", at least. Better pick 'em freckled and friendly than lovely but lacking. And getting our minds back on business... innocuous, unmitigated mildness rather palls in a cigarette, too.

Chesterfields are mild, certainly—but "aren't they all"? The point is that Chesterfields are also "int'restin'". They satisfy—and right there is why they gather in the gang. Taste—the taste and richness of quality tobaccos—that's what matters. And the blend can't be copied; you know you are smoking a Chesterfield, nothing else, at every puff.

Matadors Lose 2-Game Series To Big Spring

Local Crew Outfits Professionals From South But Fail To Bunch Hits; Makes Many Errors

Playing their last two games at home the Matadors lost both games to the Big Spring, West Texas pro outfit, last last Friday and Saturday.

Although the locals outfit professionals, they were defeated 9-4 simply because the Cowboys hit when hits meant runs. Four double plays by the latter also cut down Matador rallies in their tracks. Volney Hill pitched winning ball but loose support by his mates, who made 5 errors was more than he could hope to overcome.

The cleanliness of the Germans has always been proverbial, but now they go themselves one better!

A progressive city in Germany has installed bath tubs in the public school buildings and has passed an ordinance compelling all school children to have one bath a week under the supervision of their teachers.

Thus did these educators signify their belief not only in the healthfulness of bathing, but also in the relation of a clean body to an alert mind.

In America we are proud to say that the habit of bathing is more generally practiced than in any other nation in the world. And over here a bath means a hot bath which is the very acme of real cleanliness.

College Review

generally known as one of the cleverest men on the faculty as general director for the Review. He expresses himself as being highly gratified at the prospects of putting on a real collegiate entertainment here at Tech that will be equal to the much-heralded and spoken of Sooner Follies recently held at the University of Oklahoma. Mr. Pender says that Tech has just as good talent as any of the larger schools and universities and that with the care that has been taken in assembling it for this occasion the Review ought to be a "wow."

The ones in charge say that the whole evening will be a snappy one, from the beginning of the program when a chorus of Las Chaparrillas beauties under the direction of Jimmie Allen gives a dance and song number till the end when the mysterious "Pink Pajamas" closes the ten numbers will be one of hilarity. It is hoped that no trouble will come up over the last number on the program; but if it does, the rest of the program will have been seen and heard and everyone present will consider his fifty cents well spent, reports say.

A college orchestra is to furnish a specialty and music between acts. The Jazz Wedding of Irene Pinka and Leroy Vaughn with Reverend Richard Cavett performing the ceremony bids fair to be the hit of the evening. Miss Zella Retzel of Physical Education department is to give some tap dancing. Minnie Scott will be featured in a musical reading, "He Don't Wanna." Another chorus of Japanese girls will furnish plenty of pep and rhythm in their dance and song. This chorus is under the supervision of Mr. W. R. Waghorne of the Music

Seniors Accept Invitation From Amarillo Group

Class Plans Trip To Amarillo May 18; Decides To Have Luncheon On Recognition Day, May 10

At a meeting of the senior class in the Chemistry auditorium Saturday the group accepted an invitation from the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce to be guests in that city on May 18. The Santa Fe Railway company has cooperated with the class in making special rates to Amarillo on that date, provided as many as one hundred seniors agree to go. Clarence Whitesides was appointed chairman of a committee to work out details of the trip.

A new development and an addition to the senior program which is to be carried out after May 10, senior recognition day, is that of a luncheon at Hotel Lubbock. The luncheon is planned for May 10.

Twenty Leave For Palo Duro Canyon

Twenty members of Tech's Y. M. C. A. are to leave Friday afternoon for the Palo Duro canyon, where they will spend the week-end with the purpose of making plans for the work of the two organizations next year. In company with them there will be a similar group of students from Canyon. Tech's delegation will act as host to that from Canyon, since the latter was the host last year. It is expected that Canyon will have about the same number of representatives as Tech.

All those who go have been requested to bring as many blankets as possible, also copies of the New Testament. Short religious services will be held on Sunday morning, and the return trip will end Sunday afternoon.

Presbyterians Have Party For Tomorrow

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock the Presbyterian students of Tech will hold a party at the A. J. Davis home at 1730 Main street, according to an announcement by Marjorie Almsworth, chairman of the social committee of the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society. Refreshments are to be served and it is said that there are a number of novelty features on the program.

All those who attend the affair and come to the meeting of the society next Sunday night at six to take the course offered at that time will be given the degree of B. A., provided they pass the course. However, the significance of the letters by which the degree is designated has not been explained.

Induction Services To Be Held Monday

Induction services for members of the Y. W. C. A. will be held next Monday evening at St. Paul's Episcopal church. Following is the order of the service: Organ prelude; entrance of members; opening prayer, Margaret Cooper, president of Y. W. C. A.; reading, Ena Armstrong; charge to members, Roy McCullough; purpose of the Y. W. C. A. read in unison; special music, Nina Gordon; benediction, Mrs. S. J. McParland, president Y. W. C. A. Board of Management.

department. A one-act play, "The Eligible Mr. Bangs," is to be presented, its cast including such well known favorites as Hal Lary, Dayle Wallace, Zona Siles and Margaret McNabb.

Red Taylor is slated as the Master of Ceremonies and a big step from the ridiculous features which Red is bound to pull to the sublime will be taken when the table, Titania's Court with a real bottom in it (maybe you'll need a review "Mid-summer's Night's Dream") is presented. Special lighting effects are being worked out for this number which should make it very spectacular. The Sans Souci girls are going to be "All Wet" for the occasion.

They're From Town Students Hail From Little Places

A recent analysis of the 2,088 students enrolled at Texas Technological college this term indicates that 46.3 per cent are from towns under 2,500 in population. Cities from 2,500 to 5,000 are given as the homes of only 22, while places with a population of from 5,000 to 20,000 sent 5.6 per cent. The local enrollment from Lubbock is responsible for 37.9 per cent coming from towns between 20,000 and 50,000, and only two per cent are from towns of over 50,000.

The analysis further shows that the average size of the annual incoming class has been 984. The average number of years the individual student stays in college is shown at 1.92, or nearly two years each.

College Admitted To IAWS Recently

Texas Technological College was admitted to membership in the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students at their recent meeting held at the University of Oklahoma, where colleges and universities from twenty-one states were represented. Miss Sylvia Wilson of Lubbock was a delegate from Tech. Campus problems and women's self-government questions were discussed.

A Walk-Over Adaptation

THE British type of shoe, of which the Duncan is a perfect model, is the outstanding favorite wherever well dressed men congregate.

Nor is it the custom appearance alone that gives it prestige. True, it has styled aplenty, but likewise it has that feeling of snug comfort that characterizes perfection of fit.

The broad tread permits the foot to lie naturally and gives freedom to the action of the muscles. The pear shaped heel assures ankle fit and prevents unsightly gaping at the sides.
