

Piano Duo Plays To Capacity Crowd

By NANCY MILLER
Toreador Amusements Editor

It was 8:45 p.m.
The low-pitched roar from the capacity crowd died and the people who had been playing tic tac toe put away their pencils.
A YOUNG MAN stepped out, introduced Ferrante and Teicher, and stepped off again. The Auditorium overhead lights remained glaringly bright.
Where were Ferrante and Teicher? The roar began to rise again. Then a girl stepped out, explained that due to an overabundance of people, chairs were being set up onstage for latecomers. Then she vanished.

THE LIGHTS WENT out abruptly, catching the people sneaking out for a last minute cigarette in mid-aisle. The curtains slid open, revealing a row of obviously embarrassed people seated onstage.

Suddenly two men of medium height clad in black-rimmed glasses and glittering dinner jackets walked onstage. The Gold Dust twins? No, Ferrante and Teicher. They sat at the two grand pianos, hesitated momentarily, then glided smoothly into Bizet's "Highlights From "Carmen'." They played well — flawlessly and lucidly. The audience, captivated, applauded soundly.

THEY RIPPLED into Debussy's haunting "Reverie" and the Auditorium was hushed while the fragile song echoed, only to dissolve into a storm of applause at its close.

Their stage presence was remarkable — "Brazil" set feet tapping as they slid unerringly through the difficult arrangement. "Gigi" came out soft, and fairly floated from the pianos.

"AFRICAN ECHOS," a Ferrante and Teicher original, brought the veldt and safari to Lubbock. They not only played the keys, but plucked the strings as well, and the result was great. "American Fantasy," another F&T original, was built around "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," "Dixie" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and was played intricately and well.

It is easy to see why Ferrante and Teicher possess the popularity that they do. They are pianists of stature, they play smoothly, and they are entirely at ease before large audiences. They easily absorb the listener, despite the lack of backing instruments. Ferrante and Teicher are indeed worth waiting for.

For 50 Miles

Tramp - Tramp . . .

By LEO BROWN
Toreador Staff Writer

Texas Tech wasn't outdone by the University of Texas in the 50-mile hike craze.

Not only has Tech joined the ranks of such news-makers as Bobby Kennedy, the Marines, and thousands of Americans in hiking, but a Techsan set a record in the process.

The Texas Longhorns boast they hold the official Southwest Conference record set by two students who hiked 54 miles in 17 hours and 10 minutes but reported no time for the 50-mile mark.

John Seymour, Tech senior, walked from Plainview to Tech's Ad Bldg., a distance of 50 miles, in 16½ hours. Add to this that Seymour only spent 15 hours actual walking and the record is considerably reduced.

The other hour and a half were spent eating, changing socks and getting two rubdowns.

Even after the long jaunt and getting in bed at 3 a.m.,

Seymour rose at 9 the following morning and spent the day studying.

Seymour is one of nine ROTC students, all members of Scabbard and Blade, who drove to Plainview last Saturday and started for Lubbock at 8:15 a.m. Seymour finished in front of the Ad Bldg. after double-timing the last 200 yards and sprinting the last 50. It was 12:45 a.m. Sunday.

The double-timing and sprinting at the hike's end are part of the rules for hikers set by Teddy Roosevelt in a letter to the Commandant of the Marines during the former President's administration. Since the present Marine Commandant, Gen. David M. Shoup, showed the letter to President Kennedy an interest in hiking soared after Kennedy challenged the Marine Corp to make such a hike.

The other eight hikers accompanying Seymour were sidelined with an assortment of blisters, cramps and stomach spasms. "All could have made it, but it would have ended in bloody feet. We agreed that if anyone had anything wrong they would drop out. It was fine to try but there was no sense in hurting ourselves," said Seymour.

Seymour, a Lubbock government major, arrived at Tech with no blisters and apparently no ill affects. "It wasn't too hard. Mental attitude and no blisters or cramps is all it takes. You don't have to be in real good shape," said Seymour.

When told that he now held the record, Seymour said, "We weren't even out to set a record. That wasn't the idea."

A challenge from higher officers that the students were complacent was the reason the men gave for making the hike. Seymour is from an Army family. His father is a retired Army colonel and his brother is an officer in the Army now. After graduating from Tech in August, he plans to make the Army Infantry a career.

Seymour denied the rumor that he "cheated" by taking a practice run the previous day to be sure he could accomplish the feat.

OTHER ARDENT U.S. HIKERS have trudged the 50-mile jaunt but John Seymour, Tech senior, discovers he not only made the hike in a possible record time of 16½ hours but has no blisters as a result.

SC Election Set Monday

Ronnie Botkin, Hereford sophomore, was the only winner in Friday's Student Council election as a result of a name being omitted from the freshman ballots and a run-off necessary for the other council vacancy.

Election Monday

The Freshman Council election and run-off have been re-scheduled for Monday.

Karen Anderson, Student Council elections chairman, said the name omission would necessitate another election.

Botkins with 114 votes, defeated Peggy Pedigo, with 34 votes, for the engineering school council position.

In Run-Off

Finalists in the business administration run-off are John Paul Davis, 110 votes, Jerry Peirce, 125; Mac Percival, 152; and James Perry, 94.

Other candidates in this race were Diane Baker, 72 votes, Rick Klein, 85; Becky Parker, 69; and Pat Walker, 42.

Need To Vote

Guy Seibert, Freshman Council advisor, emphasized the need for freshmen to vote Monday. "The Freshman Council has done a good job this semester. Freshmen should be conscious of who is running so the work can be continued in the spring semester. They can insure this by supporting the candidates they think will do the best job," Seibert said.

Aggies Down Raiders, 96-83

By CECIL GREEN and RAY FINFER
Toreador Staff

COLLEGE STATION — Playing behind the hot, hot shooting of junior guard Benny Lennox, the Texas A&M Aggies outscored Texas Tech 96-83 Friday.

Lennox set a new A&M single season scoring record with a total of 39 points. He now has 550 points for the season, breaking Carroll Broussard's 1961 record of 538 points.

FARLEY HOT

Mike Farley, playing an outstanding game both offensively and defensively for Tech, was the scoring star for the Raiders with 17 points. Previously, the junior reserve's highest effort for the season was eight points.

Injuries also plagued the Raiders, with Bill Murren suffering a wrenched knee early in the first half to slow down Tech's defensive attack and ball handling.

HIT FROM FLOOR

The Raiders outplayed the Farmers on the floor, tossing in 29 of 60 field goal attempts for a 48.3 percentage. The Aggies managed 33 of 73 for a 45.2 percentage. With 64 fouls called, free throws took up a large part of the game, with Tech hitting 27 of 41 attempts and A&M, 30 of 45.

After trailing in the first half, 48-31, the Raiders came back in the final period and outscored the Aggies 52-48, but to no avail. Lennox tossed in 22 points in the first half and was almost as prolific in the second stanza, with 17 more.

SPARSE CROWD

The sparse crowd of 3,400 witnessed the one-man show by Lennox and another of Broussard's records fall to Lee Walker. Scoring 19 points and grabbing 16 rebounds, Walker raised his career total of rebounds to 220, two more than Broussard's mark.

Glen Hallum opened the game with a quick two points to give Tech the lead, which was good for several minutes until the Farmers finally went ahead 11-10. After that the fouls began falling fast and thick, Lennox began hitting, and the A&M crew were not to be headed again.

Besides Farley, top scorers for the Raiders were Harold Denney, 15 points; Tom Patty, 14 points; and Bobby Gindorf, 11 points.

Religious Rights Lands Penn. Couple In Court

PHILADELPHIA (P) — "We can be justly proud of two of the fundamentals that have made America great—our concept of religious freedom and our separation of church and state."

That conviction has landed Edward Lewis Schempp, 54, a modest, thoughtful, electronics engineer, and his family in a Supreme Court drama and in national headlines.

AT ISSUE IS a Pennsylvania law requiring the reading of 10 Bible passages as part of daily school opening programs. A court of three federal judges in Philadelphia, acting on a complaint by the Schempps, ruled the law unconstitutional.

The Schempps took their firm stand because they are Unitarians, and, they say, "Unitarians do not believe in a literal, infallible Bible as the word of God."

THE PENNSYLVANIA Bible-reading case was argued before the Supreme Court this week, and Mr. and Mrs. Schempp, Donna, Roger, and the elder son, Ellory, 22, a graduate student at Brown University, were in Washington to hear their lawyer, Henry Sawyer III, argue the case.

"We are not against Bible reading, or even Bible study, in the public schools," Schempp says, "but, the reading of 10 verses, from one version out of 16 versions of the Bible, selected at random or with the bias of the selector, read out of context, with no explanation, but with special attention that suggests that this is the word of God, state approved, final and infallible—this, we say, is un-American and bad for our children, and for all children."

Toboggans, Tents, 'Hoosh' Typify Antarctic Junket

By JACQUE GILL
Toreador Staff Writer

Eating "hoosh," riding on toboggans, and sleeping in tents in zero-degree weather were common practices for David Greenlee when he recently spent 72 days in the Antarctic.

Greenlee, a geology research associate, was one of three Techsians returning in January from the Antarctic junket. They mapped the Shakleton Glacier, located just off the Ross ice shelf.

The area had not been traveled before and Greenlee described it as being "a totally different world, really beautiful, immense and clean." He added, "We even hesitated to clutter the snow with used cartons and cans."

Alone For 10 Weeks

During the 10-week period the trio saw no one else and had no communication with anyone except occasional radio conversations with near-by planes. "We had one mail-drop," said Greenlee, "and that was on Thanksgiving Day." The longest lapse of time between communications was 13 days.

The exploration was made possible when Dr. F. Alton Wade, head of Tech's geosciences department, received a grant from the United States Antarctic Research Program. USARP is a part of the National Science Foundation. Faculty member V. L. Yates was the third member of the party.

Used Light Tents

Two light tents housed the group. The three were required to move their camp as each mapping assignment was completed. Two motorized toboggans and four Nanson sledges were used for transportation.

"We used Nanson sledges because they are light and can carry a fantastic amount of weight but are realitively stable," Greenlee said.

Camp sites were previously picked from aerial photographs studied by the geoscientists, before the trip. Some proposed sites were inaccessible and new ones had to be found.

"Hoosh," a kind of stew "that smells like vitamins," was the main food. It was made from dehydrated meat bars, soups and "whatever else you wanted to put in."

Ate Biscuits, Fruitcakes

They also ate biscuits, fruit-fruit, cocoa, and "tons of Swedish candy bars." The trio carried their entire food supply with them.

"The weather was really weird, almost unpredictable," Greenlee said. "The wind sometimes blew at 40 knots." (About 45 m.p.h.) The average temperature was zero.

Greenlee contended the group was very fortunate because weather conditions were bad enough to prevent work only about one-fourth of the time. During lapses in work "we read scientific books, classics, and played cribbage games. In fact, many many games of cribbage," he laughed as he explained that cribbage is a traditional game "you and your sourdough buddy" play when weather conditions prevent work.

Enjoyed Flowers, People

As ice, rock and snow constituted the greater part of the scenery on the trip, Greenlee said when the three returned. "We had a sensitive smell for land and spent a great deal of time just looking at flowers and people."

Union Plans Mexico Trip

Sign-ups are now being taken at the Tech Union Program Council Office for the spring vacation trip to Monterrey, Mexico. The four-day trip will include air transportation, a tour of the city, three nights in a first-class hotel, and several meals.

A representative from Felsher Travel Agency, Inc., coordinator of the trip, will speak to the Union Entertainment Committee Wednesday at 5 p.m., Tech Union, room 208. Brochures on the trip will be available at that time.

Barbara Sue Owen is chairman of the committee.

Pam Franklin, assistant chairman of the Entertainment Committee, said, "This is the first time the Union has had a school trip as such. We're going to try to do it every year if it is successful now."

Sign-ups will continue until March 15 or until 56 students have signed. The $130 charge must be paid by March 15.

AWS Presents Slate, Officer Elections Set

Juniors Carolyn Kelley and Hazel Hale will run unopposed for the two top posts of Association of Women Students in officer elections Wednesday. They will seek the offices of president and vice president, respectively.

The slate of officers, recommended at a recent business meeting consisted of Miss Kelley, president; Miss Hale, first vice president, whose duties are to preside in absence of the president and to supervise AWS elections; junior Linda Hill, second vice president, who serves as president of Women's Residence Council.

The March 6 election will run from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. and 5-7 p.m. in the women's dorms and from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. in the Tech Union. No campaigning except by word of mouth is permitted.

IN OTHER business, women's organizations were asked to have their pictures taken for Tech Tips by Wednesday. Appointments are to be made at Koen's. Officer pictures may include three officers, suggested to be president, plus pledge trainer and rush chairman, or vice president and AWS chairman, according to the organization.

Copy deadline for Tech Tips is March 15.

Against 60 U.S. Teams

Army Vies In Meet

Six Tech Army ROTC marksmen competed Friday in El Paso at the 14th Annual Southwest Invitational Rifle Match at Texas Western College.

The Tech team competed against 60 teams from throughout the United States at the three-day match, which concludes today.

The marksmen demonstrated skill in four different positions: prone, sitting, kneeling and standing. There were three separate matches.

Making the trip were cadets Harry Marsh, El Paso; Bernard Funk, San Antonio; Robert Tau-bert, Wichita Falls; Dee Shappell, Wichita Falls; William J. Salmon, Jr., Lubbock and Jack Prichard, Sherman. Sgt. Howard B. Alderman, team coach and Capt. Robert Weber accompanied the team.

Last year Louisiana Polytechnic won the match.

Teams Make Play-Offs

Seminole and Dumas advanced to the Regional I, Class AAA play-offs in the Municipal Coliseum tourney Friday night.

The winners will play at 5 p.m. today for the regional championship. Seminole defeated Lamesa, 56-40 and Dumas, defending state champ, beat Graham, 36-34.

Action in the tourney will pick up again at 8 a.m. today when the first of four matches in A and AA begins. Jim Ned opposes Reagan County (Big Lake) at 8 and Stratford meets Petersburg at 9:30 in A action during the morning. Seymour takes on Comanche at 11 a.m. in AA. The final game of the first session will pit Canyon against Denver City at 12:30, also in AA.

The two losers of last night's games meet for the third place spot in AAA at 3:15 p.m., followed by the AAA championship tilt at 5.

The third and final session of the day begins at 7:30 p.m. when the winners of the Class A matches meet for the championship and the right to advance to the state tournament next week.

Texas, N.M. Students Enter Speech Meet

More than 350 high school students from 22 schools in Texas and New Mexico are attending Tech's annual High School Invitation Speech Meet today.

The students will compete in six speech events, including one-act play, debate, extemporaneous speech, persuasive speaking, prose reading and poetry reading.

A luncheon will be given for participants at noon in the Coronado Room, headquarters for the event.

About 200 Tech speech staff members and students will help conduct the meet.

BASKETBALL CROWN

Independent and sorority teams will vie for the intramural basketball crown during semi-final games next week.

Team I from West will meet Doak in Independent League play, with the winner to play Knapp II. West III beat Bible Chair and Town Girls defeated Knapp I in the past week.

In the Sorority League Pi Beta Phi II won over Chi Omega, Pi Beta Phi I beat Kappa Alpha Theta, Delta Delta Delta I defeated Delta Gamma, and Alpha Chi Omega won over Gamma Phi Beta. In later playoffs, Chi Omega defeated Gamma Phi Beta, Delta Gamma beat Alpha Chi Omega II, and Kappa Alpha Theta won over Sigma Kappa.

SOCCER MATCH

Two undefeated soccer teams, the AFROTC and the Cosmopolitans, meet at 3 p.m. Sunday in an Interfraternity Soccer League meet. The game will be played on the field behind the new men's dorm.

Air Force cadets are urged by Cadet Major Serge Chernay to back their team. Merits will be given to cadets who attend the meet.

The Cosmopolitans won first place last year after defeating the Air Force.

The Interfraternity Soccer League is open competition. All men's dorms, fraternities and independent organizations may participate.
