

Budgets OK'd For County And Schools

Public Hearings Held With No 'Public' On Hand

Budget hearings by two public agencies were held off Monday with little ado—and with no "public" on hand at either hearing.

In the afternoon, the commissioners court put the final stamp of approval on a fiscal schedule listing estimated revenues at $190,400, and expenditures at $190,400, the latter total $11,000 less than for the current year.

Monday night, the school district's budget was OK'd by the board of trustees, after some revision which provided for increased teacher salaries and for reduction in debt service through the taking up of $7,400 in private notes.

The school's expenditures are set for $179,245, with receipts estimated at $176,073.42. Cash on hand of $2,940 is due to bring the district through the year without a deficit.

Moss Creek Lake Closed

Moss creek lake, object of intensive traffic for three days following its opening to the public for fishing Saturday, has been closed.

Failure of pumps supplying the concessions and caretaker's building was given as the reason for closing the lake to the public.

Without the pumps, explained B. J. McDaniel, city manager, no water could be boosted to the buildings where sanitary facilities are located.

Subs Moving Into The South Atlantic

By The Associated Press

Further indication that the bulk of Axis submarines had shifted their attack from the Caribbean to the easier hunting grounds off unprotected South America came today as the Navy announced another sinking in that area—a British merchant vessel which went down off the northern coast of South America early in July.

The announcement came in the war department's statement that five of its coast ships—including two carrying troops—had gone down off its shores in the last three days.

There have been comparatively few announcements of sinkings by the Navy in past weeks and relatively few occurred in the North Atlantic and Caribbean recently.

The five Brazilian ships, carrying a total of 365 crew members and a reported 60 passengers, brought Brazil's total war loss to 16 ships sunk and three damaged. The Associated Press total announced sinkings in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor is now 53.

The loss of life from the Brazilian sinkings was still unknown and although lifeboats were bringing survivors to coastal points below the bulge of Brazil where the attacks took place, unofficial estimates were that losses would be high.

Two Brazilian diplomatic exchange ships were kept in port as feeling in Brazil flared into open demonstrations against the axis.

Dublin reported the rescue of 15 survivors of the crew of 60 of a British freighter torpedoed by an Italian submarine 750 miles off Newfoundland.

(Since this ship was torpedoed in mid-Atlantic it was not included in the Associated Press total of western Atlantic sinkings.)

The navy also released additional details on two ships previously included in the total of ships sunk. One, a Norwegian merchant ship, sank June 8 with the loss of six lives; the other, a small British merchant ship, was torpedoed in the Caribbean July 21 with the loss of five lives.

Marines Solidly Established On Solomon Islands

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Aug. 18 (AP)—United States Marines have won solid footholds in the Solomon Islands, the first step to victory in the first allied offensive in the Pacific, while allied airmen comb the southern seas to blast the Japanese in their ships and harbors wherever they may be trying to go to the rescue.

That was the broad picture today where thousands of square miles of the South Pacific where the fighting forces of the United Nations have begun to roll back the enemy in a campaign of growing magnitude.

It was the official story the United States Navy and General MacArthur's headquarters.

Moody Says He'll Vote For Allred

AUSTIN, Aug. 18 (AP)—Former Governor Dan Moody has announced he would vote for James V. Allred in the United States senate runoff race against incumbent W. Lee O'Daniel.

Moody, who polled 178,471 votes or 18.3 percent of those cast in the first democratic primary when he finished third behind Allred, went no further in his endorsement than to speak his personal choice which he emphasized was not based on personal feeling toward either of the candidates.

He added that "I am not attempting to dictate to others"—evidently referring to voters who cast their ballot for him in the four-day first primary in which O'Daniel received 476,541 or 48.3 percent of the votes and Allred won 317,501 or 32.2 percent.

Moody said his statement was in answer to letters and telegrams inquiring how he intended to vote in the runoff election, Aug. 22.

He chose a public statement because he could not immediately answer all inquiries individually, Moody declared.

"I will vote for James V. Allred in the runoff primary," he said. "This choice is not based on personal feeling toward either of the candidates."

"It seems to me that the present situation demands this choice and leaves none other open to me."

"In making this statement I am not attempting to dictate to others but giving to those who have inquired the information which they requested."

Moscow Talks Due To Bring New War Phase

Churchill-Stalin Conferences Cheer United Nations

LONDON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Britons expressed belief today that the Churchill-Stalin talks last week initiated a new phase of the war which would swing the United Nations into a multi-front offensive that could end only in Germany's utter defeat.

Prime Minister Churchill, flown to and from Moscow with British and United States officers in three four-motored American bombers, himself messaged Premier Stalin, "I am certain that our contact will play a useful part in furthering our cause."

A Pravda dispatch broadcast by the Moscow radio said the result of the conversations—which W. Averell Harriman attended as the representative of President Roosevelt—was a "great political defeat for Hitlerite Germany."

Official announcements said the discussions concerned the "war against Hitlerite Germany and her associates in Europe"—a phrase specifically omitting Japan.

Secretary vetoed the details, but the tabloid Daily Sketch said "the final decision must have been made" on the question of establishment of a second European front in 1942 and suggested that this should stop ill-informed agitation on the subject.

MOSCOW, Aug. 18 (AP)—Russian publications suggested today that United Nations carry the war to Germany "with all their power and energy" and devoted front pages to the Kremlin conversations of Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

Photographs portrayed the British and Russian war leaders beaming at each other—Stalin in his usual khaki tunic and Churchill wearing a blue flying suit.

The government newspaper Izvestia italicized the phrase "with all their power and energy" from the communiqué concerning the talks and asserted this peak effort was awaited by the great public masses of Britain and the United States.

RAF Hits At Nazi Center

LONDON, Aug. 18 (AP)—British bombers struck at Osnabrueck, railroad and industrial center in northwestern Germany, last night in the eighth RAF attack on Germany this month. Five British bombers were reported missing on the mission, indicating a raid of moderate strength.

While Osnabrueck was under attack, other bombers and fighters bombed airfields in German-occupied territory, destroying one enemy aircraft. Another enemy aircraft was shot down by the bombers attacking Osnabrueck.

British meanwhile was attacked by a small number of enemy aircraft which crossed the south coast and dropped bombs at a few points in the south and west of England.

The British said some damage was done and casualties were reported but they claimed two German bombers were destroyed, one over Britain and the other near its base in France by a fighter pilot.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) expressed doubt today that the senate would include a sales tax in the new revenue bill.

Girl Scouts To Aid In Scrap Round-Up

The Girl Scouts of Big Spring—18 troops strong—are mobilizing for their part in the citywide Junk Round-Up to be staged next week. Leaders of all troops had been contacted Tuesday by Mrs. B. J. McDaniel, council leader and member of the salvage committee, who said that they were eager to do their part in the program designed to get needed war materials into the production plants. "Every Girl Scout is expected to assist in a citywide canvass which will precede the actual collection of scrap."

The residential district will be divided, and girl troops will distribute pledges, through which the householders agree to accumulate all possible scrap materials. Then, later next week, Boy Scouts will collect the salvage into piles for pickup by city trucks. Money derived from sale of the salvage by the city will go to the scout organizations.

Ben Newhouse, scout field executive, said the boys' troops, too, would be lined up for 100 per cent cooperation.

Service club members are to be asked to canvass the business district, under plans of B. J. McDaniel's salvage committee.

McDaniel stressed again Tuesday the urgent need for scrap materials, no matter how small an amount. "It's all needed for the war effort," he said. Here's what's wanted:

Scrap iron and steel, copper, brass and aluminum, rubber, burlap bags, old manila rope.

All the citizens has to do is to clean up his own place. The scout groups and the salvage committees will do the rest.

On the ground nearby was a soft brim hat with the label indicating it was purchased at Dick's store for men, Hot Springs, Ark.

Thrust Strongest Made By Russians In Battle Of Don

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Aug. 18 (AP)—Red army troops counterattacking southwest of Stalingrad were reported today to have thrown the Germans into retreat and reoccupied an important line even while the invaders wedged into Don bend defenses above that area and forced two more crossings of the Kuban river in the Krasnodar sector.

Military dispatches said the Russian forces generally improved their positions in the area above Kotelnikovski, where a German task force has been striking up the Stalingrad-Novorossiisk rail line toward the Volga.

The counterattack appeared the strongest Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's men had undertaken since the invaders crossed the lower reaches of the Don.

Several miles lost by the Russians were regained in assaults upon enemy-occupied hills and the army newspaper Red Star said several invasion string points were destroyed.

While shock troops occupied a defense section which had been hurriedly erected by the Germans and their Rumanian allies, other Red army forces strengthened their positions guarding the lower Volga and Stalingrad.

Izvestia said Russian infantry, artillery and tanks "fulfilled their order to halt the enemy by all means" in the Kletskaya sector, northwest of Stalingrad.

Pravda reported that a Russian "descent group" penetrated the German rear in this sector, fought off attacks by German planes and troops, and killed 800 Germans in a two-day battle with two battalions of enemy infantry.

The dispatch did not specify whether the descent group were paratroopers or plane-borne troops. On the Voronezh battlefield fierce fighting was reported developing for control of a section of the west bank of the Don.

Concerning the Germans' deepest penetration of the Caucasus—a thrust of more than 250 miles down the Rostov-Baku railway line toward the Grosny oil fields—the government information bureau reported simply:

"In the region of Mineralnye Vody our troops waged defensive operations and repelled an enemy attack."

Street fighting was declared continuing in a community on the western bank of the upper Don below Voronezh, with Soviet gunners cutting heavily into reserve-bolstered Nazi ranks. The community was not identified.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Scrap rubber collected in the recent nationwide drive now is moving to central receiving depots and to rubber reclaiming plants at the rate of 4,000 tons a day, the War Production Board announced today.

Herbert L. Guttererson, chief of the general salvage committee of the WPB's conservation division, said scrap rubber piles still seen in some places would be moved as soon as possible.

The petroleum industry's war council reported the drive conducted between June 15 and July 10, brought 454,155 tons of scrap rubber into local filling stations.

Three farmers were fined 5,000 francs each for yielding.

Miss Laneous Notes

By MARY WHEALEY

You've all heard that old one about the man who kept hitting himself on the head and when the second man asked him why, he said it felt so good when he stopped.

It's sort of a silly joke and yet there are a lot of things like that and a lot of people like that. Take being puny for an example.

Every day you get up and walk and feed and exercise your old model chassis with no regard for how it is going to like it and then one day it refuses to work for you. Then for the first time, you think about your health for awhile.

You feed your tummy an awful conglomeration of food and liquid, just because it tastes good going down. Usually your tummy does over time work for you without overtime pay and you are still all right. But there comes a day when it calls a strike and refuses to work. Then you get indignant and finally pester it awhile until it goes back to work.

But while it is on strike, you go moping around feeling like that proverbial bear with a sore head. For the first time since the last time you felt bad, you begin to appreciate how swell it is to feel good. For the first time in a long while you think about taking care of yourself.

And like the man you end up not resenting being puny because when you feel well again, it is such a wonderful feeling. Feeling bad does make you appreciate feeling good again.

More Than an Election Year

This is a
WAR YEAR ...
a Victory Year!

Days are ahead that will try men's souls. Mutual and steadfast confidence between fellow-Americans is imperative in this, our hour of test.

This is no time for "boosterism." Practices that were condoned by an indulgent public in the days before Pearl Harbor become grave and intolerable when American boys are locked in a death struggle in the distant Pacific.

We feel that Texas can no longer afford to tolerate, unchallenged, the shortsighted notions of those who, in blind, unbridled pursuit of their political ambitions, forget what we're fighting for. When they launch vicious, un-American attacks, designed to stir up class bitterness, at a time when national solidarity is most needed, and throw their weight behind programs that cannot help but make for cleavage of our nation from within, it's time to call a halt.

As to their sincerity, does your experience permit you to believe that if the Texas labor vote were the dominant factor at the Texas polls, such poisonous seeds of attempted reflection on Labor's ranks would ever have been introduced in this campaign?

Political showmanship is no valid excuse for such actions in these solemn, serious days. Now, as never before, we must not permit the irresponsible to play with a gun they didn't know was loaded. Our citizenship is in no mood for it.

These are days of action for all of us, and not for idle political day-dreaming at the wishing well. Texas war workers have scant sympathy for would-be leaders whose political desperation inspires them to choose this most critical of all times to sow in the minds of the people discord and distrust of the motives of your fellow-Americans.

Believing patience with such practices is no longer a virtue, we of Texas Labor feel it our obligation to warn you, our neighbors and fellow tax-payers, of the danger of permitting un-American class bitterness and intolerance to be fostered in your mind, even under the guise of campaign exigency of the politically ambitious. They, of all men, should know better.

In this paper on Thursday, we will present the true story of Texas Labor's Victory program; of the men who have kept Texas' multiple defense projects up to or ahead of the schedules set by our U. S. Army Engineers.

Let your sense of honesty and fair play confirm your conviction that we, your laboring neighbors and fellow Texas taxpayers, who have sent our boys and brothers to the service, and bought War Bonds, and kept up the family back home, have a true recognition of our nation's perils—that we are conscious that

Rents Frozen In 38 New Areas

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The office of price administration today ordered residential rents in 38 defense-rental areas "frozen" at the March 1 level, effective September 1.

More than 6,500,000 persons live in the 38 areas, scattered throughout the country.

"Federal control of rents is working," Administrator Leon Henderson commented. "In the 96 areas where we made maximum regulations effective in June, July and August, the rent index has shown a sharp drop."

Henderson said the new action "might be termed a move against high rents in areas containing ordnance plants."

The March 1 rents will apply except when the accommodations have been substantially changed by a major capital improvement. Such improvements include the addition of a bathroom, completion of a room in the attic of a house, or installation of sidewalks where there had been none before. Ordinary repair and maintenance is not considered a major capital improvement.

Under the regulations, all landlords are required to register their rental properties.

A Casualty Of War

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—It looks like the swan song for singing telegrams.

Permission to discontinue these and other special rate social wire messages has been asked of the federal communications commission by the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies so that war messages can be expedited.

200 Casualties In Explosion In Spain

LONDON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Reuters news agency quoted the Vichy radio today as saying 200 persons were killed or injured by a bomb explosion during a religious ceremony at Bilbao, Spain.

It said Gen. Jose Varela, Spanish army minister, was present but escaped injury.

The time-saving, work-saving electric appliances you have in your home are a valuable investment that may be difficult to replace, now that the manufacture of many household electric appliances has been stopped to conserve vital metals. Make a pledge to yourself to take good care of the appliances you have, so they'll continue to serve you well until the day when factories again can turn out these useful things.

You'll save money and help the program to conserve metal needed for war production, by having electric appliances repaired. Often a minor adjustment or tightened connection will make them work like new.

Sports Hold On To Second In Standings

By The Associated Press
The second-place Shreveport Sports were unable to narrow the lead between them and the Beaumont Exporters, but they at least held their own last night with a 6-5 victory over the Tulsa Oilers.

The Shippers maintained their margin by trouncing the Oklahoma City Indians 5-0 at Beaumont. Third-place Fort Worth dropped a 3-4 decision to the Missions at San Antonio, and at Houston the fourth-place Buffs pushed the Dallas Rebels farther into the cellar with a 4-3 win.

The Sports beat the visiting Oilers by the simple process of out-slugging them. Floyd Speer, Shreveport moundsman, relieved Doyle Lade in the fourth to check a Tulsa rally that gave the Oilers a temporary 3-4 lead. The Sports recovered by scoring two runs in their half of the fourth, ending the scoring for the game.

Ray Clark held Oklahoma City to three hits and struck out eleven men.

The Missions owed their triumph over Fort Worth to the hitting of Floyd Baker and Nick Gregory. Baker pounded out four hits, including a double with the bases loaded in the second, and Gregory got a three-run circuit clout in the eighth.

Phil Marchildon Gives A's Something To Cheer

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
Wide World Sports Writer.
No, you'd hardly expect a Philadelphia Athletics pitcher to lead the American League in victories this year, but that's what Phil Marchildon may do—and if you can overlook the fact that the A's have less offensive punch than a brigade of Benito's Best, then you'll find little mystery in the situation, because Phil has what it takes.

The 28-year-old good looking Canadian is expecting his Dominion army call but has an idea it won't come before the end of the season. And if he travels at his present clip he'll have a good chance of winding up with at least 15 victories. Up until Aug. 10 he was tied with the Yankees' Spud Chandler at 13 victories.

Marchildon, who won 10 and lost 15 with the A's last year (not bad . . . not bad!) gained effectiveness this season and thinks it has been the result of studious seasons with Earl Brucker, veteran Philadelphia catcher and coach.

Using New Stuff
"When I was younger," Marchildon explains, "I worked in the nickel mines up in Ontario and it tightened up my muscles. So I had difficulty developing a smooth movement and I was giving away my pitches. Well, Brucker has been working with me, spotting my unconscious give-away and taking the kinks out of my delivery."

"I've also been working with some different stuff this year," Marchildon adds. "I've got a better change of pace, and a fork ball in addition to my two curves, fast, and slow, and my regular fast ball. I'm learning to mix 'em up."

This is only Marchildon's second season in the big leagues, which means he has caught on pretty fast. He came to the A's from the Toronto Maple Leafs, where he had been a discovery of the veteran Dan Howley. Howley had heard of the reputation being made by a young sandlotter named Marchildon and he did a little investigating and signed him up.

That was in 1938, and Marchildon in the next two seasons stamped himself as one of the most promising young flingers in the International League.

ican boys.

He left school to take a job in the nickel mines and did a little pitching in a mining league.

The load he must carry with the A's is all the more strenuous because he has to bear down on every pitch. There's little chance of his mates getting him a flock of runs to work on.

Connie Mack, venerable manager of the Athletics, says Marchildon, physically, has all it takes to be a great pitcher.

"He's got the ability and he learns fast," Connie says. "His only drawback as far as I can see is a slight tendency toward wildness. Once he cures that his effectiveness will be increased ever so much."

Sugar Bowl Sports Program Due To Be Continued

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18 (AP)—Sponsors of the Sugar Bowl announced plans today to carry on this winter with their usual full calendar of sports, but the plans weren't too definite.

"Our intent is to have the same program we had last year," said Joseph B. David, president of the New Orleans Mid-winter Sports association, "but things are so uncertain we don't know what will end up with."

The population of the Soviet Union, 170,000,000 at the last census, is approximately four-fifths European, one-fifth Asiatic.

St. Louis Not Out Of Natl. League Race

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
If the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers don't meet in the world series this fall, they'll waste a grudge that would be worth more at the box office than all the 300 hitters on both clubs.

Born in the post-season classic last October but lost amid the pennant squabbles of the current campaign, the ill-festling has come out of retirement.

Both teams' front offices know how many customers a good grudge battle can pull through the gates.

It came about when the Yankees discovered that their army-navy relief doubleheader with the Washington Senators at the stadium Sunday would have the toughest kind of competition at Ebbets Field, where the Dodgers had increased their meeting with the New York Giants from a single game to a double bill.

When the Dodgers refused to strike one of their games off the day's calendar, Yankees officials were angered. Now the Yankees players, who feel that the Dodgers are trying to show up the American league in general and the Yankees in particular in the matter of war relief funds, are recalling the happenings of last October.

Among other things, they remember those close pitches, one of which nearly led to blows between New York's Joe DiMaggio and Brooklyn's Whitlow Wyatt. So the feud is on again.

Meanwhile, the St. Louis Cardinals aren't conceding the Dodgers the National league pennant. With Brooklyn idle yesterday, the Cards sliced the Dodgers lead to seven and a half games by whipping the Cincinnati Reds, 5-2, to sweep a four-game series.

In the only other National league game, the New York Giants tightened their grip on third place, four games ahead of Cincinnati, by edging out the Boston Braves, 3-2. Babe Barna singled with the bases loaded, the score tied and two out in the last of the ninth.

The Yankees played their last game of the season in Philadelphia swamping the Athletics, 15-0, as Red Ruffing hurled his fourth shutout of the year and the 42nd of his career.

The defeat, leaving the A's 35 games behind the Yanks with only 33 left to play, definitely eliminated Philadelphia as a pennant possibility.

The St. Louis Browns came from behind twice to beat the Cleveland Indians, 5-2, in a night game, the only other contest on the schedule.

John Niggeling pitched seven-hit ball for the Browns, who pulled within a game and a half of the third-place Tribe.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18 (AP)—A series of broadcasts in behalf of his candidacy for the lieutenant governorship has been scheduled for the week by John Lee Smith of Throckmorton, West Texas who holds the favorite's position in the Aug. 22 runoff.

Smith, now a member of the Texas senate, had a plurality of more than 40,000 votes in a large field of contestants in the first primary. His opponent in the runoff is Harold Beck of Texarkana.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—The western division of the army all-star football squad is burned up over hints from the eastern camp that the other bunch is only a "second string" outfit. . . . Word from Camp Cooke is: "We play the toughest schedule—five games, starting with the Washington Redskins, to the east's three; we have less time to prepare; we travel the width of the country, which means the players get the most valuable practice; we will draw more people and have bigger receipts. . . . In fact, there won't be any competition. . . . And if Col. Bob Neyland's boys want to challenge that, Johnny Kimbrough, Don Scott, Ralph Kercheval and Co. are perfectly willing to prove it on the field. . . . Well, how about it, boys? A game like that ought to draw right well in Chicago or New York. . . . But try to play it here so we can see it."

Fort Worth is raising a "pennant fund" to reward Rogers Hornsby's Cats for staying up in the Texas league race. . . . And the fans are annoyed because the Rajah isn't eligible for the "most valuable award." . . . Aussie Nocktono sprained his wrist during the first round of the Rochester open gold tourney last week but turned in a 71, playing the last three holes with one hand only four over par.

Head To Foot
When Head Coach Johnny Lackner of Hamilton university at St. Paul goes into the army Saturday, he'll go right to the foot of the class. . . . He's reported to be the only college grid coach who is joining up as a plain private. . . . But, says Johnny "where would the army be without privates?" . . . Lackner is just following last year's seven starting players, who are all in the service—four in the army air corps, one in the naval air corps, one in a tank division, four in the naval reserve and one recently commissioned a second lieutenant in the marines.

Colleges Give Up Top Grid Stars To The Armed Forces

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—When Col. Robert Neyland and Maj. Wallace Wade were named coaches of the all-Army football team they were handed a well-indexed list of 1,800 soldier-gridders, all formerly in the star category, from which to draw their squad.

The Navy, Marine and Coast Guard branches possibly have attracted an equal number, making 3,600 football headlines now wearing uniforms of a different sort.

Although there is no way of determining it exactly, it is likely that 500 of those 3,600 would be in school and getting their bumps and bruises for dear ol' Siswah this fall instead of for Uncle Sam if the world were at peace.

An Associated Press survey shows that virtually every college contributed to the armed services at least one gridder who still was eligible to play and that at least two top flight schools—Fordham and Virginia—handed over their captains-elect.

The Rams will have to do without Jim Lanahan, an end, this fall out Jim Lanahan, an end, this fall out Jim Lanahan, an end, this fall out.

Bill Sulhing, a rousing center, Double graduations, one in the spring and the other in June left the U.S. Naval Academy with little semblance of the eleven that were sophomores there last season will be seniors this fall.

Although Uncle Sam tapped at least one footballer at almost all colleges, he drew more from some than from others. Penn State lost six while Pennsylvania has back all of those on whom it was counting.

Georgetown turned over 14 athletes but George Washington, in the same city, came through with only unscathed. . . . Mississippi, where there were hopes of one of the best eleven in the school's history, gave up 25. . . . Mississippi State, where the talent was meager, lost only a few. . . . Harvard, with a strong ROTC unit, got off lightly but Dartmouth saw 20 marching away and Wesleyan of Middletown, Conn., lost its entire first string line. . . .

Alabama is missing seven backs and four linemen. . . . Georgia gave up 13 but retained Frankie Sinkwich, the All-America halfback. . . . Stan Stasica, All-Southern back in his first year at South Carolina last season, is in the Army. . . .

Halfback Bus Mertes generally is regarded as the Big Ten's outstanding contribution. . . . He would have been playing for Eddie Anderson at Iowa. . . . Oklahoma was tougher for eight, five of whom were considered for starting berths. . . . Three members of the Armstrong's title-defending Utah University outfit have joined Uncle Sam. . . . At least two top-flight squad men were given up by each member in the Southwest Conference. . . .

Jim Hunnett, who was to have been to Santa Clara this fall what Norman Standley was to Stanford two seasons ago, enlisted. . . . Washington will miss 10 players, six of whom definitely would have made Ralph (Pest) Welch's first year happier. . . . Among the sextet was Bob Barrett, sophomore halfback terror of 1941. . . .

Kroesen and Don Goldbeck of San Antonio were upset in the men's doubles final by Grever Cantrell of Sherman and Gus Craig of Paris.

Goldbeck and Rod de Llano, Laredo, lost out in the junior doubles championship to the Martins brothers of San Antonio, Tony and Emil, 9-11, 6-3, 6-1.

Ted Williams Hikes Average

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox still is a long way from the .400 average that won him the American league batting championship last year but he may make it yet if he continues at the pace he held during the past week.

Williams batted exactly .300 for the week in 20 trips to the plate, raising his average from .344 to .382.

That mark, which he reached once before this season, gave him a lead of 10 percentage points over his closest rival, Joe Gordon of the New York Yankees, before today's and a margin of 14 points over the National league leader, Brooklyn's Pete Reiser.

Reiser, who also is attempting to defend in his circuit, dropped four points to .336 but still leads his league by 11 points. His nearest pursuer is Ernie Lombardi of the Boston Braves.

Congress Is Our Responsibility

A sober and considered evaluation of congress appears in the current issue of Life magazine, one of the more potent editorial forces of the nation. It is recommended reading for those of us who find fault with the policies and actions of our lawmakers, because it shows that, while much of the fault-finding is justified, the blame for many congressional shortcomings in the end are to be charged against the people.

That is because the people are responsible for having sent to Washington the members of congress, and it is the people who have the responsibility of electing better men.

In all fairness, it must be assumed that Life magazine and the author of this article, Roger Butterfield, have no axe to grind in the matter of electing senators and representatives from any one state. They are not campaigning for or against anybody—except for the fact that they, as voices in the American press, want to see sincere, honest and competent men in the congressional seats. They want to see as senators and representatives those men who appreciate the seriousness of this global war and the great responsibility this nation has in winning the war and the permanent peace that follows.

Life and Butterfield are not new dealers, not Roosevelt "yes-men."

Yet, objectively, they point out the importance of a congress membership that works with the administration for the ultimate good of this country.

And on that score, they point to the menace presented by the isolationists in the house and senate; that group of men who have done nothing to further the war effort and who on the contrary have helped to hamstring many of the administration's most vital policies designed to further our program for victory.

The responsibility of the people, the magazine article states, is to see that these isolationists are eliminated from congress. And

Life and Butterfield get specific in listing a group of men—all seeking to be returned to office this year—who, for the very good of this nation as a whole, ought to be defeated. Texans will be interested to know that the name of Senator W. Lee O'Daniel stands well up on the list.

The Life article is no wild, radical blast of criticism. It is pointedly written from a sane viewpoint. It tells us that the task of making a better congress is ours. It tells Texans that they have a job to do, as good citizens, at the ballot box next Saturday. That job, in our case, is to elect James V. Allred to the senate.

Hollywood— Behind Scenes Is Wardrobe Manager

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Another side of Hollywood:

The sweet-faced, white-haired little woman walked across the RKO lot, and she nodded pleasantly to the red-haired girl in make-up approaching.

After she had passed, the little woman turned around.

"Ginger Rogers," she said. "I know because I ironed that dress this morning."

It happens this way often for Mrs. Katharina E. Ruge, an alterations fitter in the studio's wardrobe department. "Alterations fitter" is a rather all-inclusive term, but convenient for union classification. Mrs. Ruge's job includes the general care and repair of various items of wardrobe used by the players. She mends, sews, alters, washes, frons, cleans, keeps track of things, dyes.

She has been in her "corner"—a little room with racks of dresses, dress forms, an ironing board, stocking-stretchers, a sink, sewing machines, boxes of thread, and needles—for eight years. More than 60 now, she has been sewing since she was 17, has been in studio wardrobe work 15 years and more.

Most of her work now is with wardrobe for extras, stand-ins, minor players—especially in comedy and westerns. In her "corner" today is a white net evening gown, sparkling fresh, which has been in service, with constant mending and cleaning, for 10 years.

Mrs. Ruge would recognize Ginger's dress, though not Ginger, because she has a "terrible memory" for names—"and besides the make-up makes them look different. The girls come in here, and I know them, but for the life of me I couldn't tell you their names. Lillie Ball I always know, and Anne Shirley—because they come in to say hello now and again, and I know them real well."

Born in Germany, she came to New York at 15, moved to Chicago where she began sewing. Widowed at 30, she took it up as a profession, came to Hollywood 24 years ago and began a profitable business, her clients including several movie people who led her eventually into studio work.

Union scale for her job is 90 cents an hour, time and a half for overtime. She works five days a week, 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Occa-

WILDERNESS GIRL

By LETA ZOE ADAMS

Chapter Eight
PURSUIT

When the Indian had gone Sandy and Gil set to work loading the canoes. They talked only when necessary, then in whispers. They had sent Helen to wait in the shadows of the trees a short distance back from the water.

Minutes passed. An hour. Nothing moved on the river except a few light birds, swooping low. The mosquitoes were vicious.

A shadow slipped out of the trees. It was the Indian, a little out of breath.

"The senorita has gone," he said. Sandy paid him off and asked again, if he would accompany their expedition, offering him higher wages. But the Indian shook his head and glanced, with apprehension, at the mountains in the south.

Sandy turned to Gil. "Maybe we can pick up porters farther along the river."

Helen had come out of the trees. "If we don't start soon the mosquitoes will have me eaten," she said.

Sandy glanced at her quickly, thinking he had so many times that this was no trip for Helen Brotherton. Or for anyone, man or woman, who had not trained for the hardships.

He said dryly, "If we don't run into anything worse than mosquitoes we'll be lucky. But climb in that rear canoe. Maybe the brutes won't be so bad there."

The Indian stayed to push them off. Sandy went ahead, Helen and Gil followed in the other canoe. With no fanfare whatever they slipped off the muddy bank and turned out into the river, pointing upstream. Almost at once, it seemed, they were part of a turgid, quicksilver thread between two black walls of mystery—a thread with a life and laws of its own spinning out into space.

The few dim lights of Onha soon dropped behind and, with them, went all sense of contact with the civilized world. Sandy settled himself more comfortably in the dug-out and lifted his eyes to the sky. There was familiar Orion, his fiery belt and sword shedding light from millions of light-years distant; there were the Pleiades flying through the heavens to guide the mighty warrior on his celestial journey.

A strange peace washed over Sandy. It was as if, through some alchemy, he had become identified with the rhythmic pulse of life itself.

He peered ahead, up the quivering ribbon of the river.

Tyra Ahead!

Guiding the unwieldy dugout up the winding river hour after hour became tiring for one unaccustomed to the steady motion of the paddle. Sandy was obliged to keep a sharp lookout, not only ahead, but also along the banks as he passed, for he reasoned that if Tyra Fleming had suspected his trick—and there was a possibility that she had—she might try to elude his expedition by hiding and allowing him to go by her.

A couple of small villages appeared at intervals, but since no lights burned in them and nothing moved, they had a ghostly quality which harmonized with the silent river and its dark banks of tropical foliage.

At each village Sandy swung close to the shore to inspect the canoes hebothed them. The Zapo- teco Indian had described Tyra's canoes as having prows sharper than most. Also, Sandy knew he could tell them by their loads. He wished he knew more of Tyra's plans. It would make everything simpler.

Just as he was beginning to wonder how much longer his arms could swing the paddle, he rounded a curve and caught a glimpse of another village. He let the canoe drift back while he watched. Tyra was on the bank. He could tell her walk. Her Indian hirelings were lifting something which looked like a sleeping bag from a canoe.

Sandy intercepted Gil as he came up and reported his observations.

"We'll return to the first likely looking camp site. It must be at least half a mile from the village because we don't want the Indians to find us and tell Tyra that we're camped below her."

Gil asked: "How long do you think we can keep up this hide-and-seek game, chief?"

"As long as luck is on our side," Incurable Romantic.

They turned the canoes, then, and glided back the way they had come. Sandy took one side of the river, Gil the other. Presently Gil called that he had found a place. Sandy paddled across.

Back of the muddy banks the ground rose to form a dry knoll covered with grass and shaded by fern palms and coconut trees.

"Looks pretty good," Sandy decided when he had walked around it a little. "We can't be too choosy, anyhow."

Helen joined them.

"Isn't it beautiful," she breathed. "Like a motion picture set for a tropical picture! Oh, I'm going to enjoy this trip! I've always wanted to see things like this."

Gil grinned at her good-naturedly. "I'm afraid you're one of these incurably romantic women, Helen. All you can see is the pretty props."

"And what's wrong with that?" Helen demanded.

No one bothered to answer. Gil and Sandy were already on their way back to the river to unload what they needed from the canoes.

It took a short time to set up the three insect-proof pup tents and unroll the sleeping bags. They handed Helen her personal belongings but warned her to keep everything inside the tent or she might find her clothes full of unwelcome guests. They did not unload any of the provisions. Instead they sat in the canoes and munches some of the tortillas that they had ordered prepared by the hotel cook before starting up the river. It was a cold, cheerless meal but it filled their stomachs.

There was some discussion about posting a guard for the canoes.

Man About Manhattan—

Good Looking Girls Get Interviewed By Studes

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—The problems of operating a professional summer-theatrical season in a university town, which is booming along on an accelerated program in cooperation with the armed services, are many and often comical, as can be attested by Richard Skinner, who is conducting the McCarter Theater's strawhat season at Princeton, N. J.

Normally, a sleepy Jersey village in summer, this first war summer finds Princeton a boom burg. One of the students' chief diversions is the university radio station, WPRU, which operates over the college-generated light system in some mysterious fashion. Each opening night at the McCarter, a representative of the station turns up to interview a player, after the premier. By some strange chance, the best looking ingenue in the cast is always selected—no matter how grand the star of the occasion.

Norman, a young man who practices "cartomancy," which is the reading of fortunes by cards, cheerfully admits that his art is the bunk. He read his own fortune the other night at the Ravens Room and learned that a tall dark man was soon to influence his life—said tall dark individual turning out to be the head of his draft board. Norman goes into the army in a few weeks. He predicts a gloomy future for Mr. Hitler.

Diamond Mine Is Sold For $541

ORVILLE, Calif.—One of the few diamond mines in the United States has been knocked down at a tax sale for $541. This famous old property, the Cherokee, which was worked by hydraulic methods, produced $13,000,000 in gold and more than 400 diamonds and sapphires.

Washington Daybook -- The Capital Stages Air-Raid Practice

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON -- "Air raid" in the Senate:

It is one of those off days and there is only a scattering of senators in their seats or wandering in and out of the cloakrooms. There is a handful of newsmen in the press gallery. The public galleries hold perhaps 150 persons.

So faint that it almost is no noise at all, the sound of a siren drifts down through the skylight. Business drones on. Senator Smathers, in the presiding officer's chair, is calling for reconsideration of a bill already passed. An assistant sergeant-at-arms runs in and whispers in the ear of Majority Leader Barkley.

The senator is on his feet so quickly he scatters papers on his desk: "Mr. President, if there is nothing further, as in legislative session, I move that the senate adjourn until Monday next."

That faint siren sound was the second and final air raid alert. It is 2:55. The senate is three minutes behind the air raid schedule.

The exodus begins. The Capitol elevators already have stopped running. The stairs are jammed as wardens and deputy wardens (all Capitol or Senate employes) guide the lines of senators, pages, clerks, sightseers, newsmen and Capitol splinters through the north door and out across the plaza.

The line wavers as it emerges from the air-cooled Capitol into a surging wall of Washington heat, but the wardens hustle it along. It's a city block to the basement of the Senate office building.

Across the Capitol Plaza to the east, there is no sign of activity in the U. S. Supreme Court building. We wonder why for we know that the supreme court is sitting. We find out later. The supreme court, deep within the thick walls of its marble edifice, was unable to hear the alarm. They probably wouldn't have adjourned if they had.

But now we are piling into the "air raid shelter"—a basement hallway of the Senate office building. The air conditioning has been shut off and already the packed hallway is warming uncomfortably. The last of the stragglers move into the shelter and the doors are closed. It has taken 14 minutes for the senate side of the Capitol to get to their shelter—enough time for bombers from beyond Baltimore to reach here, drop their eggs and scoot for "home."

The senators seem unruffled. Sen. Elmer Thomas moves about, immaculate as ever, and apparently as cool. Senators Vandenberg and Danaher stand chatting in a doorway with Minority Leader McNary. Even in an air raid, the republicans stick together. Senators Taft and Byrd are wandering restlessly through the crowd.

The visitors caught in this Capitol show, love it. It's as close as a lot of them have ever been to a senator. Some stand and gape and thrill.

Then the "all clear" sounds. The senators go to their offices. The clerks and the newsmen go back to work. The sightseers rush off to write letters home.

The tomb of Ulysses S. Grant in New York was built by popular subscription at a cost of $600,000.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (UP)—Adjustment of meat price ceilings by zones, in order to relieve shortages in areas where the ceilings are low, is under consideration by the office of price administration, a spokesman said today.

Some method of "leveling" prices would help, OPA felt, to correct the present maldistribution and assure that packers deliver a normal proportion of their output to every area instead of favoring those cities where ceilings are highest.

The spokesman, who did not wish to be named, said the proposed zone adjustment might mean a lowering of prices in some areas as well as a ceiling increase in others, since OPA will attempt to preserve the existing ceiling average. Prices now vary as much as 1 cent a pound from city to city.

Equitable distribution of meats was a major item on the agenda of the foods requirements committee headed by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, scheduled to meet later in the day.

For three days now fishing has been permitted on Moss Creek Lake, and in general the anglers have shown their appreciation by obeying the rules set aside by the city for governing activities on that property. As far as we know there has been no official complaint other than that concerning the probability that some might be taking more fish than the limit allows and that some might be taking fish too small. However, some who were on the lake Sunday told of a few instances where men were feeding. This conflicts with the rules, and it is very likely would be to the advantage of the anglers if they guard against it, because "rule busting" sometimes prompts stricter enforcement.

The weather hampered conditions at the lake somewhat Sunday, as a stiff breeze was blowing most of the time and some rain caused the water to become murky. But most of those who ventured out, and there were many, were content as rain was even more desirable than a good catch.

City softball league has dwindled to a six-team circuit, now that ABC-Lions have withdrawn, and that will leave some gaps in the schedule. In most cases where only one game is scheduled for a night the remaining time will be taken up by a practice game. Some of the clubs are anxious to get in practice between the league tilts. A team from Foran has asked for a place on the extra-game card, and they are reported to have strong teams.

Letters From The Philippines Now Being Delivered

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—Letters written by American soldiers in the Philippines before the fall of Bataan and Corregidor, and recovered from the Pacific after the ship bringing them to the United States was sunk, are now being delivered to the soldiers' families, the war department reports.

The recent receipt of mail from men who had been fighting in the Philippines led some of the recipients to think that communications had been reopened with the island, the department said, but the letters actually started their long journey in March.

The mail left the islands "probably by way of a submarine, which transferred it in a mail pouch in a small freighter," the department reported. "Subsequently, the ship was torpedoed. The mail bag floating at the scene was pulled from the sea and its contents were forwarded to the army postal service of the war department, which sent the letters on to the addressees."

Alfred Hits Isolationists; O'Daniel Protests Slander

WHARTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—Senator W. Lee O'Daniel dashes across the salt coastal country of Texas today on his "tour of appreciation" for the vote he got in the July primary.

He is pleading for "an overwhelming majority" on Aug. 22 to give him the "prestige to get something done when I return to Washington."

O'Daniel was scheduled today to make addresses at Rosenberg, Alvin, Goose Creek, Liberty and Port Arthur.

Yesterday the senator spoke to cheering audiences at Hallettsville, Yoakum, Edna, El Campo and Wharton in his runoff campaign against James V. Allred.

He talked at length about the "vilification, slander and mud slinging" he said was being directed against him by enemies. Again he asserted that the "main issue in this campaign is the danger of losing our American form of government" which he said was being menaced by "labor leader racketeers."

The candidate declared several times that he and his family were going "to keep smiling and keep our chins up" despite what he termed slanderous remarks about them.

He referred to his opponent as "that little yes-man."

During the day he talked often about "politically controlled papers" and then came out in a radio address at Wharton for "maintenance of the freedom of the press."

C. C. Broyler Lumber Co. of Monahan has a car load of lumber here Tuesday for use in building homes. For stripping had announced previously that Broyler was sending some materials here to take advantage of some of the 70 new housing units which the WPB had allowed. Big Spring, Broyler, he said, was prepared to construct up to 12 housing units in the Park Hill addition.

James Cowan, Tahoka, paid a $50 fine in corporate court Monday on a charge of dangerous driving. He was taken into custody twice Saturday, entering a plea of guilty first to a drunkenness charge before being picked up later in the day on the second charge.

City police, incidentally, transferred three cases to the county for action Tuesday. One was for driving drunk, another for carrying a pistol, and a third for theft.

It's really Capt. J. Gordon (Obie) Bristow now. Making ready to leave Thursday morning to report at Miami, Fla., for the commanding officers school, he was administered the oath by Lieut. Col. John W. White shortly before noon here today.

It took Marcus Smith about a year and a half to work up to a good thing as corporal, but he chucked it all overboard to become a private in the signal corps to get training he wanted more. But he writes home that he likes it better than ever, and despite hard study, has more time off. He was on foreign duty, and presumably still is since his address is through the San Francisco postmaster.

Westerners—Two sons of Judge and Mrs. James V. Allred turned westward here last week while spending a morning with James Carroll Caudle, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Caudle, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. "Doc" Caudle at Caudle's Hereford breeding ranch south of Big Spring. The three youngsters had a big time running around the ranch on the pony, which can satisfy the age requirements for voting. Eadie Caudle, active manager of the Caudle interests, learned to work cattle aboard the 22-year-old pony, so it was reasoned it could show the Allred lads around the place, too. Pictured are, left to right, James Carroll Caudle, Jr., and the Allred boys, David Crockett, 8, and Sam Houston, 3, who are spending the summer with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Miller, while Dad and Mother are busy with a senate campaign. Dobie Takes The Stump For Allred

DALLAS, Aug. 15 (AP)—Tousle-haired J. Frank Dobie, nationally known Texas historian, writer and teacher, took the stump against Senator W. Lee O'Daniel last night and drove his points home with the salty phrases of the range and campfire.

Dobie declared he intended to vote for James V. Allred because he wanted to help President Roosevelt in prosecution of the war.

Before a meeting arranged by friends of Dan Moody, defeated U. S. senatorial candidate in the first primary, who yesterday announced his intention of voting for Allred, Dobie said he didn't like the company O'Daniel kept.

He accused O'Daniel of "riding" two horses, and no one ever saw a cowboy ride two horses when one would do the work."

He asserted O'Daniel had been guilty of political tactics that were "parallel with the politics of Adolf Hitler."

O'Daniel says he is against the professional politician, yet he has become a coyote-wise, crafty and cunning politician," Dobie went on. "We need good politicians, but not politicians like O'Daniel."

"I charge," Dobie said, "that O'Daniel has done more to alienate labor and capital than anyone else in Texas politics."

He declared also that O'Daniel was grossly ignorant of world affairs and global politics and was unfit to represent his state in the senate.

Lad Of 7 Makes His Mark As A Business Man

Billy Ray Allred, 7, will start to school this autumn, but he hasn't been letting moss grow under his feet in the meantime.

During the past two years he has been applying a managerial talent to everything that came into his position. His money harvest hasn't been so big, but Billy Ray has it all figured out how he can make money next year, buy some clothes, spend some on incidentals and apply the rest to war stamps.

It all started two years ago when someone gave him two ducks and a drake. For a time it looked like he would be in for a killing—provided there had been a market for ducks. His charges turned out 37 ducklings and Billy was ready to count his profits. But hawks intervened and consumed 22 of the fowls. Billy sold a pair for $1.00 and decided to keep eight ducks and two drakes for another year. Billy doesn't think it will be as dry and perhaps the ducks will find a pond where they will be safe from hawks, etc.

His business touch was exercised some last year when he was given a half-bred bloodhound. He disposed of it for $5 and applied the money to chinchilla rabbits, which produced five others. He gave away two of these and plans to keep the balance for another year. Everybody, figures Billy, must raise what they can and apply what money they can raise up to war stamps—especially little business men.

Resigns—The Rev. Ernest submitted his resignation as pastor of the Church of the Nazarene Sunday and announced he was going into temporary retirement to secure an advised rest. He and Mrs. Orton came here June 5, 1941 from Stephenville and during the little more than a year of his pastorate Sunday school average attendance increased by 50 per cent and several members were added as well as an extensive church remodeling and debt lifting campaign put into motion. The Ortons will leave the latter part of the week and probably will be at Oklahoma City.

No Short Cut To Get In The Army

BELLINGHAM, Wash.—Stanley Norman, shoe clerk, was employed in a store only a block from the army's induction center in Tacoma when he was ordered to report for duty. Army regulations, however, prevented him from walking over to the center to take his examination. Instead he had to go to his former home in Bellingham and then return to Tacoma with two other selectees, traveling approximately 250 miles instead of one block.

Mrs. Eubanks Heads Women's Housing Group

Mrs. L. A. Eubanks, head of the Retail Merchants association, will head up a committee of women which organized Monday afternoon to attack the housing problem.

She was not ready Tuesday with her list of appointments but was drafting a plan of action that may send groups of women over the city on a systematic canvass to determine the possibilities of providing room for those coming to work or to serve or train at the army flying school here.

Ben LeFever, president of the chamber of commerce, presided over the organization meeting and spoke briefly in pointing again to the community's responsibility in providing for those who come here to work. The need to find rooms for many young women workers was stressed as well as the need for homes and apartments.

Mrs. Eubanks indicated that some sub-committees might be announced Wednesday and that little time would be lost in taking whatever action seemed possible.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. E. J. McDaniel, Mrs. W. S. Satterwhite, Mrs. P. W. Malone, Mrs. J. P. Kenney, Mrs. L. A. Eubanks, Mrs. T. J. A. Robinson, Mrs. D. M. Penn, Mrs. G. H. Good, Mrs. Iva Huneycutt, Mrs. C. D. Wiley and Mrs. Obie Bristow.
