Walking: Simple, Safe And Inexpensive Exercise

Are you looking for exercise that is easy to do, safe, and inexpensive? Try walking. The Texas Medical Association says that a regular regimen of walking combined with other good habits such as avoiding cigarettes, controlling blood pressure, and following a prudent diet, can significantly improve your health.

Research has shown that walking at speeds of three and one-half to four and one-half miles an hourthat's brisk walking, not strollingproduces cardiovascular benefits. Slower walking (Two miles an hour) can be advantageous for older people, cardiac patients, or people recuperating from an illness.

Here are some pointers for starating a regular program of

-If you're inactive but healthy, start with mile-long walks at a pace of three miles per hour, five times a week. Over the course of a month, boost your distance to three miles at a pace of four miles per hour, five times a week. If you can't walk that fast, walk a little further.

-You can increase the aerobic benefits of brisk walking in two ways. Swing your arms: your upper body needs a workout, too. And as you get used to walking, carry a sixpound backpack, or hand weights.

-Put variety into your walking program. Take a companion along. Try a different route, particularly leading to hilly territory, which will boost the aerobic benefits. If you get tired, alternate fast walking with -You don't need special footweat, but don't walk long distances in soft. shapeless shoes. Walking shoes should have a shank (a rigid arch), as well as some cushioning for the heel and the balls of your foot. Cotton socks will add to your comfort and absorb perspiration as well.

-If it's too hot or cold outdoors, walk in your local mall, or in any other climate-controlled environment. Many malls now have walking programs sponsored by the American Heart Association or your local rospital.

Thoughts From Our Pastors

By Anthony Thibodeaux Minister of First Christian Church

Near the end of the ministry of our Lord, Jesus asked his disciples the question, "Whom do men say that I, the son of man, am?" and they said, "Some say that thou art John the Baptist; some say, that thou art Elias; and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets." Then Jesus saith, "But whom say ye that I am?" And Simon Peter answered, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."

Jesus answered and said unto him, "Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-Jona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto you, But my Father which is in Jesus assured the disciples that the faith they now possess, which Peter had just confessed, had come as a result as God's revelation.

We can be thankful that the all wise God has seen fit in his wise and eternal scheme of redemption, not to leave man groping his way through life in darkness and feel his way around superstitiously, just hoping that he might be right. But God has made a revelation of his eternal plan of redemption, and His way of life for his children.

When Daniel the prophet was brought to interpret the king's dream, Daniel said to the king..."All the wise men, the astrologers, magicians, the soothsayers cannot show the king the answer to his dream...then Daniel said, "But there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets and maketh known what shall come to pass.

God revealed himself to man through the ages, according to man's capacity to receive the revelation. He revealed himself to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. To Moses and others as they were able and prepared to receive revelation.

Yes. God, having of old time spoken unto our fathers in the prophets by divers portions and divers manners, hath in these days spoken unto us in His

Yes, it is safe to say, Jesus being the brightness of His glory, and the express image of His person. Hebrew 1:1-5. Here we are taught the intimacy of the relation between God the Father and the Son of God. The Divine Son makes the Father known. We are reminded here that the Son of God is the very image of the invisible God. Jesus was the brightness of His glory, or in other words we might say, the Effulgence, the great luster, the splender of God's Glory. This was the mission of the Son of God...to flood the world with the knowledge of the Father...To illumine the thought of men; to warm their affections; to fire their imaginations; to kindle their activities; and to fill them with abundant life and joy. This is the time of the year when each one of us need to answer the question Jesus asked his disciples...Who say ye that I am?... Jesus was either the one he said he was or he was a greata deceiver... What is your answer? Jesus said, "Before Abraham was, I am... I am alive for evermore. Rev. 1:18.

Without the message of Easter we would be lost. Without it we would have no gospel, no assurance of immortality, no enduring faith in the kingdom of God, no church to perpetuate the memory of Jesus Christ.

Let us not forget the words of the Angel who said to Mary that early Easter morning, "He is not here: for He is risen. Matt. 28:6.

Grandma's Nutrition Rules Make Sense

WASHINGTON - A lot of Grandma's old-fashioned rules for good nutrition have turned out to be soundly based in scientific fact, according to a professional nutritionist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

One of Grandma's morning treats, for example, a big spoonful of cod liver oil, is enjoying a renaissance, according to Helene N. Guttman of Service.

New evidence indicates that fish oil can help prevent strokes by reducing blood clotting in veins and arteries, said Guttman, who is associate director of the Human Nutrition Research Center in Beltsville, Md. But, she added, nutritionists believe that inclusion of fish in normal diets, and not from supplements, is the best way to obtain the benefits of fish oil.

Grandma's insistence on a bowl of oatmeal in the morning and her belief in the virtues of barley soup also made sense and both can help lower serum cholesterol, Guttman said.

According to the nutritionist, oatmeal is high in 'gummy' fiber which helps lower blood triglycerides as well as cholesterol. And ARS scientists in Madison, Wis. recently identified two chemicals in barley that dramatically reduce LDL-cholesterol in several animal species. LDL-cholesterol is thought to increase risk of heart disease. Also on the right track is the dictum "try everything on your plate." But remember, Guttman added, that Grandma served two fresh vegetables, a starch and a portion of high-quality protein - either meat, fish or poultry. Gutting said that research on the makeup of foods at the agency's Nutrient Composition Laboratory emphasizes that nutrients are not uniformly distributed among foodstuffs. Persons are much more likely to get the minerals and vitamins they need without resorting to pills if they eat a little of a lot of different kinds of foods, Guttman pointed out, adding that there are also sound reasons for net-consuming an inor-dinate amount of any one food.

"The grandmother who preached moderation in all things was a good teacher," she said.

Millions of mothers and grandmothers also insisted that children 'drink all your milk, you need it for strong bones' and they were right, Guttman said.

"Today we strongly suspect that elderly people who failed to get enough calcium when they were to easily-broken bones - a condition called osteoporosis," she claimed.

Milk products are some of the best sources of calcium in forms that can easily be assimilated by the body, she said.

Also, Guttman said that grandmothers were also on the side of scientific health and nutrition when they pushed more green vegetables. few sweets, and exhorted children to play outside and get exercise and fresh gir.

Green vegetables are rich sources of vitamins and minerals - including a large group of vitamin A-related chemicals called carotenoids, the nutritionist added. Scientists at the Beltsville center are studying whether these carotenoids contribute to reducing cancer.

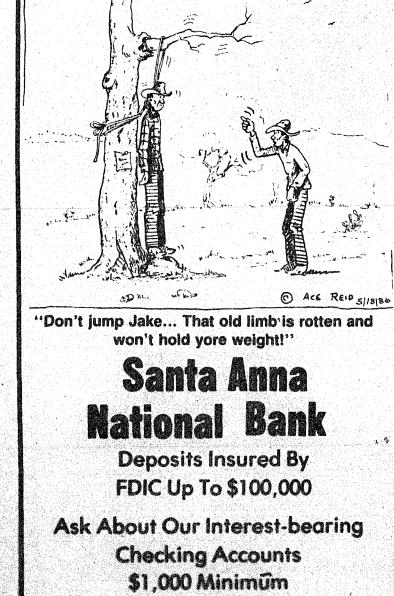

"The amazing thing to me," Guttman concluded, "is not how little Grandma knew about good nutrition, but how much."

As we were coming back home to Ft. Worth I began to think about what Bro. John had said. The more I thought about it the more I became convinced that God wants us to live a dynamic life. Paul said it "I can do all things through Christ who gives me strength." That word for strength is the word "Dynamis" from which we derive the word dynamite. Jesus said it when He said "I am come that man might have life and have it abundantly."

To live this kind of lifestyle there are some guidelines. To see these guidelines come to life I want to look at one of my favorite Old Testament characters, Moses the Lawgiver. Moses life can be characterized by daring love, dynamic faith and deliberate choices.

Follow along and look at these guidelines, as I see it, can make a difference in the life you and I live.

Moses' life was spared because of daring love. His parents, Amram and Jochebed went against the Pharoah's edict to have all male babies killed by daring to put Moses into the river and let him go. It took a great deal of courage and faith to build that small waterproof cradle, put baby Moses inside and let the stream take it wherever it would. But these daring parents would rather take a chance than have their son killed. As parents, we sometimes have to put them in God's hands and let our children go and

Another guideline in this dynamic living scheme is making deliberate choices. Moses was found by the Pharoah's daughter. As the adopted son of an Egyptian princess, Moses could have lived an easy life in the palace. But his deliberate choices made him to identify with God's suffering people. A mayor of a large city moved into a dangerous and decaying housing project to demonstrate the problems and needs of the minorities. But she kept her fashionable apartment and eventually moved out of the slum. We can commend her for her courage but we have to admire Moses more, he left the palace and never went back to the old life.

Our lives are colored by the choices we make. Sometimes these are not easy and are sometimes misunderstood by the very ones we love the most. But to follow Jesus in the dynamic life we must make deliberate choices.

And third this dynamic living calls for dynamic life calls for dynamic faith which is like a man in deep water; clinging faith which is like a man hanging on the side of the boat; and resting faith which finds a man safely inside the boat and being able to reach out and help someone else.

Moses faith enabled him to face the Pharoah unafraid and let God deal with this enemy. This dynamic faith that makes a difference doesn't come in what we can do but what God can do. When we trust Him we get what God can do but when we trust ourselves we can only receive what we can do.

Do you want to live with dynamite? Then take a long look at these guidelines and let Him show you how.

As I see it, to live the abundant life we must have daring love, make deliberate choices for good, and have dynamic faith that looks to God.

P.S. Our faith is tried in order that His faithfulness may be experienced.

CLOWN CAKE MAKES BIRTHDAYS FUN Bring the fun, excitement and color of the circus to your child's next birthday party with a twotiered cake decorated with candies and clowns. The gaily-decorated cake is easy to make in two ring mold pans.

Thinned buttercream icing is used to frost the cake. The balloons and clowns are piped on the sides of the cake using stiff buttercream and decorating bags and tips. Bright roll candies ring both layers and add "Big Top" color to the party cake. The clowns' heads, the miniature balloons, and the separators for the cake's two tiers are inexpensive and can be purchased from local department, craft or cake specialty stores, or from Wilton Enter-

DO IT AND DIET!

Women Can Help Men Tip The Scales

Most men have never portioned out three ounces of tuna in their lives. Women on the other hand are experts.

According to Dr. Jeffrey Lavigne, a well known medical nutritionist, women should encourage men to open up about their weight concerns. Says Lavigne, "Men don't want people outside their immediate families to know they're even considering losing weight."

Men begin diets for a variety of reasons—high blood pressure and cholesterol levels, a suit that doesn't fit or a frustrating love life.

Dr. Lavigne prescribes an eating regimen focusing on convenience and lifestyle. High-fiber, high-protein foods like Spicer's NutriWheat fulfill all of Dr. Lavigne's key criteria for successful dieting.

Dr. Lavigne offers these tips to help men lose weight:

• DISH IT OUT: Forget the scale and use your hand (no fingers) to measure a 5-ounce portion of chicken or fish.

MEASURE FOR MEASURE:
 Eat and carry nutritious foods in measured amounts: packaged in 100 calorie portions like NutriWheat.
 FASTING IS SLOWING

YOU DOWN: Don't starve yourself. Balanced nutrition is the key.

1986 Was A Bad Year

The number of children, ages 0 through 4 killed on our roads in 1986, increased 44 percent-73 deaths for 1986 compared to 51 deaths in 1985. Of these children killed, about two thirds of them were unrestrained. This tragic loss may have been avoided if parents did not let their children ride improperly restrained in the car. Survey after survey is showing that the improper use of car seats and safety belts reduces their usefulness. The law says you must secure your child in the car, and it's up to you to be sure that your precious cargo is properly secured.

do eat interesting and satisfying.

• FIBER UP: Remember that a good diet is only as good as it's nutritious. So eat foods with high fiber—whole grains, green vegetables, fruits. You'll have renewed vigor!

THINK TWICE AND EAT TWICE: Eat something small and satisfying before you dive into a major meal. A crunchy, high-fiber snack like NutriWheat helps fill you up.

 DRINK, DON'T SINK: It's important to drink as much water as possible. You can substitute saltfree seltzers, sodas, tea and even coffee, in measured quantities.

Visiting someone in a nursing home can help you both feel better. It's a good project for club members too. With each member taking a turn turning up on, say the third Sunday of every month, with some home-baked goodies and a thermos of nice hot tea, elderly people may have something to look forward to for years to come—and so will their younger visiters.

IT'S A FACT!

Here's a fact to which you may want to pay more than "spore-atic" attention: mildew is a fungus, which grows from a fertilized cell or spore.

It's particularly a problem in warm damp climates because it attacks clothes unless they are kept dry.

Soap, bath oil and shampoos you use in the shower can build up and attract mildew. An instant mildew stain remover, such as Tilex, used on shower tile and around the bathtub can help keep mildew under control on these surfaces.

HOW DO YOU RATE AS A MATE?

Are you every inch the perfect spouse? Or only every other inch? Would he or she marry you again? Taking this little test can help you determine your sensitivity to your mate's needs: 1. Do you ever steal admiring glances at him when you know he's looking? 2. Do you encourage her opinions and thoughts on various subjects, and really listen to her answers?

3. Do you frequently bring him books of special interest or other gifts for no special reason? 4. Do you often compliment her on the way she looks? 5. Do you never contradict him outright in public?

6. Do you always ask her where she would like to eat and how she would like to spend the evening? 7. Do you spend quality time together? 8. Do you protect her health and your own by making sure you sleep on a quality mattress? For example,

Avoid Long Engine Warmups

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) has issued a caution to motorists that allowing a cold engine to idle for an extended period could lead to a fire.

Most vehicles equipped with a carburetor will idle fast while the choke is on until the operator depresses the accelerator pedal to return the idle to normal. If the operator fails to do this, the catalytic converter could overheat and a fire coudl result.

NHTSA recommends that owners check their owners manual to determine how long the manufacturer advises that an engine can be idled safety. If after a brief warm-up, the vehicle hesitates or stalls, NHTSA suggests that you have it serviced rather than opting for a longer warm-up time.

Project Celebration

Project Celebration, (formerly known as Project Graduation) is making a big hit in Rankin, Texas.

Rankin, population approximately 1,000, is witnessing something REALLY BIG in spite of a severely depressed oil-related economy. For the past two years, Rankin High School seniors have had chemicalfree Project Graduation celebrations. This year's seniors at Rankin, all 19 of them, wanted to do something bigger and better. Their "dream" was to go on a CRUISE! many people thought that this was an impossible dream, considering the travel distance, and the present economy.

Since June 1986, Rankin High School students have worked hard to make their dream come true. Throughout the school year these seniors have run sports event concession stands, sponsored dances, held raffles, bake sales, car washes, carnival booths, chili suppers, and a fried chicken dinner to help pay for their graduation celebration. By early February, they had raised over $8,000 of the estimated $10,000 cost. All of these funds have been raised without donations from any group. As a result, they have booked themselves and four sponsors on a 5-day cruise departing Tampa Bay, Florida for Cancun and Cozumel, Mexico with a return stop at Key West, Florida.

Rankin High School seniors had a dream, and their dream came true through hard work and support from their community. Because of their efforts and dedication in setting and achieving that goal, Southwest Airlines has volunteered to provide free air transportation to the Rankin class of 1987 to Florida.
