

Annual Meeting of District No. Four American Cancer Society

In the District Four American Cancer Society's annual meeting held in San Angelo, June 20, Curt Riemann, executive vice-president for the Texas division of the American Cancer Society, told the delegates to the meeting that "you are helping shape the future of tomorrow in your work to control cancer in your communities."

The group elected three delegates for District Four: Mrs. Ross Foster, Sterling City; Mrs. Mike Wright of Brownwood; and Dr. Cecil French of San Angelo. A special resolution of appreciation was adopted commending Charles P. Taylor of San Angelo for his outstanding leadership in the 20 counties making up district four. Special awards were presented in the San Angelo meeting. Emzy Brown and Terrell Graves were given special awards for their work as crusade co-chairmen. It was pointed out that the Coleman County unit 1968 Crusade exceeded the 1967 Crusade by 28 per cent with a total contribution of $3,614.15 as reported by Weldon Davis, Coleman County Unit Treasurer and Memorials chairman.

Three other special awards were presented to the Coleman Unit for leading district four during the past year. An award was presented for the work of the "Education Committee." This work was done by Stanley Blackwell, and Billy Bartley. An award was presented for leadership of the "Publicity Committee" by Mrs. Newt Staggs in the Coleman County Unit Publicity Committee. Mrs. Hazel Griffin also works on this committee. The third award was given for leading district four in "Service to Cancer Patients." Mrs. Jack DeBusk and Mrs. Roger Watson of Burkett serve as co-chairmen of their committee.

Arnold Allcorn of Talpa, Coleman County Cancer Society Unit president, expressed appreciation to the more than 200 volunteer workers for making this year an outstanding one for the American Cancer Society. He also thanks each person who made a contribution in the April Cancer Crusade, or sent a Memorial in the name of the American Cancer Society. Terrell Graves represented the Coleman Unit at the annual meeting in San Angelo.

Year-End Report On FHA Programs

Credit programs of the U. S. D. A. Farmer's Home Administration helped more than 80 people in the Coleman County unit improve their homes, family farms and communities during the fiscal year 1968, Supervisor Foy I. Brown of the agency's county office in Coleman said today.

Farmers Home Administration loans and grants in the unit totaled $202,590 in 1968. Mr. Brown reported that the Farmers Home Administration, which supplements all other credit available to rural people, has added $903,560 to the unit's resources with loans and grants the past two years through a range of programs.

With the turnover of funds invested by borrower families, associations and communities, the agency's work is estimated to have a $4,224,920 impact on the unit's economy during 1967 and '68. Mr. Brown said that $174,500 of the 1968 fiscal year lending total through his office was accounted for by Farmers Home Administration insurance of loans funded by private lenders.

A good number of people benefited from loans for construction or improvement of family homes in the unit during 1968. Other family farmers who lacked other sources of credit turned to Farmers Home Administration for loans to purchase farms. Some secured loans for operating purposes while others took advantage of the economic opportunity loan which enables low-income families to equip themselves for income producing small enterprises — either farming, or non-farm production or services they can perform in rural communities.

"Many of these farm families served by FHA might have been forced off the land except for this last resort source of financing," Mr. Brown said.

Construction on the recreation projects in Callahan and Runnels Counties for which loans were made last fiscal year are nearing completion. These two projects have furnished income to workmen and material men while under construction and will continue to be a source of revenue to various workers and suppliers within their areas.

SPORTS AFIELD

Those younger families who go camping and have yet to cook over an open wood fire are needlessly and woefully cheating themselves of one of the great rewards that outdoor living has to offer. In fact, they are missing a double-barreled treat. For the proper cooking fire and its accompanying bed of glowing, scintillating, ever-changing wood coals provide excellent "dry" cooking heat. And the heady scent and sight of fragrant blue wood-smoke are a bonus; the cheery, crackling flames, a delight. Modern man possesses a deep atavistic affinity for the warmth and light of an open fire and its sounds, sights and aromas. Just observe the immense popularity of luxury fireplaces in the home and the ubiquitous backyard barbecue grills.

There are many ways to cook over a wilderness fire, but probably the best is with an open metal grid. If you are cozily ensconced in a modern, organized conventional public campground, undoubtedly your space will be equipped with a permanent grill over a barbecue-type open fireplace, with which you can make do. But every serious camper should own his personal portable grill.

A good portable grill for heavyweight camping is the custom "pro" model made (generally) by your local welding shop. Professionals have such grills made of round iron/steel stock three eighths to three fourths inch in diameter, depending upon overall size. Heavier than three fourths inch they're no longer very portable, or even useful, for family cooking. To make one, the welder or blacksmith will heat and bend two pieces of stock into a squared "U" and weld lengths of rod across them. The legs should be about one and one half feet long and ground to points. The legs on a grill like this do not fold. So how do you carry it? It is made to fit inside a stout grub box. You can either place it in upside down, then load up the box, or if you're careful, load the box and tenderly ease the grill in right-side up.

Grills/grates/grids can be handily contrived, notes John Jobson, Camping Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. "I've seen a good many," he says, "that range from oven shelves filched from a kitchen stove to home-contrived lengths of steel concrete-reinforcing rod bent into a long 'U' or long 'S.'" These are held in place over the fire by rocks or green logs. They have one glaring fault—no legs: so they are often wobbly.

Extremely useful, even invaluable cooking—fire grids for general or mediumweight camping are sold by most camping-equipment dealers, these have folding legs.

You can use them with the legs extended, or you can leave the legs folded and place the grills on rocks or green logs. A variation in technique is to place one end on a rock or green log (providing back heat). The other end, supported with legs, faces you. The grid should be about eight inches off the ground. Little expense is involved in any event, in obtaining a portable grill. So if you have not used one yet for outdoor cooking, give it a try!

French, Italian, Colonial Popular Children's Furniture
College Station, — The birthrate in 1967 was about 18 per cent less than it was 10 years ago. However, there were 3,533,000 babies born last year, enough to keep juvenile furniture factories working overtime to try to meet delivery schedules. What furniture designs are most popular for the 1968 crop of babies. The same styles favored in adult furniture also lead the parade in juvenile groups, according to Bonny Lay, housing and home furnishings specialist at A & M University. The styles are primarily French Provincial, Italian

Provincial, Colonial, Modern, and Spanish. Most of the furniture is offered in paint finishes as well as wood finishes—with the paint finish leading in popularity. Clear and frosted pastels are favorites in French Provincial, while Italian Provincial and Spanish appear in deeper tones of blue and green. Colonial styles are in white or maple finish, says the Texas A & M University specialist.

Decorated cribs are still on the market with Winnie-the-Pooh, Chicken Little and woolly lambs. Along the same line, but definitely mod, are cribs with panels decorated with large blocks in tints of yellow to orange. There is a trend toward taller case pieces such as chests and dressers. The larger furniture can be used by the youngster into the teen years and it also saves mother from stooping so much, Miss Lay explains.

The small-size youth bed that children formerly used after outgrowing their crib has been replaced by a regular 2-3 bed.

One furniture company is making an unusual crib for the very small infant. It is in Colonial design and made of solid cherry wood. Since it is only 43 inches long it's usefulness as a bed is rather short. However, for an interesting conversation piece it can be used as a book trough or a magazine rack after the infant has outgrown it.

For summer picnics you can increase your cooler's performance by pre-cooling with a few pounds of ice for an hour before you pack it and by refrigerating the food and drinks that will be placed in it.

Before undertaking mountain pack trips, get in some horseback riding practice at a stable near your home.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:
Every year at this time thousands of young men and women get a job during the summer vacation and then return to school in the fall. Those students getting a job for the first time will need a Social Security Number to give their employer so he can withhold their income tax and their social security tax. Most of them will get back the income tax come next January, but Social Security checks and medicare are quite a few years away. If you work on a summer job, talk to your employer about your W-2 form. Make sure that he knows where to mail it to you so you can file a tax return and claim a refund if you have one coming. Ordinarily you will receive a refund of all income taxes withheld, unless you make more than $900 during the year.

1969 WHEAT PROGRAM
The 1969 wheat crop program has been announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and features a national allotment of 51.6 million acres, down 13 per cent from '68. Diversion payments at the maximum rate authorized by law will be offered to farmers for planting less than their acreage allotment and diverting this land to conserving uses. Details on the program are or soon will be available from county ASCS offices.

They Also Learn . . .

A dog in a 4-H household is expected to shape up, walk right and obey its master. According to hundreds of young 4-H dog fanciers throughout the state, the canine member of the family does just that.

Not without considerable effort, though, on the part of both dog and owner. The latter is enrolled in the national 4-H Dog Care and Training program sponsored by Ralston Purina Company. He or she is between 9 and 19 years of age, and has accepted complete responsibility for the animal.

If there is not a family pet available, the 4-H'er has the thrill of choosing his own dog. A lot of fun and satisfaction go along with this project, to say nothing of the love and trust that grows between dog and master. Learning about canine health, disposition, daily care and training are other factors.

Why a dog project in 4-H? So boys and girls can learn to understand animals, say 4-H leaders, particularly those who do not live on farms.

With an estimated 65,000 youngsters from coast to coast participating in the 1968 dog care program, there is bound to be a host of healthy and lovable pets added to the U.S. dog population.

The 4-H'ers are recognized for good results with their dogs. They can compete for county, state, sectional and national awards provided annually by Ralston Purina. The Cooperative Extension Service names the award winners.

Parents interested in enrolling their children in 4-H, or who would like to volunteer as a leader of a 4-H Dog Club, should contact the County Extension office.

Little Leaguers
In Germany

Richard Clay Bass, 12 years old and Wade Bass, 9 years old, are living at the Air Force base near Alsenborn, Germany with their parents, T-Sgt. and Mrs. Dean Bass, they are grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bass and Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Parks of Santa Anna.

Baseball is one of the boys' main interests at the present time. A clipping sent from there, states:

"A Little League Action last week saw the major league Indians hold their league lead by defeating the Dodgers twice 17-4 on Monday and 13-4 on Wednesday. In other actions the Mets took two games from the Giants 4-3 on Tuesday and 7-5 on Thursday.

Monday and Wednesday the Mets will take on the Giants and Tuesday and Thursday the Dodgers will again meet the Indians.

Four home runs and a brilliant mound performance by Richard Bass produced the Indian's fourth league victory.

Two homers by Lee Breneisen and one each by Ralph Powers and Richard Bass accounted for five Indian runs. A rash of six doubles, triples and singles account for the rest. Bass struck out 13 batters and walked two to pickup his first win of the season.

Wednesday another barrage of singles, doubles and triples produced the Indians second win.

SALADA, TEXAS — Since the days when vast herds of cattle moved north over the Old Chisholm Trail, the Stagecoach Inn has been host to colorful heroes and desperadoes of the past century.

Established in 1847, this historic inn was host to Gen. Robert E. Lee and Sam Houston. Gen. George A. Custer stayed overnight at the inn on his way to Montana's Little Big Horn, scene of the disastrous battle with the Sioux Indians. Jesse James and Sam Bass also registered at the inn during their years as notorious outlaws. While retaining its Old West atmosphere, the Stagecoach Inn offers today's guests modern living with liquefied petroleum gas appliances that replace the antique wood stoves of a bygone era. Gone are the chuck wagons, but now gourmet meals are prepared on automatic LP-gas kitchen ranges. Even the swimming pools are warmed by LP-gas for more pleasant recreation out along the Old Chisholm Trail.

Federal Tax Questions And Answers

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I planted some flowering shrubs around my house this spring. Can I treat this landscaping as a capital investment for tax purposes?

A—Yes, expenditures for landscaping can be added to the cost of your property. However, this would not include normal maintenance and care of the shrubs and lawn.

Q—My daughters opened her first bank account and was asked for her social security number. How can she get one; she's only 13?

A—A person can obtain a social security number regardless of age by filling out Form SS-5 available at local Social Security or IRS offices. Banks and other savings institutions are required by law to identify annual interest payments of $10 or more by the social security number of the recipient.

Q—I filed my return in April. What could be holding up my refund?

A—Many refunds are delayed beyond the usual 5 to 6 week processing period because the returns were incomplete or contained errors. Missing or inaccurate Social Security numbers, missing W-2 statements and other required supporting documents were common causes for delays.

If the refund doesn't come within ten weeks from the time you filed, write the regional service center. Give your name, social security number and the date you filed to help them trace it.

Q—I'm making a gift of stock to my grandchildren. Will I have to pay a gift tax or will they?

A—Federal gift tax is imposed on the giver not the receiver. This section of the law does not apply unless a gift of more than $3,000, or $6,000 if your wife joins in making the gift, is made to any one person during a calendar year. Even then each giver has a $30,000 lifetime exemption to use up before the gift tax applies.

Q—Somehow I mislaid my supply of tax deposit forms. How do I go about getting more?

A—Write to your regional service center and give your business name, address and employer identification number. In your letter indicate the type of tax, the tax period and the number of Federal Tax Deposit Forms you need.

Q—I received a refund for a 1967 state income tax I had deducted on my federal tax return. Do I need to file on amended return?

A—No, the refund should be reported on your 1968 return under miscellaneous in-

Travel Folders Released For Texas Trails

Austin — Governor John Connally today announced publication of detailed folders for two of the Statewide system of Texas Travel Trails. The folders, published by the Texas Highway Department, will serve as guides and detail numerous points of interest along the Texas Mountain Trail in far west Texas, and the Texas Forest Trail in deep East Texas. The folders will lead travelers through picturesque landscapes, by historic sites and to colorful cities and towns on the two official state trails. Connally announced the new statewide system of trails last January. Each county erected special Travel Trail signs along the 10 official trail routes.

The Mountain Trail folder guides travelers through the highest region of Texas, where 90 peaks thrust above a mile high. The route goes past the nation's newest national park, to be developed in the Guadalupe Mountains, and to Davis Mountains State Park.

Those following the Mountain Trail will visit Big Bend National Park, the scenic El Camino del Rio from Big Bend to Presidio, and thru the cities of Van Horn, Fort Davis, Marfa, Alpine and El Paso.

The Texas Forest Trail explores a 790-mile loop thru the vast piney woods region. It goes through four national forests and past scores of federal, state and county recreational areas.

Other spots of interest include the East Texas oil field, the state's only Indian reservation, the Big Thicket and such popular water sport areas as Lake O' the Pines, Caddo Lake and Sam Rayburn Reservoir.

Travel Trail literature is available from the Texas Highway Department tourist bureaus and district offices, and at chambers of commerce along the Travel Trail routes.

Individual folders for the remaining eight Travel Trails will be released during the next few weeks as soon as printing is completed.

Fcic Aids Texas Farmers

College Station, June 20—The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation said today it will pay an estimated $457,000 in damages to insured wheat farmers in 24 Texas Panhandle and Northern counties and Curry County, N. M.

The estimate puts losses slightly above the $423,000 paid a year ago, but still indicates relatively minor damage to the crop. Ben A. Jordan, Jr., state director for FCIC, reports.

"About 350 insured farmers already have indicated some loss due to extreme weather factors, but is not anticipated the loss situation will become much greater," he said. Counties in the Panhandle where losses have been reported and the estimates include Dallam, $18,000; Sherman, $39,000; Hansford, $40,000; Lipscomb, $20,000; Carson, $30,000; Moore, $50,000; Gray, $15,000; Deaf Smith, $15,000; Randall, $20,000; Parmer, $17,000; Castro, $47,500; Swisher, $46,250; Hale, $8,800; and Floyd $5,500.

Losses to a lesser degree have been reported in the Northern Texas counties of Foard, Wilbarger, Knox, Baylor, James, Cooke, Grayson, Fannin, Denton and Collin. For Curry County, N. M., served by the Texas State Office, the estimated loss now stands at $150,000 on insured wheat.

"More potentially serious," Jordan says, "is the condition of the cotton grain sorghum crops planted this spring which already have suffered from the almost continuous rain.

"Cotton and grain sorghum losses are expected to be high in the blacklands and many West Texas counties also have suffered. Just getting the crop in the ground in time to meet insurance risk deadlines has been a big problem."

"Cold, rain and armyworms have helped deteriorate the cotton crop in New Mexico also," he adds.

On the brighter side, All-Risk Crop Insurance programs on irrigated wheat and grain sorghum have been made available in four Panhandle counties — Hartley, Hutchinson, Ochiltree and Oldham—effective with the 1969 crop. This makes Crop Insurance now available to farmers in 70 Texas counties.

Federal Crop Insurance is designed to protect the farm working capital that must be invested and risked each year to produce a crop. Policy guarantees are geared to cover most production costs. When low yields, due to the weather or other natural causes, reduces crop values below these guarantees, FCIC makes up the difference in cash.

"Throughout the 30-year history of our program in Texas," Jordan says, "we have paid an average of nearly $3 million each year to farmers in achieving our purpose."

Wheat farmers wishing information about the all-risk insurance protection provided through the federally operated program should contact any of the service offices in the two states or write Federal Crop Insurance, USDA building, College Station, Texas 77840.

FARM SAFETY WEEK

Agriculture currently ranks third among the nation's industries in accidental death rate. In 1967 about 8,000 farm residents were accidentally killed and nearly 750,000 more suffered disabling injuries. Traffic accounted for about 40 per cent of the deaths, followed by farm work and home accidents. The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council is asking all rural residents to participate in the 1968 observance of Farm Safety Week, July 21-27, and to join friends and neighbors in community programs to reduce accidents.

When packing your cooler for a picnic put bottled and canned drinks in the ice where they'll keep coldest. Pack perishable foods such as deviled eggs, hamburger and tuna or chicken salad just over the ice. Then pack less perishable foods, such as steaks and hot dogs, on top. If you follow this procedure for packing, your cooler should keep your food in satisfactory condition, with a minimum of ice, throughout a summer day.
