Outdoors In Texas

One of the highlights of any hunting trip is eating the game after the kill. Yet lots of wild game goes to waste because it isn't prepared correctly.

Most game simply fry wild game. Actually, while frying is all right, it is one of the worst ways of preparation. Wild game is dry and frying only removes the natural juices.

Most wild game is best prepared where the otherwise lost juices are retained and used to best advantage. This certainly is true of small game like cottontail rabbits and squirrels.

Contrary to what you might have heard, cottontail rabbit is delicious. Some people are reluctant to eat rabbit because of the stories they have heard about various diseases that a rabbit may carry. But the danger is nil. Cooking removes germs. A cooked cottontail is as safe as any wild game.

A so-called "gypsy rabbit" is delectable. Here is the recipe:

Skin and clean a cottontail and cut into chunks. Place in a kettle with an ordinary bouquet garni composed of one large bay leaf, three sprigs of thyme and 2 whole cloves, all tied together with kitchen thread, and five medium-sized onions minced, chicken fat the size of a small egg, six crushed peppercorns, and salt to taste.

Cover with equal parts of water and red wine, bring to a rapid boil, lower the flame and let simmer very gently for 2½ hours without dis-

HAY STILL POSSIBLE

There is still time to get high quality hay cuttings this season but producers should follow some recommended guidelines to get best results. Dr. Neal Pratt, of A & M says the proper stage of growth is the time when the greatest amount of total digestible nutrients per acre may be obtained.

"More than six million vehicles are expected to receive the compulsory inspection prior to the April 15, 1969 deadline," Speir said. Inspections may be performed at any of the almost 5,500 vehicle inspection stations in Texas, each of which displays the official vehicle inspection station sign. Texas law requires inspection of the brakes, lighting equipment, horns and warning devices, mirrors, windshield wipers, front seat belts in vehicles where seat belt anchorages were part of the manufacturer's original equipment on the vehicle, steering (including power steering) and wheels and rims (not to include removal of the wheel from the vehicle) on all motor vehicles registered in the state. Special inspection provisions apply to trailers, semi-trailers, pole trailers or mobile homes having a loaded gross weight in excess of 4,000 pounds.

The minimum fee is $1.75. This does not include the cost of repairs or adjustments necessary to enable the vehicle to pass inspection.

Speir said the new vehicle inspection sticker will be a 2½ inch square replica of a DPS patrolman's badge with red background. Motorists are urged to have the 1969 inspection performed as soon as possible to insure that their vehicles are mechanically safe for fall and winter driving.

TIRES ARE ALWAYS A BARGAIN at RUDOLPH'S Coleman, Texas

Federal Tax Questions And Answers

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I read where a retired policeman gets an extra $1,200 deduction on his federal income tax. Is that right?

A—There is no special tax exemption for policemen. However, there are provisions for all retired persons who receive pensions that retired policemen may benefit from.

A pension may or may not be taxable on whether a person has contributed to its cost. If the pension plan is of a type where the pensioner's cost is recoverable in the first three years, the pension is tax free until this cost is fully recovered. After that, the pension is taxable income.

Another provision benefiting policemen and other retired persons is the retirement income credit. When certain conditions are met, this provision allows a taxpayer to reduce his income tax by up to 15 per cent of his retirement income.

Details on these provisions are given in IRS Document No. 5018, Retirement and Credit. Send a post card to your District Director for a free copy.

Q—I'm being called in for an audit of my return. Do I have to bring the person who helped me fill it out?

A—No, this is not necessary. A major concern in any examination of a return is that the items listed can be supported by the necessary records. A tax advisor is not needed to help a taxpayer provide this substantiation. However, there is no reason why you can't bring your advisor if you wish.

Q—I've been told that there is a tax advantage in having shares of stock registered in both the husband's and wife's name. Is that right?

A—No. The community property law in Texas makes dividend income community income regardless of which spouse owns the stock. Therefore, each could receive up to $100 in dividends tax free, instead of only $100 to the spouse owning the stock as in other states.

Q—I get $25 a week from my ex-husband to support my boy. Who gets to claim him for tax purposes?

A—Since your ex-husband provides more than $1,200 support during the year he would generally be entitled to claim the dependency exemption, unless you provide more than half the child's total support.

For the rules on claiming a child of divorced or separated parents, write your District Director and ask for a free copy of Document No. 5013, Personal Exemptions and Dependents.

Q—My boss is sending me to one of our branch plants to do a survey of employee attitudes. My expenses are going to be paid while I'm there but if I come home on weekends, that will have to come out of my pocket. Will I be able to deduct cost of my weekend trips home on my tax return.

A—If your assignment is temporary you will be able to deduct the cost of returning home weekends. However, you may not deduct more for this weekend travel than you would have spent for room and board if you had stayed at your temporary assignment.

Your travel costs in getting to the temporary assignment and returning home after it is over are also deductible to the extent these costs exceed the reimbursement from your employer.

PAINTING

INTERIOR WALLS

A more professional job may be obtained when painting interior walls if care is taken to prepare the wall surface prior to the application of the paint, says W. S. Allen, agricultural engineer. All small cracks and nail holes should be filled with spackling compound and then sanded smooth. The wall will look better if it is rubbed down with a medium coarse sandpaper to remove all the little imperfections that seem to collect on the surface. The appearance of the final coat is going to be only as good as the surface under it.

Construction is already under way on this 300-foot "rig," which will be the tallest single structure at the popular 140-acre, $18,000,000 theme entertainment center located in Arlington, midway between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Arlington, Texas: Six Flags Over Texas will begin its Fall operating schedule on September 7 and will operate on Saturdays and Sundays only until the 1968 season ends on December 1. Operating hours will be from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The popular historical-theme entertainment center, located midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, has set Monday, September 2, as the final day of the Summer season, during which Six Flags has been open seven days a week.

Angus G. Wynne, Jr., President of Great Southwest Corporation which owns and operates the Six Flags Over Texas and Six Flags Over Georgia (Atlanta) entertainment centers, announced last week that the company will build a new 147-acre, $20,000,000 theme entertainment center in the Oakland/San Francisco Bay Area on the West Coast. The new park, tentatively named Six Flags Over California, is located east of Oakland in the city of Pleasanton.

The California Park is scheduled to open in the Spring of 1971.

Construction of new attractions at Six Flags Over Texas for the 1969 season is already under way with the building of the world's largest land-based oil derrick. This 300-foot oil rig will tower 300 feet in the air and will be supported by 800,000 pounds of steel. Costing in excess of half a million dollars, the oil derrick is located on a new 1.5-acre site near the Boomtown area of the Park. Giant elevators will take visitors to the two top observation platforms at the 267- and 255-foot levels.

The Oil Derrick will become the most prominent single structure at Six Flags, looming far above the 190-foot Sky Hook and 55-foot Astrolift rides.

What's Your Social Security Cost? What's It Worth To A Family?

Note This is the final installment of 3 articles on a cost and value of today's social security prepared by R. R. Tuley, Jr., Abilene District Manager for the Social Security Administration.

Thus far, we've talked only about retirement benefits.

Today's survivors and disability insurance under social security can mean $50,000-$75,000-$100,000 or more to an individual family should the breadwinner die or become disabled before retirement age.

Let's look at today's 22-year old, starting at $78,000 (the maximum yearly total covered by social security). Suppose he works on until age 35 and dies in an auto accident, leaving a widow and two children, aged 3 and 5. He will have paid in $4,700. Assuming he would have invested the social security contributions each pay day, the value at 3 1/2% compound interest would be $6,080.

The surviving family would be eligible for $434.40 per month, and if the children stay unmarried and in school to age 22 and the widow does not remarry, social security would pay them $63,000—more than 10 times the value of his social security contributions. Had he been disabled rather than killed in that auto accident and lived 5 years before dying, social security would have paid some $65,000 in disability plus survivor benefits.

These three articles were prepared because some erroneous calculations occurred and children were dinner guests with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Moore and girls and Danny Webb were also visiting Raymond, Don and Doris.

Mrs. Virgil Cupps and Judy visited her mother, Mrs. Mary Stephens of Bangs Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Nora Blanton visited with Mrs. Virgil Cupps Sunday.

nally circulate for a while aimed at showing that a young worker just won't get his money's worth from social security. The facts show just the opposite. Social Security protects against the risk of lost income to the American family because of retirement, disability, or death of the family breadwinner.

Ask your social security office for free booklet No. 35 "Your Social Security," and become better informed on what social security costs you and what it's worth to you and your family. The Abilene address is Box 3258, Zip Code 79604.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

Everybody knows that the new surtax law raised the amount of income tax that you will pay (7 1/2% this year) by 10%. What a lot of folks don't know is that the rules for paying estimated taxes have been tightened up. Most of us work for wages and our employers withhold income tax and social security tax from our wages and pay it to Uncle, and we don't have to worry about filling an estimated tax return. However, those folks who are self-employed or who have income outside of their pay check, do have a problem. This type of taxpayers have been required to file an estimated tax return in the past, but there were lots of good excuses that wiped out a tax penalty if you did not file and you met the exception. Congress decided to wipe out and tighten up these exceptions. If you are self-employed or if you have substantial income on which you have not paid any tax, you better review the amount of estimated tax that you are due to pay on September 15, or find out whether you have to file and pay because your good excuse is gone.

Austin, Texas — Until this year no one could vote in any election in Texas unless he had lived in the state a full year. "Not so now," says Secretary of State Roy R. Barrera.

As a result of a statute passed by the Texas Legislature in 1967, following voter approval of a constitutional amendment in 1966, voting rules have been changed.

Barrera, as the state's chief election officer, advises that any citizen of the United States, 21 years of age or older, who resided in Texas for at least 60 days as of the day of the election, who satisfies the conditions of a qualified voter in the state from whence he came to Texas and would have been qualified to vote had he remained there, may vote in the Presidential Election here this fall.

However, Barrera points out, the voter can not vote on any office except that of president and vice president of the United States.

Furthermore, he must apply for a ballot at the office of the county clerk in the county of his residence sometime during a 15-day period beginning September 6. If the voter has an official document attesting to the fact that he was a registered voter in the state of his former residence, he should take that document with him when he applies for his ballot. This will eliminate the necessity of the clerk verifying eligibility at the place of his former residence.

It is important to note too, says Barrera, that once declared eligible to vote, the newcomer must cast his ballot in the county clerk's office . . . not on November 5, the general election date . . . but sometime during the 15-day period preceding the general election.

STATE INCOME TAX DISCUSSED

The Constitutional Revision Commission finished its first full review of recommendations for a new constitution after a battle royal on the question of state income taxation.

The Commission wound up recommending that the current provision allowing an income to be retained, but there was considerable support for prohibiting income taxes.

The Revenue and Taxation Committee, headed by George Wilson of Dallas, president of Lone Star Steel Company, had recommended retention of the clause authorizing such a tax. But Wilson quickly joined forces with Houston Rep. Bill Archer during the full commission meeting in an effort to forbid income taxation.

Wilson said a prohibition on the income tax "would be helpful to our chambers of commerce in recruiting industry." San Antonio Mayor Walter McAllister termed income taxes "socialistic, communistic and Marxistic."

By a vote of 7-5 (most of the 25-man commission were absent or failed to vote) the prohibition of the income tax was approved. But Denton Rep. Alonzo Jamison forced reconsideration of the issue when he moved that the sales tax be limited to its current level, "if we are going to bind the hands of the legislature in the matter of one tax."
