The P.-T. A. is putting music in the schools, but is not yet prepared to announce definite plans as to other activities.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR E. H. BOENICKE MONDAY

Funeral services for E. H. Boenicke, 48, who was instantly killed at 6:30 Saturday afternoon, when a shotgun he was carrying discharged, were held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Mount View church and interment followed in Trickham cemetery.

Rev. C. A. Wilkinson, pastor of the Mount View Methodist church, assisted by Rev. A. C. Jones of Rockwood and Rev. A. L. Clark of Zepher, officiated. Austin-Morris Company of Brownwood had charge of the arrangements.

Mr. Boenicke, a prominent Trickham farmer for almost 30 years, and his son, Herman, 15, had been hunting for chicken hawks late Saturday afternoon in the pasture near the home, about five miles of Trickham and were returning to the house. Mr. Boenicke started to crawl through a barbed wire fence about 100 yards from the house and the gun was accidentally discharged.

The charge ranged through the left side of his body and pierced his heart. Herman, who was nearby, ran to his father's side and lifted his head but he had died instantly. The boy's cries for help brought other members of the family to the scene of the tragedy.

Mr. Boenicke had purchased a new 12 gauge single barrel shotgun from the Weakley-Watson-Miller Hardware Company of Brownwood about 3:30 Saturday afternoon. At the time of making the purchase he also bought some heavy loads, saying that he intended going home and killing some of the hawks that had been catching his chickens. The gun had not been in his possession more than three hours.

E. H. Boenicke was born Oct. 16, 1882, at New Ulm, Texas, and moved to Brown county in 1903. He was married to Miss Annie Schroeder. Three children survive, Arnold of Bangs, Mrs. Laurena Drumm of Luling and Herman. His father, four brothers, and five sisters, one of whom is Mrs. Bertha Deere of Beeville.

Mr. Boenicke joined the Lutheran church when a boy and later joined the Mount View Methodist church where he was an active member until his death. Mr. Boenicke was one of the most prominent farmers of his community and was influential in farmers' organizations. He was well known here and has a circle of friends that any man might envy.

Conquers Cancer?

Dr. Harry Coke, 25, of St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington, England, who has developed a serum which retards the growth of cancer cells.

Every married woman in the world could write a novel on how to train a husband—and the chances are each one would be different. This is obvious because—all men have individual peculiarities. There is the metho-dical type, the whoopee boy, the clinging vine, the domineering brute—and so forth and so on. Each of these requires special handling, but will respond satisfactorily to proper treatment. However, the woman who deserves real sympathy is the one who tries to make her fat mate reduce. Transforming character is a mere bagatelle compared to injecting the starvation complex into a man because most men love to eat.

There's an amusing sample of a woman's difficulties in this respect in "The Good Bad Girl," Columbia's drama showing the first of next week at the Queen Theatre. The lady in question is Trixie Barnes, played by Marie Prevost. While not exactly a wife, Trixie has arrived near enough the marital state to serve as an example in the present instance. She is seriously concerned over her lord and master's tendency to take on avoirdupois in spite of the fact that she is far from sylph-like. She herself leans more than a little towards obesity.

Pagano's favorite dish is spaghetti. Trixie forbids him to eat it. Pagano hasn't sufficient strength of mind to openly defy her—neither can he withstand the temptation to indulge his appetite for the toothsome Italian food. The result is that he has to "hide out" to do his spaghetti eating even resorting on one occasion to having the delicacy served in a telephone booth—where he is supposed to be answering an important business call.

As Trixie Barnes, Marie Prevost is given all the comedy lines in the film. As the wisecracking, extremely good-natured friend of the heroine, this delightful comedienne has a role that is decidedly her fort judging from her past successes.

Laura La Plante, blonde film star, got her real start in movies because Christie Brothers, leading comedy producers, saw in her the ideal of Jiggs' beautiful daughter in George M. Cohan's popular cartoon strip "Bringing Up Father." Here was a star that would make her if she had anything in her and she did!

The popularity of the comic strip brought her prominently in the public eye. Everybody was looking anxiously for the screen version of the favorite cartoon. And when it appeared the public heartily approved of the film and the young player (she was sixteen years old at the time) who had done so well by "Jiggs' daughter."

Federated Club Notes

The Federation of Womens Clubs met Tuesday afternoon at the city hall. There was a very good attendance. The cemetery had been worked since last report. The Federation is planning to strew flower seed on the mountain side as soon as it rains poples, larkspur, blue bonnets and other flower seed suitable for such a purpose are desired.

They signed her up as a heroine in western dramas and serials and that was the beginning of an eight year association, during which time she attained stardom and recognition thru-out the world as one of the most popular stars in pictures. Her connection with Universal was severed because Miss La Plante felt she would like to free lance and choose her own roles.

Since her release she has been assigned to two pictures for Columbia. One of them was "Meet The Wife." The other is "Arizona," the film adaptation of the celebrated stage play by Augustus Thomas showing now at the Queen Theatre.

Next week eta tSOOWs etas ht Next week Mr. Dodgin will begin running every night during the fall. His Wednesday and Thursday night picture, "My Past" featuring Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyons, can't be beat.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

IN REVIEW

Ho-Hum! The millennial dawn approaches, thanks to our medical columnists. Every man his own dietitian, his own self-culturist, his own psychiatrist. The family doctor is headed for the long vacation when he shall have talked himself out of a job for all time to come.

Among my contemporaries I read that tobacco does not shorten life; that the snifter of corn whiskey is not guilty nine times out of ten. That meat and salt don't have a blame thing to do with one's blood pressure—that both are actually essential to hitting on all six. That health exercises are often indulged up to a fatal point in many cases. That diet, rest and sleep are to be taken at the dictation of appetite.

Which knocks most of the medical theories and speculative hypotheses into a cocked hat—almost. Every man his own doctor. He can go on living, and die in his turn—so—he passes.

All of which is so much piffle, written for the price, yet pregnant with horse-sense deductions. No two men or women are exactly alike. Hence, there can be very few set rules governing the conduct of many. Here are some however, that I may say I use myself:

Be temperate in all things: No human ever uttered better advice than that. Temperance in eating, drinking, working, thinking, sleeping, laughing, sighing, living, dying—temperance in all things. Observe that simple rule—and cut the doctor's bill to near zero.

Then, you will catch the flu!

or break your leg—or wife will receive a visit from the stork—just any old thing will happen; then call the doctor, as you always have done.

JUST SUPPOSE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WHEN I was a little lad, Oh, how many things I had! Things I hadn't, goodness knows Just the things you just suppose. Yes, the wealth I used to own; Every glitter of a stone, Every rock that used to shine, Made me sure there was a mine. Something gorgeous, something grand, Underneath our pasture land.

Father used to laugh at me; Mother, gentle as could be, Even smiled a little bit While she frowned at Father's wit. "Just suppose," I used to say, "There's a mine there, anyway. Wouldn't we be rich a lot?" "Yes," he'd say, "but, son, there's not."

Yet my answer was to his, "Yes, but just suppose there is?" Well, I've wandered far away, Many-both the mile and day, And I know that Dad was right. Yet I find that life's delight Is not what we're sure about, Added, proved and figured out, Mortal friendship, woman's kiss, And a thousand things like this. Happier than one who knows Are the ones who just suppose.

The Old Gardener Says:

GARDEN makers who have peach trees which are infested with borers, a very common trouble, will be interested in a chemical bearing the mouth-filling name of paradichlorobenzine, which has been shortened to PDB for common use. This chemical is spread around the trees a few inches from the trunks but never allowed to come in contact with the bark. It is covered with soil banked up in a mound five inches deep, and after two or three weeks this earth is removed. The treatment is remarkably effective, but should not be given to trees under three years old, and must be confined to peach trees only. (Copyright.)—WNU Service.

You Can Make Your Own Electric Rate

Your true electric rate is not the amount paid per kilowatt-hour for service used on the first- or top step—but the net average cost per kilowatt-hour for all current consumed. Residential customers of the West Texas Utilities Company paid, during 1930, an average of only 6.5c per kilowatt-hour—and those customers using an electric range and electric refrigerator received service at an average rate of approximately 4c per kilowatt-hour!

The statement, then, that "you can make your own electric rate" is obviously true, for the more you take advantage of the many conveniences and comforts of electric service, the more inexpensive your service will become. The addition of new Electrical Servants will reduce your average cost per kilowatt-hour and bring you new comforts and conveniences worth far more than the slight cost of the additional service required.

The average residential customer now uses fifty kilowatt-hours per month. He could increase his service to three times that amount and only increase his total bill by approximately 10c a day.

Investigate the possibilities of complete household electrification. You will be surprised to find the equipment exceedingly moderate in first cost, and the operating expense ridiculously low.

ROWENA RIDES THE RUMBLE

COPYRIGHT 1931 BY THE AUTHOR

BY ETHEL HUESTON

Eleventh Installment

Rackruff Motors hire Rowena to accompany Peter on a nation wide tour in their roadster as an advertising stunt. At the last minute Little Bobby is engaged to act as chaperon.

A few miles out Bobby becomes tearful at being parted from her sweetheart and Rowena insists on taking her place in the rumble so that she can ride with Peter and have him to talk to about Carter. Rowena gets Peter to consent to divide the expense money each week as soon as it arrives, and astonishes Peter by eating too economically.

The three tourists reach Denver, after passing through Buffalo, Chicago and St. Louis. Peter and Rowena have many tiffs on the way while Carter keeps wiring Bobby to return to New York. The morning after they reach Denver, Peter and Rowena discover Bobby has deserted them and returned to New York by train. They are faced with the impossible condition of continuing their trip without a chaperon.

Rowena suggests to Peter that they make a "companionate" marriage. They are married and go to Cheyenne, where their actions when they ask for rooms on separate floors arouses the suspicions of the hotel clerk. They finally succeed in getting rooms, but not without exciting the laughter of the hotel youngsters.

They wire the company they are married.

They resume the trip next day and are overwhelmed by a cloudburst in an arroyo and are thrown out of the car. A party of tourist campers gives them dry clothes and food. Spokane is finally reached and the hotel clerk smiles when they register. They find Rackruff Motors have arranged a public reception and dance for them. They are deluged with presents.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Rowena was a little more touchy even than usual just at that time because she was having some trouble with her own work and the fact that Mr. Rack had not been entirely satisfied with her last three stories had done nothing to improve her disposition.

When—the picture done Peters way, in spite of her—he turned the roadster east once more, Rowena retired sulkily to the rumble seat.

In Richmond they received a long telegram from Bobby Lowell. It was "Prepaid." As Rowena said afterward, "We should have known from that they were married." As indeed they were.

"Darlings," exclaimed the telegram extravagantly. "We did get married and my gown was lovely. Carter was going to sue the railroad but the conductor took him off and apologized so Carter gave him ten dollars instead. Can't we fly down and meet you some place and finish our honeymoons together—even if yours isn't real?"

Peter said he thought he had better answer that telegram and he wrote very fast indeed without one pause for thought.

"Love, kisses and condolence I mean congratulations. As your honeymoon waxeth ours alas doth wane hence how could we twain ride opposite directions in one Rackruff? Anon."

"It doesn't seem to mean much," objected Rowena.

"It means plenty," said Peter firmly. "It means that our honeymoons aren't riding the same sky if I can help it. Carter'll understand."

They were increasingly quiet as they neared New York and the end of their adventure. Peter thought Rowena was troubled about the future because she often referred to things she might do and regretted that her work had fallen off. "If I had kept up as well as I started I could land a good job on the strength of it," she said ruefully.

"You can, anyhow. Your work as a whole, has been top-notch. You were good down to the last adjective. The trouble was that in the beginning you were so superlative you got them to expecting miracles. Never begin at the top," he advised her wisely. "It leaves no place to climb to. Anyhow," he added slyly, "You've st have saved up enough on your expense money to keep the children in bread and milk for a long time—what with doing your own laundry and living on soup and cheese."

"Well—some," she admitted evasively.

"Do you suppose we'll ever be real good friends Rowena? Or never quarrel again?"

"I'm good friends now! I've been friends from the very first. I am really fond of you, Peter, but you're so darn mean the angels themselves couldn't get along with you."

"That's odd. Every one has always remarked what a good disposition I have. No credit to me," he added modestly. "I was born with it."

"People are so dumb," sighed Rowena.

"Do you think your judge will have any trouble getting the annulment?"

"No."

"How long will it take?"

"I don't know."

"When will he start?"

"He's started now."

"Started now! Why, what do you mean?"

"I wrote to him the day we were married and told him to go ahead with the preliminaries so he could put it through with a rush."

Peter resented that. "I think it was needlessly insulting of you, Rowena! To spread the news like that the day we were married."

"Married! Oh, tish, tosh and even tush! That was no marriage."

"No. But it was nasty of you just the same."

"I'm sorry you feel that way about it, Peter," she said gently. "I did not mean to be offensive. I assure you. I really thought I was doing the stitch-in-time sort of thing."

"Do you think you'll ever marry the judge?"

"I don't think I'll marry anybody. I hate men."

"What are you going to do when we get home, Peter?"

"Oh, work at something, I suppose. I don't know just what Maybe I'll go to Paris."

"You can't go until we get that annulment. They will need you here to swear that we— we didn't—that we never—that we never were really married, or anything."

"How long will it take?"

"Why? Are you in such a hurry for your freedom?"

"No. I was just wondering."

"What do you intend to do first, Rowena?" Peter asked.

"Oh, I really don't know. Write up those stories perhaps."

"No plans for the far future?"

"No. Maybe I'll keep house for Eddy when he gets through school. Maybe I'll get married."

"But you say you hate men!"

"So I do. That's the only way to get even with them."

From Pennsylvania Peter wanted to cut through as quickly as possible into New Jersey and hence that way. He said it was slicker and he knew the roads. Rowena on the other hand wanted to go up through Pennsylvania. She admitted it was a longer route but said she would try to endure a few more days of Peter's company for the sake of the scenery. Peter didn't argue with her. He just turned off and went over the Water Gap into New Jersey. Then they realized indeed that they were nearing home, for New Jersey was their neighbor and Peter recognized every road and landmark. The sign-posts began to give mileage to New York—seventy-five miles, sixty miles and then fifty.

They had luncheon at a lovely little wayside place near a cool blue lake and Peter said if Rowena would excuse him a few minutes he wanted to call up some people in New York. "Gosh but you're in a rush to get in touch with everybody," she protested irritably. "I suppose you would like me to call up the judge and ask him to have the papers ready for us to sign tonight."

Peter didn't say anything, but went on into the telephone booth. When he came back his face showed a little white under his summer's tan and his lips were grimly locked.

"I suppose she had another date," said Rowena disagreeably.

"And I'm glad of it."

Peter had nothing to say, but when they had reached the next town he said he hoped Rowena wouldn't mind waiting as he had a little shopping to do.

"Shopping!" she ejaculated. "Shopping within forty miles of home? What do you want? Is it anything I can lend you?"

"Oh, no, nothing like that," said Peter vaguely. "Just one odds and ends—little souvenirs—presents, you know—nothing much."

"You would go through Yellowstone and the Rocky Mountains and buy your souvenirs in New Jersey," she remarked coldly.

When he came back his arms were pretty well filled with stouly ried bundles, Rowena and Constantine were under the umbrella in the rumble seat. "For heaven's sake—" he began impatiently. "It's a sort of sentiment with me," she said. "I would never believe it was sorry it was all over. It had been fun—all except Peter. It would have been times square in our regular traveling order. You can put your souvenirs in Bobby's place. Rowena slumped lower and lower in the rumble seat as he drove swiftly along the heavily shaded roads. She did not feel at all well. In a way, she almost believed she was sorry it was all over. It had been fun—all except Peter. It would have been great—glorious—without Peter. "If Peter thinks I've got any- thing to cry about, he's crazy," she said stoutly. Rowena closed her eyes and pretended she was asleep. Rowena certainly wasn't feeling well. Her heart was leaden within her. Two great tears forced themselves under her hot lids and through the silken lashes. She opened her eyes. Much to Continued on page six

Nunnery Quadrangle of Uxmal Is to Be Reproduced for Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition

LONG before Columbus or Leif Erikson set foot on American soil, huge buildings raised their walls to American skies. One such structure, as impressive—if not as high—as any modern skyscraper, will be viewed in replica by the millions of visitors to A Century of Progress, Chicago's 1933 World's fair. This structure is the Nunnery Quadrangle, whose ruins now lie crumbling near Uxmal, in Yucatan, and which was in existence at least 1,400 years ago. Without steel, without metal tools, without wheels, without knowledge of the arch, and even without beasts of burden, the ancient Mayans reared this imposing structure, 79 feet at its extreme height, in what is now jungle, as an abode and as a temple for their vestal virgins. The nunnery occupies about 3 1/2 acres of ground and consists of four great rectangular halls surrounding a vast court. The quadrangle rises from the top of a terrace 15 feet high, and one enters the courtyard from the south through a corbelled vault. To the right is the East building, of simple design. To the left stands the West building, its ornate facade decorated with the intertwining bodies of the feathered serpent god, Kukulkan. Opposite the entrance a broad stairway, flanked by minor temples, ascends to the North building, 26 feet high. Masters of the art of false perspective, the ancient builders of the quadrangle tapered the north ends of the East and West buildings so as to give the court an exaggerated appearance of size. It is exactly the same principle, on an infinitely smaller scale, employed by designers of the ultra-modern temple in the trustees' room of the exposition. The faades lean forward so as to throw into still deeper shadow the deeply undercut decorations. In the bright tropical sunshine the grotesquely carved and painted masks of the Mayan gods glare down with fearful intensity. In this temple and in a series of primitive Indian villages, the story of man in the Western hemisphere will be told. Arranging the details of this thrilling drama of the ages is a committee of world-famed savants headed by Dr. Fay-Cooper Cole, professor of anthropology at the University of Chicago. Our illustration shows, above, the ruins of the East building of Nunnery Quadrangle and the Pyramid of the Magician; and, below, a sketch of the Nunnery Quadrangle as it will be reproduced.

The Outlook

We notice that the President's Emergency Committee on Employment is telling people over the radio to keep all the young people in school this coming winter instead of letting them go to work and take jobs which might otherwise go to men and women who have family responsibilities. We think that is sound advice, unless the head of the family is out of a job and the boy or girl can get one where the old man can't.

Governor Huey Long of Louisiana has got his law passed making it illegal to grow cotton in that state next year if three-quarters of the other cotton states will do the same. That ought to help, if somebody will show how the cotton growers who depend upon that crop for their sole cash income are going to get along during the cotton "vacation."

The Farm Board, which has more wheat on hand than it knows what to do with, is asking the Shipping Board which has more ships on hand than it can use to lend some of those ships to take wheat to China, where the people are starving but will be able to pay for the wheat, in time, if the wheat gets to them in time to save their lives. That sounds like good sense to us, especially if the wheat is packed in cotton sacks, which will help the cotton growers some.

Governor Roosevelt of New York has got his Legislature to agree to appropriating twenty million dollars to aid the unemployed. The money will be raised by increasing the state income tax fifty percent. That is one good way to help. Another is to increase the inheritance taxes on dead men's estates.

Henry Ford is putting 50,000 men back to work at once and says he will be running to full capacity in a few weeks. The New England textile mills are increasing their output and hiring more help. The automobile tire business is picking up strongly. Electric refrigerators are selling well. People are beginning to buy new clothes everywhere. We've noticed a lot of house-painting and building repairing going on, and so many roads being improved that you have to ride the detours to go anywhere, almost.

There's no doubt that we'll all be called on to help the unlucky ones this coming winter, but we seem to notice that as fast as they do get jobs they fasten themselves to them. We would guess that more people are doing real honest work for their money now than any time since the war and that's the most encouraging sign for the future that we've seen yet.

Mr. C. F. Redlich says: "The 'Perfect Retention Shields' hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief and contract the opening in a remarkable short time.

The secret of their success is in their simplicity. An expertly adjusted device seals the opening without discomfort or detention from work. It is practically everlasting, sanitary, comfortable and actually holds ruptures which heretofore were considered uncontrollable.

Stomach troubles, backache and constipation, nearly always a consequence of rupture, promptly disappear.

MEN OF 2,000 YEARS AGO TO VISIT 1933 EXPOSITION

Black Sand People—Oldest Known Human Beings in Mississippi Valley—Will Relive Lives They Led in Post-Glacial Period at Chicago World's Fair. Unearthed Skeletons Beneath Ancient Indian Mound

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—When the gates of a Century of Progress swing open in Chicago in 1933, strange visitors will be in attendance. The "black sand men" and their families, who hunted and fished and farmed this region centuries ago, will again appear.

For two years, the Exposition has cooperated with the Department of Anthropology of the University of Chicago in excavations of the Indian mounds of Illinois in order to reproduce for the Fair the lives of the Mound Builders, oldest humans we know anything about in the Mississippi Valley. Notable discoveries were made last year and material sufficient for a magnificent display secured, but excavations are continuing in order to make the story complete.

The black sands were laid down by the glacier which scooped out Lake Michigan eons ago, and were thought too old to contain human remains. But recently there have been found the remains of ten individuals who occupied the region long before the mound builders. These black sand people who lived 2,000 to 4,000 years ago, will be at the Fair.

The skeletons found showed the black sand people to be short and husky, with narrow heads, wide cheek bones and heavy ridges over the brows.

In the valley of the Illinois a "Hopewell" mound is being excavated and a great central pit containing twenty-four bodies has been exposed. On the bluffs above the river, domeshaped mounds, probably dating back a thousand years, are revealing a most interesting story of early life in Illinois.

Several of the mounds will be reproduced at the Fair.

Only minor bruises and cuts were received by Louis Griffin when a light coupe which he was driving overturned in the ditch, about four miles from Santa Anna on the Brownwood road, at 5:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Griffin was taken to the hospital in Santa Anna where the slight injuries were treated. Later he returned to his home here and is resting nicely. The car was badly damaged. —Brownwood Bulletin.

How to train BABY'S BOWELS

Babies, bottle-fed or breast-fed, with any tendency to be constipated, would thrive if they received daily half a teaspoonful of this old family doctor's prescription for the bowels.

That is one sure way to train tiny bowels to healthy regularity. To avoid the fretfulness, vomiting, crying, failure to gain, and other ills of constipated babies.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is good for any baby. For this, you have the word of a famous doctor. Forty-seven years of practice taught him just what babies need to keep their little bowels active, regular; keep little bodies plump and healthy. For Dr. Caldwell specialized in the treatment of women and little ones. He attended over 3500 births without loss of one mother or baby.

The Way of Life

by BRUCE BARTON

That the Republican party is planning to fight a hard battle next year when the Presidential campaign is run off is shown by the introduction of Dwight Morrow's name as a possible candidate for the second place on the ticket. Whether there is any weight back of the suggestion has not been divulged but it is known that many of the President's closest advisers believe that the former ambassador to Mexico and Col. Lindbergh's father-in-law would add more strength to the ticket than any other Republican.

It is no secret that Administration circles are convinced that Governor Roosevelt of New York will be the Democratic standard bearer and that he is gaining strength every day by his official actions. His recent tilt with Tammany over the New York City graft investigation has won him many friends outside of the state, who saw by his actions that he will be no tool of the Wigwam if he wins the election. Apparently the Tiger leaders have come around to the belief that they cannot afford a break with the Democratic governor and it looks as though he will be able to count upon Tammany effective though somewhat grudging support when the national convention is held.

Later reports indicate that Roosevelt will command 802 votes when the Democratic Convention is called to order next summer. This is vastly more than two thirds necessary to choose a Democratic candidate, or 666 votes. With such a foregone conclusion the Democrats are beginning to stir around and look over the list of available candidates for Vice-President. Such a man is almost certain to be chosen from the Solid South or from the Southwest. The condition lends significance to the recent activities of "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, Governor of Oklahoma, and Governor Huey Long of Louisiana. Murray's spectacular challenge to the oil interests and Long's utterances on cotton have put both men in the public eye. Either man would be more than satisfactory to the Old South and satisfy the ticket-makers from a geographical standpoint.

Roosevelt has not only emerged from his contest with Tammany with added prestige but his more recent activities in demanding a heavier income tax in New York State to meet the unemployment crisis has met with warm approval. He wants to raise $20,000,000 for the distress fund and figures the wealthy can well afford to pay more to combat the winter distress. It is likely that increased taxes for those who can best afford to pay them will be adopted. All these actions have made him a popular figure and a man who will be hard for the Republicans to beat.

Morrow is one of the most popular men in the entire Republican Party. His success in Mexico which was on the verge of a business war with the United States at the time he was sent there, showed him to be a man of high calibre. As a Morgan partner, his weakest point with many of the voters of a radical tendency, he has never been connected with any movement that has been against the working man. In addition, he is known to be in sympathy with the west, particularly the "light wine and beer" contingent, and would convert many Republican voters who might be tempted to stray to the Democratic fold, where liquor has its strongest adherents.

Whether Lindbergh, his famous son-in-law, would turn his hand to aid Morrow's candidacy is not known. A speaking campaign by Lindbergh would win many thousands of votes, as he is still the most popular individual in the country and many women would vote as he says. That Lindbergh is not insensible to political influences is more than likely, his own father having been a Representative of more than ordinary influence and ability. In any event Morrow would add immensely to the strength of the Republican ticket as a running mate to Mr. Hoover, the politicians here assert.

While a lot of gossip is going the rounds about what the Administration plans in regard to wheat and cotton, particularly as to whether it intends to flood the market with its present

The Mountaineer

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF OF THE MOUNTAINEER HAS NOT BEEN ELECTED YET

High school students will probably vote for the person to serve as the editor-in-chief of the Mountaineer for this year at an early date. The past two years the editor-in-chief was elected from the senior class and the associate editor from the junior class.

It is hoped that there will be a better Mountaineer than ever this year. The Scribblers Club, will be reorganized with a membership of enthusiastic students. This club is indeed fortunate to have the addition of a co-sponsor, Mrs. Scarborough.

SENIORS

The very brilliant and intelligent class of '32 met together again Wednesday September 9, for the first time since May 24th. However, there has been quite an increase in size, twenty new members being enrolled making a total of fifty-five students.

Mrs. J. E. Bartlett, Sponsor, introduced the following class officers:

President, Annie Wilson; Vice-President, Kathryn Rose Plinney; Sec-Treas., Besse Evans. These officers were elected last year at the close of school.

New students were then introduced by Mrs. Bartlett. Once more the class of '32 enter the halls of this institution to "reign supreme" as Seniors.

S-A-H-S

The Sophomore class has an enrollment of thirty-five students at present. Four of these students have never gone to this school before. The new students coming from outlying schools are: Ora Alice Newman, Virgil Alford, Idelle Jones and Tyleene Peeples. Two new members who have attended the Santa Anna schools before are Juanita Rioridan and Olive Pace.

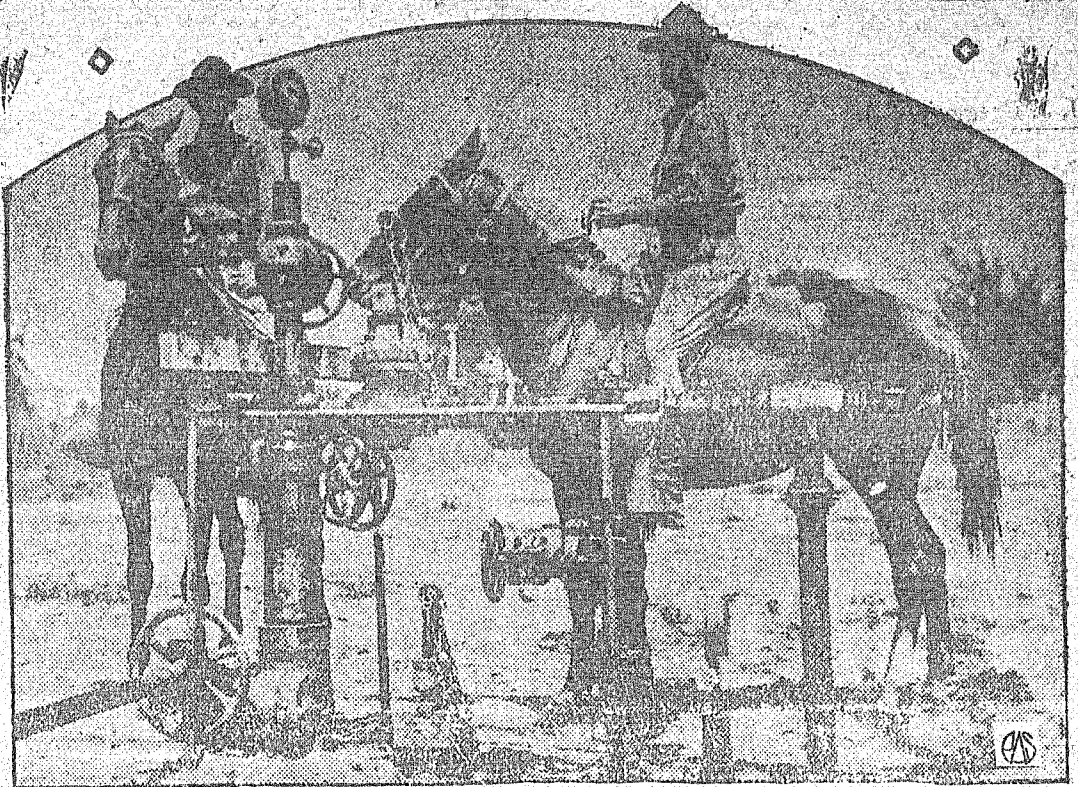

We regretted to lose Laverne Lackey who moved from our community this week.

holdings, the most accurate picture appears to be that a policy of letting nature take its course would be to describe its present attitude. From now on it is likely that the soft pedal will be placed on all official actions in regard to the two big crops.

There is a growing belief that China's need for wheat, which will probably reach nearer fifty million bushels instead of the fifteen which has been promised it on long term credits, will be supplied from the government surplus, whether the bill is ever collected or not. Cotton is a harder problem and the Farm Board, which recently said it would make no decision as to whether it might dump it or not, can be expected to announce it will hang on to it for a time anyhow, chiefly because it cannot sell it now at anywhere near a price that would save its face. The Administration feels there is no cure for the situation and that everybody knows it and therefore there is no use in trying to announce plans which it knows cannot be carried out.

officers to serve for the year: President, John David Harper; Vice-President, Armenta Ragsdale; Secretary-treasurer, Irene Rountree; Reporter, Juanita Keeling.

Irene McCreary, editor-in-chief of the Mountaineer last year, left for Waco Monday where she will attend Baylor University the ensuing term.

S-A-H-S LAWN MOWER PRESENTED TO HIGH SCHOOL

Last year the boys of the high school worked diligently setting out grass in front of the high school building. During the summer, under Mr. Vestal's care the grass attained a luxuriant growth. So great is the improvement that students and teachers notice it continually.

When school opened last week the grass was greatly in need of a "manicuring", but the school owned no mower. Under the discouraging financial conditions it was looking as if the lawn would have to be neglected when a group of loyal former students of Santa Anna High School came to the rescue. The senior class of 1929-1930 presented a lawn mower to the school for which the students, patrons and teachers are very grateful.

S-A-H-S JESSE GOEN LOST TO FOOTBALL TEAM

Doctor Says May Ruin His Health If He Continues to Play

Last Saturday when word was received that Dexter Walthal, was ineligible to play football because of falling to pass required number of courses in Coleman last year the Mountaineers received a blow that put them down for a count or two. Today when Jesse Goen, stated that the doctor had told him that he would not be able to play football, the team took a crack fair on the jaw that will keep them groggy for the rest of the season.

Jesse has a light touch of Bright's disease and participating in the strenuous exercise of football make his malady hurt him to the point of being dangerous.

Jesse did most of the punting in the game with Brownwood and was developing into a fair passer but his strongest point was tucking the ball under his arm and going places with it. And he was plenty hard to stop.

when he got traveling. He weighs about 165 pounds and was the heaviest man on the team.

These two boys knocked holes in the team that it will be next to impossible to fill. The team and the school mourns their loss. We are living in hopes that Jesse's health will improve so that he may be able to play again even this year later in the season, and that Dexter will study harder and be ready to go when the whistle blows next year.

S-A-H-S MOUNTAINEERS LOSE TO BROWNWOOD HIGH SCORE 50-0

Joe Bailey Cheaney Praises Santa Anna Team

In the initial game of the season last Friday at Brownwood Santa Anna High School Mountaineers lost to the Lions of the Brownwood High School by the score of 50-0. The score indicates the strength of the Lions but does not necessarily indicate a weakness of the Mountaineers. The Brownwood team under the leadership of Coaches Taylor and McMiller is the strongest that the school has had in years. The authorities of Brownwood High School have changed their attitude toward football. Hereafter, they have let football run along by itself, abided by both the letter and the spirit of the law, and let the winning of games take care of itself. They are now laying plans for a winning team in the immediate future and their change of attitude has already shown results.

her surprise she saw that they were far from the state highway, and following a narrow dirt road through a thick piece of woods. She tapped on the window.

"Peter, you're off the road. This isn't the way to New York." "I know it. It's a short cut."

Rowena sighed. "I knew I should watch you," she said resignedly.

Presently he turned off from the dirt road into a narrow wood lane, no more than a cow-path it seemed. Rowena knew instantly it would never take them any place at all. She knocked on the window again.

"Peter, you're lost! This road doesn't go anywhere."

The cow-path turned abruptly up a sharp jagged hill and ended abruptly at the foot of an immense boulder in the very heart of the forest.

"It's a dead end," said Rowena. "What did I tell you?"

Peter got out of the car and went back very slowly, to stand beside her, folding his arms rigidly on the rim of the rumble. She noticed, immediately how very grim he looked, how his pleasant eyes had narrowed and his lips set. She stared deeply into his eyes, her lashes still wet with tears and waited for him to speak.

"Get out, Rowena," he said at last thickly. "This is your last stop."

"Why, we can be in New York in two hours!" she protested faintly. "We've had our luncheon—there's nothing here to stop for!"

"Get out," he repeatedly doggedly. "We're staying here tonight."

Rowena looked at him wonderingly and put out her hand, slender and sunburned, pink palm upturned and fingers curling. Peter ignored the silent appeal of it.

"Rowena," he said, his voice grown low and strange. "you've made a damned fool of me day after day the whole summer. You have made me the laughing stock of reporters and hotel clerks and automobile mechanics from coast to coast—not to mention the kick your friends in New York are getting out of my predicament. Well, it's my turn now. You may get an annulment, you may get a divorce, you may get anything you damn please, but you're my wife—you are married to me—"

"But—not really married—Peter—"

"Well, you are going to be, and pretty damn quick," he said decidedly.

With a wave of his hand he indicated a little log cabin, deserted and still, that showed above the boulder in the thick of the forest.

"We're honeymooning here till Monday."

Rowena blinked her lashes very fast indeed. She fumbled around in the pocket of the rumble seat until she found rouge, powder and lip-stick and painstakingly repaired the ravages of travel. After that she looked at Peter and laughed.

"You're good natured about it," he said.

"Of course," she declared gaily. "This is an accident. Accidents never make me mad."

"Well save up as much good humor as you can," he told her. "You're going to need a lot of it between now and Monday."

Rowena talked about her. The little cabin was tucked away snugly in a huge cleft of great rocks and about it on every side towered broad-branched trees, beginning to show gold and blood-red with the touch of autumn. Somewhere near a noisy brook chattered down-hill over the stones. And there was no sign of other habitation or wandering woodsmen in all the length and breadth of the forest.

"It belongs to a friend of mine," said Peter. "That's what I phoned about—to say we were tired and would appreciate the use of the cabin for a few days?"

"Are we to be quite alone here she inquired casually.

"Quite alone."

"It—it will make it—difficult—about the annulment."

"That," said Peter haughtily, "is up to your friend the judge."

Rowena put her hand on his arm.

"Peter," she said gently, "don't do anything rash. You'd better think it over."

CAR OWNERS DEMAND VALUES —not Claims!

GUM-DIPPED CORDS
Every cord in Firestone tires is Gum-Dipped. This patented extra process penetrates every cord—coat every fiber with pure liquid rubber. Gum-Dipping increases the flexing life of the cords—minimizes internal friction and heat—increases the strength of the body—and gives longer fire life. Only Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have this Extra Value.

TWO EXTRA CORD PLYS UNDER THE TREAD
This patented construction of Two Extra Cord Plys under the Tread in Firestone Tires insures a stronger bond between Tread and Cord Body and greater protection against Punctures and Blowouts. This new improved "all cord" construction anticipates the old-fashioned cross-woven fabric construction used by others.

6 CORD PLYS UNDER THE TREAD

MOTORISTS are finding the Greatest Values in Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Ever since Firestone and Firestone Dealers began advertising the true facts about tire quality and construction and actually demonstrating the Extra Values in Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, distributors of special-brand mail-order tires have grown bolder and bolder with misleading claims and comparisons in the desperate effort to interest car-owners.

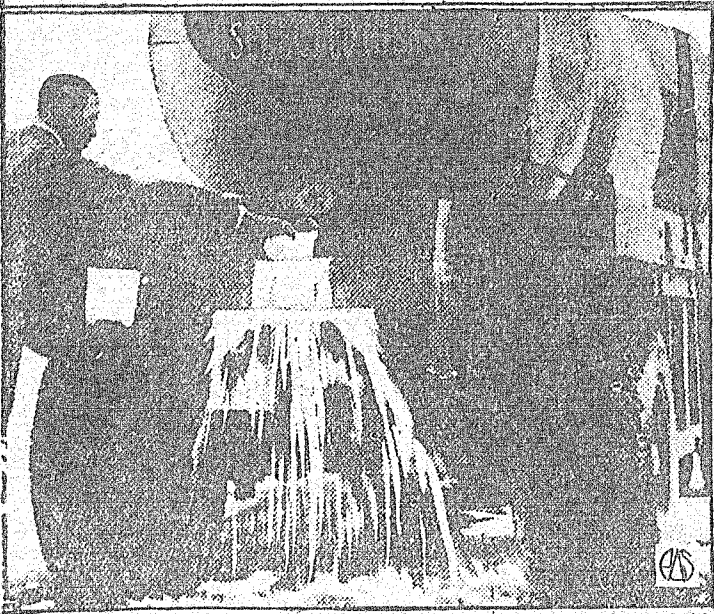

Car owners bought more Firestone Tires in May, June and July, than in any like period in history. This clearly shows that car owners are interested in Firestone Extra Values and are not interested in comparisons based on an almost obsolete tire size—confusing laboratory analyses—meaningless definitions—impractical challenges with unfair claims of twenty-five per cent savings—and deceiving price comparisons.

Why risk a tire of unknown manufacture when you can get the Extra Quality, Extra Strength, and Extra Safety of the special patented construction features of Firestone Tires—Gum-Dipping, and Two Extra Cord Plys under the Tread?

You get these Extra Values—plus our Service and the DOUBLE GUARANTEE of Firestone and others—at no more cost!

Drive in today.—We have sections cut from Firestone Tires, special-brand mail-order tires and others.—See the evidence.—Take nothing for granted.—Judge for Yourself.

BAPTIST CHURCH

The pastor will preach at both hours Sunday. The morning subject will be "The True God" and the night subject will be "The Fall of Man" or "Which Way Did Man Fall, Up or Down?" The evolution says man came from lower animal life, and if that be true man fell "up" rather than down. Every member of the church urged to be in the services Sunday.

JAPANESE CHAMPION

Although the Olympic games that are to be held in Los Angeles don't start until 1932, the invasion of athletes is already on. The first one to arrive on the scene was Sutshiro Tsuda, the Japanese national marathon champion. He is twenty-five years old and has been running for six years.

LITTLE THINGS

Nothing is more interesting than to hear successful men reminisce about their careers. Recently, after a golf game, I had such an opportunity.

My companions were well-known lawyers.

One of them said: "I wasn't much of a student in college. I played on both the football and baseball teams, and I managed to graduate and go through law school."

"My first job was in the office of a country lawyer in a small city in Pennsylvania. There I really did work, preparing cases and trying them, and doing my best to master the profession."

"I could look forward to earning enough to marry on, but could see no chance of ever escaping from that small town."

"One Christmas I visited my folks in Boston, and while I was there a friend told me that a certain lawyer would like to meet me. I called at his office the next morning. We chatted for about an hour and then, out of a clear sky, he offered me a partnership. I was flabbergasted, but I managed to stammer an acceptance. I started in with him a month later. In that firm I spent ten very happy and profitable years."

"One day I summoned up courage to ask him how he ever happened to make me such an offer on so short an acquaintanceship."

"His answer was surprising. He said that for years he had been able to secure more business than he could properly handle. As a business getter he was a star; as an organizer of an efficient force he was a failure. He had hired brilliant young chaps out of law school, but somehow they never developed as he hoped. Being brilliant, they expected to get results easily, and if they were whipped a couple of times in court it broke their spirit.

"One night he went home and sat down before the fire to analyze his situation. He decided to look for an entirely different type of man. He listed the qualifications:

"1. The man must not be too smart. He must have the habit of working hard for his results."

"He must have been in college athletics, trained to fight for victory, and to keep up his chin in defeat."

"Having made this list, the lawyer asked his friends to recommend men who met the qualifications. One of them named me, and the lawyer remembered that he had once seen a football game in which I was badly smashed up but was still able to carry the ball across the line for a touchdown."

"So you see," my friend concluded, "it was that one little thing, to which I never attached the slightest importance, that made my whole career."

When you hear stories like this, and I have heard many of them, it makes you think that there are no little things. No operation is so insignificant that a man can refuse to give it less than his best.

In this year's team. They will make some of the Oil Belt teams stand up and take notice pretty soon.

Coch Joe Bailey Cheaney of Howard Payne College spoke words of commendation for our boys after he had watched them wrestle with the Brownwood hustlers for an hour. He made the statement that the Mountaineer team of this year had the strongest aggregation that he had seen from this school in several years. We hardly know on what he based his judgement after such a game as last Friday's but we had just as soon accept his opinion concerning football as the opinion of anyone in these parts. He undoubtedly knows football material when he sees it and knows when boys are well trained and functioning well as a team.

Any championship hopes that Santa Anna might have had received a severe shock Saturday when word was received from the principal of Coleman that Dexter Walthall is ineligible, having failed to pass the required number of courses. He will continue to practice with the team this year and will make an excellent player next year.

SANTA ANNA IS DEFEATED BY BROWNWOOD 50-0

Santa Anna was defeated by Brownwood last Friday by an overwhelming score of 50-0. The team as a whole looked bad during the game. Brownwood didn't gain through the line, but when they started around end it was just another first down or touchdown.

Fletcher was the outstanding defensive man while Walthall was the only man to play a bang up game all the way around. Myers and Wallace were the outstanding players on the line. Wheeler played a fair game as did Rollins, but not near the game that they played last year. Scott Wallace (the slime) was always hustling up to the time he was removed from the game with a cut lip. Let's boost the team against Coleman any rate. The Coleman game is Friday, Sept., 25.

The lineup in the Brownwood game was:

WHIP SANTA ANNA

(San Angelo Times)
A Coleman fan wrote the department recently that the Blue Cats will be right up in the class B district 11 football running this autumn. A Santa Anna sportsman dropped us the following missive yesterday:

"I have had the pleasure of reading in your column in the daily paper. Some few days ago an account came out that the Coleman football team would win district 11 championship. They may do this but please inform them that they will have to fight hard to even beat Santa Anna.

"Santa Anna will have only three letter men back this year but they will have many reserves back from last year's team as well as several new men. The team will average about 155 pounds and all are experienced men. The first game is with Brownwood high next Friday, September 11. They are not expected to win this game but they will be in there fighting all the game. You never can tell they might win.

"Please publish the team's statistics as soon as possible. I am very grateful to you for your attention to this matter."
