De Leon Druggist Buys Corner Drug

An avid horse lover, Jo Anne, the youngest daughter, and Lex, are members of the Riding Club.

Sheri, a senior at De Leon High, is active in school affairs, especially debating. She will attend Texas University Pharmacy School this summer and plans on making pharmacy her vocation.

Mrs. Shelby teaches history, math and science in De Leon's 7th grade, and is a member of the Shakespeare Club.

Prior to buying the De Leon drug store in 1953, Lex worked for a pharmaceutical company in Wichita Falls. A graduate of Oklahoma University, where he was a member of the track team and president of the Letterman's "O" Club, Lex also took two years of pre-med work at Oklahoma Baptist University and participated in his favorite sport, track.

The Shelby family, with the assistance of several young men, began work on re-arranging the store Sunday afternoon and by the time the Progress goes to press will have the beginning of a "new look" on the corner.

You will enjoy meeting these home-folk and they extend you a cordial invitation to come around and get acquainted. Of course, living on the outskirts of Gorman, (De Leon, that is), most of us are already acquainted with the Shelys.

The Shelby family, members of the Baptist Church, are active in club and church work in De Leon.

Lex, as he prefers to be called, plans on re-doing the store - adding new lines of cosmetics, other merchandise, a soda fountain, and everything that goes with a modern, up-to-date drug store.

Lex said he would be on the job in Gorman until his pharmacist moved here, and then he would spend part of his time here and hoped to have a part in our civic activities.

HULLS

By KERNEL GENE, aPe

TENSION! TENSION! The world is so full its overflowing into small communities. Remember the days when disagreements were settled over a cup of coffee, etc.

Noticed work had slowed down on some of our streets which are getting in pretty bad shape. Seems a question has been raised about using a truck, purchased for Civil Defense, to haul material to fix streets. So, the truck is sitting on a lot - doing no one any good.

I do not mean to be critical but for the past several years, minorities seem to outweigh majorities in decisions all over our nation. This might be all right for people in other states and counties but for Gorman and Eastland County, it is getting too close to home. It is getting so close to home, it will soon affect our every day life. Of course, if you, as a majority want it this way - that's the way it will be.

Think it over.

I sometimes wonder if we have not become so complacent with our easy way of living that we hesitate to express an opinion or stand up for our rights out of fear of losing something.

My hat is off to the Cattlemen of our Nation who are fighting to retain their independence. Ride 'em cowboys! Some broncs are hard to tame, especially if they have been left on the range too long.

STALK 'EM PANTHERS!

It could be age, but Kernel Gene doesn't get around like he 'usta'. Visiting the high school recently I saw the picture of the Panther painted by Mrs. Mike Newby which was presented to the school. I photographed the picture and had this outline cut made. I hope Mrs. Newby will let us use it in some of our future school programs, etc.

Thirteen members of the Woman's Study Club met in the home of Miss Ozella Pulley on Tuesday evening.

Roll call was answered with "safety hints." Some of the fields in safety mentioned were, home, mental, automobile, and pedestrian.

Mrs. C. O. Revels gave a most interesting talk on Mental Safety. Her opening remark was "Preventing mental illness is like locking the barn door before the horse is stolen!"

She went on to say that the body is the servant of the mind. It obeys the operations of the mind, whether they be deliberately chosen or automatically expressed.

Clean thoughts make clean habits. If you would perfect your body, guard your mind. Thoughts of malice, envy, disappointment, despondency, rob the body of its health and grace.

There is no physician like cheerful thought for dissipating the ills of the body. To live continually in thoughts of ill will, cynicism, suspicion, and envy, is to be confined in a self made prison hole. But to think well of all, to be cheerful with all, to patiently learn to find the good in all — such unselfish thoughts are the very portals of heaven.

After the meeting was adjourned a delicious refreshment plate was served by the hostess.

AUSTIN — Ten Texas investor-owned electric utility companies, including Texas Electric Service Company, announced in Austin recently sponsorship of a major research program in atomic energy to be conducted initially at the University of Texas and Texas A&M University.

The ten utility companies comprise the membership of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation. The initial phase of the research program will carry a commitment of $325,000. Ultimately the Foundation may support a total of $540,000 in nuclear research in Texas.

Beeman Fisher, president of Texas Electric and a director of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation, was present at a luncheon at the Driskill Hotel when the announcement of the research program was made.

The research projects at the University of Texas and Texas A&M University will complement a program of nuclear fusion research which has been under way since 1957 under the joint sponsorship of the Foundation and the General Atomic Division of General Dynamics Corporation in San Diego, California.

The research program seeks to harness the thermonuclear (fusion) reaction — the source of power of the hydrogen bomb — for the eventual economical generation of electricity. The project is the world's first and largest program in controlled nuclear fusion research financed entirely by private industry.

C. A. Tatum, Jr., of Dallas, president of the Foundation, announced that the initial stages of the research programs at the two institutions would be supported up to a total of $325,000, to be disbursed during 1964, 1965 and 1966. Of this amount, $245,000 will go to the University of Texas for two projects and $80,000 to Texas A&M for one project.

"The Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation and its member investor-owned electric utility companies of the state are extremely happy that our joint research program with General Dynamics in controlling the fusion reaction will now also be carried out in Texas," Tatum said.

"In addition to the contributions it may make to the fusion research program, we are hopeful that this support will substantially aid the universities in their drive for excellence in science education in Texas," Tatum declared.

Scientists have not yet succeeded in controlling the nuclear fusion reaction, Tatum pointed out, although the nuclear fission research action — the splitting of the atom — has been controlled and a number of atomic fission power plants have been built. However, the cost of generating electricity from atomic fission is not competitive in this area with such conventional fuels as natural gas, the principal fuel for electric power generation in Texas, Tatum stated.

"The electric utility companies of Texas plan to be ready for the use of atomic energy whenever that becomes a better and less expensive way to serve our customers," he declared.

At General Atomic, some of the nation's leading scientists are attempting to reproduce on earth the process responsible for the energy generation of the H-bomb, the sun and the stars. The Texas program will complement this effort.

The research is centered on finding a way to hold ultra-hot ionized deuterium gas (plasma) in stable confinement long enough for it to be brought to an "ignition" temperature of about 400 million degrees centigrade in order for a self-sustaining nuclear fusion chain reaction to be achieved.

At General Atomic, scientists have been experimenting with "magnetic bottles," containers whose walls are formed by magnetic lines of force, since any container made of a solid material would be vaporized instantly at temperatures of millions of degrees. The problem is not only to produce temperatures many times hotter than the surface of the sun but to be able to contain the plasma long enough for a fusion reaction to set in.

If the energy-producing process of the H-bomb can be controlled, mankind will be provided with a virtually inexhaustible supply of power for thousands of years. This is because deuterium (heavy hydrogen), which is found in almost unlimited quantities in oceans, rivers and lakes, can be used as a fuel for generating electricity through nuclear fusion. The deuterium in one gallon of seawater from the Gulf of Mexico, for example, contains the equivalent energy of 350 gallons of high-octane gasoline.

In the fusion reaction, energy is produced by bringing together the atoms of light elements at tremendous collision velocities and fusing (or locking together) their nuclei. This is in contrast to nuclear fission, in which the nuclei of heavy atoms such as uranium are split and energy is released.

The research projects at the University of Texas will be under the direction of Dr. W. C. Dueterhoef, Jr., professor of electrical engineering, and Dr. Hans Schluter, associate professor of physics.

Dr. Dueterhoef's research will center around an investigation of injection of plasma into or across magnetic fields. An objective of the investigation will be detailed study of plasma impacted against a perpendicular magnetic field. Plasma "guns" will be utilized to fire super-hot gases into a "magnetic bottle."

The research under Dr. Schluter will concentrate on the heating of plasma by means of electromagnetic fields and how to prevent plasma leakage from "magnetic bottles."

The research at Texas A&M will be under the direction of Dr. Melvin Eisner, professor of physics. The project will concentrate on the investigation of means of analyzing plasma using a giant laser — a very intense and coherent beam of light. A plasma facility will be constructed for this program at Texas A&M.

An initial expenditure of $85,000 — $65,000 to the University of Texas and $20,000 to Texas A&M — has already been made by the Foundation for starting up the program and purchasing equipment, Tatum announced. An additional $80,000 — $60,000 to the University of Texas and $20,000 to Texas A&M — will be expended this year. Another $80,000 will be expended during 1965 and 1966.

Attending the luncheon at which the research programs were announced were the chief executives of a number of Texas electric Chevelle balanced performance is best!

Passing, cornering, threading through traffic, sudden stops—Chevelle excels all around! Chevrolet's new surprise package has what it takes to meet any driving challenge: Six or V8 engines, hefty brakes, Full Coil suspension—and a trim size that makes the most of them!

Chevelle means performance aplenty—standard 120-hp Six or 195-hp V8—and optional at extra cost, a 155-hp Six, a 220-hp V8, a new 327-cu.-in. V8! But Chevelle's performance means more. Chevelle's a foot shorter than the big cars. And the space Chevelle saves in size comes off the ends, not the middle. So it rides like you want a car to ride.

Chevelle lets you choose Powerglide*, 4-speed manual* or 3-speed manual transmission. Knowing how people like the custom touch, we wrote out a long list of extra-cost options. Knowing all this, what's keeping you from a test drive? Certainly not your Chevrolet dealer!

Add color and variety to your wintertime meals with vegetables from the earth - beets, carrots, turnips, rutabagas, mature onions, green onions, radishes, parsnips. All are flavorful and nutritious; carrots are especially high in vitamin A, and raw turnips are a good source of vitamin C. Eat some raw, some cooked. Leave the skins on, or pare only skin deep. Cook them only to the crisp-tender stage. Use the cooking liquid in soups, gravies, or vegetable cocktails.

A white sauce goes well with many of these root vegetables, and you can pep up the sauce with left-over bits of meat or fish, hard-cooked eggs, or grated cheese. Carrots and radishes make tasty sandwiches when shredded or sliced and mixed with nuts or raisins and salad dressing. Or combine several root vegetables in delicious soup.

Simmer a soupbone in water. To each 3 cups of this meat broth add:

- 1 small onion
- 2 small carrots
- 1 small turnip
- 1 small potato
- 1 small green pepper
- 1 stalk celery and leaves
- 1 cup tomato juice and pulp

Cut all the vegetables about the same size. Cook until tender in the salted meat broth. Season well and serve hot. This will make four servings, 1 cup each.

Now is a good time to defrost and clean your home freezer. The cold weather can help you do the job easier. Simply put the frozen foods in boxes and carry them out to the garage or stick them in a snowbank (when there is snow). If you think it's necessary, you can add a tray or two of ice cubes to help keep the foods frozen.

And here's a tip on how to get rid of all the accumulation of ice and frost in the freezer. Use your vacuum cleaner.

Attach the vacuum's hose to the exhaust outlet and put it in the freezer. Shut the door and turn on the vacuum. In no time at all, the warm exhaust air will melt the frost and ice.

This is much easier than using hot water and a cloth.

It's Time For... EYE CARE

Dr. Newton K. Wesley

So often the question arises: "What is the difference between professional eye specialists—such as an optometrist and an ophthalmologist?" First, the optometrist is a specialist in vision as the dentist is a specialist in teeth. By law, he is permitted to examine the eyes and to prescribe.

Wesley

He also does orthoptics, which is visual training, and also fits contact lenses. He can recognize diseases of the eye and refers such cases to the ophthalmologist. The ophthalmologist is a physician. He specializes in medical care of the eye. He treats eye diseases and also does surgery. He, too, can prescribe glasses or contact lenses. Then, there is also the oculist. He is a physician who specializes in the care of the eyes, nose and throat, although he also is known as an ophthalmologist. The optician is one who fabricates contact lenses or glasses according to the prescription of the optometrist or ophthalmologist.

There are many reputable manufacturers of frames and contact lenses, but only the eye specialist is qualified to examine your eyes.

The National Eye Research Foundation is supported by both groups of eye specialists. It is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to better vision and eye care. The Foundation recommends that your eyes be examined on a regular basis—at least once every six months. In this way, much serious trouble may be avoided.

As It Looks From Here

Omar Burleson, M. C.
17th. District, Texas

WASHINGTON, D. C. — AS NEVER BEFORE, THE FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION, under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, is trying to do more for the health and safety of people. Although the appearance of meddling and the exercise of authority in unwarranted circumstances may be irksome, their intent is valuable for people's protection.

THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION ALSO COMES into the picture of looking after the Nation's health when it comes to advertising. Here, again, is more Government regulation, and doubtless it is often bothersome to news media, but far-fetched claims of products, particularly those affecting health, may have to be limited. THE F. T. C. HAS THREATENED TO STEP into the cigarette smoking controversy. The National Association of Broadcasters has voted to restrict ads which defend smoking as healthy or that encourage the habit in youth. The advertising industry, as well as the tobacco industry, can and probably will meet certain standards in the hope of avoiding this type of control. Likewise, it would be highly desirable that drug manufacturers regulate and police themselves to be sure that drugs of unproved effects not be sold to an unsuspecting public.

OF COURSE, THIS LINE OF REASONING can be carried to any lengths. Dr. Paul V. Joliet says that automobiles are "barbarous, inhuman, irresponsible and idiotic." He says that the automobile accident "epidemic" is one of the few public health problems left unconquered. It is killing more than 100,000 persons a year. Dr. Joliet argues that the same techniques that licked major diseases of earlier centuries would produce comparable good results against accidents. He reasons that malaria was not conquered by learning how to treat the patient, but by finding the cause of the disease and striking at it.

ATTENTION IS NOW BEING GIVEN BY THE Public Health Service, working with industry, to encourage more safety features built directly into cars.

ANOTHER AUTHORITY, DR. HORACE CAMPBELL, Head of the Colorado Automotive Safety Committee, says "I am sure it is a deliberate attempt on the part of manufacturers to create as much work as possible for automotive repairs."

IT IS DIFFICULT TO BELIEVE THAT THERE is anything "deliberate" in this respect, but in 1962 there were 5 deaths for every 10,000 motor vehicles on the road. Safety experts say that many of

Judges Named For County Stock Show

Judges for the annual Eastland County Livestock Show, March 12-14 have been selected, with one exception, according to Robert Kincaid, Morton Valley rancher and general superintendent for the annual affair.

Dr. Ray Anderson, Ft. Worth, will again judge all swine classes, including the fat pig division. Dr.

these could have been saved by safety devices. One item Dr. Campbell would require is a diagonal shoulder strap, bracing the upper part of the body. Another need, so Dr. Campbell says, is automobiles with good energy absorbing bumpers. He recommends a hydraulic bumper of the type which was designed more than three years ago. Cars should have a much stronger central body to protect people from being crushed.

DR. CAMPBELL ADDS THAT THE steering assembly especially endangers lives. In studying fatal car accidents in Colorado, he found that 4 out of 40 people were killed when the steering shaft pierced their bodies.

SINCE AUTOMOBILE LIABILITY INSURANCE is one of the fastest rising items of cost in the average person's budget, the public could benefit from reductions in insurance costs. Losses paid out by insurance companies have jumped from near a billion dollars in 1950 to almost $4 billion in 1963. Mr. Richard W. Hoover, Legislative Counsel for the Massachusetts A. A. A., points out that since there are building codes, electrical codes, air conditioning codes and codes applying to a lot of other things, why not a public safety code for automobiles?

SHOWBOAT BUCKNER - Forward - 5' 2" - 140 lbs. Home: Kansas City, Mo.

Although handicapped in height, this did not stop showboat. Beginning in the YMCA he was established as a great play maker. In high school, Buckner specialized in speed and deception, was captain of his team and won All-State honors. After graduating Showboat received scholarships to many top flight colleges and chose North Carolina College in Durham. He played on several championship teams there. It wasn't until Buckner came out of college that he really came into his own. After many successful tours with the Broadway Clowns, Harlem Magicians, Buckner was tagged as Showboat. Entering the service, he furthered his fame as the most valuable player in the second army area. Serving two years, Showboat joined the Harlem Stars, where the name Showboat was tagged as the Clown Prince. Marland "Showboat" Buckner is as well known in Hong Kong and Manila as he is in your city. He is one of the all-time greats in this national past time.
