Changes Sought In Tax Measure

WASHINGTON, July 18. (AP)—The house concluded three days of speeches on the $6,143,900,000 tax bill today while, meantime, administrative leaders checked to make sure all their supporters would be on hand for a vote Monday on the question of changing the corporation rate.

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn) already has served notice he will demand that the house send the bill back to the ways and means committee with instructions to raise the excess profits rate from 87 1-2 per cent to 90 per cent and lower the combined normal and surtax on corporations from 45 to 40 per cent.

Opening the attack on the proposal, Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn) told the house that it would reduce the estimated yield of the bill by about $390,000,000. "This motion," he said, "is not in the interest of the small corporations. It is for the benefit of the large and wealthy corporations making large profits out of the war."

Knutson said "we have a chance, depending on whether we can pick about 50 democratic votes."

Declaring the reasons given for cancellation a "pretext," Higgins said the order "has hung creeps on the biggest thing in Louisiana."

"The sudden close-down order halted hum and activity on the 1,300-acre expanse east of the city where construction started last March three weeks after award of the commission's biggest merchant ship contract and left the tract a mass of deserted streets, plings and cleared woods and marsh."

Higgins, Governor Sam Jones and others expressed regret over the loss of the great shipyards and Higgins said it would be impossible for him to absorb the approximately 10,000 shipyard workers in his other industries.

Governor Jones said he would do everything he could to "assist Mr. Higgins to keep the plant open."

In other places people who could not undertake extensive remodeling opened their homes by providing one or two rooms plus kitchen privileges. Some have tried it here, and it works out well.

Some Workers Return To Their Jobs

Other Disputes Prevail; Steel Union Accepts 44-Ct. Hike

By The Associated Press The Ford Motor Company plant at Iron Mountain, Mich., was back in production yesterday after a two-day shut down caused by what union leaders said was a "work cessation, not a strike."

The last of about 700 men who left their machines asking cancellation of a "stagger system" of employment and weekly instead of bi-weekly payments returned to their jobs. Officials of the CIO United Automobile Workers said the "work cessation" had not been authorized by the union.

At Buffalo, N. Y., striking CIO workers at the American Magnesium corporation plant voted to return after hearing appeals from union leaders and army officers. They were told that the war labor board would open a hearing on Monday on their demands for wage increases. The strike had involved about 1,000 employees.

But at Providence, R. I., 800 workers in the Brown & Sharpe Manufacturing Company remained on strike although leaders of the International Shovelers and Foundry Workers' union had urged them to return. The strike followed discharge by the company of a shop steward, a member of the union.

The war labor board at Washington sent a request to Everett, Mass., for striking employees at the Monsanto Chemical company to go back to work pending arbitration of a dispute between the company and an AFL union which seeks a union shop and a wage increase of seven cents an hour with an additional three cents for rotating shift men. The company, which said the average hourly wage was 90 cents, offered five cents with an additional two cents for rotating shifts.

Eight hundred employes in seven Kansas City flour mills walked out yesterday after both management and labor had agreed a wage controversy was a matter to be settled by a federal labor conciliator.

A strike on Detroit's municipally-owned transportation system was ended, but the city ordered that between 300 and 400 workers who walked out be suspended indefinitely.

The situation in the nation's great steel industry was easier. The CIO's United Steel Workers union agreed to accept the war labor board's award of a 44-cent a day increase instead of the $1 increase demanded for the group of so-called "little steel" companies. Immediately there came indications that the wage increase would be extended to other steel corporations.

The text of the announcement: "Northeastern Sector—An allied air unit bombed the airdrome at Kieta. "Northwestern Sector—Activity was limited to reconnaissance."

American Bombers Go In Action On Both Russian And Egyptian Fronts

First Month Of Summer War Puts Hitler Close To Vital Red Resources

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Wide World War Analyst The first month of the critical war summer of 1942 closes with Hitler's master offensive ominously close to vital allied resources and communication lines in Russia and Egypt, and still no sign that an Anglo-American second-front offensive is close at hand.

Comparison of the battle maps as they stood in Russia and Egypt at the summer solstice, June 21-22, and as they are now, a short month later, would be gloomy if it told all the story. They do not.

They do not even reflect all the unhappy events of those weeks. They do not record, either, any of the factors that tend to brighten the war prospects for the anti-axis league despite the grave and growing perils in Russia and the axis danger-thrust in Egypt still dangerously close to the Alexandria, heart of British power in the Middle East.

The war maps plot the rout of the British Eighth Army in Libya. They define a vast new German-occupied area in southwestern Russia. But they do not show the blood cost to Germany and her satellite allies of these still inconclusive victories. They do not show the terrible toll of United Nations shipping taken by axis submarines in Western Hemisphere waters; but neither do they show the tremendous and continuing flow of American fighting forces and machines to the British Isles or the swelling tide of Anglo-American material which has won through to Russia.

The cumulative effect of British and American bombing of naval industrial targets and German-held continental ports and war centers cannot be mapped. Its ultimate influence either on the Nazi campaign in Russia or on the sea-attribution battle Hitler is waging in the Atlantic can only be conjectured.

That air second-front has not reached its peak. Nothing approaching the thousand-planes-a-night score of sustained bombing has yet been attained. Just why is not revealed.

London offers had flying weather as an explanation of long lapses between mass bombing raids over Germany. The promised American air force participation is yet to develop in more than token fashion. Only the allied high command knows what problems of strategy, tactics, loss of replacement and supply are still in the active before the weight of ever-increasing Anglo-American air power makes itself felt.

And it may be that it is the solution of those problems that bars the way to immediate second-front operations in the west to relieve pressure on Russia. A counter-invasion of the continent to catch Hitler between two fires seems possible only when there is available a vast and unmatchable Anglo-American air umbrella to cover it and to blast a way for it.

Axis Base Is Set Ablaze

By LARRY ALLEN WITH THE BRITISH NAVAL AIR SERVICE IN EGYPT, July 18 (AP)—British naval dive-bombers in attacking the axis' foremost desert sea base at Matruh last night and early today turned the jetties into sheets of flames that could be seen for 20 miles and planted heavy explosives in the heart of a concentration of 1,500 axis tanks and vehicles.

"Those oil drums on the docks exploded like firecrackers," one returning pilot said. "We got several direct hits right in the heart of the massed transport where tanks burst into flames," said another who dove-bombed the inland concentration.

Axis laborers had unloaded thousands of gasoline and oil drums on the Matruh docks to feed Marshal Rommel's tanks and motorized infantry. These drums erupted like a volcano after the first British bomb hits. Succeeding waves of British planes dived toward the nearby refinery to feed their bombs into the cauldron which immediately illuminated the small supply ships in the harbor.

Other units then concentrated on the ships, and their bombs sent great geysers of water over the stricken vessels, one of which immediately went down by the stern.

Air Cadet Killed In Texas Crash

BALLINGER, July 18 (AP)—Aviation Cadet Edward H. Insinger, 23, of Maplewood, N. J., was killed today when his training plane crashed north of here. He was on a routine flight from Bruce Field, located here. Army officials said an investigation was being made.

He showed emotion yesterday for the first time, Blaine said, breaking into tears as he was being examined by a psychiatrist.

Brereton In Command In Middle East

Success Claimed By Soviet In A Counter-Attack

By EDDY GILMORE MOSCOW, Sunday, July 19. (AP)—Russian troops counter-attacking in the Voronezh area under the protection of American-made Douglas bombers were reported today to have driven a wedge into German positions and to have occupied a number of populated points.

The midnight communique otherwise indicated little change in the desperate defense of the Don river basin. The Soviets at the other end of the front still were locked with the Nazis "south of Millerovo," but the exact area was not named.

(A Berlin radio summary acknowledged repeated Soviet attacks on German bridgeheads across the Don south of Voronezh, but claimed all these attacks were repulsed.)

"In the area of Voronezh our troops, overcoming the enemy's stubborn resistance on various sectors have advanced and occupied a number of populated places," the Soviet war bulletin said.

The sinking of a 3,000-ton enemy transport in the Baltic also was announced.

Russian airmen, presumably flying the Douglas planes as well as Russian craft, were reported to have destroyed or damaged 80 German tanks, four armored cars, 23 guns and 110-troop and supply trucks during Friday's fighting. Three battalions of German infantry also were "dispensed and partially annihilated" by the air force, the communique said.

News dispatches told of the entry into action of the twin engine light attack Douglas Boston on the Russian front. Presumably these ships entered Russia either through the Persian Gulf or the Murmansk Arctic supply line, but they could have been flown in from the Middle East.

The Russians apparently were having their gravest problems in the south where a crushing German advance was slowly rolling through ripening grain fields above the River Don to menace Rostov at the mouth of the meandering river, and industrially vital Stalingrad on the Volga to the southeast.

The Germans claimed their troops had reached the lower Don on a broad front, but there was no confirmation of that here.

(A BBC broadcast, quoting its correspondent in Moscow, reported, however, that "later messages said that the Germans had driven on a wedge in the direction of Rostov." The correspondent, Paul Winterton, added that the news was "exceedingly bad.")

While the Germans moved through the waist-high fields of ripening grain and the minerally rich Donbas basin, the stout Russian forces at the northern extremity of the 250 mile Don front struck savagely against the weakened Germans and Hungarians who have tried vainly for two weeks to capture Voronezh on the upper Don.

The Russians officially claimed the initiative there, and dispatches said they had wrested five populated places and driven many of the foe back across the sluggish river, inflicting enormous casualties.

The main force of the German news seemed to be aiming down the Moscow-Rostov railway in the direction of the Sea of Azov where the Don reaches salt water. The Germans were said to be striving mightily to capture a junction of the spur rail line to Stalingrad.

Dispatches said the Nazi advance was laying the countryside in ruins, with aviation pursuing the fanatical tactic of reducing towns and villages in the path of the mechanized German forces.

But everywhere there was evidence that Timoshenko's retreat was slow and orderly and that he was exacting a terrible toll of attrition as he sold the rich wheat lands for German lives and material.

Lack Of Steel Stops Higgins Shipbuilding

NEW ORLEANS, July 18 (AP)—Abandonment of the vast Michael shipbuilding plant of Higgins Industries, Inc., here today by the United States maritime commission was blamed by Andrew J. Higgins, president of the company, on "dollar-a-year men" in Washington.

The commission announced cancellation of the Higgins contract to build 200 Liberty ships in furtherance of its curtailment program which would divert all available steel to shipbuilding in existing plants and facilities.

Declaring the reasons given for cancellation a "pretext," Higgins said the order "has hung creeps on the biggest thing in Louisiana."

"They said it was a shortage of steel, that was their pretext," said Higgins. "There may be more behind it than their bare announcement. It's my personal opinion that the decision in Washington was arrived at and enforced by dollar-a-year men."

"Maybe we were going to build ships too fast, maybe we were going to build too many ships and too cheaply."

4 More Ships Added To Toll

By The Associated Press Four more cargo vessels were destroyed in the Atlantic and Indian oceans by enemy warcraft, the navy announced Saturday.

A Japanese cruiser operating off India's southern coast sank a medium-sized American merchant vessel, while axis submarines in the Atlantic sank a small British cargo ship and two more medium-sized United States merchantmen.

Japs Forced Out Of Port After A Week

CHUNGKING, July 18 (AP)—The Japanese have been blasted out of Wenchow after holding that southern Chekiang province seaport less than a week and additional operations have been inflicted upon the enemy on three other active fronts, the Chinese announced tonight.

The official Central News Agency said the Japanese were retreating southward from Wenchow toward Julian, 13 miles away, and that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces were re-entering the city which thus becomes one of two of the largest seaports still in Chinese hands.

A threat to the other major port, Foochow, further south in Fukien province, was averted last week when the Japanese were driven from a nearby island.

The news agency account supplemented today's high command communique, covering operations up to last Thursday night, which said a Chinese column then had pushed back to the city's suburbs, inflicting heavy casualties upon the invader.

Earlier in the week the high command had acknowledged the Japanese capture of Wenchow last Saturday by a force thrusting a second avenue of conquest across Chekiang. The first enemy drive was completed last month along the line of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway, from Hangchow, Japanese-held capital in the north, southwest across Chekiang into Kiangsi.

Material Here For Pipelines

Materials and machines both were arriving on the scene Saturday as the city prepared to push its pipe line extension to the U. S. Army Flying School site to rapid conclusion.

Three cars bearing all of the 12-inch steel line, which extends from the city reservoir to the field for a distance of little more than a mile, were on hand. Unloading operations were to start shortly on several cars of 12-inch pipe for nearly three miles of extensions from the north of the field to W. 1st and Abrams street for connection with the city's gas-a system.

At the same time, said City Manager E. J. McDaniel a ditching machine arrived and was to be pressed into immediate service. Another is due Wednesday, and a third machine may be put into service on the same day.

Thirty workmen have been opening ditch in a rocky section on the upper end of the water line job. Part of the pumping equipment has been delivered and if the remainder arrives in time, the city will be ready to boost water into the army's storage by Aug. 1.

'Kings Row' Brings Great Novel To Life

Vivid Drama Is Featured At The Ritz

"Kings Row," the eagerly-awaited film version of the Henry Bellmann novel, is the featured offering for today and Monday at the Ritz Theatre. Ann Sheridan, Robert Cummings, Ronald Reagan and Betty Field are starred and the featured cast is headed by Charles Coburn, Judith Anderson, Claude Rains, Nancy Coleman, Maria Ouspenskaya, Harry Davenport and Kaaren Verne.

The apparently humdrum small city of the American midlands, wherein all human passions and prejudices are encompassed in small space, has not often been used by the novelists or the movie makers as the locale for their product.

"Kings Row" dared to be different. It represents a frank unmasking of such a town, with the resultant high drama and the comedy, pathos and excitement that always are to be found there.

It is particularly the story of two romances, one between Ann Sheridan, playing Randy Monaghan, and Ronald Reagan, as Drake McHugh, and the other a three-way affair, first between Robert Cummings as Farris Mitchell and Betty Field as Cassandra Tower and later, after Cas-die, between Cummings and Kaaren Verne as Elsie Sandor. Woven into the intricate tale of these lives and loves is the whole parcel and pattern of small city doings, the back-fence gossip, the whispered accusations, the high spots of love and sacrifice that go to make up life in any typically American community. It is however, not merely an expose of the dark places in such a city. It is high drama that develops to a thunderous climax but leaves overtones of hope and courage as to the ability of young people to meet and overcome their troubles.

Before the Warner Bros. cameras passes the whole panoply of small city life between 1890 and 1930. The action of the story is fast and dramatic, involving as it does almost all the varied elements and circumstances that keep life in a small city interesting and provoking. Those who have lived in such a city as Kings Row know how much human drama goes on under the apparently untroubled surface of the town's social and professional life. It is that drama that Henry Bellmann caught so deftly in his novel and which Casey Robinson, who wrote the screen play, and Sam Wood, who directed the picture, have preserved with great fidelity.

Security Card Is Not A Work Permit For Those Under 16

It has been noted by Elliott W. Adams, manager of the Big Spring office of the Social Security Board, that some employers are under the mistaken impression that the possession of a social security account number card by a child under the age of 16 indicates that the child has secured a work permit from the county judge in accordance with state law pertaining to child labor.

"The possession of an account number card is not evidence of the holder's employability," Adams cautioned employers. "The responsibility of an employer to comply with federal and state laws regarding the hiring of minors is not affected by the fact that the applicant for work may display a social security account card. Possession of such a card is not evidence of anything except that the holder has established the right to have set up for him a wage account under the Federal old-age and survivors insurance system. The wage account is for use in connection with the eventual determination of the amount of old-age and survivors insurance to which the wage earner or his survivors will be entitled when he reaches the age of 65 or dies," Adams said.

Adams concluded by warning that the card should not be accepted by merchants as identification when exhibited by persons who want to open accounts or have checks cashed, nor should it be regarded by employers as evidence that a young person may be hired in accordance with child labor requirements.

Expert—That's the word for characterizations achieved by Robert Cummings, Ann Sheridan and Ronald Reagan, who have principal roles in the film adaptation of the stirring novel "Kings Row," which is offered today and Monday at the Ritz theatre. The film has been given high praise as a faithful version of the book by Henry Bellmann.

A Toast—This is one of the less suspenseful moments from "Kid Glove Killer," the Lyric theatre's Sunday-afternoon offering, which has to do in thrilling fashion with the detection of a "perfect" crime. Van Heflin, Marsha Hunt and Lee Bowman are the featured players. Heflin will be remembered as the new screen player who had such standout performances in "Johnny Eager" and "Citizen Kane."

Guest Ministers To Speak At Several Local Churches

Visiting ministers will be in at least three Big Spring pulpits today.

Melvin J. Wise will preach at the Church of Christ at morning and evening services. He was minister of the local congregation for seven years before taking up work with the Sears and Summit Church of Christ at Dallas. On Wednesday he concluded a revival at Coahoma, and then was able to come on to Big Spring for today's services.

At the morning hour, Wise will speak on "Personal Evangelism," and at 8:30 p. m., when the service will be conducted in the open air on the church lawn, he will talk on "To Whom Shall We Go?"

Rev. Luther Cole, minister from Waxahachie, will be in the pulpit at the First Christian church at both morning and evening hours. It had been announced through error earlier in the week that there would be no services today at this church which, like the Church of Christ, is temporarily without a regular minister.

Prayer meeting at First Christian will be held Wednesday evening as usual. Rev. Claude Stewart, Jr., is to have charge of services at the Church of the Nazarene, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Ernest Orton.

A special graduation program will be held at the First Presbyterian church this evening, when those finishing work in the past week's vacation Bible school will receive certificates. All departments of the school—beginners, juniors and intermediates—will be represented in the program, which is to begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Enrollment at the school totaled 75, and formal classes were completed Friday. Saturday afternoon, the children and their instructors enjoyed a picnic at the city park.

At the morning hour at the First Presbyterian, the pastor, Rev. O. L. Savage, will speak on "Deliberate Losing." Mrs. Robert Parks and Mrs. A. B. Brown will sing a duet.

Rev. C. T. Jackson will fill his regular third Sunday appointment at the Centerpoint church today. Everyone is urged to be present.

Christian Science Service

"Life" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 19.

The Golden Text is: "As the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself" (John 5:26).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Spirit of God hath made me, and the breath of the Almighty hath given me life" (Job 33:4).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God fashions all things, after His own likeness. Life is reflected in existence. Truth is truthfulness, God in goodness, which impart their own peace and permanence" (page 515).

The Weather Bureau bought more than 3 million cubic feet of helium for meteorological balloons in 1941.

War On Crime Dramatized In Queen Feature

"Let 'Em Have It," the new thriller glorifying the Federal operatives in their current war on organized crime, comes to the Queen Theatre today and Monday with one of the season's greatest casts.

Richard Arlen, Virginia Bruce, Bruce Cabot, Harvey Stephens, Eric Linden and Gordon Jones, the sensational new football star-film "find," head the cast which also includes Hale Hamilton, J. Farrell MacDonald, Dorothy Appleby, Barbara Pepper and a score of other popular names.

Joseph Monser March and Elmer Harris wrote the story which presents Arlen, Stephens and Jones as three fearless Federal sleuths who pit science and brains against machine guns.

Cabot is seen as Joe Keefer, a chauffeur who starts his shocking career of crime by engineering the attempted kidnap of his society girl employer, played by Virginia Bruce. Paroled, he grows more and more daring, finally becoming "Public Enemy No. 1."

The relentless pursuit and final spectacular capture of Keefer by the three buddies makes for one of the most exciting adventures the screen has ever shown. Virginia Bruce and Richard Arlen provide the romance.

Bond Program Is Organized

Back from a conference at Fort Worth where promotional plans were outlined, R. T. Piner, serving as a regional director on the "Victory Fund Committees," said Saturday that full efforts would be put forth to have banks in this area do their share in subscribing government war-financing issues.

The "Victory Fund Committees" are made up of bankers operating in conjunction with Federal Reserve officials, to see that treasury notes offered by the government are promptly taken up. These consist of offerings other than the War Bonds for which banks are not eligible. However, the Victory Fund Committees also will work with other general groups in furthering sales of War Bonds, Piner said. The whole program may be combined later. Piner serves in this area with Marvin Ulmer of Midland, with these counties in their jurisdiction: Borden, Andrews, Martin, Howard, Mitchell, Ector, Midland, Glasscock, Crane and Upton. Already, banks in this area have subscribed better than $50,000 to 2 per cent treasury notes recently offered. Banks and insurance companies, with other similar purchasers, will be expected to take about $4,000,000,000 per month.

Clark To Conduct Services At Coahoma Church Of Christ

COAHOMA, July 18—Don Clark of Abilene will be in Coahoma to work with the Church of Christ until September 13, at which time he will enter Abilene Christian college to complete his course of study. He will conduct a young people's training school beginning Sunday night at 7:30, and sessions will be held each Sunday evening while he is here. Church services will start at 8:30 p. m.

Sunday morning, his topic will be "A Peculiar People," and Sunday evening he will talk on "God's Dividing Line."

A revival has been scheduled to start July 24, to last for ten days, with Silas Howell of Lampasas in charge.

Sugar from sugar beets grown in the United States looks, tastes and is chemically identical to sugar from cane.

Van Heflin, Marsha Hunt In Thriller

Dramatizing the efficiency of scientific crime detection, "Kid Glove Killer" plays today and Monday at the Lyric theatre. Featuring Van Heflin, Marsha Hunt and Lee Bowman, the picture combines the excitement of a man hunt with an unusual triangle romance.

With Heflin enacting the police chemist, Miss Hunt as his assistant and Bowman as the heavy, the story opens with the drowning of the newly-elected district attorney. From that point on, the action develops rapidly with well-sustained interest.

Because the mayor, also newly-elected on a reform ticket, is still a threat to underworld activities, his demise is brought about through the planting of a bomb in his automobile. Although the audience is fully aware of the killer's identity, the narrowing of suspects by Heflin and Miss Hunt until they confront the slayer is highly diverting.

Rapidly rising to the front as one of Hollywood's most expert performers, Van Heflin again breathes excitement and reality into a role, as the police chemist. He has the sure touch and telling force that makes for excitement in screen portrayals. The attractive Miss Hunt is another player whose work can always be depended on and she gives an engaging and forthright performance as the chemist's assistant. Bowman is also effective in one of his few appearances in a villainous characterization.

Lending strong support are Samuel S. Hinds, Cliff Clark, Eddie Quillan, John Lital, Catherine Lewis and Nella Walker.

Cosden Corp. Stockholders Meet Monday

Annual meeting of the stockholders of Cosden Petroleum corporation will be held in Big Spring Monday. The session is scheduled at the company administrative offices beginning at 11 a. m.

Miller of Graham; C. J. Wrightman, Fort Worth; Nelson Phillips, Jr., Dallas, and R. L. Tollett, Big Spring. Proxy committee voting for the management consists of Tollett, Roth and Carey.

Texas Welcome To Heroes Shown In Lyric Newsreel

Special news films showing Texas welcoming heroes of the World war are an added attraction on the Lyric theatre program for today and Monday.

Special films were made of the receptions at San Antonio, Dallas and Fort Worth for the 16 British and American men who have been recognized for valor in various combat actions over the world. The programs at Dallas and Fort Worth are featured in the Lyric film.

The receptions included parades, luncheons, patriotic rallies and formal programs, for which Governor Coke Stevenson officiated.

Allies Have Huge Task In Opening Second Front

Shipping Is High Hurdle To Overcome

LONDON, July 18. (AP)—The seriousness of the German advance in the Don basin may prompt the U. S. and Britain to drive across the English channel soon to open a second front, but the tremendous shipping and training problems confronting the Allies made it unlikely that such a drive would be an all-out invasion.

Such an attack would differ appreciably from the grand war-winning operations for which American, British and Canadian armies are training, said military experts who will not be quoted by name. But whatever the scale of attack, the Allied armies approaching France or the low countries would confront veteran German generals, stout coastal defenses, numerous airdromes for planes which could be dispatched from the Russian front and most important of all—an army operating on short interior lines of communications.

As this island grimly watched the tide of German successes in Russia, the minister of production, Oliver Lytton, declared that the German army was "committed to the grip of a second paralyzing winter which may well prove to be its last" if Hitler fails to crush the red army in the 90 remaining fighting days.

The Allies, pledged morally at least to opening a second diversionary front to relieve Russia lest its millions be lost forever to the Allied cause, face tremendous tasks in reopening a western continental land front.

First is the selection of an invasion site. Northern France is most often mentioned because it is axiomatic that no invasion can be attempted beyond the range of fighter planes. An essential condition to success would be the occupation of German airdromes along the French coast by American and British forces. Without these, the invading Allies' air support would be extremely limited.

Shipping of course is an enormous hurdle since German submarines have greatly reduced the Allied pool and every ship is needed to supply and reinforce the front throughout the world. Northern France offers the shortest avenue for invasion on which small Allied ships could be used repeatedly as at Dunkerque, under constant Allied air protection.

Two French peninsulas are advantageous for American offensive operations. If either the Cherbourg or Brest peninsula were occupied—as suggested by one newspaper—the sea would be secure on both flanks.

The German spearhead which burst into France in May, 1940, comprised eight armored divisions. It is difficult to believe that the Allies could break the coastal defenses with less, together with about 22 supporting infantry divisions each with artillery. Thus the initial Allied invasion force would comprise 450,000 men at least.

A reserve force of 15 divisions, including two armored divisions, would have to stand ready to make good initial losses which military men say would be heavy.

Transporting and maintaining such an army would require a minimum of 200 medium merchantmen, 1,500 barges, 1,500 tank lighters.

Landing heavy equipment would be extremely difficult, particularly if small ports were chosen as bridgeheads. The alternative would be to capture a strongly protected base such as Lorient or St. Nazaire, which would be a major operation in itself. Another difficulty is the need of reserve ships, barges and lighters. Large merchantmen suitable for trans-Atlantic convoy service would be useless in small ports. They present a large target anywhere. Small tugs, freighters and coastwise vessels which brought one British army away from French would have to be employed to land another.

All these problems are dwarfed by the task of supply. Much of the equipment for U. S. forces must be brought across the Atlantic.

Traffic Handicaps Overcome By Big Race Track Crowd

CAMDEN, N. J., July 18 (AP)—Although there wasn't supposed to be any way of getting to the place, Garden State Park had 20,000 customers on hand today for the first race as it opened its doors to return racing to New Jersey for the first time in 20 years.

As with more coming every minute, and traffic on the Marlton pike tangled up for a couple of miles up to the entrance to the long brick and wood plant just outside of this town, it appeared that the operators' prediction for a crowd of more than 20,000 was fulfilled.

The crowd turned out in spite of a program devoted particularly to the better "mudders" entered on the eight-race card.

Sports Class Is Graduated

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The navy department announced that 286 former school and college sports leaders and physical education specialists were graduated from the Annapolis Naval Academy today after completing an intensive month's indoctrination course.

The list of men, their former schools and the posts to which they will report includes:

- Lawrence E. Haskell, the University of Oklahoma, naval air station, Jacksonville, Fla.; Lieutenant Commander William Madison Bell, Southern Methodist University, merchant marine academy, Great Neck, Long Island.
- Lieut. R. J. Brancheau, New Mexico State, to naval reserve air base, Norman, Okla.; Lieut. Emmet E. Brunson, Rice Institute, to navy pre-flight school, St. Mary's College, Calif.; Lieut. Norman P. "Red" Strader, St. Mary's to naval air station, Seattle.
- Lieut. James Lawson, Stanford, to pre-flight school, St. Mary's; Lieut. Byron "Buster" Brannon, Rice Institute, to Pensacola; Lieut. Herb Gallagher, Northeastern University, to naval air station, Corpus Christi, Tex.; Frankie Albert, Stanford, to St. Mary's.

Wife Campaigns For Ragsdale

Mrs. Bailey B. Ragsdale was a recent visitor here in the interest of her husband, Bailey B. Ragsdale of Crockett, who is a candidate for commissioner of agriculture of Texas.

Mrs. Ragsdale, who is as attractive as she is efficient, has been touring this end of the state, while her husband is carrying his candidacy to other sections of Texas.

Mrs. Ragsdale reports that her husband's pledge "to restore the state department of agriculture to the democratic party and to the farmers of Texas" is meeting with wide approval.

'Aggie Lettermen Not Around To Get Tickets

COLLEGE STATION, July 18 (AP)—Imagine a ticket manager trying to give away 50-year-old seats for the Texas A. and M. home football games and having those passes sent back to him.

That's what's happening to E. W. Hooker.

Earlier this month he mailed out the season passes to approximately 750 men who have won their varsity T at A. and M.

To date over 50 envelopes have been returned to him unclaimed because for many reasons, the main one given as "not here anymore," only two were marked "in the military service."

Not to be daunted in his effort to give away these choice seats, Hooker has issued a plea that all Texas Aggie lettermen who have failed to receive their T cards send him their present addresses.

Paul Cheatham Not To Play Football

COLLEGE STATION, July 18 (AP)—The Texas Aggie grid team lost another guard today when Paul Cheatham, Little Rock squadman in 1941, announced that he will pass up football this year to devote full time to his studies.

Cheatham had no experience when he reported last year as a junior but showed such development that he was invited back this season.

Texas Horse Cops Feature At New Park

CAMDEN, N. J., July 18 (AP)—Boysy, 8-year-old son of Blue Larkspur from the stable of Thomas Heard, Jr. of Texas, today won the six furlong Camden handicap, featuring the opening day card of the brand new Garden State Park, before a crowd estimated at from 20,000 to 25,000 fans.

Taking command at the head of the stretch, the husky gelding hit the wire a length on top of the favored Fine Tree Farms' Valdina Alpha. He was clocked in 1:13 1-5 for the three quarters over a slow track, and returned his backers $23.30 for each $2 win ticket.

Another Texas horse, Robert Rieberg's Dispose, was third, two lengths farther back and three quarters of a length in front of Charley Howard's Augury.

Ridden by young Darrell Clinegan, Boysy carried 112 pounds, compared to Valdina Alpha's 114. He was held off the pace through the first half mile as Dispose led the pack, then made his move rounding the turn and stood off Valdina Alpha's fast-closing rush, to pick up a winner's purse of $4,810 in a field of ten.

Looking 'Em Over
With WACIL M'NAIR
The Brooklyn fountain of youth is still in working order, much to the embarrassment of Mr. Claude Passeau of the Chicago Cubs. Passeau, the National League's leading hurler has twice took the mound this week against the Bums in efforts to win his 14th of the season. Wednesday's game didn't look so bad, as both clubs took the field with feudin' on their minds rather than baseball playing, but the Friday game makes it look as if the Cubs from Brooklyn actually have the Indian sign on the mighty Cub pitcher. Leo Durocher chanced a long shot when he called on Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe to match tosses with Passeau, but excepting the big bats of Lou Novikoff, Bill Nicholson and Jimmy Foss, he kept the Chicagoans under his thumb all afternoon.

Red Rolfe Homers Again As Yanks Trip White Sox

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—Robert (Red) Rolfe, whose return to action has highlighted the New York Yankees' latest winning streak, broke a battle of home runs today by smashing the ball into the right field seats with two out in the tenth inning to trip the Chicago White Sox, 7-4.

It was Rolfe's fourth homer in six days and it gave the world champions their seventh straight triumph and their 38th success in 49 home games. With the second place Boston Red Sox kept idle by the weather, the Yankees stretched their American league lead to eight games.

The Yankees had a 6-1 lead at the end of eight innings but the White Sox suddenly broke loose in the top half of the ninth against Marv Breuer, who had pitched three-hit shutout ball for six frames and had given up only one run on Luke Appling's homer in the seventh.

Singles by Taft Wright and Appling set the stage for a home run by Wally Moses as the White Sox opened their five-run rally.

SENIORS 3, BROWNS 0
WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The Washington Senators defeated the St. Louis Browns 3-0 this afternoon in the first game of a three-game series before 20,000 spectators. # Larry French Stopped By Cardinals

ST. LOUIS, July 18 (AP)—The ten-game winning streak of Lefty Larry French came to an end today as the Brooklyn Dodgers divided a doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals, retaining their eight-game margin over the Red Birds at the head of the National league pennant parade.

The Cardinals stormed from behind to win the first game, 7-4, and hand French his first defeat since he joined the Dodger pitching staff late in the 1941 season, but Brooklyn salvaged the nightcap, 4-3, with the help of some fancy relief hurling by Curt Davis.

Max Macon, whom the Dodgers bought recently from their Montreal farm, made his first start in the second game against another lefthander, Max Lanier, but neither was around at the finish.

Macon hurried shutout ball for six innings and held the Cardinals hitless through the first four. He also banged two singles and a triple, the last of which drove in the final Dodger tally in the top half of the seventh and contributed indirectly to his retirement.

Although he was credited with the triumph, Macon was so tired from base running that he weakened rapidly in the last of the seventh and the Cardinals chased over three runs on three straight extra-base blows.

CINCINNATI, July 18 (AP)—The New York Giants whipped Ray Starr and the Cincinnati Reds, 3-1, today behind the five-hit pitching of Bill Lohman, who scattered the blows over as many innings as Johnny Mike pounded his 16th home run for the Giants and Ray Lamanno hit a four-bagger for Cincinnati's only score.

Ryder Cup Team Trounces Hagen's Challenge Squad

DETROIT, July 18 (AP)—Craig Wood's Ryder Cup dream team established history in the war-orphaned international golf series today by blasting Walter Hagen's challengers in five best ball matches to seize a practically insurmountable margin in the Red Cross promotion that ends with 10 single matches tomorrow.

No team in eight previous matches had swept the first day's play, and to grasp victory from almost certain defeat Hagen's squad would have to win eight matches tomorrow, a hopeless proposition against Bixini, Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and other ranking cup stars.

Hogan, Mr. Moneybags of the tournament circuit, was nearly the whole show today for the 5,000 galleries who chipped in the first half on an estimated $25,000 charity nestegg. Little Ben clustered nine birdies while combining with Jimmy Demaret to whip Lawson Little and Light Horse Harry Cooper, 11 and 10. The previous high was a 10 and 9 victory Hagen and Denny Shute compiled over George Duncan and Arthur Havers of Great Britain at Columbus, Ohio, in 1933.

For the 26 holes the torrid ex-Texans were 11 under par over 6,957-yard Oakland Hills scene of the 1924 and 1937 national open championships. Lord Byron Nelson likewise was red hot under the broiling sun, firing six birdies as he paired with substitute Ed Dudley, Sam Snead's replacement, to trim Henry Picard and Sam Byrd, 8 and 5.

Nelson drew Woods top assignment for tomorrow's singles, facing Little who moved up to the challenge squad captaincy when Hagen was called to Rochester, N. Y., where his father, William, 83, died today.

With the match's outcome apparently sealed, tomorrow's feature appeared to be a rematch between Hogan and Harbert who met last winter in an 18-hole play-off for the Texas open crown at San Antonio. Harbert, Michigan-bred sensation of the winter circuit, carded a 72 to win by four shots, but he hardly appears to be a match this time for recent winner of the Hale America national open title.

Hogan and Demaret never gave their foes a chance. Cooper took the second with a birdie but the ex-Texans immediately started to unravel their string of a dozen birdies. They were five up at nine holes and aside from the eagle Little and Cooper never won another hole.

Three employees of a Cincinnati, O., plant lived within three blocks of each other and drove 35 miles to work each day. Each saved 8,000 miles of driving a year by pooling his car through a labor-management committee.

Houston Scores 8-1 Victory Over Oilers
HOUSTON, July 18 (AP)—With every member of the team contributing to the 13-hit attack against Red Adams, Joe Berry and Julian Tubbs, the Houston Buffs bounced back into fourth place Saturday night with an 8 to 1 victory over the Tulsa Oilers. The win squared the series and the teams tangle Sunday afternoon for the odd tilt. Paul Dean will be seeking his 13th win of the season for the Buffs and will be opposed by Gleen Gardner, a Buff hurler last year.

Gasoline And Automobiles

Have Gone To War

Uncle Sam has first call on all petroleum products—gasoline, lubricants, fuel oils and the rest—just as he has first call on automobiles and other essential items in transportation.

And that's all right with us! Winning this war comes first, and we're eager and proud to contribute in any way we can to the needs of Uncle Sam.

That's why we're working full time in producing gasoline and other petroleum products—to "keep 'em rolling."

And that's why we remind you again to conserve your automotive transportation. Drive carefully and protect your tires; have your car serviced regularly, lubricated properly, and powered all the time with the most efficient gasoline. Let's all work to "keep 'em rolling."

Read Test Is Cleaning Out

Cleaning out operations were in progress Saturday on the Ray Oil Co. No. 1 Willard Road, eastern Howard county outpost looked upon favorably as a possible pool opener.

Shot with 430 quarts from 2,630-2,700 feet in lime, the test bridged at 2,587 feet. This had been knocked out and the barrier, caught in the hole by premature explosion of the charge, was out of the way. Operators were pleased with initial inspections and thought there was a good possibility of cleaning out to bottom of the hole, plugged back from 2,883 and testing around the middle of the week.

Location of the well is near the T.&P. tracks in the extreme eastern part of the county, a mile and a half north of nearest production in the Dodge-Denman pool. It is 330 feet out of the southeast corner of section 27-30-in. T.&P.

Two wildcat tests in Martin county were making steady progress. The 7,700-foot Magnolia No. 1 E. B. Powell, in section 18-35, In. T.&P., was reported below 6,056 feet in dark lime. In the northwestern part of Martin county the A. G. Carter No. 1 Walter Claer, labor 22, league 263, Kent county school land, was drilling below 2,340 feet in salt.

Rural Carriers Meet This Week

NEW BRAUNFELS, July 18 (AP)—The men who carry the mail over county roads in all sorts of weather are talking time off next week to attend their annual convention starting here next Monday for three days.

And they'll be backed by their families, too, for 600 delegates are expected for the joint meeting of the Texas Rural Letter Carriers' association and the ladies auxiliary and the junior auxiliary of the association, whose opening session Monday morning features talks by Robert Lee Bobbitt, state highway commission member, and W. Bruce Luna, of Dallas.

Rain Badly Needed In Near Future

Present appearances indicate that crops over Howard county are holding up well despite continued dry weather, County Agent O. P. Griffin said Saturday.

However, these conditions cannot be expected to prevail for many more days without additional moisture. If rain does not come a critical stage may develop within the next two weeks, Griffin said. Many blooms are now visible in early cotton, and if rain does not come soon the early fields will bleed out, stop growing, and it will take some time to get them started again.

Feed crops are not particularly hurt by dry weather at this time, but like cotton they are reaching a stage where rain must come within the next two weeks if they are expected to make fair yields.

Griffin said that he talked to farmers from every section of the county during Friday and Saturday, asking for the most part they report that cotton crops are still growing, but it is a mystery how they can continue without moisture. Some farmers are dusting now, with hopes that rains will come in time to justify it, Griffin said. Not much trouble is expected from boll weevils this year. Griffin reported that some had been found near Coahoma, but due to dry weather conditions they are not likely to reach maturity. Griffin said that he is fairly certain that farmers can forget boll weevils for this year, as most farms have late feed crops that will furnish enough food for boll worms to keep them out of cotton.

Reports from South Texas say that leaf worms have put in their appearance there ahead of schedule, due mostly to rains. They may show up here in about two weeks if this is true, Griffin said. He urges that farmers buy enough poison ahead of time to go over their crops at least once, as a heavy demand for calcium arsenate in some parts is causing it to be rationed, to regions where it is urgently needed. The leaf worm may not bring a serious problem, but Griffin thinks that there is a better than even chance that it will. Therefore stocking enough poison to go over once seems a good risk, so that if they do strike there will be time to get in new stocks of poison before they can do much damage. With the present dry weather most any community could completely destroy the cotton flea hopper with two dustings of sulphur, Griffin said. This also might be wise, for in 1936 the weather was dry until September and good crops could have been made even then if the flea hoppers had been destroyed.

Aged Man To Give Away Inheritance

FLINT, Mich., July 18 (AP)—Charles Nelson, 80-year-old well-fare client who is bedfast with a fractured leg, was disclosed today as heir to $63,000 from the estate of his brother, but he said he would "give it away."

Nelson, who has been in the Genesee county hospital nearly two years suffering from the fracture and infirmities of age, declined to go into detail about his plans to dispose of the inheritance. A former factory worker, he apparently has no close relatives.

He is to receive a third of the residue of $199,824.70 left by the late Thomas Nelson whose will is being probated in Houghton county, Mich.

Several Killed As Plane Crashes

NORTH READING, Mass., July 18 (AP)—An army plane crashed today in woodlands on the outskirts of this suburban Boston town and state police said that "several airmen were killed."

The ship plowed into the woods with tremendous force, scattering debris over a wide area, and burst into flames.

The crash occurred about three miles from the heavily travelled Boston-Lawrence highway.

Explosions were heard shortly after the plane landed and a propeller was found nearly a half mile away.

Army officers at the Boston headquarters declined to give any details of the crash.

Stock Market In The Doldrums

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—The doldrums were doubled and redoubled in today's stock market as leaders merely went through the motions of seeking irregularly lower levels.

The two-hour session was the slowest since Aug. 24, 1940. Transfers totaled 99,810 shares compared with 153,650 a week ago. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .1 of a point at 214 and on the week showed a net decline of 4.

Acceptance by the unions of the wage boost awarded to "little steel" workers failed to stir the steels. Bethlehem was up 1-2 on a single trade of 100 shares. U. S. Steel and Republic slipped a shade.

Labor Meeting To Be Held This Eve

Labor organizations operating in this area have called a second meeting for 7 p. m. today in the W. O. W. hall in an effort to perfect a central unit.

Cecil Nabors, representing the painters, is chairman of the cooperative organization; Doc Young, representing retail clerks, is vice-chairman, and Elra Phillips, representing the barbers, is secretary.

Ten unions participated in the first parley and leaders were hoping that at least six others would be at the "solid front" meeting today.

Commando Training Added At A. & M.

COLLEGE STATION, July 18 (AP)—Commando training will be incorporated into the military science curriculum for future army officers graduated from Texas A. & M. College, Col. Maurice D. Wally, Inl., U.S.A., professor of military science and tactics and commandant at the college, said today.

In support of this, J. H. Greene, chamber of commerce manager, pointed out that there were at least 80 families on the "waiting" list for houses and apartments at the chamber office. At least 30 of these or people who must locate in Big Spring because of civilian or military connection with the U. S. Army Flying School.

Both he and LaFever predicted that the peak housing demand was yet to come. From here on out those seeking houses will be coming to Big Spring under orders and with prospect of being semi-permanent residents as contrasted to the temporary character of hundreds of construction workers.

"The people of Big Spring in general were anxious to have the city designated for the school. Now they must awaken to the responsibility of helping those brought here by it," asserted LaFever. "I know that in normal times most of us want our homes to ourselves. But these are not normal times."

"Our soldiers can sacrifice comfort and even life in the field for us, it seems the least we can do is to sacrifice conveniences so that we can take care of those carrying on the training program at home."

Building can still be done where it will provide for another family (associated with defense work), and those who can enlarge their premises will be able to get details from material dealers, FHA loans are available for this type of building.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 18 (AP)—Employee of a bottling plant found their office blood-spattered and the door blown off the office safe when they came to work today, but only $25 was missing.

The thieves, who apparently were injured when the explosive went off prematurely, overlooked $8,000 in another drawer of the safe.

Governor's Race Is Quieter Than Usual

By DAVE CHEAVES
Associated Press Staff

Texas accustomed to high pressure gubernatorial campaigns are experiencing a different type of electioneering this summer in the six-man race which might be characterized as the battle of silences.

Only one of the two candidates conceded by political observers to have a chance at achieving the democratic nomination in the July 25 primary is making the traditional statewide stump tour, and it is something of a novelty.

Hal Collins of Mineral Wells, speaking from the same platform with senatorial candidate W. Lee O'Daniel on their combined border-to-border sound-truck circuit for the avowed purpose of conserving rubber tires, has been making three to four speeches a day and will follow approximately the same routine during the important last two weeks of the campaign.

The incumbent Coke Stevenson, however, has confined his political speeches to a once-a-week statewide radio broadcast from Austin. He has shown his face frequently, however, at old settler's reunions, patriotic meetings, chamber of commerce luncheons and service club sessions in widely-separated portions of the state, for speeches classified as non-political. At the same time, his friends have taken up the cudgel for him frequently with statements answering accusations made by Collins, and these have been given wide publicity.

Collins' technique follows the O'Daniel pattern that has proved so successful in recent Texas politics, combining the radio appeal with the direct stump approach. Stevenson has always been noted as a quiet campaigner, maker of few speeches, who depended much on the local approach of friends in all parts of the state.

This is Collins' first fling at a state office, as compared to Stevenson's experience in campaigning. Observers are eager to see what score will result from their contrasting methods when the votes are counted July 25.

In recent gubernatorial campaigns, the race has been notable for the large number of candidates. Their apparently well-financed organizations complete with batteries of publicity men and women and furious stump-speaking larded with radio appearances.

Billibility and cowboy bands, quartets and community singing—all attempts at showmanship that copied the O'Daniel formula—were especially prominent in the last two gubernatorial races. This year, Collins is the only contender with music.

The four other candidates in the race are not especially active in comparison with the doings of candidates in recent campaigns.

Hope Wheeler, Arlington editor, is mailing copies of his paper all over the state, and using the radio to a limited extent, as is Alex M. Ferguson, seed breeder who lives at home. Ferguson uses the mails in advertising his candidacy, just as he does to advertise his farm seed. Neither is making many speeches.

Charles L. Somerville, Dallas law school operator made no speeches during the past week, but has two platform appearances, both in the North Texas city, for the coming week plus one statewide radio speech. He reported 200 "Somerville for Governor" clubs formed throughout the state.

Gene S. Porter of Belton, insurance man in the governor's race, campaigned last week at Houston, Beaumont and Galveston and plans to speak again next week at Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth and Austin.

And O'Daniel May Be Left Out Of It

Results of a postcard poll of ten per cent of the voters in each voting precinct in seven Texas counties, compiled here, indicate clearly that there will be a runoff in the senatorial race and that there is a possibility that W. Lee O'Daniel may not be in it.

On the basis of this poll, taken by a group of newspapers published in Taylor, Tom Green, Howard, Tarrant, Lamar, Harrison and Grayson counties, representing every section of the state, a tabulation gives Dan Moody 32 per cent of the first primary vote, Jimmy Allred 38.4 per cent and W. Lee O'Daniel 29.6 per cent. In each of these counties Moody was reported to be gaining ground rapidly, just as Lyndon Johnson swept to the runoff last year and all but carried the day, losing to O'Daniel by a plurality of only 1,500.

The same group of voters were asked to indicate which candidate they would support in the second or runoff primary in case their man lost out in the first. Fully 90 per cent of the O'Daniel men refused to make a choice, putting down O'Daniel's name regardless.

Some pencilled the notation "there ain't gonna be no runoff." Among the Moody and Allred men, however, over 90 per cent indicated they would vote for either one as against O'Daniel. In this test poll Moody got 49.6 per cent of the second choice votes, Allred 42.1 per cent and O'Daniel 8.3 per cent. The compilers emphasized that "we do not present these figures as a prediction of how the election is going. We do think, however, that they represent the present standings of the three candidates, and since they were based on seven representative counties in North, East, West and South Texas, they may be accepted as showing the general trend in public opinion."

It was also pointed out that while polls are less efficient and accurate than personal interviews, this particular poll was based on a wider scope than any personal interview poll could attain—that is, it was sent to ten per cent of the voters in each voting precinct in the seven counties, the names being picked at random from the official poll tax lists.

H. C. Hooser Asks Support In Race For Co. Attorney

H. C. HOOSER

Formal statement of his candidacy for county attorney, subject to action of the July 25 primary, is made by H. C. Hooser, attorney of Big Spring. He has resided here and practiced law in the local courts for more than 14 years.

Hooser is 54 years of age, and a graduate of Baylor university.

Hooser states: "I have ever tried to be fair and to do the right thing. Whether or not I have done this is not for me to say. I leave it to the people of the county to decide when they go to the polls to vote. I will treat each person fairly and give consideration to every caller when I am your county attorney."

"If you will vote for me, and ask your friends to vote for me in this campaign I will certainly appreciate it, and I do not believe you will ever have cause to regret having supported me."

Campaign Costs Are Listed By Office Seekers

Final data for candidates to file their second statements of campaign expenditures passed with 20 lists turned in on time to the county clerk's office. This figure was six short of the total due, as there are 26 precinct, county and district office seekers who are supposed to file.

Due probably to the cancelling of political rallies and customary speaking dates because of the war, many of those filing added only small amounts to the first reports, which were listed in June.

Those filing second lists, with amounts, follows: For District Clerk, Hugh Dunagan, $91.50; George C. Choate, $131.15; For County Judge, J. S. Garlington, $158.75; Walton Morrison, $91.50; Sheriff, Andrew Merrick, $91.50; County Attorney, George Thomas, $139.00; H. C. Hooser, $90.00; County School Superintendent, Anns Martin, $237.15; Hershell Summerlin, $139.85; Walker Bailey, $180.00; County Clerk, Lee Porter, $100.50; Tax Assessor-Collector, J. F. Volcott, $120.00; Commissioner, Precinct one, J. E. (Edd) Brown, $79.50; Roy Williams, $91.50; Commissioner, precinct two, W. W. Bennett, $52.50; Commissioner precinct three, R. L. (Pancho) Nall, $54.50; Commissioner precinct four, C. E. Prather, $152.80; Akin Simpson, $50.50; Constable precinct one, J. F. (Jim) Crenshaw, $50.04; J. A. (Dick) Adams, $70.50.

Those whose lists had not been received up to noon Saturday were Mrs. Ida Collins, for County Treasurer; Walter W. Long, commissioner precinct one; H. T. Hale, commissioner precinct two; E. E. Edens, commissioner precinct four; Walter Grice, Justice of the Peace, precinct one; and L. A. Coffey, for constable precinct one.

Allred Given Big Lead In Howard Co.

Howard county voters are strong for James V. Allred—so strong they might give him a majority in the U. S. senatorial contest in the first primary.

If their candidate does not get into the runoff, their choice in that event, when they vote in August, would be Dan Moody by a big margin.

These were the indicated trends shown in a postcard poll of a cross section of the electorate conducted by The Herald this past week; and although the figures are not presented as a prediction of the election, they do give a hint as to the present lineup.

Results of the poll in the first primary were:

Allred 58 per cent; O'Daniel 37 per cent; Moody 15 per cent. The same voters were asked to indicate which candidate they would support in case their man lost out in the first. Dan Moody forged to the front here in a big way, getting 71 per cent; Allred rated 24 per cent, and O'Daniel five per cent.

An attempt was made in the poll to get a fair percentage of representation in all voting precincts of the county, with ballots going to both men and women whose names were picked at random from a poll tax list.

Huge Sums Vital In Winning War, Mahon Asserts

The 42 billion dollar war appropriation bill is almost shocking in its proportions, said George Mahon, congressman from this district as he spoke in support of it June 23, "but when I consider the task confronting the American people, the sum does not seem so large."

"The whole world is a gigantic battlefield. The issue to be decided for generations to come. With that kind of a viewpoint, the sum does not seem so large," declared the congressman, who is a member of the committee which recommended the measure.

He added that for his part the money would be "cheerfully given when I know that in proportion to the money we wisely spend and the weapons we create and build we shall have a diminishing sacrifice of human life upon the battlefields of several continents and oceans of the world."

"Some of this money is going to be wasted. We know that in advance. We live in a world that is full of human elements . . . but we cannot sit idly by and question this and that item when we can never be sure of the exact needs of the future . . ."

"Some have said in criticism that we were appropriating great sums of money but that we could not win the war by the appropriation of money. Of course not, but I want to tell this Congress that the money we are appropriating is being translated into the weapons of war in a truly remarkable fashion. If you will study the facts and if you could know the confidential information the War Department has given this committee, every member of the house would have cause to be proud of the American laboring man, American industry, and of the American soldier."

He hoped, said Mahon, that huge sums appropriated would never be spent, but he warned that it was wise and necessary to appropriate to meet a need that now seems stark and real.

I regret it has not been possible for me to meet each voter in my race for commissioner.

Our country is at war. Our president has requested we conserve rubber. In these critical times my country comes first and private affairs second, for our homes are not secure until we have won this war.

To those of you that I have not met, I trust you will understand and will accept this letter as my personal request for your support in my race for commissioner.

Thanking you in advance, I am

County Could Record Over 6200 Votes

Potentially, Howard county could poll more than 6,200 votes in next Saturday's primary.

That is the "visual" total, and the actual potential might be higher since not all "overs" are carried on the exemption lists. Some estimated the number of qualified voters as high as 7,000.

None, however, expects anything like the visual potential strength to be felt at the polls. Howard county has never polled more than about 75 per cent of its actual potential, but even that figure would make this primary a merry one.

Senate Race Gains Heat

By The Associated Press
Texas' wartime senatorial campaign, competing with overseas news of battles and domestic war distractions for the public's interest, goes into its final critical week with all three candidates hotly disputing "what is the issue?"

Candidates listed from top to bottom of the extra-long ballot which the democratic voters will mark next Saturday, July 25, including local as well as state contenders — were speaking to smaller crowds than in the past, but for the most part to vociferously partisan audiences.

In the senatorial race, the incumbent W. Lee O'Daniel continued during the past week to emphasize his contention that the war is not an issue since it is not a question on which Texas or the nation are divided. His opponents, James V. Allred and Dan Moody, as emphatically insisted that war and O'Daniel's record as a senator on war questions, was the chief issue.

The senatorial campaign had gotten down to the bare knuckles stage, with all three berating each other unparingly, and replying with fervor or ridicule. The people who gathered to hear them appeared to be enjoying the scrap. But what the electorate really thinks, after the shouting has died away, will only be known after the votes are tallied in less than a week.

THANKS—

To the people of Howard county for your splendid co-operation during my first term as your commissioner. I also appreciate the fact that I have been permitted to run for my second term without opposition.

To The Voters of Howard County

TO THE VOTERS OF HOWARD COUNTY
Among all our institutions vital to the maintenance and support of our American way of life, none is of more importance than our schools, but the contribution our schools make toward such maintenance and support of this way of life depends a great deal upon the ability, training, experience and leadership of its administrative personnel. This is why we, as American citizens and voters, should give a great deal of careful consideration in the selection of a County Superintendent of Schools, because the chief duties of the office are the administration and supervision of our rural schools.

I am 35 years of age, married, and have one child. I have a Bachelor of Science degree obtained from West Texas State Teachers College at the close of the 1940 summer term. My college major was Educational Administration, which I believe to be a necessary requirement for a superintendent of schools. I have taught in our rural schools for 11 years, one year in Bunnels county and the last two years in Howard county, the last nine of which have been at Center Point, six miles northeast of Big Spring. I have had a part in building up a good elementary school at Center Point, but I do not claim credit for all its progress. It has been the combined efforts of a well qualified and hard working faculty, plus a cooperative school board and patrons, to accomplish this.

I have my campaign for this honorable county office on ability, training, experience, knowledge of school needs, honesty, sincerity, impartiality and the desire to serve. If elected, I pledge an honest, practical and impartial administration.

If I have missed seeing any of the voters of the county, it was not my intention to do so, but due to an effort to comply with the government's request that we all cooperate in the rubber conservation program. My desire is that all Howard county voters accept this as a plea for your vote and influence in the coming primary.

Spurt Shown In Absentee Balloting

The most unique political campaign in the history of the democratic primary in Howard county made ready Saturday to throw off the bonds of restraint and storm down the final stretch to what promises to be a pretty lively election after all on Saturday.

Until now there has been little or no interest in politics, except for a gradually mounting interest in the U. S. senatorial campaign. Local candidates have been up against a stone wall of disinterest. But by the end of the week the number of absentee votes on hand had climbed past 200 and there were prospects that there would be a regular deluge of this type of balloting before deadline Tuesday evening. This pointed to a fairly heavy vote on Saturday in the first democratic primary.

Except for occasional advertised pleas for consideration, there has been comparatively little active campaigning in the county this year. As the week came to an end, however, those in contested fields were ringing doorbells, wringing hands, and trying desperately to see that everyone of those cards went into the hand of a voter. Although unopposed candidates held back firmly in the sacred name of rubber conservation, their worried brethren were really engendering a last-minute interest in local politics.

Missing entirely this year have been the rural meetings in which candidates pay through the nose for cakes, pie, and pop. Office seekers have the war and the shortage to thank for that.

The same condition also practically stopped driving hither and yon for votes. Greater interest in the great world crisis shouldered

Biggest Crop Of Candidates After RR Post

By The Associated Press

The season's biggest crop of candidates is bunched in the race for the unexpired railroad commission term.

While the U. S. senate race holds the spotlight in the democratic primary campaign the 11 commission candidates are vigorously beating the bushes for votes, mostly by the personal contact-handshaking method, although some are delivering radio addresses.

Some are seasoned campaigners and some are novices in statewide campaigning but none is inactive. The ballot will list these names for the position:

Beauford Jester of Corsicana, State Senator Karl Lovelady of Meridian, T. Leo Moore of Electra, Bryan Patterson of San Antonio, C. E. McCormick of Cameron County, Will D. Pace of Tyler, State Senator Clem Fain of Livingston, P. M. Armstrong of San Antonio, James E. Kilday of Austin, Richard B. Humphrey of Dallas and Pierce Brooks of Dallas.

The race is separate from the contest for the regular six-year term in which incumbent Ernest O. Thompson's re-nomination bid is opposed by State Rep. Lester Boone of Fort Worth and Baker Salsbury of Amarillo.

Platforms of aspirants to the unexpired term—ending Dec. 31, 1944—varied but most are keyed to a pledge for expedition of the war effort through commission activities.

With the slogan "Proper regulation of transportation and oil production are essential to our war effort," Jester, attorney and veteran of the first world war, voices vigorous opposition to federal regulation of the oil industry and declares "the first and primary duty of my services as railroad commissioner will be to expedite the war effort in Texas in every way and in any way possible."

Senator Lovelady states the only plank in his platform "is that of being 100 per cent behind the president in winning of the war" and as railroad commissioner that would be his primary objective. If elected, he promises "to do everything in my power to decrease the expense of running the railroad commission."

Citing 22 years experience as driller and producer, Electra's Moore is campaigning upon a platform of eliminating "the unfairness of the present proration system in Texas, fighting for our national part of the oil production with every field in the United States and continuing to fight for pipelines."

An independent operator and drilling contractor for 10 years, San Antonio's Bryan Patterson in his platform pledges "to view the problems of the railroad commission office with an open mind and to the best interests of those concerned."

McCormick advocates orderly marketing and shipping to conserve transportation facilities and promises "alert, active cooperation as railroad commissioner with producing and shipping agencies to eliminate the transportation bottleneck."

Twice elected state senator, Pace was chairman for four years of the state affairs committee which handled important legislation on conservation and general transportation. For two years he was chairman of the oil, gas and mining committee of the senate. He condemns the commission's "bad policy" of permitting "each commissioner to select one third of the employees of the commission and urges that employees be selected by the entire body."

To Fain, "there can now be but three goals before the railroad commission—winning the war, preservation of the economic structure of Texas and the conservation of our natural resources." During the 47th legislature, Senator Fain was a member of the senate committee on oil and gas.

Brooks, a run-off candidate for railroad commissioner in 1940, pledges to work "toward a program for the conservation of natural and physical resources" and to pursue "a definite policy of close cooperation with our state and national administration to the end that our vast railroad system and truck lines may be coordinated to fully aid our national war effort."

As director of the commission's motor transportation division since 1939, Kilday asserted he has "borne the brunt of putting war and defense transportation in Texas among the best in the union." As qualifications he points to "experience in oil and gas law" and declares "I am a widely experienced lawyer in all fields including the field of valuation for freight rate and gas rate making purposes."

Humphrey, attorney and three times member of the state house of representatives, promises if elected that "winning of the war will be my first official thought as railroad commissioner, even as it is my first personal thought and hope in every day life."

A large electric fan contains enough steel to make three .38 calibre revolvers, enough zinc for the zinc parts of an army motorcycle, enough copper for 77 .30 calibre machine gun bullets and enough aluminum for the aluminum parts of seven gas masks.

Monday Is The Final Day For Precinct Transfers

Final warning was sounded Saturday for voters to be absolutely sure that they are registered in the precinct in which they reside and propose to vote.

In the only election this year and the first one in which the old No. 3 was voted as two separate precincts (No. 3 and No. 8), considerable confusion resulted, and many were shown to be registered in the wrong precinct.

But the voting laws require that a person vote in the precinct in which he resides, and if the citizen has moved or was incorrectly registered in the beginning, then he or she may correct this condition by securing a transfer until four days before time for the given election.

Thus, Monday is the last day for a precinct transfer.

To clear up the No. 3 and No. 8 uncertainties, along with those in some other boxes, previous information will bear repeating. As for No. 3 and No. 8, the dividing line goes out of middle of the south side of the courthouse square, westward on Fourth to Lancaster, thence south to W. 18th (which also is an alley behind Dallas street), west to approximately the center of Scenic Mountain, directly south to the section corner near the Watson (or Red House) and directly south to the county line. All to the east and south of this line are in No. 3, and that on the west is in No. 8. One other minor alteration which affects No. 8 is the boundary from Fourth and Lancaster to San Antonio, thence north to railroad and west as formerly. No. 8 takes in the Lomax and Hartwell communities.

The situation in No. 3 has been clarified, also, the tax-collectors' office announced. The dividing line now comes directly down the Vealmore road and the highway to the southwest corner of the Experiment Farm, then down N. Scoury to N. 7th, east to the middle of E. 3rd, and west to north entrance of the courthouse.

Similarly the No. 4 and No. 2 divisions have been cleared. The line goes out of the east door of the courthouse to Main street, south to Fourth, then east to Go-liad and up this street to E. 11th, east to the road intersection east of the rodeo grounds and directly north to the railroad, east to the Caden refinery and then north as formerly. All to the north of the line is in No. 4 and that south is in No. 2.

TO VOTERS PRECINCT 2

"I have been unable to see lots of the folks in precinct No. 2 to ask consideration of my candidacy for reasons I'm sure they understand.

"But I do want everyone, including those I've missed and those I've talked to, to know I will try to show my appreciation for votes by doing the job satisfactorily. I have had considerable experience in construction work.

"I will be in a position to give all the time to the office that it needs. I have lived in the precinct for 10 years and feel I know something of its problems. I will, if you accord me your support, serve both my precinct and county honorably as county commissioner.

A Vote for J. S. Garlington is to Your Interest and to the Interest of Howard County.

We are in an all out war and in offering my services to my community as your County Judge, I promise, with a Commissioners Court friendly to the tax payers of Howard County, to save TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND ($25,000.00) DOLLARS each year without impairing any public service formerly rendered by the County Government, with which savings the tax payers can keep Howard County over the top through the duration in purchasing War Bonds and Stamps. This may easily be done by dispensing with so called, out of county "Tax Experts" and by reducing present valuations by TWO MILLION ($2,000,000.00) DOLLARS.

J. F. (Jim) CRENSHAW Asks Re-Election For Office Of CONSTABLE Precinct 1 Howard County

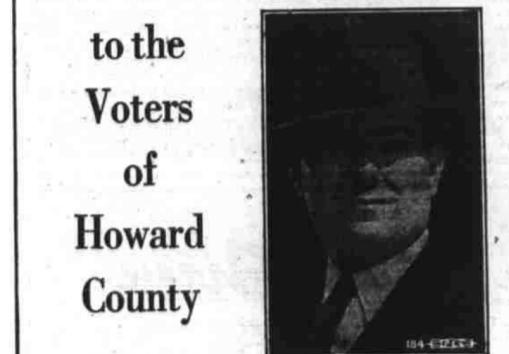

I sincerely appreciate the support and trust that the voters of Howard County have given me in electing me as Constable.

I have enjoyed serving as Constable since my election to such office for many reasons. First, I have had the privilege of working with co-operative law enforcement officers of the State, County and City. SECONDLY, I have had full co-operation and help from the entire citizenship of Howard County,—and thus we have accomplished much in enforcing the laws in our county, particularly in swindling and "hot check" matters. I appreciate so much this cooperation and trust, and will continue to give of the best of my service should the people return me to this office.

Please investigate my record, and if you feel me worthy I will appreciate the same support that you have given me in the past.

MY MESSAGE

I have made an effort to see everyone in Howard county, but I realize that I must have missed seeing some. For this reason I direct this message to every voter in behalf of my candidacy for County Superintendent.

I hold a B. A. degree and have completed all work for an M. A. degree except finishing a thesis.

My teaching experience includes work in schools both large and small; schools with adequate resources and schools without adequate funds.

I believe in stressing the fundamentals of education; and I believe that the main purpose of an education is to help us do our work better and enjoy it more.

In the administration of Howard county schools I stand ready at all times to render what service and advice that I can, and I propose to listen with sympathy to all problems brought to the County Superintendent's office—whether brought by teachers, pupils or patrons.

I base my campaign on the following: Honesty, Interest in School Work, Previous Experience, Scholastic Rating and Ability to Serve. The boys and girls of Howard county deserve the best and I shall sincerely and diligently work to see that they get the best.

Your consideration of my candidacy will be deeply appreciated.

Little Interest In Martin Co. Races

STANTON, July 18 (Sp)—Outside of the state elections, there will be comparatively little heat turned on in the democratic primary next Saturday here.

Two candidates, James H. Goodman, Midland, and R. B. Rawlins, Monahan, are seeking the place as representatives of the 88th district.

Only county offices being contested are in commissioners precinct No. 4, where incumbent Lee Castle is being contested by Wiley Clements and R. J. Shortes, and in commissioner's precinct No. 1, where Joe Stewart, incumbent, is facing H. Rayford.

Grass Fire New Experience To Ohio Visitor

West Texas just keeps on giving up peculiar things to a visitor from Ohio.

Miss Virginia Light, who is visiting with Mrs. Ray Lawrence from Cincinnati has found the pecky cactus plants interesting and the horned frogs amazing and the other things that Texans take as a matter of course very odd.

Friday night, however, she didn't know just whether to be thrilled by its beauty or frightened by the danger when a grass fire broke near the Lawrence home.

The Lawrences who have lived here a number of years know what a grass fire can mean in this country so when they saw the smoke rolling from the pasture behind their house they grabbed brooms, shovels and other things to beat the fire with. Miss Light followed suit and pounded away with the others.

The fire was on city land leased by Mr. Thompson and is about one-half mile from the Lawrence place. Many were of the opinion that the flame was started by a cigarette.

That the experience was a thrill is not doubted—but Miss Light thinks one such fire is enough.

Pretty Rooms For Uncle Sam's Nieces

HOME, SWEET HOME. Miss Isabelle Mason, Washington secretary, relaxes in one of the dormitory rooms the government is providing for government girls. Walls are unpainted natural wood, color scheme shrimp, yellow, gray and beige.

By MARGARET KERNODLE

Wide World Features Writer

WASHINGTON — Doing up a room delights almost any woman.

Doing up 13,000 of them delights decorator Gladys Miller, who is finding the furnishings for government girls' dormitories to be built around the capital.

Gladys is allowed about $75 to decorate each room, which probably will rent for less than $25 a month. She lived in a "low-cost dormitory" once herself and waxes at the memory of the hospital-white walls, the sparse furnishings, the bed only 28 inches wide. So she has planned studio-couch size beds, 30 inches wide.

Here are some of the special musts that Nebraska-born Gladys plans for the GG rooms: Cosmetic cupboards with mirror doors, mohair and cotton bedspreads, which won't wrinkle easily, and are in beige color to last longer between launderings.

She picked pretty draperies (some plain, some flowered) with flat pleats made to go through the laundry mangle. The draperies are equipped with new gadget which slide into the molding and make hanging less than a two-minute job.

She put another practical piece into the rooms too: a chest, with sections that fit into each other, supported by a low table with collapsible legs (easier to pack). The top lifts up to reveal a makeup mirror. The end of the table can be used for extra seating space.

Gladys managed Venetian blinds for privacy, a double plug for lights (but only one floor lamp), wants a slat door to provide the most ventilation. She's putting in panel blackout draperies that slide sideways like the windows.

She tested rugs to be sure they'll stay clean four months. (Her samples are the pink string kind and pretty.) She wants to build frames for pictures right on the walls ready for girls to slide pictures into them.

Every room is to have six pieces of furnishing, including a chaise longue (Imagine it, girls! Didn't you always want one?), which can be used as two seats.

Gladys started decorating during her doll days, worked seven years on the Pacific coast and 12 in New York before coming to Washington for defense housing last October. She has written two books, "Decoratively Speaking" and "Room Makeup," is working on a third.

The dormitory decorator worked her way through the last war as a nurse when she was a freshman at Oregon State college. At 8 a. m. she took temperatures in a Corvallis hospital, went to class, came back to the hospital to feed patients, returned to school, took afternoon temperatures and was on duty all night.

She's eager that civilians be recognized for their war work no matter how dull it is. That's one reason she says the dormitory decoration must be pleasant for the girls coming home to read and rest.

Navy Gunners On Merchant Ships Have One Of War's Toughest Jobs

WASHINGTON, July 18. (AP) — Some of the toughest fights of this war are being fought and won for America by little bands of navy gunners who ride U. S. merchant ships over the world's convoy routes.

For these wind-bitten youngsters—most are in their late 'teens or early twenties—it is even a tougher war than their predecessors of 25 years ago had to fight. The gun crews of World War I, when the naval campaign was a one-ocean affair anyway, had to contend only with submarines. Now there are war planes, as well.

The navy gave out tonight a few details of what the gun crews have been going through since December 7. The navy was not specific about exact locations but it mentioned some of the supply routes covered by gun crews—through the Caribbean to Latin America, the South Atlantic and Indian oceans to the Middle East and India, through the North Atlantic to England and on through the North Sea to Russia.

Thus, under the blazing sun of the Caribbean sea and the Indian ocean and over the wintry sea road to Murmansk with its menace of ice, snow, submarines, and dive-bombers, the armed guards hammer away to keep the path overseas open.

Health Unit To Be Discussed By C-C Directors

Next meeting of the chamber of commerce directors, set for July 27, will be devoted largely to a discussion of the proposed city health unit, a special committee on the subject voted Saturday.

The sub-group, headed by Willard Sullivan and with A. S. Darby and Charles Sullivan as other members, decided to invite the city's physicians as special guests for the directors' luncheon along with members of the city commission and county commissioners court.

At that time, a member of the state health department would be asked to explain the basic plan. Both city and county have approved the plan and have submitted an application subject to approval of the local medical society in keeping with the state department's policy.

Key & Wentz Agency Open For Business

Mark Wentz, long time resident of Big Spring, has announced the formation of a partnership with James S. Key, Odessa, to be known as the Key & Wentz Insurance Agency, now open for business here.

The concern has erected an office structure at 208 Runnels. Wentz resided here for many years until 1939 when he terminated his automobile and oil business connections to become manager of the Key Investment Co. at Odessa. In addition to all types of insurance coverage, the new partnership here is equipped to offer a finance service through the Key Investment Co.

Other partner in the firm is a native West Texan. Twelve years ago he started in McCamey in the insurance business and steadily branched out into the Permian basin area. He opened in Monahan and later in Odessa, where he since served as Rotary president and head of the chamber of commerce.

City Has Shipped 93 Cars Of Scrap

Since the first of this year, Howard county has sent a couple of train loads of scrap metal rolling toward steel mills in desperate need of it.

This was the picture drawn from figures furnished by the Texas & Pacific Railway Co. on shipments of the scrap out of here since Jan. 1, 1942—when Americans really began collecting the material for America.

In the little more than six months following, no less than 93 cars have been loaded and hauled to mill. These carried an aggregate of 5,827,970 pounds or right at 2,650 long tons as it is computed for practical purposes.

This included the heavy volume of stuff turned in by the petroleum industry, later by the farmers and all along by the junk dealers. And this was by no means all of the scrap, for more was still being bought by dealers.

Defense Wins In Suit On Estate.

WICHITA FALLS, July 18. (AP) — A verdict for the defense was returned today in the suit of Mrs. Lena McArthur and husband against Mrs. Anne Valliant Burnett Hall and others for an interest in the estate of the late Tom L. Burnett.

Judge Allan D. Montgomery's decision was non obstante verdict, or in spite of the jury verdict.

The plaintiffs had asked that he declare a mistrial because of the jury's inability to agree upon more than three of the 11 special issues submitted.

Mrs. McArthur alleged that she was the daughter of Tom L. Burnett by an Indian mother, Jennie Ho-We-Ah.

Promoted—Kenneth J. Baggett, who with Mrs. Baggett taught in the Ackery school for six years, has recently been promoted to the rank of captain, friends at Ackery have been advised. Capt. Baggett, before being called into active service in March 1941, was a reserve officer. He is stationed with the 8th Armored division at Brownwood currently.

TIMEOUT—Mary Moore of Birmingham, Ala., who danced way to films, takes time to relax at a Beverly Hills, Calif., pool.

Editorial -- Proven Record Back Of Coke Stevenson

Experience and proven performance are today, in these troubled times, more important than ever as factors to be considered in the selection of a man to fill public office.

Coke Stevenson rates at the top on both.

Although there are other candidates in the gubernatorial race, it would seem that the only contender against Stevenson who has achieved any substantial support is Hal E. Collins of Mineral Wells. And he has achieved his standing through the shrewd political service of joining W. Lee O'Daniel's caravan. Without such a hookup, it is doubtful that Texas voters would have ever heard much of Mr. Collins.

So, as between these two candidates, the electorate is confronted with the choice of experience and proven ability in office on the one hand, and high promises on the other.

Stevenson has demonstrated himself to be an official of sincerity in office on the one hand, and high promises on the other.

Stevenson has demonstrated himself to be an official of sincerity

Hollywood—What The Stars Do As They Wait Between Takes

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — The dressing rooms are lined up to the left of the stage door. Away off to the right Irving Cummings is preparing a scene for "Springtime in the Rockies."

We go calling along dressing room row, from one "house" to another, and we find:

John Payne's long legs stretched out from the leather day-bed far into the room—he's showing off a picture of his not-quite-2 daughter. His and Anne Shirley's. Johnny doesn't live there any more, but he's still the proud papa. "She's not very pretty," he says, "but she's sure cute."

John says he's doing nothing now but work. "I started out Saturday night to paint the town red," he says, "and I asked myself, 'Shall I paint the town red or go home?' So I went home, and I was in bed by 9 o'clock."

John gets called to the set, so we go next door. Carmen Miranda is lying flat on her daybed, her feet propped high against the wall. "Let's the way to rest," she says. "I feel the blood come down—dancing like these"—business of whirling hands—"to my head. Then set goes dancing back again."

Carmen says she is trying to buy her contract from the Shuberts because she wants to stay in California's climate and make pictures. "I buy eat—eat they not ask too much," she says. (The report is her stage bosses want $100,000—she's willing to pay $50,000.)

"You think I look Irish?" says Carmen, and she does—if a green and white turban, green and white jacket make a Brazilian bon-bon look like a colleen. "Een the picture I am Joseita Murphy — John Payne picks me as his secretary in Detroit. I go with him — and we pick up my brothers — my banda de lus—in St. Paul."

Carmen says she will wear new turbans in this picture. "No fruit, no vegetables, only flowers—and small turbans. Next time—beeg ones—like these!"

She will sing "Chattanooga Choo-choo" in Portuguese.

Next door is Charlotte Greenwood, waiting. Nothing to do all day. In a paper sack is her contribution to the rubber drive: her Peke's raincoat, an old rubber glove.

"Tomorrow I bring his rubber bone—and the mat from the rear compartment of my car," she says.

Last stop on the line is Betty Grable's "house." She's entertaining. Cesar Romero and a couple of the girls are sitting around. There's chatter, laughter, small talk.

But back on the set they're really making movies. Cummings rehearse a scene with Payne, Miranda, Edward Everett Horton, gets it in one take.

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE

Chapter 30

The question died before the impact of a new and terrifying thought. For that one instant she could not move, she could not even think; then something snapped inside her and she was clanking at the door and somehow finding herself in the street and running towards that darkened doorway.

How could she possibly have thought that Raeburn's presence here offered a solution? He was not the man who had first come to Della, demanding the envelope and threatening exposure. Della knew Raeburn. She had not known the man who had called!

Joyce was on the sidewalk now and once through the doorway she saw the light at the back of the hall and found the interior less dark. She went up the stairs without pausing, the loud clatter of her steps resounding from the narrow walls. At the landing she saw the light from the door panel. She ran towards it, but even in her frenzied haste she could not discipline her thought nor stay her mounting panic.

"Della!"

She was at the door now, tugging at it and finding it locked before she saw the number on the panel and realized her mistake. She turned back to room twenty-four and called again, feeling no sense of personal danger, but only of fear at what she might find.

"Della!"

She opened the door and listened and there was no sound but her labored breathing. The implication of this silence was stark and terrible in her mind and she called again, finding her voice suddenly husky and inadequate.

She forced herself to close the door, to face the prospect of moving towards the rectangle of light that streamed from the adjoining room.

Vaguely aware that she was standing in some outer office, she started for the doorway, finding each step a tremendous muscular problem. . . . On two, three, she could see a good part of the room now, a leather chair, the corner of a desk—four, five . . .

The room was empty, amazingly and completely empty. There was the desk and an overturned chair and a desk lamp which made strange shadows in the corners; there was a leather chair, cracked and worn. A bookcase well-filled and littered on top with papers and magazines extended along one wall; there were two doors, one leading to the hall, the other opening from a squarish projection in the corner.

She took time to see all this before she tried to do anything else; then she took another step and incredulity began to fade as something icy slid along her spine. She looked back into the darkened anteroom, not moving her feet. She started to call out again and found she could not without clearing her throat.

"Della!" she cried. "Della!"

There was no answer; it seemed almost as though she had expected none, and in the end, she made herself inspect the room. She walked past the desk, noting as she did so that a telephone book lay open, and a scratch pad, on which something had been written. She went to the window and looked out and found nothing but a shaftlike space from which a vacant window stared darkly.

She turned slightly and found her eyes focusing on the door which formed one wall of the corner projection.

Some frightful premonition seized her and she stood there

Man About Manhattan—Sorely Missed Are Those Bridge Problems Featured On Playbills

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Something has gone out of the Broadway scene that meant a lot to bridge players. These were the trick hands and problems in contract bridge printed each week in the playbills of new shows. Almost always they were impossible hands, the solution of which lay only in the promiscuous sacrifice of Aces and Kings. They called for a sort of scorched earth policy which enabled, eventually, some insignificant troy to take the winning trick.

For a decade these hands were a feature in the playbills of all new dramas, revues, and comedies that hit the street. Sometimes their authors—ranking experts—offered books on bridge to the first half dozen who submitted the correct solutions. You could spot bridge addicts throughout the audience with their pencils, checking off fitnesses and organizing attacks.

For the first time since I can remember these hands have been omitted from the 1942 playbills. It is a sad omission. You see people thumbing hurriedly through the programs, a worried and apprehensive look on their faces that finally dissolves into baffled disappointment. You think this is an exaggeration? You don't know how seriously people take bridge around here.

with quick new hope and started forward, seeing the shadow move again and knowing now that this was Della, that she was alive. A light gleamed and caught her eye next to the door and she stopped to press it; then the room was bright and her heart was in her throat and she was on her knees beside the girl.

Apparently she had been lying on her back because when Joyce saw her she had pushed up on one arm and her eyes, dazed and enormous against the dead white background of her face, did not at once focus.

"It's Joyce, darling. Joyce is here. It's all right."

Her resiliency was amazing. The color had come back into her face and she had stopped trembling. She put her finger to the back of her head, explored it gently and said: "Umm. A twinge of pain slid across her eyes and she added: "Somebody bopped me."

Suddenly her useful smile gave way to a look of quick alarm and she thrust her hand in her pocket. "He got the envelope."

Washington Daybook -- Fusses Cripple Plans To Check Inflation

(First of Three Articles) By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — If there isn't an old Chinese proverb to the effect that there are two sides to every question, there should be. And the corollary should follow: When both sides seem to be right—utter confusion.

The case in hand is the anti-inflation ruckus and no matter if Congress gives the Office of Price Administration all it asked for ($210,000,000), compromises on something around $100,000,000, or cuts it off without a penny, it's a question you haven't even begun to hear the last of.

The facts are really quite simple. Most economists hereabouts, most government officials, and most Congressmen are agreed that outside of losing the war, inflation is the greatest threat to the United States today, tomorrow and ten or twenty years hence.

Some economists and some Congressmen have stated publicly (this war and the peace that is to come) can be won or lost on the American home front, depending respectively upon whether we control the cost of living NOW or let it go spiraling into the stratosphere.

With this in mind, the do-nows came forward with an all out control program. It involved price control (ceilings on products and services, with rationing when necessary and possibly later, subsidies for those growers, manufacturers, or handlers who were caught in the pinch between ceilings and shortages). It involved controlled or stabilized wages. It involved forced savings and heavy taxation.

Even before the law was enacted came the revolt of the farm and labor bloc. They knocked out absolute control of wages and farm prices. An administration politically committed for years to opposition to the sales tax, forced savings, or anything that would put a burden on the lowest bracket workers either put the skids to those proposals or allowed them to be deferred. And Congress with one eye on the November elections, is now working on a tax bill nearly $2,000,000,000 short of the revenue that the Treasury asked for.

Far back along the line, the anti-inflationists sought to salvage what they could and passed the price control legislation that set up OPA and Leon Henderson.

(Tomorrow: The War On Henderson.)

This is available at a small fee, and those interested are advised to see J. O. Nickel, vocational agriculture instructor. Available are five frescos, one Kelly plow and two listers.

Police Saturday night broadcast a missing notice on Wilma Helen Gatlin, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Gatlin, 1411 W. 2nd. She was last seen in Abilene July 9 when her aunt, Gladys Williams, bought a bus ticket to Big Spring for her.

Big Bass Hooked By Truett Thomas

Truett Thomas has the big one that didn't get away. Fishing on the Concho Saturday with Ray Clark, he hooked a rough and ready black bass that churned the waters into foam before he landed him with Clark's help. Weight? Five and a half pounds of bass off that six-ounce fly rod.

NO POLITICS

FORT WORTH, July 18 (AP)—Marie McGee, Texas OPA director, said today that the office of price administration and its employees in Texas were not participating in political activity for any candidate.

Kilday Says He Will Give Office Back To Sadler

SAN ANTONIO, July 18 (AP)—James E. Kilday, candidate for the unexpired railroad commission term, asserted today that if elected he would return the office to Jerry Sadler who is now in military service.

In a statewide radio broadcast Kilday declared that his sole reason for making court action to get his name on the democratic primary ballot was "to make certain that x x x Texas would have a railroad commission whose tremendously important rulings would never be challenged on the grounds of an illegal election."

Sadler resigned the office as of June 1 but later withdrew his resignation. On June 1 Kilday filed notice of his candidacy and later the party executive committee permitted additional filings, extending the period beyond the normal June 1 deadline. Kilday then brought suit against the committee for exclusive listing of his candidacy.

Kilday asserted he had filed his application in good faith on June 1 and that he welcomed opposition as a healthy demonstration of the democratic form of government. "My only desire is to follow the law," he said.

Search Abandoned For Missing Plane

NEW ORLEANS, July 18 (AP)—The army reported today that five enlisted men had been missing aboard an army plane from the air base on the lakefront here since Tuesday and that the search was abandoned today.

The plane took off Tuesday afternoon and was last heard from at about 1:30 p. m. with its position given as about 60 miles south of New Orleans. A continuous search had been kept up, army officials said.

Suspect Held For Patrolman's Death

TULSA, Okla., July 18 (AP)—A suspect in the slaying of Highway Patrolman James Long, who was shot to death July 9 as he entered an Oklahoma City park to investigate a woman's screams, was arrested by police here today. Two detectives nabbed the suspect, a nervous, sandy-haired youth, as he sought to enlist in the navy.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Worley and children, Calvin, Billy Jack, Charles and Dale of Klamath Falls, Ore., are visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Ingram, and brother, George, of Knott, and her sister, Mrs. Artice Esaley.

'BATAAN' SYMPHONIST — Harl McDonald, Philadelphia symphony orchestra manager, who composed a tone poem named "Bataan," works at his desk beside portrait of Gen. Douglas MacArthur to whom the "Bataan" score was dedicated.

The Week

week ago. By the end of the week the army was back clamoring for a still lower rate. Of course the army could condemn the city wells and take over this water supply, but when it does, it had better be prepared to assume full responsibility for supplying the rest of the city. It might have to.

Fishermen impatient to cast a hook in the Moss Creek lake, which was voted open to the public last week by the commission, may as well cool down for several days. Prospects are that the opening date will be very near Aug. 1—nearly two weeks away.

No person may take more than 10 pounds per day in his catch at the lake, the commission ruled. At 50 cents, the resident fee, a body will have to catch 10 pounds to come out on the deal.

Authority to organize a Texas Defense Guard band was granted Sam Goldman (who also got his first lieutenant's appointment with 18) last week. Of course we think Big Spring is a fine place for that band, and we're certain TDG couldn't have found a better director in the state.

Big Spring has had some big army men here in recent months, but none bigger than Gen. Barton K. Yount, Army Air Force Flight Training Commander, who was here briefly last week. The army flight training program of the entire nation is under his direction.

Strikes us the state democratic executive committee fooled around a mighty long time in ruling that men in the service could vote absentee if otherwise qualified voters. That 11th hour ruling was so late not many of them could take advantage of it.

Predictions made before about the young people's encampment at the city park were borne out last week by presence of more than 200 Baptist boys. This week they expect more than 400 girls. Even in times like these that thing is growing.

Barge Canal Is Approved

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—Final congressional approval today of the Florida barge canal and pipelines bill brought predictions from opponents that an attempt would follow to obtain legislative action on the proposed St. Lawrence river seaway and water power development.

The house completed legislative action on a $83,000,000 authorization bill for the barge canal, Gulf waterway improvement and construction of two or more pipelines. Its acceptance of minor amendments sent the measure to President Roosevelt who had indicated advance approval of the proposal.

Asserting that passage of the bill had established precedent for spending money on projects which would not contribute immediately to the war effort, Senator Gerry D-RII said he expected the St. Lawrence project, which he also opposes, to be brought up soon.

Expressing the same viewpoint, Senator Austin of Vermont, the assistant republican leader, said he thought a $44,000,000 outlay for a high-level lock canal across Florida would be "wholly contrary to the policy of putting our money into resources needed for the war effort."

Goodfellow Field Fliers Are Killed

SAN ANGELO, July 18 (AP)—Captain Emmett Blakemore, Jr., flying instructor, and Aviation Cadet Richard L. Adler, 22, both of Goodfellow Field, were killed five miles north of the field today in a plane crash.

Blakemore was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Blakemore of Dallas. Adler was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Adler, Joliet, Ill.

Pioneer Ranchman Dies At Corpus

CORPUS CHRISTI, July 18 (AP)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for W. W. Jones, pioneer ranchman and capitalist of South Texas who died Friday night at the age of 85.

Although his holdings reached into many fields, Jones was first of all a cattleman and was one of the more picturesque characters in this part of the state.

RECRUITING RECORD HOUSTON, July 18 (AP)—An all time local record for one day enlistments in the United States navy was hung up by the navy recruiting station here Friday when a total of 159 men took the oath, Lieut. J. F. Beebe, in command, disclosed today.

Women's Army Opens Recruiting Doors To Gals Beginning Monday

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—Step right up, gals. Your uncle Sam is calling you—to enlist Monday as privates in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps.

Disappointed would-be officers who didn't make the grade for the first officers' training school which opens at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, on the same day, should not forget that the war department says future officers are coming up through the ranks.

Enlisting is through regular army recruiting stations. The first call is for specialists—clerks, cooks, bakers, bookkeepers, stenographers, switchboard operators and supervisors, chauffeurs, cafeteria dietitians and cashiers, hostesses aides, receptionists, library aides, machine record operators and motion picture projectionists.

The number wanted the first week is just 128. Gradually enlistments will be stepped up until by the middle of October it will reach 800 a week. Enrollment will hold steady at that figure until the women's army reaches its authorized strength of 25,000.

All WAACS officers and auxiliaries are to be trained at Fort Des Moines. By Nov. 9 it is expected that the training schools there will be turning out three companies, complete with officers and privates, each week.

The privates will receive $21 a month for the first four months, plus room and board. After that they'll get $30. In the non-commissioned officer class, junior leaders will draw $54 a month; leader, $60, and first leader, $72.

In addition the WAACS will get medical and dental services, hospitalization and benefits provided by the soldiers and sailors relief act of 1940.

And don't forget the free khaki uniforms, stockings—s-4 two girdles.

Contracts Let For Pipeline To Illinois

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes said today "the dirt should be starting to fly very shortly" as he announced the award of contracts totaling $35,000,000 for construction of a 550-mile oil pipeline from Longview, Tex., to Norris City, Ill.

Ickes said contractors were already assembling men and equipment. Two smaller branch lines from Norris City to Mt. Vernon, Ind., will be constructed.

He said "we expect to have the line x x x actually in service by Christmas."

Contracts for the 24-inch main line—the world's largest oil-carrying pipeline—were awarded on a cost plus fixed fee basis, according to B. E. Hull, general manager of War Emergency Pipeline, Inc., a company organized by the oil industry to supervise the construction. The fees average about $1,000 for each mile of pipe to be laid.

Each contractor will build a single section of the line as follows:

1. From Longview, Tex., to Arkansas-Texas state line, Williams Brothers, Tulsa, Okla.
2. Arkansas-Texas state line to Gurdon, Ark., O. E. Dempsey Construction company, Tulsa, Okla.
3. Gurdon to Little Rock, Ark., (Arkansas river) Anderson Brothers, Tulsa, Okla.
4. Little Rock to Missouri-Arkansas state line (St. Francis river), Oklahoma Contracting company, Dallas, Tex.

St. Francis river to Illinois, Mo., (Mississippi river), to C. S. Foreman company, Kansas City, Mo.

6. Mississippi river to Harrisburg, Ill., Ray E. Smith Construction company, Eldorado, Kas.

7. Harrisburg, Ill., to Norris City, Ill., to Sheehan Pipeline Construction company, Tulsa, Okla.

The Sheehan company also received a contract for construction of a 14-inch branch line from Norris City to Mt. Vernon, Ind., where part of the oil will be loaded on barges for shipment up the Ohio river to Pittsburgh, and for a 10-inch branch line from Norris City to Enfield, Ill., where contact will be made with pipeline facilities to the east.
