Recreational Projects Help Attract Industry

Credit for financing well-planned community backed outdoor recreation centers is available in Coleman County through the Farmers Home Administration supervised loan program. John H. Curry, the agency's county supervisor, with office in Coleman, this week described some of the various kinds of projects that have been financed by FHA loans in rural areas. He said these loans are proving to be one of America's most effective rural areas development tools. Some communities have been able to attract new industry because of their new recreation projects.

Community recreation projects financed by the FHA include fishing and boating and swimming facilities; sports, camping - picnicking areas; vacation farms; travel trailer parks; vacation cabins and cottages; hunting preserves; and golf courses.

"Rural communities," he said, "can boast a new swimming pool, an attractive public park, a golf course or other such recreation facilities."

Complete information on loans to community groups for recreation purposes along with details about technical assistance in developing the project can be obtained from Mr. Curry at his office, Room 601, Coleman State Bank Building, Coleman, Texas.

School Entries Well Over 1966

Public school enrollment is well above last year's 2.5 million mark as Texas schools sounded the bell to begin the 1967-68 school year, the Texas Education Agency reported.

This year's expected enrollment of 2,598,000 students is up 42,000—about two percent—over last year's enrollment of 2,556,000 students. The new enrollment will include approximately 1,418,000 elementary students (grades 1-6) and approximately 1,179,000 secondary students (grades 7-12).

An estimated 122,000 professional people—including teachers, principals, and superintendents—will be needed this year to look after the educational welfare of the pupil enrollment in an estimated 1,275 Texas school districts. There were about 119,000 professional people working in Texas schools last year.

Agency statisticians also look for an increase in the number of teaching aides to do clerical and other non-teaching tasks. These aids free the teachers for more instructional time with the children.

An estimated 5,000 teaching aids will be on duty in Texas schools this year. Last year there were 4,317.

"This increase in the number of teaching aids indicates that the school districts have been pleased with their performance," says J. T. Martin, Director of the Division of Research at the Education Agency. With more pupils and more teachers this school year, it will take more money to meet the State's obligation to provide a public school education for its young people.

Junior Class Has Class Meeting

The Junior Class of Santa Anna High School held a class meeting August 29, for the purpose of electing class officers.

The officers are as follows: president, Jimmy Eubank; vice-president, Ricky Abernathy; secretary-treasurer, Danna Strickland and reporter, Doretha Carpenter. The class sponsors for the school year are Mrs. Tom Newman, Miss Tommie Tate, and Mr. Jasper Stacks.

Any group who applies to the FHA for credit assistance will have available to them the knowledge that the agency has gained financing approximately 1,100 recreation projects throughout the country.

Complete information on loans to community groups for recreation purposes along with details about technical assistance in developing the project can be obtained from Mr. Curry at his office, Room 601, Coleman State Bank Building, Coleman, Texas.

Country Needs Educated People

More than ever, this country needs trained, educated people to continue the progress America has made and to take their rightful places in the society that is developing.

Much of the poverty and unemployment that exists today is directly related to the lack of education and preparation by previous generations.

Right now there are 2 million youngsters in this country in the 16 to 21 age group who dropped out of school before earning their high school diploma. Nearly a fourth of them are unemployed. Most of the rest are stuck in dead-end jobs, without any real future.

Large gains have been made in the fight against ignorance, unemployment and poverty during the past several years. Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz recently reported that 2 million more people are working and one million more are in high school and college than the population increase of the last three years accounts for.

The Education Campaign of the past two years has helped in this progress. It has paid big dividends by inspiring dropouts to return to the classrooms and encouraging the undecided to finish their education. In 1960 the dropout rate was 25 percent. Last year it had decreased to 18 percent.

But 18 per cent is too high for a nation to tolerate. The frightening fact remains that at the current dropout rate by 1975 there will be 32 million adults in the labor force.

The Self Culture Club will open year of work with a morning coffee, Friday in the home of Mrs. Joe Mathews. The program theme for the year is "Texas, Our Texas." Guest speakers will be invited and many filmstrips will be shown throughout the year. Mrs. C. D. Bruce is the new president.

Paper Carries Wrong Date

One paper said that the Santa Anna Mountaineers would play Baird on September 9th. This is not correct, the Mountaineers will play Baird on September 8th, at Baird. The News has carried the schedule in previous editions and if you look on the football page in this edition you can see when the Mountaineers will play each game throughout the season. Let's all get out Friday night and support the Mountaineers.

Grady Banister of Houston is spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bruce, and is doing a lot of fishing and hunting.

Federal Tax Questions And Answers

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—My mother receives Medicare benefits. Will I have to count them to determine whether I provide more than half her support for dependency purposes?

A—No. Benefits under Medicare should not be included for support purposes.

Q—Does a return have to be filed for the year a taxpayer dies? If so, who has to file it?

A—A return must be filed for the year of the taxpayer's death. It is due on the same date it would have been due had he lived.

The executor or administrator of the taxpayer's estate, or his legal representative, should file the return.

Q—I have moved. Will the refund I'm expecting be forwarded to me?

A—Mail should be forwarded to you if a change of address card has been filed with your post office.

Q—I just divorced my wife. Will I have to make any change in my tax withholding?

A—If you have been claiming a withholding exemption for your wife, file a new W-4 withholding certificate with your employer dropping that exemption. You are no longer entitled to claim her exemption since you are divorced.

If you have children and are claiming their exemptions you should drop them too unless you expect to provide more than half their support this year. If your wife is supporting them she will be entitled to their exemption not you.

Q—My employer provides me with an expense account to cover food and hotel bills on the business trips I make. Will I have to report these expenses on my tax return?

A—If you account to your employer for these expenses and your reimbursement does not exceed those expenses you will not have to report them on your tax return. Employees who are not reimbursed for their travel costs should keep records of what they spend and claim a business expense deduction for them when they file their income tax returns.

For details on record keeping, send a post card to your district director. Ask for Publication No. 463, Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses.

Q—I've been keeping a record of the tips I receive. Can I report them at the end of the year when I file my tax return?

A—Tips are income and must be reported on your tax return. They should also be reported to your employer each month when they amount to $20 or more. Based on these reports, your necessary income and Social Security taxes.

Use Form 4070, available at IRS offices, to report tip income to your employer.

Q—Are fees paid to a licensed veterinarian for the care of a pet considered a medical expense for tax purposes?

A—Veterinarian fees are not a medical expense for tax purposes.

Q—To establish a casualty deduction for storm damage to our home will before and after photos be enough?

A—Photos will be helpful but you should also keep records that show the cost of the home including improvements, the value of the property before and after the storm, the cost of repairs and whatever you received as an insurance reimbursement.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:
Several thousand young men and women who graduated from college in June accepted jobs with the Internal Revenue Service. First the young graduates were sent back to school to learn all about taxes. Since early July these young people have been going to an Internal Revenue Service school. They are learning the fundamentals of how to do tax work and how to determine whether the taxpayer owes more tax or is entitled to an additional refund because he failed to take all his deductions. We can all wish these fine young Americans every success, but we hope they always talk to our neighbor about his taxes instead of us.

Q—Are tips paid to a licensed veterinarian for the care of a pet considered a medical expense for tax purposes?

A—Photos will be helpful but you should also keep records that show the cost of the home including improvements, the value of the property before and after the storm, the cost of repairs and whatever you received as an insurance reimbursement.

Q—I just divorced my wife. Will I have to make any change in my tax withholding?

A—If you have been claiming a withholding exemption for your wife, file a new W-4 withholding certificate with your employer dropping that exemption. You are no longer entitled to claim her exemption since you are divorced.

If you have children and are claiming their exemptions you should drop them too unless you expect to provide more than half their support this year. If your wife is supporting them she will be entitled to their exemption not you.

Q—My employer provides me with an expense account to cover food and hotel bills on the business trips I make. Will I have to report these expenses on my tax return?

A—If you account to your employer for these expenses and your reimbursement does not exceed those expenses you will not have to report them on your tax return. Employees who are not reimbursed for their travel costs should keep records of what they spend and claim a business expense deduction for them when they file their income tax returns.

Bigger, Brighter "Boys Still Boys"

They are certainly bigger and probably smarter. They may dress and talk differently, but boys will always be boys and haven't really changed much in 50 years.

That is the opinion of professional Boys' Clubs of America youth workers who staff the 735 Boys' Clubs in 468 cities and towns in 46 states.

A poll of youth workers who daily offer guidance, know-how and understanding to the 750,000 national youth-guidance organization membership, affirms some basic "boyisms."

Today's boy will manage to rip the knees out of his Sunday suit trousers while playing ball.

He will still claim "I'm not hungry" while merely picking at his dinner—and then wolf down two pieces of apple pie. He will still come home from school on a snowy day with two left boots.

He can name every car on the road; make, model and engine, but will never volunteer to wash the family car. He will still finish his homework on the school bus and forget his lunch.

He can rattle off the last five all-star teams in any major sport, but will never remember the location of the dirty laundry basket.

Boys' Club youth workers view juvenile lawlessness in big cities as nothing new.

"We, the public, are more sensitive to juvenile crimes today because we are better informed," is the feeling of one group. "Advances in communication systems and more sophisticated news media have made us more aware of what's going on in our streets."

"There are 'bad boys' many of them," they conclude. "But many of them can be reached and steered toward Juvenile Delinquency rather than delinquency. That's our job, has been for a century and will continue to be. So long as there are deserving boys, the Boys' Clubs of America will serve them."

About 550,000 U. S. homes are hit by fire each year and over 6,000 persons—33% of them children—die in these fires according to National Fire Protection Association records.

What would you do if you discovered fire in your home right now? The National Fire Protection Association says: Plan ahead for fire emergencies. Make sure you—and your family—know two ways out of every room.

Remember, the first rule in case of fire is to get everybody out of the house—fast.

New P & W Magazine Describes Free Hunts

Austin—A special invitation is extended to hunters in the September issue of Texas Parks & Wildlife magazine, just fresh off the press. The host is the State of Texas. The article "Be Our Guest" outlines a number of free hunting opportunities that are available to Texas hunters.

Last year, 5,226 hunters shot for free on State wildlife management areas. Although they bagged a number of deer, turkey, quail, javelinas, squirrels and ducks, there were many squirrel and duck hunting permits available at the end of the season.

Public hunts on State management areas are valuable parts of the wildlife research program. They provide vital data on game species and the amount of hunting pressure that can be tolerated without endangering future game numbers. Removal of surplus game is necessary to maintain a biological balance, so guest hunters render valued assistance as well as enjoying free sport.

Another article in the September issue of the State outdoor magazine is of special interest to bowhunters, and to those who want to know more about this type of hunting. For that large section of the community, the fishermen, there are features on crappie, gar and bowfin, and one on the outstanding fishing at Falcon Lake.

Texas Parks & Wildlife magazine is available only by subscription from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, Austin, 78701.

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

Omar Burleson, M. C.
17th District, Texas

Washington, D. C.—On February 23, 1956, the subject of this column was Lobbying and Lobbyists.

In the minds of many, the organized lobby has a mysterious and clandestine meaning.

As a matter of fact, lobbying has a long history. It actually started in Washington's Administration on the Tariff issue. It reached unsavory heights in the decades from the Civil War to the turn of the Century.

Lobbying Activity in Washington today seems tame as compared with the record back in 1870's when Jay Gould offered Members of Congress $1,000 in cash and $5,000 to $10,000 in bonds after a bill was passed to approve a railroad route across the continent.

Webster defines lobbying as "The effort to influence the proceedings in Congress." If this definition is left without qualification, everyone who writes a letter to his or her congressman in behalf of legislation might be classified as a lobbyist.

There is hardly an organization of any size whether business, professional or any other, which does not have a "representative" in Washington. He is here to watch bills to determine how they affect their particular interest. Many lobbyists are never seen personally. When legislation is introduced affecting a certain group, their representative in Washington interprets the effect and writes the membership back home, referred to as the "pressure groups." This is really basic to our system, and since every individual cannot come to Washington and since the government is so deeply involved in so many people's business, it becomes necessary as a matter of defense that they belong to one of these groups and have someone in Washington to look after their interest.

Even ministers have lobbies in Washington. Educational institutions, churches, foundations, the Indians, hundreds of big corporations, farmers, veterans, labor unions and just about everything and everybody has lobbyists in Washington.

From time to time the newspapers have played up the evils of lobbying when something comes to light having the appearance of wrong doing. In the minds of both lobbyists and the politicians. This hunting ground for sensation is often fertile. The evils of lobbying come from the evil that is a few unscrupulous people. It takes a combination of the unscrupulous lobbyist and the unscrupulous official to produce evil. The evil is not inherent in lobbying, as such.

As a matter of fact, it can and does serve a useful purpose for a Member of Congress. Thus far, in the current session, more than 12,000 bills have been introduced in the House of Representatives. Another 2,000 have been introduced in the Senate. Some of these bills are identical. There still remain enough to make it physically impossible for every Member of Congress to be fully familiar with the contents of each measure.

So lobbyists perform a useful function in bringing to the attention of Members the attitude of the citizens they represent. Their numbers and interests are as varied as the segments of our society. The lobbyists are representatives of a particular interest, specialized and able to present arguments for or against a particular measure from their viewpoint. Then, it is up to the Member of Congress to exercise judgment in whether he considers the arguments persuasive or not. The idea that lobbyists of special interest groups offer things of value as an incentive is undoubtedly overdrawn in the mind of the general public. Not knowing the attitude of every Member and every lobbyist, one could not say it does not happen. On the other hand, veteran observers feel that when it does, it is rare indeed.

Lobbyists are required by the law to register and to file financial statements of expenditures with details of the wheres, whens, and what-fors included.

—Cattle Feeders:— Five Tips for Bigger Fall Profits!

When farmers and feedlot operators invest heavily in feeders, they are doubly anxious to get cattle off to the fastest start possible, with an absolute minimum of weight and death losses. One of the biggest mistakes that can be made, say extension veterinarians, is to immediately subject animals to the stress of vaccination, extreme handling and branding.

It's a much better practice to let cattle take a few days to become acclimated before vaccination for red nose disease, leptospirosis or other diseases prevalent in the area, such as black leg or anthrax. And it's wise not to mix newly arrived cattle with cattle that have been in the lots for some time. This is the way infections are quickly spread.

Here are some key tips on handling stressed or shipped-in cattle from the moment they arrive:

1. Unload animals gently into a dry-pen with adequate water and feed for every animal. Provide ample supply of both vitamins and minerals. Avoid damp drafty places.

2. Start medication program via feed or water as soon as the cattle arrive.

3. Provide a highly palatable, completely-mixed ration with adequate protein, energy, vitamins and minerals. About 10 percent of the ration should be a stress supplement that provides Aureomycin to supply 350 mg. per head daily. Aureomycin helps to get the animals on feed quickly and it prevents respiratory infections such as those that cause shipping fever—rhinotracheitis complex.

4. Feed this ration with a high level antibiotic for at least 28 days for top disease control and an extra 6 pounds of beef on each feeder during that first month. Recent research results proved these extra weight gains.

In five recent experiments conducted by nutritionists with American Cyanamid Company, calves were fed a protein supplement containing 350 milligrams of Aureomycin per head daily. At the end of the first 28 days test calves weighed 6 pounds more than the control calves not fed antibiotic. Value of the extra pounds of beef—2½ times the cost of the drug.

5. At the end of 28 days, many cattlemen also find it pays to switch to a feed that contains a seventy-milligram level of the broad spectrum antibiotic. This level prevents foot rot, also improves weight gains and feed efficiency because the animals are healthier—and stay that way to market.

Social Activities

Surveys Show Social Scientists Seldom Silly

Social scientists, long lulled by our repeated claims to "independent thinking," are baffled by mankind's current concern with the opinions of his neighbors.

How we think, why we think it, about whom or what, has taken on almost unbelievable importance. Television programs, books, boats, cars, coats, cats, canaries, caviar and curvaceous cuties, come and go, survive or perish, predicated on unpredictable public opinion. Clearly, the computer-armed, opinion research statistician has become an important figure in modern America. Whether all opinion research is good would seem to depend on who is doing the opinion research... for what purpose.

Public Profile Probed
An excellent example of how such research can be given positive purpose was offered recently when the century-old Boys' Clubs of America hired famed pollster Lou Harris to chart its public profile.

Completely dependent on public support, receiving no federal, state or municipal operating funds, the 724-Club, 750,000-member Boys' Clubs organization is consequently quick to recognize the value of a public profile of its performance. Under the provocative title "What America Thinks About Boys' Clubs," Harris set out to identify the image of the national youth-guidance organization.

"How many know—really know—about Boys' Clubs?" "Should there be more of them?" "Is there a job better left to Government agencies?" "Should private citizens and funds be expected to support them?" "How about their effectiveness?" "Do Boys' Clubs do the job?" "What job?"

Answers Important
Answers to questions such as these are of very real concern to the million-member Boys' Clubs "family," to board chairman Richard M. Nixon, to president A. L. Cole and to the 150 top civic, business, industry, labor and government leaders who serve on the national Boys' Clubs board of directors.

Results of the Harris Study are pleasing to the Boys' Clubs leaders. But, there are troublesome areas. Unquestionably, among these are of Boys' Clubs, the great majority think highly of them, support them, feel there should be more of them, endorse their aims and accomplishments. On the question of turning over the job of youth-guidance work to Government agencies, an overwhelming majority—more than 80%—opposed any such action. Troublesome, however, is the fact that relatively few people are truly familiar with Boys' Clubs. Too many still think of a "boy's club" in terms of a group of youngsters who band together for purposes which are not altogether good. Too few recognize that a "Boys' Club" which belongs to the Boys' Clubs of America represents a sizeable investment in a substantial building, or "Club house." Too few recognize that a Boys' Club is supervised by full-time salaried professional, career youth-workers. And too few are aware that a Boys' Club offers, every day, all boys from seven to seventeen, a wide variety of physical, social, arts and crafts, cultural and many other programs in a positive program of fighting juvenile delinquency by building Juvenile Decency.

Convinced by the Harris Study that there is considerable truth in the ancient axiom concerning the link between knowledge and affection, the Boys' Clubs organization is pushing its campaign of "1,000 Boys' Clubs For One Million Deserving Boys." Their goal is 100,000,000 "boosters" by 1970. To reach that goal, they are adopting a theme of "See One, Be One, Tell One, Sell One." Those who know Boys' Clubs—and Club members—have no doubt they will reach their mark.

Joe Watson and sons, Jacky and Bobby of Irving visited Saturday with Mrs. W. E. Vanderford. Sunday visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Don Pritchard, Mike and Gayla of Ropesville, Robert of Lubbock and Mrs. Ruby Pritchard.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hillin of Amarillo spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Monroe and Mrs. L. N. Bowman.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith and children of Elm Mott and Mr. and Mrs. Joey Bryan and children of Abilene visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Bryan. Mrs. J. T. Avants was Sunday afternoon visitor.

Night fishermen do better when they move their light out a little distance from the boat. This is done easily by using a piece of plywood fastened to an inflated inner tube. Anchor the lantern on top the board and let it float.

Austin—CITY SALES TAX

A dozen Texas cities—including Austin—are rushing into special elections on the new one per cent local option sales tax which became legal on August 28.

Here's what the big hurry is all about: local levies approved in elections this month will be collectable on January 1. Elections after October 1 would not provide money in the till until April 1.

Thirty days' notice is necessary to call elections—either by order of city governing bodies or in response to petition by citizens.

First cities to vote on the sales tax will be Elgin and El Paso. Their elections will be held on September 27.

Aransas Pass, Corpus Christi, Electra, Henrietta, Nacogdoches, Orange Grove, Texarkana and Wichita Falls will vote September 28.

Voters in Austin and Taylor will go to the polls on September 30.

CONNALLY UNDECIDED—Gov. John Connally returned from his African hunting expedition undecided whether he wants to travel Texas campaign trails again.

He told reporters that he may take several weeks or even months to make up his mind whether to seek a 4th term.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith says he will run for governor regardless of whether Connally does or not.

Other candidates said to be considering 1968 races are:

- Don Yarborough of Houston, a liberal who has opposed Connally twice. He may run for the gubernatorial post again next year.
- Former Sen. Franklin Spears of San Antonio, who may run for lieutenant governor.
- House Speaker Ben Barnes who is ready to announce for lieutenant governor if Connally runs again and for governor if Connally retires.

COTTON PLOW UP—John C. White, State Agriculture Commissioner, has extended the cotton stalk plow-up deadline to September 10 in Cameron, Willacy and southern portions of Hidalgo and Starr counties.

White said 100 per cent mop-up is necessary to destroy the winter hibernation quarters of the destructive pink bollworm. Bollworms used to destroy every third bale of cotton in the Rio Grande Valley. Now it does only nominal damage, usually late in the season, says the Commissioner.

NEW LAWS EFFECTIVE—major new laws went into effect within the last week.

Among the most significant are:

- "Medicaid" implementing act to provide free medical benefits to 350,000 Texans on welfare rolls;
- Minimum age for drivers increased to 16;
- Changes in the 1965 Texas Code of Criminal Procedure designed to strengthen law enforcement officers;
- New hours for Texas liquor stores—10 a. m. to 9 p. m. except Sunday;
- Eligibility of 10,000 non-citizens for old age assistance payments—if they have lived in the U. S. 25 years or more.

PROJECTS FOR AGED APPROVED—Governor's Committee on Aging has approved for continuation special projects to benefit senior citizens in Austin, Dallas, Galveston and Houston. An outlay of $57,058 for second-year financing was cleared.

Committee also approved new projects in El Paso for $23,816 and Wichita Falls for $22,934.

El Paso will establish an information and referral center for senior citizens.

Wichita Falls project calls for establishment of a day center for leisure time activities.

LOTS OF ROADS

Besides hearing a request for a single designation of the hug-the-coast highway from Orange to Brownsville, the Texas Highway Commission authorized a number of road projects.

Included were a 4.2 mile FM road in San Jacinto county (from Camilla northwest to FM 1514); a loop around Huntsville; a route for U. S. 271 from Paris to the Red River; a 12-mile FM road in Atascosa County from the McMullen County line where FM 2025 ends northwest to U. S. 281 at Campbellton; two miles of FM 1397 in Bowie County; a one-way street pattern in Garland; six farm to market roads to serve Sam Rayburn and Toledo Bend reservoirs in San Augustine, Nacogdoches, Angelina and Newton Counties; sections of U. S. 281 and SH 79 in Wichita County; four miles of FM road in Polk County from U. S. 190 southeast to FM 350; planning of U. S. 82 through Necona; widening of SH 327 in Silsbee; and two interchanges on U. S. 87 in Hale County.

AIR CONTROL

State Air Control Board, armed with new powers and money, has called on major cities and counties to set up local air control programs, promising help and cooperation.

San Antonio, Dallas and Houston all have city-county programs underway. First evidence of the success of such co-operative efforts came in Harris County when operators of 11 private garbage dumps were persuaded, without court action, to abandon the burning of trash and to install sanitary land-fill methods of garbage disposal.

City and state air pollution control engineers provided technical advice to the operators, and the threat of an injunction and civil penalties ranging up to $1,000 a day under the new law was enough to convince the operators they should make the change.

SCHOOL ORDERS ISSUED

Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar has upheld a Harlingen school board order closing Wilson Elementary School at Primera (Cameron County) and requiring transportation of 200 pupils to the Steward School, Harlingen, and Dishman School, Combes.

Edgar overruled transfer from the Gilmer to the Gladewater Independent Gladewater School District of 45 pupils who live in what used to be East Mountain District which recently consolidated with Gilmer. Parents brought suit to block the

EYE BELIEVE IN "KEEP IT TIDY"

"Keep It Tidy" is the slogan of the continuing clean-up campaign at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas, and Myrtis Grant says she sees it is a good idea. Dates of the 1967 State Fair, the nation's largest annual exposition, will be Oct. 7-22.

consolidation, claiming Gilmer schools were inaccessible to their children.

SHORT SNORTS

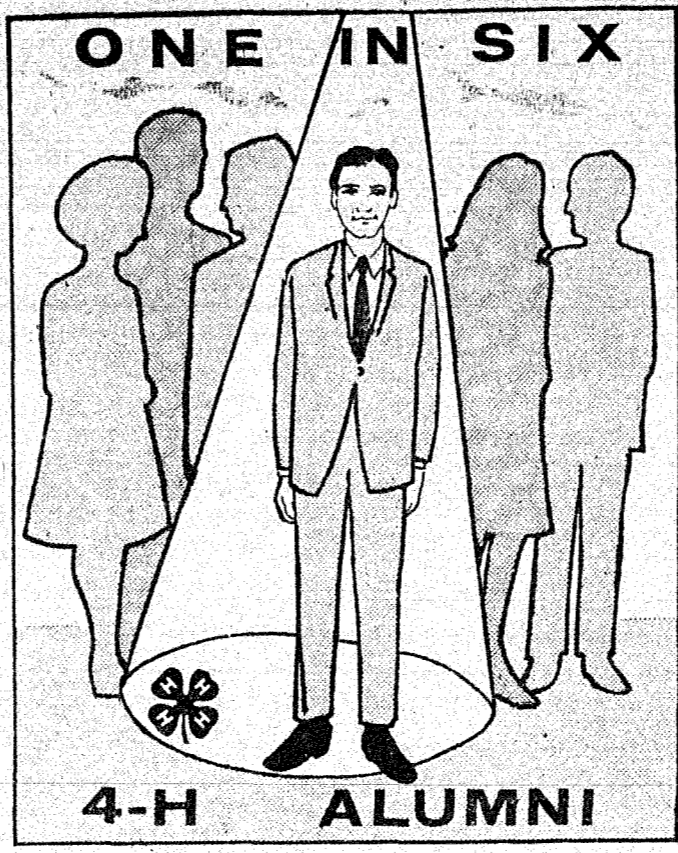

Acting Governor Preston Smith ordered a special election for November 11 to replace Rep. Jesse T. George of Levelland who resigned effective September 5 to accept a Washington post as congressional liaison officer with the Small Business Administration.

Attorney General Crawford Martin has announced these additions to his staff as assistant attorneys general: Jim D. Vollers, Goliad; Alfred L. Shepperd, Odessa; H. W. Gillies, Angleton; Donald Keith, Houston; and Robert B. Davis, Jourdanton.

The Railroad Commission ordered Eastland County Oil and gas operators to stop using unlined pits to dispose of salt water.

GOP State Chairman Peter O'Donnell, Jr. has appointed two new chairmen to Texas Republican Task Forces: J. O. Reese, Odessa stockbroker, to the Task Force on Job Opportunities and Dr. William Rector, Wichita Falls physician, to the Task Force on Human Rights and Responsibilities.

In a receivership hearing brought by Insurance Commissioner Clay Cotten, Pioneer Casualty Company and Pioneer General Agency of San Antonio remained in business as District Judge James Meyers entered an order finding the firms solvent, but restraining them from disposing of assets until he gives permission after an audit.

ONE IN SIX

4-H ALUMNI

One of every six adults in the U.S. has been a 4-H member, claims the Cooperative Extension Service. At the present time the total 4-H Alumni in 50 states is some 26 million men and women. Their influence in community, state and nation is often noteworthy and merits special attention. One such way is through the 4-H Alumni Recognition program, now in its 15th year.

Men and women from all walks of life are nominated by friends and relatives for alumni honors including awards provided annually by the program sponsor, Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation.

Among prominent people who have received the 4-H alumni gold key—the highest award—are educators, businessmen, statesmen, farmers, entertainers, clergymen and an astronaut.

They include Edd H. Bailey, president of Union Pacific Railroad; Mary Merryfield, a syndicated newspaper columnist; Astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr.; Roy Rogers, movie and television star; Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, past president of General Federation of Women's Clubs; Robert Simpkins, prominent New Jersey farmer; J. Earl Coke, recently retired vice president, Bank of America, and Dr. George W. Beadle, 4-H'er need not now reside in his home county or state.

This year scores of qualified candidates will be considered for 4-H alumni award, according to 4-H leaders. Each county will select four residents for local recognition and the alumni pin.

During the past three years more than 6,300 persons received the alumni recognition pin.

Four men and women also may be named for 1967 state honors. Each will receive a handsome bronze and walnut plaque appropriately inscribed.

The 4-H alumni key is presented annually to eight national winners at the alumni banquet held during the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

For information on how to submit names for alumni awards, contact the county extension office. The former president, University of Chi-

Health And Safety Tips

Football season is here again.

All over the nation American males are tossing and kicking and running with footballs, all the way from eight-year-olds in the backyard to junior and senior high and college teams to the big bruisers of the professional leagues.

Football is a rough contact sport and inevitably will produce its full quota of bumps and bruises, strains and sprains, cuts and gashes. Most of these aren't serious and the lads concerned are back in the game shortly.

A thorough medical examination is highly important for boys preparing to go out for football to make certain that a lad has no physical conditions that should be noted before he begins the rigorous training and hard knocks of the game.

Proper physical conditioning hardens the body and increases resistance to fatigue, thus helping to prevent injury. A minimum of three weeks of conditioning is recommended prior to the first game of the season. Coaches and physicians are alert to the fact that many injuries occur when the player is tiring and thus less alert.

Careful coaching enables the players to perform better and thus become less prone to injury. Good officiating makes for better games and also helps to protect players. Proper equipment and facilities also are important to reduce injuries. Good first aid procedures and medical care, with a physician readily avail for practice drills and on the bench during games, are major factors in cutting down on serious injuries.

Precautions against the extreme heat of the early season days also are important. Many coaches are now scheduling the hot weather workouts in early morning and late afternoon to avoid the heat of the day. The old rule against drinking water during drills and games has long since been proved invalid and dangerous. Water and salt is necessary to replace fluids lost through copious sweating.

If your boy is playing on an organized team, the chances are good that all of these safeguards are observed. If most of his playing is done on a vacant lot in the afternoons and on Saturdays, it becomes the parents' responsibility to see that the player has the benefit of the safe guarding principles.
