

Organisms Too Tiny To Be Seen By Microscope May Cause Cancer

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 13 (AP)—A University of Texas scientist, Dr. Roger J. Williams, presented new evidence today that cancer in man "very probably" is caused by organisms too tiny to be seen with an ordinary microscope. He presented his facts before the American Chemical Society meeting here yesterday.

In the quest for the cause of cancer, investigators are following many lines of research designed to determine whether the disease is due to "viruses" or to bacteria, which are larger organisms, or to some mechanism in the body that might cause cells to multiply rapidly into a malignant growth.

Dr. Williams told of a new type of disorganized cancer growth in mice—the phenomena of two distinctly different types of cancers growing side by side, although only one form of infected material was injected.

He said this "strongly suggests" a virus-like agent is the cause of cancer, since known viruses, such as those of influenza, have demonstrated an ability to produce two distinctly different effects in the same body.

The Texas scientist said investigations at the university have been under way for four years and 6,000 mice are used each year in the experiments, together with 35,000 eggs which are employed for growing cancers from tumor tissue and producing infected material.

Play Area Being Developed By Salvation Army

New outdoor recreational facilities for young people on the west side of town soon will be in operation, under Salvation Army auspices.

Capt. Olvey Sheppard of the Army announced Saturday that work is under way in cleaning, scraping and setting up equipment on the lot which formerly was occupied as the local baseball park, on San Antonio street between Fifth and Sixth. The property has been made available to the Salvation Army by Mrs. Dora Roberts.

Her proffer of the ground, at no cost, ended an extensive search by the Army for a suitable place to make available supervised play to children who have no other facilities in their neighborhood. The Army plans an extensive summer program of athletics and outdoor sports.

Baseball, softball, and even football space will be provided, Captain Sheppard said, in addition to other equipment to make possible healthful recreation for all ages of boys and girls.

The Week

per cent of the Howard county farms were covered. This year it is 22 per cent. Right now that looks like it might be a little short of needs.

According to reports last week, the city had $5,762 cash balance at the outset of the war period. It has increased to $124,567 in addition to $101,000 in securities. But the payroll is up 30 per cent, and the payroll is 20 per cent, and around the corner are a number of delayed projects and expenditures. It looks like a lot, but watch it dwindle in the months ahead.

Another recreational area becomes available again to the public today with opening of the Moss Creek lake to boating and picnicking. Roads are good to the lake and a big crowd is due to take advantage of the reopening.

The city now has its airport on a temporary basis. The immediate significance is that certain hangar and other space will be made available and that a start can be made toward putting it fully back into the aviation picture.

Here 'n There

Bill Cox, president; Bill Horne, second vice president; and Herbert Feather, secretary-treasurer of the newly organized Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce, were in Abilene Saturday night to attend a Jaycee zone meeting.

Weekend visitors in Big Spring are Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Spence and Mr. and Mrs. Max Starcke of Austin. They have been to El Paso and other West Texas points, in connection with state business. Spence, former city manager in Big Spring, is a member of the State Board of Water Engineers, and Starcke is general manager of the Lower Colorado River Authority.

"Trifles," the one-act play given by high school students under the direction of Miss Carl Davis, won third place in district competition in Midland Friday night. Mickey Casey, Castberry Campbell, Bobby Joe Blum, Bobby June Bobb and Yvonne Milam were in the cast.

Rufe Morton, Skeet West and Albert Mason returned last week from Devil's River with stories of a record catch. They collected some 175 pounds of the river beauties, including one that weighed more than 30 pounds.

Dr. C. W. Depts was scheduled to leave today for Dallas, where he will attend a meeting of the Texas State Dental association.

Dan McRae Resigns Forsan School Post

Dan McRae announced his resignation Saturday as superintendent of the Forsan District consolidated school district.

He is serving out his fifth year as head of the Forsan school, which recently became a part of the new consolidated district which covers the Howard-Glasscock oil-field area.

McRae's resignation becomes effective Sept. 1, 1946, the end of the fiscal year.

Prior to coming to Forsan, he had headed the Elbow school for seven years. Before that he taught for two years in the Glasscock county school system.

A graduate of Austin college and holder of B. A. and M. A. degrees, McRae also had done work at the University of Texas, Texas Tech, Wesley at Greenville and Howard Payne colleges.

McRae said Saturday that he had no immediate plans.

Coop Gin Distributes Rebates At Meeting

Rebate checks of approximately $4,400 were distributed at the annual meeting of the Cooperative Gin & Supply company at the WOW hall Saturday afternoon.

J. O. Rosser was re-elected president of the company. R. W. McNew succeeded R. M. Wheeler as vice-president; Claude Winans was re-elected secretary-treasurer, as was R. C. Reed as a board member. Frank Hodnett succeeded B. H. Hillger as a director.

The rebate checks had no bearing on a stock dividend which will be considered at a subsequent meeting.

Breeders Elect Lomax President

E. W. Lomax was elected president of the Howard County Hereford Breeders' association Saturday afternoon at a meeting in the Settles Hotel, as preliminary plans were made for activities during the coming year. Lomax, who succeeds Rexie Cauble, served as vice-president on the 1945 slate of officers.

Tom Roden was named vice-president, and Leland Wallace was re-elected secretary, while Durward Lewter, county agricultural agent, was chosen second vice-president, a newly established office.

A resolution submitted by I. B. Cauble, veteran Anxiety 4th breeder, was adopted, commending Lewter on the success of his 4-H club program during the past year and for "the great service he has rendered the Hereford industry of Howard county."

Wallace gave a complete report of the organization's financial status, and plans were made for establishing a definite sale date for late January or early February in 1947. A Hereford tour will be conducted by the association in September, with a date to be arranged later.

Attending the meeting were Rexie Cauble, I. B. Cauble, O. D. O'Daniel, Roden, Morgan Coates, Wallace, S. F. Buchanan, J. J. Phillips, Donald Lay, Eb Eehols, Loy Acuff, Lewter and Ted H. Roensch, agricultural agent of Mitchell county.

Lamesa Cuts Water Rates For City Users

LAMESA, April 13 — Reduced summer water rates have been voted by the city council, which at the same time upped rates by 150 per cent on out-of-city users.

The summer rates will provide a sharp drop after the first 5,000 gallons. The schedule would call for $1 on the first 2,000 gallons, 30 cents for the next 1,000 and 25 cents for each of the next 2,000 gallons or a total of 2.75 for the 5,000 gallons. Thereafter, the rate would be 15 cents per thousand. Regular rates are 30 cents for each of the first 3,000 gallons and 25 cents per thousand thereafter.

New Formation Yields Pay In Andrews County

By JOHN E. BREWER
 SAN ANGELO, April 13 — The Silurian became the fourth oil producing formation in the Martin county, in the Sun Oil Co. No. 2 N. H. Martin and others, and Stanolind No. 1 Lee Irish in the southwest corner of Hale county showed prospects of Clear Fork lime pay to furnish this week's outstanding West Texas oil developments.

Sun No. 2 Martin in Andrews county swabbed 153 barrels oil in 21 hours, then 56 barrels of oil, cut 14 per cent by basic sediment and water, the next 24 hours. It treated open hole between 8.0 6.8, 275 feet with 2,500 gallons of acid and in early testing swabbed fluid, some of it new oil, at the rate of six barrels hourly.

The well is in the C SW SE 17-A41-psl, quarter mile west of Sun No. 1 Martin, the pool opener and Clear Fork discovery, 1 1/2 miles same distance north of Humble No. 1 J. E. Parker, discovery producer from the McKee section of the Simpson. Humble No. 2 Parker, diagonal southeast offset to No. 1 Martin, opened the third pay, the Ellenburger.

Shell No. 1 A. Nelson, western Andrews, wildcat drilled "tight," drilled plugs from 5 1/2-inch casing which was cemented after oil and gas reportedly were recovered on drillstem tests of the Ellenburger that were unsatisfactory. Location is the C NE SE 8-A40-psl, near the New Mexico line. Shell will drill No. 1 Elizabeth Pines, slated 11,000-foot wildcat C NE NW 13-A40-psl, one mile southwest of No. 1 A. Nelson.

Phillips No. 1 Eldson-Schubauer, opener of Ector county's second Ellenburger field 3/4-mile northeast of Judkins, logged 97 feet of pay before recovering water on a test from 8,970-8,920 feet. It stopped at 9,020 feet, cemented 5 1/2-inch casing on bottom and drilled plugs for perforating opposite the pay. The well is near the C SW SE 25-B15-psl on a unitized block in which Skelly, Cities Service, Standard of Texas and Tide Water have interests. It is only 3/4-mile northwest of the Penwell (San Andres) pool.

Becoming the second well in the Jones Ranch field in Gaines county, Amerada No. 1-C Dr. E. H. Jones of San Angelo swabbed 303 barrels of oil in 24 hours through casing perforations at 11,192-272 feet. It had treated the Devonian with 7,640 gallons of acid. Location is the C SW SW 2-A46-psl, 3/4-mile southeast of Amerada No. 1-A Jones, the discovery, West Texas' deepest producer and the most northerly from the Devonian in West Texas.

Humble No. 1 L. A. Vick, promised first oil producer in Kent county and the most northeasterly from the Ellenburger in the Permian Basin, was due to test through perforations in 5 1/2-inch casing cemented at 7,937 feet, one foot off bottom. It is in the C NW NE 45-4-H&GN.

Kaiser-Frazer Expecting Delivery Of First Cars By First Of Month

The long hard grind of completing designs, lining up materials and perfecting tooling and assembly systems is near the end, and the makers of Kaiser and Frazer automobiles are counting on seeing their first car roll off the line by the first of next month. This was the word brought to West Texas representatives of the new motor manufacturers — Graham-Paige Motors Corp., and the Kaiser-Frazer Corp. — by the director of sales for the organization, Fred R. Cooper, who made a stop in Big Spring Friday afternoon.

HEAD SIRE—When I. B. Cauble, pioneer West Texas Hereford breeder, looked for a successor to his great Imperial Mischief, he paid Mosel Bros. $3,000 for the yearling Imperial Lamplighter, 33rd, and his choice has been borne out as the above picture shows. Calvin Boykin, Big Spring and Midland, thinks he is a great animal, too, for recently when he stocked his place just north of Midland with 10 registered heifers from the Cauble herd, he got several daughters, among the first get of the Lamplighter in the trade. Cauble helped make the selection to give the hard what he considered the right foundation.

Farm And Ranch News

By WACIL McNAIR

C. Hohn, state farm labor supervisor, visited here during the week. His headquarters are at College Station, and he is currently on a tour of West Texas counties. While here Hohn visited and inspected the local farm labor camp. He believes that group labor will be just as great a problem to farmers this season as it was last year, although indications are that individual help may be more plentiful.

A group of 100 or more attended a meeting Thursday night at the Gayhill school, where several topics related to farming were discussed. County Agent Durward Lewter explained several points of the 7-step cotton program, and Margaret Christie, speaking on behalf of the USDA Council, urged planting of more spring gardens and conservation of food to offset shortages. J. C. Webb of the district soil conservation office projected films on soil conservation and farm improvement.

More calves for 4-H club feeding already have been selected than at the same time a year ago, County Agent Durward Lewter reports. Lewter is expecting about the same number of club members to feed calves this year as he had in 1945. However, the coming season may find 2 few more lambs listed as club projects than in former years. Lewter planned to look over Nick Reed's Coahoma herd Saturday for calf prospects.

Candidates in the recent trustee election for the Big Spring independent school district may have overlooked a good platform plank by not including a proposal for a vocational agriculture course in the local high school. Although Texas' prospective wheat and oats acreage for 1946 are slightly more than asked for, grain sorghums and corn may fall short of the goal set for the state, according to reports from the production and marketing administration. The goals were set in efforts to ease a critical feed shortage.

Although local butchers still were offered a fair supply during the past week, they believe the end of fed beef cattle for this season is in sight. Stockmen throughout West Texas took their animals off feed earlier than usual this year, due to the commercial feed shortage. The result may be a scarcity of good beef for housewives right here in the cattle country within the next few weeks.

Elliott To Erect Three Apartment Buildings Here

Building restrictions set up by the CPA apparently reached a near maximum effect in Big Spring during the past week, as permits issued by the city skidded to a 1946 weekly low of $8,765. The total for April now stands at a mere $26,865. The faller came just as the aggregate for the year approached the half million dollar mark, with the figure now at $481,145. There were 11 permits issued during the week, seven of them for less than $1,000 each.

Warren Cantrell dissolved his partnership with Olen Puckett in their architect's office this week. At the same time Bill French of Abilene joined Puckett, and the firm now is known as Puckett and French. Cantrell will move to Abilene and has no definite business plans for the remainder of the year. However, he probably will work with Puckett on several out of town projects during the next few months.

Plans have been completed for three new apartment buildings to be erected by J. D. Elliott. Each structure will be composed of four living units. They will be erected at 8th and Johnson streets.

Plans for the East Fourth Street Baptist Church educational annex have been turned over to the contractors, and application is being submitted to CPA for authority to buy materials. Preliminary plans for a similar project at the First Methodist Church are underway.

Warranty deeds also were slightly off the page this week at $75,871.83. There were 44 instruments filed, but no large deals were listed.

Paving Group To Meet

A meeting of the chamber of commerce paving committee has been called for 7 p. m. Monday at room No. 2 in the Settles. Ted Groebel, chairman, has announced. At that time the chairman will make a report on information received in a canvass of various cities along with some legal problems involved.

Brotherhoods To Take Active Political Role

For the first time in their 48 years of organization the Big Four Brotherhoods—men who operate the trains—this year will make public endorsement of political candidates favorable to the working man.

This action was taken at the Brotherhoods' convention in Fort Worth this past week, according to local delegates who returned Saturday. These included R. C. Williams, Mrs. Pattie Manion and Mrs. O. T. Arnold of the B. of L. F. & E., and J. T. Stephens of the ORC.

Mrs. Manion was named to a third term as state chairman of the Ladies Auxiliary to the B. of L. F. & E.

The resolution on endorsement of candidates provides that these endorsements will be made by the joint legislative board of the four brotherhoods. It was agreed that the board may refrain from such action in the first primary where several candidates friendly to the working man are in the race. It was predicted most endorsements will be made in the second primary.

Delegates at Fort Worth also adopted several resolutions pertaining to safety measures which they will advocate before the Texas legislature and before Congress. These include one asking Congress to limit the length of trains drawn by Diesel engines; Congress will be asked to limit freight trains to 315 feet in length, or 70 cars, while restricting passenger trains to 14 coaches.

Other resolutions were:
1. Urging the convention delegates to organize campaigns in their home districts for the election of officials favorable to labor.
2. Urging re-submission in the Texas Legislature next January of House Bill 243, pertaining to safety measures in the operation of trains.
3. Request that the State Highway Department install safety reflectors at grade crossings, and urging a law to provide electric lights to replace oil lanterns on cabooses.

The delegates also adopted a resolution, asking Congress to rearrange the seating in the US Senate so that Senator W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas can be seated with the Republicans. The resolution pointed out that O'Daniel frequently votes with the Republicans.

The main feature will be a religious drama given by members of the department and titled, "Pilgrims of the Way." The high school choral club under the direction of Mrs. Wiley Curry will furnish musical background for the play and between the scenes. Miss Elizabeth Akers, Bible instructor, is in charge.

Edna Stephenson will play the part of Mary in whose garden the action takes place. Mary Alphens Page will be Rhoda; Arnold Tonn, John Mark; Donald Webb, Saul; and Gorman Rainey the Messenger. The first scene is late afternoon, the second early in the evening and the third the first anniversary of Easter.

The affair will get underway shortly after 6 o'clock that morning so that the sun, rising at 6:21, will find the program already begun.

Proceeds of the offering to be taken up will go to purchase additional equipment for the use of the Bible department. It has been tentatively decided.

Should the day be rainy, the services will be held in the Municipal Auditorium.

Easter Motif Used At XYZ Committee Needs Lily Donations

Donations of Easter lilies by gift or loan for the sunrise services are needed for decoration of the amphitheater. Mrs. Ora Johnson, chairman of the decorating committee has announced.

The committee, made up of the Victory class of the First Baptist church, suggests that some wish to dedicate the flowers for the services. Either private or church lilies may be donated for loan.

Flowers should be taken to any church by Saturday night to be picked up by members of the committee. They will be returned there after the service where the owners may get them. Boy Scouts will stand guard over the amphitheater the preceding night to look after property left there.

Anyone willing to help in this matter is asked to call Miss Elizabeth Akers, phone 208.

Popular "Virginian" Back Again At Ritz

He's back again and this time in Technicolor. "The Virginian," ever popular, soft-spoken screen hero of the Old West, has returned to the Ritz theatre for a two-day run today and tomorrow in the person of Joel McCrea.

Barbara Britton have principal roles to help him out in the best of several screen presentations of Owen Wister's memorable novel. Paul Jones thoughtfully arranged the production and Stuart Gilmore steadily handled the direction.

Technicolor performs the magic which it works with special effectiveness on outdoor subjects and the story itself is as solid a property as it always has been and presumably always will be.

Joel McCrea plays the title role with a fine appreciation of the value of understatement. This is not an exceptional statement to be making about McCrea, whose Western heroes are perhaps the most credible of all, but there is an exceptional statement to be made about Sonny Tufts, who plays the hero's friend who goes wrong. In this casting the personable Tufts appears to have found his forte, for it is his performance that remains most prominently in memory when the picture is over, although his execution by a posse takes him out of it well before the end.

It is McCrea and Donlevy who stalk each other through the streets of the cow town at sunset, shooting it out, finally in a remarkably well staged version of this familiar finale, and this is but one of three or four sequences wherein the picture achieves extraordinary tension.

Popular Comedy Is Next On The List For Texas Players

"You Can't Take It With You," hit comedy stage play by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, is being revived for a tour of the southwest. Lawrence Carra, director of the Texas Players, announced Saturday. The comedy, second production by the Players, will be seen in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, and Big Spring is on the play list.

Originally presented on Broadway, "You Can't Take It With You" received rave reviews from New York critics and was awarded the 1937 Pulitzer prize as best play of the year. Henry Travers, Josephine Hull, Jess Barker and George Tobias had featured roles in the first production.

Movie version of the comedy starred James Stewart, Jean Arthur and Lionel Barrymore.

NO CEILING ON CORN ON THE STREET

NEW YORK — George Jessel says he is a confirmed Hollywood producer but he is willing to interrupt his producing momentarily from time to time if he can get the salary he will receive when he plays the Roxy during May. . . . He'll get $10,000 a week, rather a lot more than he, and most anyone else, can earn in Hollywood.

Some of the salaries being paid to entertainers in these inflated days are almost enough to scare a man of moderate means. . . . Danny Kaye received $75,000 for three weeks at the Paramount theatre. . . . Frank Sinatra took down only slightly less in his recent Paramount date. . . . Carmen Miranda's said to have left the Roxy after three weeks with more than $35,000. . . . Milton Berle gets about $10,000 a week at the Carnival.

Early in the season, Florida night clubs were offering extravagant sums to lure entertainers away from Broadway, Chicago and Hollywood. . . . Weekly pay envelopes containing as much as $15,000 were offered. . . . At least one place, whose plans included gaming tables as well as food and drink attractions, made a half-hearted attempt to get Danny Kaye for $25,000 a week, which was to have been paid by the gambling end of the business. . . . A $5,000 weekly salary in the hotter Florida hot spots was about par. . . . It's getting so $1,000 a week is a sign of mediocrity. . . . I know sets which received at most $250 a week three or four years ago who now get—what is most amazing, get—as much as $2,000 a week.

There is a great shortage of good comedians. . . . Every night club of any size and stature has discovered that laughs, however corny and Joe Millerish, are in greater demand than the best songs, however well sung. . . . Therefore, fellows with tired material, haphazard delivery and very little more than the sheer nerve to get up on a night club floor are receiving salaries which make presidents of banks add an enviously emerald tint to their complexions.

Where it is going to end, no one seems to know. . . . or care. . . . You hear the owners of smugger night clubs complaining in loud, clear tones in Lindy's and Reuben's about the fantastic salaries being paid by Nicky Blair at the Carnival to Milton Berle and Martha Raye. . . . They insist that such salaries are taking all the talent out of their class. . . . Then they try to coax a comic into their own cafes by paying more than their modest opposition, thus starting the lower-bracket comedians on the hungry hunt for more money elsewhere. . . . I know of one club which wanted a comic who was not a really good attraction, but the best available, so the owner offered his agent several hundred dollars more a week than he would get elsewhere. . . . The club folded a few days later, but the comic had a new salary ceiling to boast and he went out asking, and getting, price.

Selected hymns were stowed away along with first-aid kits, and rations on lifeboats and rafts in the merchant marine of the United States in World War II.

THREE PEOPLE CAUGHT BY CIRCUMSTANCES—Jennifer Jones, Joseph Cotten and Ann Richards share happiness and tragedy in Paramount's unusual drama, "Love Letters," opening today at the State Theatre.

State Features Unusual Drama, "Love Letters"

"Love Letters," the unusual story playing at the State Theatre today and tomorrow, Hal Wallis' latest production, gets off to a quiet start, then increases in pace and tension to reach a highly emotional climax calculated to reach the audience.

It is revealed slowly, allowing audience curiosity plenty of time to develop and increase to fever-pitch. The restrained performances of Jennifer Jones and Joseph Cotten contribute in large part to the effectiveness of this device.

There's war in the background, but so far in the background that the picture cannot rightly be classified as a war film. At the story's start, Cotten is a British army officer who undertakes, on behalf of his buddy, to write love letters to a girl he has never seen. He falls in love with the stranger, and rightly assumes that she loves him, the author of the letters, and not the man who signed them. It is with shock, and a premonition of disaster, that he learns later that she has married his friend.

More than a year later, learning of his friend's death, and still haunted by the memory of the girl he has never met, he sets out to find her. By a baffling combination of circumstances he can learn nothing; neither the girl's whereabouts, nor the cause of his friend's death. He does, however, meet one woman who appears to hold the clue to the mystery. Eventually he discovers, through her, that his friend's death was murder; that the young wife was accused and convicted of the crime, although her memory had been wiped out by shock, so that she was unable to remember the circumstances of the killing, nor her marriage, nor any of the events of her past life.

Cotten, therefore, is confronted with a difficult problem. If he marries the girl as his heart prompts him to do, she may later recover her memory and, learning that he wrote the letters which led to her first husband's death and her own suffering, turn against him in hatred. How he faces this problem, and succeeds in solving it, constitutes the absorbing climax of Ayn Rand's screenplay, based on the novel by Chris Marnie.

From an excellent cast of supporting players, Ann Richards and Gladys Cooper must be singled out for special mention. William Dietz's skillful direction achieves the utmost in suspense.

The word restaurant in America was first applied to the dining rooms of the better class of hotels and to a few high class a la carte restaurants.

Texas Today— LITTLE GIRL SPENDS WEEKEND WITH BULLET IN HER STOMACH

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff

Mainly about people:

The Kingsville Record says a local girl, three-and-a-half year old Mary Trussell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Trussell, spent the week-end with a bullet in her.

But there was no pain and no wound, and Mary had the time of her life being the absolute center of attraction for three days.

"Mary swallowed a .22 calibre long rifle bullet Friday morning," the Record says. "She reached the 'all clear' stage late Sunday."

R. C. Blocker of Christoval, Tex., visited his old home town of Hillsboro, Texas, in a British war bride from Romford, Essex, England. These are her reactions:

She likes America, and says it's nice to see shops full of food and clothing. Her favorite American food is coconut pie and bananas. She said she is gradually getting adjusted to three meals a day—in England they have four, including tea at four o'clock. Until she arrived in Texas, she had never tasted lead tea.

She does not like coffee. Corn bread is new to her, and she loves

We Should Not Forget Bataan

By FRANK GRIMES
Herald Special Writer

An interesting booklet, "Report of Activities, Army Ground Forces, World War II," has been issued under the authority of General Jacob L. Devers, commanding general, AGF.

It tells in word, picture and chart the magnificent record of the 89 divisions armed, trained and sent overseas by the AGF. It lists the historic spots where the ground forces gave such good account of themselves—the names of 35 outstanding engagements including Guadalcanal, Saipan, El Guetjar, Cassino, Anzio, Pilsen.

But omitted from the list was the first, and in many respects, the most terrible battle of them all: Bataan. That was the one the U. S. Army lost, but in losing won months of delay by upsetting the Jap timetable. That is the one the higher brass of the U. S. Army would like to shove into limbo, out of men's memories, because in a sense it reflected on the higher brass—the failure to prepare suitable defense works on Bataan in advance of the battle that all military experts for thirty years had known would be fought some day on that exact spot.

The failure to store food and medicine and provide even rudimentary hospital facilities. The failure to exclude civilian refugees, who ate up the meager food supplies and overwhelmed the crude hospital facilities. The failure to make full use of planes and submarines to bring supplies to the starving garrison. The failure to create landing strips and hidden airfields. The failure to protect warplanes, caught like sitting ducks in the first few hours of the onslaught. The failure to build roads and trails in advance, to facilitate the movement of troops within the peninsula. The failure to carry into Bataan the stores destroyed or abandoned elsewhere. The guilt of hiding from the American people the awful fate that befell those who surrendered, and of failing to bring to bear upon the government of Japan every means at our command to compel better treatment for American prisoners of war.

Some of these faults belong to the higher brass, some to the government, some to congress, some to the public. The whole adds up to the most disgraceful chapter in the history of the American people at war.

Yes, Bataan was left off the list of major battles of World War II. A place called Luxon is listed, but not Bataan. Oran and Algiers are there, and Remagen and the Ruhr pocket, but no Bataan. There was no place in the formal report of the Army Ground Forces for the battle that gave an unprepared America time to prepare, that stopped the Japs cold for many months, that almost certainly saved Australia and many of the Pacific islands later put to such good use by a resurgent American army, navy and air force.

Last Tuesday was the fourth anniversary of the fall of Bataan. It was an occasion little noted. Men were too busy quarreling over who gets credit for what, who gets promoted, who gets out or who gets in.

If "Remember Pearl Harbor" was an embarrassing slogan for the higher brass, "Remember Bataan" might be even more so.

The army goes to great pains to tell us of its success—and all honor to American manhood and leadership for those successes—but if it wants to keep America ever alert to danger, let it spend a little time and money reminding us of its most disgraceful failure: Bataan.

The bloodhounds of the Pearl Harbor investigation committee are again sniffing round, trying to find out if President Roosevelt and his advisers had been guilty of taking steps to forestall or ward off an attack from Japan. They would have been negligent of their duty indeed if they had not explored every possibility. Instead, their detractors are trying to find them guilty of having done their best to prepare the nation for the blow that Japan had been preparing for years.

That, too, is something to remember.

Big Spring is suffering from "grumbler's" pains as well as "growing" pains. And we must get rid of the first before we can ease the second.

Officials of city, county and schools and of civic agencies are confronted with urgencies just as pressing as those of any businessman who is trying to keep pace with the times. They have fought the shortages and the tribulations of a wartime economy along with the private businessmen. They, like private enterprise, could not do all they wanted to do.

Granted, now, that they can do more. They can do it a lot better and a lot more quickly if they have the all-out, constructive support of the citizenry. They cannot do much at all unless they do have that type of support.

The Herald thinks it is time for many of us to drop the attitude of "Why in the f— haven't they done this?" and adopt the attitude of "Let's get this done now!"

LUIGI PEDDLES BLACK MARKET DOGS

NAPLES, April 13. (AP)—Luigi is probably the world's only peddler of black market Saint Bernard dogs named Saint Bernard.

Luigi is a pint-sized Naples mop-top with lustrous black hair and a face where age-old Neapolitan cunning outshines any faint tinge of boyish honesty that might ever have been there. He wears patches on his bands and the patches are patched, too. His oversized, flapping shoes have been ventilated by corrosion and are tied together by ropes.

I was waiting for a bus outside the Naples postoffice when Luigi caught me.

I had turned down three street urchin junior salesmen in the previous five minutes.

Then Luigi came up and plumped a fat, squirmy puppy into my hands.

"How much you pay, Joe?" I don't want any dog now. "He's a goods dog," said Luigi, "best in da black market."

"Where did you get him?" "You just gimme 20 dollars. I need buy some new shoes. You keeps da dog—I keep da shoes."

"What kind of dog is he?" and "what's his name, Luigi?" "His name? His name is San Bernard. All San Bernard dogs name San Bernard. This fine dog. You gets stuck in da snow, he come pulla you out and give you drinks whisky. He's good dog. How much you pay, Joe?"

"By this time I was desperately shifting the wriggling puppy back and forth in uneasy hands. A crowd was beginning to gather. Look, Luigi, take this dog and mail him home to the Alps or something. I don't want him. He's a goods dog. He likes you. He's gooda dog. He likes you already. He wags da tail. He don't eat much. He don't sleeps much. He stay up all night to watch you and bite da had people for you. You needs San Bernard dog, Joe."

The puppy began to feel a little heavier. I think he had grown some during the argument.

Luigi saw I was willing and began to put on the pressure. "How much you pay, Joe? Its a state now and I gotta go home. You give a five ten dollars."

Just then a young soldier stepped up and patted the puppy. Frantically, I stuffed him into the soldier's hands and Luigi swung immediately to this fresh target.

"Hess San Bernard dog, Joe. How much you pay?"

I escaped at a fast dogtrot.

"BIG ONE" TAKES FISHERMAN'S LUCK

BAXTER SPRINGS, Kas., April 13. (AP)—Besides the big one that got away, fisherman Virgil Tyler had these events to bemoan:

The "big one" broke his pole and Tyler lost his line; his minnows died; he lost his fishing light and a string of 12 crapples; he leaved over to adjust a line and his hillfold fell into the water, and when he tried to retrieve it he fell into the lake.

Two companions rescued him.

BOVINE BOOGIE WITHOUT MUSIC

FARMINGTON, Minn., April 13. (AP)—When Ernest Sprute walked into his dairy barn and found his cows doing the rumba—without the benefit of music—he became suspicious.

He investigated and found a short circuit on a line that led from a nearby water pump to the metal stanchions.

The cows stopped their stomping after Sprute shut off the current.

Truman Okayed Arrest Of Russian

WASHINGTON, — Inside fact about the arrest of Russian naval officer Nicolai Redin is that J. Edgar Hoover's G-men had their case sewed up 100 per cent before they cracked down on him. The facts were even placed before President Truman in advance.

Those attending the White House conference regarding Redin included hard-working Attorney General Tom Clark, acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson, and the President himself. Clark outlined the facts briefly and then asked Acheson:

"Now, if this is going to embarrass our relations with Russia, I'll hold it up."

"The only thing I'm interested in," replied Acheson, "is whether you have a case. If you have, then go ahead."

Clark replied that, unquestionably, J. Edgar Hoover had built up an airtight case, and outlined the record briefly. Truman expressed great interest and said he would like to see the record himself.

The record consists of about 100 pages conclusively showing that Redin tried to buy and eventually did obtain the plans of the USS Yellowstone. The FBI had been shadowing him for about eight months, in fact ever since he approached a member of the ship's crew.

The crewman reported the conversation to the G-men, who told him to continue his talks with Redin. During these, Redin asked various questions about the ship, and eventually offered to buy the ship's plans. Under FBI instructions, the plans were delivered to him, after which he was arrested and they were retrieved.

The ship was not important and the amazing thing is that the Russians went to so much trouble to try to get his blueprints. The incident showed a complete lack of knowledge regarding US naval vessels. Importance of the incident is that it reveals an overall plan by the Russians to secure information of any kind regarding American military and naval secrets.

Presidential Humor
In addition to being a red-hot promoter of air travel, Civil Aeronautics Board Vice-Chairman Oswald Ryan—like all Hoosiers—never overlooks a chance to advertise the virtues of his home state.

At the White House recently, Ryan was giving the President a careful on how fortunate Truman was to be able to fly over Indiana on air trips to Missouri.

"I can always identify Indiana from the air because of its great scenic beauty," expanded Ryan. "It's always a thrill to fly over it."

"Yes, it's a beautiful state, no doubt," agreed Truman. "But I always identify it from the air by the Huckleberry Finn system."

"What do you mean?" asked the CAB official.

"Well, Huckleberry distinguished the various states by their colors in school maps. I follow the same formula. Indiana is pink and Missouri is green."

Atomic Vandenberg
Atomic scientists pay tribute to the broad-mindedness of Michigan's Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg regarding atomic energy legislation. When the GOP leader first came back from London, he plunged into the Atomic Energy committee debates without knowing all that had gone before and came up with an amendment which threatened to hamstring future scientific experimentation.

However, when Vandenberg sat down with the scientists, he was the first to realize his mistake, and since then has taken the lead in trying to write a bill which will give scientific research ample scope yet also safeguard the military secrets of the USA.

Scientists say he has shown more statesmanship than any other member of the committee. Least statesmanship, they also say, is shown by Senator Bourke B. Hickel, another Republican.

At one-time the atomic bill contained clauses very close to thought control, whereby the exchange of any kind of atomic knowledge, even non-military, could be a criminal offense. This restriction could have affected use of atomic energy for civilian purposes such as running automobiles or power projects.

The atomic bill also provided for the most far-reaching censorship ever seen in the United States, so that the "acquisition" of atomic knowledge, even if not published, could be a criminal offense. The rewritten bill is by no means perfect, but atomic energy is a new field, and the job of governing it is difficult.

Capital Chaff

The National Association of Manufacturers has been spending thousands of dollars to put the OPA out of business. But a Sunday baseball game almost did the trick. Chester Bowles, catcher, was hit by a wild ball pitched by Paul Porter, who, in turn, sprained his ankle. Housing czar Wilson Wyatt, on the same team, sprained his back. Other players—all OPA-ites, are still stiff and sore.

If Attorney General Tom Clark doesn't pull James M. McInerney out of the hair of senators, he will undo all the excellent good-will Clark has built up. Ex-Governor George Earle of Pennsylvania, recently discharged from the Navy and newly married in Turkey to a Belgian 19-year-old, is planning a nationwide speaking tour to urge that we get busy right away for war with Russia.

Harold Ickes plays his respects to the columnists in this month's Pageant. His remarks are pungent. Though more than 8,000,000 men have been discharged from the Army, Surgeon General Norman T. Kirk is still hoarding Army doctors to such an extent that about one-third the State of Maine has only one veterinarian. Other Maine vets are still kept in the Army.

Rousing War Veterans
If housing czar Wilson Wyatt ever gets a spare minute, he might use it to crack down on a mean

Speculators have been approaching apartment-house owners, urging them to divide their houses up and sell shares, one share being equal to one apartment. Once the apartment is sold, the present occupant can be dispossessed. Then the veteran must either beg, borrow or steal the cash, sometimes running to as much as $3,000 to keep his apartment. Or if he buys an apartment, he must then help manage the apartment house—no mean feat for amateur non-real-estate. Otherwise it is necessary to appoint a management firm at a high fee to run the house for them. Either way the veteran gets it in the neck.

NOTE—On the other hand, some veterans go to the extreme of not paying their rent and refusing to live up to the apartment house regulations. Since it is almost impossible to get a court order dispossessing a veteran for non-payment of rent or an infraction of the rules, some landlords prefer to sell out.

The Nation Today—James Marlow

Budgets, Balanced, Unbalanced

WASHINGTON, April 13. (AP)—President Truman says "we are on the way toward a balanced budget." He doesn't mean this year. Maybe in 1947.

But what does a budget—balanced or unbalanced—mean to you, an individual, in your daily life?

For one thing, if the budget gets balanced, Congress may decide to lower your taxes.

The budget is the amount of money the government figures it must spend in any one year.

To get that money for expenses, the government must do one of two things:

1. Get income in the form of taxes.

2. Borrow from banks or individuals by selling them bonds.

In a year when the government's income is equal to—or greater than—its expenses, the budget is balanced.

When the expenses are greater than income and the government has to borrow to make up the difference, the budget is unbalanced. This unbalance is called a budget deficit.

When the budget went out of balance in 1930 we were heading into a depression, with millions of people becoming unemployed.

The government not only could not expect taxes from unemployed people but decided it had to spend money to make jobs for them.

So the government's income sank and it had to borrow. Then the war came.

Government expenses—even though everyone was working and taxes went up—skyrocketed far above government income.

1946 government expenses for fiscal 1946 dropped.

Even so, President Truman only four months ago figured the deficit for fiscal 1946 would be $28,000,000,000.

But yesterday, because of continued drops in government expenses, Mr. Truman said the deficit for fiscal 1946 probably would be only $21,700,000,000.

Maybe there won't be any deficit in fiscal 1947 and, for the first time since 1930, the budget will be balanced—if government expenses can be held down.

That doesn't mean, however, that Congress then can cut taxes drastically. For this reason:

Ever since 1930—with all those successive years of unbalanced budgets—the public debt piled up. Which means:

Since in those years government income wasn't enough to meet government expenses, the government had to borrow money to keep going.

That debt—called the public debt, because it's money which we the American people owe through our government—is now about $274,000,000,000.

The government wasn't able to pay off any of the debt. It was able only to pay interest.

So when the budget gets unbalanced—or rather when revenue starts to exceed expenses—the government will start paying off that public debt and taxes will be kept pretty high.

What Would You Have Done In Harry Truman's Shoes?

Two years ago a mild-mannered, unassuming man stepped from an American Airlines plane here to be met by a group of Big Spring and Lubbock men.

He was taking time out from a busy schedule as a senator and chairman of the war building and production investigation committee to address a meeting of West Texas Democrats. He seemed like a typical small businessman, affable, interested, personable.

A year ago Friday this same man was called to the White House and informed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt that her husband had died unexpectedly at Warm Springs, Ga.

Harry S. Truman—a man who steadily maintains he had no desire or dream of ever becoming president—was thrust into the most responsible position in the world.

What would he do as President of the United States in what perhaps was the most critical period in world history? He was an average man, the role in which most people fancy themselves in. What would they have done?

Gerald reporters asked several people that question. Here are the answers:

B. J. McDANIEL, City manager—Thinks Harry has done a remarkable job, taking into consideration the major crises he has faced—although not the public figure or statesman some others may have been he has done lots of good—likes his policy of not being afraid to say anything to anybody and saying it in a way everybody understands what he means.

J. H. GREEN, chamber of commerce manager—"If I had been in Harry Truman's shoes last April 12, I would have regretted it very much, but having placed myself in a position where such an event was possible, or even probable in this case, I would have pitched right in and tried to do the best I could—just like I believe Harry Truman has done."

E. O. POSEY, Harlow Publishing Company, Hillsboro—"I think I would follow the Roosevelt plan in trying to make this a better world for every individual. I would not be hard-boiled with anyone except those who wanted to disturb world peace."

WALKER BAILEY, county school superintendent—"If the job got too big for me, I'd be like the fellow named Jiggs who was approached with a hypothetical question on military tactics. 'If you were a general,' he was asked, 'and had a regiment deep in a canyon and there was no way out save the opening occupied by the enemy and the enemy was a force of overwhelming numbers. What would you do?' 'If I were in a situation like that,' Jiggs replied, 'I'd resign.'"

M. E. HARLAN, insurance salesman—"My stand on Labor would be far firmer than that taken by either Roosevelt or Truman. We cannot let classes dictate to our government. Of Russia, I would have dealt firmly and that from the start."

R. L. "BOB" COOK, real estate—"I would probably have done just what President Truman did, for the duty thrust upon him could not have surprised me much more than it did him. I think Jimmy Byrnes would have been my choice as Secretary of State."

EMMA ROSE WEIR, clerk—"I think I would have insisted that the UN capital be located in Big Spring. Too, I would have recommended a raise in wages for all county clerks' clerks."

HENRY A. CLARK, USES manager—"If I had been in Truman's place last year, I would have been humbled by the responsibility as he was, and I would have prepared for a nervous breakdown. I do not believe any other man ever entered the White House with responsibilities as grave as Truman's when he took office. On the other hand, no other man ever enjoyed the cooperation of all agencies at the beginning as Truman has."

H. M. HAMILL, cafe-man—"The only thing I'd take issue with on Truman's policy is the manner in which OPA is handling the lumber and meat questions. I think I would lift the ceiling on both, for most restaurant men, I know, are willing to pay more if they can get it, and we all know they can get it if they pay more. Lumber control should come under the GI Bill of Rights, in other words the veterans should have first crack at it."

Dr. Rainey To Give Daily Radio Talks

Dr. Homer P. Rainey, prominent Texan, will be featured on a new radio program over Radio Station KBST, beginning Monday, April 15.

He will speak daily from 7:15 to 7:30 a. m., Monday through Saturday, on "Religion in Life." Dr. Rainey's new series of addresses will be featured over nineteen Texas radio stations including the Texas State Network.

The new program is sponsored by the Jaques Power Saw Company of Denison, Texas, manufacturers of power saws, earth boring machines and other farm equipment.

"EASTER" DUCK DYES OWN EGGS

NEW ULM, Minn., April 12 (AP)—Armin Filzen says he has a duck with Easter spirit.

The duck, which usually has a yen for pastel shades, has turned to laying green eggs. With uncanny regularity, Filzen says, the duck lays a green egg every other day.

PROTESTANTS OPEN MORAL FILM DRIVE

AP Newsfeatures
NEW YORK—The Protestant Motion Picture Council has developed a plan to give organized support to movies of good moral quality.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald and sponsor of the council, explained that in addition to appraising pictures as in the past, members of various Protestant churches would be asked to organize active box office support for better films. "This is the constructive American answer to un-American political censorship," Dr. Poling said. He added that the council would form a committee to work with the producing companies in suggesting suitable films and assuring the producers of the council's backing for such films.

Need A House? Go To South Africa

NELSPRUIT, South Africa. (AP)—One hundred three-room houses—part of Nelspruit's new housing scheme—have been standing unoccupied for more than a year.

Built of stone, with concrete floors and ceilings the houses have stoves, shower baths and other conveniences. The rent is only 15 shillings ($3.50) a month, but the natives prefer to remain in their wattle and daub huts. When C. G. Cottingham, town clerk, asked a deputation from the natives to meet him, the leaders told him why the houses were unoccupied. "You have made the ceilings of concrete in order that you may cause them to fall at your will and kill us," he said.

Lakeview School Giving Full Instruction, Says Principal

In your article of Thursday, April 11, 1946, some statements were made in the column, "Locking Them Over," which reflect discredit on our Lakeview colored school. We feel that this criticism is unjust and unfair because it is not according to the facts. The statement that we only teach through the third or fourth grade is an error because we now have students in the ninth grade. We have had students in the tenth grade. Never at any time since I have been principal of this school has any student enrolled in any grade that he has not been taught. If any one doubts these facts they are invited to come to Lakeview school and inspect my records which are required to be kept by the law of the state for every child that enrolls in our school.

It is true that we do not have a modern brick building for our school but that we have a frame building which is old but it is comfortable and large enough for all the scholars who will attend school at this time. I am sure that the article was published in defense of the football team that the public was so enthused over last season but the public is not very well acquainted with the origin of this football team. It is true that the idea was to get these boys in school in order to get them out of the "flats" and to keep them from the gambling places where cursing and drinking was going on and to keep them from getting into trouble and being placed in the city jail. In other words we are hoping to make better citizens out of these boys. This idea was in the mind of the principal when football was started but at once it backfired. The enrollment at Lakeview school at once increased to the largest in its history.

The reason for this was the excitement over football. Yes, each came to the principal with "Please allow me to go to school," and being misled by these pleas with a big smile they were allowed to register. Thinking this was a solution to the "flats problem" that has stared the public in the face for such a long time these boys registered stating they were in grades ranging from the first (at the ripe old age of 22) through the tenth (with no record to prove that they had attended school anywhere) but they were accepted. Again this proved to be an error. But sometime during the day when their coach did go to the jail and get them they would come to school. While there disorder always prevailed. While on the road going through their practice the primary teachers living in their quarters, as well as the wife of the principal, were often forced to stop up their ears so as not to hear the many curse words that flowed forth from the mouth of their leader as well as the players. The school board has given Lakeview school all instructors they have needed. Except for the short time that the football boys were enrolled in school our teaching load has been reasonable. We feel as long as the present teachers are doing their best, working together, living together, and making a record for themselves as well as the school, that we should leave these issues to the decision of the school board.

Shanghai Seamen Speak With Awe Of Bizarre Voyage Of Freighter

SHANGHAI, April 13 (AP)—Seamen spoke with awe tonight in the bars of Blood Alley of the bizarre voyage of the American freighter Ada Rehan, whose crew reported round-the-world experiences rivaling those of the legendary Flying Dutchman.

The Ada Rehan is unloading United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration equipment here. War Shipping Administration officials are checking details of the weird voyage which, started Aug. 16, 1945, as a routine trip from San Francisco, to New Orleans.

A few days out, the story goes, the Ada Rehan was requisitioned by the WSA and sent to Santiago,

All Roads Lead Back To Rome For Rare Books

Chile, for a load of nitrate and then ordered to Tripoli. The voyage was enlivened by such incidents as mistaking a floating mine field for a herd of turtles and "getting lost" in the open ocean because a seaman on watch carried in his pocket a magnet powerful enough to swing the ship's compass crazily.

Crewmen said the skipper, Capt. Harold B. Ellis, a war veteran, went ashore at Tripoli suffering from a nervous collapse. The first mate, F. Henry Haas of Mobile, Ala., took over command.

At an Arabian port, the crew refused to sail further under Haas' command. The reason was not reported. The vessel got under way for Persia only after he called on the Coast Guard to remove two men whom he charged with insubordination.

A thirsty baboon stepped into the picture at Khorramshahr in the Persian Gulf. A seaman's club there was being disbanded and the mascot was given to Haas, who had a cage built for it on deck. The skipper didn't know the baboon was an habitual drunk. With its supply of vodka and beer suddenly cut off, the animal broke from its cage, bit the master and jumped ship, speeded on its way by a volley of shots from Haas' revolver. A miniature safari was organized and the baboon was tracked down and shot.

It likewise was at Khorramshahr, where the cargo of UNRRA rail equipment was loaded, that three pretty Persians appeared. The women were taken aboard, along with three or four men and a boy of about seven, the ship's crew related.

There was "some trouble" at sea about attentions paid the women by the seamen, they reported, but all the passengers were aboard when the Ada Rehan arrived here,

ROME—Eighteen freight cars, manned and guarded by American troops, recently brought back to Rome 2,000 crates containing 200,000 rare and priceless books from two libraries carted off by the Germans.

Arrival of the libraries in Rome ended a two-year quest by scholars from Allied, enemy and neutral nations during and after the war. The books finally were found by American soldiers hidden in castles and salt mines in Austria.

One collection of nearly 130,000 irreplaceable volumes, collected over a century, was housed in the German Archeological Institute in Rome. The institute's library, built up by scholars of all nations who came to Rome to study, contained valuable source material dealing with the archeology of ancient Greece and Rome.

The 70,000 other volumes taken by the Nazis were from the Herziana Library, devoted to art history of the Renaissance.

USES Takes Pulse Of Job Opportunities In Areas

AUSTIN, April 13. (AP)—A pulse-sensitive network today keeps vigil over job-tight Texas to warn quickly each community when unemployment threatens to surge beyond controllable bounds. It is the hope of the watchful United States Employment Service that critical Texas unemployment may be forestalled by community heed of monthly warning signals. Keeping watch over Texas unemployment necessitates two major projects—measuring employment and measuring unemployment. The work is far more complicated than merely counting noses. An official explains: To determine employment figures last month USES local offices in 27 major Texas labor areas and 75 other minor areas contacted 3,000 "key" Texas employers.

On the basis of employers' own predictions for the ensuing 30 days, the USES estimates the month's current employed non-agricultural workers. For March the figure was 2,500,000. Then comes the job of counting unemployed. The same area offices gather the information. From this maze of reports comes an estimated figure on unemployment, checked and cross-checked for accuracy. The march figure was 200,000.

The non-agricultural labor force is estimated in each community by totaling the employed and the unemployed. For March the overall state figure was 2,700,000.

Thus USES monthly takes the pulse of a feverish state so that danger signals may be hoisted in communities of increasing unemployment.

Four classifications are set up. Where community unemployment is under three percent of the community's total non-agricultural labor force, USES says more workers are needed. There are no such areas currently in Texas.

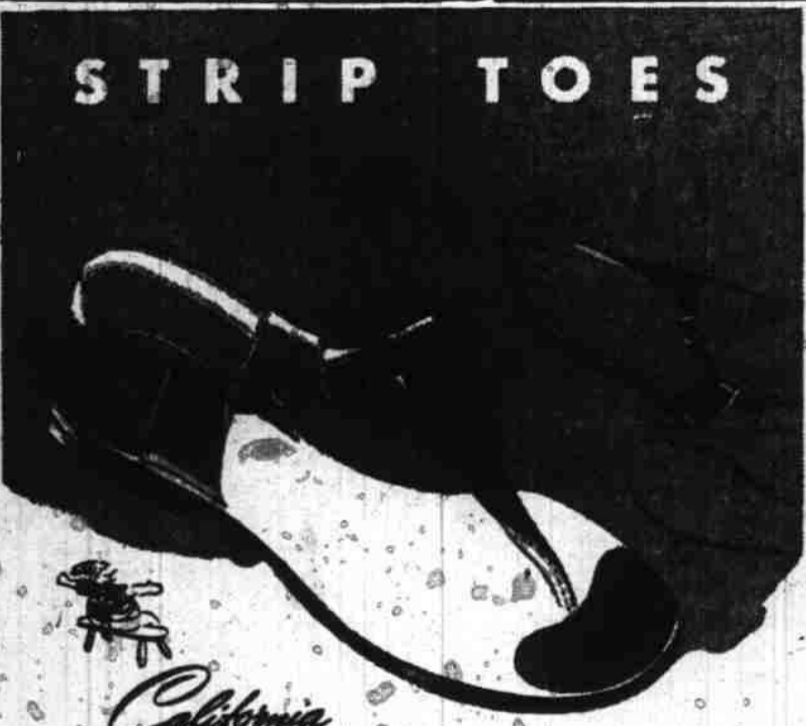

Where unemployment is three to six per cent of the labor force, workers and jobs are considered in balance.

Unemployment of six to ten per cent indicates a surplus of workers. Over ten per cent unemployment is the "serious" zone.

In the last are Abilene, Beaumont, Longview, Lufkin, San Antonio, Texarkana, Waco and the Sherman-Denison area.

Unemployment and employment figures by area, industry, skill and sex are always available with 30-day accuracy through this statistical network. Conditions two months ahead may even be forecast with as great a degree of accuracy as an individual employer can say how many workers he will need in the next two months.

"All these figures are compiled principally in the interest of each Texas community. They are invaluable in industrial planning, counseling, measuring progress, and in

Colorado JCs Elect Officers

COLORADO CITY, April 13 (Sp)—Under the sponsorship of Sweetwater's Jaycees, a charter meeting for members of the recently organized Colorado City Junior chamber of commerce found 63 charter members of the organization present in the Hotel Crawford ball room here Wednesday evening.

The junior chamber was organized on April 4 when 17 members of the Sweetwater Jaycees and 38 Colorado City men were entertained with an opening dinner party.

Elected president of the local group was H. Ernest Griffith, young attorney who became associated with the law firm of Charles C. Thompson last December.

Other Jaycee officers chosen are Brady Warren, first vice-president; Porter Richardson, second vice-president; Harold Bennett, secretary; Jay Craddock, treasurer; George Otis Witten, state director; and Charles Root, Joe C. Clark, Floyd Wallace, Bill Craddock and Newby Pratt, members of the board of directors.

carrying on an employer contact program," the official declared, adding:

"It's a mammoth job that must repeat itself month after month. It will be worth every effort if communities only heed the warning."
