Editorial - - - Why Not Name Liberty Ships After War Correspondents?

We think those American war correspondents who have gone on to cover wider fronts and farther shores beyond our present ken, would like the thought of having the twelve new Liberty ships named for them. It is a fitting tribute, well earned by those who battled with the weapon "mightier than the sword" and sacrificed all in the effort to insure that such ships might continue to ply the seas in the name of liberty. For them it was much more than the excitement of telling first-hand the biggest story in history to the folks at home; it was having their share in the common fight for freedom. A full share it was, and is. Due to relaxed restrictions governing the movement of correspondents in combat areas, writers no longer report battles from behind the lines at headquarters. In jeep, bomber, warship, tank and by shank's mare, they go forward side by side with soldier, flier, sailor, and marine, armed only with typewriter, book and pencil. In fact, recently General Eisenhower's headquarters had to issue an order to reporters to stop going ahead of combat troops! As a front-line correspondent has pointed out, many a writing man, with no further physical preparation than pushing a pencil, has pushed beside his well-trained comrades through miles of jungle mud, up steep cliffs, and over hazardous trails for days and weeks. And then gone many a weary distance further to get his stories through. Such men not only have earned the respect of their fellow fighters, but several have been cited for gallantry under fire far exceeding the duties of war correspondents. These men report the war as they live it, for us and for succeeding generations.

Revolt In Texas Demo Ranks May Be Led By Craig

By ELTON L. MILLER Associated Press Staff If Rupert T. Craig, former editor of the Athens Daily Review, is selected by anti-administrative forces to lead a Texas-wide revolt against what they call New Deal Bureaucracy, it will be naming for the task a man who devotes all of his time to a wartime agency created under President Roosevelt's leadership.

For Craig is chairman of L. Henderson County War Prize and Rationing Board—a job to which he has given his full time for almost two years. TL heard he heads has the responsibilities in that county for the administration of rationing and price control, designed to give the rich and the poor equal opportunity to share scarce commodities and combat inflation. Craig makes it clear that he is in sympathy with the anti-inflation program, but he says, there are too many unneeded restrictions, too much regimentation that threatens the very foundation of democracy.

His name has been mentioned by some anti-New Dealers as the one to lead a Texas Democratic campaign against a fourth term for President Roosevelt. Said Craig: "We have strayed far from the fundamentals of democracy." Quietly Craig has watched the progress of the war from the sidelines. He admits there have been times that his fingers have itched to get to a typewriter and write editorials, but they would not have been against the conduct of the war. He says they would have been about home front bungling. Craig is convinced that if the nation loses its home front battle—and that under the present regimented system it is fast being lost—battleground sacrifices will have been in vain. The United States, he contends, will be a bureaucratic nation with a centralized control that is just as dangerous as a Hitlerian regime. He believes the fight must be taken into every precinct in every county in the state and adds: "There can be no political appeasement. Fencewalkers must not be tolerated."

There have been times when Craig has not been so quiet when measures became "intolerable." Once was when the Office of Price Administration put blacked peas on the ration list and ruled that ration certificates must be obtained before farmers could get them for planting. Craig appealed to the regional OPA administration, even went to Washington with the issue. He chuckles when he tells the story of how Washington officials of OPA revised the ruling and designated labels for packages, not knowing, he says, that farmers buy their peas in bulk lots. Farmers revolted until Washington officials amended their regulations. Craig was one of farmer Jim Ferguson's earliest and closest friends to the end of his Texas political career. He sided with many of Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel's policies and says that the junior senator will have a strong voice in the next elections. When O'Daniel was governor he appointed the East Texan as a member of the Board of Regents of Texas State Teachers Colleges. Always interested in political trends—and outspoken on political and domestic subjects when he whipped out editorials for the Athens newspaper for more than a quarter of a century—Craig plans to roll up his sleeves for a political role when green grass sprouts in East Texas next spring, though he himself will not be a candidate for office.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds— Hollywood Canteen To Be Open To Femmes

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—Good news for visiting WACs, WAVES, SPARS and other service women: the Hollywood Canteen, hitherto sacred to men of the armed forces, will be open to the femmes also.

Halliwel Hobbes is the screen's answer to the servant problem. Once, a long time ago, he balked at butler roles after playing eight in a row, thought he might be typed. "The only trouble with that decision," he says, "was that Hollywood knew me only for my work in two types of role: butlers and the Archbishop of Canterbury. Archbishop parts come once every 24 years. So I picked up my little silver tray again, and I've kept it ever since."

But since Mr. Hobbes solves the screen's servant problem so nicely, it would seem only fair of the screen to solve his: "My man," he admits sadly, "quit me three or four months ago. Don't happen to know where I could hire a good one, do you, old chap?" No expert on jungles will be able to recognize the one in which Danny Kaye, as a nervous American soldier fighting Japs in "Up In Arms," tangles with Lizzie, the parrot—so the experts who delight in finding movie boners can save their postage. Lizzie is partly responsible for this geographical vagueness. Lizzie and the studio's own attention-callers. When Lizzie came on to do her movie chore, they noted that Lizzie was a Brazilian parrot—and what would a Brazilian parrot be doing in a jungle where Americans are fighting Japs? The upshot was that the Goldwyn jungle, representing the mythical Isle of Bagoona, will include not only Lizzie from Brazil but birds from many other scattered climates, and the native plants and houses will be a hodge-podge of types from various islands—so that Goldwyn's cohorts can reply to writer-inners: "We planned it that way..."

It's the boast of the all-male cast of "Destination Tokyo" that no make-up was used—not even a powder-puff to take the shine off noses. A mole that Cary Grant has high on one cheek, and which always before has been touched up to make it inconspicuous to the camera, will be right out there in the open, and cute, girls, too. Can you wait? ... Dorothy Gish, playing Mrs. Otis Skinner in "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," remembers 'way back when movie actresses had to powder their own noses. Another old-timer, given periodically to baby-talk, came up to Mi-Gish at a party recently and said, "Dorothy, we isn't going to tell anybody how long we've known each other, is we?" Miss Gish, not given to baby-talk or other affections, said "Yes, dear, we are—26 years!"

Humphrey Bogart and Peter Lorre, the fun-loving bad men of "Passage to Marseille," have gone and invented a new word, candidate for admission to the slangage. They made it up, they say, to replace "jerk," of which they were weary. It is "kreep." "We did it scientifically, the way advertisers name new breakfast foods," said Prof. Bogart. That's why it's spelled with a 'k'. The public, I don't know why, is partial to k. And "kreep" is catching on. Soon there will be no more jerks around Hollywood. Only kreeps.

Army Dog Goes Over Hill But Turns In

TWIN FALLS, Idaho—Domino, the Dalmatian dog which escaped while being crated for shipment to a training center, is back in the army. Credit for returning the K-9 recruit to the service of his country goes—of course—to William Dye, city dog catcher.

G-GIRL By LYDIA GRAY SHAW

Chapter 8 Meg and Dippy and Frances greeted Sally with shouts as she opened the door quietly. "Where have you been?" They chorused. "Did you faint over your patient? We were getting ready to call the hospital." Sally sat down on the floor and cautiously pulled off her shoes. "No, I've been out with a doctor." Dippy whistled. "A doctor! Her first night as a Nurse's Aide, our little Sally looks herself a doctor. Bald-headed and father of six, I suppose!"

Sally said indignantly, "Not at all. He's unattached, about 28 or 29, tall, sort of Scotch-looking." "How did you ever pick him up?" demanded Frances. "With five girls to every man in this town, I can't imagine an unattached doctor still footloose." Sally explained she and Peter had met before—with boxing gloves. "Don't make anything of it, girls. He just bought me a cup of coffee, and told me about his life. Fundamentally, he doesn't approve of me. He thinks we're all sissies."

The roommates were full of advice—after they got over resenting the "sissies." "Now hand him with kid gloves, Sally. Don't be snooty, and don't be too enthusiastic, either. What will you if he calls you up?" "He won't call me up. He didn't ask me for a date. I ran into him only accidentally." "Well, run into him accidentally again," advised the irrepressible Dippy. Sally shook her head reproachfully. "I never knew you all were so man crazy." "You'd be man crazy too if you didn't speak two words with an eligible male form one week to the next," Dippy argued. "I don't want anyone to propose to me, but I would like to go to a movie sometime and not have to pay my own way. If you don't want your doctor, just give me a chance at him."

The others howled. Sally unknicked herself and stood up. "I give up. Do you girls know it's after midnight? I've got to get to bed. The war effort will be completely bogged down if I'm not 100 percent efficient tomorrow." Next morning Sally was as stiff from her chores at Emergency as though she'd been jitter-bugging all night. Even the exertion of squeezing oranges for the four of them hurt her arm. "I didn't know I had so many unused muscles," she said to Meg who was carefully measuring out the morning coffee. Orange juice and coffee and a roll from the baker's made breakfast cost half what it would in the drug store. And they could dress and eat at the same time. Events they usually ate dinner in one of the small inexpensive restaurants scattered up and down Connecticut Avenue in their neighborhood. Sally often though how lucky she was to have found roommates who knew the ropes. The three girls had been in Washington long enough to have figured out ways to keep their living costs down. Except for Meg, they all made $1660. Meg was a little older and had had a good job in Kansas City, so she made $2220. But she dived just as carefully as the others. Most of the time Meg didn't talk about herself. She told the girls when she had a letter from Stewart, but that was all. Sally kept forgetting that Meg had a husband. Once in a while, though, when the Navy announced new losses, Meg would come home from work with circles under her eyes. At dinner she wouldn't join in the wise-cracking, and the girls would tactfully skip all mention of the war news, and concentrate on the weird goings-on in their offices.

Sally looked at the clock. Seven-thirty already. She'd have to step on it to get to the office by eight-fifteen. She had the longest trek of the four to make, for the War Commission was way over on the other side of the Capital. Sally tied a blue scarf over her hair, and pulled out her navy jacket. From a bit of sky she could see outside their window, it was impossible to tell what kind of a day this would be. "Bye!" she called out to the girls, and ran down the stairs. She just made the street car, squeezing into a spot on the back platform between a bulky sergeant and a weary-looking middle-aged woman. The car jerked along, stopping at every block. Sally stifled another in an endless procession of yawns. She was tired. And, unaccountably depressed. After her first evening out in Washington,

Washington Daybook— Writer Tells Why Senators Got Bothered About Oil

By JACK STINNETT WASHINGTON—Capital soothers are opining that the report of the five senators who made the global warfronts junket shouldn't be taken too much to heart. From time to time we hope to clarify several things, but for the moment we will consider only petroleum. Some of the senators came back to report that we are supplying the world with about 65 per cent of its fighting oil and gasoline; that we have only enough reserves in the ground to last a few years; and that before 1950 we will be totally dependent on Great Britain for our petroleum. As a matter of fact, the globe-trotting Senators haven't gone far enough. The United States is producing something like four and a quarter million barrels a day. Iran, Iraq, Arabia, Egypt, the Middle East, Russia, Colombia, Canada, Trinidad, and Mexico are now producing about a million and a half barrels a day. Outside the United States there is supposed to be about 24 billion barrels of crude; within it, about 19 billion. U. S. investors hold practically all the local supply and about 28 per cent of that outside this country. Great Britain controls about 50 per cent of that available outside the United States; Russia about 20 per cent; and other United Nations the remainder. This doesn't, of course, consider the crude supply in Axis hands—in the Dutch East Indies, Rumania, Bessarabia, etc.—but it does give a clear picture of the situation. Through the government owned Petroleum Reserves Corp., a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., presided over by aggressive Harold L. Ickes, we are definitely in the market for foreign petroleum production. By the time the war is over those "control" figures may have to be revised. If they are only maintained, it is unlikely that the U. S. will be coming out at the short end of the horn. Then why did the Senators come back all perturbed about the petroleum situation? There are three reasons. The first is that the potential future production of petroleum seems to be almost entirely in the Eastern Hemisphere and therefore it is reasonable to believe that once Western Hemisphere stocks are depleted the U. S. A. will be in the same position for oil that it has been for rubber or quinine. Secondly, our foreign policy denies us the right to step in with government funds to control these potential oil reserves and it is doubtful if our private corporations, as strong as they are financially, are capable of coping with government subsidies from other nations. In the third place, the future of petroleum is mostly a guess. Not only are there millions of square miles of potential oil fields still untapped in this country, but there is the possibility that coal, oil shales, natural gas, etc., may provide sources not yet touched. Oil will be one of the major considerations at the peace table and if this war is prolonged, say for three years, may become one of the chief military objectives. In view of the fact that the U. S. always has controlled the major portion of the world's oil supply, even though not as much as it eventually may use, there's little reason to believe that we will slip up now.

A few big shots got mad and went back home to their companions. Or the War Commission head would send a too-spoken critic abroad on a special mission un' the air cooled. But the low-salaried employees simply were reorganized into another spot on the chart—and went right along doing the same work.

It was just eight-fifteen when Sally raced into the big marble building that housed the War Commission along with a constantly changing roster of other agencies. The escalator was loaded three deep and would not be hurried. But finally Sally reached her room. As she uncovered her typewriter she saw a note stuck between the roller. "Please see me at your earliest convenience. G. K. Chase."

Sally stared at the paper apprehensively. What could Personnel want with her? What had she done?

Notes

MARY WHALEY

Watched some city sparrows winging their way south this morning and reflected once more how much smarter animals are than man. Are they going to stay here and get cold all winter? No, indeed, they are going to move to a warmer climate.

Take any little bird that people will claim doesn't have a brain and so help us, he's got it all over everybody we know. He builds a little nest in a big tree sometime in the spring. He doesn't have to worry over rents because he doesn't have to pay any. He doesn't even fight with the landlord because he doesn't have one.

Come cold weather he says to the little woman, how about going south for the winter, and she always says o.k. They tour down to Florida, California, or some such place and crowded living conditions don't bother them at all.

If the little woman wants a new coat, does she have to put the touch on paper? No, she just grows herself some new feathers in the spring and so does Pop. They haven't rationed worms so they don't have to carry ration cards. Inflation hasn't touched their lives.

They don't care who runs for president next year and subsidies, strikes, OPA, and business problems are just words they hear foolish humans mouthing. All they do all day is sit on fences and gossip about their neighbors and take a few turns and dips in the air when the spirit moves them. Don't tell us they don't have brains!

Apply Now For Dairy Subsidies At AAA Office

All commercial producers of whole milk, butterfat, butter and cream received notices this week from the local AAA office that the office was ready to receive applications for milk and butterfat subsidies.

The subsidies, provided by the government, are designed to provide relief for producers of dairy products who have been operating at a loss due to increased labor costs and feed costs.

Payment will be made by the county AAA committee direct to producers presenting satisfactory evidence of sales. Milk statements or sales receipts issued by cooperatives, dairies, creameries, and others, showing the amount of whole milk or butterfat purchased, the date of purchase, and the names of the seller and buyer will be considered satisfactory evidence of sales.

If a producer is unable to furnish written evidence of sale, his personal certification of the amount sold, number of cows milked, amount and type of feed used, and customers served, will be accepted as sufficient if such certification is consistent with the county committee's knowledge of the producer's business.

Payment will be made at the AAA office on each Saturday. Payment will be computed at the rate of 50 cents per hundred weight for whole milk and six cents per pound of butterfat. However, application for payment covering October production and sales must be made during November and application for payment covering November and December production must be made during January, 1944.

Since it is important that dairy production be prevented from lagging, it is hoped that the new type of program will bring about an increase in milk production.

M. Weaver, local AAA administrative officer, urged milk producers to bring their evidence to the office as soon as possible in order that payments might start Saturday.

The Blomsheld twins are still across the globe from each other, according to letters their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Blomsheld, receive. John is stationed in England while Harry, who is acting as a chief electrician on an LST, is in the Southwest Pacific. Not long ago he was in on an important island landing.

Billy C. Suggs, 19, seaman 1C, son of C. E. Suggs, route 1, has completed basic training at the submarine school at New London, Conn. After further experience aboard a submarine to demonstrate his ability as a submarine crew member, he may wear the twin dolphin insignia, which is regarded as a mark of distinction throughout the navy. Suggs was a graduate of Big Spring high school and lettered in football.

Lawrence W. Pearce, son of Mrs. Mabel Loftin, 202 N. Nolan, recently has been promoted from the rank of corporal to sergeant at the Altus Army Air Field where he is an aircraft mechanic crew chief. He was employed as a bakery clerk before his enlistment in the AAF ground forces.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith have learned through separate channels that their son, S/Sgt. Edmond H. Smith, B-24 gunner downed during the Ploesti oil field raid Aug. 17 in Rumania, received multiple burns in the crash, and that he is at Sinal hospital at the Rumanian prison camp at Timis, Brasov, Rumania.

Maj. and Mrs. T. B. Hoover visited friends here during the weekend. Maj. Hoover, formerly a physician here, is in the medical corps.

The Cub field day ran into attendance troubles Saturday, but 17 youngsters who turned out for the affair had a busy day at the city park. H. D. Norris, scout executive, said that the day would be a monthly affair henceforth.

The Rev. Blair Morris, now a chaplain in the army, stopped here Monday for a brief visit, while enroute from a west coast to an east coast assignment. The former Garden City and Big Spring pastor and Mrs. Morris planned to visit with their parents at Brownwood for two days before continuing on his new station.

Postmaster Nat Shick, accompanied by Mrs. Shick, returned Sunday from Rochester, Minn., where he had gone for a checkup at the Mayo Clinic. Doctors were pleased with his progress, he reported. Enroute home, the Shicks stopped in Fort Worth for a visit of several days.

Mrs. D. R. Childers of Dalhart, former Big Spring resident, visited friends and relatives here over the week-end.

Wallace Law, Big Spring district Liquor Control Board supervisor, returned Monday from San Antonio where he reported handling of liquor law violations against two retailers. One beer license was cancelled and the retailer paid $100 and costs in county court for sale of liquor to an intoxicated person. Another suit disposed of resulted in fining a retailer $100 and costs for employing a minor to dispense liquor.

The Rev. C. B. Stovall, pastor of the Baptist church of Sterling City, was a visitor in town Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. M. Weaver.

The Greyhound bus terminal was undergoing a little "face lifting" and painting Tuesday morning and as a result buses and patrons were on the outside looking in. An area in front of the station was roped off for buses to park in while the station is being fixed.

Policeman T. L. Kupper turned fireman early Tuesday morning. Noticing fire in the Big Spring Laundry at 2:50 a. m., he got to it and extinguished it, and let firemen stay in their warm beds.

Commission To Act On Property Damages

A jury view commission to set damages on property of three Howard county land owners, who have been filed on for condemnation by county commissioners, was appointed Tuesday.

The commission which includes R. L. Cook, Frank Hodnett, and W. J. Garrett, will hold a hearing on November 12th at the courthouse. The commission will assess damages on the property along the right-of-way buses to Big Spring-Garden City road on land owned by J. F. McKinnon and Joyce Fisher and Bernard Fisher (and the Federal Land Bank of Houston as lien holder).

The property owners have failed in negotiations with the county commissioners on amount of damages to be paid and condemnation papers were filed by County Attorney George Thomas.

Smith Bowlers Shatter Records

Records for a four-man team were shattered on the West Texas Bowling Center alleys Monday evening when the Jack Smith team suddenly ran wild in the second game against Capt. Frank Argus' team.

In this tilt, the quartet rolled 389 pins, the highest any four-man team ever pitted up on local alleys. However, Capt. Argus' men controlled the situation in the other two games and won 2-1. It was the first time the Smith four had lost in Major City league play.

In the red-hot run, Jack Smith slammed his way to a sparkling 239. Not far behind him was Stanley Wheeler with 235. Escot Compton had the same set-up in the last frame but came up with a spare to chalk 224. Ward Hall rolled 191, which would have been amply high any other time.

Only other game plus 200 for the evening was Sokolek's 227.

Rat Ramsey's team rolled its way to a 2-1 edge over the Luke LeBlau quartet.

Argus	6	3	.667

Lonergan Estate Goes To Baby Son

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP) — The entire estate of Mrs. Patricia Burton Lonergan, 22-year-old heiress to a $5,000,000 brewery fortune, which was bludgeoned and strangled to death Oct. 24, is left to her infant son, Wayne William Lonergan, under terms of her will.

The will, dated Aug. 19, 1943, was filed for probate yesterday. No mention was made of her husband, Wayne T. Lonergan, under indictment on a charge of first degree murder in the slaying.

Meanwhile, General Sessions Judge J. J. Sullivan appointed Edward V. Broderick, veteran trial lawyer, chief counsel for Lonergan who has said he lacked funds for an attorney.

County Teachers To Meet Saturday

A meeting of all Howard county teachers has been set for 10 a. m. Saturday morning at the courthouse to organize a Howard County Teachers Association which will be a local unit of the Texas State Teachers Association, Walker Bailey, county superintendent, announced Tuesday.

Plans are also underway, if the teachers approve the set up, to organize a county interscholastic league.

Last year the organization took part in an interscholastic league. Big Spring city teachers are also invited to attend the meeting, Bailey said.

Services Held For George F. Thomas

Funeral services were held at 3 p. m. Tuesday from the Eberly chapel for George Freeman Thomas, 67, who succumbed at 1 p. m. Monday at the home of his sister, Mrs. D. W. Anderson, 508 Bell.

The Rev. W. C. Williams of the Fairview Baptist church was in charge of the last rites. Burial was in the new Mt. Olive cemetery by the side of his mother, who died in 1937.

Mr. Thomas, who had been in ill health for the past eight years, was formerly a farmer. He had resided in and around Fairview for the past 29 years. He was born June 27, 1876.

Survivors include three brothers, L. H. Thomas of Fairview, J. M. Thomas of Big Spring and Charlie Thomas of California; and two sisters, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. M. D. Farrar of Clyde.

Palbearers were J. Tom Rogers, Milton Newton, Dave Baugh, Cleatus Langley, Carl Hammack, and Jeff Grant.

Several nieces and nephews residing in Big Spring also survive.

State President To Speak Before Life Underwriters

John P. Costello, Dallas, president of the Texas Underwriters association, will be the speaker for the next meeting of the Big Spring Life Underwriters association, Dalton Mitchell, president, announced Tuesday.

The session, set for Nov. 17, will be a ladies night affair, said Mitchell. Members from Midland, Odessa and Kermit are expected to participate.

Gilbert Rothschild Is American Private

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2 (AP) — Baron Gilbert Rothschild, 22, who had been in an officers' training school when he fled from the Nazis in Paris two years ago, is now a private in the U. S. army.

Rothschild, member of the noted European banking family, arrived as a volunteer at the Fort MacArthur reception center with this expressed resolve: "I want to fight the Germans."

Youth Program Held Essential Post Planning Element

Proper training and supervision of youth must be figured with economic and political post-war planning, else any amount of planning eventually will go for naught, H. D. Norris, field scout executive, told the Rotary club Tuesday during its youth service program.

Norris spoke on the "Adults' Responsibility in the Youth Problem." Delinquency, he said, is a misapplied term; rather it is parental delinquency. "Society," said Norris, "often says of the youth in trouble that he made a mistake. But did not society make the mistake easy for the youth to go astray?" Norris suggested that post-war development should include more close-in recreational facilities, properly supervised.

Under the leadership of Mrs. C. S. Edmonds and Mrs. Edith Fisher, ten Girl Scouts from the Rotary-sponsored troop presented a skit which illustrated the ten major fields of activity for Girl Scouting.

US Employment Has Busy Month

The US Employment Service did not have agricultural placements to contend with, but it kept busy enough during October, reports from O. R. Rodden, district office manager, indicated Tuesday.

Total placements, including agricultural ones made through the county agent, stood at 8,991. Of this number, 271 were private placements. The 8,720 agricultural jobs fell far short of the total of 14,000 last year during October when laborers and cotton both were more plentiful.

"Much time in October was spent in efforts to keep people on local essential jobs," said Rodden, who also is district War Manpower Commission director. He said his office handled 83 requests for statements of availability, of which 25 were granted reasons such as being discharged, employment otherwise terminated, laid off for an indefinite period, for seven days or more, or where continuance would result in undue personal hardship, where work was under sub-standard conditions and pay levels, etc. During October, there were 73 clearance placements to essential employers in various parts of the nation (most of these hired in pooled interviews by war industry recruiters.)
