The inadvertent destruction of over 60 checks has caused the Office of Room Reservations to call upon students whose checks were lost to replace them with new checks, according to H. L. Burgess, supervisor of the Office of Room Reservations.

The trouble started several days ago when a group of checks, paid by students for room and board in campus dormitories, was accidentally thrown into a trash can by secretaries flooded with subsistence payments. The trash can was then taken to the city dump and the checks were destroyed.

operation and feel quite sure it will be cleared up in a matter of days," said Burgess, "and any further cooperation will be appreciated."

Tech's Office of Room Reservations is now asking each student involved to furnish the office with another check. Every student involved has been contacted and assured he will suffer no monetary loss of any kind. "We have met with good co-

Burgess also emphasized, "The student is not taking a risk, because he could pull both checks in case of a misunderstanding. This sort of thing could happen to any kind of check, whether it be a bank note, bill or whatever. The additional check is for deposit and proof of payment."

'Academic' Students Visit Campus Today

Two years of planning for an academic recruiting program at Texas Tech will be climaxed today when 40 high school students arrive on campus.

For the first time, the recruiting program committee of Tech's Student Council has invited groups of students from several Texas high schools. Fifteen students from Hereford High School and 25 students from Permian High School, Odessa, have accepted the invitation. All are members of the National Honor Society.

STUDENTS FROM AMARILLO high schools were also invited but will not be able to attend, according to Ronnie Botkin, member of the Student Council committee on academic recruiting.

"We're trying to improve the scholastic atmosphere of Tech by inviting high school students with the greatest academic potential to Tech," Botkin said.

The program will begin at 9 a.m. today with an assembly in the Workroom of the Tech Union. Charlie Aycock, student council president, will give the welcoming address. James G. Allen, dean of student life, will speak on student activities at Tech.

AT 10 A.M. TECH HONOR GROUPS from every school on campus will host a tour through departments in which each high school student is interested and will explain the various curricula.

A tour of the campus will be conducted by members of the recruiting committee from 10 a.m. to noon. At this time, a luncheon will be hosted in the Tech Union. James Cole, president of Board of Student Organizations, will speak on student organization, and Steve Magee, chairman of Student Honors Committee, will discuss the Arts and Science honors program.

A TECH UNION DISCUSSION has been scheduled for 1 p.m. when Jack Shishler, Union director, will explain the Union committees and what the Union offers the Tech student.

At 2 p.m. Dr. Floyd Boze, dean of admissions, will discuss the procedure of entering the college.

"We feel like that by showing an interest in the students they will be more inclined to come to Tech," Botkin said.

"We are planning on sending some groups out to high schools 200 and 300 miles from Tech to speak on Texas Tech," Botkin said.

Rules Announced For L-V Pageant

The "beautiful" moment . . . the naming of Tech's most beautiful girl . . . announcement of La Ventana's Miss Playmate—all will happen Feb. 9 in Municipal Auditorium at the annual La Ventana Extravaganza.

The pageant, sponsored yearly by Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalistic society, serves to select Tech's top 10 yearbook beauties to be featured in full page pictures in the 1963 La Ventana, according to Travis Peterson, sponsor of this year's pageant.

"The girl who is judged most beautiful from these 10 will be featured in a full page color picture on the cover of Mademoiselle Magazine in La Ventana," Peterson said.

Patti Ayers won last year's Miss Mademoiselle title and is also holder of this year's Miss Lubbock title.

Peterson said La Ventana has used the pageant form of selecting beauties since 1959. "We aren't the only ones that use this," he said.

He explained that some schools "send pictures of the contestants off and rely on judges to select the most beautiful girl merely by looking at her picture." He said "that by our system, judges get to see the contestants in person.

"This also eliminates the personality contest that beauty pageants have become on some campuses," he explained. He said that Tech has a Mr. and Miss Texas Tech which involves personality, "but La Ventana beauties are selected on beauty alone." He

A dozen roses, a loving cup, and a moment of glory will be the reward when 12 coeds vie for the inter-fraternity basketball queen title Saturday. Judging will go on through the day and the winner will be announced at half time of the championship game. The queen will be presented by Tom Ewens, president of Alpha Tau Omega, the host fraternity.

Tickets for the tourney are $1 and are on sale in the Union lobby. Trophies for the winners of all events are on display in the Union. The games will be in the old gym. An all-tourney team will also be named.

Reporter Analyzes Activities Of Typical College Male

By MAX JENNINGS
Toreador Asst. Managing Editor

His eyes are red.
His hair is uncombed.
His collar is tucked half in, half out of his worn corduroy coat.

He is unshaven.
He's a member of the goof-off clique, late cram club and holder of a surprisingly good grade point average.

The entire problem hinges, according to this college senior, on the fact that there is just not enough time to get in all the activities and make acceptable grades, unless sacrifices are made. He says the primary sacrifice, in his case, is sleep.

It's easy, he explains, to learn to live on two to three hours sleep each night. This schedule allows time for studying, partying and just plain old "goofing off."

How does he, and the rest of this ever-widening circle of men students, keep grades high?

The "easiest" way violates every code set forth by educators. He carries out his social activities until 12 or 1 a.m., then spends the entire night cramming. Eyes are held open during this marathon with coffee, benzedrine, coffee and benzedrine, repeated in cycles close enough to ward off sleep.

Come the dawn — the breaking of a "new" day — and he is ready to trip to class, loaded with tons of information. He divulges this knowledge for good, since he won't remember most of what he put down two hours later, staggers to the Union for a cup of coffee and concentrates the rest of the morning on bluffing his way through assignments in other classes.

Obviously there must be advantages for this kind of existence.

First, he says he makes more contacts. He meets more people while in college who could prove useful later. "There's a great value in this social life, even if grades have to be hurt," he says. "I certainly feel the majority of this time is not wasted."

But doing without sleep he is also able to belong to many more organizations than he could otherwise, compile an outstanding activity record and make acceptable grades at the same time.

Of course, many instructors will argue that this is not the way to make acceptable grades. He disproves this argument consistently. "I could probably make better grades," he admits, "if I would cut down on some of my activities. But it's just too much fun. I'm getting by okay."

And his record proves this. He's known by practically everyone on campus. His instructors all respect his ability. And, when he's not yawning, he's smiling.

I know. He's my roommate.

Critic Tags Riding Hood As Red Propaganda Plot

Compiled By Michele Preston
Toreador Staff Writer

LOUISIANA STATE U.

An article in The Daily Reville by Bill Clark shows shades of communistic propaganda in the fairy tale "Little Red Riding Hood," as discovered by noted critic Walter Goldberry.

"Little Red herself represents international communism in its youth. Grandmother is Mother Nature. The wolf is the Wall Street capitalist and the woodsman, War."

"Following the plot of the story, Little Red is going to take a basket of goodies — the people of her world — to her sick old granny. In other words, communism is taking civilization back to nature. The basket is protected by a linen cloth with red marks.

VENTURES BRAVELY

"However, in order to fulfill her duty to granny, the poor suffering child first must venture bravely through the woods, in which abound the evil wolves. The trees are the huge capitalistic industries of the decadent West; the vines, the clinging remnants of a stagnant economy.

"As the 'Heroine' winds her way through this jungle, she is stalked by the Wall Street wolf in his gray flannel hide. The teeth of the beast are yellow from swallowing up less fortunate nations. "Earlier, the horrible fiend had run into the house of Nature and imprisoned mom in the nearest closet, the United Nations. This is an allusion to the fact that capitalism is unnatural.

ENTERS HOUSE

"Now Little Red Riding Hood enters the House of Nature. Little, of course, refers to the youth of the communistic movement. Red is the party color. Riding symbolizes the rapid progress of the movement, due to its inherent greatness. Hood means the true purpose of the party cannot be revealed until the proper time.

"The fat piggyish, capitalistic wolf immediately attacks the young, innocent thing. She is so tender and gentle that she must call on the woodsman to save her from the perilous plight.

"The forester with his battle-ax comes in and begins chopping away. Soon all that remains of the wolf is 'left-overs.' This same weapon will be used to destroy the trees and vines in the capitalistic jungle."

INVESTIGATES AUTHOR

Goldberry, who exerts a great influence on the night people in Washington, said he would have the House Committee on Un-American Activities start an investigation of Charles Perrault, who is thought to have written this "child's story."

Research is now being done by Goldberry on the novel, "The Three Bears" by Robert Southey. Tentatively, he advances the theory that Papa Bear is Russia; Mama Bear, Red China; and Baby Bear, Cuba.

Goldlocks represents the bleached and decadent West. She tries to take away food from Cuba and occupy the bed of Baby Bear.

Goldberry said in his talk that his "conscience" told him to uncover these cleverly written and subversive documents.

WITTENBERG UNIVERSITY

A "Kissing Bridge" at Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio, is causing great controversy, reports the ACP.

It seems this rickety wooden foot bridge which leads nowhere and crosses nothing is costing girls on campus around $687.89 for field glasses to watch their friends' activities.

A poll in 1960 revealed that every male on campus spent at least two hours a week on the construction. Also, it makes showing people around the campus difficult — who wants some one rubbernecking while you're necking?

The author offers one possible alternative until the problem can be brought before the board of directors — practical scientific research and volunteers to accompany him to the bridge.

RICE UNIVERSITY

A new legislation by the Dean of Students at Rice says girls may visit men's residence quarters only when three people will be present in the room. The "open houses" have been limited to special occasions only. A registrar is to be appointed in each residence hall to take the name of each female visitor.

Cage Tourney Begins

By CHARLES WALKER
Toreador Staff Writer

Sigma Nu and Fijis of Tech will meet for the initial tipoff at 2:15 p.m. today in the intramural gym to mark the beginning of the Alpha Tau Omega all-fraternity basketball tournament.

Ten Tech fraternities — along with Kappa Alpha and Alpha Tau Omega of West Texas State College and Sigma Chi, Phi Delta Theta, and Kappa Sigma of Texas Christian University — will vie for the tourney's championship in competition tonight and Saturday. The only Tech fraternity not competing in the basketball action is ATO.

Among the main attractions will be Sonny Gibbs, the 6 ft. 8 in. star quarterback of the TCU Horned Frogs football team. Gibbs will be one of the representatives on the Sigma Chi team from the Fort Worth school. This fraternity took runner-up honors in last year's tourney.

Many other football players will be competing on the various teams, which could promise some rugged action on the court. Among the more well-known gridiron stars in attendance will be Jerry Logan, the noted West Texas State College halfback, who will be performing for his school's Kappa Alpha chapter, the same fraternity which walked away with the tournament championship in 1961.

Other first-round games pit Phi Delta Theta and Kappa Alpha, both of Tech, at 3:30 p.m.; Sigma Chi and Delta Tau Delta, both of Tech, at 4:45 p.m.; Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Pi Kappa Alpha, both of Tech, at 6 p.m.; Tech's Phi Kappa Psi and Alpha Tau Omega of West Texas at 7:15 p.m.; TCU's Sigma Chi and Kappa Sigma of Tech at 8:30 p.m. and Phi Delta Theta and Kappa Sigma, both of TCU, at 9:45 p.m. Kappa Alpha of West Texas State draws a first-round bye.

At 8 a.m. Saturday, Kappa Alpha of West Texas will meet the winner of the 2:15 p.m. clash; the winner of the 3:30 p.m. game will take on the 4:45 p.m. contest winner at 9:15 p.m.; the 6 p.m. and 7:15 p.m. game winners will clash at 10:30 p.m. and at 12:15 p.m. the winners of Friday's 8:30 p.m. and 9:45 p.m. games will meet.

The semi-final action will take place at 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday afternoon with the winners of the 8 p.m. and 9:15 a.m. games opposing one another in the first contest and the victors of the 10:30 p.m. and 12:15 p.m. matches meeting in the second.

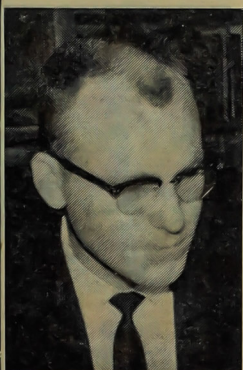

The championship tilt will get under way at 6:30 p.m. Saturday evening. The tournament's championship team and runner-up squad will come out of this game.

Four trophies will be awarded at the tournament. The first and second place teams both will receive trophies after the final game.

Also honored at this time will be an all-tournament team chosen by tournament officials. Each of these five players will receive a trophy.

During halftime of the championship game a trophy will be awarded to the campus organization with the highest total game attendance based on membership.

Price of tourney tickets is $1. They may be bought at Tech Union.

KIESLING RECEIVES AWARD

Ernest W. Kiesling, assistant professor of civil engineering, received a National Science Foundation Fellowship this week. The fellowship will enable him to do full time graduate work at Michigan State University.

Kiesling plans to begin his doctorate work in applied mechanics in September.

Three years experience in the teaching field is required to apply for the fellowship.

BSO Solves Conflicts With Activity Calendar

What's happening Saturday on the campus.

Are some conflicting events taking place?

These are two questions which might enter the minds of all campus leaders when planning an activity.

The Board of Student Organizations has devised a solution to the problem.

Beginning next semester, the BSO is going to publish a calendar of all activities on the Tech campus.

Marilyn Tinney, BSO program chairman, said, "The calendar is to help organizations coordinate next semester's activities and avoid conflicts."

Forms to be filled out by each campus organization have been sent to the various organization presidents. The forms must be completed and returned to the office of James G. Allen, dean of student life, by 5 p.m. Tuesday, Miss Tinney said.

If some organizations do not receive the forms, they may contact James Cole, BSO president, for information concerning the calendar data.

An explanation of each event, including time and place and whether or not it is an open function, is the information required on the forms.

Several times during the semester, a supplement calendar will be mailed to organization leaders.

Aggies Sponsor Contest Events

The 15th annual Little International, complete with milking, harnessing, and showmanship contests and the Blue Ribbon ham sale, is slated to begin at 1 p.m. tomorrow in the Stock Judging Pavillion.

Fourteen coeds are entered in the Milkmaid contest. The winner will become Miss Milkmaid and queen of the event.

Sponsoring organizations and their entries are Rebecca Ramsey, Chi Omega; Linda Collard, Alpha Phi; Sadie McMurtry, Delta Delta Delta; Nan Burstrom, Kappa Alpha Theta; Mary Behrends, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Tullisha Shahan, Alpha Chi Omega; Serita Erown, Sigma Kappa; Carolyn Whittle, Dairy Barn; Geri Perky, Rodeo Club; Suzanne Dudley, Delta Gamma; Barbara Hudman, Phi Mu; Janie Richards, Doak Hall; Sally Woodruff, Drane Hall; and Lana Dalton, Horn Hall.

In the Showmanship contest, students will be judged on individual showmanship and the appearance of the animal in the show ring. Students drew their animals from college stock and have been working with them for about four weeks.

Herring Wins Second Acquittal For Murder

BEAUMONT (AP) — John Mack Herring walked from court a free man Thursday for the second time after a jury acquitted him "by reason of insanity" of murdering a high school girl classmate.

"As far as the state is concerned we feel there is no more to be said in this case," said Dan Sullivan, an attorney for the prosecution.

Herring, 19, a former Odessa High School football player, was tried on a charge of murder in the kiss-and-kill shotgun slaying of Elizabeth Jean Williams on March 21, 1961.

The jury in a Wilkier County sanity hearing last year had found him insane at the time of the slaying but made no ruling on his sanity at the time of the sanity hearing.

Under Texas law the effect of the ruling was to free Herring and prevent his being tried on the murder charge.

However, the State Court of Appeals ruled the sanity hearing was not properly constituted and the case was transferred to Beaumont.

Despite the defense argument that the appeals court ruling was on a point of law and did not set aside the finding that Herring was insane, Judge Owen Lord ordered the youth to trial on the murder charge.

Testimony during the trial showed that Herring told officers: The Williams girl begged him to end her life and that they drove from Odessa to a ranch stock pond in neighboring Winkler County the night of the slaying.

After they kissed good-bye, the girl held a muzzle of a shotgun to her temple and Herring pulled the trigger.

He later helped officers recover the body from the pond.

During the trial Herring's lawyers contended that although he was sane now, he was insane at the time of the slaying and should be acquitted.

The case went to the jury Wednesday night. The verdict was returned at 9:45 a.m. Thursday. The jury had deliberated 3 hours and 9 minutes.

When foreman Lucien P. Hebert finished reading the jury's verdict, Herring appeared greatly relieved.

He stood quietly by his chair for a short time. Then his defense lawyer, Warren Burnett, embraced him fervently. The youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Herring, hugged him.

"We are happy, completely happy," the elder Herring told newsmen.

Burnett said, "I'm very pleased. I've never been more pleased about a verdict."

Herring left the courtroom with his parents and Burnett for an undisclosed destination.

Tech Architects Receive State, National Scholarship Awards

Nolan Barrick, head of the architecture and allied arts department, recently announced that seven students majoring in architecture and allied arts have received state and national awards.

Joe Wallis of Lubbock received a $1,000 Jessie Jones Scholarship and a $300 scholarship from the Monarch Tile Company. Each year Jones Scholarships are presented to three students attending the five schools of architecture in Texas. Barrick said that this is Tech's second year to have been one of the recipients.

Byron Folse of Lubbock won the $125 Texas Concrete Masonry Assn. award for Tech. The association presents similar awards to a student at each architectural school in the state.

Three scholarships were presented by the Featherlite Company to Patrick James, Magalena, N.M., senior; Forrest R. Narmour, Lubbock senior; and Joe Tomlinson, Lubbock senior. The amounts were respectively $225, $100, and $75.

Pat Jones of Abilene won $250 in the packaging contest sponsored by St. Regis Paper Company.

In the National Institute for Architectural Education, R. L. Melton of El Paso won a $100 first place award, and Folse received honorable mention.

said those girls participating would not be required to speak or otherwise display personality at any time during the contest.

The winner of the Miss Playmate contest, to be pictured in a three-page foldout section of La Ventana's Playboy, will also be announced, but she will have been already chosen on the basis of a photograph submitted earlier to the judges. Tana Tolleson was featured in this year's Playboy.

Peterson said the Playmate entries will be presented in bathing suits at the pageant, but they will not be judged at this time.

Entry blanks for both the contests may be obtained after Jan. 3 in room 102 of the Journalism Bldg. Each entry must be accompanied by a $1 entry fee.

In answer to earlier questions, Peterson said any organization may sponsor as many girls as it wants to in the Miss Mademoiselle contest.

The only requirement, he said, is that entries must be attending Tech.

Entries in the Miss Playmate contest may be sponsored by any male organization on campus.

Peterson said all entries in the Miss Mademoiselle contest will meet at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 1 in the Aggie Engineering Auditorium.

The following day, Feb. 2, beginning at 1:30 p.m., first preliminaries will be in the same building with all entries asked to be present for swim suit competition.

Peterson said contestants would be eliminated during judging of swim suit competition although the exact number of contestants that will compete in the finals has not yet been determined.

There will be an admission charge, Peterson said, but the show will be open to the public.

Gene Price, KSEL disc jockey, Tech student and emcee of last year's show, will again be on hand at 8 p.m. as master of ceremonies. He will also introduce acts between numbers, to be furnished from Tech talent. Acts and setting will be centered around the theme of "Caravan."

Vanderbilt Will Grant Ph.D. To Tech English Instructor

Kenneth W. Davis, instructor in Tech's English department, will receive the Ph.D. in English at Vanderbilt University commencement exercises Jan. 26 in Nashville, Tenn.

Davis, who received the B.A. in 1954 from Tech, spent a year at Vanderbilt under a $2,000 doctoral grant offered by that institution to promising teachers.

The young English instructor joined the Tech faculty in September, 1955, after completing the M.A. degree from Vanderbilt on a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship.

Davis also has taught in the Clovis, N.M., public schools.

He is active in the South Central Modern Language Association; the Conference of College Teachers of English; Pi Sigma Alpha, honorary government fraternity; Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity; and Sigma Delta Pi, honorary Spanish fraternity. He also belongs to Phi Eta Sigma and Alpha Chi, honorary scholastic fraternities.

A native of Holland, Tex., he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Davis of Lubbock.

Reservations Deadline Nears

Students planning to join the European tour need to make arrangements in the near future, according to Mrs. Mary Strout, sponsor.

"I can assure space for the students through the last of January," said Mrs. Strout. "After that, people can still apply, but room will not be guaranteed. Also the space available may not be with the group, but in some other part of the boat."

Mrs. Strout stressed that there are a limited number of cabins available at the minimum price and that late reservations will be in a higher price range.

There are 24 places left. A $200 deposit is required to make a reservation. Total minimum price is $1228.

Bledsoe Hosts City Orphans

Bledsoe Hall became Santa's house in the North Pole in the eyes of 15 Lubbock Children's Home orphans Thursday.

The men's residence hall staged a Christmas party for the three to seven-year-old homeless tots. Their eyes grew large with excitement as Santa Claus was on hand to give the children sacks of candy and oranges as an added surprise.

Bledsoe Hall is attempting to initiate a new tradition of decorating the dormitory. The residents have displayed a Christmas scene depicting three carolers with a fourth one running to catch up in time to sing. A glittered sign of "Season's Greetings" is staked on the lawn.

As I see it . . .

by johnnie lu raborn

I was interested in a statement I heard this past weekend about Texas. I was listening to Bill Brammer, author of "The Gay Place," talk about Texas writers. His theory was: "Writers develop in a developing culture." This speaks well for Texas, and the thought isn't restricted only to writers. At present, the market for novels is growing but still pretty much limited "status buying." This means buying a well-rated book and laying it on the coffee table for guests to see.

Brammer began talking about this "culture" that allows literary freedom and stimulation. "Texas has a society that is flexible," he said. The state is changing.

Texans aren't set along hard, fast lines such as New Englanders might be. Our "culture" is young and changing with each "new rich" generation. To paraphrase Brammer, each set has a new "struggle with the future."

Texas politics is an example of our flexibility. We are set along some lines, but the recent elections showed a struggle. Texas colleges, and Tech in particular, come under this category. Our school is relatively young and growing.

Our physical growth is apparent. Each year we add buildings, faculty and students. Our academic atmosphere is undergoing a painfully slow but definite change. Faculty and campus leaders are meeting, discussing and planning to improve the scholastic status of Tech.

Our fraternal situation, both honorary and social, is growing. Rumor has it that a new fraternity will come on campus soon. Growth and change are key words on our campus and in the state. I hope that Brammer's theory of development will hold true during ours and succeeding generations. Why? It speaks well for us.

AS I SEE IT

The Christmas season has arrived and brought with it a bevy of yuletide parties. Last night, Sigma Chi's took students from the Lubbock Children's Home and went caroling. They will get together again with the children and have a party at 3 p.m. in the lodge Sunday.

Phi Delta Theta will have the Christmas Formal at 8 p.m. today in the Palm Room. Tomorrow night, several fraternities will have their Christmas parties. Kappa Sigma will dance at 8:30 p.m. at the Caprock Hotel. The Flamingo Club will be the setting for Phi Gamma Delta's party. Delta Tau Delta's Pre-New Year's dance will be at 8 p.m. in the National Guard Armory.

Sigma Nu members and pledges have scheduled a Christmas dance for 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Charlie Hatchett and his band will play. Santa Claus will visit the Phi Kappa Psi "Pillow Pounce" Saturday at 8 p.m. in the lodge. Sigma Alpha Epsilon members will dance Friday night at the "Snowflake Dance" at 8 p.m. The formal dance will be at the Hillcrest Country Club.

Pledges of Pi Kappa Alpha are throwing a "Tramp Turn-out" for the members at 8 p.m. Saturday. The party will be at a warehouse at 8th and Ave. H. John O. Carothers and his band will provide the music.

AS I SEE IT

Alpha Chi Omega is having a Christmas caroling party at 6:45 p.m. Sunday. Monday night the sorority will honor its alums with a party at the lodge. Delta Gamma pledges are honoring actives with a party at 3 p.m. Saturday at the lodge.

Kappa Kappa Gammas are busy with the arrival of the Christmas season. Saturday afternoon they are giving a party at Milam's Children's Training Center for the children. Sunday night the pledges will present a Christmas dinner for the actives at the lodge. The theme is the "Twelve Days of Christmas."

Life Can Be Exciting At Casa Linda

By JEANNIE STARK
Toreador Staff Writer

There are at least 18 Tech coeds who cannot complain of a "dull" life. How come? Because they all live in Casa Linda.

Consider a typical day at Tech's only women's cooperative house. One morning recently, the girls finished breakfast with a "bang." When they investigated the crash on the corner of 19th and College Ave., they found a Plymouth heaped over Casa Linda's front wall.

While watching the process of removing the car from their front yard, Casa Linda girls listened to a local radio station's spot news announcements concerning the wreck and resulting traffic jam. (The girls agreed that it was the police car's fault, even though they didn't see the collision!)

The girls are "old friends" of the police department. One rainy night at closing time, the girls and their dates watched a car run over the street divider on College Ave. and knock over the traffic light on the corner.

"We called the police and the campus traffic department several times to make sure they got the message," one girl said.

The girls watched the entire process of removing the light and live wires from the street and used an upstairs bedroom as a lookout post to witness the installation of the new traffic light the following morning.

There are 18 Tech coeds who will never say that they lead a "dull" life . . . and, they don't!

To generate that seasonally sought after Christmas Spirit, we suggest you
Give him

A suit, a sweater or scarf.
Some socks, shirts, or skis.
Or slacks or shoes.

Or a coat — top or sport —

A tie, a tux
A belt, a bota.
A mug or banger or horn.
And a vest — yes, a vest —

Or a Gift Certificate
(If you can't decide)

Its always Safe.

We have it all,
of course,

And so much more.

Dorms Prepare For Holiday Season

Caroling, decorations, open house and parties are all a part of the Christmas festivities created by the dorms in these last few days before the holidays.

It's been a busy week in Doak Hall, and it will climax with open house and decoration judging Sunday. Visitors are welcome at tea from 1-3 p.m. Sunday in the upstairs lounge.

Prizes will be awarded for the most beautiful door, the most original door and the best decorated wing.

Monday night, Doak coeds participated in the annual tree decorating party. The all-dorm Christmas party was Thursday night. East wings presented skits and certificates of participation were given to girls who have rendered service to Doak Hall.

Tuesday night, the seniors will don dark skirts and white blouses and carol through darkened halls in the traditional candlelight caroling service.

Drane Hall will also have open house Sunday from 1-2 p.m. The best decorated wing will be recognized. Thursday night at the all-dorm party, girls decorated the tree and collected gifts for Toys for Tots.

All week long each girl has been watched over by a "pixie" who has been secretly doing nice little things for her. Each pixie will be identified by a gift under the Christmas tree.

Wing parties and decorations have taken the time of West Hall residents this week. First, second and third decoration prizes will be given at their open house Sunday from 2-4 p.m. A Christmas program with readings and songs is on the agenda for the all-dorm party Tuesday night.

Win-Starved Raiders Try Auburn Tonight

By CHARLEY RICHARDS
Toreador Managing Editor

AUBURN, Ala.—Win-starved Texas Tech, which has gone hungry four consecutive times this season, tries undefeated Auburn at 7:30 p.m. here today in an effort to register an entry on the other side of the won-lost ledger.

It could be that all the Red Raiders will eat is their words, however, if they plan too strongly on a victory. Auburn's Plainsmen thumped Howard 69-50, in the season's opener and then rolled by Florida State 65-47.

The main cog in the Auburn machine is Layton Johnson, a 6-7 center and lone senior on the starting five.

Accompanying him is a 6-7 sophomore center-forward Joe Newton, who has looked promising in the games played so far. Both Newton and Johnson are able rebounders. At the other three positions will be a trio of juniors in 5-11 Larry Cart, 6-0 Larry Chapman and 6-2 John Blackwell.

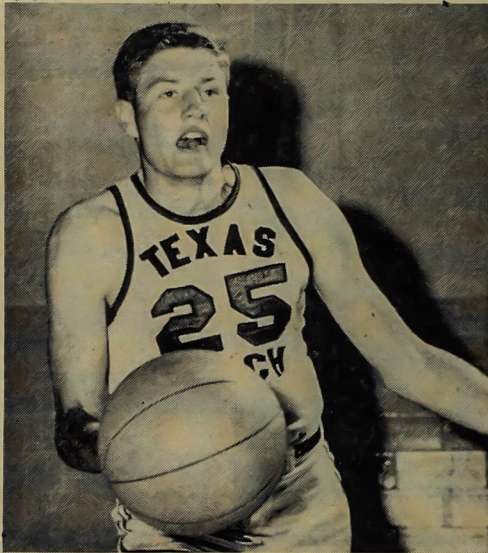

Two juniors and three sophomores have gained starting assignments for the Red Raiders.

Juniors Sid Wall and Bill Murren will be at guard slots, Royce Woolard and Glen Halum will be at forwards and Harold Denney will handle the center post.

Comparative scores indicate a close game. Auburn beat Florida State at Auburn by 18 and Florida, a 2-point overtime victor over Tech Saturday, beat Florida State by 21 at Florida State.

Auburn Sports Arena, site of the contest, is a converted army gymnasium and seats only 2,500. The crowd will probably be considerably less than capacity, however, because most Auburn students have gone home between semesters. Auburn is on the quarterly system.

The Tech squad arrived by chartered plane at 2:45 Thursday afternoon and had a short workout at the arena. A light drill this afternoon will conclude pre-game preparation.

LEADING SCORER—When the Texas Tech Red Raiders appear for two games in Alabama this weekend against Auburn and Alabama, the two Southeastern Conference schools will have their hands full trying to contain Sid Wall, the 6-3 junior from Dallas. In the Raiders' first four games, Wall has compiled totals of 17, 19, 21 and 23 points respectively for an even 20 point-per-game average. —Staff Photo

Chicago Bears' Ronnie Bull Named Rookie-Of-The-Year

Ronnie Bull, the Chicago Bears' running halfback, was named Rookie-of-the-Year in the National Football League by an Associated Press committee of sports writers and broadcasters from the 14 league cities.

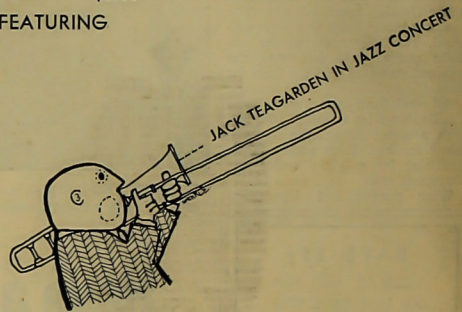

Bull, the Bears' number one draft choice a year ago after leading Baylor in running and pass receiving for three straight seasons, started his pro career on the defense. After a succession of injuries crippled the Bears, Bull moved to offense. Although Bull carried the ball only nine times for 26 yards and did not catch a pass in the Bears' first three games, his figures through last Sunday's 13th game show 372 yards in 103 carries for a 3.6 yard average and 29 passes for 324 yards.

Ten Packers Land On Team

Green Bay placed ten players on the All-National Football League team announced by the Associated Press. Fullback Jim Taylor, tight end Ron Kramer, tackle Forrest Gregg, guard Jerry Kramer and center Jim Ringo from the Packers' offensive unit. End Willie Davis, tackle Henry Jordan, corner back Herb Adderley and linebackers Dan Currie and Bill Forester from the defensive squad made the all-pro team.

The rest of the offensive dream team had Del Shofner of New York at split end, Roosevelt Brown of the Giants at the other tackle position, Jim Parker of Baltimore at the other guard spot, Y. A. Tittle of New York at quarterback, Bobby Mitchell of Washington at the flanker back post and Don Perkins of Dallas at halfback.

Non-Green Bay members of the defensive unit are Gino Marchetti of Baltimore and Willie Dallis at ends, Roger Brown of Detroit at tackle, Joe Schmidt of Detroit, at middle linebacker, Jimmy Patton of New York and Yale Lary of Detroit at safeties and Dick Lane of Detroit at cornerback.
