Final Status Given Local Airport Job

Complete Project Will Involve $670,000, CAA And WPA Agree

After nearly eight months of planning, revisions and uncertainty, status of the Big Spring municipal airport project was settled definitely Wednesday with word from the regional WPA office that final approval had been given the job. CAA, cooperating in the work, previously had given approval.

The approved project, readjusted to conform with WPA demands for economy during the defense program, stands at approximately $670,000. The principal revision was for $86,000 in non-labor items, and was attended by a few thousand dollars slice in labor items.

However, said B. J. McDaniel, city manager, the basic program will not be materially affected. The entire enlarged port area will be established to originally planned grade, four runways will be left intact along with other improvements and developments.

The 5,460-foot east-west runway will be installed with surfacing. All weather base will be installed on north-south and northwest-southeast runways of the same length, but for the present only 5,000 feet of each will be surfaced. The 3,200-foot northeast-southwest runway will have all-weather stabilized base for full length and 3,600 feet of surfacing.

Drainage facilities; border, contact, beacon and obstruction lights; fencing; water facilities; and other developments will be unchanged. A reduction of about 50 per cent in the amount of concrete work is contemplated.

Instead of concrete aprons all the way around the terminal area, this will be held to the sections immediately adjoining the new hangar locations and administration building. Balance of the apron section will be given asphalt surfacing.

Word from the WPA served as the go-ahead signal for project work, which has come to a virtual standstill pending solution of the problem. A considerable supply of equipment is on hand and labor supplies can be built up at will by calling in WPA men from Colorado City and Stanton.

Club Leaders To Lay Final Race Plans

Leaders of the American Business club prepared to round out final plans this evening for their first annual motorcycle races set for here Monday afternoon.

The races, featuring eight events, exclusive of time trials, will be staged on a course installed at the rodeo grounds and will be interspersed with novelty attractions such as the digout race, wild shoe race, balloon bursting contest, stunt riding race with blanket, stunt riding, slow race, best dressed couple, parade, etc.

Outstanding riders from three states have sent in entry blanks, but club officials said that entry blanks would swell the day of the races because most riders prefer to bring in their blanks.

Fastest 12 machines in the time trials starting at 1 p. m. will compete in the American Motorcycle association sweepstakes event, which will climax the afternoon of thrills, spills and speed.

Committees have been named by club officials and in the meeting set for 8 p. m. today in the Settles hotel plans will be polished for presenting a fast show in the first year out with the races.

Pierre Laval Receives Minor Wounds From Foe Of Germans

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Aug. 27 (AP) — Pierre Laval, former Vichy vice premier and once heir to Marshal Petain, has been shot by a foe of the Germans at Versailles, it was disclosed tonight. His wounds were believed serious.

Laval, long a leader of the faction favoring more complete collaboration with Germany, was shot while accepting registrations by anti-communists to join the fight against the Russians.

Laval was shot both in the arm and the body. Marcel Deat, former air minister and rightist leader, was shot at the same time, receiving a single wound in the arm.

A young oppositionist was arrested immediately. The shooting took place this morning during a meeting of the first contingent of men to volunteer to fight alongside Germany in the war against Russia.

Madame Laval, who had been spending a vacation of several weeks at the Laval estate at Chateaudon, near Vichy, left at once for the occupied zone.

British Shoot Down 10 German Aircraft

LONDON, Aug. 27. (AP)—British fighter planes during offensive operations over northern France today shot down 10 German aircraft and lost eight of their number, authoritative sources reported.

The fighters roared over the Kent coast so high this morning most of them could not be seen. Their sweeps followed up heavy RAF night assaults on Cologne and the docks at Le Havre and Boulogne.

The government announced seven bombers and four fighters were missing from yesterday's operations, which included attacks on shipping and strafing of German-occupied airfields. Three bombers were reported missing from night operations.

Japs Protest Gas Shipments To Russians

Ships Docking At Vladivostok Irk Tokyo Government

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—Secretary of State Hull made plain today that the United States stood on a freedom-of-the-seas policy in connection with shipments of war supplies to Russia through the Pacific.

By The Associated Press A sharp new crisis over the shipment of American aviation fuel to Russia developed today as the soviet government made public a warning to Japan that it would regard as "an unfriendly act" any attempt to hinder trade relations between Russia and the United States via Far East ports.

Swiftly following upon this disclosure, Domei, the official Japanese news agency, reported that Japan had made some representations to both the United States and Russia against the shipment of American gasoline to Vladivostok, Russia's great Siberian port. The Tokyo government, it said, was awaiting replies.

Domei asserted that 10,000,000 gallons of high-octane gasoline had already left American west coast ports en route to Vladivostok and said the Tokyo government was viewing the situation with the utmost concern. The fact that high-octane fuel, denied to Japan, was reported "passing under the very noses of the Japanese" was described by Domei as "greatly irritating Japanese sentiment."

To reach Vladivostok, such shipments must pass through the Sea of Japan.

In warning Tokyo against interference, the Russian government assured Japan that supplies purchased by the U. S. S. R. in the United States were "destined in the first place" to fulfill growing needs on the western front.

In Tokyo, the newspaper Kumin declared the imperial government was unable to remain indifferent to aid shipments from the standpoint of preserving peace in East Asia.

Japanese officials have expressed anxiety that United States war supplies sent to Russia might remain in the Far East for use along the Manchukuo-Siberia frontier.

At the same time the United States, announcing that a military mission would be sent to Chungking in two weeks, gave Japan new evidence that Washington intended no change in its attitude toward Japan's military incursion in China.

MOSCOW, Aug. 27. (AP) — The Soviet government has informed Japan it would regard as an unfriendly act any attempt to hinder normal trade relations between the Soviet union and the United States by way of Far Eastern Soviet ports today.

At the same time Japan was assured that goods purchased by the U. S. S. R. in the United States were destined in the first place for the satisfaction of the growing needs of the U. S. S. R. in the west in connection with the defensive war imposed upon the Soviet union, as well as for agricultural needs in the Soviet Far East.

These declarations were made Monday to the Japanese Ambassador, Yoshitsugu Tatekawa, by the Soviet foreign commissar, Vyacheslav Molotov, and also in Tokyo.

Plane Collision In Britain Kills Six

BLACKPOOL, England, Aug. 27. (AP)—An air collision of two planes over Blackpool today resulted in the death of six persons, including the crews of both planes, the hospitalization of 16 and minor injuries for scores of others.

(Presumably both the craft were British. Ramming of opposing planes, however, has come to be an accepted practice in aerial combat and it might be that one was a raiding craft.)

Referring To Oklahoma City Ban — Isolationist Bemoans Intolerance

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (AP)—Isolationist Senator Gerald P. Nye (R-ND) today said refusal of an Oklahoma City auditorium to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for a speech was a damnable folly on the part of the American people.

"It is but a small degree of the intolerance we'll experience as we get nearer involvement or actuality in the European war," he said at his Waldorf-Astoria suite in a press conference prior to a speech scheduled for the Bronx tonight. At that speech Nye said his subject would be "two men in a boat" and he made no secret the sub-

SECOND 1941 COTTON BALE GINNED HERE

Howard county's second cotton bale left the presses today, barely a day behind the 1941 season's first.

J. D. Wright harvested the bale from his farm near the municipal airport. It turned out 560 pounds of lint—a jumbo size for any time of year—from a picking of 1470 pounds of seed cotton.

J. H. Rosemond bought the cotton at 16 cents, after it had been ginned at the Planters' gin, of which he is manager. It graded 16-16ths inch strict middling.

Wright planned to pick another bale this afternoon, bringing it to the gin late today or early Thursday.

City Schools' Budget Shows Cost Boost

Total expenditures of $208,803 and receipts of $207,811 have been set up in the proposed budget for the Big Spring Independent School district for the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1.

The budget represents an increase in disbursements of $21,000. Bulk of this increase, however, is contained in capital outlay, for which $12,000 in bonds have been voted.

Around $14,000 more is provided in this classification than last year since plans call for improvements at the Kate Morrison and negro ward schools and for financing the boiler room plant on the high school campus. Debt requirements, too, will be up by about $16,000.

Utilities, with more building space, are set up for $2,000 more than last year; however this estimate is purposely liberal since estimates were slightly under last year for some buildings. General control is up by around $500, tax administration by around $300, and instructional service up only slightly. Miscellaneous expense shows a budgeted increase of approximately $1,000.

Although there is an increase in appropriations over last year's budget allotments, the proposed expenditures are about on a par with actual expenditures for the year of 1940-41. The district will find it necessary to continue payment on current loans in the amount of $12,500 according to the budget. Appropriations call for $18,136 for general control; $114,671 for instructional service (teachers); $12,405 for operation of plant; $2,725 for maintenance of plant; $1,650 for auxiliary agencies; $2,400 for fixed charges; $1,700 for capital outlay; and $50,915 for debt service.

Frisco-Honolulu Flight Mark Sought

OAKLAND, Aug. 27. (AP)—Gunning for a new air speed record between San Francisco and Honolulu, three large land planes took off from the Oakland airport at dawn today on the first trans-Pacific ferry delivery of a fleet of commercial airlines planes.

Pilots of the 24-passenger planes, Douglas DC-3s destined for operation in the Hawaiian Islands by Inter-Island Airways, hoped to clip the record of 14 hours and 53 minutes for the 2,400-mile flight.

Russian, British Envoys Hear Plea

TEHERAN, Iran, Aug. 26 (Tuesday)—(Delayed)—(AP)—The British and Soviet ministers, after an audience with the Shah, have transmitted to their governments an Iranian plea that the war cease and a guarantee that virtually all Germans would be expelled from the country within a week, it was reported reliably today.

A few Germans in "indispensable technical posts" would be kept for a while until substitutes could be trained to take their places, under the reported offer.

Premier Ali Mansur in a ten-minute address before parliament charged that the Russians were bombing "open, undefended towns" in Azerbaijan province along the Russian frontier.

Iranian Collapse Within Three Days Is Predicted

LONDON, Aug. 27. (AP)—Collapse of Iranian resistance within the next three days was predicted by informed neutral diplomatic sources today as Russian forces smashing southward into Iran were reported to have captured the country's second city, Tabriz, and British armies striking northward advanced 40 miles.

Shah Reza Kahn Pahlavi, these sources believed, realizes that Iran's position is hopeless, and British and Soviet representatives in his capital of Teheran, have convinced him he ought to come to terms.

So far there has been no indication, these diplomatic sources said, that the Iranian defense has been anything more than the "token" variety.

An armistice to be followed by a convention was predicted, with the agreement possibly allowing the shah to retain power and definitely permitting British and Russian forces to police Iran for the duration of the war.

German technicians would be replaced with British or Russian, and the allies would have a right of way from the Persian gulf to the Caspian sea and the Russian Caucasus for shipment of British and American war supplies for the Soviet army.

Russians Destroy City Of Tallinn

Giant walls of flame streaking up over the siege-girt port of Tallinn, capital of Estonia, indicated today that the Russians were destroying the city and presumably getting ready for a mass attempt to escape by sea.

German troops were reported to have the ancient Finnish gulf town (normal population, over 135,000) cut off on all sides by land.

Dispatches from Helsinki, Finland, 50 miles across the gulf, said the glow of the southern horizon above Tallinn began last night and continued this morning.

Observers on the Finnish shore also heard the thunder of artillery fire, indicating that German siege guns were pounding the city.

Only a few days ago, the nazis said they had thwarted an attempt to send supplies to the beleaguered city, sinking eight ships in a soviet convoy.

In Berlin, the German high command reported that Adolf Hitler's invasion armies had annihilated the 22nd Russian army and captured the town of Velliki Luki, far behind the main German-Russian line, killing more than 40,000 red army troops and taking 30,000 prisoners.

Velliki Luki lies 275 miles west of Moscow and 250 miles south of Leningrad, about midway between Lake Ilmen and Smolensk. Capture of the town would mean that the Germans had straightened out a deep bend in their lines on the central front, putting them in position for more concerted drives against both Moscow and Leningrad.

Governor To Name New District Judge

AUSTIN, Aug. 27. (AP)—Governor Coke R. Stevenson said today he probably would make an appointment within a few days to fill the vacancy caused by the death of District Judge John A. Valls of Val Verde.

The governor added he was giving full consideration to petitions of Webb county citizens who had interested themselves in a successor to Valls.

PARIS POLICE ARREST MANY JEWS, REDS

PARIS, German-occupied France, Aug. 26. (Delayed) (AP)—French police, proceeding systematically house by house, today blocked off a large section of the Fourth Arrondissement around city hall—and took into custody a number of persons described as Jews and communists.

All residents in the area, which lies along the River Seine, were required to remain inside their homes and submit identification papers to the police.

(This raid followed others in two Paris arrondissements last week—the 11th and 20th—in which more than 10,000 persons were arrested.) The first of German-occupied France's new courts "for unmerciful repression of communist activities" started functioning, meanwhile, in the Palace of Justice. A special panel of judges from the Paris court of appeals was named to direct speedy trials with power to order imprisonment or death.

Phone Strike Averted By Wage Boost

By The Associated Press AFL street, electric railway and motor coach operators won at the ballot box today in the jurisdictional dispute which tied up Detroit's city transit system by strike last week. At the same time the threat of a national telephone tie-up was averted.

A complete but unofficial tabulation of the Detroit vote named the AFL union as exclusive bargaining agent for the city transit system. The AFL union received 3,075 votes to 1,924 for the CIO. State, County and Municipal Workers of America, which has opposed the election, got 5,700 employees eligible to vote 5,016 cast ballots before the polls closed at 7 a. m.

The election was part of an agreement, ratified Sunday, which ended the strike and the inconvenience it has caused the city's working population of 400,000.

The telephone dispute ended with an understanding between union installation men and the Western Electric Company, a unit of the Bell Telephone System. Dr. John R. Steelman, director of the U. S. Conciliation Service, won an understanding between the disputants after 21 hours of nearly constant negotiations.

Chief terms of the settlement were: a blanket wage increase of 6 cents an hour for about 9,000 employees; national recognition of the union as bargaining agent; new seniority provisions; an arbitration agreement, and the right on the part of the union to reopen the wage discussions March 1, 1942, if it sees fit to do so.

The Western Electric employees work in all sections of the country and were represented by the Association of Communications Equipment Workers, an independent union.

A new strike threat arose meanwhile at the Du Pont chemical plant at Belle, West Virginia. A committee of CIO employees there voted to strike September 4 unless the company agrees to a collective bargaining election. The CIO claims 3,000 of the plant's 4,300 employees.

Members of the CIO United Clock Workers' Union continued on strike at the New Haven Clock Company, New Haven, Conn., despite their victory in an NLRB bargaining election yesterday. Preparing to submit a proposed contract to the company, Caesar Guazzo, union organizer, said the workers would not return to their jobs until a contract was signed. A company official said the company would probably study the contract demands for at least two days after they were submitted.

Oil Men Express Fear Price Limit May Stop Wildcatting

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 27 (AP)—Several spokesmen for the oil industry asserted today that the government's effort to freeze crude oil prices might endanger the defense program by forcing private operators to abandon their step-by-step search for new petroleum reserves.

Price Control Administrator Leon Henderson took action this week to halt the upward trend in crude prices. He established a ceiling on prices for Pennsylvania grade crude at the level prevailing before an increase of 25 to 25 cents a barrel was announced Aug. 14.

At the same time, Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum coordinator, urged that "wildcat" drilling be continued at the present rapid rate to prevent depletion of reserves as a result of the immense drain caused by the defense program and aid to Britain and Russia.

Oil men here argued that exploratory drilling could not be carried on at current price levels because of skyrocketing operations costs. Wildcatting—ever an expensive gamble—will be highly unprofitable unless further increases are granted, they said.

The Independent Petroleum Association of America, in a memorandum to Petroleum Coordinator Ickes, noted that "during recent years the price of oil has not been sufficient to bring about enough exploratory work to result in the maintaining of adequate reserves."

"If sufficient new reserves are to be discovered," the IPAA added, "crude oil prices must not only return all costs to the producer, plus a reasonable profit, but must also provide an additional reward as an incentive to exploratory work."

Pressure exerted on Pennsylvania purchasers to rescind the Aug. 14 price hike was expected to have the effect of killing recent agitation for a boost in the Mid-Continent region.

Meanwhile, demands for an investigation of the reported gasoline shortage on the Atlantic seaboard resulted during the week in formation of a senate sub-committee to inquire into the matter.

Davies asserted that reserve stocks of gasoline on the east coast had dropped to a supply sufficient for only 10 days. He spoke of a "perilous situation" and emphasized that more drastic measures might be necessary beyond the limited gasoline rationing now in effect. His analysis of the situation has been frequently challenged.

In the field, the Oil and Gas Journal reported 476 completions for the week ended Aug. 25, com-

Woman, Three Children Are Found Killed

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—A Brooklyn woman and three of her four children were slain, their throats slashed, and her other child and her husband were wounded similarly today, apparently, Assistant District Attorney Edward J. Heffernan said, because the entire family suffered from a contagious disease which he did not identify.

In the blood-spattered flat where the slayings occurred detectives found a note, which Heffernan said probably was written by the woman, Mrs. Mary More, 24. It read:

"This is the best way out. Don't touch anything."

The dead children were Marcella, 7, Claire, 4, and Paul, 2. The wounded were William, Jr., 11, and his father, William, a former policeman, both taken to Methodist hospital.

William, Jr., was not expected to live.

Neighbors said they heard screams coming from the Morey apartment at 5:30 a. m. and, investigating, found William, Jr., wandering about the poorly furnished flat, his head and throat bleeding.

Meanwhile, a bakery deliveryman summoned police. Radio Patrolman entered the apartment and found Mrs. Morey and the four children lying face down in the rear bedroom.

Assistant District Attorney Edward Heffernan quoted Morey, who was dismissed from the force in 1938 on intoxication charges, as saying:

"My wife did it. My wife did it." A hatchet handle and its bloody blade were found in different parts of the flat. A small knife, blood-stained, was found near the bodies.

U. S. Military Mission Will Go To China In Two Weeks

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—The United States, by announcing a military mission to Chungking, gave Japan tangible proof today that this country intended no change in its attitude toward the so-called China incident.

The announcement that the mission would depart in two weeks also was apparently calculated to reassure the government of Chiang Kai-Shek that the lease-lend program would continue unchanged in its effort to supply ill-armed China with the sinews of modern war.

When Prime Minister Churchill, in his speech Sunday, mentioned that the United States was negotiating with Japan in hopes of "a fair and amicable settlement" in the Orient, uneasy fears were voiced in Chungking that some sort of an appeasement deal might be under discussion.

Secretary of State Hull acted promptly to dispel such reports, explaining to his press conference Monday that existing conversations with Japan were of an informal character. Any Far Eastern settlement, he said, would have to be based on the fundamental principles long asserted by the United States—non-recognition of aggression and respect for international law.

President Roosevelt further hit the appeasement reports yesterday when he disclosed that he was about to send a military mission to the Chinese capital at Chungking to study the Chinese needs, to facilitate the delivery of lease-lend supplies, and to make "appropriate suggestions for making lease-lend assistance to China as effective as possible in the interest of the United States."

Probe Of Gas Situation In East Begins

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—A plan of action against gasoline profiteering was drafted by the government today, and tomorrow a senate investigating committee proposes to begin finding out whether the reported eastern oil shortage is supported by facts.

Leon Henderson, price administrator, indicated he would proclaim forthwith a ceiling for motor fuel prices to protect the 10,000,000 Atlantic seaboard motorists against unwarranted price increases.

Secretary Ickes, the defense petroleum coordinator, was called as the first witness before a special sub-committee of the senate commerce committee, set up yesterday after Senator Maloney (D-Conn.) had said he wanted to find out "if there is an actual shortage or if we are being pushed around for psychological reasons."

Ickes, however, was vacationing in the west, and it was expected Ralph K. Davies, acting coordinator, would appear in his stead. Davies declared last night that the inquiry "will serve as a means for enlightening the public as to the conditions we face."

President Roosevelt, at his press conference yesterday forecast that the problem of supplying the east with oil would be eased substantially by spring, through launching of new tankers and by building of two pipelines from the southwest to the eastern seaboard.

Army Ordnance Body Condemns Labor Strikes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—The army ordnance association, a semi-official body, today condemned strikes for a "disgraceful blot" on the record of defense progress and listed as a companion debit the lack of a single administrative head for armaments production.

On the subject of defense strikes, the association asserted flatly: "They should be outlawed once and for all in order that the vast majority of willing hands may do their share in defense production."

The ordnance organization also found reason to deplore the delay in fixing "a ceiling on all prices"—a delay which it said "has added millions to the cost of national defense and points the way to monetary inflation which may defeat the very purpose of the defense effort."

The opinions of the association were set forth in an editorial analysis of the accomplishments and defects of the defense effort which appears in the current issue of the organization's journal, Army Ordnance.

If the association found much to criticize in the defense effort, it also found much to praise, asserting that the "end of M-year (mobilization year) discloses military armament production gaining momentum."

"Soon they will be in high gear," the editorial reported. "After that, God help the transgressor of the American way!"

The association is composed of army ordnance officers and civilian ordnance engineers.

Oil Committee Ends Meeting

HOUSTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—The federal oil coordinator's transportation committee for region three ended a brief meeting yesterday without announcing the result of a canvass of facilities for transporting crude oil and petroleum products to the eastern seaboard. The committee merely said it intended to survey the barge and tank car situation in this area "with a view toward their efficient utilization."

There are nearly 2,000,000 French prisoners held by the Germans in occupied France, Germany, Poland, Austria and Czecho-Slovakia.

Garden, Cows And Chickens Keep Reeves Table Laden

One of the best-stocked pantries in Howard county is that of Mrs. J. H. Reeves, home food supply demonstrator for the R-Bar home demonstration club.

She has canned 347 quarts of food this year—or had at last count. The total may be more now.

Included are cucumber pickles and relishes, beans, peas, corn, tomatoes, tomato juice, squash, peaches, plums, pineapple. The tomato harvest is just started and Mrs. Reeves promises to have a big supply before the vines quit bearing.

The three-quarter acre garden from which most of this food came has been supplying fresh vegetables for the Reeves table since mid-April. Such products as greens, radishes, lettuce, onions, peas and beans have been harvested. Two bushels of cured onions have been stored.

Plans have been made and planting started on a fall garden. Besides gardening and canning, Mrs. Reeves is giving equal attention to other phases of building a good home food supply. Sales of chickens and eggs have averaged $5 per week throughout the year, besides at least an egg per person on the table each day, and at least a chicken a week consumed at home.

The Reeves have nine producing milk cows and are selling milk in addition to supplying dairy products for the home. With frosty weather, slaughtering of hogs is scheduled.

Although 'Our Bums' Favored— Dodger-Card Split Leaves Race Open

By The Associated Press
Brooklyn's beloved bums have met the enemy and although they didn't conquer, neither were they conquered.

It had been apparent that the Dodgers and their fierce foe, the St. Louis Cardinals, were very evenly matched before they came up to their crucial four-game series at Brooklyn this week and everything that was done in that doubleheader served to emphasize this fact.

Brooklyn looked like a whirlwind in winning yesterday's opener, 8-3, and then subsided into a sappy before the magnificent pitching of Mort Cooper in losing the eight-inning nightcap, 3-1.

However, the series was not quite as much of a stalemate as the scores would indicate, because the Dodgers came out with their 1-2 game lead intact and seemed to have an edge in the remaining schedule.

After meeting the Cincinnati Reds tonight at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn will have 30 contests left to play. Ten of them, including three at St. Louis, are against the western clubs, and all the others are against the second-division eastern group.

The Cardinals without Terry Moore and Enos Slaughter in the outfield did not look like the same club and except for Cooper's great pitching and a fielding breakdown by Peewee Reese of the Dodgers in yesterday's nightcap, St. Louis would have been routed.

Brooklyn made a dozen hits off four pitchers in the first tilt. Six were for extra bases and all of them except two home runs might have been held to singles by good fielding. Curt Davis pitched an effective seven-hitter and smacked his second circuit blow of the season. Dolph Camilli blasted his 26th.

Don Padgett and Johnny Mize made six of St. Louis' hits and produced all the Cards' runs, two on Mize's 14th homer.

Cooper pitched a seven-hitter in the nightcap and would have had a shutout except for another homer by Camilli in the eighth inning. Cooper was matched for six scoreless innings by 40-year-old Fred Fitzsimmons, but in the seventh Reese made two consecutive errors at shortstop and Johnny Hopp, who had been held hitless all day, doubled to score both runners.

The doubleheader drew a crowd of 39,107, five thousand more than the park could seat.

Because of Monday's rain, all the National league contests were doubleheaders. The Reds split with the New York Giants, Pittsburgh divided at Boston, and the Chicago Cubs captured two from the Phillies.

The Giants beat Bucky Walters, 7-4, then had the Reds retaliate with a 5-4 decision on six-hit hurling by Junior Thompson.

Jim Tobin, using his newly-developed knuckleball, pitched a four-hit game to stop the Pirates, 4-3, and Max Butcher came back with a six-hitter to win the nightcap, 5-1.

The Cubs collected three home runs for a 6-4 victory, then romped to an 11-3 triumph in the afterpiece with Don Dalesandro hitting a grand slam homer and Paul Erickson pitching six-hit ball.

In the American league the Boston Red Sox regained third place by beating the Cleveland Indians, 9-4. Dick Newsome hurled a careful eight-hit game and cleaned the loaded bases in the third inning with a double.

Dutch Leonard was touched for 10 hits, but managed to evade trouble as the Washington Senators shut out the St. Louis Browns, 5-0.

The Philadelphia Athletics swept a double bill from the Detroit Tigers. Sam Chapman's homer with the bases loaded climaxed the 9-1 triumph in the opener. The A's bunched their hits for two runs in the fourth inning of the nightcap to win, 2-1.

Buffs Give Reb's Hopes For Playoff A Setback

By The Associated Press

The Houston Buffs know very well that the Dallas Rebels have their hearts set on being in the Shaughnessy playoffs, but that didn't stop 'em from beating the Rebels 8-7 in the second game of a doubleheader at Houston last night. The Rebels won the opener 5-4, but the loss of the nightcap put them only three games ahead of the fifth-place Fort Worth Cats.

Meanwhile the Cats, who also have some ideas about the Shaughnessy playoff, won 2-0 from the Missions at San Antonio. It was the 34th loss by a one run margin. Earl Caldwell allowed the Padres 12 hits, but went the route. His opponent, Pat McCaughlin, gave up 14 safe blows.

The second-place Tulsa Oilers succumbed to the third-place Sports at Shreveport by a score of 6-0, thanks to the four-hit pitching of Benson Brillheart, who whiffed 13 batters.

In the only afternoon game, the Oklahoma City Indians lost to the Exporters at Beaumont 4-0. Lemuel Bumpers, a southpaw, was the winning pitcher, permitting only four hits.

Lookin' 'em Over

WITH JACK DOUGLAS

Some Big Spring Bomber supporters are doing a bit of wishful hoping—hoping that when and if Berger and Clovis clash in the first round of the Shaughnessy playoff, the Clovis club will take the honors. Maybe it's just a tendency to be leery of a last year's champion, but the Big Springers figure they might have a better chance against the Pioneers than they would against the Gassers.

At the rate the Clovis aggregation is mowing down the opposition, there is some basis for the hope that Clovis will be the club to meet in the finals—provided Big Spring is not set down by the Amarillo Gold Sox, Big Spring's hex of the year.

Right now, it appears that the Bombers are assured the pennant. They hold a three and one-half game advantage over Berger and need to do little more than show up at the park in time to hang the pennant to their tent pole. Naturally, Clovis is no cinch for Manager Jodie Tate and his lads and they may drop one tilt to the New Mexico club, but even that will make little difference in the windup. Then, Amarillo has to be met and held at least on even-Stephen ground. But, all told, there is small cause for ruling Big Spring out of top place in the league.

Big Spring has seven more games scheduled as of date before the regular season reaches the finale. Now, the Tatemens could drop every contest on the bill and lose out, but such a thing is highly improbable. In order for Berger to catch up and pass the Bombers they would have to turn in a perfect card the rest of the season and Big Spring would need to fall far below the breaking-even point.

So, it appears that Big Spring is the 1941 pennant winner of the West-Texas-New Mexico league—Monday night the title will become official.

Texas Tech will put its new football deal in operation September 5 when the Red Raiders gather for their first day of fall practice. For the first time in 11 years, a new man will be at the helm of Tech's gridiron efforts, Dell Morgan, former coach at Auburn and at Rice. Pete Cawthon, the man who put Tech on the football map, got the boot and now the Raiders are faced with the prospect of holding their standing under a completely new football setup.

There is a chance that Tech will find that Cawthon was the one to handle the brand of ball in which the Plains school specializes. In other words, Tech is liable to find the going rather rough under the new regime.

The Raiders have not lost a single eligible man to the army draft and do not expect to have any losses as of now.

'Iron Man' Stunts Abound In WT-NM League Struggles

AMARILLO, Aug. 27 (AP)—Out here in the western stretches, men are men from necessity—if they are baseball players.

The West Texas-New Mexico league, which closes the regular season Monday, is writing a glowing story of iron men who toll not for the glory but because somebody has to pitch.

Ten times in a crowded season a hurler has worked in two games on the same day or night, and in three instances the iron man came through. Still another—Russell (Kid) Crider, nucleus man of Amarillo's staff—has appeared three times in this role—twice within three days—and while he has not won a double-header, still he has not been credited with a loss.

Bad weather causing an unprecedented number of postponements to stack up the doubleheaders and a 15-player limit have combined to bring around this display of courage and brawn.

For example, Pampa had nine games scheduled in five days and 18 in 11, while Clovis showed 16 in 11. Wichita Falls is finishing the season with three hurlers. For a week, while one was absent because of a death in the family, two of them alternated on the mound.

Sunday was a banner day for iron man stunts. Crider won the first game and did a relief stint in the second, against Lubbock. Marion Courtney of Lamesa won both games against Pampa. Joe games against Clovis.

A pitcher who doesn't work 200 innings or better in the schedule of 140 games is likely to be called a sissy.

Ray Lucas of Wichita Falls appeared in 259 innings before leaving the club Aug. 12. And it wasn't from overwork. Judge W. G. Bramham, commissioner of minor leagues, suspended Lucas because he failed to reply to an inquiry.

But judge, maybe Lucas just didn't have time to write with all that pitching.

Luce Faces Tough Battle In Jr. Golf

Austin Youth Carls A One-Under-Par 70 In Santone Meet

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 27 (AP)—Tough opposition loomed today for Arthur Luce of San Antonio as he teed off in a second-round match with Claud Wild, Jr., of Austin in the 15th annual state junior golf tournament in Brackenridge Park.

Luce, three-time state junior golf champion and medalist in this year's meet, was expected to muster all his golfing skill in an effort to defeat Wild, who carded a one-under-par 70 yesterday in ousting Jack Helm of Decatur, 4 and 2.

A Louisiana, Luca Barbatto of Baton Rouge, gave Luce a scare in the initial round yesterday by carrying the medalist to the bitter end of an 18-hole match. Luca scratched out a one-up victory.

Joe Moore, Jr., of San Antonio, the 1939 champion, captured a 4-3 win over his fellow townman, George Hendrix, and Joe Zachariah, Baton Rouge, went one up over par in defeating Bill Wigley of Waco, 3 and 2.

(Zachariah is a cousin of George Zachariah of Big Spring.) A 71 was turned in by James McNair of Brownsville in eliminating J. W. Bostick, Jr., of Beaumont, 4 and 3; Travis Bryan, Jr., of Bryan, scored a 70 to triumph 5 and 4 over Lloyd Malar of Luling; Doody Clark of Seguin eliminated H. V. Reid, Jr., of Lockhart, 5 and 4; Sam Hickman of Austin defeated Maurice Beckam of Dallas, 4 and 3; Stanley Callahan of San Antonio eliminated Marion Pfleger of Austin, 3 and 2; Jimmy Beardsley of Refugio won from Bud Meyer, San Angelo, 4 and 3; Ed Carpenter of San Antonio went 20 holes to down Howard Bennett, San Marcos, 5 and 4; Newton A. Brown, Jr., San Antonio, crushed Lawrence Fourak of Bryan, 7 and 6; Tony Holguin, San Antonio junior high school champion, defeated Bobby Rowley, Austin, 2 and 1, and Dudley Krueger, Austin, beat Carlis Tice, Temple, 2 and 1.

POLAND FITTED IN 25-ROUND SCRAP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—Bill Poland, up-and-coming young Jewish brawler now being groomed as a heavyweight title contender, and Eddie Blunt, rugged New York negro, meet here tonight in a 25-round main attraction of a 67-round boxing card.

Jack Kearns, Poland's manager and Jack Dempsey's pilot during the Manassa Mauler's heyday, claims Poland has a better wallop than Dempsey did at a similar period of ring development. Poland, 23, will weigh in at about 198 pounds, and Blunt, 26, at around 215.

Whelchel Gets 20th Win; Loboos Trounced, 13-3

Big Spring Opens Series In Clovis

GREER HITS OFTEN AND HARD TO LEAD BOMBER ATTACK TUES.

LAMESA, Aug. 27 — Big Spring's Bombers had a field day here last night as Charlie Whelchel, hurling six-hit ball, set the Lamesa Loboos down, 13 to 3, and added his twentieth game in the win column this season.

Hayden Greer continued his hitting spree, chalking up a single, double, triple and homer in the order named in six times at bat. Piling up his advantage, Greer drove in three scores.

Last night's victory made it two in a row for Big Spring over Lamesa. Tonight, the Bombers continue their last regular road trip of the season, meeting the Clovis Pioneers in the opening of a three-day battle.

Following the doings at Clovis, the Big Springers head themselves to Amarillo for a two-day engagement with that city's Gold Sox. Winding up the year's schedule, the Bombers clash with Lamesa over the doubleheader route next Monday.

Bob Hicks was totally unable to stop the Big Spring attack. Every Bomber had at least one safe blow during the evening for a total of sixteen.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (Herald Special News Service)—They really were hanging 'em from the rafters at Ebbets Field yesterday. ... Lots of the standees found they could see better by climbing up onto the beams, and if the Dodgers had been anywhere near winning that second game it probably would have hauled fans when the storm came up. ... The press box was so jammed that the Dodgers' secretary, John McDonald, tried to make room for another working man by asking President Ford Frick of the National league to sit in Larry MacPhail's box. Frick said he didn't want to take a chance on getting into an argument and stayed where he was. Ethel Barrymore, the theater's No. 1 baseball fan, came early and brought a box lunch so she could sit through both games without missing a play.

Deception—Minnesota's George Franck, who has been giving the hometown papers the news about the Chicago All-Stars, tells this one on Norm Standlee, the Stanford fullback: Standlee is color blind and when the coaches make a lot of changes during practice, he sometimes blocks a player on his own side. One of the opposing tackles caught on and hollered, "Hey, Norm, don't block me. I'm on your side." Norm didn't and the tackle smeared the play. Now Standlee says he's going to block everyone in sight.

Match Play Opens In Nat'l Amateur Meet

OMAHA, Aug. 27 (AP)—If these high-scoring National amateur golf championship seekers will take a tip from Omaha's Johnny Goodman, they'll start shooting for pars instead of birdies.

That was Johnny's advice today, as 64 qualifiers for match play in the 45th amateur, none too successful in their medal-play battles with the field club's stubborn par-72, turned to personal engagements, with two 18-hole rounds on the program.

Goodman, who wants to regain the title he won in 1937, credited unusually high qualifying scores to the fact the strangers to the Field club's deceptive contours and distances were playing too boldly.

"The boys are aiming for birdies instead of being content with pars," said the former champion, who qualified with rounds of 73 and 76.

"They're shooting for the pins all the time, rather than playing safe simply to hit the green. And that's dangerous because of the speed of our greens and the trouble you can get into if you once roll off them."

They were doing that yesterday when the final 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying test produced some of the highest scoring in the history of the tournament. Ten players with 159's had to play off for the last seven match-play places.

The qualifying medal went to Stewart (Skip) Alexander, 23-year-old former Duke university collegian who added a stupendous 77 to his first round 67.

Johnny Burke, the former intercollegiate champion, had the best chance to overtake Alexander but after a first nine 36 he finished with 41, his 77 leaving him a stroke behind skip at 145.

Editorial— Governor Acts Wisely On Road Issue

We applaud the refusal of Gov. C. C. Stevenson to accede to pleas of the state county judges and commissioners' association for a special session of the legislature in which the road bond assumption matter might be thrashed out.

His point is a perfectly sound one. He stated in all candor that he was in favor of giving the $2,000,000 surplus to the highway department for state roads where they are most needed while the association has led the fight to rebata the surplus, accruing from a one cent diversion, to the counties.

What he didn't but might have said was that if the legislature had considered this problem for six months without solution, how then could there be any reasonable hope of an answer in one month.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds—

There's Something To Shirley Temple's Comeback Attempt

HOLLYWOOD—Around Metro these days there's a noticeable palpitation, an excitement. Their new "discovery," Miss Shirley Temple, has started her first picture, "Kathleen."

"What do you think of our new little star?" asked one of the Metroites after I'd been over to inspect. "We've got great hopes for her."

Well, that's Metro for you. Miss Temple has arrived. She is working for Leo the Lion. Leo has great hopes for a little fellow who led the box-office parade for four consecutive years, earned millions for 20th Century-Fox and tucked a couple away for herself and Uncle Sam.

Miss Temple, of course, is making a comeback. About 15 months ago, she retired to the calm of home and private school life, attending an exclusive school for girls where, next semester, she will enter the ninth grade.

There was a general impression abroad that the young lady was "washed up" in pictures, due to the fact that in a stellar rating she had slipped from first to fifth. The Temples quietly did their own slipping out of the movie scene. The offers came, and Metro's was the first accepted. She will make two movies a year, one in vacation, one during school, at about $65,000 per.

A first look at Shirley after 15 months is startling. She's on the verge of what is usually called "radiant young womanhood." Not exactly streamlined, but most of the childish plumpness is gone. Her once curly golden hair is now brown. I remember, when it began to turn several years ago as Mrs. Temple said it would, it was practically as sensational an item as, in its day, the bobbing of Mary Pickford's curls.

"I think," said Shirley seriously, "that there are more brunettes than blondes now, anyway."

Mention of the "awkward age" in connection with Miss Temple is rather ridiculous. Shirley is in it, now, of course, but she can't seem to be awkward about it. As we were talking, a delegation of visitors, including two priests, arrived. Miss Temple excused herself to greet them, and for the next five minutes, alone and unprompted, she held pleasant court, as poised as a duchess, as unaffected as a baby.

It was like old times when Shirley went back into her scene: Mrs. Temple sitting on a stool watching, and Shirley's stand-in and friend of old, Mary Lou Isleib, back at work. "I don't need to watch her any more," said Mrs. Temple, "but I'm just interested."

Through force of habit, perhaps, Mrs. Temple would make a suggestion here or there, aside to Shirley. But that was all.

The Temples were delighted with "Kathleen," with Director Harold Bucquet and with the cast—Laraine Day, Herbert Marshall among others. Said Mrs. Temple: "Shirley won't have to carry the whole burden this way—and she shouldn't have to."

Little Miss Temple, Metro's discovery, went trouping through another scene. I too think Metro "has something there."

Washington Daybook— Draft Extension Debate Brought Senators' Best

WASHINGTON—Curt notes from the senator's biggest debate of this session—the one on extension of selective service:

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler's nervous habit of folding a sheet of papers and then slamming them down on his desk in an emphasis of disgust. . . The endless parade of soldiers who, in groups of four or five, filed into and out of the galleries during the days of debate (almost the first time since training started that soldiers have visited the galleries). The way they wriggled in their seats while Sen. David I. Walsh of Massachusetts (opponent of extension) was expounding his theories of defense, pointing out that the navy and air corps made defense a life work, while the army was trying to build a man-power mechanical army with one-year, under-paid draftees. . . The administration senator who made the same speech on three successive days. . . The opinion of the majority of the press gallery that Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, fighting the bill to the end, made the best speech of the debate. . . O'Daniel Leaps In. The way brand-new Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas bowled the senate over by jumping into the thick of things before the ink was dry on his oath of office. . . Twenty-seven hours after he had been sworn in, the ex-governor of Texas made his maiden speech, a 3,500-worder. (The late Sen. Huey Long waited two days to make his debut on the floor and the senators I talked with couldn't remember any other who had so quickly broken the precedent of long silence. Some freshman senators never make a major speech during the first year.) . . . Although reading his speech and never making one gesture, the senator from Texas convinced every one that he's no amateur at getting his ideas over verbally. His voice, without straining, carried right up into the spider-web temporary steel crossbeams holding up the sagging roof. . . After spending 20-odd minutes explaining that he intended to support the president in all his constitutional duties; that he was for defense and the destruction of dictatorship even if it meant going to war, and thus warming the hearts of administration supporters, Senator O'Daniel turned the opposition's frowns to grins with a two-minute statement that he would not support extension of selective service training. . . The new senator didn't rest there at breaking precedents either. The next day he, introduced an amendment to the bill under discussion. It had to do with labor on defense contracts. By Senator O'Daniel's own description, the amendment "breathed through the senate faster than Hitler went through Holland."

The indicated crop of 24,240,000 bushels of potatoes in New York for 1941 is ten per cent less than for last year.

Chapter 24
The Blow

He must hear my breath, I thought, even though I held it, the loud roaring motor of my heart. If I lifted my head the fraction of an inch his outstretched fingers would be in my hair.

Oh, God, if I could only scream! If the muscles in my throat weren't frozen, if my tongue weren't glued to the roof of my mouth! And what if I did scream? What if my voice reached Alice wherever she was or a passer-by in the alley outside? Bowers would get to me first. Why didn't the lights come on? Where was Nick? Or Jeff? Oh, God, where was Jeff?

And then I heard a rustle. It was faint and quite far, some place on the other side of the theatre. I raised my head and my eyes sought the darkness for the first door closest to me. I saw it there, only about six rows down. By crawling on my hands and knees, breathlessly, soundlessly, I could make it.

I squirmed down the side aisle, my hands scraping over the floor and feeling my way for me. I was even with the door when I first heard the noise. It came from the front of the house, wherever near the stage. I backed into the row of seats and stopped and waited. It didn't come again. How could he be so quiet? How could he move about and not even detect that terrifying silence?

The fire door was in front of me, outlined by a thread of light. Only the length of one short aisle to go. Only a few feet. I could worm my way across the floor. I could throw myself against the door and be out in the alley with the daylight all around me and people passing in the street.

Crouching under the end seat, I stretched out my hand. It brushed against something soft. It was the cloth of his trouser leg that I felt. I saw his eyes, phosphorescent in the darkness, and they were wide and glazed.

A sharp, stinging blow lashed the back of my neck and for a moment there was nothing. Then lights seemed to flash past my numbed brain. These, I thought dully, are the comets and shooting stars that you read about. But they weren't.

Rude Awakening

My head had almost stopped hurting, two ryes had helped considerably to numb the pain, but I still had the feeling of waking, cold and clammy, from some horrible nightmare, and knowing it was a nightmare and still not being able to throw off the dread and shock of it.

I pressed my forehead against the cold plate glass that fronted the little Forty-fourth Street bar where Jeff had taken me and told me to wait for him. I dimly remember seeing Clint Bowers surrounded by a group of men, one of whom was Peterson, and then Jeff led me away.

And vividly remembered having been cracked across the back of my neck. I had accepted the fact that Bowers had poisoned me, murdered, but I wasn't able yet to believe that he had chased me all over a back theatre and then hit me across the back of my neck. He was too much a gentleman.

Gentlemen may murder ladies, but they never strike one, that is, without killing her. And in my somewhat befuddled mind, Clint Bowers was still a gentleman.

By the time Jeff arrived I had filled the hollow place in the pit of my stomach with good rye, my excitement was gone, and I was thirsting for knowledge. I cut him short when he started being solicitous. "I feel fine, better than I have for a week."

"Do you want another highball?"

"No, I want to hear about it. Where . . . where is he?"

"Where they always put producers who murder their leading ladies."

"Clint . . . Eve!" I shook my head.

"Why, Jeff? Why and how and where and when?"

"I'm too tired to talk, Halla."

"Yeah, I've just finished doing a masterly piece of deduction and detection that would have completely exhausted the brain of an Einstein. And, consequently, my brain is a bit tired."

"Jeff, tell me. Why did Clint kill Eve?"

"He didn't like her."

"Jeff, I pleaded."

"When I took on this case, little did I realize that it would be one of the most difficult, the most fantastic, but yet the simplest, the most prosaic of my entire career."

"Look, I don't blame you for riding high, but a girl can stand only so much in one day."

"Forgive me, I'm so silly when I'm sober." He finished his drink with a complete lack of respect for the fine old brandy. He ordered another. "Last night with your own eyes you saw how I figured out that Carol's life was never attempted."

"Yes."

"Bowers arranged for that shot to be fired through the window to keep me and Peterson on the wrong track. He hired a gunman. . ."

"Hired a gunman?" I interrupted. "How does one go about hiring a gunman?"

"There are ways and ways. You can advertise in the newspaper. Or you can happen to know an ex-bottleger who has a brother who is out of work because of Mr. Dewey. You can get a gangster to knock off a friend for a grand. That's the union rates. You can get a Gauguin knocked off a wall for chicken feed, especially when your employee is a great lover of Van Gogh."

"But, Jeff, that bullet might've hit one of us! Or Bowers himself!"

"Sure, it might have. But Bowers wasn't feeling sentimental about us or himself! And then, remember it was after dark, your room was brightly lit and from the Esquador you could see into it quite clearly. The shot was fired when there was no one within range of that window. Bowers took care of that himself, if you remember. He called Carol away from it by proposing another drink."

"And did you know last night that all this was Bowers' work? That he was the murderer?"

"Blackmail."

"Sure. The minute I realized that Eve was the victim and not Carol, I knew who the murderer was. There had been so many strange undercurrents in Bowers' relationship with her. Undercurrents that I felt even while looking for Carol's murderer."

"For instance?"

"Remember when we were up in Bowers' apartment and saw all those beautifully bound copies of the plays he had produced before he started starring Eve?"

"They were practically all classics, or were after he did them."

"Yeah, and all of a sudden he starts producing drives for Eve."

He made money before, and he lost money with her. And he is generally conceded to be, even by Parker, one of the shrewdest businessmen on Broadway. Parker also gave him credit for being a great judge of talent, yet he kept doing plays for Eve when everyone knew that she was through, washed up, passed. Why would he do that, let her drag him down from being one of the most artistically and financially successful showmen in New York to just a notch above a tasteless shoestringer like Vincent Parker? Why, Hails?

"Because he loved her?" "Amelia convinced me that there were no men in Eve's life, no men at all, let alone Bowers. No, he didn't love her. And she didn't love him.

"The answer is that he produced plays for her because she made him do it. That much was obvious. But how did she make him? That's what I didn't know last night. The only thing, it took me the rest of the night to work up even a theory and all morning to do enough research to substantiate it."

"Research?" "Sure, I'm scientific. Well, I knew there was blackmail going on in these parts, but blackmail for what? I looked for a clue in Bowers' life and couldn't find one. Then I looked in Eve's. Those burns of hers gave me an inkling. Nobody, apparently, knew about them but Bowers. And Amelia, of course. That was something. It proved to be the right something. In a nineteen seventeen newspaper I found the answer.

"That was the year of the theater fire in which Eve was burned. She was the company's leading lady, and the stage manager was a young man named Clinton Bowers. Well, Bowers just let Peterson a very gruesome little story about that fire. To be continued.

Corporation Taxes Eased

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—The senate finance committee voted today to ease slightly the projected new taxes on corporations.

On a vote which Senator Byrd (D-Va) said was approximately 2 to 1, the group decided to eliminate a special 10 per cent tax which the houses had applied to the profits of corporations exempt from the excess profits tax.

The committee action reduced estimated revenue from the bill by $50,000,000 to $3,548,700,000.

Opponents of the special 10 per cent levy have contended that it, together with normal corporation taxes, would place too heavy a burden on companies having too little income to fall within the schedule of excess profits taxes.

Markets At A Glance

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—The stock market today fought inertia to record another sizable run of modest gains in speculation leaders.

Bidding, seemingly inspired by yesterday's mild upturn, got the list off to a fairly good start. The initial improvement was generally well maintained, although some issues slipped off from the best at the finish. There was also a small assortment of losses.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—Fears of a crop shortage owing to weevil damage and the submitting of huge bids for army contracts stimulated active trade buying and covering in cotton futures today.

Mills, trade and speculative accounts lent active support.

After prices had advanced about $7.50 a bale the market encountered increased offerings from the south and caused a partial reaction due to the more favorable weekly weather report.

Wool Market

BOSTON, Aug. 27 (AP) (USDA) Business was rather slow on the Boston wool market today. An occasional buyer was in the market, but most purchases were of limited volume. Quotations were steady to firm despite slow sales.

A scattered demand was mostly for graded fine territory wools and quarter blood territory and fleeces wools. Prices on these grades were mostly unchanged, compared with last week's sales.

Wheat advanced almost two cents at times, deferred deliveries reaching new highs for the past four years with May, 1942, contracts over $1.21. Oats rose more than a cent also to new four year peaks, May contracts selling near 50 cents.

Special Legislative Session Not Assured

AUSTIN, Aug. 27 (AP)—Prospective special session of the legislature on the controversial road bond issue remained indeterminate today.

Senator Allan Shivers of Fort Arthur, leader of forces opposed to the plan of a group of county judges headed by Merritt Gibson of Longview, conferred with Governor Coke Stevenson yesterday but reported only that he was hopeful a compromise could be agreed upon.

Commissioners Accept Funds

City commissioners Tuesday evening voted to accept $25,000 offered by the CAA for additional non-labor costs on the municipal airport project.

Formal acceptance, however, has not been completed, but possibly will be soon. The amount would be over and above CAA funds already pledged to the project.

Commissioners also heard a report from Meris J. Stewart, auditor, who had completed an audit of the city's books for the first four months of the fiscal year as per the request of E. V. Spence when he resigned as city manager. All matters checked in every detail, reported the auditor.

Approved was the appointment of Arthur Woodall, G. H. Hayward, and Curtis Driver as a board of equalization. No bids were received in response to offers to lease grass land on section 17, but City Manager B. J. McDaniel was instructed to negotiate for its rental for grazing purposes.

Turkeys Rid Cotton Crop Of Worms

RICHARDSON, Aug. 27 (AP)—Joe Ebdson isn't worried about finding a market for his 1,000 turkeys. He just rents them to the neighbors.

Joe turned the birds into his cotton field to graze on the leaf worms. In a few hours the insects had disappeared. Now the neighbors, who haven't been able to eradicate the pest with poison, are in line for the turkeys.

Turks Fear Nazi Attack

LONDON, Aug. 27 (AP)—Turkish leaders, with a German army encamped along the Thracian frontier, were reported tonight to be concerned over rumors that Berlin would ask them to eject all Russian and British engineers and technicians as a countermove to the British-Russian invasion of Iran.

Turks here were reported to fear that if Turkey should fail to reply to the demand, the Germans might seize the opportunity to march into their country from Thrace and take over control of the Dardanelles strait, entrance to the Black sea, and also Turkey's long Black sea coast.

Neutral diplomats reflected this view, although they expect Germany to wait success or failure of the German campaign in Russia's Ukraine.

Sears, Roebuck To Open Order Office Here Friday

MRS. ARVIE WEBBER
MRS. EVELYN DAVIDSON

Sears, Roebuck and company today announced the opening Friday of a new catalogue order office at 119 East Third street in Big Spring.

The building at that location has been attractively refurnished throughout for the new office, and stock was being put in place today.

The order office will sell no merchandise directly to the customer. Instead, the customer will make his selection in the office and place an order for the merchandise. The order will be sent overnight to the Sears warehouse in Dallas and shipped back to Big Spring in time for delivery the second day after the order is placed.

Revival Will End Tonight

Attendance for the closing services of the series of gospel meetings concluding at 8:15 p. m. today at the Church of Christ has been excellent, according to Byron Fullerton, minister.

Tuesday night the evangelist, Trine Starnes, used the latter part of the 18th chapter of Acts as the basis of his sermon. He pointed out that as soon as Apollos learned more of the will of God that he had the courage to change from what he had been doing and accept the new truth that he had learned.

"As Christians we should be continually learning, and as we learn we should make an application of what we have received. If we have been practicing in our religious life and find that we have been doing the wrong thing, we should immediately change. Jesus told us that it takes the truth to make us free," the evangelist said. "Whatever may be our condition in life we must learn and accept the truth for it takes that to make us free."

Downpour Cripples New York Subways

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—New York's subway lines returned to normal schedules today after service had been disrupted for hours last night by a torrential rainstorm that indirectly caused at least two deaths.

An unidentified pencil peddler was killed by a truck as the driver's vision was obscured by the downpour. Martin Costello, 66, attempting to turn on the lights in the flooded and darkened St. Catherine's Maternity Hospital, was electrocuted as he touched a fuse box while standing in water.

The 2.18-inch rainfall short-circuited power lines in the subway in various sections of the city as thousands headed for home during the suddenly darkened dinner hour.

Oil Allowables Are Subject Of Suit

AUSTIN, Aug. 27 (AP)—A suit on file in a district court here today for the second time this year attacked the railroad commission's allowable oil production order for the Gulf McElroy field of Crane and Upton counties.

E. C. Marrs of Kendall county and two other mineral rights owners appealed to the court from an order restricting the field's permissible yield to 19,988 barrels gross and 13,548 barrels net daily in September.

Judge J. Harris Gardner set Sept. 2 for a hearing on an application for a temporary injunction restraining the commission from enforcing the order, issued Aug. 23.

13,398 MILES ON 5-QUART FILL OF OIL in the Certified DEATH VALLEY DESTRUCTION TEST

CERTIFIED I hereby certify that the Death Valley Test and related work were thoroughly and fairly conducted. Engine Destruction occurred in each case at the mileage stated.

A. H. Jullian
Consulting Engineer, who during Academic Year is Professor of Automotive Engineering, Purdue University

Revolutionary New Oil tested against 5 other big brands. 6 new cars Destroyed to prove Economy and Protection.

The oil that reeled off an amazing 13,398 miles on one regular fill, in blazing Death Valley, was proved to be an oil of the Nth degree—an oil of new high character... Hence its name:

CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL

This dramatic test, supervised impartially and Officially Certified, was simple, yet harsh. 6 identical new cars were taken to Death Valley—where the heat hits record highs. 5 of these cars were each assigned a different widely-known, highly advertised motor oil. The sixth car used new Conoco Nth motor oil.

Each car was broken-in on a brand assigned by lot. Then, one 5-quart fill of this same oil went into the crankcase—kept under lock. The cars were driven 57 miles an hour until oil failure cracked up each engine—utterly wrecked it! All of this under impartial official scrutiny, as was every step in the test, right on through the dramatic finish.

Here is what happened

New Conoco Nth oil went 13,398.8 miles. Not another oil came within 5,683 miles of this. One outstanding oil failed 8,268.6 miles sooner than new Conoco Nth motor oil. So it outdistanced the five competing oils by 74% to 161%.

Why this Astounding result was possible

New Conoco Nth motor oil contains a Conoco-originated synthetic (U. S. Patent 2,218,132) called Thialthene inhibitor. An inhibitor in motor oil acts pretty much as an inhibition acts on you. Inhibitions hold you back; police many actions. And so Conoco's Thialthene inhibitor polices Conoco Nth oil... arrests pollution that otherwise comes from normal operation. And that's your aid against a dirty engine with inferior lubrication.

Are you an OIL-PLATING "fan"?

If you are, more power to you! Don't for a minute feel let down, for Conoco Nth also contains the famous synthetic that OIL-PLATES engines. OIL-PLATING comes from the magnet-like attraction that keeps it bonded to inner engine parts, so that it can't all quickly drain down to the crankcase—not while you're using Conoco Nth oil. This same famed OIL-PLATING is still yours to guard against wear.

Because of OIL-PLATING and Thialthene inhibitor, one 5-quart fill of new Conoco Nth oil went an astounding 13,398.8 miles. Of course, you'll never Death-Test your Conoco Nth oil in sinister Death Valley, nor repeat any other proving-ground tortures. You'll still drain and refill at the intervals recommended by qualified authorities. But how you'll expect to stretch the distance before you ever add a quart, judging by this big fact:

5 heavily advertised oils in the Certified Death Valley Test were out-miled 74% to 161% by Conoco Nth oil. Economy like that counts up into dollars! Change to Nth oil today at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Co.—Pioneers in Bettering America's oil with Synthetics
