VIP In Schools

Explained At Rotary

"We don't want your money, we want your time," Pam Hancock said when speaking to the Rotary Club at noon Tuesday. Mrs. Hancock is director of the local VIP (Parents Involved in Public School) organization. "We have a lot of community involvement in our schools, and we need more," Mrs. Hancock said.

"You have a lot of influence on children's lives, every time you go to a sporting event, church...Anywhere you go you are endorsing it. You are saying it is OK. You set the example for children, whether it is your own children, grandchildren, niece, nephew or neighbors child."

"When families get involved in the schools, children realize the importance of education. There are volunteers working in each of our schools. Lynn Vandiver works with the group at Dillman. Dillman has had VIP for about four years. Dillman VIP's are moms and dads who work up to four hours a day, helping with reading, coloring, etc.

"Holly Hooten is in charge of VIP's at Mary DeShazo, since these are older students they don't need as much help in the classroom. The VIP's tutor students, help with field trips, special projects, and help in the office. Anything that gives the teachers more time to work with the students."

"VIP's is new at Watson Junior High this year. Terri Hahn is in charge of this group of volunteers. These volunteers do tutoring, clerical skills and help in the office."

"The VIP organization works a little different at high school. A Speakers Bureau has been organized at high school. They arrange for students to visit various businesses. When a business allows a tour, they are saying education is important."

The Floydada Whirlwinds blew into town Friday night hoping to put a damper on Homecoming activities by defeating the Muleshoe Mules in their first district game of the season.

Stacie Harris was crowned Homecoming Queen during pre-game activities. Miss Harris was presented by her father, Rex Harris, and escorted by David Serrano and Shane Glover.

Runners-up included: Sonya Cisneros presented by her father, Paul Cisneros, and escorted by Bryan Rasco and Eric McElroy.

Shane Schuster was presented by her father Alec Schuster, escorted by Adrian Salazar and Steven Wauson. The escorts were all seniors.

Another runner-up, Misty Davenport was escorted by Jon Watkins and Marvin Lewis.

It was a hard fought game and even though the Whirlwinds defeated the Mules 42 to 6, the Mules played a good game.

Getting the game underway, the Mules kicked to the Whirlwinds and they put the ball into play on the Mules 22 yard line. On the next play a foot race got underway and one of the Whirlwinds broke several tackles and raced 78 yards into the endzone, putting the first score on the scoreboard at :07 into the game. The point after kick was no good and the score stood 6-0.

The Mules then put the ball into action on their own 20 yard line. Before the Mules could make a first down, they fumbled the ball and Floydada came up with it.

With 9:14 left in the quarter Floydada again raced into the endzone and after a two point conversion the Whirlwinds led 14-0.

Being unable to move the ball on their next possession, the Mules were forced to punt the ball back to the Whirlwinds.

The Whirlwinds put the ball into play on the Mules 38 yard line. Again there was a foot race and the Floydada Whirlwinds raced 62 yards into the endzone with 7:20 left on the clock. The point after kick was good and the Whirlwinds led 21-0.

With 6:55 left in the quarter, the Mules began to move the ball. After picking up a couple of first downs, the Mules were forced to turn the ball over to Floydada on downs.

Floydada took over on their own 31 yard line. The Whirlwinds fumbled the ball and the Mules recovered.

The Mules put the ball into play on the Whirlwinds 47 yard line. Chad Freeman caught a 19 yard pass. A few plays later, the Mules made it into the endzone on a 33 yard pass. The point after kick was no good and the score stood Whirlwinds 21 -Mules 6.

Kicking the ball back to the Whirlwinds, the Mules recovered a fumble and put the ball into play on the 46 yard line.

Again the Mules were unable to move the ball and the Whirlwinds took over on downs on the Mules 49 yard line.

The Whirlwinds were unable to move the ball and were forced to punt to the Mules. The Mules put the ball into play on their own 28 yard line, after having a return back to the 43 yard line called back due to an illegal procedure being called.

2. Producers who signup for Phase II and/or Phase III will receive a payment rate of 50.04 percent of the amount due. This is the same percentage that was paid under Phase I.

3. Payment will be made to producers as soon as they have furnished all the required documentation and the application is approved by the County Committee.

5. Producers cannot avoid insurance simply by delaying application for disaster payments. In addition, producers must certify they understand that failure to pay the required crop insurance premiums will mean forfeiture of disaster payments.

6. FCIC has extended the sales closing date to October 31, 1992, for wheat, barley, oats, rye, nursery crops, and potatoes.

Please contact this office for further information.

ADDITIONAL 10 PERCENT ADVANCED

Fire Department Plays Vital Role In County

By Stephen Hutchison

As Bailey County celebrates its 75th anniversary, it also celebrates the many men and women who have played an important role in its survival.

The Muleshoe Volunteer Fire Department has been a vital part of Bailey County and the surrounding area for as long as most people can remember.

"They've saved countless numbers of property around here", says Roy Whitt of 1828 Ave. E. "And they always seem to be there when you need them."

Earl Ladd Sr., for whom the fire station is named, retired as fire chief in the 1970's. After serving more than 40 years with the department and nearly all of his 84 years of life spent fighting fires, Mr. Ladd has seen many changes.

When he began his career in Muleshoe, the fire department had two fire trucks; one flatbed ford with a front-mounted pump, and one "under-powered" 1941 Dodge. From these two trucks they combined parts and built number 11, which can still be seen in the city barn.

Under Mr. Ladd's supervision the fire department became the first rural fire department in the area to have radio communication. This not only helped save precious time in getting to fires but also put the firefighters in communication with the police department and highway patrol.

The Muleshoe Volunteers were also instrumental in helping initiate the Maple, Enochs and Lazbuddie fire departments. Mr. Ladd said that these lightened the burden of having to cover such a large area, but were difficult to get started.

"It is hard to set something like that up," he said, "because you have to find volunteers who can fit it into their schedules."

Muleshoe's fire department is not short on volunteers or on

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

More than 830,000 Texans have diabetes and half of them don't know it--that's 1 in 14 Caucasians and 1 in 8 Hispanics. Texas is ranked third in the country for the number of people who have diabetes.

In Texas, over 7,000 people a year die from diabetes--the fourth leading cause of death nationally, and over 750,000 new cases are diagnosed each year in the United States.

Diabetes is the leading cause of blindness in people ages 25 to 74 and was the leading cause for Texans receiving state funded dialysis treatment in 1990. Total health care costs for treating diabetes in Texas in 1990 were over $2.6 billion.

Diabetes is a serious disease. When you need information about diabetes, whether it be vital statistics, accurate diabetes information, professional medical spokespersons or legislative information, call the leading authority on diabetes: the American Diabetes Association.

Established in 1940 as a professional/medical scientific society, the American Diabetes Association (ADA) is the nation's leading voluntary health organization concerned with diabetes treatment and research.

We look forward to working with you and encourage you to use our organization as a resource and a news source. November is National Diabetes Month and you will soon be receiving information from your local ADA office. We hope that you will help us in increasing awareness of this serious disease in your community.

Sincerely,
Renee Peterson

Texas Department Of Agriculture

Rick Perry

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry praised a presidential declaration freeing up federal loans for unemployment assistance (and emergency loans) in 12 Texas counties on the High and Southern Plains to alleviate economic hardships caused by losses to the area's cotton crop.

The declaration follows on the heels of the $755 million released by Washington for agricultural disaster relief throughout the nation.

"Today's declaration will help our farmers, migrant workers and other agriculture-related workers get back on their feet following Mother Nature's one-two punch earlier this year," Perry said.

Heavy rains and hail across the High and South Plains in May and June severely damaged or destroyed many cotton fields, and some producers lost their entire cotton crop. According to current forecasts, almost 1.9 million acres of cotton have been lost in a 44-county area in West Texas.

"And that lost acreage represents jobs, not only for our agricultural workers but for people whose businesses depend upon the area's cotton crop," Perry said.

With the disaster declaration, farmers, migrant workers and other agriculture-related workers will be able to tap into federal funds through unemployment assistance (and emergency loans from the Small Business Administration and Farmers Home Administration.)

The counties affected by the declaration include Bailey, Briscoe, Castro, Cochran, Crosby, Floyd, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Parmer and Swisher.

During 1991, these counties produced 1.4 million bales of cotton valued at more than $367 million.

"Best Friends"

I can't recall the exact time I met her, however, it was sometime during the first two or three weeks of kindergarten. Somewhere in the blur of those days, we met during recess. Who could have ever imagined that we were destined to become "best friends?" Back then, neither of us would probably have ever guessed that eleven years later we would still be best friends.

Amanda St. Clair was her so-called "best friend" because they were in the same homeroom. April Franklin was mine because she lived two houses down from me, and we had known each other for two years. Therefore, neither of us was really looking for another best friend.

I had seen her around. She was in my Sunday school class and I saw her on the playground sometimes. I remember looking at those sausage curls in her long hair. How I wished that I had hair like that! However, since I didn't, oh, how I longed to just walk up behind her and take a tug at one of those curls, and watch it bob up and down and up and down. Kindergarten memories are not always the most vivid, but this is one that I most certainly remember!

The next thing that comes to mind is that the four of us (She, Amanda, April, and I) began to start playing together, that is, after I finally got a tug at one of those curls. It was really neat having two new friends, but I am not so sure that Amanda felt the same. She became a little jealous because she was not receiving all of the attention anymore, and started becoming a little bossy. I must admit I was rather relieved when she moved a year or two later. That only meant that we could definitely, then, become "best friends." (It is quite funny now, however, because when Amanda comes to Muleshoe for a visit, I enjoy getting to see her. We now get along really well.)

Yes, we did become best friends. I mean we had other friends and other best friends too, but we were more than best friends: we were like sisters!

Yeah, we were like sisters alright. I remember the day our mothers got us mixed up. This particular year, we were the same height, had the same haircut, and half of our wardrobes were the same as each other's, including our coats and shoes. We had decided to dress alike one school day, which happened to be the day of the week in which we had choir after school. After choir was over, our mothers were waiting outside for us. As we walked out, her mother tried to take me home, and my mom tried to take her. Finally, they realized that they had the wrong child. Of course, by this time, all we could do was laugh. To this day, as a matter of fact, we are all still laughing over that incident. Thinking back, we have had many laughs together.

A true friendship is not just built on laughs, though. We have definitely had our hard-to-deal-with times, too, whether it was over anger, frustration, confusion, or sadness. I will never forget that Friday afternoon, about a year and half ago, when she called and told me that she was going to military school, and she would not be living in Muleshoe during the following school years anymore. I had no idea how to take this shocking news! I wanted to be happy for her, but at the same time, I just could not be happy for her. I could only think of my unhappiness. We stayed on the phone for about thirty minutes after she let me in on this new information. I could not begin to tell what she said for the remainder of the conversation, for I was still very surprised over this news. Soon, I had to come to accept this, and make the best of times before she left. For the rest of the summer, one could probably find us together, unless I was at one of my camps or she on one of her exotic vacations.

It seemed as though the summer flew by, and before I knew it, she had to leave. I then became somewhat scared about what would happen to our friendship after she left. Sure, we could write letters, but letters just are not the same. Whenever holiday vacations came, though, we were always at one or the other's home, or doing a good job of tying up our phone lines. It did not take me long to realize that we had been friends for too long for anything to interfere with our friendship.

For the past eleven years she has been someone to tell me the truth, a person to keep my secrets, an advisor to give me advice, a shoulder to cry on, and basically a sister to share my life. My best friend, Kelli, is someone special alright!

SPECIAL

People say she's pretty, but not beautiful. I think she's the most beautiful person in the world. They say she's dingey. I think she is cute and funny and exciting.

Everyone knows she's not perfect, but in my eyes, she's the closest to perfection I've ever seen. She is everything to me. A friend, yes, but it goes much deeper than that. She taught me how to be myself. She opened my eyes and showed me that I'm not so bad after all. She gave me the greatest gifts ever; her love, her friendship, and most of all, a feeling of self-worth.

For years Amanda Ashford was just another classmate who lived less than a block away. We rarely ever spoke to each other, but when we did we were courteous and that was it. By the time we got to high school, we spoke a little more, but not much. Then, it happened. My first "best friend" moved and I realized she wasn't my "best friend;" she was my only friend. Now she was gone and I was left all alone. I had no idea what I was going to do. Then there Amanda was, with open arms to rescue me from my horrible loneliness.

That was at the beginning of our junior year. Throughout that year we became very close. We helped each other through hard times and laughed together during good times. I never realized how special a friendship could be until I was blessed with Amanda's friendship and love.

Now we are even closer. We both find it hard to believe that we lived so close to each other for so long and it took eleven and a half years to get to know each other. I honestly don't know how I made it through all those years without her. She has brought so much joy into my life. She's given me her love and her time. She's showed me how to enjoy life and how to get through bad days. She makes me feel like someone special and she makes me feel wanted. I guess I'm rambling on, but I just can't seem to find words great enough to describe how special Amanda Ashford is to me. All I can say is I don't know where I'd be without her. She's the greatest gift of love I could ever want and I thank the Lord for blessing my life with her. She's the greatest.

Oh, one more thing. Amanda, thank you for being my friend and for loving me and giving all that you have given to me! I'll always cherish our friendship and I'll never forget you no matter what happens! I love you and I ALWAYS will!

Love That Will Last a Lifetime!

When the two of us first met, I was unable to respond to the looks of appreciation and approval. He welcomed my arrival with stuffed animals, smiles, and words filled with disbelief that he took part in creating a new life. Making my arrival known, he called friends and family to share in his gladness. This is the way that it has been for years with my dad and me: always proud of my accomplishments, never acknowledging my failures. To my father, failure and his daughter are two words that do not go hand-and-hand.

Our relationship has grown extremely strong due to the fact that he is my advisor and friend. Not only that, he also becomes my reserve bank of confidence when mine eludes me for a short period of time. The faith and confidence that my father has in me is unfathomable, therefore, making me strive to please him, so that his faith in me will never be destroyed. It seems funny to me that two people can become so close in such a short period of time, but that is fine as long as he remains the same.

His physical description may deceive many. He is a short man, standing about 5 feet 8 inches. He walks with a type of limp, accredited to a recent surgery he had on his foot. The various colors to which his eyes change are a sure way to determine the type of mood he is in. Brown is the color that his

Guild To Host Competition For Students

The Amarillo Symphony Guild will host the 1993 Young Performer's competition for area students, according to a release from Nancy Reavis, competition chairwoman.

The four areas of competition are piano, strings, wind/percussion, and vocal. Students who have not exceeded the age of a graduate of high school may compete, according to the release.

A list of the repertoire to be used by the contestants for choosing their selection for competition as well as the official entry form is available through the Amarillo Symphony Office at 1000 S. Polk or by contacting Reavis at 352-0636.

The works listed in the repertoire were selected for their appropriateness for high school students and from works that can be accompanied by a chamber orchestra, according to the release. Only one movement from the concerto is required for competition purposes.

Contestants should present the music from memory, and each entrant must provide his own accompanist. Participants can arrange for an accompanist for a nominal fee by contacting the Amarillo Symphony Office.

The Symphony Guild will host the competition on January 30, 1992 in the Music Building on the Amarillo College campus.

The "Grand Prize" winner will receive a cash award of $250, and winners in the individual areas will receive a cash award of $100. Entry fee is $25, and the deadline for entry is January 1, 1993. The Grand Prize winner will be featured with the Randel Chamber Orchestra Concert to be held in April.

Rebekah Lodge News

October 6 our meeting was opened by our N.G. Doris Lambert. So great to have her back with us. She is still weak and just slowly improving.

Our Secretary, June, read the minutes of the last session, which was approved. Some bills were taken care of. It was reported that Bro. Snyder, 100F Home in Evines, was not well. We signed a card for him-you send him a card, ok? He knows many people here.

Also, it was reported that Gladys M. may soon be coming home from the hospital. So many of our members are under Doctor's care. May you soon be much better and back with us.

We have skating October 30th. November 5th is our Thanksgiving dinner.

There were ten members present. Ona Berry reported she would be admitted to the hospital Monday. Ruby Green reported she had talked with Delia and Harold DeLoach. October birthdays are Norene, Ona, Della, Frances, Jessie, and Betty.

Locals Offer Political Party Platform

The first A.A.U.W. meeting of the year was held Monday, October 5, 1992 at the Heritage Depot. Hostesses, Ginger Caldwell and Sally Messenger served Angel Food Surprise, tea and coffee to several members.

President Donna Green then introduced the program. The open forum discussion was led by Republicans Cindy Barrett and Mike McDearman, and Democrats Chuck Smith and Harvey Bass. The two teams had 15 minutes in which to enumerate their respective platforms and discuss the issues foremost in the campaigns. They passed out materials to the ladies and then each party member answered questions from the audience. The teams were most impressive and very informative. A.A.U.W. members are very appreciative of their efforts.

Following the program, a short business meeting was held and the meeting adjourned.

Donna adds, "The Muleshoe branch of A.A.U.W. extends an invitation of membership to any woman who has graduated from an accredited university. The Association strives to have informative, educational programs and is dedicated to women and girls equality in society and education." Their meetings are held the first Monday of each month. If interested, contact Donna Green at 272-3883 or Sandi Chitwood at 272-59-097.

FOREIGN INVESTMENTS

Foreign investors buying land are required by law to report any purchase or sale to USDA within 90 days of the transaction. Penalties can amount to 25 percent of the fair market value of the property. Forms are available in this office.

INTEREST RATE

The loan interest rate for October is 3.37 percent.

LDP'S FOR COTTON, SOYBEANS, & MINOR OILSEEDS

There is a possibility that producers may be eligible for a loan deficiency payment (LDP) on cotton, soybeans and/or minor oilseeds for the 1992 crop year. To be eligible for a LDP, the producer must have beneficial interest in the commodity. A producer retains beneficial interest in the commodity if all the following remain with the producer:

- Control of the Commodity
- Risk of Loss
- Title of the Commodity

Producers can enter into an agreement with CCC before harvest begins for the applicable commodity for the purpose of receiving a LDP for one or more farms' expected production or for all or a portion of the expected production. The production that is covered by the agreement will receive the LDP rate in effect on the date of delivery for soybeans and minor oilseeds and the date for ginning of cotton.

Producers can enter into the above agreement after harvest begins, but only the production not harvested and/or ginned will be covered. Before the County Committee can approve your CCC-709, you must provide this office with a contract or certification for review.

For additional information, please contact this office.

KENW-TV To Purchase Weather Tracking System

KENW-TV, located on the campus of Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, will soon purchase a weather radar repeater system which will be on line to track impending severe weather by Spring, 1993. The project has been endorsed by area Safety and Emergency Preparedness officials.

The system will allow television station staff members to monitor weather from six adjacent National Weather Radar points-Albuquerque, Alamogordo, El Paso, Midland, Amarillo, and Cannon Air Force Base, and return a composite view of pending and/or in-progress storms in the viewing area.

KENW-TV has gained much cooperation and support in attaining the system, which will cost the station $15,000. Thus far, 22 communities have agreed to the concept and have put their money where their mouth is. Two communities are pending, while three have declined participation. Monetary amounts for participation have been proportionately divided according to population.

KENW-TV Development Officer Jan Smartnick is optimistic about the overall project. "Just one more time, KENW and the surrounding communities of viewers have joined forces to improve the quality of life for our friends and neighbors."

For more information concerning the weather radar tracking system, contact Smartnick at 505-562-2112.

experience. Current Fire Chief Donald Harrison says that the fire-fighting experience in Muleshoe is impressive for any size town.

"We probably have as much fire fighting experience per man, per hours spent fighting fires, than most paid fire departments," he said.

This experience does not go unnoticed either, as each year during Fire Prevention Week the fire department passes on their knowledge of fire and fire safety to area school children.

"We mainly emphasis what they need to do in case of a fire," says Mr. Harrison. "And little things to be aware of around the house." A video on fire prevention is presented, as well as presentation by the Police department on drug awareness.

Helping kids is only a small part of the enjoyment this job can bring says Mr. Harrison, "you have to love this job and enjoy it or you won't last too long. We all work jobs, sometimes on various shifts. It's hard at times fighting fires all night and going directly to work, but in the end it's all worth it."

IRS Will Work With Tax Nonfilers

If you haven't filed a Federal tax return for a couple of years, you probably think the IRS is the last place you want to go, right? Wrong.

The IRS wants you back in the tax system and has special plans to help you help yourself. The IRS is reaching out to as many as ten million individuals and business taxpayers who have not filed tax returns for 1990 and is inviting them back into the system. The IRS is taking a comprehensive approach to solving the nonfiler problem, offering specialized assistance and education to those who want to get right with their government. The IRS will also earners who had little tax withheld from their wages.

The IRS also finds that after not filing for one year, the nonfilers' problem compounds because fear of detection or the concerns, the IRS intends to review the facts in each nonfiler case to determine if the taxpayer is entitled to a waiver from penalties for failure to file and pay on time.

Also the IRS will work with taxpayers to set up installment payment schedules when the situation warrants. IRS policies for installment agreements and other collection procedures, such as offers in compromise of the tax debt, were recently reviewed and streamlined. These procedures will provide viable alternatives to resolve nonfiler's delinquent accounts if the taxpayer cannot pay in full.

Failing to file a return can cost taxpayers in other ways. They could lose out on some refunds. The IRS points out that refunds must be claimed within three years from the time the return was due or the refund is lost. Also, many of those taxpayers who are self-employed don't realize that the failure to file and pay self-employment tax could cause them to be ineligible for Social Security retirement or disability benefits.

Over the past few months the IRS has made preparations to offer assistance tailored to problems encountered by nonfilers. Local IRS offices have copies of prior year tax returns and IRS employees have been trained to help taxpayers reconstruct old records, such as income statements, needed to prepare the old returns. Working with local tax practitioner organizations and other volunteers, the IRS is offering assistance at convenient community locations.

The IRS also has reviewed its records to identify nonfilers and is reassigning 2000 examining agents--around 10 percent of the examination staff--to begin contacting them.

While the IRS stressed that this new approach to dealing with nonfilers is not a blanket exonerated, taxpayers who come forward voluntarily to file their delinquent returns should not fear criminal prosecution. "The IRS will not recommend criminal employ traditional enforcement steps for those who refuse to comply with the law.

The problem of nonfiling is costly to everyone. The IRS estimates that more than $7 billion in tax revenue is lost annually due to nonfiling. And the cost to the nonfiler is more than they may think. Interest and penalties continue to accrue on amounts they may owe, and many nonfilers could be due refunds.

"We recognize that taxpayers may have run into problems that caused them to drop out of the tax system," said IRS Commissioner Shirley D. Peterson. "We are gearing our education and assistance efforts towards helping them return to compliance. We believe that the vast majority of this country's citizens want to comply with the law. Our goal is to help them and, ultimately to improve compliance for the long term.

"We also realize that, in some cases, enforcement will be necessary to gain compliance," she continued, "and we are ready to handle these situations, too. We will focus our enforcement resources on those taxpayers who willfully, repeatedly refuse to comply with the law.

"It is never too late to get right with your government," Commissioner Peterson emphasized. "The time to do so is now, not because this is a limited time offer but because we are offering to help people put this problem behind them so they can get on with their lives."

Peterson said that the goal of the IRS' efforts goes beyond just collecting delinquent returns. "We want to improve tax compliance across the board and the best way to start is to get everyone who is required to file a return to do so. This approach--combining assistance and education efforts with direct enforcement--marks a new way of doing business at the IRS," she continued.

IRS research indicates that many people fail to file because of a personal problem, such as a divorce or death in the family, or a business reversal. In a pilot test of the nonfiler program, the IRS found that more than 60 percent of nonfilers were self-employed people who dealt in cash or were wage prosecution of any taxpayer who comes forward, makes a true voluntary disclosure, and files an accurate tax return," Commissioner Peterson said. "We want to encourage people to come forward voluntarily and get right with the government."

Additional information concerning assistance for nonfilers can be obtained by calling the IRS at 1-800-829-1040.

SEASONS CHANGE

For a time leaves are green, then in early fall they become brilliant with many colors. Finally they turn brown and fall from the trees, leaving them drab and lonely looking.

God never changes, he is an ever present help.

"For I am the Lord, I change not"
 Attend church and learn more of God's wonderful and never changing love.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Great Savings And Top Quality Equal Store Brands

Summer's over and smart shoppers know that buying top quality store brands will help take the squeeze out of their back-to-school budget.

The Private Label Manufacturers Association recently commissioned a price comparison survey of leading supermarket and drug chains showing that consumers can save up to 34% in their back-to-school shopping by choosing quality store brands over the nationally advertised brands. Nationally, the shopping list of 11 products in five major cities cost $34.84 for national brands, compared to $23.00 for store brands, with a total savings of $11.84 or 34%.

This savings is nothing new. The growth of private label during the past few years has shown that consumers are recognizing the increased quality and variety in today's store brands, and are realizing the great savings. Further, one out of five products purchased are store brands.

Store brand products are products sold under a retailer's own name, or a name exclusively used by a retailer or buying group the retailer belongs to. In most cases the store brand is composed of the same or comparable ingredients as the nationally advertised brand, while offering savings to the consumer. And, because the store's name or symbol is on the package, the consumer is assured that the product was manufactured to the store's high quality standards and specifications.

The back-to-school "market basket" survey included:

- * Orange Juice
- * Grape Jelly
- * Mayonnaise
- * Aspirin
- * Tissues
- * Peanut Butter
- * Corn Flakes
- * Tuna Fish
- * Sandwich Bags
- * Multivitamins
- * Cough Suppressant

Further savings can be realized on your back-to-school list by

TIPS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Efficient Tub Caulking Prevents Future Labor

Caulking the tub or shower is one of the most common jobs in the home and one of the most important for keeping the structure in top condition.

Caulking guards against water seepage, which can cause rotting of wallboards and the entire structural wood base of your home if left unchecked. A good caulking job is essential in any area exposed to water or dampness, including bathtubs, showers, sinks, vanities and fixtures. To prevent expensive future repairs, there are steps you can take to ensure an efficient caulking job the first—and hopefully the last—time.

Mildew is the worst enemy of caulk, so before you begin caulking your tub, get rid of all traces of mildew using any commercial mildewicide or bleach. If mildew is not effectively removed at the start, it will continue to grow under the newly-caulked surface.

Next, remove old caulk with a putty knife and clean out any other residue underneath. Before applying new caulk, make certain the surface is dry and free of dust, dirt, grease or soap film. This is critical for good adhesion. Rubbing alcohol may be used to help remove stubborn soap film.

When choosing a caulk, don't skimp by buying a cheaper brand. It will only cost you time and labor in the long run. "A good caulk should last for several years," says Jackie Freedman, product manager at RED DEVIL, Inc., Union, N.J. Tub and tile caulks should be easy to apply and clean up; mildew-resistant and provide a watertight seal after application and curing. They are usually available in cartridges for large jobs and smaller squeeze tubes for touch ups and repairs.

Whether the bathtub is old or new, it's best to fill the tub with water and stand in it while you caulk. "In a new tub, there will be a certain amount of settling, and having weight in the tub while you caulk will allow for this," says Freedman. Be certain there is enough tub and tile caulk in the crevice where the wall meets the tub. Cracking or gapping may occur the next time someone runs a bath and steps in the tub before the caulk has cured completely.

Traditionally, setting times for most caulks has ranged from 36 to 48 hours, making it impossible to run water for a shower or bath until the product has cured. To avoid the inconvenience of not being able to run water, there are long-lasting, quality tub and tile caulks available with advanced formulations that become less water sensitive in as quickly as three or four hours. Some of these new formulations are odorless (if acrylic-based) and contain active mildew-fighting ingredients.

When To Keep Kids Home

With the fall and winter months come cold and flu season. And, because youngsters can often seem healthy when they're actually sick, parents are sometimes confused about when to keep their children home from school or day care.

Yogesh Pandya, M.D., Methodist Children's Hospital chief of staff, suggests the following guidelines for deciding whether to keep your child home.

- * Appearance/behavior—unusually tired, pale, difficult to wake, confused or irritable, with lack of appetite.
- * Diarrhea—three or more watery stools in a 24-hour period, especially if the child looks or acts ill.
- * Ear infection— children may attend school after receiving medical treatment for ear infections. Untreated infections

We are so vain that we even care for the opinion of those we don't care for.

—Ebner-Eschenbach

If no candidate for president has a majority of electoral college votes, the House of Representatives chooses a president from among the three highest candidates, with all representatives from each state combining to cast one vote for that state.
