

Tech Union Presents Art Festival

A Foreign Fine Arts Festival, featuring dances and fine arts exhibits, will be presented Saturday from 2:30 to 5 p.m. in the Rec Hall.

The World Travelers Committee of the Tech Union is presenting this program for Tech students faculty and the public.

INFORMAL come-and-go periods have been planned from 2:30 to 3:15 p.m. and 4:15 to 5 p.m., for visitors to view exhibits. Discussions will be held with visitors of foreign countries. These exhibits will contain art objects, books, paintings and flags from such countries as Austria, Germany, Holland, Mexico, Hawaii and India.

An additional attraction during the come-and-go period will be committee members modeling foreign dresses. Ebrahim Gharagoulchian, a portrait artist from Iran, will display his drawings, and Dr. Elaine Boney of the German department will sing and play songs of Austria on her accordion.

A PROGRAM of foreign talent will be given from 3:15 to 4:15 by people connected with Tech who have an interest in foreign countries.

Joyce Tallman will represent the United States with a modern jazz dance, while Sally Swoffard and Ethel Castro will present dances from South America.

"POQUITA" Kinnaman will sing Mexican songs, and Sabah Ebrahim will speak on U. S. relations with the Middle East. Carol Teague will represent Germany with a puppet show; Fraz Helbig of Germany will speak on life in Germany.

A travel bureau will be set up at the event, and free refreshments will be served. Rosa Riojas is the chairman of the committee.

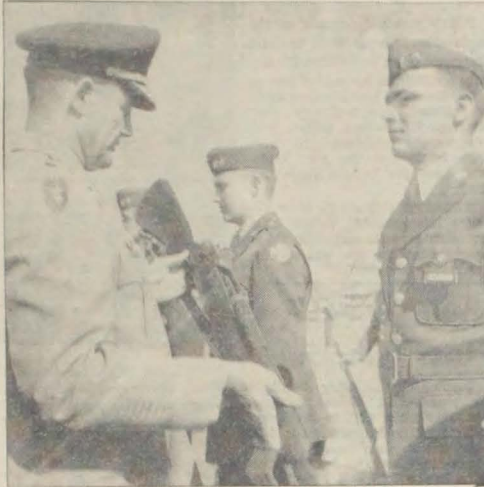

Koos Publishes Sociology Book

A third edition of "Sociology of the Patient" by Dr. Earl Koos, Tech sociology professor, is being published by McGraw Hill Publishing Co. This is a standard sociology textbook used in training professional nurses. The new edition emphasizes mental health of patients.

Dr. Koos has also written another college text, "Marriage," used in the United States and Canada. Other books by Dr. Koos are "Families in Trouble" and "The Health of Regionville," both of which are reports of extensive research projects carried on with grants from national foundations. Several technical articles by Dr. Koos are included in textbooks for college and graduate students.

Two more books by Dr. Koos will be published within the next few months on health problems in an urban community and problems of middle class families. He is now working on a textbook for use in public health courses in medical schools.

Dr. Koos received his bachelors degree from Ohio State University and his masters and doctors from Columbia University. Before coming to Tech last fall, he was professor of sociology at the University of Rochester and professor of graduate studies in the area of the family at Florida State University.

ROTC Units Stand Federal Inspection

Tech's 350 Army ROTC cadets underwent federal inspection Thursday by an inspection team headed by Col. Raymond W. Darrah, chief of the ROTC division in the 4th Army's reserve forces section. Darrah said the team was "well pleased with Tech ROTC units."

The cadets were inspected on the drill field south of the President's Home on campus.

THE UNITS WERE cited as "above average" in the 4th U. S. Army for total number of men commissioned from the number of cadets entering the program.

"We feel the staff is doing an outstanding job," the colonel said, and that "response of the cadets in classes was superior" during the inspection.

DARRAH SAID THAT the number of men reaching the commissioning stage compared with the number of men enrolling each year was higher than most other ROTC units in the 4th Army area.

With Darrah in making the annual check-up was Lt. Col. Robert R. Kenn and Lt. Col. James R. Reed Jr.

Mortar Board Picks President

Jan Scheper, a junior from McGregor, is the new president of Mortar Board, national women's service fraternity.

SHE WAS ELECTED Thursday night at a meeting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. N. Jones, Dr. Jones entertained by showing slides of Europe.

The other officers are: Cora Jo Lilly, vice president; Judy Kelley, secretary; Mary Ann Lindley, treasurer; Johanna Zournas, projects chairman; Martha Kinley, historian; and Mary Sue Black, editor.

TRAMPS MEET

The Saddle Tramps will meet at 5 p.m. Monday in Ad. 364, Pete Baker, Tramp resident, announced yesterday. All pledges are expected to attend.

Tech Rodeo Queen Is Crowned Tonight

Tech's Rodeo Queen will be crowned tonight during the Coronation Stomp, which begins at 8 p.m. in the Rec Hall. Jimmy Macky and the Texas All-Stars will play for the Stomp, sponsored by the Tech Rodeo Association.

THE SIX CANDIDATES, Linda Osborne, Genevieve Poage, Barbara Quintanilla, Almeida Radliff, Leta Merle Roberts and Dale Simmons, have already been judged in a fashion show and a horsemanship contest. The Queen will be selected by the results of these contests and the penny voting in the Tech Union.

The voting will continue until after the Coronation Stomp begins tonight.

The Rodeo Queen will reign during Tech's annual National Intercollegiate Rodeo to be held May 7-9 in the Municipal Coliseum.

ADMISSION to the Coronation Stomp is $1 per person. Rodeo Association members and their dates will be admitted for $1.50 by presenting their membership cards which will be available at the door.

Parade Starts Tech Rodeo

The Tech sponsored NIRA Rodeo begins Thursday with a parade at 4 p.m., forming at 15th and Avenue A, going down Broadway to the campus and ending at the coliseum.

GEORGE SPINKS, Tech Rodeo Association, said that LCC and Tech bands will march, along with the LCC queen, Tech Rodeo Queen the five finalists, and several sheriff's posses.

Anyone interested in being in the parade should contact Spinks at SH 4-0433, or the Rodeo Association office in Tech Union.

President Named For Casa Linda

Janet Bragg, Brownfield sophomore, was elected president of Casa Linda for next year. Also serving with her will be Carolyn Nelson, Winters' Junior.

Casa Linda, co-operative house for women, is having its annual spring picnic Saturday 3:30 p.m. in Mackenzie Park. About 35 residents and their dates will be served hot dogs and homemade ice cream.

John Scott Roberts

Miners Hear AIME Head

John S. Bell and D. R. Patterson will speak at a chapters meeting of the South Plains American Institute of Mining Engineers Wednesday. The dinner meeting will be held in the Comanche Room of the Caprock Hotel at 6:00 p.m.

Mr. Bell, national president, will probably speak on the function of the society and the future of the AIME. Mr. Patterson will speak on "Producer Automaton."

Cash prizes of $30, $20 and $10 will be awarded to contest winners. First prize goes to Donald Myers, Lubbock; second prize to Edward Herring, Binger; and third prize to Billie F. Davis, Lubbock. A plaque will be presented with the names of each years winners. The plaque and the prizes are sponsored by the South Plains chapter.

Myers and Herring have just returned from a regional contest at Houston. Myers paper was on "In Siter Combustion" and Herring's paper on "Velocity Logging."

The student chapter of the AIME recently received a banner from national headquarters with high honors for having an exceptionally high number of members compared to other schools of this size.

MORE NAMES

Two more names should be added to the list carried in an earlier edition of Tech faculty women honored in Who's Who of American Women. Omitted were Dr. Olive Boone Wheeler, assistant professor of education, and Dr. Elfrida Frank, associate professor of foreign language.

This brings the number of Tech women honored to seventeen.

ROBERTS IN HOSPITAL

Hemorrhage Suffered

John Scott Roberts, a junior civil engineering student at Tech last semester, suffered a brain hemorrhage while visiting a friend, Billy Johnson, on a farm near Friona Thursday about 1 p.m.

After complaining of a severe headache while preparing for lunch, the youth passed out and was rushed to the Friona hospital. A doctor examined Roberts and reported he had a broken blood vessel in his head.

Roberts was in very serious condition and a brain specialist from Amarillo was called in Thursday night. According to reports, the youth is almost completely paralyzed, although some movement has been observed, and is running a high fever.

About 2 p.m. yesterday afternoon Roberts was taken to a hospital in Amarillo, where X-rays were taken last night. According to Lennon Hill, a friend of the family who went to Friona Thursday afternoon, a late report last night indicated doctors had some slight hope for the youth.

Indications are that a planned operation may not be made until later, due to the X-ray reports made yesterday evening.

Roberts, 20, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. June Roberts, 2212-28th St., of Lubbock. After attending Tech last fall, he had left school this semester and planned to re-enter Tech next fall.

Atty. Gen. Wilson Gives Tech Early Cattle Reports

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has donated rare copies of two historical reports to West Texas Museum's Southwest Collection. The reports were beneficial in opening gates for the legendary Southwestern cattle industry.

One is an 1854 report to Congress by Capt. John Pope on sections of Texas for an east-west route between the Red River and Rio Grande. The other is a report made to Congress 30 years later by Joseph Nimmo concerning the Southwest cattle industry and its prospects.

DR. S. V. CONNOR, collection director, called the two rare reports basic additions for any study of Southwestern history.

"They are of practical as well as scholarly value because they reveal some of the little-known forces behind Southwestern growth in vivid detail. It's just the type of material we need," he declared.

Pope's report was one of the first important documents to come after the U. S. expanded into what is now its southwestern section. The U. S. annexation of the territory following the Mexican War in 1848, and the succeeding California gold rush in 1849 brought pressures for new routes across this vast expanse.

THE FEDERAL Government began surveying possibilities for such routes, and Capt. Pope was assigned the task of seeking one across the Llano Estacado, which was then considered a formidable barrier because its flat top was devoid of dependable water sources.

It was Pope who, more than a century ago, suggested tapping what has proved to be the South Plains' life blood — underground water—thus opening the high plains to cattlement and later to irrigated agriculture.

Pope's personal account of the exploration is reported in the rare document given by Wilson. He saw only possibilities for taking care of a few domestic animals that could be watered from wells by hand. His report, however, helped spur adventurous cattlement to move their herds onto the rich tableland once the Indians were subdued.

NIMMO'S REPORT three decades later records details of a tremendous cattle empire that sent nearly a million head out of Texas alone in one year.

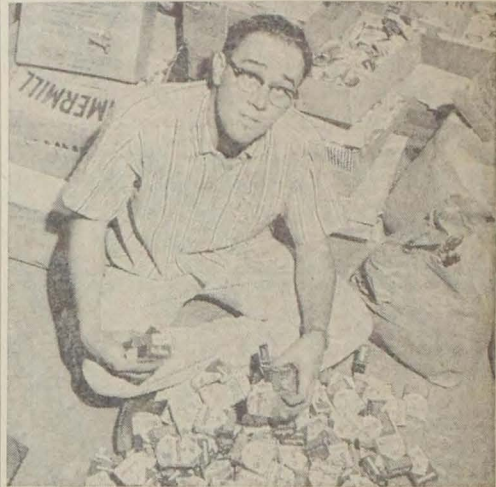

TechDairymen Have Banquet

Tech's Dairy Industry Club held its twenty-first annual banquet Thursday night at 7 in the Union Ballroom. The banquet honored 10 dairy industry seniors.

They are Gene Bentley, Ben Colburn, James Collins, Bobby Cornwell, Doyle Fannon, Roy Hughes, Ken Kerrick, Robert Robert McCune, Jim Prince and James Rudy.

The principal address was made by Dean of Agriculture Gerald W. Thomas, Dr. J. J. Willingham, dairy industry department head, presented medals to the members of the Dairy Products judging team, who were Jim Prince, Bobby Cornwell, James Rudy and Ken Kerrick.

DR. WILLINGHAM also presented the Fulton Williams scholarship award of $100 to W. W. Jackson, dairy industry junior.

WHAT, ME WORRY?—Arthur Mayhew, campus representative for Philip Morris Inc., looks forlorn as he eyes the more than 15,000 empty cigarette packs turned in Thursday by Alpha Chi Omega to end a month-long contest. The A Chi O's won a television set for their efforts. (Staff Photo)

A Chi O Wins Cigarette Contest

One Tech sorority is now the proud owner of a new 1959 console television set, thanks to Philip Morris, Inc.

ALPHA CHI Omega has won the "Save-a-pack" contest by compiling over 15,000 cigarette packages.

The contest began April 1 and continued to April 30, with Parliament, Marlboro and Philip Morris packages being collected.

Alpha Chi Omega also won a similar contest sponsored by Philip Morris last spring, receiving a stereo hi-fi phonograph and record album.

Temple Talks To Historians

Frank Temple, Tech catalog librarian, will address the annual meeting of West Texas Historical Assn. in Abilene today.

HIS TOPIC WILL be Gen. B. H. Grierson's campaign that subdued Victoria, last of the Southwest's fierce Indian leaders.

The meeting will be held on campus at Abilene Christian College, and Dr. Ernest Wallace, Tech history professor, will preside at the morning session.

DR. W. C. HOLDEN, West Texas Museum director, will speak on "The Historical Novel — How 'The Hill of the Rooster' Was Born" at the Association's luncheon.

FROM AFROTC

Top Cadets Named

Lt. Col. N. B. Wilkerson, professor of air science, announced yesterday that nine junior air science students have been tentatively designated as Distinguished Air Force ROTC cadets.

The cadets are: Chris W. Clark, Alamogordo, New Mexico; John K. Cobb, Pecos; Ernest L. Coleman, Carthage; Robert B. Dyer, Tullia; Gordon A. Graves, Lubbock; George L. Vaughn, Carlsbad, New Mexico; Charles J. Ward, Houston; Randall C. Webb, Midland; and Jack N. Whitmire, Midland.

They were chosen on the basis of outstanding leadership, high moral character, participation in campus organizations and high academics.

To be a Distinguished Cadet, it is necessary to place in the top one-third in the academic school, top one-third of the air science cadets and top one-third of all cadets at his summer training camp.

After returning from summer camp, the cadets must maintain the top one-third average in academics and military through to graduation. Then they may apply for regular Air Force commissions and the Distinguished Graduates are normally awarded the regular pay all their life.

Tea Honors Return Of Portrait to Doak

A tea recognizing the return of Mrs. Mary Doak's portrait is to be held in Doak Hall tomorrow at 2 p.m. Outstanding Doak women will be honored at this time.

When Doak became a men's residence during the war years, the portrait was removed to the library where it has been for several years. With the return of girls to Doak, the portrait will again be displayed in its originally intended place.
