POSSIBILITIES IN POWER FARMING

The tractor and double or triple disc for breaking:

The first consideration in all farming must be a deep, fertile and well prepared seed bed. This seed bed can only be made by the use of large plows and lots of power. In the making of this seed bed, however, we must use some precaution. It is to be remembered that to do it all at once, especially where land has never been broken deep before, will result in disappointment. To plow up a lot of subsoil with the top soil, thereby decreasing its proportionate fertility, will invariably result in a decreased yield, but if the deep soil has been proportionately enriched good will result. This is why many times farmers on plowing their land very deeply the first year are disgusted and never undertake it again.

Since the above is true, I would advise that in order to get best results at all times, to increase the depth of breaking each year at the same time adding fertility to the soil to enrich it even more in proportion than your shallow soil previous to breaking. To do this you will always get results. Commercial fertilizer is oft times used and is good, but better still are leguminous crops or barn yard manure. By cover or leguminous crops we mean peas, beans or clovers, which are natural soil builders. These crops build the soil by plowing under only the stubble, but it is better to plow under the whole crop. The stubble only gives us nitrogen from its roots. When we plow under the whole crop we get foliage which is very beneficial to the soil physically.

Water: Water, as we know, is a necessary constituent of large production, especially in Eastland county. Then comes the problem of storing and conserving this necessary water in large enough quantities to carry our crops over long periods of drought. We must certainly have enough well prepared land deep soil to absorb this water and then when we have it stored to keep it there. To keep the water in the soil we must form a sheet of dry pulverized soil over the surface to prevent its escape by capillary attraction. Continued cultivation with small tools run only deep enough to scratch and not disturb the roots of the growing plant. This cultivation must be kept up at regular intervals because after standing a while the soil becomes porous and by attraction thus water begins to move out again.

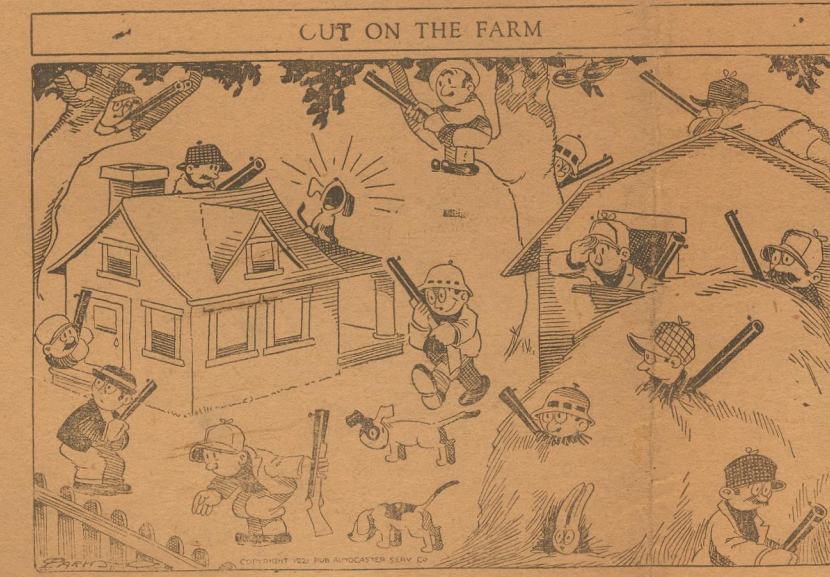

Not only do we find the tractor a valuable machine to break land with but in winter when labor usually has least to do, wood can be sawn for winter use, feeds for your stock can be ground and ready for winter consumption. Silos can be filled for the winter feeding, your grain can be harvested, threshed and hauled to market with the same tractor.

Now can you afford a tractor? Ask yourself these questions: Have I enough work for it to do to justify it? Have I enough for which to grind feed, enough stock to feed from a silo, enough grain to cut, harvest and haul to town, and have I enough land to break that I could eliminate enough mule or horse power? In other words will the depreciation of my machinery exceed my profits? The kind of farming well determine this to a great extent. In grain farming the breaking, preparation, harvesting and hauling could be done without horse or mule power because when your work stops your cost stops except for depreciation and in no case do I think that will exceed animal feed. With row farming there is more to be considered. Think it over for yourself. It is your problem and your farm will justify it buy power machinery for there is certainly more pleasure in riding and having things done for you than to walk, push and do the things yourself.

R. H. Bush, County agent

KATY HAS WRECK

The local branch of the Katy had a small derailment in the city limits on Wednesday afternoon which made the passenger train about two hours late in getting to the station. A freight train while switching in the local yard bumped a car off the track and turned it across the main line in such a way that the passenger train could not pass it. The train was tied up in the east end of the yards and came in about four o'clock. No one was hurt and there was no damage aside from the delay.

LARGE MAIL ORDER HOUSE READS ALL COUNTRY PAPERS

"We have a bureau whose duty it is to read each week the country newspapers from all over the country. There is not a paper of any consequence in our trade territory that our bureau does not get. This bureau looks over these papers and when we find a town where the merchants are not advertising in the local paper we immediately flood that territory with our literature. It always brings results far in excess of the same efforts put forth in territory where the local merchants use their local paper." said Herman Rosenfield, advertising manager for Sears, Roebuck & Co.

METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday School at 9:45 a. m., preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. Young People's meeting at 4 p. m. Prayer meeting every Wednesday at 7:45 p. m.

Next Tuesday, October 4, at 10 a. m., the District Woman's Missionary Society will meet with the Gorman church, also on the same date the pastors of the District will meet in Gorman in their final District meeting before the Annual Conference at Cisco Nov. 9. There will also be a meeting of the District Church Extension and Mission Board and the district officers of the Centenary and Educational work. We hope that everyone will do his part to make it a pleasant day for all the visitors that will be present.

Our conference year is fast coming to a close and let everyone do his or her part in completing the reports such as we will be proud of at the Annual Conference.

If you are a member of the church and you are not subject to its Discipline, and you do not attend upon its services, and do not help to support its institutions, what would you like for the preacher to say when he preaches your funeral? To neglect either division of your church vow means that you are living a falsehood.

Come to church next Sunday and bring somebody with you and you will enjoy life more yourself and will help to make life more worth while for others. Shall we not expect you next Sunday?

R. B. Hooper, Pastor.

PUTTING IN WATERING TROUGH

Since before the new water system was put in Gorman has been out of a place for the farmers and others driving teams to town to water their horses. The water was cut off at first because the human demand was greater than the local system could supply. When the new plant was put in operation it was just neglected until finally no one seemed to think of it at all. This week however the city is connecting up the water trough in the street across from the Gorman Motor Co. This is a convenience that will be much appreciated and will be of material help to those driving teams into Gorman. The flow will be regulated by a float valve and there will always be a fresh supply of water for the use of the horses and other live stock.

MOVING TO WEST TEXAS

The Gorman Dry Goods Company is this week boxing their goods and fixtures for moving their store from Gorman to Slaton, Texas. These people have been long time residents of Gorman and have been in business here for years. They are in fact almost a landmark of the town, and everyone regrets to see them leave. They have picked a growing and prosperous West Texas town and we predict for them a good business in their new home. Messrs. Gates and Eppler have always been public spirited men and were strong for Gorman in all the moves that have been made for this country. They will be remembered here for the things they have done and while Gorman regrets to see them leave, all are hoping for them the success they deserve in their new home.

BLOOD POISON CLAIMS VICTIM

Ernest Sandifer, who had been suffering for the past week or more with a very serious attack of blood poisoning caused by a broken arm, died on Monday morning at the Blackwell sanitarium. He was only a little over seven years of age. The body was shipped from Gorman to Birds, Ill., for burial on Tuesday. Before shipment was made the local funeral services were held at the home of his sister, Mrs. B. E. Johnston, Rev. Nelson officiating. The funeral was attended by a large number of his school mates who came to show their love and esteem of him. He was making his home here with his relatives, though his parents were living in Illinois. The family has the sympathy of a host of friends in their sad hour.

LAF-A-LOT

Dr. and Mrs. Edward Blackwell charmingly entertained the Laugh-a-Lot Club at their home last Friday evening. The house was prettily decorated with ferns and flowers for the occasion.

There were ten tables of 42, including Messrs. and Mmes. J. G. Bishop, J. E. Walker, Roy F. Townsend, Otis Hunter, Frank Slaughter, C. R. Wood, M. G. Underwood, Frank Morrow, F. V. Gates, I. C. Underwood, George Blackwell, Don Moorman, H. H. Shaw, T. J. Pitts, B. M. Collie, and J. W. Cokkrill, Mrs. Herman Wood and Misses Jewell Murrar, Martha Neill and McDonald, Messrs. Ray Green, Sutton and Dewey Brogdon.

Mrs. Blackwell, assisted by Mmes. Hunter and Blackwell, served delicious cream and cake.

In a brief business the club name was changed from The Wednesday Afternoon Club to the Laugh-a-Lot Club. Also the names of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Byers and Miss Rena Haile were voted upon and accepted. Mrs. Hunter will be the next hostess.

The publishers of the Encyclopaedia Britannica once issued a booklet containing fac simile testimonial letters from prominent users of the work, one-tenth of whom misspelled the word "Britannica."

There will be a poultry culling demonstration here in Gorman Friday afternoon, TO-DAY. The time and place will be posted by twelve o'clock in the drug stores of the city. Every one interested in poultry urged to attend.

GRAND JURY MAKES ADDITIONAL REPORT ON THE BOND DEAL

The additional investigation by the grand jury into the $50,000 bond transaction ended Saturday afternoon when the grand jury made a report that stated "we find no evidence connecting C. R. Starnes with said transaction."

Following is the report in full: "September 24, 1921.

"To the Hon. E. A. Hill, Judge of the 88th Dis. Ct., Eastland County, Texas.

"We, your grand jury, empaneled in extraordinary session by Your Honor on September 23, 1921, beg to submit the following:

"We have been in session two days and have examined three witnesses, having been called especially to hear additional evidence in the matter of the bond deal.

Sam T. Young in the negotiation of a loan in which $50,000 of Eastland County bonds was pledged as collateral.

"We have examined A. J. Hughes, a representative of the National City Bank of Chicago at which place the loan was negotiated, and we find no evidence connecting C. R. Starnes with said transaction.

Having no further business we now ask to be discharged.

"JNO. C. GORMAN,

"Foreman."

FORTY TWO CLUB

The 42 Club was delightfully entertained with Mrs. Roy F. Townsend as hostess last Thursday afternoon.

At the conclusion of a number of games of 42, the hostesses, assisted by Mmes. Collie and Cokkrill, served a very delicious two course luncheon, consisting of fried chicken, fruit salad, deviled eggs, bread and butter sandwiches, olives and iced tea; also apricot sherbet and cake.

Those who enjoyed the afternoon were: Mmes. B. M. Collie, E. Q. McMahan, J. E. Walker, Homer Moorman, J. F. Hankins, Frank Morrow, C. R. Wood, J. G. Bishop, H. H. Shaw, George Blackwell, I. B. Gage, Cole Nunnally, Herman Wood, Edward Blackwell, F. V. Gates, J. E. Brewer, and J. W. Cokkrill. Guests: Mmes. M. Scales, M. G. Underwood, and V. E. Curry.

LACKLAND'S GUESTS GET MOUTHS, EYES AND EARS FULL OF CHICKEN

(Ranger Daily Times) Chickens, both of the feathered tribe and the others, and chicken fried, were much discussed and much in evidence at the chicken banquet given yesterday afternoon by Lackland Bros. at their chicken ranch where probably 300 guests, both men and women, were present.

Speakers, who admitted their expert knowledge of the feathered variety of the bird, were careful to assure the gathering that their experience with the other kind was very limited; that is, with the exception of J. E. T. Peters, who delivered an address of welcome and who was toastmaster of the occasion. Because he and his wife both lived in the same town, he stated that he thought the wise course would be from him to refrain from detailing his experience with chickens whose plumage is perpendicular rather than

STARNES TO SPEAK HERE OCTOBER 7

Rising Star Passes Resolutions Urging Cessation of Agitation and Resuming of Road Work.

The citizens of Gorman will have a chance to hear Judge C. R. Starnes who is making a tour of the county this coming Friday, October 7th. Judge Starnes has been very much in the public eye for the past few months in the mix-up there has been in road matters and he has been very patient with those who have been taking him to task. He is now touring the county in an educational campaign to show the people the real condition of their affairs. The speaking will take place at 3 p. m. next Friday and every tax payer in the county is requested to be present at this time.

Public sentiment is in favor of starting the road work and at this time if the people would only so express themselves there is every likelihood of it having a good effect.

At the meeting which he addressed in Rising Star Wednesday evening, the following resolutions were passed by the citizens with only a very small dissenting vote.

GORMAN BEATS EASTLAND

Last Saturday afternoon the Gorman and Eastland High School teams met on the Gorman Gridiron for the opening game of the season. The Gorman boys won the game on a lone touchdown, the final score being 7 to 0.

Both teams were of a size and fought each other gamely from the first whistle to the last. The bright stars of the Gorman team were Stevens, Ross and Brown. Each man played a brilliant game but from all reports the best work was done by these three. Eppler running the team at quarter back used good head work and when he found a hole in front of little Brown began pounding that hole with all the strength of the backfield. Ross and Stevens were constantly gaining ground through the line and plugged through the line for the lone touchdown when they got in striking distance. Gorman lost the ball several times when in striking distance of the goal by serious fumbles. Eastland never was dangerous to the Gorman goal until near the end of the game when they recovered the ball close to the Gorman line and were held for downs, fumbling on the fourth down when the ball was recovered by "Little" Fuller. Eastland never made first down until the third quarter and never had possession of the ball during the first quarter.

The visitors came here expecting to win the game and sent in a lot of their substitutes to start the fire works. They soon jerked them out and got busy on the first string men. But their tactics were all wrong as Gorman easily had their number and with any luck at all ought to have made at least three additional touchdowns. The local lads go to Cisco next Saturday where they tangle with the Cisco high school for their second game. Cisco and Breckenridge played a 0-0 tie last Saturday. Ranger beat Dublin on the same day 7-0. Comanche beat Stephenville on last Friday by the score of 35-0. The De Leon has had both of their two first games given them on a forfeit. Gorman has a chance for the sectional championship. From the looks of things the game they are scheduled to play Comanche will be one of the deciding games in the sectional championship. Gorman under the schedule made at the Interscholastic meeting last spring is to meet Comanche and will no doubt do so. Comanche and De Leon have the more experienced teams but Gorman has a chance for at least second place and will go after it for all they are worth.

De Leon High School plays on Friday afternoon of this week the opening game of their schedule when they take on the fast second team of Howard Payne College. This team is reported to be a fast one and they have already played the Brownwood High School and beaten them by a top heavy score. No doubt several fans from this section will go down to see the game.

It would be much easier to locate escaped criminals if the detectives were fired and bill collectors hired in their place.—Baltimore Sun.

Now, therefore, Be it Resolved by the citizens of Rising Star, in mass meeting assembled, that we are respectfully inclined to hear the message to be delivered by our exhorated County Judge, C. R. Starnes, and we respectfully request the said J. R. Stubblefield to refrain, at this meeting, from furthering the agitation that he represents, hereby pledging ourselves to respectfully withdraw from this meeting, en masse, if he should attempt to disregard this resolution.

Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be presented to Judge C. R. Starnes and the Commissioners' Court, a copy to J. R. Stubblefield, and a copy to each newspaper in the county.

B. Y. P. U. SOCIAL

The B. Y. P. U. of the Gorman Baptist church has organized for a concerted effort to secure a large number of new members, and as a starter, there will be a social, or get-together meeting on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lary, on Friday evening, September 30th, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

There will be plenty of innocent fun, an old fashioned hay ride, and refreshments for all. All the young people of the town are invited to come and bring someone with you.

The delegation visited Gorman, Rising Star, and Carbon, and Mr. McKinney stated at every place visited much interest was shown in the organization.

COMEDY KING DINED

Berlin, Sept. 26.—The Germans either have an unusual sense of proportion or are too busy trying to make money to pay the reparations bills to bother about the king of movies.

Charlie Chaplin requires no special detail of police in Berlin to keep the crowds away from him. He is being ignored just as if he was not a great man at all.

Today he received his first and only dinner invitation, which he accepted. He spent Saturday with Pola Negri, the famous film star, and a party of friends. The party was held at Heinrich's palais, which is noted for its drinks and dances.

Chaplin expects to leave Monday for Paris, where he has agreed to appear twice personally with the film of "The Kid," in special benefit performance for devastated France. The show will be attended by President Millerand, the French cabinet, General Pershing and Ambassador Herriek.

His "Right Hand Man"

By DOROTHY WHITCOMB

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union)

After five years of hard work Wilfred Ashton walked down the steps of the neat little factory he had dominated, a ruined man. The plant was in the hands of a receiver, and he was a bankrupt.

Wardells had done this—Wardells, the upstarts, the business pirates. The elder of that firm had been taken in off the street penniless by Ashton, had been given work, had learned the secrets of the business, and had gone out to exploit them on his own account. The rival house manufactured a counting machine. In some way Wardell had secured the sole right to manufacture a machine the sale of which was Ashton's chief source of revenue. Trade fell off. Wardell's spread and flourished like a green banyan tree. Ashton & Co. went down hill, fast.

And now—ruin! Reckoning up anxiously, Wilfred had found that the plant and his other resources would pay off about seventy-five per cent of the debts. He reached the office of his lawyer, dejected and hopeless.

"We have an offer for the assets in bulk," explained the attorney. "It will square the secured indebtedness entirely. It will also take care of all the other liabilities, except about two thousand dollars."

"If I could only reach that!" exclaimed Wilfred. "It is those creditors, small, struggling firms, that need their money. Is there no way I can reach this deficit?"

"A way has been opened," announced the lawyer, "a remarkable one. There is the list of the unsecured creditors," and he pushed over a written page, "and here is two thousand, handed to me by a brother attorney, representing a mysterious client who does not wish to be known."

"You amaze me," cried Wilfred, his face shining, his eyes filling with grateful tears. "Who could have done me this kind act?"

Wilfred signed the I. O. U. extended to him by the lawyer. His heart seemed singing within him.

"He was treating air as he left the lawyer's office.

His face brightened when he was home again, with thoughts of the true, loyal persons who had been not only his employees, but his friends. Miss Bonney! His heart gladdened as he recalled the occasion, three years before, when he had given this poor, friendless girl, a position in his office. Her gratitude, urging the most devoted service, had made him respect and value her. She had been "his right-hand man."

Wilfred found her in a neat, modest cottage, her aged mother its house-keeper. She blushed and paled, and looked wistful and then trembled, as he handed her the money. Her eyes glowed sympathetically with his own when he told of his unknown benefactor.

"I shall not forget the most helpful assistant I ever had, when I get on my feet again," said Wilfred brightly. "I am very sorry to see you out of employment."

"Oh, I shall soon find a new position," declared Amy.

"It seems to me that I am receiving nothing but blessing in my own darkest hour," replied Wilfred, movingly.

"There is another thing," said Amy. "You remember Mr. Judson, the old inventor who was hurt at your plant? You pensioned him off, you know. Ever since then he has been trying to invent a new counting machine. I—that is, I have encouraged him. He was here yesterday, and he is sure, oh, so very sure, that he is near to perfecting his invention."

Two evenings later a messenger brought Wilfred a note, asking him to call at the home of Miss Bonney. When he arrived he found old Abel Judson there.

"I've made it!" cried the inventor enthusiastically. "My invention is perfected—a counting machine that will drive Wardells out of the field."

Only one thing would the inventor agree to—that Wilfred was to become his partner. In three months capital was found, in six the old plant was running again. At the end of the year Wilfred and Amy were man and wife.

"I am making money so fast," he said to his happy helpmate one evening, "that I will be able to pay up the two thousand dollars so generously given me when I failed."

Amy reached within her pocket. She drew out a scrap of paper. In amazement Wilfred regarded the I. O. U.

"Don't you understand?" she cried in delight, and tore the document to scraps—"paid!"

"You—you furnished that money?" exclaimed the dumfounded Wilfred. "Yes, my all for you, the bravest, truest friend I ever knew," replied Amy raptly, "and now the dearest, best husband in all the world!"

A New Angle.

"So you always turn over your pay to your wife?"

"Yes, always."

"And does she appreciate it?"

"No, she usually depreciates it."—Pennsylvania State Froth.

SWINGING CHURN IS FAVORED

Durability of Homemade Device Is Measured in Terms of Half a Lifetime.—Cost Is Small.

Consult your tinmith, follow the specifications as outlined by Miss L. Dorman, a farmettee of Mississippi, and the results will be a swing churn—a product that is at once new, sanitary, and a labor-saver. It is a homemade device, its durability is measured in terms of half a lifetime, and the cost is negligible.

For a churn of two and one-half gallons capacity, obtain a heavy quality of block tin and shape it in an 18-by-20-inch square. Place it on 2-inch legs, arrange a handle for each end as propellers, and carve a 6-inch opening through the top for pouring the cream.

The covering to the opening fits snugly on the inside, like an old-fashioned bucket lid. A substantial wire handle is soldered at each end of the churn, with a ring in the center. One end of a cord is passed through the ring and the other fastened to another ring, or hook, in a beam overhead.

Ready for operation, the swinging device can be adjusted to any height. A small child can operate the churn, which is shoved back and forth. The sudden impact of the cream against the churn does the churning for making the butter.—S. R. Winters in Popular Science Monthly.

SUCCESSFUL MILK CAMPAIGN

Dairy Division Co-operating With State Organizations to Promote Consumption of Milk.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The dairy division of the United States Department of Agriculture is co-operating in campaigns to promote a greater consumption of milk, and the results so far have been remarkable. Experts of the division co-operate with the extension departments of the state agricultural colleges in organizing the work and securing the aid of local boards of health, boards of education, chambers of commerce, welfare societies, and similar bodies. The work consists of child-feeding demonstrations, lectures, published material, etc. Special work is done in schools, homes and factories.

About 35 campaigns thus far have been conducted in this manner, covering the country from Boston to Seattle. Cities having an aggregate population of over 5,000,000 have had milk campaigns lasting from one to two weeks. Careful reports show that these cities have increased their milk consumption about 16 per cent since the beginning of the campaigns.

FALL FRESHENING IS URGED

Calves Are More Easily Raised and Cows Will Give More Milk—Farmer Has More Time.

The man who had his dairy cows freshen this fall is thanking his lucky stars that most of his work is coming when he has most time to do it and when dairy products bring a higher price. Men who have had experience with both spring and fall freshenings will argue that fall freshening is better because of the two advantages given here and because the calves are more easily raised and the cows in the course of a year will give more milk. Spring freshening has but few advantages despite the fact that it is the rule. The main part of the work comes during the summer, when one is busy in the field and flies annoy both cows and milker. Fall fresheners go dry in July and August, the time of year when milking cows is anything but pleasant.

TUBS FULL OF CHICKEN

horizontal. Other speakers were F. W. Kazmeir of A. & M. College; Tom Mann, of the Farm and Ranch, Dallas; W. H. Bush, farm demonstration agent of Eastland county, and Col. Rufus Lackland.

First Subscriber

After the speaking the books of the Lackland Brothers Poultry Ranch and Hatchery, which has been recently organized, with a capital stock of $50,000, were opened for stock subscriptions, and Mrs. Berry Walker was the first subscriber. She took one hundred dollars worth of stock. This happened after Mr. Kazmeir, who is really a chicken expert, had traced the development of the industry from the ordinary hen, which laid fifteen eggs each year, to the present high state of progress, with more than 200 eggs a year.

Mr. Kazmeir assured his hearers that the chicken business is a real business that required common sense and considerable ability to make pay, but it paid larger dividends than any other business, when properly managed, he asserted.

"In the old days," he said, "the business on the farm was in the hands of a woman, and an old woman at that, and she was probably crippled. And the opinion then was that it was the business for a woman. But that opinion is fast changing and the business is getting down to efficient plants that each year are making big money for their owners."

Plans Scrub Hen

He appealed to his listeners to help the chicken raiser get away from the scrub hen and breed standard bred stock.

Texas, which should be first, was the fifth in the poultry industry, the speaker said. "Last year, the state shipped 70,000,000 dozen eggs and sold 20,000,000 chickens. In forty years the industry has grown from a chicken of a 'Duke's mixture' ancestry, which laid fifteen eggs a year, to all the standard breeds we now have, which are producing hens that lay 315 eggs each year. What will the industry be in another forty years?" The speaker asked. Mr. Kazmeir gave many examples of men who have assumed fortunes from the industry.

In his talk Mr. Bush dwelt upon the marketing associations that are being formed. Among the number being a tomato growers' association at Rising Star, which will sell its product next year through a central selling agency.

He, with other speakers, could see no reason why the Lackland farm should not be made the nucleus for an industry that would rank in importance with oil in the country. Examples of where the poultry industry had become the leading mainstay of business were given.

Mr. Mann spoke only for a moment and he arose nobly to the defense of the women on the farms, whose industry with chickens has in many instances, been the difference between nothing and something for the years' work. "But," he added, "if they do what they have done with scrub chickens, what could they do with those which have been bred to lay?"

Col. Lackland was the last speaker. He arose in the broad brimmed hat that has made him famous as an auctioneer in this state. He told of a dream that had been with him—since as a very small boy he kept a bantam hen and a rooster, to become the "daddy of the chicken ranch which he now has in the making. He detailed why Ranger was chosen as a site for the farm, in competition with other towns—and the city did not suffer in the telling.

The speaker detailed the improvements which are planned whereby the farm can produce 46,000 baby chicks every three weeks. He told how they would be sold and the probable profit they would make.

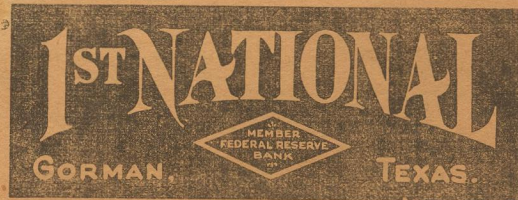

A few seconds later Col. Lackland passed from speaker to host and he was in his element. His one desire was to see that all had all the fried chicken they cared to eat, and he did. Chicken was produced by the tubfuls. But before the banqueters sat down E. McNews was asked to say grace, which stamped the Lackland Brothers as being hosts of the kind which are fast passing. During the entire afternoon a negro band was in attendance and furnished music, music of which was airs that have lived with the passing years.

It was a wonderful supper; everyone said so. In addition to the chicken a salad, peas and mashed potatoes were piled high on each plate and the coffee—one man who ought to know said it was as near divine as any earthly beverage could hope to attain. The raw product was furnished by Summers' Quality Market without cost, but the finished nectar had the touch of woman's hand.

The money you are sure of in the future is the money you put away now in the bank. Save money or be dependent in your old age is the rough and stern axiom of FACTS. Men of all stages of prosperity in young manhood find themselves in the face of dire poverty when old age comes on for the simple reason they have wasted like the prodigal of old "Their substance in riotous living." This bank stands as a place for your money to be safe and where you can forget it for years to come. It will be there when you want it.
