Third Annual Coleman Fair Dates Approach

Directors Enthusiastic Over Entries And Attractions.

The Coleman County Fair Association wishes to announce that in addition to the four (4) "Free for All" races already announced and advertised in Racing Program it will offer other races for Coleman County animals, consisting of "Mule Race", "Cow Pony", "Polo Pony" and "Kid Pony" races.

The management wants to make this an annual affair and will offer the best purses possible this year in addition to Free Pass to every thing (except Carnival) to those who enter these races. No entrance fee charged to these races, for Coleman County animals. It is also planned to hold a portion of the horse show each day consisting of childrens ponies, cow ponies and Polo ponies as advertised in Catalogues.

A ladies riding review may be arranged if sufficient entries can be secured. Get your horses ready and watch for announcements in paper later and especially the programs each day of the Fair.

Relative to the mule race, it is the opinion of many, especially old timers that the mule seldom ever gets the credit or recognition he deserves, and that he, like the horse is coming back and few know of his real speed other than warriors who have treated him in battle in the retreat.

A COTTON PICKER

Leola Christie Barnes
The woman wearily sighs as she lays
The heavy strap of duck across her heart,
She gently smooths the harsh creases apart,
That blister her snow white breast, while she sways
To gather the prisoning locks, that daze
Her soul. Burrs prick her hands until they smart
With bloody pain. She looks up with a start
To see pickers ahead in a haze.

Then valiantly she tries to match the speed
Of husband and children; who swiftly pick
The snowy fetters that chain them to toil,
They bend from dawn to weary dusk to feed
The yawning jaws of debt; while her heart-sick
Brain schemes to save her daughters from the soil.

Notice To Citizens Of THE City Of Santa Anna

Beginning next Wednesday morning, the city will furnish a wagon and pick up all tin cans free that have been put into containers or, have been piled up on the street or alley where they can be readily reached. Please see that your cans are gotten together before that date as we are providing this service for only a few days at a time and if your cans are not put where they can be gotten they will not be called for again until probably two months later. The city is not maintaining a wagon all the time now, but will at stated times give this service.

Electrical Extension Being Made By Utilities Co.

Ablene, Texas—Extensions to serve new commercial and residential electric customers, improvements to strengthen service now being rendered and additions to physical facilities are the most important features of the West Texas Utilities Company's current construction program, as shown in a report made available at the company's offices here yesterday. The report stated that construction work on the projects listed is going forward at the present time.

Among many electric service extensions to be made, the following are the most important:

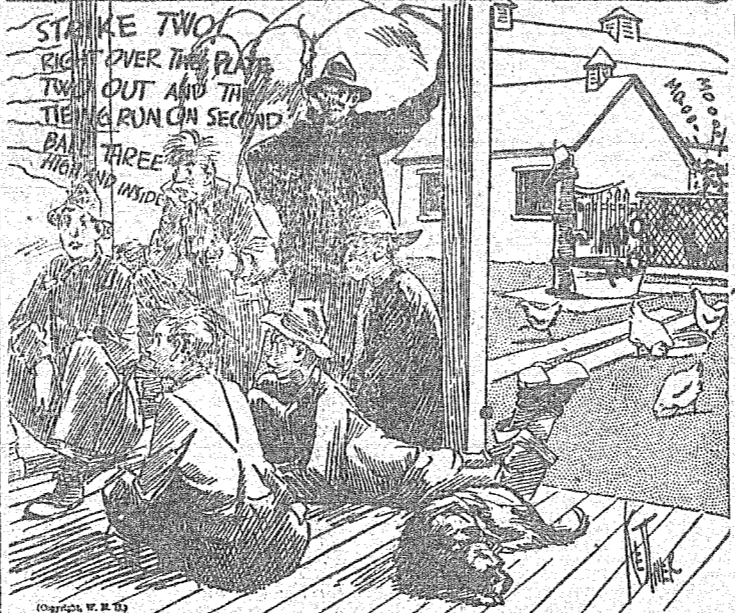

At Christoval, a three-phase, 6,600 volt primary line will be built to serve irrigation demands at Mertzon, a single-phase primary line will serve new residential electric customers; a 12 kv. line, built out from Vernon, will furnish power for pumping irrigation equipment; at McCamey, a three-wire, single-phase, 220 volt secondary line will serve new rural customers; two service extensions at Bronte, both of them secondary lines, will serve new customers and furnish power for electrical equipment in a new addition to the city High School and at Menard, (a secondary extension will serve a new residential section of the city.

Development of a new irrigation project at Rayland, southwest from Vernon, will be hastened through the construction of a three-phase secondary line. The territory to be served has made an unusual success of irrigated produce farming, and the building of the new line will enable farmers to place water on their land more efficiently and more economically through the use of electric power.

Important improvements to existing facilities will be made at Girard and Abilene. The Girard program will raise to 66 kilovolts the 33 kilovolt transmission line now serving the city. Service will be brought from the Jayton

Large Rattle snake Killed at Texaco Service Station

Mr. Harris (Night-watch-man) was called on to kill a large rattlesnake at The Texaco Station, operated by John Overby, Tuesday night.

A man and his wife from Brady stopped at the station about 12 o'clock to air a tire. The snake struck at the lady as she was walking around the station, striking her dress and missing her by a narrow margin.

Coming up town they reported the matter to Mr. Harris, he returned to the station with them and with the aid of a searchlight found and killed the snake. It had 10 rattles.

Crimson Dawnings, Collection Of Her Best Poems, Expected By Friends To Be Popular

One of the greatest distinctions that has been shown any modern poet, was recently accorded one of our citizens, Mrs. Ford Barnes, by the Bunhill Literary School of London, which selected three of her poems, "Her Church Choir", "Night's Lullaby", and "The England Plunge in Late Autumn," to be read at a late meeting composed of prominent literary leaders from all parts of England and Europe; An outstanding distinction was recently received by Mrs. Barnes, when she was selected as one of fifty international writers to be reprinted in the "The Arcadian Anthology" which is now being published. Copies of the Anthology are to be placed in three hundred leading libraries of the nation and will be reviewed in the leading newspapers.

where she received B. S. degree and a degree in Oratory.

Butler, Galveston and Pat M. Neff of Austin, Texas and others.

Revival To Begin At The Christian Church Soon

A series of revival services will begin at the First Christian Church Sunday morning October 11th. Brother G. R. Forrester, pastor of the First Christian Church at Coleman will do the preaching. Mr. Forrester is one of the strongest preachers in this section of Texas and preaches the gospel in its simplicity and plainness. Everybody is invited to attend these services, and especially, do we urge those who are members of the church to attend and assist in the campaign.

Temperance District Convention Success

Well Attended, good Interest, Officers Very Enthusiastic

The one day convention of the 17th district, which was held in The Methodist Church Thursday was quite well attended and was a success from every standpoint. Mrs. W. C. Jones of Brady, District president, presided. Rev. Hal C. Wingo, led the devotions, Rev. Womack, gave the address of welcome and Rev. P. F. Squires of Coleman gave an inspirational address. This was just bristling with facts and data on the benefits of prohibition. Mrs. Thowald Jensen of Brady, sang a beautiful solo and Mrs. Ford Barnes, gave two of her original poems. At the noon hour a wonderful old time dinner was served, not just a lunch, and the local union wishes to thank all those who made this possible.

Afternoon Mrs. B. F. Robey of Coleman, gave a piano solo. Encouraging reports were given by all unions represented. Mrs. Purcell of Coleman read our Declaration of Principles, as set forth by Frances Willard in 1874. This showed Miss Willard to be a prophet and that she lived in advance of her day. She stood for an eight hour day and a single standard of morals for both men and women, courts of arbitration etc.

A group of Santa Anna children sang "The World is Going Dry."

Rev. G. R. Forrester of Coleman brought a fine message on the need of a return of Temperance teaching in the home, the church and the school. He said that in one day he had seen, when he was a boy, more drunk men, than he has seen in many years.

Mrs. Jones gave an earnest talk, telling of our women who were pioneers in this work and the hardships they had to undergo. Now the White Ribbon army encircles the globe and is the largest woman's organization in existence.

Miss Lewis of Coleman gave a most timely reading. Appropriate songs were sung throughout the day, and interesting discussions were enjoyed. Most of the officers of the district were re-elected. The only change made was the election of Mrs. Jim Mann of Brady in the place of Mrs. Ledlow of Abilene who has moved out of our district.

Mountaineers Play Coleman Blue Cats On Home Field Today

On Friday, September 25th, Santa Anna will meet Coleman at Santa Anna for our first real game of the season. The Mountaineers are doing some real training this week. We have already played two games this year, while Coleman hasn't played any. We have "brushed up" on what we forgot from last year and are now ready to do some real playing. Our team will average around 152 pounds.

Coleman has a heavier line up than Santa Anna, but our motto is: "The Heavier They Are The Harder They Fall."

Help wanted to "thresh" cats at Santa Anna, next Friday. No experience necessary. Everyone come boost the Mountaineers. Let's beat Coleman both games this year. Look for a full report of this game in next week's paper.—Reporter.

San Angelo Man Killed In Wreck

Body Of C. L. Flowers To Texarkana Tuesday

The body of C. L. Flowers, 37, fatally injured late Sunday when thrown from a motorcycle near Coleman, was sent Tuesday night to Texarkana, his former home for funeral services.

Mr. Flowers died at a Coleman hospital about two hours after the accident which happened when a tire blew out when the machine was in sand. Cecil Birch and Mr. Flowers had been attending a hill climbing exhibition here and were returning to San Angelo.

He is survived by the widow, two sons, a daughter.

Mr. Flowers was a former service man and served in both the punitive expedition into Mexico and in France. He had been employed by S. L. Ogle in a planing mill at San Angelo.

Santa Anna vs. Brownwood

Last Friday (at Santa Anna) the Mountaineers took the Lions (Cubs) to a good cleaning.

When the cubs arrived, naturally they expected victory in a big way, but the Mountaineers were all riled up from their previous game with Brownwood high, so they dashed madly into them, carrying Santa Anna to victory.

Meyers kicked off for Santa Anna, for 30 yards. Brownwood did nothing more than stop the ball. Brownwood tried to pass over center but was incomplete. They tried a fast one around left end but were stopped on the line of scrimmage.

Brownwood punted the ball out of bounds, 25 yards down the field.

Santa Anna, started the ball to moving with Red Harrod around left end for 5 yards.

Election Of The Mountaineer Staff

Mr. Lock and Mr. Scarborough decided, after careful consideration, that the Editor-in-chief of the Mountaineer should be elected by the Senior class this year and that this example should serve as a precedent for succeeding years.

Frances Louise Adams, former assistant Editor was elected as Editor-in-chief for this year. The junior class selected Mildred Boardman to serve as assistant Editor. The student body, composed of all four classes, elected Jesse Goen the Sports Editor and Thelma Lowe as the Joke Editor. The four classes have reporters to represent them.

With this selection of officers the Mountaineer should be unusually good this year.

Pep Squad Elects Officers For 1931-'32

The Santa Anna High Pep Squad, generally known as the Mountaineer Boosters met for the first time, Thursday at noon in the auditorium with about eighty girls enrolling as members.

After a number of yells and songs the following were elected as officers:

Pep Leader, Hettie Fae Todd; Assistant pep leader, Louise Wilsford; Business Manager, Frances Jones; Reporter, Frances Louise Adams.

The girls have more pep and enthusiasm this year than ever before and each of them is looking forward to the Santa Anna-Coleman game, when "That good old Mountaineer Line" shows its mighty strength and bull-dog tenacity. They'll give those Cats something to "meow" about! Yea, Mountaineers! Yea, Pep Squad!

Freshmen!

Freshmen are queer beings, so they're told. They enter high school with no boastful experience, are called "slimes," "fish," and other names, yet, they do not mind at all. There is a great advantage in having upperclassmen as models—to copy and avoid.

The present Freshman class is proud of its grammar school record. Since no "great things" are expected of them this year, they hope to continue the policy of being sincere co-operative students who will let the honor roll speak for them. Come on Freshmen, make that Honor Roll!

Freshmen Elect Class Officers

Thursday, September 18, the Freshmen elected their class officers. Holland Cheaney, president; Leon Du Bols, vice-president; Beth Barnes, secretary; and Bess Inez Shield, reporter, for the class and the Mountaineer staff. We did not elect a treasurer for we did not need one.

We are happy to announce that our class has fifty-five members and we are expecting more when the cotton season is over. Hurry and join us, a welcome awaits you.

WORK

"I work always, I ponder things deeply. If I seem always ready to reply to anything, to confront anything, I have thought it over for a long time; I have foreseen everything that can happen. The University Of The Heart

The following is an extract from a sermon by Edward Waits, President of Texas Christian University, on "The University of The Heart."

"The University of the Heart must always have a fourth dimension. This may be represented by the unbreakable ties, friendship, mutual responsibility.

Victor Hugo, says somewhere the most powerful thing in the universe is an idea whose hour has come.

There are two attitudes men may take toward life. One is represented by Hamlet. "The world is out of joint. Oh wretched spite that I was ever born to set it right." The other is that of Rupert Brooke: "Now God be thankful who has matched us with His hour.

And caught our youth and wakened us from sleeping;

With sure hand, clear eye, and sharpened power,

We turn as swimmers into cleanliness leaping."

From the red tape of duty, let us come into the privilege of love bare anatomy of righteousness. Duty is paying assessments; love is constantly counting premiums. Duty is forced like a pump; love is spontaneous like a fountain. It is a good enough beginning but a poor finality. The boy on the burning deck committed suicide on a technical point. So with the Roman soldier in Pompeii. There must be duty and love to make a really heroic character."

A New Students' Thoughts on Entering S. A. H. S.

On entering Santa Anna High my thoughts were numerous. Where shall I go, what shall I do whom shall I meet, will I like them, will they like me?"

It took me only a few days to answer these questions. I learned where to go, and what to do, I also learned that if you have nothing to do report to Mrs. Scarborough and she will put you to work if it is nothing but remembering dates on reading poems.

I soon met most of the Seniors which gave each new student a sunny smile and a hearty welcome, although the sponsor,

Mrs. Bartlett had to encourage them to do so, for some of them were quite bashful at first.

The students that are not asleep in the study hall the fifth period are wishing they were and Mrs. Pieratt has to walk by and rap the sleeping students on the head with a pencil to remind them that there is still such a thing as school.

The Spanish teacher, Miss Land, is very sympathetic. She extended her sympathy to certain students in a way which was very original.

Each of the students have extended to the new students a hearty welcome, so if you wish to come to a school where you'll receive a welcome, come to Santa Anna, but please come prepared to study.—A "New" Senior

"Why My Next Car will be A FORD"

WHEN you buy a Ford there are two things you never have to worry about. One is reliability. The other is long life.

Here's an interesting letter from a Ford owner in North Carolina:

"My Ford was purchased May 8, 1928, and has been run 121,767 miles. It has never stopped on the road for repairs of any kind whatsoever except punctures.

"The brakes were relined at 101,000 miles. My gas mileage averaged 21 miles to the gallon, and on tires, 19,000 miles per tire. I travel over all kinds of road conditions—mountainous and flat.

"I consider this a wonderful record and I assure you my next car will also be a Ford."

This is just one of many tributes to the reliability and long life of the Ford. A Ford owner in Iowa tells of driving his Ford 73,000 miles in a single year. Another writes of 120,000 miles of good service.

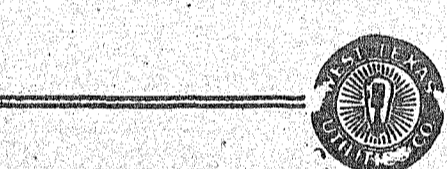

Think ahead when you are considering the purchase of an automobile and consider what it will be like after thousands of miles of driving. Will you still be satisfied? Will you still say "it's a great car"?

If it's a Ford, you know everything will be O. K. It will be taking you there and back in good style, just as it has always done. And you will have saved many important, worth-while dollars in cost of operation and up-keep and low yearly depreciation.

Final Installment

"I have thought it over. I've been thinking it over since that night in Cheyenne—the first time we had to show the certificate. We don't have to show any certificates here. We're as free as the birds and the flowers."

"Back and Ruff will expect us in tonight. They won't like it."

"They're not expecting us. I wired them two days ago that we wouldn't be home until Monday."

"Are—we going to stay here—until Monday?"

"We are," said Peter firmly.

"Peter, Peter," said Rowena, "be careful, oh be careful if you do this—it will give me a grand chance to be mean to you—if I want to. I can make it hard for you to get a divorce—I can get alimony—"

"It'll be worth it," said Peter grimly. "Besides," he added smiling, "even when you are Mrs. Peter Blande in fact, at heart you will still be just Rowena Rosand. You are immortal."

Rowena did a strange thing. She clasped both her hands tightly over Peter's arm and looked up into his face—deep, deep into his eyes—searchingly, for a long time and did not speak. Peter's fell at last before the intensity of her silent gaze but there was no diminution of purpose in his manner.

"And you ought to know by this time that when I make up my mind it's made," he said doggedly. "So you needn't try to talk me out of it."

"I'm not going to try," said Rowena faintly.

He helped her out of the rumble and cautioned her to be careful of the rocky path up the hill.

"It's easy to get a twisted ankle here," he said.

He even asked her to help carry his bundle up from the car and filled her arms with them. At the foot of the steps that led to the wide unroofed piazza, he kicked over a stone and produced a big brass key that lay beneath.

"Look at this," he said. "The cabin's a sort of open house for everybody and his friend, and the key bears the household motto. 'Come easy—go easy—see?'"

"Appropriate to week-end honeymooners, like us," she said quietly.

"You would say that," said Peter. "I assure you, that was not the idea back of it."

The cottage which consisted of but one immense room and a huge screened bath, with miniature kitchenette was roughly finished with heavy oaken beams. There was a great fireplace of natural stone and running end to end from it on both sides were studio couches against the wall, comprising three full sides of the cottage.

Water was supplied by a windmill among the rocks higher up the hill, and Peter invited Rowena up with him to witness the ceremony of chaining the wind.

"It's our one servant up here," he said. "Loosing the windmill is one of the real events of coming up. When there is a crowd they do it with great procession, with incense and incantations. But our minds are on other things tonight so we won't bother."

Rowena followed him down the steep rocky path to the cabin. "Been here often?" she asked casually.

"Yes," Peter was laying a fire in the grate.

"Were you here with crowds—or just—alone?"

"Both."

Rowena walked about the cabin ruffling her bronze-bright hair with both hands. She looked at the pictures—the autographs—the candlesticks—the incense burners.

"Belongs to a woman, doesn't it, Peter?"

Peter was opening up his bundles and putting the food supplies in their proper compartments.

"Do you think she'll like your bringing another—woman—here?"

"I don't care whether she does or not."

Rowena threw off her air of quiet moodiness. She rolled up the sleeves of her blouse and asked for a job.

"You can put the rolls in the oven," said Peter. "And you may as well get as much fun out of things as you can. There's no use to try to get away. You can't."

"I'm not going to try," she said.

Peter pressed the button that started the electric refrigerator pulled out the drop leaf table and measured four cups of water into the tea-kettle.

"I hope you're hungry," he said. "We're eating camp rations tonight. Tomorrow I'll show you some good country cooking for I'm really the cabin's star chef. But tonight my mind's on other things and I don't want to be bothered. Our fare will be quick and rough, and it will require an appetite to enjoy it."

"I'm just ravenous," said Rowena politely, although knowing very well that the smallest crumb would catch in her throat.

Peter measured four tablespoonfuls of coffee into the pot and poured boiling water over it to drip. Then he set the table with silverware of sorts and paper plates—"We never wash anything but silver and pans up here," he explained, "and toss a coin to see who has to do it."

He laid slices of cold roast beef, and liverwurst, potato salad, crackers and cheese. Then he opened a can of soup, adding an equal portion of water according to directions on the can.

"You see when I think of providing for you as a good husband should," he said, "I can't get away from soup and crackers and cheese. The cheese trust ought to give you a discount, I wonder you haven't got a band of mice following you about. What a Pled Piper you'd be for Hamlin!"

Rowena laughed tolerantly. "Cheese is very good for one," she said.

Peter opened up a bottle of horse radish, put salt and pepper on the table and sugar cursing softly because he had forgotten cream for the coffee. Then he filled a great bowl with fresh fruit for a center piece with candlesticks around it.

"Here you are, Mrs. Blande," he said jauntily, and held a chair for her.

Rowena sank down, a little breathless, rather pale.

Just the barest fraction of an instant Peter hesitated. Then he lifted her face with a very determined forefinger—and touched his lips to hers, faintly, almost timidly at first and then with stubbornly rising courage crushed them roughly.

It was with quite an air of bravado that he went to his own chair opposite, but his face was flushed and his eyes did not meet hers.

Rowena threw off her nervousness in forced laughter.

"Oh, Pumpkin Eater," she said gaily, though her voice was that of one who has too little breath for a torrent of tumbling words, "fancy all this furor after three solid months of marriage."

"You won't be laughing about it three days from now" he said grimly.

"Oh, maybe I will," she said cheerfully. "I'm one of the grandest little laughers you ever saw in your life."

He smiled at her suddenly. "Yes you are, I'll say that for you. You are just great about—things like that."

Deftly he served a portion of salad and meat on a paper plate for her and poured the coffee.

"Sorry to have nothing better than canned cow for your wedding-night," he said.

"Oh, I adore canned cow. I always ask for it at all weddings."

She was glad to have the coffee and drank it steaming hot although it scorched her throat. But she could not eat.

"Why don't you eat, Rowena?" he demanded.

"I'm not hungry."

"You're not nervous, I hope—not frightened, or anything."

"Not in the least. I'm just not hungry."

"Why aren't you hungry? You haven't had anything to eat for hours," he persisted stubbornly. I never have much appetite, Peter. You know I never eat much."

But you haven't eaten anything. You usually eat something. You didn't even eat your adored soup. You're not sick, are you?"

"No." She smiled at him, the friendly warm smile that was generally Rowena. "I think may be it's because I feel so sorry for you, Peter."

Hard Times And Matrimony

From all over the country we get reports that there are more people getting married than there have been for a long time. Naturally, there are exactly as many women as there are men going in at this time for this justly famous experiment.

Some of the people who have noticed the increase in marriage license wonder how these young people have the courage to take the jump when jobs are scarce and none too secure. But we think the answer is to be found in the old saying that two can live as cheaply as one. That isn't literally true, but it certainly is true that if both will do their share two people can live together more economically than the two of them can live separately.

We have been told of several cases where the young man lost his job and the girl kept hers. They had been engaged for some time but were waiting to get more of a stake together before hitting up. Perhaps they might have kept on waiting for years had not fate, in the shape of hard times intervened. And in a great many cases, we are sure, marriage has been hastened because the young woman is out of work and no longer feels the sense of independence which she had when her pay envelope came along every Saturday.

On the whole, we think this getting married when hard times are hard is a good thing. We were beginning to fear that matrimony was going out of fashion. It is a long time since we had heard a man under forty boast that he had nothing but a fifteen dollar a week job and enough cash for the parson's fee and the first installment on the furniture when he and the girl teamed up for life. But we know many men of the older generation who give all the credit for their success in life to the fact that they married young and poor, and had to hold their noses right down tight on the grindstone while they were still young enough to acquire the habit of hard work.

For awhile it seemed as if work, too, were going out of fashion. There are not many youngsters complaining because they have to do something for their pay as there were a couple of years ago. Work is not something to be ashamed of any more. And we don't know of anything so well calculated to make a useful working citizen out of a young man—or a young woman, either—than to get married at a time when work is scarce and those who want to hold their jobs have to do a lot of it.

This Woman Lost 64 Pounds of Fat

Mrs. H. Price of Woodside, L. I., writes: "A year ago I weighed 190 lbs. I started to take Kruschen and now I weigh 126 and never felt better in my life and what's more, I look more like 20 years old than the mother of 2 children, one 19 and the other 18. Every one of my friends say it's marvelous the way I reduced."

To lose fat with speed take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—don't miss a morning—an 85 cent bottle lasts 4 weeks—get it at Turners Drug Store or any drug store in America. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

Selection of School Emblem

Santa Anna High School has had its school colors which have been displayed on many occasions for a number of years. It was not until last Friday that the school had an official emblem.

During the chapel period Friday morning of last week, Mr. Lock discussed with the students three possible emblems: A goat's head, a ram's head and a stalwart man holding rifle and wearing leather clothing and a coonskin cap. The student body was practically unanimous in the selection of the man, a typical mountaineer, as the school emblem.

Sometime in the future the students will be wearing the selected emblem on their sweaters and pep squad suits.

Old Gardener Says: THE autumn flowering crocus which are very much like the spring crocuses but bloom late in the year, come into flower only a few weeks after they have been planted. They are choice subject for the rock garden but may be scattered through the border, too. These autumn flowering crocus are often confused with other autumn flowering bulbs called colchicums but the latter have very much larger leaves, and for that reason are not as well suited for the rock garden because the heavy foliage interferes with more delicate rock plants. Colchicums, however, are very handsome in the border. (Copyright)—WNU Service.

NUTTY NATURAL HISTORY

THE SIAMESE DINGLEWOP

In the early spring these animals are covered with long brilliant stripes which by summer are worn off by porcupines and wild pheasants. They eat ham and eggs and jellyroll, and if hungry will eat both hard tack and soft tack. The female dinglewop is quite ferocious and will attack anything from a Burmese Jew to a white elephant. You guessed it. Its head is nothing but an old English walnut and a double peanut for a body. Chewing gum sticks on the toothpick neck, and its toothpick legs have raisin feet. Stripes and eyes are pen and ink or paint or any old thing.

The Unanswered Letter

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

(Suggested by G. M. Springfield, Mass.)

THE mailman comes, the mailman goes,
The postman passes by,
And some one only can suppose,
And wait, and wonder why,
Today no letter, and tonight
A silence hard to bear,
We wonder if they cannot write,
Or simply do not care?

The little note is laid aside,
The letter put aside,
Yet some one hoped to hear today,
An answering voice denied,
You may be busy, well, we know
So many things you're at,
You may be busy—are you, though
As busy as all that?

Oh, keep the tree of friendship green
When friends are far apart,
How much a word of yours may mean,
To cheer some absent heart!
The rose unwaters droops and dies,
Yes, dies in some sad hour;
The letter that unwaters lies,
Is love's unwatersed flower.

left end for 15 yards, being led by good interference. Walthall then tried to plunge over center but was stopped on the line of scrimmage. Red takes the ball again for 2 yards over left tackle. "Bull" Fletcher tries his luck at a line plunge, making 2 yards. Walthall took an incomplete pass to Wheeler over left end. Brownwood took the ball again and made 10 yards around left end before they came in contact with that driving power of "Bull" Fletcher. They tried a couple of incomplete passes and then punted the ball out of bounds, 20 yards down the field.

Ward gives the Mountaineers another lift of 10 yards around right end. Red gives us another lift of 10 yards over left guard. Red gives us another lift of 10 yards over left guard. Bull tried it over left tackle but was stopped on the line of scrimmage. Ball went over to Brownwood and they took it over center for five yards. They then took it for 5 yards around right end until "Bull" taps them gently like a locomotive.

Brownwood punted the ball for 20 yards. Walthall returned it for 10 yards, fumbled and lost the ball back to Brownwood. Brownwood punts: Blocked by Meyers, No. gain. Red struts his stuff again with 5 yards over left tackle. Walthall took the ball but couldn't decide which way to go with it. Before he fully made up his mind, Brownwood hit him and caused him to loose 2 yards. He made that up in the next play by completing a 25 yard pass to Wheeler.

The next four plays at the rate of speed that they were played would have killed the vitality of any ordinary man, but not "Bull" Fletcher. "Bull" took it over center for 5 yards. Then before your pulse could beat twice he was over left guard for two more yards. He was just getting warmed up, so he dashed madly over center, bringing the ball within one foot of our goal line. By this time he was bubbling over with energy, so he plunged right through center for the first touchdown of the day.

The first half of the game was played 6-0 in favor of Santa Anna.

Second Half

Brownwood kicked off for 12 yards at the beginning of the second half. Walthall tried an incomplete pass to Wheeler over right end. Walthall took the ball from right half and dashes. The Mountaineers played ball like some farmers farm. When they can make a little on one thing, they keep it up until they run it into the ground, so Red

Sets a Fast Pace

Edward Kettwitz, 57. Grant County farmer of South Dakota, ate thirty-seven ears of sweet corn in 1 hour and 45 minutes. He admits he could have eaten more only he had corn for dinner two hours earlier.

A Healthy Appetite

Governor Roosevelt was forced to eat a New York peach at the State Fair. It's a tough life being a cackfor 20 yards around right end. Red tried it over center but made no showing. Now that the others have had their say, "Bull" Fletcher appeared on the scene to show them how to make a hole in that line, so he dashed through for 3 yards. Walthall completed a 30 yard pass to Wheeler, the latter making a most sensational catch. Walthall tried his skill at passing again, so he completes a 20 yard pass to Wheeler lost 10 yards on a fake punt play. Walthall tried an incomplete pass to Wheeler for 15 yards. Brownwood took possession of the ball again but makes no showing on their first play and a loss of about 3 yards on their next. They decided that there was no use trying anything but their old standby, so they punted for 10 yards.

Ward took the ball around right end for 20 yards. Walthall tried another incomplete pass to Wheeler for 20 yards. Brownwood again took the ball and tried a pass over tackle that is intercepted by "Red."

When these Mountaineers get "all hot up" they don't believe in letting the grass grow under their feet, so Ward, makes a sensational run of 35 yards, while Walthall makes a run immediately afterward of 20 yards.

At the end of the first quarter in the second half, our old hard-headed center (Jesse Lee Sparkman) displaced Rankin McIver at left end. "Bull" took the ball over center for 10 yards but on his plunge for the touchdown he fumbled and lost the ball on our goal line. We can't hold a little thing like that against one of the best players on the team.

Brownwood punted but Meyers is just a little too fast for them. He dashed across the goal line and blocked the punt, causing it to roll past our goal post. But due to the fact that Meyers was across the goal line when he blocked it was called a safety instead of a touchdown, which counts 2 points. Our old full back (Bull Fletcher) ran the score up 6 more points by plowing over left guard for another touchdown.

Two Examples Disproving Proverb "Three's a Crowd"

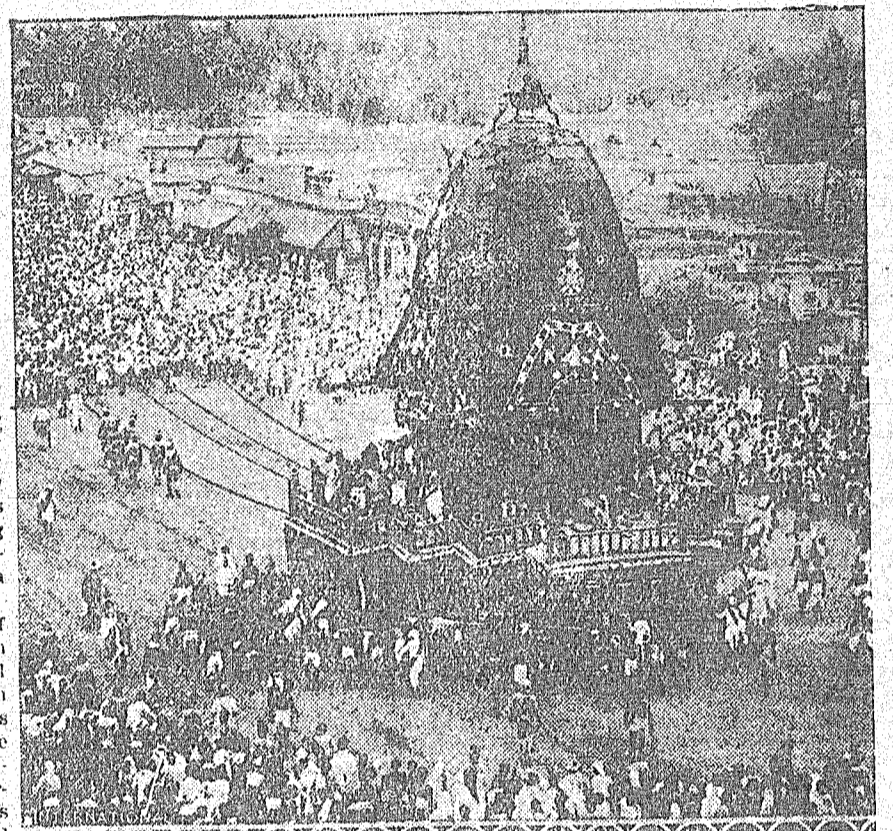

Advocates of race suicide will have a bad time looking over the above groups. One shows Mrs. Rose Unger, of Philadelphia, with her three daughters, Lillian, Selma and Kathryn, each 8 years old. The other mother is Coronation King's Rose, a blueblood of Jerseys, with her triplets, born on the estate of George D. Widener, Chestnut Hill Farms, Pa. Two of the calves are males.

Car of Juggernaut Still Rolls in Puri, India

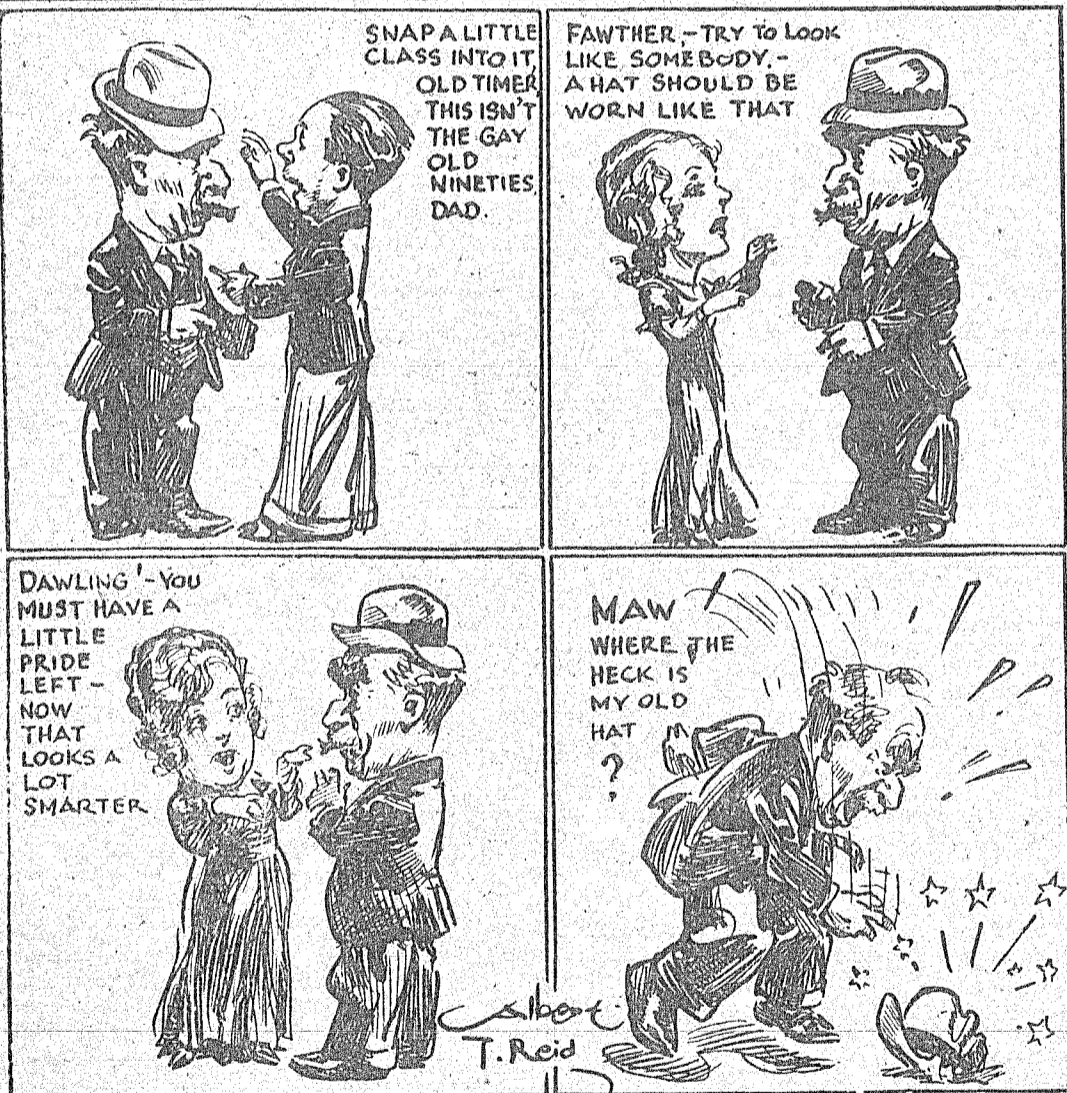

FOR centuries most people believed the legend that when the Car of Juggernaut (more correctly Jagannath) was drawn through the streets of Puri, India, devotees threw themselves in front of it to be crushed by its wheels. In these times we know this is false, for the idol within the car is believed to contain the bones of Krishna, the eighth avatar of Vishnu, and to possess a soul, and any death within the god's temple or the spilling of blood in his presence is considered a defilement.

Many thousands of pilgrims gather in Puri for the annual Hindu festival when the ancient car is brought forth and the ceremonies are so impressive and picturesque that numerous tourists are attracted to the city, which is in Orissa on the seacoast. This year the festival was especially significant for it celebrated the "Nua Kalebhar" or "God's renovation of the body." Jagannath has a magnificent temple in Puri, and is exposed to view three days each year. On the first day the god is publicly bathed. Ten days later he is drawn in the massive and ornately decorated car to a neighboring temple, and this ceremony, here photographed, is the chief event. One week later Jagannath is conveyed back to his own temple. The Hindus regard Jagannath as the god of all people and pay him the deepest reverence.

Virginia Beach Office Hours on Hot Days

WHEN members of office staffs of various businesses of Virginia Beach, Va., started complaining about the heat, executives of the concerns were struck by a brilliant idea. So the next day they quietly moved their entire staffs, including desks, typewriters, files, phones, etc., right down to the water's edge. Proper apparel for employees and employers is, of course, a bathing suit.

ROWENA RIDES THE BUMBLE

"Mmmmm," he murmured indistinguishably.

"Who—whose cabin is it?" He laughed softly. "Do—do you care?"

Unconsciously she stiffened a little in his arms, her quivering lips grew firm. But she pressed more closely into the curve of his arm.

"No," she said firmly. "It's my mother's," he said. "She likes this sort of thing."

Rowena relaxed and laughed a little, tremulously. And the throbbing silence unfolded them warmly.

After a long while—"Peter," she said again.

"Mmmmmmm."

"It's the third and last warning. —You'd better take me to town—take me right away quick—as fast as ever you can—"

"It's too late now."

"Too late is better than—never," she said. "And pretty soon it will be never." Unconsciously their voices had fallen to whispers. "It's never really too late—until it really is—too late," she added enigmatically. "Peter—believe me—you'd better—"

Again he laughed softly. "Why, Rowena, why?—You are my wife—"

"Because, if you don't—I warn you, Peter!—I'll never let you go again—never—as long as you live—and it will be too late for ever."

Even against the straining of her arms about him she wondered breathlessly if he would rise up at that and go away. But of course he didn't. He laughed again, an odd pleased laugh, and pressed his lips to her fragrant hair.

And Constantine murmured quiet contentment at their feet.

War Clouds Are Disappearing

It really looks as if the war-clouds which has hung over the world ever since the Armistice were clearing away. For the first time since the early days of the last century, France and Germany are making friendly gestures toward each other. The French people are beginning to realize that the old days of Imperial ambition are a thing of the past in Germany, that the German people actually do control their own government, and they are just as human and peace-loving as the French themselves. And the Germans seem to be beginning to understand that France has been keeping up her big army, and building her line of frontier forts because she has had solid grounds for fear of an invasion from beyond the Rhine at any moment. It has happened to her four times in a hundred years, and that's enough to make any nation nervous.

Whether anything will come of the latest proposal before the League of Nations, to put all the armaments and military and naval forces of all nations in the League under the control of the League itself, we are not sufficiently informed to guess. But on the face of it, it sounds as if even the serious entertainment of such a proposal is an indication that the war-like spirit no longer rules Europe and threatens the rest of the world.

RIDER JUMPS AUTOBILIE FOR "FLYING LARIATS"

Bonnie Gray, brilliant horse-woman, world-renowned stunt rider and all-round athlete, jumps her prize horse, King Tut, over a large Cadillac car in the Big 4 Western, "Flying Lariats" which will bound upon the screen of the Queen Theatre tonight.

Bonnie who takes her horse over the car with an ease which thrills and delights audiences, twice won the trophy cup as the best woman athlete of the University of Idaho, where she graduated, the Hays Tennis Trophy Cup and the remarkable record for the running high jump of five feet four inches, as well as whole armfuls of trophies and medals!

Miss Gray has the leading female role in "Flying Lariats" which stars Wally Wales and features Buzz Barton. In addition there is Sam Garrett, also a champion rodeo star, with direction by David Kirkland.

MODERNISTIC SETS ARE FEATURED IN NEW FILM "SEED"

The latest innovations in architecture and furnishings are shown in "Seed" Universal's absorbing problem drama which opens an engagement at the Queen Theatre, Sunday.

The apartment of Genevieve Tobin, who plays the leading feminine role in the picture, is Girls' Roman Sandals and Roman Ties 8s to 2s. Now --- $1.95 Gehrett Drygoods Company.

One lot of Men's shirts $1.95 to $2.50 values. Now --- $1.50 Gehrett Drygoods Company.

especially noteworthy in this respect, and the modernistic furnishings reveal a new note in interior decoration which is literally far in advance of the times.

Contrasted with this is the home of John Boles and Lois Wilson, who are cast as husband and wife, and the parents of a large family of children. This home, while modern, partakes of the present-day scheme of decoration and furnishings, and well illustrates the marked difference which has already begun to be noted in those dwellings which follow the more modernistic trend.

"Seed" was adapted from Charles G. Norris' best-selling novel of the same name, and tells an absorbing story of "the eternal triangle," bringing at last, the most startling denouement in the history of problem dramas. The picture was directed by John M. Stahl, and the cast in addition to Boles, Miss Tobin and Miss Wilson, include Raymond Hackett, Bette Davis, Zasu Pitts, Frances Dade, and Richard Tucker.

FIRST SCREEN KISS OCCUPIED FORTY FEET OF FILM

The niceties of the art of osculation as demonstrated in "God's Gift To Women," the Warner Bros. French farce starring Frank Fay, showing at the Queen Theatre Wednesday and Thursday of next week, bring up the not uninteresting subject of the evolution of the screen kiss.

The first screen kiss was a forty-foot piece of film starring May Irwin and John Rice, in a scene from their stage play, "The Widow Jones." The picture was first shown at Coster and Beal's Music Hall, thirty-five years ago. May was the stren of her day, buxom, curving, her yellow hair not streaming down her back, but brushed back in a high pompadour from her round face. "The Widow Jones" was on the lookout for a "flame," a traveling salesman preferably. Johnny Rice was the boy—mustachiod black-eyed, fascinating, and what a villain!

The big moment of the picture was that in which the widow yielded to the stranger's embrace. It was that embrace and the long soul-kiss which made the red-hot movie of the day—the one that Thomas Edison had the good box-office sense to film at West Orange, N. J. at the staggering cost of $607.61.

Then came the two-reeler with Mary Pickford as the ragged country lass and Harold Lockwood as the honest but dithering country lad in the tight checkered suit. Audiences of that day literally rolled out of their seats at the love scenes and kisses of Flora Finch and John Bunny.

"Now comes Frank Fay as the 1932 model lover who believes himself to be "God's Gift to Women," and makes them think so, too. Fay is a screen lover who lives up to the hilt the technique of the day-after-tomorrow. Funny as a barrel of monkeys, too. Many screen beauties of the day
