Farm Needs Filled Fully At Western Grain And Seed

Farmers who want to make one trip do will find Joe's Food Store and Western Grain & Seed Co. at 608 NE 2nd street the answer to the riddle.

Located conveniently for those who bring cotton to the city's "gin belt," the concerns, located under a single roof, have in stock most items that the farmer will normally need.

The food store carries complete lines of staple and fancy grocery items, has a complete meat department and has eggs, butter, etc. The feed store has rations suitable for any farm animal with the mixtures properly balanced for minerals and protein content.

J. B. Stevenson, who operates the concerns, stressed the importance of feeding a proven laying mash now in order to insure a maximum autumn egg production. And while the feed store has the thing to boost production, the food store is a ready market at all times for eggs. Stevenson is a heavy buyer of eggs and is prepared to handle an even heavier volume this season.

Another timely development at the food store is the booking of a truck load of good apples for delivery this week. Sound offerings from the New Mexico mountain country, these will be sold in bushel lots. They will be, said Stevenson, ideal for canning purposes.

Speaking of canning, Joe's Food Store still carries a good stock of canning supplies even after a tremendous run all during the summer season.

Now that cotton picking season is coming on, cotton pickers will find an ample supply of cotton sacks available at Joe's. Owing to the shortage of ducking, sacks have been difficult to secure in some quarters.

Thus, with a few of these items in mind, it is easily seen how "one trip will do" when farmers bring their cotton into gin this fall if they trade at Joe's.

Roofing Company—One of the major firms of its type in West Texas is the Underwood Roofing company, located at 302 Lancaster and pictured here. It is owned and operated by J. E. Underwood who has established an outstanding reputation in roof construction and repair, during the nine years of operation here. With limitations of wartime on construction materials, Underwood stresses the importance of keeping roofs in good repair, so that whole structures are properly protected. (Kelsey Photo).

Regular Prices Are Maintained On Darby Bakery Products

"Even though the materials used in the baking of bread have advanced in price, we are still maintaining our regular bread price, anxious for our customers to know that despite adjustments which we must make as time goes on, we are grateful for their purchases of Darby's Saily Ann Bread," stated Albert S. Darby, who has operated Darby's bakery here for the past eight years.

Darby came to Big Spring in 1938 from Quanah when he foresaw an opening for such a business in this area.

For the enjoyment of its customers, the bakery sponsors a radio program "Albums of Familiar Music" over KBST every morning at 11:30 o'clock.

The bakery concentrates its services to Big Spring and surrounding territories, rather than long distance hauls, and even though Darby specializes in pastries and bread service, he explained that due to food rationing, pastry service has proved to be of little profit. The service is still maintained for local coffee shops and restaurants nevertheless.

Darby stated that after the war the bakery will be back with all former services. "At present we want to extend our appreciation to our customers for their continued patronage," he stated.

"Probably the best news which has reached bakers recently is the fact that the new wheat crop has produced a better quality of flour, thus helping the flavor and texture of bread," Darby concluded.

Officials Advanced In Dr. Pepper Co.

Dr. Pepper Comp. y, Dallas, announces the election of J. B. O'Hara, as chairman of the board, and Don C. Bryan to succeed him as president.

O'Hara has been president since 1933; prior to that, as executive vice-president and general manager. Bryan has been executive vice-president since September, 1941. The move is in keeping with the growth of the business and the multiplied executive responsibilities.

The business was founded at Waco in 1885 by the late R. S. Lazenby, who perfected the Dr. Pepper formula. It had achieved no more than local or sectional fame until 1924, when O'Hara succeeded to the management. He was the first to seriously exploit a soft drink in the food category, deserving a legitimate place in the daily diet as a between-meals beverage.

Equipment Repair Featured At George Oldham Company

A large part of the implement business, growing steadily since the war, is the tractor and truck overhaul service. Farmers, unable to get new tractors and tractors, are overhauling and repairing present equipment.

Oldham urged that farmers bring their tractors and trucks into the shop as soon as their crops are laid by in order that their equipment can be gotten in number one shape and ready for the next crop.

The company, like other dealers, sometimes has trouble getting quick response for parts and essential items and man power shortage has reduced the number of mechanics to only three men. By getting tractors into the shop early and repaired during slack season, the farmers help themselves as well as the shop.

The company has a number of peanut pickers on hand now, including both the Liverman and Turner machines. Oldham pointed out that he offers liberal terms on both types of peanut pickers. Farmers, raising peanuts for the first time in many instances in Howard county, are urged to investigate the machinery.

In addition the Oldham company carries steel goods, fence stretchers, insecticides, oils and greases, oil filters and cartridges, cans of oil, spark plugs, and many machine parts.

Texas Harvest Shows Progress For Week

AUSTIN, Sept. 23. (AP)—Texas harvest operations made good progress in the week ended Sept. 19 except in the coastal area where squally weather set back somewhat the gathering of rice and cotton crops.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported that drought continued unbroken in the high plains, the low rolling plains and cross timbers. A few counties in the extreme high plains had sufficient moisture for wheat seeding but generally the area was very dry.

Moisture was received in part of the Edwards plateau area, south central, south and coastal counties but only local rains were received in other sections.

Cotton harvest was practically completed in south central Texas, and stalks were being destroyed in south Texas. Peak operations were passed in central and east Texas, and most of the crop was open and ready for pickers in the low rolling plains. Harvest was getting well started in the south high plains.

The large rice crop escaped the serious damage expected from the tropical storm that threatened the Texas coast. Local and heavy rains caused limited damage to matured crops, and delayed harvest.

Peanut harvest continued through the week, although harvesting was delayed in many areas because of local showers, and a scarcity of labor. Harvest was not yet at a peak in north central areas, but was generally under way. Yields continued light with some acreage being only.

Corn was being gathered but much of the crop is out of the way, except for the northwest area, harvest of corn, sorghums and hay crops was nearing completion.

Fall crop commercial vegetable areas continued to improve, particularly lower valley where additional rains were received.

HONEST PEDDLER—With disarming frankness, a fruit vendor in Sydney, Australia, took prospective customers into his confidence regarding his enforced absence. His sign, left on the top of his barrow, tells the story.

Seed beds were in good condition and setting of plants to the fields was started. Transplanted crops in the winter garden, usually the earliest to come into production, made good progress and seeding of some early winter vegetables got started. Onion seed beds were being planted in most sections. Tomatoes started blooming in the earliest districts and temperatures were fairly favorable for a set to hold.

Pastures and range feeds were generally good in the southwest part of the state. Conditions in the south Texas district and in some counties in the central and west central districts were improved by rains. Range feeds and the wheat pasture outlook on the high plains were spotted, with only a few counties having wheat up.

Drought conditions still prevail through the cross timbers and low rolling plains areas, trans-Pecos, and parts of north and northeast Texas. Livestock were in generally good condition except in the more severe drought sections of the above moisture deficit area. Cattle receipts at some markets were increasing, but movement from parts of the state was rather slow.

From every vantage point about the shipyard the thousands of safety-helmeted workers listen in silence to the dedicatory address . . . The champagne bottle crashes on the bow, the band strikes up a martial air, a great cheer surges up from the crowd as the sleek ship slides down the ways . . .

MASS assembly lines, plus sustained energy and determination are rolling ships off the ways these days in an endless procession that is monotonous only to the Axis.

Oil and ships are close partners in today's battle for the supremacy of the seas. From stem to stern, from crow's nest to keel, petroleum serves in many ways. As fuel and lubricant for the mighty engines, as a base for non-corrosive greases for deck machinery, as an essential ingredient of marine paints and rust preventives, and as lubricants for the launching ways, petroleum and its products work for victory.

Humble-Penola Launching Lubricants serve at one of the most critical moments of a ship's life. They have smoothed the ways for a great many of the fighting and merchant vessels that form our bridge of ships to the global battle fronts.

Launching Lubricants are only a part of the long list of Humble's petroleum war products, a list that includes 100-octane aviation gasoline, Toluene for T.N.T., Aviation engine oils and stratosphere greases, rust preventives, Navy fuels and lubricants, and soon will include synthetic rubber for military uses. Humble's war products are the result of the same ceaseless research and engineering skill that give you Esso and Humble gasoline and Esso, 997 and Velvet Motor Oil for your car and which holds bright promise for even better petroleum products for the days of peace that are to come.

HUMBLE PRODUCTS FOR THE MACHINES OF WAR: Asphalt, Aviation Gasolines and Aviation Engine Oils, Camouflage Paints, Diesel Fuels, Engine Oils, Univis Instrument Oils, Marine Paints, Navy Symbol Lubricants, Racol Oils, Rust-Ban Protective Coatings, Stratosphere Greases, Toluene, Torpedo Greases, Waxes, Waterproof Lubricants, and soon, Synthetic Rubber for military uses. FOR THE MACHINES OF INDUSTRY: Automotive Lubricants, Cutting Fluids, Cleaners, Diesel Fuels, Gasolines, Industrial Lubricants, Launching Lubricants, Motor Oils, Paints, Petroleum Solvents, Quenching Oils, Rust Preventives, Waxes. FOR YOUR CAR: Products and service to help you care for your car for your country.

Nazis Use Norway For Training Army

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP)—Norwegian intelligence officers, piecing together reports from their homeland, concluded today that the Germans instead of pulling out of Norway, are using the country as a training ground for 10 divisions always maintained there and are working at a faster pace than ever in building defenses.
 Projects against invasion in the area stretching from Trondheim, on the west coast, far to the northeast of Krikness on the Bar-ents sea are receiving particular attention from the nazis.

Advertisers Will Aid Anti-Inflation

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—Ad-vertisers will use thousands of newspaper advertisements in De-cember to aid the government in its anti-inflation campaign, T. S. Reppeler, of Washington, general manager of the war advertising council, told the insurance adver-tising conference at the Hotel Roosevelt yesterday.
 Reppeler said that as one of the 41 campaigns being assisted by the war advertising council, the anti-inflation drive would profit from 100 per cent backing of private in-dustry in selling the government's plan.

The Broom is at the Mast

"A CLEAN SWEEP"
 Early naval tradition gave a special place to the broom—up at the mast-head. When battles were over, custom dictated an inverted broom be thus hung so the faithful on land might know "a clean sweep" of the seas had been made.

Through the daring and perfection of our armed forces, the seas surrounding coffee producing areas have been swept clean of Axis U-boats. Thus it is possible once again to enjoy unrestricted use of the world's most delicious beverage.

Admiration

Admiration's traditional freshness isn't accidental. Thermal-Roasting retains flavor, aroma and richness. Scientifically designed Admiration containers then seal in and preserve all this goodness—until you're ready to release it into your cup.

Negress Helps In War Bond Drive

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 23 (P)—Minnie Edwards, negro air raid warden, combined the shortage of domestic help and the third war loan drive here to demonstrate patriotism at work.

When the warden started their bond drive she offered a half day's work — either doing laundry or cleaning a house — without charge if the one "hiring" her would buy a $100 war bond. The precinct warden's report today showed that she had sold four $100 bonds for two days' work, and a $25 bond by using outright salesmanship.

HARTFORD, Conn.—Lou Cohen, theater manager, reported that a woman who planked down $375 for a $500 war bond told him she had been saving the money to get a divorce, but that she hated Hitler more than she did her husband.

Death Ends Tom Jordan's Long Career Of Service

THOMAS E. JORDAN

Herald's Founder Succumbs To A Heart Attack

The career of Thomas Edwin Jordan, 75, founder of the Big Spring Herald and a lifelong newspaperman, came to an end Monday.

He succumbed to a heart attack at 3 a. m. at his home, 609 Washington Blvd.

His passing came as a shock to the community, for he remained active to the last. Although he had suffered a light attack Friday evening, he was back at work in his printing establishment Saturday and Sunday morning he attended services at the First Baptist church as was his custom. He became ill again at 8 p. m. Sunday.

A native of Clinton, Ky., where he was born July 1, 1868, Tom Jordan came to Texas while a young man. Although an uncle tried to interest him in a mercantile career, he found his calling among early day print shops at Weatherford and Stephenville. His life was cut out for him when he came here in 1904, bought the remnants of the old school house for $300, moved it to a location where the Big Spring Motor Co. now stands, and equipped it with about $1,500 of type and machinery, including a primitive press.

Although he had formed a partnership with his brother-in-law, W. G. Hayden, Mr. Jordan operated the new venture for its first year and a half. Applying himself with energy, he published the first issue of the Herald on Oct. 7, 1904.

His training had been in mechanical departments of papers, but Mr. Jordan was an editorial man at heart. He immediately established the precedent of no advertising on the front page, a policy that only the Dallas News century he was linked with the cause of civic and industrial development. Mr. Jordan was no less outspoken on political and other issues as they related to what he believed to be the welfare of his community and territory. More than once he found himself on the unpopular side of a question, but his editorials were none the less forceful.

In 1926 he bought out Hayden's interest in the growing newspaper venture and two years later he expanded the field—had so expanded in the face of an oil boom that he was forced to "go daily." This he did on June 3, 1928.

A year of night and day efforts to keep his paper on the right level convinced him that the job was one for a larger organization than his. Accordingly, he sold out to the present publishing corporation in 1929 and laid aside his editorial mantle.

In the 14 years that followed he operated a printing establishment here and never re-entered the newspaper field except on rare occasions to pen poignant "letters to the editor" on burning issues.

Always a man of infinite good humor, he laughingly classified himself as a "good editor," which, he said, came from being in the first of two categories: "An editor retired and living in his home town or a deceased editor." Monday he had filled the second category.

Five daughters, Mrs. Jack Wilcox, Van Horn; Mrs. Cecil Wasson, Lillian Jordan, Mrs. Thurman Gentry and Mrs. Ray Jackson of Big Spring; and three sons, Albert Jordan, Big Spring, Sgt. Tommy Jordan, in the air corps at Liberal, Kas., and Harry Jordan, stationed at Honolulu, Hawaii, survive. One daughter, Mrs. Jena Barker, preceded him in death.

Survivors include two grandchildren, Margaret-Elizabeth and James Roy Jackson; a niece, Mrs. Cressie Watkins, Fort Worth, whom he and Mrs. Jordan reared; two sisters, Mrs. J. T. Hayden, Huntington Park, Calif., and Walter Gowsell, Maywood, Calif.; three brothers-in-law, W. G. Hayden, all of Big Spring; sons-in-law including Carl Barker, Fort Worth, a nephew, Joseph Hayden, and two nieces, Mrs. Everett Lomax and Mrs. Loy Acuff, all of Big Spring.

Last rites were said Thursday at 3 p. m. at the First Baptist church. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery beside the grave of his wife, Mrs. Mamie Hayden Jordan, who succumbed in 1922.

then followed among Texas newspapers.

A firm believer in the future of Big Spring, he accurately prophesied in his first issue that the destiny of his paper and that of Big Spring were inseparably linked. Thus, it was natural to see Tom Jordan campaigning for agricultural development so effectively that the empires of early day cattle barons, who had employed almost despotic measures against settlers, were dissolved.

He had the privilege of chronicling the story of the county's first bale of cotton and lived to see the time when 45,000 bales were ginned here in a single season. He saw vast grazing grounds turned into feed lots, and farmers turn more to the diversification he had championed.

Moreover, it was Mr. Jordan who kept alive the spark which encouraged oil wildcatters to continue their search for most of a decade before petroleum was discovered in commercial quantities in the area.

Work Finished On New Library

Work on the new county library building has been completed, Mrs. J. E. Brigham, special library committee chairman, reported Saturday, with shelving for the books put up and the interior painted. The new library is situated in the building formerly occupied by the Texas Driver's License division of the highway patrol.

As soon as a librarian is ready to take over the job, Mrs. Brigham said, the books will be transferred from the city hall where they have been stored after the books have been catalogued the library will be opened to the public.

The stored books which originally were from the library sponsored here by women's clubs, will form the nucleus for the new library.

Odelle McGregor of Knott was appointed as librarian by county commissioners several weeks ago, but must take a state sponsored examination before being able to qualify for the job.

Chamber Seeks Aid To Combat Feed Shortage

The chamber of commerce appealed Monday to dairymen, stockmen, and sheep raisers to aid in building up a factual case which might forestall a repetition of last spring's crucial protein feed shortage.

Already prospects of an even more acute shortage of this vital feed are being manifested. Midland dairymen have urged Rep. R. E. Thomason to help secure protein feeds which are not available in sufficient quantity.

The Big Spring Cotton Oil Co., which has been selling a considerable volume of cotton seed meal at that point, explained that its supply was greatly reduced this year. Gins are claiming their full 40 per cent of gross seed weight in cotton seed meal. Thus, of every ton of seed, gins get 800 for distribution to producers, etc., leaving only 360 for handling by the mill.

In this particular area the cotton crop is short and the number of farms is equalled almost by ranches to be serviced in the area. Thus, a protein feed shortage appears almost certain, especially with pastures dry and with slight prospects of fall grass and winter weeds.

In order to put in bids for soybeans, which might be crushed when the current supply of cotton seed is exhausted, the Big Spring Cotton Oil Co. will need to be armed with facts and figures. The chamber of commerce, which led in the campaign to secure additional meal last spring, urged ranchers, dairymen and sheepmen to list the size of their herds, tonnage of protein seed required last year and estimated to be needed this winter. This should be left at the chamber offices.

Fire Destroys Local Gin Unit

Fire Monday afternoon all but destroyed the Big Spring Gin Co. plant at 901 E. 2nd street.

Flames apparently centered in the gin room and spread both to the engine and seed houses. Firemen were held back because of intense heat and the galvanized iron covering hampered efforts to combat the blaze.

Equipment of the unit, owned by the Chickasha Cotton and Oil Co., was regarded as a total loss. No estimates on damage were available.

Enrollment Low In County Schools

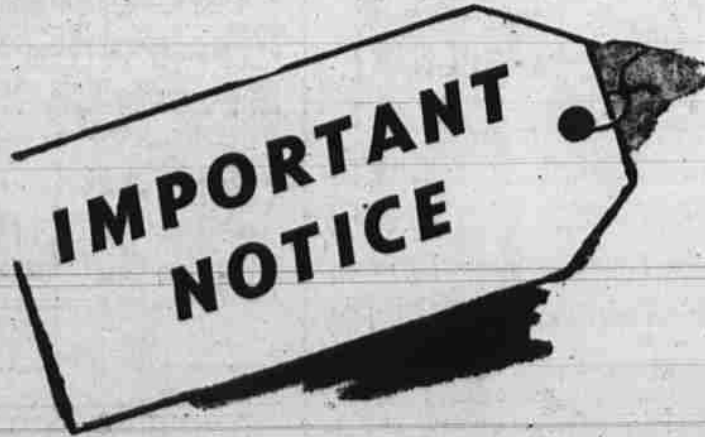

First reports into the office of the county superintendent from rural school principals indicate that enrollment of pupils in the county is slightly lower this year than last.

All but three schools, Moore, Hartwell and Venmore, have reported enrollment totals. Walker Bailey, county superintendent, estimated the three unreported would have approximately 80 pupils to make a total of 550 pupils in the county. Last year there were 679 pupils by the end of the school year.

However, Bailey pointed out that the schools would show a slight increase by the first of the year when the cotton picking season is over and many pupils enroll for the first time.

Pupils by schools show: Gayhill, 89; Centerpoint, 45; Midway, 89; Forsan, 226; Elbow, 33; Cauble, 20, and Lomax, 27.
