Students Cast Ballots Today For The 'Man'

Democrats Favored To Poll Majority Vote For Office; Party Leaders Question Election Outcome

Gun Play Lacking

Officials Announce Rules To Be Enforced At The Polls; R. C. Marshall In Charge Of Contest

Early balloting this morning in the "Man of the Year" election indicated that a record vote would be cast before the polls close tomorrow afternoon.

Political bosses and their various precinct committees told TOR-EADOR reporters at a pre-election round-up last night that they felt certain the voting would be marked by a lack of gun play. Police officials early today had no record of campus casualties.

Democrats Seek Control
A pre-election investigation indicated that the Democrats will have a decided advantage in the voting. However, Republican, Socialist, and Communist leaders did not mince words in predicting victory for their parties.

Rumors leaking out of Cheri Casa are to the effect that a "he-man" would carry the election in a landslide. Reports to the contrary were obtained from residents of College Inn and Lovell Hall, where co-ed voters hunted at the possible election of a minnie idol. Ward workers have been active the past week soliciting the co-ed vote.

Ballots Must Be Signed
Announcements this morning from the office of R. C. Marshall, chairman of the board of election commissioners, specifically stated that all students are eligible to vote. Ballots will be in the form of a blank piece of paper upon which the name of the man believed to be most worthy of the honor. Voters will be required to sign their ballots. Designed ballots will be thrown out.

The election is sponsored by the college annual, LA VENTANA, for the purpose of electing the "Man of the Year." A full page likeness of the victor will appear in the year book.

Wildcats Arrive Invaders Battle Tech Five

The Wildcats from Abilene Christian College are our guests for two days. Tonight and tomorrow night they will meet our Matadors on the basketball court. Unfortunately for the visitors they have been unable to register an athletic victory against Tech this year. Tonight they will invade our gymnasium with that fact lurking in their claws. The Wildcats will be out scratching for a victory. They may have occasion to purr.

Coach "Crip" Goughly will send a fighting Matador quintet against our visitors tonight. All "Texas Tech" will be out to witness the battle.

Wildcats—we welcome you. May your visit on our campus be enjoyable, if not satisfactory.

Ancient Toreadors Spill Many Interesting Facts

BY JOHN DÖE

Did you ever strut down the aisle to the desk in the library and call for the Toreador, straight? Add a dash of imagination and you will find yourself set for thirty minutes of amusement. Take, for instance, Volume One, Number Sixteen. In this issue you will read about the basketball team playing in the stock judging pavilion.

And to you alleged, nice people, fasting old glimmers on these rules and regulations concerning the pirate party of the Y. W. C. A.—oh yes, those old time girls were naughty, naughty. It seems that they agreed to the following: 1.—Those wishing liquor, extreme dancing, or a place to embrace, are invited to have a look around and make their departure at once. 2.—This is not Bohemia, it's the pirate's den. 3.—Check your side-arms at the door. 4.—Any person starting a brawl resulting in death will be swung high at once. Some dozen regulations of similar trend were included in the line-up.

The bureau of Economic Geology of the University of Texas recently released a bulletin written by Dr. L. T. Patton, head of the Tech Geology department.

This bulletin contains a study of the physiography, physiographic history, stratigraphy, structure, historical geology, and economic resources of Stonewall county, Texas.

Stonewall county is in the Western part of the state, some hundred miles south of Lubbock. At the time that Dr. Patton made the study he was assistant geologist of the bureau of Economic Geology. He was working with the Texas State board of Water Engineers. An investigation of the possible dam sites, flood controls, and irrigation purposes was made in view of economic betterment of the country. The study was begun in the fall of 1923 and was finished in the summer of 1925.

Daring Exposure Shows Life Of Senior Co-eds In H.E. Practice House

"Won't you walk into my parlor" and it is not the spider speaking but a Home Economics senior who cordially invites you to inspect not only her parlor but her whole ideal home out here on the campus.

The beautiful twelve-room practice house is of Spanish architecture, so with its red tile roof, black balconies and trimmings, and inviting patio in the rear, it fits artistically into the general architectural scheme of the school.

One of the requirements for graduation in vocational Home Economics is residence of one term in the home management house. So each term five or six girls and one instructor live here. This number was chosen because it constitutes the average American family. Here the girls put into actual practice all they have learned in their home economics courses.

The work is divided into duties and each student assumes a particular duty for one week, then the duties rotate. In this way girls become thoroughly trained in all phases of home management. The duties are cook, waitress, general helper, hostess, assistant hostess, and housekeeper.

On Friday before a girl resumes the role of cook on the following Monday, she turns in to the instructor her menus for the week. And with these menus she has a cost list. This list shows the cost of feeding the family for the week, the cost of each meal, and the cost of each item. In this way girls must keep within the budget of fifty cents per day per student.

After the cook has made out her menus and her cost lists, she goes marketing. She buys all her staple groceries at this time, but leaves such things as fresh vegetables to be purchased during the week.

The waitress sets the table, arranges the flower schemes, and washes the silver ware. Many times the horticulture department of the college sends flowers for the home management house.

Although the house is Spanish in architecture, no definite attempt was made to carry out the period idea in furnishings, as this would have been too expensive, and also would not have been in accord with one of the original purposes of the house; that of demonstrating a typical home for the community.

Wherever possible, however, touches of Spanish influence were introduced; for example, in the black iron stair rail, the hall table with its iron stretchers, and the high backed hall chair.

Definite plans for the furnishing and equipment for the house had been worked out more than a year before the actual construction was begun. Here the students in interior decoration are given an actual project to work out, and all the students and faculty of the School of Home Economics shared in the responsibility for the planning and furnishing of the home. Then the classes in Clothing and Design began to make up the wardrobe for the rooms, and selecting and making up inexpensive materials into wall hangings, lamp shades, and pillow covers. Another class worked out a project in furniture renovation.

So now, after several years, the home is complete, and quite a number of students have lived in it, have shared in the household duties, and have shared in the fun. For there is plenty of fun at the house. The girls entertain with teas, and parties during each term.

One society feature of each year is faculty supper night. At this time two members of the faculty are invited to dinner.

The house is open for inspection to students, both boys and girls, and to townspeople each day from 4 to 6 o'clock. It is always glad to conduct students through.

E. Nunn library of Wayland College.

Proceeding the program, the chapter will meet in a business session to receive the report of the committee on the constitution.

Professor Charles B. Qualia is in charge of the program which he has planned as follows:

Board Elects Mrs. F. Drane Vice-President

First Woman To Hold High Educational Office In This State; Improved Press Work Assured By Directors

Members of the Board of Directors of Texas Technological College in session here Tuesday elected Mrs. F. N. Drane, of Corsicana, vice-president. Mrs. Drane has the distinction of becoming the only woman in the state to occupy a position of such high educational importance.

All other officers of the Board were re-elected.

Directors resolved that are of interest to the student body include the elimination of parking in front of the Administration building; permission to apply funds accumulated by student publications on the purchase of printing equipment to be used in connection with the Department of Journalism; re-arranging the stand of the Board to the effect that Texas Tech should become a member of an athletic conference, either an old one or one yet to be formed, before the end of the year; agreement that Texas Tech should contribute its proportionate part in making a survey of athletic conditions throughout the State; and approval of the Pageant to be held here during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce meeting on May 15.

Dr. P. W. Horn, in presenting the president's report to the Board, established Texas Tech as an institution of statewide drawing power. One hundred and eighty three Texas counties are represented in the student directory.

The financial report showed the college to be in a sound condition.

Students with journalistic inclinations will find the action of the Board in granting permission for the use of funds accumulated by student publications for the purchase of printing equipment to their advantage. Definite plans relative to issuance of a paper by the Department of Journalism will be announced later.

Tech Professor Writes Story Of Texas History

BY MARSHALL FORMEY

Telling the real story of Texas history as it never before has been told, giving a complete and unbiased presentation of frontier movements and doing a very nice job of it, Dr. William Curry Holden, professor of history in the college, is fast gaining recognition for his notable contribution, "Alkali Trails," to Texas literature. A West Texas himself, Dr. Holden can write of West Texas perhaps as can no one else.

The title of the book is very misleading and probably was selected by the publisher with the idea in mind of appealing to the reading public's love of romance. The title is far too vague for the serious and worthy assemblage of social and economic history of West Texas which is usually misunderstood by the average Texan.

Beginning with the invasion of the Anglo-Saxons into West Texas, the author develops facts down to the present time. Much can be said for the good style of the author. Every chapter in the book is excellent reading material. Chapters are devoted to such discussions as Amusements, Railroadings, Buffalo Slaughter, and Frontier Journalism.

The writer goes so far as to name the counties which are on the line indicating the western boundary of the state.

Texans are especially proud of their native state and hold Texas history very dear to their heart. The average Texan would as soon consent to a division of the United

Skating Taught Tech Co-eds Are Instructed

"Gosh, she don't know how to skate yet." All the disgust a small boy could pack into words was expressed. But co-eds at Lovell Hall are not daunted by such snubs and go bravely on their way learning to roller-skate.

Interest in the new fad is growing daily. Young men of Tech have begged, borrowed, or bought skates, because it is so much easier to get lessons if the teacher is also equipped.

Results of these amateurish efforts during the past week have been painful. The girls have cracked their craniums several times because of sudden contacts with concrete; however, such mishaps are adopted as a slogan the cheerful advice of a doctor who told one of them, "Your head won't bother you any more if you'll stay on your feet." They're determined that some day they can offer worthy competition to any small boy.

Gifts Made To Tech Weavers

Warps, Reeds, And Slasher Combs Presented Textile School By Prominent Manufacturers

A rayon warp made by the acetate process, was donated to the Textile Engineering department from the Dupont Rayon company, New York City, and will be used on one of the looms in the weave room to make rayon cloth.

One reed and six slasher combs were received from the Atlanta Reed and Harness company, Atlanta, Georgia, and three reeds from Emmons Harness company, Lawrence, Mass.

Warp that is received from the different textile companies is made into cloth and a sample is sent to the Textile Engineering department. Tests are made of the cloth for warp strength and filling strength, on a machine specially adapted for this kind of work. The machine is in the testing room of the Textile Engineering Building.

Interclub Council Reelects Officers

The interclub council, composed of the president and a representative from each social club on the campus, met last Monday night. Jay Timmons former president of the council handed in his resignation and new officers were elected. Raymond Pfleger, president; Julius Bergfeld, vice president; Cornelia McCanna, secretary and treasurer.

Pfleger appointed a committee to work out a constitution for the council and it will be discussed and approved at the next meeting.

The committee is as follows: Bill Sewell, chairman; Miss Fay Poote, and Jay Timmons.

The council will meet the second and fourth Tuesday of each month.

"Nize Baby" Is Name Of Book Selected By Thespians For Tuesday Night; Milt Gross Is Author

The Thespian Club, composed of members in the expression classes, will give a dramatization of the book "Nize Baby" written by Milt Gross, Tuesday night in room 202 of the Administration Building at 8:15 o'clock.

The Stage Craft Class, under the direction of Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, will have charge of the stage set and make-up.

The book "Nize Baby" is written in Jewish dialect and the setting takes place in a Tenement House in lower New York. Current events and gossip is carried on between second-floor and third-floor characters.

In quoting a part from the book, (the mother is trying to get the baby to eat his breakfast) "It opp all the cyril, hepple freeters and drink opp all the mulled milk and mornin' scones, tell you a fairytale." In the Jewish conception of the fairy-tales there is a blending of the ultra-modern.

Characters are as follows: First Floor, Edna Wilkinson; Second Floor, Beulah Anderson; Third Floor, Hilma Bartlett.

Pick The Winner

Championship hopes of the Liberal Art entry in the intramural football race will either materialize or collapse Saturday afternoon when Coach Woolridge sends his undefeated eleven against Bill McWilliams' fighting Engineers.

The second place Aggies and the scappy Military Science outfit meet in a preliminary to the main attraction. This game will begin at 2 o'clock sharp.

An Engineer victory will upset the entire standing of the teams and possibly force another round of play. Coach Woolridge and his assistants, Jack Durban and Bill Teal, have assured students in the Liberal Arts college that an Engineer win is out of the question. Bill McWilliams, however, looks upon their statement as somewhat exaggerated.

A small admission price will be charged. Gate receipts go towards the purchase of trophies for the victorious team.

LET'S GO TO COLLEGE

"What! No money? Well, let's go to college." Thus begins a recent editorial in the McGill Daily commenting on the increase in enrollment in the colleges and universities over the United States. It seems that the present depression is swelling the enrollment of colleges and universities all over the United States. When people see their jobs, and money is scarce they realize the value of an education and flock to the schools to fit themselves for a better job.

Texas Tech has the largest enrollment that it has ever had during any previous year at this time. Reports from other college newspapers indicate an increase in enrollment in most of the schools in Texas, or at least they seem to be holding their own. President Frank of Wisconsin University says that periods of business prosperity usually slow up college registration, while periods of depression have the opposite effect. In other words, as the McGill Daily brings out, if one can get a job he takes it; if not, he might as well go to college because everybody is broke anyway and the lack of cash will not be noticed.

It looks as if it takes hard times, business slumps and an economic depression to wake the country up.

WALKING ON THE GRASS

Everybody will admit that a straight line is the shortest path between two given points. It is not everybody, however, that will agree that the shorter path would always be followed. If there is ever a time when a round-about way should be taken, it is that time when it will prevent walking on the grass.

About the campus innumerable trails are to be seen, which in no way add to the beauty of our college campus. Due to our location, beautification has been a difficult problem. Workmen are busy about the grounds daily, working with the trees, plants, and grass, that we might have a more pleasant place to spend our college days, that which it takes years to develop may be destroyed in a very short time by the unthinking student.

The next time you start across the grass, pause for a minute and think—then go back and follow the walk. It will only take a few more seconds. You will not only be saving the grass at that time, but you will be setting an example for others to follow. We do not need rules—we need to think. Shall we continue to follow the straighter path, or shall we give thought to the beautification of our campus? It is up to us.

Here And There
With The Office Boy

Well folks, here comes the Associate Office Boy to get a few things off his chest. The office boy watched with much pleasure the tumbling class perform in the gym the other night during the half at the Tech-Simmons basketball game. To this boy's notion it was all a knockout and he would like to see some more of it. While he watched them walk over, around under and what-not of each other, it put him in mind of standing 28 dominoes up in a row then pushing the first one down and seeing all the other fall.

Once there was an annual editor who only had three deadlines for having pictures made for his yearbook.

Dr. Thor J. Beck, of the German department, was a visitor in the office last week giving us a little criticism. Thanks Doctor. Call again.

It was in a Lubbock boarding house and the landlady was just a little sore because the typical Tech student hadn't paid his board.

"I think you had better board elsewhere," she stated.

"Yes, I know I have had" the student replied.

We bring down the curtain on this scene.

Folks, swipe your roommates' best suit, his activity ticket and his prettiest tie and get set for the two basketball games tonight and tomorrow night. The Abilene Christian Wildcats are here for a couple of games and the cage fans are in for two nights of real entertainment. The office boy would bet his best broom and a can full of his best cigarette butts which he has gathered in this office, that the Wildcats will come out winners in the contests. But don't take his word too strongly but come out and see for yourself.

The man in room 227 says "Smaladora? Nosey-itch? Pica-dora."

The Office Boy:

Dear son: we wuz thinkin we schud thank your doctor patent (applied for) fer inventin mechanics by which to cut rocks with, us fellers down here at huntsville cut a heap of rocks and think we wud like thank you if you could send a one of them thar machinery things, enclosed find a two cent stamp to cover mailing.

The office boy noticed a picture the other day of a columnist's typewriter. All the letters on the keyboard were Ia.

Well folks we men have at last been given our rights. For years people talked of women's rights and now the office boy thinks we should hear a little of men's rights. Now comes "Flop" Marshall, our beloved champion of the long pant's cause, who has opened the way for the men. Yes sir some men in Tech is to have a full page picture in the yearbook. The office boy now suggests that a full page be given to the prize bull belonging to the Aggies, (on the opposite page.) But no fooling folks let's all vote for the "Man of the Year" and do and ninety-eight students have made application at Texas Christian University for their bachelor's degree in June and August, 1931. One hundred and seventy-one of these are candidates for degrees in June, and 27 in August. The lists are unofficial, and corrections and additions will be made from time to time.

198 TCU Students Apply For Degree

Of the approximate number of 350 fathers of A. C. C. students, farming seems to be their favored occupation. This should be a profitable vocation along with that of real estate and manufacturing, which two claimed that unlucky "13" for their followers.

Next Saturday night at 8 o'clock the faculty of the school of agriculture will be entertained by members of the Tech Aggie club. Meeting will be in the stock judging pavilion.

The most interesting phase of the night's entertainment probably will be that of the faculty impersonation. Colonel Sparkman is in charge of this part of the program. Hal Dennis Yoder, flight promoter, and James Williams, music master, say that plenty of good wholesome entertainment is in store. Refreshments will be served.

All faculty members of the school of agriculture are urged to attend.

There are 33,000 acres in the Cook county (Chicago) forest preserves, natural parks.

Matador Quintet To Meet A.C.C. Wildcats Here Tonight

Christians Are Out To Avenge Former Defeat

Matadors Trampled Visitors 31 To 25 At Abilene In Last Game; Opening Whistle At 8 Sharp

An angry bunch of Wildcats from Abilene Christian College will take the floor here tonight against Captain Hodges' scarlet-clad Matadors. The game will be called at eight o'clock sharp.

The invading troupe are still scratching the turpentine that the Matadors spilled in Abilene a week ago Tuesday. At that time Leon Fisher and Clarence Hodges scored fourteen points each to give the Collegiate coached quintet a 31 to 25 victory.

The Wildcats came back strong shortly after the second half opened to cut the Matadors lead of eight points down to a 24 to 24 tie. Hodges, however, rallied his team-mates into an offensive attack that left the Christians on the short end of the final score.

Lawrence, Wildcat forward, will bear watching in tonight's contest. In the previous meeting the shifty forward tallied ten points to lead his team in scoring. Followers of the Abilene team claim that the Matador win can be largely attributed to their shifty to score from the foul line. Statistics of the game show that the Wildcats scored eleven field goals to an even dozen chalked up by the Matadors.

At The Theatres

To become a prominent motion picture comedian is a real and very profitable cinematic distinction in any city, but to become the leading comedian in talkies, and to do it in the course of two years is the achievement of Joe E. Brown, who is starring in "Going Wild" at the Lincoln Theatre starting Sunday.

Brown was famous for many years on the stage and in vaudeville, his most famous play being "Twinkle, Twinkle." He essayed a couple of silent pictures, but did not care for the screen until the talkies came in. First National and Warner Brothers instantly recognized his genius as a comedian. He was signed for an important role in "On With The Show," the first all-natural-color talking picture, and scored an instant hit.

Immediately he was given the leading comedy role with Marilyn Miller in "Sally," which proved to be one of the greatest successes that ever has come to the screen.

He was then teamed with Winnie Lightner in "Hold Everything," the prize-fight farce in which Georges Carpentier also appeared. Warner Brothers instantly recognized his genius as a comedian. He was signed for an important role in "On With The Show," the first all-natural-color talking picture, and scored an instant hit.

Wildcat Jinx

Coach "Crip" Gollightly sends a fighting Matador quintet against the Abilene Christian Wildcats tonight in attempt to bolster Tech quintet's average for the season. The Matadors have a 500 percent standing to date, having dropped games to the Buffaloes, Cowboys, and Oklahoma Teachers. Victories have been scored against the Texas Miners, McMurray, and the Wildcats.

Gollightly coached quintet a 31 to 25 victory.

McCullum Brothers Show Uncanny Accuracy In Tossing Field Goals For Visiting Cowboy Five

Two brothers shot baskets in the Tech gym last Friday night. These boys, whose father was named McCollum, shot those baskets as members of the Simmons basketball team that defeated the Matadors 42 to 20.

The Cowboys were tossed from their pines during the first few minutes of play by the unexpected accuracy of the Matadors. Coach Gollightly's team scored twice to go into a lead that they held during the first ten minutes of play.

This lead, however, fell when the two brothers began hitting the hoop from all angles by the unexpected accuracy of the Matadors. Coach Gollightly's team scored twice to go into a lead that they held during the first ten minutes of play.

"Y" Notes

Officers for the remainder of the school year were chosen by the Freshman Friendship Council of the YMCA at the dinner meeting last Thursday evening at the First Christian Church. Charles O'Neill was re-elected president, with Houston Hinson, vice president, A. J. Rushing, recorder, and Bill Love, treasurer. These officers will choose cabinet members and chairmen of committees to direct the work of the Council.

President P. W. Horn gave the principal address on the program which preceded the election. Miss Evelyn Jackson, accompanied by Miss Alice Brown, rendered a program of violin solos.

Mr. C. W. Knapp of Indianapolis addressed five student groups last week on the problems of industry and industrial democracy. College classes at the First Methodist and Episcopal churches, a class in sociology, an economics problems study group, and a joint meeting of the YMCA and YMCA Cabinets were addressed by Mr. Knapp. Considerable interest has been aroused in students to study the current industrial and economic situation as a result of these addresses.

The Cabinet of the YMCA has changed the time of regular meetings to Monday evenings at 7:00 o'clock in room 312, administration building. Both the upperclass and freshman officers and committee-men are asked to meet at this time, and any other student or member of the faculty is welcome. The subject for discussion at the next few meetings will be the Christian student's responsibility toward war and economic and industrial maladjustment.

A committee has been appointed to study the form of organization which the YMCA can take in order to enlist the greatest number of men. It has been proposed that separate officers be elected from the various schools. Dr. J. O. Ellsworth is chairman of this committee.

The worship services will continue regularly each Wednesday at 11:00 a. m., in room 310, administration building. Students and members of the faculty are invited. The services will always adjourn at 11:30 or before.

The Freshman Council of the YMCA has changed the time for its weekly meetings to Thursday evening at seven thirty o'clock in room 312, administration building. At the meeting tonight Jack Boyd will begin a series of discussions on the subject "What is our authority for moral living?" All freshmen are invited.

Manila, P. I., has started a $1,000,000 city-improvement campaign.

"Fencing is too technical for the average audience," Dr. Patton continued, "and will never have the appeal that boxing has. I studied fencing in the University of Iowa and I am gladly coaching those who are interested in this sport."

The next meeting was announced for Friday night at 7:30.

Gerome Grayum and Keith Ward spent the week-end visiting friends and relatives in Paducah.

GETTING OUR NAMES IN THE PAPER

It seems that long crosses are passing out, just as they were really getting long. There's Louise Sneed with a bob. Her hair would be beautiful just anyway she decided to wear it, so we'll let her by.

Little Creta Herndon cut her's because the wave wouldn't stay in, and lo, she thought she would be different, and here goes half the school following her example.

There's one up here that isn't a bob. It's almost a peel. Jo Cowser has her's cut almost as short as the football boys had theirs in the fall. It suits her type tho', so we guess that is all right.

To be like Jo, Tootsie Baskin had to have her hair cut in the same way.

Mary Evelyn Woodson cut her's and she looks more like a child than ever. Rather attractive however.

Elwin Aycock has shingled her's. We really must insist that she let it grow again, because it is much more becoming when long.

The Staff member that we have for you this time is no other than Mary Beth Sheely. When she will work she is really good at reporting but when she does not work then it is our hard luck. Here's hoping that she will do her best to get in all of the society each week.

Miss Lovie Warnock, who was accidentally burned last week, is able to be in school again.

Officers Selected

FROM DATE NAMED
Date for the annual Tech junior prom has been set for March 7. It was announced recently. Falls were closed late yesterday for voting for the junior queen who will be formally crowned at the affair. Although winner of the election will not be announced until the junior class meeting next Tuesday night, much excitement was evidenced during the election which was held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Groups gathered in the halls and rotundas discussing the campaign of their favorite candidates and coeds representing the different social organizations lined every sidewalk passing, asking if he was a junior and telling him how to vote. The junior prom is an annual frolic at which time seniors are honor guests. The affair will be formal as is the custom.
