

Spirit Rises As Showdown Nears

Pep Rally Scheduled Tonight In Coliseum

Texas Tech and the City of Lubbock are pulling all the stops to send the Red Raiders off to battle the Arkansas Razorbacks in a rousing display of school spirit and community support.

Two pep rallies, telegrams, posters, red and black car streamers and clanging bells are but a few of the devices being used to bring spirit to an all-time high in anticipation of a possible Southwest Conference co-championship.

A record number of persons is expected at a pep rally in Municipal Coliseum at 7 tonight. Persons from Lubbock as well as from Tech have been asked to turn out with an abundance of noise makers.

Carry Live Broadcasts

Two local radio stations, KLBK and KFYO, will carry a complete live broadcast of the rally. Radio station KSEL will carry intermittent coverage of both the rally and a dance which will follow it.

Students will mass in front of the auditorium following the rally and march to the Ad Building parking lot. The Raider band will lead the march. The Silhouettes will provide music for a dance scheduled to begin immediately afterwards in the Tech Union.

Saddle Tramps today will continue to adorn campus autos with red and black streamers and to pepper the area with signs calling for a Tech victory.

The Tramps have prepared between 800 and 1,000 signs boasting such slogans as "Two bits, four bits, six bits, a dollar, all for the Pigs, lay down and waller."

Hogg Draws Posters

Jim Hogg (no pun intended), senior advertising arts major, is responsible for the ideas and drawings on the posters. Bob Fillpot is in charge of poster display.

Besides the posters in campus buildings, 2,000 "Eat More Pork" signs are being distributed to Tech cars by Saddle Tramps.

Sounds of support will be heard all during the day as the victory bell is pulled around Memorial Circle and the fight song is played over loud speakers at lunch and after 5 p.m.

Municipal Airport will be the scene of another pep rally at 12:30 p.m. Friday as the Raiders board a plane bound for Razorback country.

Buses furnished by the Freshman Council and KSEL will provide transportation to the airport for students. They will leave from the Ad parking lot at noon Friday.

Lubbock Mayor Max Tidmore, Tech president R. C. Goodwin, and several members of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce will be on hand. A special 15-minute ceremony beginning at 12:40 p.m. will be conducted by chamber officials. The plane will leave at 1.

Telegram Signatures

More than 1,000 signatures had been secured as of 3 p.m. Wednesday for a telegram to be sent the Raiders Friday afternoon. A goal of 5,000 names has been set by the Student Senate.

Students may sign the telegram in Tech Union or at Memorial Circle until 4:45 p.m. Friday. The cost is 10 cents per signature.

The Raiders will return to Lubbock at approximately 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

MUN Delegation Requests Due

Applications for Model United Nations delegations should be turned in by 5 p.m. Friday to the program office in the Union, Secretary-General Chris Hickey said Wednesday.

Applications will be accepted until Nov. 24, but Hickey said the steering committee would begin making assignments before that time, leaving only small delegations for late applicants. Assignments will be announced Nov. 26.

Cards, Petitions Presented

Viet Nam Drive Ends

By BILL MOORE
Staff Writer

"This is a representation of the sentiment that must grow if the United States wants to maintain its freedom," was the statement of Rep. George Mahon, Chairman of the House Appropriation Committee, as he accepted a petition signed by over 7,000 Tech students supporting the United States policy in Viet Nam.

The petition to Mahon and a token representing 22,000 Christmas cards to be sent to fighting men in Viet Nam given to Col. B. W. Paden, professor of Military Science, were presented in ceremonies held in Men's No. 9 cafeteria Wednesday night.

300 Attend

The ceremonies, attended by more than 300 students, Lubbockites, and dignitaries, brought to an end No. 9's idea of sending the Christmas cards to Viet Nam, which snowballed into an all-school effort. The original number of cards, 5,000, to be sent by No. 9 was more than quadrupled by other organizations at Tech.

Francis Steiger, president of Men's No. 9, made the token presentation, one of the cards, to Col. Paden. Johnny Ramirez, Men's Residence Council president, made the petition presentation to Rep. Mahon.

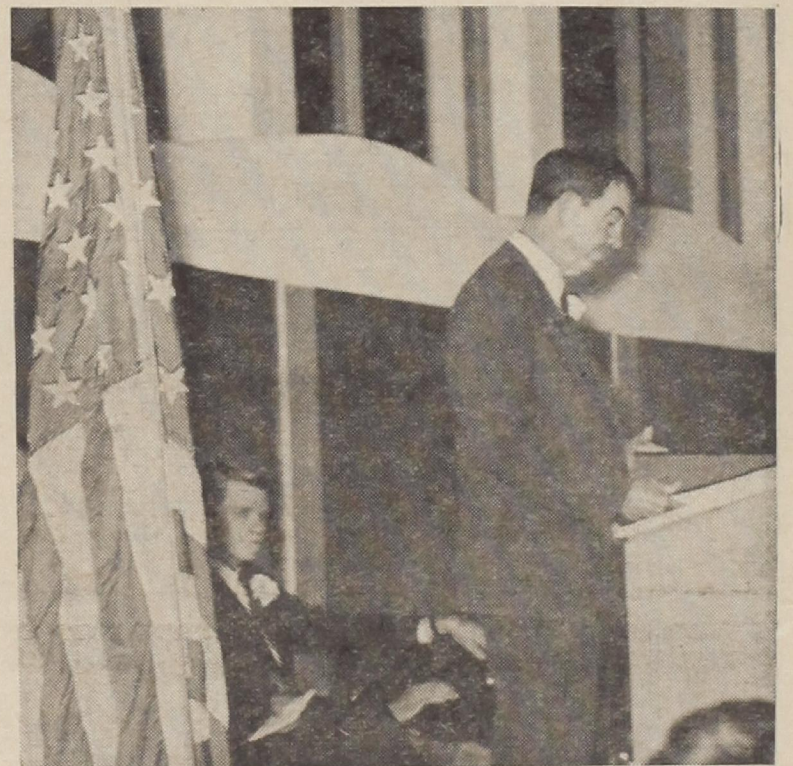

Speech Given

G. W. Bailey, senior Men's 9 wing advisor, delivered a speech supporting the United States role in Viet Nam. He said:

"Let us be true to ourselves. And let us not be ashamed, afraid or embarrassed to state the truth. To say it loud and long and clear. Let us wave that flag—for if we do not . . . that expensive cloth, bought with human life, will be destroyed while we sit timidly by."

Among the dignitaries attending were State Sen. H. J. (Doc) Blanchard; Max Tidmore, mayor of Lubbock; R. Wright Armstrong, president of the Board of Directors; and military officers.

Tuesday Talk Set By Rep. Jim Wright

Congressman Jim Wright will discuss "What's Going on in Congress" at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Ballroom of the Tech Union.

The Student Association will host the event, which is open to the public. One of the youngest members of Congress, Wright, 42, has had 17 years of experience in local, state, and federal government.

He began his political career after service in World War II. Wright has represented the 12th District of Texas (Fort Worth) for 12 years.

His service has been acclaimed by the late President John F. Kennedy, and he is described by President Johnson as "one of the greatest Congressmen in the United States."

In Congress, Wright has been a ranking member of the Public Works Committee, steered passage of major legislation and authored numerous laws.

He is the author of "You and Your Congressman," which will be published this fall. Also interested in foreign affairs, Wright was one of six members of the House of Representatives invited to attend Sir Winston Churchill's funeral and to confer with British legislators.

He has been a member of the United States delegation to the Interparliamentary Conference with Mexico for three years.

Wright was an official observ-

Red Raiders Sent Petition

Coach J T King and co-captain John Porter received from the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce yesterday a congratulatory petition bearing 1,410 names.

The petition read:

Whereas Tech is to meet Arkansas this week to decide the Southwest Conference championship and who is to play in the Cotton Bowl;

Whereas Tech holds an 8-1 record and a national rating;

Whereas our own John Porter, alias "The White Mule" is a senior co-captain and an outstanding tackle; and

Whereas the Red Raiders represent the whole state of Texas, not only West Texas, against Arkansas;

It is the desire of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce to congratulate the Red Raiders, John Porter, Coach J T King, and the entire athletic staff on their fine record.

Maintenance Program Serves As Power-Loss Preventative

By VICTORIA UNDERWOOD
Staff Writer

Texas Tech's new preventive maintenance program is an intense effort to prevent catastrophes such as the power black-out last week on the east coast.

James Russell, assistant director of building maintenance and utilities, believes preventive maintenance eventually will save Tech large sums of money, and that the program will improve the effectiveness of the maintenance department.

Preventive maintenance is relatively new, starting during World War II. It still is in its initial stages on college campuses. Less than one-fourth of the major colleges use preventive maintenance. Tech is one of the few colleges in the Southwest that has such a program.

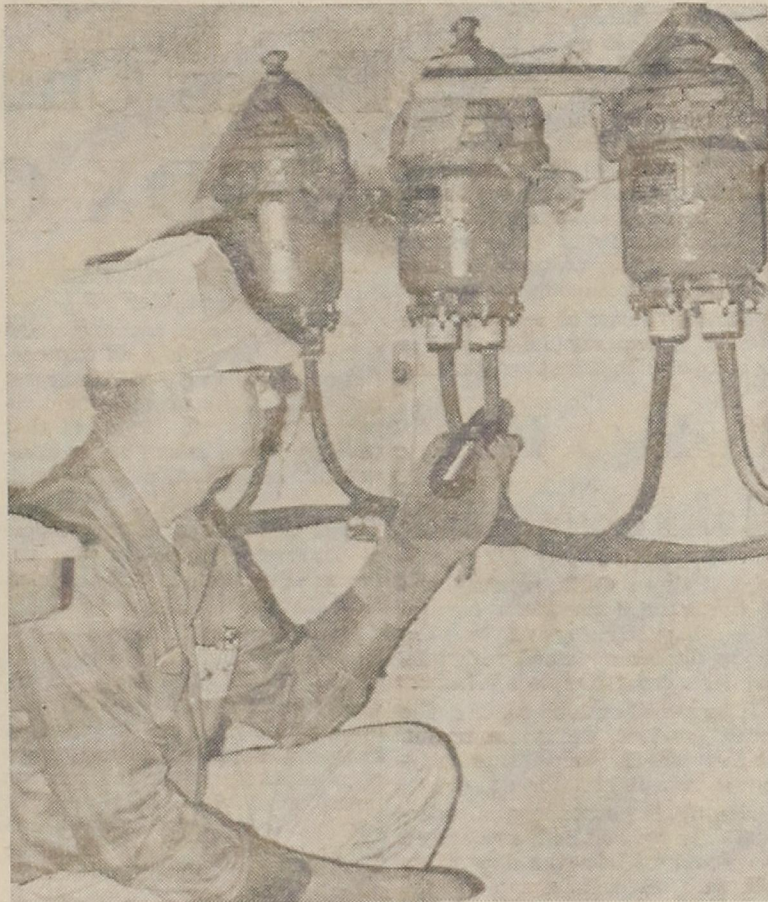

Preventive maintenance means checking each appliance, motor, and piece of electrical equipment during regularly scheduled inspections. Through monthly inspections Russell feels the maintenance department can find potential trouble before it causes a power breakdown.

Each building and its equipment is filed in the Diebold system so the directors may determine the condition of equipment at a glance. This system enables supervisors to scan 6,000 items per hour. Presently only three buildings have been catalogued: the speech and psychology buildings and the library. Russell hopes to have the remaining 57 buildings itemized within two years.

Since the newer campus buildings generally have more equipment it is difficult to estimate how much equipment each building actually has. The average is 30 pieces of equipment, ranging from heating and cooling devices to motors, transformers and relays.

The maintenance department has plans for continuing extensive preventive maintenance, according to Russell. The 100 maintenance employees may undergo a training program. This proposed training will enable the men to become adjusted to and better acquainted with preventive maintenance.

PREVENTATIVE MAINTENANCE—Albert Sport, electrician in Tech's maintenance department, checks electrical equipment in the Journalism Building in the college's new preventative maintenance program. The program is designed to catch accident-causing situations before they develop.

Senior ROTC Student Attends Ohio Meeting

More than 150 campus leaders in the Army, Navy, and Air Force Reserve Officers Training (ROTC) will attend the 32nd National Convention of the National Society of Scabbard and Blade in Cincinnati, Ohio, November 19 and 20.

The local unit of the National ROTC Honorary Society at Tech will be represented by Danal Dennison. Dennison, a senior ROTC student, was selected to attend the convention by his fellow officers in the local Scabbard and Blade organization.

The National ROTC Honorary Society was founded at the University of Wisconsin in 1904-05. Membership consists of outstanding juniors and seniors enrolled in all branches of college ROTC.

There are local societies at 170 colleges and universities throughout the United States and in Puerto Rico.

During the two-day convention, military leaders of the armed forces will address delegates.

Convention business will include discussions of the role of ROTC on the American college campus, the activities of local organizations, public understanding of the military establishment, and the needs of national security.

Statistics Classes Set Class Favorite Poll

Students may play a more direct part in retaining or changing the class favorite elections than they realize.

Charles B. Riter's three Business Statistics 246 classes have decided to poll seven per cent of the student body to see how they stand on the question of class favorite elections. Names will be picked at random and telephoned from the student directory beginning tonight.

The question of class favorite elections was first brought up at a Senate meeting four weeks ago. However, the Senate postponed any action until they could determine student opinion concerning the question. At that time, a committee headed by Johnny Walker was set up to investigate the problem.

The Senate faces three alternatives: retaining class favorite elections as they have been in the past; increasing the number of students to be honored from each class, perhaps changing the title to Top Techsans or some similar honor; or doing away with class favorite elections completely.

Those in favor of retaining the present system say the purpose is to recognize the most outstanding boy and girl in each class and it is a tradition which should not be broken.

Advocates of increasing the number of students honored say more deserving people could be recognized and that increasing the number would make the election less of a popularity contest. Also, they say because of the size of the classes, it is impossible to have just one boy and one girl who are representative of the entire class.

Those who want to do away with class favorites altogether say the school has become too large to have class favorites and that too often they are just popularity contests with the current athletic heroes or the students who have recently had their names in the news winning.

Vice President Scott Allen also posed the possibility of changing the election process itself, perhaps by changing the method for nomination or eliminating nominations altogether. However, the angle of changing the system of election has not been discussed yet.

Riter's Business Statistics students will be attempting to find the answers to some of these questions and to determine student consensus during their telephone opinion poll tonight. The results of the poll will be utilized by the Senate in solving the question of class favorite elections during the next few meetings.

JENNIE TOUREL, world famous mezzo-soprano, came all the way to Lubbock to appear as part of the Tech Artists Course series. The famed opera singer was not on tour, but accepted Tech's invitation.

Surely this is a sign that Lubbock is not the cultural void many think it is.

This past two weeks has offered so many activities that even the most conscientious of socialites would have trouble making it to each of the events.

Tech's Fine Art Kaleidoscope gave students an opportunity to participate in and observe many forms of art. And while the festival was going on, "Shot In The Dark" was playing at the Lubbock Theatre Centre and Civic Lubbock brought "Barefoot In The Park."

With all this, us "culture bugs" are extremely content.

Of particular interest to me was "In Time and Space," an opera and dance event that was one of the features of the festival. When I think of the hours and hours these students must have rehearsed in order to present a show of that quality, all I can say is "bravo."

The excerpts from operas left me with a tremendous desire to see each of the operas all the way through. Few of the students will probably ever be professional opera singers, but it is refreshing to see students put their souls into their work, and this these students did.

Many of the young dancers in the Dance Theater presentation were excellent, but the most outstanding was Sherry Cannon. It is not surprising that this graceful young lady was recently chosen to represent Tech on "Talent 66."

It would take a great deal of space to elaborate on each of the events of the festival, but this is a word of thanks to all those who helped make the Fine Arts Kaleidoscope the success it was. Thanks, too, to everyone who is working to bring fine arts events to Lubbock.

With all of the opportunities to see fine arts events, maybe some of those who previously shunned culture are beginning to feel, as Tolstoy said, that:

"Art is a human activity having for its purpose the transmission to others of the highest and best feelings to which man has risen."

Modesto Plan Halts Drop-outs

At Modesto, Calif., recently, one of the local businessmen lunched with a high school youth, took the lad to his office, talked with him, and then drove him to his home.

It happened on a school day. The youth, however, was not a truant. Neither was the businessman trying to recruit him for a job.

Exactly the opposite was occurring. The school had encouraged the youth to take the day off to talk with the businessman and the latter was trying to talk the youth into staying in school.

For the youth had frequently said that he might drop out before completing high school. He had dismissed the advice of the high school counselor. So the counselor had called on the businessman for help.

This was dramatic in the life of the youth. It possibly was a turning point. He learned from a disinterested person the value of a good education. He was shown the difference in pay and the difference in jobs that he would get if he dropped out or stayed in school.

He said he would stay in. As the school year goes on, the businessman will see the youth again.

At Modesto, school counselors have lists of businessmen upon whom they can call at any time to advise youths.

The program, which was set up under the auspices of the local Chamber of Commerce, covers junior high school through junior college.

Other business groups throughout the country have shown so much interest in the Modesto program, that the Chamber has had to prepare a form letter to explain it.

For drop-outs are a serious problem to communities and to businessmen. Thirty out of every 100 high school students fail to graduate. Those that do fail as a rule are not as informed citizens in their communities or as productive at work as they would have been had they graduated.

Press Challenged At SDX Convention

By JOHN ARMISTEAD
Copy Editor

The newsman of tomorrow, and today, has before him an unprecedented challenge—to interpret truthfully and precisely the happenings of a scientific world that changes overnight and leaves question marks on each morning horizon.

This was the underlying theme of the 56th Sigma Delta Chi national convention in Los Angeles, Nov. 10-13.

More than 1,000 newsmen, college journalism students and teachers heard addresses by prominent journalists, and each of these men, whose lives are wrapped up in words, stressed the magnitude of a challenge that the modern press must meet, so that the freedom to publish the news can be maintained, and so that the clarity and quality of news is increased.

Bernard Kilgore, president of the Wall Street Journal, said at a Thursday banquet that the newspaper editor of the future must be an "egghead."

He said the newspaper must become "highbrow and establish traditions of excellence." Only after such traditions of excellence have been accomplished, said Kilgore, can newspapers exert the tremendous political, social and intellectual influence today's papers are not capable of achieving.

Julian Scheer, assistant administrator for public affairs, National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told convention delegates Saturday that the news media have only begun to report the vastness, the complexity, the vital importance of science to all of mankind.

Scheer said newsmen must become more alert to all phases of science, and must report in a precise, clear and meaningful manner all that science does, is and can do to a public that will demand more challenging information, and the truth.

In a closing banquet address Saturday night, Theodore Koop, vice president of Columbia Broadcasting System, further underscored the vital role of the press in this chokingly complex world when he said, "Our challenge is the pursuit of journalism excellence."

From Los Angeles, from the mouths of men who write and speak so that the public may know, comes the challenge—let the people know the truth, the truth of science, of politics, of the guts of society. The challenge must be met now, at Tech, in Lubbock, by journalists everywhere.

Picadors Meet Eaglets In Season Finale

Tom Sawyer of Plainview will start at quarterback for Texas Tech's Picadors against the North Texas State Eaglets in Jones Stadium at 3 p.m. today.

Sawyer drew Coach Berl Huffman's nod for his performance against Texas A&M last week. The 6-foot, 175-pounder completed five of seven passes for 47 yards, and ran twice for a total of 17 yards.

At Plainview, where Don Williams coached him in football, Sawyer was an all-district griddier and made the Texas High School Coaching School All-Star team. He lettered three times in football and baseball and twice in basketball.

Both teams wind up their seasons Thursday. The Picadors are winless, having lost to Arkansas 23-19, Rice 21-9, and Texas A&M 39-7. North Texas is 2-2, with Arkansas, a 6-3 victim, the only mutual foe.

Coach Kenneth Bahnsen has a quartet of Eaglets whose names are familiar to Panhandle and South Plains fans—quarterback-defensive back Ted Pospisil of Amarillo, guard Richard Spencer of Plains, and end Charles Shamblin of Bovina, and guard Doug Cook of Andrews.

Other Starters Listed

Besides Sawyer, Huffman probably will start ends Floyd Lowery, 196, of Lovington, N.M., and Eddy Windom, 180, of McLean, tackles Mike Patterson, 215, of Winters and Milton Hibler, 200, of Wichita Falls, guards Don King, 200, of Wichita Falls Hirschi and Don Ivie, 205, of Corsicana, center, Jamie Hahn, 200, of San Antonio MacArthur, halves Dan Ehle, 200, of Houston Westbury, and Roger Freeman, 180, of Dublin, and full-back Robert Ammann, 195, of Austin.

Admission will be $1.50 for adults, 50 cents for students, Texas Tech students will be admitted by their ID cards.

Raiders Keep High Spirits In Preparation For Hogs

Among other things, Coach J T King is worried about today's practice session. Superstition is farthest from the Raiders' thoughts but they've worked out in Jones Stadium every Thursday since the season began and they don't want to change now.

A freshman game is scheduled at 3 p.m. today between the Tech Picadors and North Texas Eaglets, possibly forcing the varsity back to the practice field.

If players' class schedules permit, King may have the squad out early so as not to break the regular routine.

King is having other worries about the Arkansas Razorbacks but he had little complaint for his own Raiders following Wednesday's workout.

King said the drill compared to Tuesday's highly spirited session termed then by King as "one of our best all year."

The Raiders went through all phases of their game, avoiding all contact.

King also reviewed his injury list. End Jeff White has been given the go ahead but tackle Ronnie Pack and guard Doug Young are doubtful and tackle Bill Adams will definitely miss the contest.

King pointed out defensive standouts as Mickey Merritt, co-captain John Porter, Marc Bryant and James Henkel on the line and linebackers John Carrell and James Haney.

Offensively, he praised Chester Howard, Phil Tucker, Stanley Edwards and Jerry Turner.

The Raiders battle before an Arkansas homecoming crowd and the TV cameras Saturday at 1:30.

Is Frank ROYAL There, Please

MIKE LUTZ

DIDJA EVER TRY TO catch a greased Pig. We did Wednesday morning with little success. His name is Frank Broyles, chief Hogcaller in the Ozarks and pinning him down to specific answers was just about like latching onto a slippery P'l pig.

Fact is, about the most significant item that came out of the brief telephone conversation was that the long distance operator instructed Broyles' secretary that there was a long distance call for Frank ROYAL. Well, it was a logical mistake.

But one can't blame Mr. Broyles for being tight-lipped about the whole thing. The Razorbacks have just as much as the Raiders riding on the outcome of Saturday afternoon's mele. Just as with the Raiders, the ultimate success of the Hogs' season rests with this game.

Porks Have Reason To Fight

A victory for the Porkers means a repeat as outright Southwest Conference champions and a return host role in the Cotton Bowl, Jan. 1. A victory means another undefeated season and there'll be a homecoming crowd on hand to increase impetus among last year's national champs.

But what could hurt more than anything else is the fact that the Razorbacks are riding a tornado that began forming Nov. 23, 1963, when they started a string of 21 consecutive victories. That's a mountain that can't be looked over just by stepping on tippy-toes.

The Raiders, conversely, must cram all their pent up steam into seven weekends and seven straight wins. They must climb that mountain of 21 straight wins. And all of this is just froth. We haven't even discussed the relative strengths of the two units. And, not so confidentially, the Raiders are on the short end of manpower too.

But the entire force at Raiderland, we think, realizes the obstacle, which prompted Coach J T King to say, "If we go down there and try to outmuscle them, we're going to get beat." So what King and crew plan to do is open the offense wide open in an all-out effort to upend the Porks.

Broyles had little to say about his own bunch but he distributed bouquets aplenty to the Raiders.

They've Got One-Track Mind

Broyles was also non-committal on the Razorbacks' bowl status if they lose to the Raiders. "We're not interested in anything but this game right now," he said.

Although Broyles offered little from an analytical standpoint, Tech assistant coach Bill Worley was able to comment more in depth.

And Worley, who watched the Hogs dissect SMU, 24-3 a weekend ago, said this week's foe is most dangerous when it's on the defensive.

"I'd say they're the best defensive team in the conference," Worley said. "They've allowed only 69.9 yards rushing for their nine ball games."

Worley also called the Hogs' defensive tackles "the best in the conference, referring to Loyd Phillips and Jim Williams who'll be swinging their weight around against the Raiders Saturday.

The Arkansas defensive secondary has given up more yardage than anyone in the conference, "but they're not poor back there," Worley said.

The big running threat (Arkansas is No. 10 in the nation in rushing offense) is centered around the likes of Harry Jones, Bobby Burnett and Jim Lindsey.

'Pennant Fever' Abounds Here

"Pennant fever" certainly has hit the Tech campus. Some students have even taken up writing songs in praise of the Raiders. We haven't written any ourselves, but we'd like to make a dedication to the entire Arkansas football team—"May the Bird Of Paradise Fly Up Your Nose." (Ed's note. Hope Little Jimmy Dickens isn't from Arkansas.)

Just on casual glance at the latest NCAA statistics, it's not hard to find Tech represented. Mostly the individuals are Donny Anderson, natcherly, and Tom Wilson, but end Jerry Shipley also made the list this week.

Wilson is second in the nation in forward passing and fourth in total offense. Anderson is sixth in pass receiving and Shipley is 22nd. Anderson also ranks fourth in scoring and third in kick off returns. Team-wise, Tech is eighth in the nation for pass offense.

But the Oinkers can't be overlooked. From the team standpoint, they're ninth in total offense, 10th in rushing, fifth in scoring and fourth in rushing defense. Burnett is in a three way tie for seventh in scoring with 78 points.

CLOSING THOUGHT—It seems only fitting from this corner, that the team which started Arkansas on its winning spree should be the one to put a halt to it. On Nov. 23, 1963, Arkansas defeated Texas Tech, 27-20 in Fayetteville. Nuff said.

No. 1 Hogkiller

READY TO RIDE—Tech's All-America Donny Anderson needs only 26 yards of rushing against the Arkansas Razorbacks Saturday to eclipse the NCAA all-time record. He picked up 82 yards against Baylor last week and scored two touchdowns. The tallies vaulted Anderson into the SWC scoring lead with 90 points.

Resolution Calls For 'Hog Killing'

Enclosed with a petition received by Coach J T King and co-captain John Porter Wednesday from the City of Lamesa, Porter's home town, was the following resolution:

Let it be known that on this the 17th day of November in the year of our Lord, 1965, the citizenry of the township of Lamesa, in the Lone Star State of Texas, do hereby bequeath upon the members of the great and powerful sporting team, known as the Texas Tech Red Raiders, their complete and undying support in the face of the struggle the members of this organization face on the 20th day of November in this year of our Lord, 1965, and do also hereby petition this organization, upon their arrival and subsequent conflict in the foothills of the Ozarks, to celebrate their victory with an ol' fashion hog killing.

Oh, Yeah?

AP Says Porkers To Win By 22-14

By WILL GRIMSLEY
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Crystal balls, slide rules, ouija boards, coffee grounds and witches' brew—forget them all this week when only fire and flint decide championship football games and traditional rivalries.

One bound of the ball could decide any of the four big ones, but our vote on little more than a hunch goes to Notre Dame, UCLA, Arkansas and Dartmouth.

The features:
Notre Dame 21, Michigan State 18: The Spartans have the superior air game with quarterback Steve Juday and Gene Washington but the Irish's powerful infantrymen—Bill Wolski, Larry Conjar, Nick Eddy and Bill Zloch—upset the nation's No. 1 power.

UCLA 25, Southern California 20: A slight nod to young Gary Beban over Mike Garrett, the country's top rusher.

Arkansas 22, Texas Tech 14: The Razorbacks pour their souls and muscles into this windup game.

Dartmouth 15, Princeton 8: Two of the country's highest scoring elevens go to the mat in a rugged defensive duel, and this is where the Indians are at their best.

Harvard 10, Yale 7: For the men of the Crimson and the Blue, there is no other game but this.

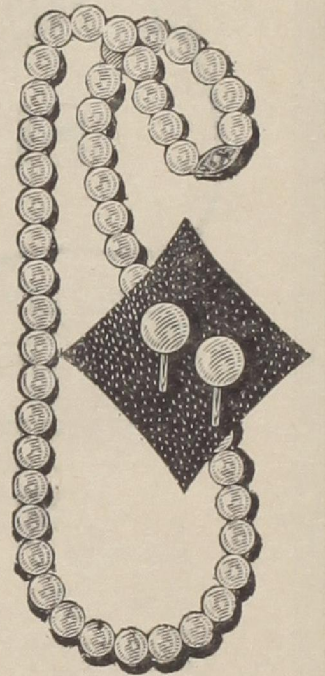

Nebraska 28, Oklahoma 7: The Cornhuskers, given a lease on life a week ago, complete their perfect season on Thanksgiving Day.

Kentucky 21, Tennessee 7: One of Dixie's great rivalries—the Volunteers can't get up after their first defeat last week.

Florida 24, Miami 14: The Gators win and plant their ear at the telephone for a bowl call, probably the Sugar.

Baylor 18, Southern Methodist 14: A backyard fight between two teams not going anywhere.
