50-Minute Classes, Please

Late again for class. Why? Does some over-zealous professor elaborate too fully on his philosophy of life or does he try to give a two-hour quiz in 50 minutes? Those examples may sound far-fetched to some not aware of habitual college routine, but they are common, very common.

Tardiness, sometimes the result of extra minutes spent soaking up coffee, is usually caused by the student losing valuable minutes desperately trying to finish a mile-long test or listening to a professor nonchalantly but doggedly finishing his prescribed lecture.

Each teacher should realize his particular course is not the only course but is one of several for most students. A pupil might be glad to spend a few extra minutes in class if his schedule included only one course, but as things stand, in more than a few instances the student has to be a track star to bolt to his next class and reach it before five past.

Consideration is a good word for professors to learn. They might also adopt the motto, "I will watch the last five minutes of my class as closely as I do the first five."—J. W.

Same Song, Second Verse

Last week there appeared in these columns a criticism of the action of Texas Tech's athletic department in offering for sale to townspeople "extra" (the term applied by the athletic department itself) seats on the charter plane which carried the Raider football squad to Denver. This week the athletic officials are again trying to peddle "extra" plane seats, this time for the Houston junket.

And this week, The Toreador is again condemning this action, on these grounds: 1) A school of Tech's stature should not—and need not—cheapen its reputation by transporting its representatives on a "share-the-ride" basis with outsiders helping to foot expenses; 2) Tech may need a squad of more than 37 players, since it will be facing a top-flight foe (Rice) in humid sea-level weather; 3) Any "extra" seating should be used for additional members of the football squad—members who, because of conscientious efforts in daily workouts, deserve a chance to get into a game should opportunity present itself.

There is, of course, justification for a certain degree of conservatism in athletic expenditures. But there is no suitable excuse for extreme, and obvious, penny-pinching, of which this offer is but one of several examples. Others include: 1) At meal-time on previous trips, Raider athletes have occasionally been cautioned, "Keep your check under 80 cents, boys." 2) Earlier this season, it was decided that, except for students, only contributors to the Matador club (a downtown organization whose avowed purpose is to further the Tech athletic cause) would be permitted to view Raider football practice sessions—or, bluntly stated, it was decided to charge admission to workouts!

So The Toreador reaffirms, "The time has come to loosen those purse strings!"—C. H.

Harmon Praises Cotton Research

High praise of research work in cotton fibers being conducted by the Chicopee Manufacturing company in cooperation with Texas Tech was voiced last week by Dr. Carlyle Harmon, director of research for the company, who inspected the laboratories at the college this week.

The research staff, working under supervision of George W. Pfeifferberger, studies cotton grown in all cotton-producing sections of the nation, measuring its physical properties and determining relations of these properties to its spinning performance. As breeders develop new varieties, the fibers are tested for mill performance, and periodic tests are run to determine changes caused by seasonal variations during the growing period.

This research at Texas Tech is unique in the industry, Harmon stated.

Pepsi-Cola Awards Senior Fellowships

Three-year graduate fellowships will be awarded in 1947-48 to 26 outstanding college seniors in the United States by the Pepsi-Cola Scholarship board. This program is open to all college seniors. Each fellowship pays full tuition and $750 a year for the three years and may be used in any field of study at any accredited graduate school in the United States or Canada.

Application for a Pepsi-Cola graduate fellowship may be made by any college student scheduled to receive his bachelor's degree during the school year 1947-48 from a college or university in the United States. Fellowships will be awarded on a regional basis, six fellowships to students attending college in each of the four geographic regions and two to graduates of Negro colleges.

Official application blanks may be obtained from the Dean of each division and are to be received by the Pepsi-Cola Scholarship board not later than January 1, 1948.

From Where You Sit

HOLD IT, SNUFFY

Dear Sir: I had hoped that I would not have to write this letter to you, but as the daily comic strip continues with the various bugs entered in the Snuffy Smith Race, I have failed to notice our Alma Mater entered as yet.

If the University of Texas can have a Longhorn bug why can't we have a Matador bug entered from Texas Tech?

Surely, you have an artist on your staff who has ingenuity enough to create an entry. Let's put our school on the map. If the author of the comic strip can mention other Texas schools, why not ours?

Elmer Tarbox and some of the others that were in school at the time that I was have slipped in overlooking this fact. Best regards, and I am looking forward to seeing our entry soon. Yours truly, E. L. Mayfield, Needles, Calif.

The following telegram has been sent to the manager of the Snuffy Smith races:

"Hold the presses! Matador bug from Texas Tech delayed en route, battling terrific sandstorm. Great balls of 'ar, somebody better rattle his bones to get a Matador bug on its feet before Snuffy checks the weather reports to see if a sandstorm is raging out hyar. Volunteers?"

BAYLOR APOLOGIZES

The following letter was received Monday by Tech's yell leaders:

Dear Yell Leaders: After the game last Saturday it was called to our attention that we, in the Baylor section, were singing our Alma Mater while our National Anthem was being played.

We sincerely regret this incident and wish to explain the circumstances which lead to its being occasioned. We were singing "That Good Old Baylor Line" at the time the band began playing "The Star Spangled Banner." We heard the band as it began and noticed that the spectators immediately rose. Thinking that the band was playing your school's Alma Mater we continued to sing and did not know until after the game of this regrettable error.

Naturally we are proud of our Alma Mater, but under no circumstances is it our intention that it should take precedence over our National Anthem.

We hope that this explanation might be called to the attention of your student body that they may fully understand our action.

Thanking you and your student body for your most cordial hospitality.

The Baylor Yell Leaders
Harry Kidwell, Ken Kennedy, Bob Feather, Bill Allcorn

RETRACTION RETRACTED?

Dear Editor:

In the recent poll concerning the issue of whether or not the Tech band should have majorettes, I said that I was in favor of said question. However, being a freshman and not capable of thinking for myself on such matters, I now find, (after talking to a couple of upper-classmen) that my opinion of the idea has been completely changed. In fact, I find that after two juniors gave considerable thought to the idea for me, I'm completely against it.

In view of the fact that I did speak, without first asking someone with more intelligence than mine what I could say, I now wish to retract my statement, which appeared in The Toreador Oct. 24, 1947.

Yours truly,
Roy (Strawberry) Bassett

I regret to learn your opinion has been swayed by some person who carries no more authority than does anyone in the junior class. After much thought on my part, I, a senior, have decided that you are once more in favor of majorettes for Tech band.—The Editor.

PASSING THE BUCK

Dear Sir:

It seems that the buck had to be passed on; so why not say, "Since some of the boys also three or four puffs, perhaps they were only over-stuffed," and pass it on to some innocent boys who were lucky and probably got a second puff, (which some kind friend donated?) How else would a Sneed resident be so lucky as to get more than one?

"My, my, how awful of you boys to want more than your share (of one). After all, we are having only 'meatless' Tuesdays (Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday). Why you awful boys..." We have stood a lot and never gruffed before, but when some one stuffed gaff like that down our throats we don't like it. Guess that's the good ole American in us. There are other places which would appreciate the large number of $7.50 monthly dues. How about it, M. C.? Repeat: we don't like it. No, not Walter Winchell just—A Sneed Hall Resident

Raiders Trounce Denver

Rebound To Trim Pioneers, 36-7
In First Freezing Weather Tilt

A smarting seven point slap by a Denver eleven in the early minutes of Saturday's game raised the ire of the "slow to anger" Red Raiders who rebounded to slaughter the favored Pioneers 36-7.

The Raiders came back with 25 points in the second half after leading 9-7 at halftime. Bernie Winkler blocked a punt for a safety and the first two points. Freddie Brown passed to Charlie Reynolds for the first touchdown, followed by Ralph Earhart's conversion of the extra point.

Second half scoring was fast and furious as the Tech forward wall ripped the Pioneer line wide open. Reynolds added another touchdown late in the game after J. W. Thompson and Zac Henderson, had each scored one. Cal Stevenson rucked up the fifth Tech touchdown. Earhart made four of the five conversions he attempted.

Tech Win Forecast By Narrow Margin

By BILL CARPENTER
Toreador Sports Writer

Faculty members last week predicted football scores more accurately than students; thus priority is given them in this week's query: "How do you think Saturday's game will come out?"

Francis W. Bearden, Recreation hall director: "A score of about 13-6 Rice. I hope the football boys make me eat this."

T. C. Root, assistant to the president: "Tech will win by a point. I think Tech can and will score as much as Rice."

Mrs. Louise Allen, assistant professor of journalism: "I think we have a fair chance. I'll take Tech by seven points."

W. F. Clement, registrar: "If they play like they did last week Tech will come out all right."

The students seemed to be more optimistic than they were last week and stuck with their team. To the same question they replied: "Cotton" Fanning, arts and science junior: "The score will be 20-7 Rice. Arline Farmer told me so."

R. C. "Spanky" Hammack, business administration senior: "Tech will win 14-7."

Juanita Yardley, business administration sophomore: "Tech, 7-6."

Ann Srygley, arts and sciences junior: "Tech will win by a touchdown."

Randolph "Randy" Williams, business administration sophomore: "It will be 20-7 Rice."

Last week's prediction winner was Prof. Clark Schooley who predicted Tech would beat Denver by at least 13 points.

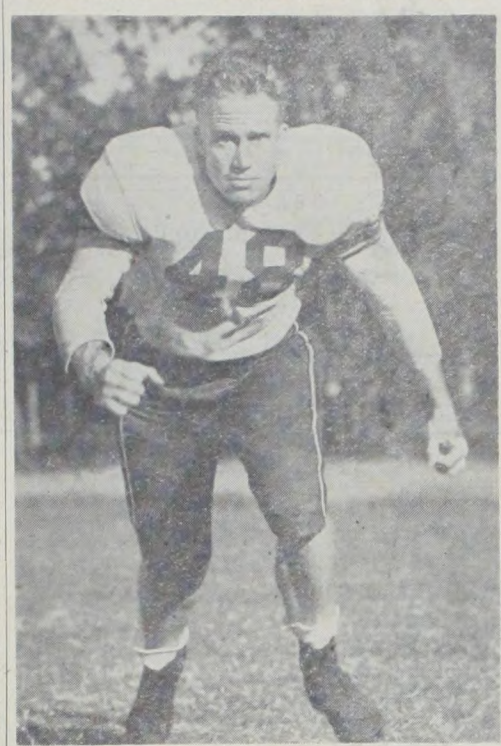

Women's Bowling Matches Start In Mural Program

Women's Recreation association is now sponsoring bowling matches from 4-6 p. m. each Monday at the Plamor Lanes for the purpose of determining score averages for grouping of members in intramural matches, according to Mary Peacock, instructor of physical education.

Bowling activity is open to all women students. Anyone wishing to try out should contact Betty Jay, chairman, Miss Peacock said.

Cecil Horne, head of the journalism department, became a member of America's select Hole-In-One club Sunday, June 24, 1939, with an ace on the 130-yard 17th hole at Lubbock Country club. He was playing with F. L. McRee, civil engineering professor, and W. F. Helwig, electrical engineering professor.

A TEXAS TECH SENIOR IN ACTION

GEORGE ZOLLER—190-pound senior tackle from Van has been a mainstay in the Tech forward wall this year. He has been highly responsible in aiding the Raider line in holding offensive thrusts of the opposition through the center to a minimum. Zoller graduated from Van High school in 1941. He lettered at Tech in 1942 and then served 17 months in the Navy. After his discharge he returned and received another letter last year.

Three-Way Tie For Loop Lead

By JAN BLACKWELL
Toreador Sports Writer

Arizona U's Wildcats remained in the Border conference race by downing New Mexico U, 22-12 last week. The victory places the Wildcats in a contending position for the title in case they defeat Texas Tech and Tempe, and Hardin-Simmons downs the Matadors.

Arizona's season record: won four (Wyoming 27-7, Montana 40-7, Texas Mines 14-13 and New Mexico 22-12); lost one (HSU 35-7). Past Tech-Arizona record: Tech won 8, lost 1, tied 1. Tech scored 164, Arizona 27.

New Mexico's season record: won two (Kansas State 20-18, N. M. Aggies 20-0); lost three (Tempe 25-12, HSU 33-7 and Arizona 22-12). Past Tech-New Mexico record: Tech won 9, lost 1, tied 1. Tech scored 249, New Mexico 60.

Mississippi State's West Point transfer, Shorty McWilliams, proved too tricky for the Hardin-Simmons' Cowboys Saturday as State rolled over the Texans 27-7. This was the second defeat handed Hardin-Simmons by a collegiate team since 1941.

Hardin-Simmons' season record: won three (Trinity 39-0, Arizona 35-7 and New Mexico U. 33-7); lost two (San Jose 19-12, Mississippi State 27-7). Past Tech-HSU record: Tech won 6, lost 5, tied 2. Tech scored 76, Hardin-Simmons 100.

STAFF SLANTS

Bill Kelley, ace pass receiver who was injured in the Tulsa game, will return to the Tech lineup for the Arizona game. Kelley, who led the Raider pass receivers through the first five games of this fall, will discard the cast he is now wearing for one made of plastic. He expects to begin working out again Monday.

The 36-7 victory over Denver was the best offensive showing made by the Raiders since they rolled over Texas Christian university 40-20 in 1943. They trounced West Texas State 39-0 in 1942, St. Louis U. 46-6 and New Mexico 36-0 in 1941. The highest scores in the last decade of Tech football history was the 61-14 trouncing of Miami in 1940 and the 60-0 victory over Oklahoma City U. in 1938. Only eight times have they scored more than 36 points during the past 10 years.

The automatic safety which resulted from the punt blocked by Bernie Winkler in last week's game was his second in two years. He blocked one against Arizona last season.

We will spike that rumor that Tech did not take blankets to Denver for the boys on the bench with this statement. Exactly eight blankets were borrowed from the home team and the rest were carried to Denver by the Raiders.

Charlie Reynolds is leading all Raiders in point making this fall with 24 points. Eight other Techs have collaborated to score the remaining 60 points. Individual scoring: Reynolds 24, Earhart 16, Kelley 12, Smith 6, Earl Jackson 6, J. W. Thompson 6, Stevenson 6, Henderson 6 and Winkler 2.

James E. Brown, sophomore electrical engineering student from Lubbock, is playing this week in the American Bowling Congress in Houston. He is one of two Lubbock bowlers who were invited to participate in the tournament which corresponds to the World Series in baseball.

The 1938 Matador squad went through a ten game regular schedule undefeated. The closest victory was 7-6 over Duquesne. The 1940 outfit waded through nine games with only a 6-6 tie with Okla. A&M, then New Mexico set them back 19-14 to knock them out of the bowl picture.

The Matadors rebounded in the final game against San Francisco with a 23-21 victory on the west coast.

'Mural Basketball Contest Begins

The intramural basketball tournament started last week with the Eagles and the Little Stinkers playing. The Eagles won the contest in a closely fought battle 29-27.

The Red Bandanas met the Tigers and defeated them by a score of 20-8. High point man for the Red Bandanas was Eddins with six points. Sutton and Boyd tied with three points each for the high-point honors on the Tiger team.

The second game of the day pitted the Skamps and the Bobcats, the Skamps winning by 26-6. Woods was the top man for the Skamps with 10 points while Darter led the Bobcats with three points.

When the Knats played the Mustangs Tuesday the game ended with the Knats leading the Mustangs 22-21. Wheatley led the Knats with 11 points while Hopper paced the Mustangs with 13 points. Red Bandanas won over the Wildcats by a score of 20 to 8 in the second game. Dodson and Eddins shared for Bandana honors with seven points each. Jack Sikes scored five points to lead the Wildcats.

Stadium Construction Proceeds As Planned

Construction on the stadium is proceeding according to schedule with all the pours having been made for the decks of the new stands and only one pour remaining for the press box, according to C. E. Small, contractor.

Work has started on the public spaces and concessions beneath the stands, while the field house brick work will be completed this week. Redwood seats are being installed in the upper part of the stands, but will not be finished until near the completion of the entire stadium, Small said.

TOUCH GAMES BEGIN SUNDAY

Touch football starts Sunday at 1:30 p. m. Los Camaradas meet College Club in the first game at Tech Stadium. In the second game Wranglers play the Sociis. At Chapman field Kemas will tangle with Centaurs.

ARMORY BIDS OPEN

Lubbock Naval recruiting office is accepting bids for the $250,000 Naval armory to be built on the campus at Eighth and College. The contract will be let on Nov. 7, and construction is expected to begin immediately, officials announced.

The 1938 edition of the Matadors played the Galloping Gaels of St. Mary's in the Cotton Bowl. Tech lost 20-13. Texas Tech post-season bowl record is discouraging, in the Sun Bowl the 1937 team lost to West Virginia 7-6, and the 1941 team lost to Tulsa 6-0.

Matadors Underdogs For Tilt With Owls

By ORLIN BREWER
Toreador Sports Writer

Tech's Raiders switch climates for Saturday's game with Rice but remain underdogs as in last week's tilt with Denver. Dell Morgan, head coach, plans to take 36 men on the chartered Braniff airplane to tangle with the team that humiliated the Matadors 41-6 last year.

The Owls have dropped games to three tough opponents: LSU, SMU, Texas and tied Southern Cal 7-7 this season. In its only home game, Rice rolled over the Tulane Green Wave 30-0. Polk Robinson, Tech coach who scouted the Rice-Texas game, said the Raiders stand a good chance of feeling the added force of a home field complex plus an endless supply of reserves when they hit the field Saturday afternoon. The strength of the Owls is indicated by the way they held Texas, he said. Last Saturday Texas was unable to make much progress until well into the third period and to that point it was anybody's game, Robinson said.

Chief threat of the Rice squad is little (168-pound) George Walmsley, who with his tricky running often turns himself into an "all the way" man. His speed and pass receiving make him a definite scoring threat. Equally able to pull in the passes is Windel Williams, all-conference end last year. Quarterback Virgil Eikenberg who tosses the pigskin with unerring accuracy will be on hand to greet the Raiders again this season.

With a mass of talent and reserves stacked five deep, Coach Robinson said the Owls will hardly miss such outstanding players as last year's All American end, Weldon Humble. Huey Keeney, rated as one of the best kickers in the Southwest conference, will aim at coffin corners if the Owl offense fail to click, while big Carl Russ, fullback returning from last year's squad, will do the inside running.

None of the Raiders sustained serious injuries in the Denver tussle, Morgan said, and most will arrive in Houston in time for a pre-game workout. Zac Henderson has a strained knee, but is expected to make the game.

Louis Bromfield To Give Lectures In Lubbock Soon

Louis Bromfield, noted novelist and a leading advocate of soil conservation, will be in Lubbock Nov. 13 and will deliver two public lectures, according to W. M. Whyburn, president of Texas Tech.

Bromfield is travelling with a special soil conservation train sponsored by the Second National bank of Houston and the Burlington railroad.

President Whyburn said that all college students who are interested in hearing Bromfield are invited to attend the 3:30 p. m. lecture in the Lubbock High school auditorium. Students of agriculture at Tech will receive special invitations to the 7:30 p. m. lecture.

"While we cannot anticipate the contents of Mr. Bromfield's lectures, it is probable that his afternoon lecture will emphasize his literary talents, whereas his evening lecture will most surely stress his soil conservation interest," President Whyburn added.

At some time during his stay in Lubbock, Bromfield will tour the college farms and other parts of the campus, along with the 150 executives and leaders from American railroads, banks and industries.

Special guests will include alumni of the club, Maj. John Goodman, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newell.

Student Support Sought By WSSF

By AUBREY SHOUSE
 Toreador Staff Writer

Within the next two weeks the Student Religious Council and other campus organizations will sponsor a WSSF (World Student Service Fund) drive. This drive will answer a direct plea from needy students of Europe and the Far East to the more fortunate in America.

WSSF was organized in 1937 when the needs of students in China's colleges first became critical; its activities extending to Europe when war began in 1939. It is an American organization dedicated exclusively to rebuilding the lives and restoring the opportunities of students everywhere. Since the end of the war the needs and the opportunities have greatly expanded.

Five Phases To Program

The program of the WSSF is to aid in the rehabilitation of students and teachers. There are five main phases in the program: aid in food, shelter, medical care, books and equipment, and study-grants. The world budget to carry out this program or a minimum scale for '47-'48 is $2,000,000. America's share of this sum is $1,000,000, which is not beyond reason for those who are more able to furnish their share than the other nations.

Tubercular sanitoriums are operating in Switzerland, Holland, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Greece. Food has been shipped to thousands of university students in Athens, Vienna, Shanghai, and Milan, enabling many to complete their education.

Support of the organization by the Student Council was given when Robert Baumgardner was elected to head a three-man steering committee for the campus WSSF. Bill Nugent, student body president, said.

Techsans Hosts To HE Work Shop

Annual workshop for college home economics clubs of Texas is meeting at Tech. for the second time in eight years. Thirty-four colleges were invited with 75 girls expected to attend, according to Miss Doris Nesbitt, assistant professor of home economics education and sponsor of the Tech Home Economics club. This meeting of home economics clubs in province 10 of the college section, American Home Economics Association, started yesterday and will last through tomorrow.

"Importance of Being Well Dressed" will be discussed this morning by Mrs. Callan, head of the department of child development, will preside at a panel, "What Responsibilities Should the College Assume for Training College Men and Women for Family Living" in Aggie auditorium this afternoon.

Tomorrow's program includes a talk, "Challenge to Young Home Economists," by Miss Margaret W. Weeks, dean of home economics. "What is an Educated Woman," was discussed yesterday by Rev. Aelsie H. Carleton of St. John's Methodist church.

Tech home economics division will be host to a picnic for the workshop guests in Aggie grove tonight.

to keep up the armed forces, he added.

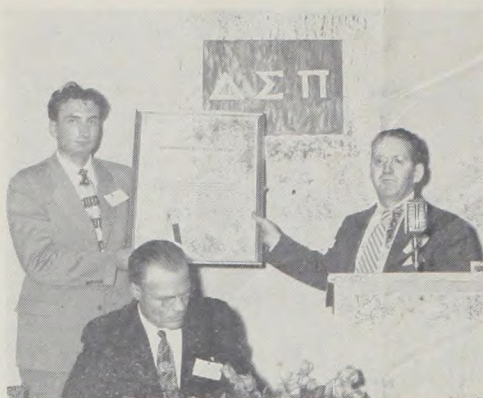

"We suffer more from ignorance than from knowledge," Mahon said, stating that this country's need is for intelligent understanding by enlightened American citizens. They should understand that our present policy of feeding Europe is not principally humanitarian but is in the best interests of our own country.

Mahon's local office closed today, and he will return to Washington for a meeting of the Herter committee Nov. 5 when members (11 Republicans and eight Democrats) will formulate a report to Congress.

Pres. W. M. Whyburn introduced the speaker at yesterday's convocation, and Dean J. G. Allen, chairman of the Convocation committee, presided. The Rev. Hallie Gantz of the First Christian church gave the invocation and The Rev. Cecil Matthews pronounced the benediction. Matador band played at the meeting.

present paving projects under construction by the Kerr-Mid-dleton Construction company should be completed by Nov. 15.

James C. Kerr, partner in the firm, said. This will include the parking areas between the Library and Chemistry buildings and in front of the bookstore, he added.

Funds are not immediately available for further hard-surfacing, officials said.

Style Exhibition Acquaints Co-Eds

Freshmen and transfer girls mingled with upperclassmen at the Association of Women Students Big Sister-Little Sister party Wednesday night with a style show climaxing the evening's activities.

After meeting in the cafeteria where AWS President Jackie Lewis spoke briefly, the students went to the Aggie auditorium for the style show exhibiting "the new look" in co-ed fashions.

The stage represented the lobby of a girl's dormitory with two mannequins furnished by Hemp-hill-Wells representing dates. Models were Jo Ann Brown, Juanita Yardley, Jean Shoffner, Rickey Archer, Frances Coombs, Lois Fisher, Pat Ausmus, Sue Putteet, Sara Davis, Martha Lively, Patti Jo Musson, Jean Price, Beverly Besancon, Jane Coffee, Dorothy
