

CARNIVAL ACCLAIMED SUCCESS BY LARGE CROWD ATTENDING

Most everyone who had anything to do with the activities of the Halloween Carnival, which was climaxed in the school gym and auditorium Saturday night, seemed to feel that the carnival should be recorded as a success from every standpoint. All agree that they're "glad it's over."

The Saturday night activities were well attended by young and old, by children, parents and others. Everyone seemed to have an enjoyable evening.

The coronation program, held in the auditorium from 8:30 to 9:00 o'clock, received compliments from many interested persons present. Music and fan-fare was provided by the Gorman Stage Band. The grand entry procession was very beautiful and impressive.

Kathy Ripley was crowned as Queen of Grade School and was escorted by Wayne Blair.

Queen of Junior High was Sherry Jobe, escorted by Mike Duran.

Queen of High School, Jimmie Dee Belyeu, was escorted by Jackie Harrison.

Huddleston-Young Wedding Vows Said At Meth Parsonage

A pretty wedding was solemnized Thursday evening at seven-thirty o'clock at the First Methodist Church parsonage in Gorman. Miss Dorothy Ann Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Young of Vernon, and Mr. Gary Bryce Huddleston of Fort Worth were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. C. Huddleston, father of the groom.

Mr. Huddleston sang pre-nuptial selections, accompanying himself at the piano, as his bride-elect waited in the reception hall for her entrance.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wilson of Fort Worth as bridesmaid and best man. Mrs. Wilson is a cousin to the groom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Gary Huddleston original white wool street-length dress, one of several gowns he has designed for brides. Her cap-styled headpiece was embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid.

Antique floorstand candelabra flanked the improvised altar in the living room.

Immediately following the ceremony the wedding cake was served with punch by the hostess, Mrs. Huddleston.

The groom sang with the University Christian Church Choir in 1963 and has served as assistant director of the Texas Boys Choir. He attended North Texas and Texas Wesleyan Colleges. He is a hair stylist. The bride attended Texas Wesleyan. She is a secretarial employee for the Houston Fire and Casualty Company.

They will be honeymooning in New York City.

Attending the wedding other than the above mentioned were paternal grandparents of the bride.

Fairbetter giving the foremost planks of the Republican Party, "governments greatest achievements have been attained by by-partisan efforts."

Mrs. Lawrence Elson gave news of national and state federation. Mrs. Dona Moorman presided over the brief business session.

Homemade ice cream was the hostess' treat to her guest.

The club will meet with Mrs. Fanny Burkett in the afternoon of Tuesday, November 10th.

Princesses and Princes were Tamilyn Simpson and Kirk Arnold; Patty Hirst and Kelly Henderson; Vickie Simmons and Bill Baze; Sarah Kirk and Don Porter; Dorenda Arnold and Wesley Rogers; Deborah Pittman and John Gilbert; Karen Collins and Ed Sutton; Glenda Rodgers and Gary Overstreet; and Kay Brnett and Mack Sutton.

Water Commission Initiates Central Texas Water Study

County Judge Scott Bailey has been informed that the Texas Water Commission recently launched a regional study of the ground-water resources in Central Texas, including Eastland County. The study will be conducted from a field office established in Waco. The study is designed to determine the quantity and quality of underground water available in the region with initial emphasis on the prolific Lower Cretaceous Trinity Sands. Personnel of the Commission's Ground Water Division will conduct intensive field investigations of the area including the collection of information on municipal, industrial, irrigation and selected domestic wells.

A major goal of the study will be the construction of a model of the aquifer system from the data collected in the field. The model will enable estimates to be made of the potential amounts of ground water available to communities and cities in the study area.

This detailed study will require at least three years of field investigation for completion. It will provide valuable information to all cities, industries, and other water users in this important area. Shortly after the study is completed, the Commission will publish a report of the findings which will be available to the general public.

In making this announcement Judge Bailey emphasized that this ground-water study will furnish valuable information concerning our valuable water supply and added that this study will be of real interest in determining the possibility of further agricultural and industrial development of our county.

Panthers Beat Bangs 12-0; Travel To May Friday Nite

The Gorman Panthers won their first District game last Friday night by downing a stubborn Bangs eleven 12 to 0.

Gary Overstreet scored all the points for the Red and Blue; the first touchdown coming on one of the best runs Gary has made all season, from 21 yards out Overstreet went off tackle and with some swivel hip action eluded several would-be tacklers and crossed the goal line. An attempted pass for the extra point was unsuccessful.

Kick-off Breakfast For Scout Drive Set November 17

Joe Collins, Community Chairman of the Comanche Trail Council of Boy Scouts, has announced that plans are complete for the Boy Scout Kick-off Fund Drive Breakfast which will be held at 6:30 a. m. Tuesday, November 17 at the Brown Jug Cafe.

Anyone interested in helping with this worthwhile project (and every man in the community should be) may contact Speedy Clark, General Solicitor. Other members of the campaign committee are Erich Arnold, Chairman of Special Gifts and Audit and Control; W. C. Browning, Prospects and Evaluation Chairman; Graydon Baze, Kick-off and Reports Chair man; and Joe Bennett, Publicity and Promotion Chairman.

These men and the boys of the community need your help and assistance, so volunteer your services and help with your gifts. Team captains will be selected at the breakfast.

Post Office Helps Count Livestock

Rural mail carriers from the Gorman Post Office will leave some livestock survey cards along their routes beginning Nov. 13.

"Information reported on these cards is used to set the yearly inventory of livestock and poultry on Texas farms," Postmaster Baze explained.

Rural carriers distribute the cards at random in boxes along their routes.

"This means that not every box will get a card," Mr. Baze said. "For this reason, it's important for everyone who gets a card to return it filled out so that USDA can get a true sample of the State's livestock holdings."

Carriers assisting with the survey are: D. R. Clark, Route 1; W. O. Parr, Route 2; and A. O. Clark, Route 3.

Facts and figures secured in this survey are the basis for Texas and National pig crop report and inventories of livestock and poultry on farms as of the first of the year. Stockmen and many others use this information in making business decisions.

Survey results will be widely distributed through Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service releases, newspapers, farm magazines, radio and television.

The second Panther score came in the second period when Gary Overstreet took a screen pass from Jerry Ormsby and 44 yards later crossed the line into the promised land. Again the try for point failed and the Panthers led at half time 12 to 0.

The second half the Dragons perked up and held the Panthers to five first downs and the Panthers also held the Bangs eleven and neither team threatened in the second half.

Jerry Ormsby, playing full time at quarterback, was the work horse for the Panthers. Ormsby dialed his number 17 times, picking up 25 yards; Gary Overstreet lugged the leather only 9 times but picked up 68 yards for a 7.5 average per try. Doyle Welch carried 7 times for 22 yards. William Jay carried 4 times for 23. Richard Pittman got 9 yards on 3 trips and Daryl Hirst carried 1 time for 23 yards. Hirst, who had directed the Panthers in the first five games, was used exclusively on defense and for punting. Once on a punting situation Hirst received a low snap from center and had to run with the ball and almost went all the way around his left end.

Band Booster Club Projects Planned At Monday Meet

Mr. Alsop has a nice schedule for the band. This Saturday he plans to take some to enter the All District Band event to be held in Eastland. If they make the band they will play in the concert on Saturday night. The entire band will attend the concert.

On Saturday, November 21 the band will attend Tarleton State College Homecoming. They will participate in the parade in the morning and attend the ball game that afternoon.

The Christmas Band Concert will be held on December 21, so make your plans now to attend.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation to the many people who offered their assistance and words of sympathy on the recent loss of our loved one, Mrs. Will Capers. We did so appreciate the doctors, nurses and hospital staff for every kindness shown her, and for the beautiful flowers, cards and the food brought to the home. Your kindness shall always be remembered by each of us.

The Family of Mrs. Will Capers

Again the Panther defense was outstanding with the entire forward wall of Robert Hunt, Robert Reeves, Robert Whitt, Tommy Kirk, David Kirk, Mack Sutton, Ronnie Smith, Benny Mathews, and Deryck Pocock doing their usual hard hitting.

Richard Pittman and Don Wallace did a fine job in the game.

The Bangs game, in one way, was one of the most erratic the Panthers have played all season. They received more penalties, 105 yards, the most they have received all season; the Panther punting game was off considerably, and the Panthers were sluggish in getting off their plays on offense. Sometimes these things are contributed in a large measure to having a week off, the timing is off, etc. But the Panthers certainly did take advantage of the week off as far as the injury list was concerned with the exception of George Bolt who was out with a broken hand.

The Panthers may be hurt in the encounter with the May Tigers on Friday night due to the injury in a practice session on Tuesday of Gary Overstreet, who suffered another ankle injury.

Speaking of the game with May, it looks like by the game they played with the Rising Star Wildcats, that the Panthers are in for another tough game. The Wildcats had to capture a Tiger pass and return it 60 yards to down the Tigers 6 to 0. So, a good game is in store this Friday night.

As usual the Panther fans were out backing the Red and Blue last Friday and a large crowd is expected to follow the Panthers to May this week. Game time is 7:30 p. m.

What's New In Harvesting-Curing Spanish Peanuts

W. S. Allen
Extension Agricultural Engineer
Texas A&M University

There has been a great deal of discussion on the problems of the peanut industry. As producers, you are concerned with peanut diseases, peanut pests and peanut economics, but certainly all the problems do not stop when the time of harvest arrives. If the weeds, the weather, and the diseases have been fought successfully, it is still necessary to harvest, cure, and market a crop of good quality in order to realize the highest price for the product.

1964 will be especially significant - especially for those who do not maintain high quality throughout the harvesting, curing and shelling operations. Year by year the harvest operations and the curing operations are becoming more totally mechanized. New equipment becomes larger, more complicated, and more expensive in initial cost. Some of the new equipment requires the employment of new techniques; however, regardless of the cost of the equipment, its size and its system of handling peanuts, the proper use and management of the equipment is the most important single factor. Sound management of any equipment will largely determine the extent of profit to be obtained from such use of such equipment. For example, no harvester is going to take the place of the producer in determining when the peanuts are mature, and the producer, must utilize the available equipment to harvest promptly when most of the pods and kernels are mature. Researchers have shown that mold damage may proceed rapidly following maturity; therefore, Spanish peanuts should be harvested when the pods darken on the inside and the kernels are free within the pods. A visual check for maturity is a more reliable indication of maturity than the age of the crop because drouth, irrigation, and other factors may hasten or delay development.

The grower must insure that he obtain rapid drying of pods after digging. We know that mold damage can increase rapidly in windrows if the peanuts are packed too closely or if excessive rain occurs before combining. It may be necessary to turn the plants or it may be possible to utilize other equipment that is available today in order to obtain the required drying. The producer must be careful about combining excessively green or wet peanuts. He should be conscious of the fact that this will result in immediate pod and kernel breakage and may contribute to later mold damage. Peanuts in windrows that are to be sacked and field cured should contain less than 15 percent moisture when combined. Peanuts that are to be artificially dried would do well to have less than 20 percent moisture when combined.

Proper adjustment of the combine in either case is required in order to minimize pod and kernel injury. This may call for adjustment during the day to account for weather and humidity conditions since cylinder speed should be reduced and picker clearances increased as vines become progressively drier. Constant attention is required to make sure that the amount of foreign material and trash is held to a minimum. Dirt and trash increases the chance of mold development, retards curing, and generally makes the job much harder for the sheller to process the peanuts properly. When peanuts are combined from windrows the hulls of the peanuts should have reached a relatively dry state. If the peanuts are dry enough so that they rattle slightly when shaken, they can normally be harvested with relatively low damage from machine shock. If necessary, then curing can be completed by mechanical means. One word more on adjusting combines - remember that in the morning when the vines are tough the combines must be adjusted to give more picking action. As the vines dry out during the day and become more brittle, reduce this picking action to minimize mechanical injury and shelling. Do not operate the cylinder and picking units above the manufacturer's recommended speed. Reduce cylinder speed further when combining seed.

The storability of any kind of grain or oil seed depends on a combination of factors. (1) Moisture content, (2) Temperature, (3) the degree of invasion by storage fungi when the product arrives at the warehouse, and (4) the length of time the product is to be stored. The damaging invasion by storage fungi can be materially reduced if the kernel moisture is reduced to a safe level and if that moisture content is maintained at that level. For peanuts this is considered to be 8 1/2 to 9 percent. The moisture content of any portion of the product should not be allowed to rise more than 1/2 to 1 percent above the safe storage moisture level and it must not be allowed to remain there more than a few weeks at the most. The product must be kept free of insects and mites.

High moisture peanuts, either in sacks or bulk, should be dried as soon as possible to avoid mold damage and off-flavors. The rate of which peanuts are dried and their final moisture content are important considerations in the drying process. It is known that the quality of peanuts is affected the least when they are subjected to the lowest feasible curing rate. The rate used by the experienced operator with good drying equipment can materially affect the grade and, of course, each producer is concerned with grade.

Peanuts can be artificially dried with heated air at 10 to 15 degrees above the outside temperature but the heated air should not exceed 95 degrees F. in any case. The relative humidity determines when the burner should be turned off. The burner should not be operated when the relative humidity of the air stream is less than 55 percent. Since the shells dry faster than the kernels, the drying operation should be stopped when kernels reach a minimum moisture content of about 10 percent. After the moisture in the kernels and shells equalize, the kernels will be at the desired moisture content of 8 to 8 1/2 percent.

The use of higher temperatures will cause peanuts to split or loosen their skin coat and the continued use of high temperatures will affect flavor. Throughout the drying process, be sure that an accurate record of the moisture content is maintained with a reputable and accurate moisture meter.

This year, the industry is going to be concerned with the usual problems of the past concerning initial moisture, off-flavor, dirt, trash and grade. In addition, everyone from the grower to the sheller is going to be concerned with potential mold damage. A few basic recommendations will help prevent the losses that can result from one or more of these conditions. Unless adverse weather prevents, be sure that kernels are mature at the time of harvest. During the actual process of harvesting, be sure that the equipment used will dig deep enough to prevent cutting the pegs. If the peanuts are to be field dried without artificial means, then thresh at a moisture content of 15 percent or less. Where curing artificially, it is recommended they be combined with less than 20 per cent moisture.

Remember to keep a constant check so as to be sure the combines are adjusted to minimize pod and kernel damage and also to achieve the utmost in cleaning. Reduce the trash and dirt to an absolute minimum and also know what the moisture content is at all times. Those that are responsible for drying, should remember to avoid overdrying, use proper temperatures, and watch the relative humidity conditions.

We must all strive for quality, for unless quality is maintained throughout the harvest and curing process, the money spent for fertilizer, cultivation, insect control and the other costs of production can still be lost. If we are successful enough to get a quality product in the pod, let's strive to keep it in the pocket and help make Spanish peanut production profitable and competitive with other peanut producing areas.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" BY C. WILSON HARDER

Some years back the late Dale Carnegie wrote a best selling book entitled "How to Win Friends and Influence People."

But apparently now the U.S. State Department has come out with a work on "How to Create Enemies and Confuse People." At least that seems to be the gist of a recent statement by Rep. Richard Poff of Virginia.

He reported that the U.S. has signed deplomatic agreements with the communist government of Rumania to authorize the sales of American oil refineries, petrochemical plants and synthetic rubber factories to the communist nation.

The U.S. State Dept. with one of those curious twists of reasoning which can seemingly only emanate from the tortuous cerebrations of this Allee-in-Wonderland complex, hailed this move as a fine thing because Rumania has sided with Red China against Moscow.

Of course, the U.S. State Dept. recognizes Red Russia, but does not recognize Red China, and somehow it is imputed that it is far better for Rumania to be Red with China than be Red with Russia.

But if this is confusing to anyone the real confusion was yet to come, Rep. Poff reports.

It seems that a year earlier, before Red Rumania decided to be mad at Red Russia and be buddies with Red China, in order to help Red Russians avert starvation, Rumania loaned Russia 400,000 metric tons of wheat. This loan was to be repaid in 1964, but Russia wretched on making good.

So on May 22, 1964, the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture announced that a license had been granted Russia to re-export 160,000 tons of the wheat sold by the U.S. to Russia, with the costs partially subsidized by the American taxpayers, to Rumania.

Now the plot thickens. The U. S. State Dept. entered into a trade agreement with Red Rumania to help tear it away from Red Russia.

But on the other hand, the U. S. taxpayer is assessed to help Russia pay off part of her obligations to Rumania.

So now, according to Rep. Poff, everything is quite clear.

The United States has permitted Russia to use American wheat to retire its debt to Red Rumania. This, of course, helps Russia stay on a more friendly basis with Rumania, but in the meantime, the U. S. has taken steps to encourage Red Rumania to become more friendly with Red China, and bolster Red China's influence. So now through courtesy of the U.S. State Department, Red Rumania and Red China are friendly, and Red Rumania and Red Russian relations are not quite as strained. Never before have 190,000,000 people given so much to keep so many enemies reasonably friendly with each other. If this be diplomacy, how is insanity defined?

If you're already planning your Thanksgiving menu, here are several ideas that can make this year's dinner just a little different. For an attractive centerpiece that's also good to eat, use the turkey itself. In fact, use two turkeys. There's such a variety of sizes now available that you can choose a pair of birds that are just the right size for Thanksgiving dinner. Try fryer-roasters weighing from 4 to 9 pounds. There'll be more small birds available this year than last.

Two turkeys lined up on a serving tray simply garnished with carrot curls and parsley will draw comments from even younger guests. Then, given them an added surprise - a different stuffing inside each bird.

Bread stuffing is always a favorite. Or, you can start with this old reliable then let your imagination run wild - adding apples, chestnuts, giblets, oysters, sausage, even prunes. If you want to make a completely different dressing, try rice stuffing, a cranberry stuffing, or a custard filling.

To set off the fine flavor of the turkey, serve a frozen salad of cranberries and frozen orange juice. Take a 6-ounce can of frozen orange concentrate, a can of cranberry sauce, 1/2 pint heavy cream, whipped, 1/2 1.4 cup of sugar and a pinch of salt. Put them all together and freeze in paper dessert cups or a decorative mold.

For maximum food value in lettuce, look for heads with dark green leaves.

A Hymn Is Born BY CLINT BONNER

I Gave My Life For Thee
A frail young woman visits an art gallery

Nearly a hundred years ago... 1858... a frail young woman of 22 sat in an art gallery in Germany. Too delicate to attend school regularly in her native England, Frances Ridley Havergal's father had sent her to visit friends in Dusseldorf.

Exhausted from sightseeing, Miss Havergal sat, by chance, to rest in front of a painting of Christ on the cross. Over the wreath of thorns she noticed the wording: "This have I done for thee; What hast thou done for me?"

Inspired by the painting, she wrote a few lines of poetry. That night at the home of her friends she threw the scrap of paper into the fire. Then there took place one of those strange incidents that shape the destinies of men. A gust of air blew the paper out onto the hearth.

In England she showed the lines to her father, the Rev. W. H. Havergal, a hymn writer and composer in his own right. He encouraged her to add more verses. Thus began one of the most brilliant careers in the writing of Christian songs since the days of Isaac Watts.

Always frail in health, Frances Havergal died at the age of 43. When the physician told her the end was near she said, "Splendid! To be so near the gates of Heaven!"

Her hymns are still in use around the world... and foremost among them is the one that would have been destroyed in the fireplace but for a chance gust of air.

*I suffered much for thee,
More than thy tongue can tell,
Of bitterest agony,
To rescue thee from hell;
I've borne it all for thee,
What hast thou borne for Me?*

*My Father's house of light
My glory circled throne
I left, for earthly night,
For wanderings sad and lone;
I left it all for thee,
Has thou left aught for Me?*

*And I have brought to thee,
Down from My home above,
Salvation full and free,
My pardon and My love;
I bring rich gifts to thee,
What hast thou brought to Me?*

This is one of a series presenting the story of the world famous religious hymns sung by the faithful of all creeds. Clip and save these hymns. We will furnish you a folder to keep them in.

Three boys won "Panther of the Week" honors this week. David Kirk, who has been one of the most underrated Panthers all year had a real fine game against the Bangs Dragons. The other boys are Robert Reeves and Benny Mathews. Reeves has developed into a real fine defensive end and Mathews has been playing steady ball this year, but last week Coach Newby discovered that Benny had an educated toe on kick-offs and he won that job and did a very creditable job of doing that chore. David, Robert and Benny, time after time, put the plug in the jug against Bangs and we expect them to be even better as they pick up more experience, especially Reeves, who is only a sophomore.

KIRK FAMILIES HOLD REUNION HERE SATURDAY
Commander Robert Kirk of Boston, Mass., who is doing research work at Cambridge University, attended a Navy-sponsored symposium on underwater sound at the University of Texas the earlier part of last week. He was then able to come to Gorman to visit his mother, Mrs. R. L. Kirk for a few days. This called for a reunion of this family which was held on Saturday, October 31.

All the children were together for the first time in several years. Visiting, good eats and picture making made the day pass all too soon.
Those attending were Mrs. R. L. Chevrolet

"walks" right over bumps and trouble
Independent front suspension takes the "truck" out of truck ride. It smooths rough roads, protects truck, driver and cargo from excessive jolting. And on Chevrolet pickups it's a proved system with millions of miles of user experience behind it. Try it out on one of Chevrolet's great Fleetside or Stepside pickups. It's one of the big reasons that Chevrolet is first choice with pickup users from coast to coast.

Postmaster Urges Early Mailing Of Christmas Parcels

The Christmas "rush" brings a very old quote to mind: "Neither snow nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds." This was said by the Greek historian, Herodotus in the fifth century B. C., but it is still true of the postal service.

However, Postmaster Baze recently added a thought. "While it is true that bad weather doesn't stop the mails, it certainly can slow them down." He mentioned that planes can't get off the ground, switches on railroad tracks can freeze up. Trucks must move more slowly and cautiously over highways. And, in many places, mailmen might wish for the warmth of an igloo. Even the impish Mr. ZIP can't assure next-day delivery under these conditions.

"Why," you may ask, bring this up?

"Simply to let people know that there is a factor that we just can't control, the weather," Postmaster Baze said. It is important that people mailing Christmas cards and gifts make every effort to shop early and mail early to assure on-time delivery. This is especially true during the Christmas rush when an ever-increasing avalanche of mail moves through the postal system. To assure on-time delivery of your Christmas mail we suggest the following schedule:

Ordinary Christmas parcels and greetings for armed forces overseas should be mailed by November 11. Gift parcels for distant states by December 5th. Air parcels and airmail greeting cards for armed forces overseas should be mailed by Dec. 10.

Greeting cards for distant states by December 10.

Ordinary parcels and greeting cards by December 14.

Give Mr. ZIP a chance, prepare your mailing list now, use ZIP Code in your addresses and in

More Diesels in

Expanded 1965 Chevrolet Truck Line

To meet customers' needs for more specialized trucks, Chevrolet has greatly expanded its 1965 truck line to 327 models, largest number in its history. Most expansion is in the diesel field, extending down to the 1/2-ton class for the first time. New to the line are an economical in-line, 3-cylinder two-cycle diesel of 94 hp for city pickup and delivery work, and three V6 four-cycle diesels of 130, 150 and 170 hp. A 230-cu.-in. 140-hp six-cylinder engine will be optional in the Chevy-Van, replacing the smaller 120-hp six previously offered as an option.
