Ronald O. Knave and S. A. Coleman, the promoters and organizers of the Knape-Coleman Glass Company, successors to the Texas Glass Company, were here this week arranging to re-open the plant.

Orders were made for replacement material to repair the plant and put it in condition, and as soon as the necessary repairs can be made, according to Messrs. Coleman and Knave, the plant will be put in operation and the new glass product from local material will again be placed on the market.

The new management states they expect to have the plant going within a period of thirty days.

Miss Ragsdale gave a summary of the affirmative side and Robert Hunter gave a summary of the negative side of the subject debated this year, Resolved: that America should adopt the British system of radio operation and control.

County Clerk L. Emet Walker of Coleman was among the visitors here Monday.

Malcom Ward and Jim Ripley of Junction community were among those here Friday to accompany the remains of W. Ripley to the Coleman cemetery for burial.

33rd Anniversary Of Christian Church

Next Sunday marks the 33rd anniversary of the dedication of the Christian Church and interesting services for the day are being planned.

Patrick Henry of Fort Worth, State Secretary of Missions will be here for both morning and afternoon services. It is hoped that every member may be present. A memorial service will be held for all members of the congregation who have died during the last eight years. All their relatives are urged to be present.

Rev. Henry is a fine speaker and a specialist in church building and improvements, and it is hoped that as a result of his visit, that plans now being made for remodeling and improvement of the building may take definite form and that the next anniversary may find the congregation worshipping in an attractive and adequate building.

A basket dinner will be served and all members and friends who wish to are invited to participate in this social feature of the day.

Come and let's make it a great day for His Name's Sake.

Baptist Revival To Begin Friday Night

Rev. Wingo, pastor, and Louis Newman, choir leader, and others join in extending to the public an invitation to attend any and all of these services.

Santa Anna Wins County Championship

Totals 149 Points

Santa Anna High School won the championship of the county interscholastic League last Friday and Saturday, March the sixteenth and seventeenth, by a good lead of points. Despite the fact that some of the events were not completed Friday and Saturday, Santa Anna had a total of one hundred and forty-nine points.

The points are as follows: Boys' tennis doubles, 100 points; girls tennis singles, ten points; girls tennis doubles, ten points; senior spelling, fifteen points; girls' extemporaneous speech, ten points; junior girls' declamation, two points; junior boys' declamation, ten points; senior boys' declamation, five points; senior girls' declamation, two points; boys' debate, twenty points; girls' debate, twenty points; high school track, twenty points; junior boys' playground ball, fifteen points. This makes a total of one hundred and forty-nine points already accounted for; whereas the nearest opponent, Coleman High School, has only eighty points.

The boys' tennis singles and the junior girls' playground ball have not been completed. Even though junior track events have not been completed, Santa Anna expects to win it by reason of the good lead now held. In boys' extemporaneous speech and in essay the Santa Anna representatives won second place but did not receive any points.

Individual winners Dexter Walthall promises to win boys' singles from Colman; John David Harper, Dexter Walthall, and Scott Wallace won boys' doubles; Bess Inez Shield, girls' tennis singles; and Golda Hardy and Evelyn Kirkpatrick, girls' tennis doubles. May Campbell and Bess Inez Shield won senior spelling. May's paper was perfect, and Bess Inez Shield had only one unlooped "e."

Vivian Wristen and Augustus Lichtfoot won second place in their respective divisions of extemporaneous speech. Irene Rountree, six years an entrant in essay writing, won second place but received no points. Ruby Lee Price won third place in junior girls' declamation; William Mitchell, first place in junior boys' declamation; Francine Merritt, third place in senior girls' declamation; and Rex Golston, second place in senior boys' declamation. Robert Hunter and Russell Hale won boys' debate, and Emma John Blake and Armenta Ragsdale won girls' debate. Members of the track team and the playground ball teams will be listed under separate articles.

Santa Anna High School is very happy because of the record made in the many League activities.

Last Saturday several hundred people were here from over the county to attend the County Track meet, and the events were moving along nicely until the sandstorm and nother struck about the middle of the day.

Many young people and some older ones were here without winter wraps, and the chilly winds in late afternoon brought considerable shivering and chattering of teeth. The Track events were full of action and filled with thrills. Santa Anna High School won the county meet, account of which will be found in another article in this paper. The mercury dropped to several degrees below freezing Saturday night, and Sunday morning the face of the earth was covered with snow and sleet. No damage to crops has been reported but early blooming fruit trees were slightly damaged for this year.

Mrs. J. G. Williamson left Sunday for Mineral Wells to attend the State Assembly of the IOOF and Rebekah lodges in session there this week.

Santa Anna Planning for Bigger and Better Monthly Trades Day

There is a movement on in Santa Anna to arrange for one big day each month, and to make a bid on that day for trade throughout the month.

At a recent meeting attended by a large number of the business men and women of the town, several committees were appointed to arrange a program, designate the day and arrange several prizes to be given away during the day.

The trades day will be held on the same day of the Rodeo, and a program of entertainment will be provided for your pleasure, free of charge.

Among the objects for this one big day featured with bargains, prizes, rodeo and other forms of entertainment are, to build and maintain the good will of the people living in the Santa Anna trade territory, and to encourage trading at home.

We believe you can buy as much for your money in Santa Anna as you can any place accessible to you, and besides, the small profits made on your purchases here go to further improve your community by building a bigger and better town, better schools, better churches, furnish jobs for more people to consume your products, and in every way make a bigger trade center for you. The merchants can carry larger stocks if the people living in the trade territory centralize their buying activities at home. As long as you split up your business with mail order houses and neighboring towns, just so long will your home merchants be handicapped by having to carry limited stocks.

There is plenty of argument in favor of trading at home, but there is but little excuse for trading elsewhere.

EDITOR GOES FISHING

Last Friday, rather than sit in the office all day, we loaded the wife and small daughter and a neighbor, Bob Nelson, into the chevy and hied away to a place on Home Creek, and spent the day fishing.

The finny tribe is little the worse off by us nimrods spending the day trying to persuade them to partake of some nice, fresh worms, for only our small fish were caught.

Now it is said that all fishermen are liars, but not one in this bunch claims to be fisherman, so the e is no use for us to tell any tales about the big one that got away. The big one did get away, alright, but none of us even got a look at him. The only reason we knew he was there was because a farmer living nearby told us about it. We have no doubt about it, but after spending the day on the creek and getting a far outing, we just came on back home and left him there. Maybe sometime we will return and get him. The fish didn't seem to be very hungry last Friday. Perhaps we will find them in a more receptive mood next time, and we can bring in a better catch.

MISS KATE PHILLIPS

Miss Kate Phillips, who, until seven years ago was one of the most famallar figures in Santa Anna, passed away at the home of a brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Terry at Tucson, Arizona, Monday morning. The remains are now in transit here, and will arrive about noon Friday. The funeral will be held at the Methodist church at 3 p. m. Friday, and interment will be made in the local cemetery.

Miss Kate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Phillips, was born and raised in Santa Anna, graduated from Santa Anna High School and Simmons University, taught in the schools here, and worked in the State Bank for several years before going west.

Further mention of Miss Kate will be made in our next issue.

Mrs. S. H. Phillips and brother, F. M. Hampton, and sister, Miss Lenora Hampton of Gonzales, are here to attend the funeral.

Tax collector Frank Lewis of Colman was a business visitor here Monday.

Beautiful embroidered apron in pink, blue, and white at Mrs. Shockley's. $1.95 per yard.

AS WE SIT AND THINK (SOMETIMES JUST SIT)

"A HOUSE DIVIDED AGAINST ITSELF CANNOT STAND"

Most everyone who reads the Bible or attends church, knows the Caption of this article is a portion of scripture, and is not a sentence of recent coinage.

The same thing applies to a town or community. We might re-arrange the phrase to read as follows, "A Town Divided Against Itself Cannot Progress" and it occurs to us that any person with intelligence enough to balance a pair of post office scales can understand what we mean.

This writer has worked as faithfully as any man in Santa Anna during the past twelve years for the betterment of the town and enlargement of town service to the public. We have never weakened, but sometimes become discouraged temporarily.

We regret to say that some of the business men and women in Santa Anna have not given us the co-operation we have prayed for, tried for, and need very much to help put things over for the betterment of the town and community. In this connection several of the local business men know something of our efforts to re-organize a glass factory in Santa Anna and put into operation an industry that would mean giving employment to several families, and could be made one of the best drawing cards for Santa Anna of any industry in our reach. We are proud to say that we have had the co-operation of some and regret that we have been condemned by others. We have been called everything except something decent by some, and have been given the hand of encouragement by others.

Well, what we have been doing was not for selfish gain or motive. It was purely in the interest of the town and betterment of the community, and now, even since we started to write this article, a long distance telephone communication informed us that the arrangements have been completed to start operation of the glass factory, and unless some unforeseen blunder blocks the game again, the plant will be in operation within a very short time.

Maybe you think this bit of news was not welcome words to this writer, but it was. We have no assurance that the plant will continue in operation, but we have faith. It is possible for the plant to succeed and possible for it to fail, but it is a lead-pipe cinch that it will never prosper lying in a do-mant state. The wheels of industry do not turn without aid, and aid cannot be had without effort. A strong effort has been waged of recent months to get the wheels of progress rolling in the local glass factory, and we think we can see the fruits of part of those working. Hope so at least.

There is a movement on in Santa Anna to organize and put over a big trades day, bargain event, and coupled with some entertainment, one day each month, with a view of encouraging a trade at home campaign.

We would be glad to see the movement succeed, and will do anything humanly and physically possible in our power to help put it over, but some people seem to have such a poor sense of co-operation, we cannot exercise the faith and confidence we would like in the project. Some of the business people in this town are real enthusiasts, willing to do their part when it comes to putting something over for the betterment of the town, but others have never awakened to the co-operative spirit. Live merchants will draw trade to a town, dead ones will drive it away. Live merchants advertise, dead ones don't. Merchants who try to preach Trade-At-Home, and run out of town to buy their printing and other items not carried in their particular lines are not decent hypocrites, much less good sports.

Not long since, a business man in Santa Anna approached this writer and engaged him in a lengthy talk, discussing the matter of community co-operation and trading at home, and HOW HE would like to see the merchants of this town "Pull Together" and in less than twenty days, that same merchant sent a bill to this office for collection made out on a bill head printed in another town. Most of these noise makers about trading at home just favor it in so far as it applies to the other fellow.

Why not set the proper example and say LET'S do something, instead of whining around and wishing somebody would do something?

Our best advertisers are our strongest believers in advertising. Oh, we believe in advertising, some people say; but when it comes right down to brass tacks, they don't believe in it much. The only reason they believe in it at all is that they read the ads in papers printed in other towns and go there to buy their supplies, and recognize the crowds when they come to town and pass them up and go to some store that advertises to purchase their supplies. Is that plain?

All informed people buy advertised merchandise. That is one of the reasons all leading merchants in any town or city advertise their goods and places of business. The merchant who advertises regularly gains new friends. His business never dies because he keeps his name before the public, who repeat it to each other. Let a merchant repeat his name thru advertising and the public will repeat and buy his goods. Walk into a store that carries no advertising and the proprietor is always complaining about business being dull. Walk into a store that continually carries advertising and you will find the proprietor busy looking after the wants and needs of his customers.

We never heard of advertising doing harm to but one merchant. That was a small merchant said to live in western Arkansas, who only purchased goods in small quantities, and only went to market about twice a year. He was in the market places recently and purchased his new spring and summer merchandise and displayed them in his store for people to see and admire. The editor in the little town paid him a call and talked him into placing an ad in the weekly paper. The advertisement was not so flowery, just told about his new goods and reasonable prices. The next week new customers came into his store, purchased most all his goods and he had to return to the market and purchase more supplies. The jobber, who had been selling him his stock for several years, wondering if he had suffered fire loss, asked why he had returned to market so quickly.

The merchant replied that he put an ad in the local paper and it almost ruined him. The people just flocked into his store and bought nearly all the goods he had, so it was up to him to go back and buy more or sit there for a season with an empty store. Now, that sounds like a fable, but it was reported for the truth and it is not at all impossible. Suppose some of you non-advertisers try it.

This editor has been solicited to visit adjoining towns and proposition the merchants for advertising. We may have to resort to that method of getting business ere long, but it does not seem to us. We live in Santa Anna and so long as we can procure enough business to take out a subsistence on, we will not solicit advertising from out of town concerns. We do accept advertising from out of town merchants when it is prepared and brought to us, and at the same rate we charge our home merchants. We realize that, to carry advertising for out of town merchants is helping to drive the trade from our door. We have been compelled to leave town for a few purchases, but not until after every effort had been made to purchase them at home.

This column is a bit long this week, but we sat down and got to thinking and couldn't stop. However, many of our thoughts would not have been permissible in the mails but they would have made good reading. We have prolonged the day an

The Function of a Bank

We believe if the public kept in mind the true function of a bank it would make far better understanding and banks would be more esteemed by the communities which they serve. The officers who work in a bank work for its stockholders and they do not own the money which they handle and which they loan.

As we understand it the function of a bank is to gather up the resources of the community in which it exists and, as far as they can safely do so, loan these funds to the customers of the bank. These loans must be so made that they are liquid because the bank is pledged to return the deposits on demand and if its loans are bad or frozen then it can not be in a position to pay the depositors when they want or need their funds.

It is the duty of every person who borrows from a bank to not only pay his note, but to, for at least a part of the time, have funds on deposit in the bank that can be loaned to other customers. In other words a good bank is a mutual proposition, its customers combining their resources to accommodate each other and thus it follows that no one who is not a depositor of the bank should expect a loan from the bank.

ON THE CARPET

Andrew Mellon, who is on the carpet for alleged income tax frauds, says he can't understand it, because he paid $20,000,000 in twenty years in income taxes. The government doubtless isn't kicking about the years he paid, however, but the years he didn't. He's hoping they shake about $20,000,000 more out of him if it's due. If Congressman Wright Patman of Texas has been right in his allegation, Mr. Mellon is also guilty of other frauds besides tax evasion in accumulating his vast fortune. Give Mr. Roosevelt and us Democrats time—maybe some day we will find out how a few men can get such a stranglehold on the wealth of the nation. hour overtime already, and by all means, should have quit this column on time if not before, but since the operator continues to call for copy and the people have been advised to read more and work less, and the space cannot be sold to advertising customers, we just worked a little over time in order to fill the several needs. Here's hoping some merchant will buy this space next week so it will be filled with more interesting reading.

MOTHER'S DAY STAMP

Postmaster General Farley has announced a Mother's Day stamp to be issued about May 1. The motif of this stamp will be James Abbott McNeill Whistler's famous painting "Portrait of My Mother." It is said that President Roosevelt himself first made the suggestion that the commemorative stamp carry the likeness of Whistler's famous work. The portrait is of the artist's own mother, a beautiful Southern woman. It was completed by her famous son in London in 1871 and is hailed as one of the noblest canvases ever painted by a modern artist. After her death in 1881 the portrait had a prominent place in Whistler's studio.

Credit for originating the idea that the stamp be issued goes to the American War Mothers. They suggested that the government take this means of paying tribute to the mothers of the land and urged the Postmaster General to do so. It will be the first time that such a commemorative stamp has been issued and without a doubt it will prove the most widely popular of all our government's stamp issues.

Mother's Day is observed each year on the second Sunday in May. It had its inception before the Civil war in the work of Mrs. Anna M. Jarvis of Philadelphia. After her death her daughter Anna Jarvis took it up and at her request, in 1914, a joint resolution was introduced in Congress whereby the President should designate, by annual proclamation, the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day. President Wilson issued the first Mother's Day proclamation May 9, 1914. All presidents since then have issued similar proclamations at the proper time and the day is now more widely observed each year. —Pathfinder.

IT REALLY HAPPENED

If you try to work this one some time and get caught, don't blame it on us. Blanche Rose R. Burket, of Benton Harbor, Mich. Here's her story:

A welfare worker had driven four miles in the country to take supplies to a deserving farmer. Before she left them, however, she checked up on a rumor that had come to the welfare office. "We were told that you have been seen driving a car. Do you own a car? You know we are not giving help to people able to drive cars," she informed him.

The farmer's reply was prompt "No, lady, I sometimes drive a car, but it isn't mine. It's loaned to me."

However, the worker persisted: "But they say that your girl drives a car to high school every day."

"Well," the farmer confessed, "it's like this about that car. I belongs to my brother-in-law's sister, and sometimes she lets us drive it. My girl hasn't any other way to get to school and she's been letting her use it."

That explanation was satisfactory and the worker left the supplies. When she was out of the yard the farmer turned to a neighbor: "That old fool never will figure that my brother-in-law's sister is my wife."

The New Deal has us guessing as to what ace will be pulled out of the sleeve next.

What Is A Scout?

What is a Scout? This is a question asked and discussed by many people every day and very few knowing the real meaning. A Scout is not a member of a gang but a brother to a brother of boys who stand for the same ideals and morals as the forefathers who were Scouts of yesterday. Yesterday—in the birth of our nation, the scout stood for courage, bravery and reverence. Today in the growing of a nation, a scout stands for even more. He is an enlargement of the scout of the past by being trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean, and reverent.

These—the twelve scout laws are the principal factors upon which his life is based, fashioned, and modeled. The scout oath and scout laws are taught when a boy enters scouting and takes his tenderfoot test but in all of his advancement thru second class, star, life and eagle, he is reminded of these. It is not the larger things of life that count so much, but it is the small things that amount to the real glory of life. To be a man, a person must first be a typical boy; to be a sure-enough boy he must be a boy scout. A true scout is one who takes a keen interest in life and is respected and admired by everyone. The genuine American boy is an active boy scout and the successful man of tomorrow.—Exchange.
