

HULLS

Modesty is a virtue but I wish the party who sent in the complimentary letter about Dr. Rodgers Wednesday had signed their name. So please, "A Reader", let us know who you are, as the letter will have more meaning. It is one of the nicest letters we have received.

We hope to publish these letters in our May 25th or June 3rd edition. I am certain there are others who intend to write but are just putting it off. Please do not wait until the last day.

While in Fort Worth recently, I was talking with Mrs. O. J. (Minnie) Nowlin, a former nurse at Blackwell Hospital. Mrs. Nowlin plans on being present for this gala occasion. She said, "I hope some of the other nurses who worked at Blackwell's when I did will be present."

Why not make it a homecoming "girls?"

DR. RODGERS TO BE HONORED ON SATURDAY JUNE 5 WITH AN OLD-FASHIONED GET-TOGETHER

It all started with a simple remark recently when a group of people were discussing illness in the community. The remark — "I don't know if other people feel like I do or not, and I don't mean to sound sacrilegious or anything, but I don't know what we'd do without Dr. Rodgers — I just feel like he is nearly next to God. I wish there were some way to let him know how we feel, or, at least, that's how I feel." A simple remark; indeed, a profound remark. Within the span of perhaps a minute, it was quite clear that lots of people share that thought, and, within the span of the next week, the thought had snowballed through the area. Seems like almost everybody who heard about it remembered the time when Dr. Rodgers' reassurance had eased the terrible helpless fright one can feel when a loved one suffers, or remembered his coming in the middle of the night to help a sick baby, or, perhaps, to usher a new infant into the world. Next to God? Certainly to ease pain and suffering must be the work of the Lord, and one who cares about people as Dr. Rodgers does must surely walk with God.

But what to do? How to say a big enough "thank you?" Everybody who has heard wants to help. Groups have discussed. Seems like the best way that could be worked out so that every one who wants to can come and help, is a big picnic. Everybody from everywhere is invited to come and bring a basket of food. Some of the men will set up tables, and the women will see to the ice and sugar, maybe make some tea — you better bring a jug of tea, too, though, so there will be enough.

There are still details to be worked out, but the date, Saturday, June 5, has been set. And it will be at the Gorman football stadium because it offers space and seating for a crowd. Entertainment is being planned; perhaps the Gorman Band will play, and maybe there will be some singing. But the definite plans are to bring food and spread it together for an old-fashioned "Dinner-on-the-Ground" picnic in the late evening of June 5th. There will be no charges; no tickets to buy. If you know Dr. Rodgers and have had reason to want to say "Thank You" to him sometime in the past, then plan to come join together with everyone here in this "Dr. Rodgers Appreciation Dinner."

GOOD RAINS SOAK AREA THIS WEEK

Mrs. Dona Moorman expressed her pleasure in serving as the 1964-65 president and tendered Mrs. Wyatt the gavel. Mrs. Wyatt in her acceptance speech, thanked the club for the honor and said with the club's cooperation she would serve with pride tempered with humility.

Mrs. Wyatt was in attendance at the TFWC Convention at Fort Worth May 10-12.

The group listened to records and reminisced High School days.

Farm Bureau Group Opposes Transfer of Allotments Farm Bill

The Eastland County Farm Bureau Board of Directors met in their regular monthly meeting on May 3 at the office location with 18 directors present. The Board voted against one of the major provisions in the Administration farm program introduced last month as H. R. 7097. They voted against transfer of peanut allotments, and voted to freeze peanut allotments within the county, and for the acreage not to be sold. "If this provision passed it would give the Secretary authority to permit sale, lease, or transfer of acreage allotments," said Mitchell Campbell, Policy Development Chairman.

They also voted to sponsor one Volunteer Fireman from each town in the country to the Firemen's Training School to be held the week of July 25-30 at Texas A&M. Last year the Texas Farm Bureau, in cooperation with the County Farm Bureau and the Farm Bureau Insurance Companies, sponsored 110 firemen to this school, said Jack Cozart, President of the local organization. Mr. Cozart said, "This school is considered to be one of the best schools in training firemen in all phases of their work."

Directors present at the meeting were Jack Cozart, Mitchell Campbell, W. O. Cantwell, Billy Claborn, J. C. Coats, Aubrey Easter, Henry Fry, J. D. Griffin, Jr., B. T. Graham, L. A. Harbin, Albert Hendricks, Glenn Jordan, Sam Kimmell, John Love, Ray Norris, R. L. Ricks, Herman Schaefer, Cyrus Justice, Mrs. Cyrus Justice, Secretary, and Mrs. John Love, agent. Visitors were Mrs. J. C. Coats, Mrs. Henry Fry, Mrs. W. O. Cantwell, and Mrs. B. T. Graham.

Mr. Don Rodgers entered Harris Memorial Hospital in Fort Worth Wednesday for surgery. He hopes to return home by the first of next week.

Area Businessmen Hear An Address On "Free Enterprise" May 5th

A very fine group of business and professional men, representing most all phases of business in the area, from Mineral Wells, Stephenville, Hico, Dublin, Waco, De Leon, Comanche, Gorman, Strawn, Fort Worth, Hamilton and others, gathered at the Stephenville Country Club on Wednesday, May 5th to hear an address on "Free Enterprise" by Mr. Jim West, President of the Tandy Corporation of Fort Worth.

The group started gathering around 6:30 p. m. in the Cactus Room where they got acquainted and discussed various business problems before being called to assemble for a delicious meal, compliments of the Texas Manufacturers Association.

Following the meal Mr. Jack Archer, Mayor of Stephenville, welcomed the group to Stephenville and with his humorous speaking ability had all the visitors well relaxed and in a very receptive mood for the address by Mr. West.

Dr. Vance Terrell, outstanding professional man of Stephenville, was master of ceremonies and introduced the distinguished visitors attending the meeting and then asked all those present to stand and introduce themselves individually so as to know where each was from and what business he was in. Dr. Terrell then introduced Mr. West of the Tandy Corporation who addressed the group on the subject of "Free Enterprise" and Texas Manufacturers Association's role in keeping the free enterprise system.

Mr. West stated that through TMA, business and professional men, as an organized group, assume responsibility for preserving our form of government and our economic system of free, private and competitive enterprise. They concentrate on the solution of problems - problems continually created by an organized, vocal opposition, which are beyond the range of any single business enterprise to solve - problems which affect our nation, our state, our community, our business, and our employees. The more than 4,000 executives who comprise the membership of the TMA do more than contribute their moral and financial support toward advancing the program of TMA; they also contribute time, thought, planning, energy and leadership in working to achieve the common goals of the association.

The TMA is a statewide organization of businessmen, firms, and organization. It was organized in 1922 by a group of Texas businessmen interested in an organization capable of dealing with the problems affecting business and industry - legislation, taxation, regulatory problems, employer-employee relations, and public understanding of business and industry. In 1946 TMA was re-organized to meet the needs and challenges of growing and expanding business and industry in Texas. It is dedicated to the principle of the freedom, the dignity, and the inalienable rights of the individual, as set forth in the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. The strength of the TMA is derived from the 4,000 business executives representing some 3,000 firms, corporations and individuals which comprise the membership. It is governed by a 76 man board of directors and a 21 man executive committee. Policies of the association are determined by the members of the association, meeting in annual conference, and are reviewed annually. Directors meet quarterly to deliberate on matters of policy, program, finance, and association responsibilities.

West concluded his remarks by saying, "a membership in TMA is your soundest business investment."

Bill Parr, area representative of Fort Worth, was on hand to assist in informing those present interested in a membership in TMA.

Mr. W. T. Green, President of TMA, also spoke a few words in behalf of the TMA. He stated that the association is interested in the overall benefit of everyone; business, industry and employees.

Dr. Terrell then urged those present to join together in striving to return the thoughts and actions of all back to the true and original meaning of "free enterprise", which is the only sound system for us to survive.

There was an estimated number of over 125 men in attendance.

FORT WORTH MEN ON STEPHENVILLE PANEL

STEPHAVILLE (Spl) — Three Fort Worth men were among the panelists on a forum on the free enterprise system, sponsored Tuesday night, May 4 by the Texas Manufacturers Association at Tarleton State College.

They were T. A. Willis of Texas Electric Service Co., A. E. Betzel, official of an engineering company, and C. S. Harrington, vice-president of Continental National Bank.

Dr. Vance Terrell, Stephenville physician, also was a panelist.

Betzel said automation has not put anybody out of work, but "has displaced people from one job and retrained them for another."

WASHINGTON, D. C. - SINCE WORLD WAR II there has developed in this Country a sort of hypnosis whose outside signs are easy words and comfortable slogans. There has been dangerous rationalizations in glossing over unpleasant truths.

IT SEEMS TO INDUCE IN THOSE WHO SUFFER FROM THIS fateful notion that if we pretend long enough that certain things are not so, they will somehow disappear. It is a game of pretending - the pretense of which is that everybody in this world must love us.

THEY SAY THAT BECAUSE OF OUR STRENGTH in this world, our position is secure and that we can afford to placate, turn the other cheek and take abuse from all who wish to give it.

THE TRAGIC THING ABOUT ALL THIS PERFORMANCE is not that our resolution has failed us, nor that we have given up the only sensible position, but that in the process of becoming somewhat more unsafe, we have managed to convince ourselves we are still safe. At times, both as a people and as a Government, we have managed to rationalize retreat into advance, defeat into victory.

AS DANGEROUS AS UNCLEAR WEAPONS THEMSELVES is to permit the impression that we would not use strength at our command when challenged. On the return of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain from Munich, Winston Churchill said that Britain had a choice of appeasement and dishonor which would lead to war, or to be non-appeased and courageous, which might prevent it.

WAR TODAY IS HORRIBLE BEYOND CONCEPT - at least the kind of war assumed would come in a major show-down between the free world and the slave. Of course, this is known to all, but does that make the principle of free men any less valid? If it does, then why don't we just give up right now? Why do we not just abandon the biggest pretense of all - that there is anything worthwhile in freedom, anything worth saving of this Republic which has been handed down to us to preserve and to protect? Of course, we are not going to do so. President Johnson's direction in South Viet Nam and in the Dominican Republic is proof of it. His action should dispel the doubts of other nations as to our resolve.

THE CRITICS OF THE PRESIDENT USE largely two pretensions. One is that there are no answers to the world's major problems and that, therefore, we should stop trying to find any. This argument can be used to paralyze all action and defeat all attempts at constructive thought. The other is that the risk of war is too great.

THESE TWO IDEAS ARE POWERFUL WEAPONS for those who say that no risk should be taken, those who say that there is no risk worthwhile in this contest. If this idea should permeate American thought, there may be only one permanent solution, with or without war - the elimination of the United States as a free Republic and the major Nation in world affairs.

WE MUST SEEK SOLUTIONS AS THOUGH WE REALLY mean to find them, because that is the job history has given us. It is the job of saving freedom as we have saved it before and as we are going to save it again, for the simplest and most commanding of reasons - because what is right is right. We have to defend the right and if we do not, we lose all honor, respect and decency. We also, in this happy Twentieth Century, lose our safety, our liberty, our democracy, and finally, our lives.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON SAYS WE WILL NEGOTIATE with anyone anywhere, any time, but we do not seek agreement for the sake of having an agreement. It is not the intent of the President to give the careless inch, which with our adversaries is always the irrecoverable mile.

FIRMNESS CARRIES WITH IT THE POSSIBILITY OF GREAT RISK. In these times, weakness carries with it the certainty of national suicide. Those who scheme to impose Communist domination on the world are not pretending.

IT WAS A PAINFUL DECISION FOR THE PRESIDENT to put the largest United States force in a Latin Country since Woodrow Wilson's intervention in Mexico in 1914. He is criticized by many nations, and in some quarters here at home, for his abrupt actions. Latin American Countries say the President should have consulted with them prior to sending armed forces into the Dominican Republic, but there was no time for "mananas" if the establishment of another Communist regime at our back door was to be prevented.

Hard of Hearing

LOSSES ARE DIFFERENT

Each hearing loss is different and each case must be fitted differently. In the past few years research has proven this over and over for example.

1. Some people can understand talking to one person, but in a crowd everything seems to run together.

2. Some hear men's voices but cannot understand women or children.

3. Some hear good in small rooms, but in church or group meetings they miss part or all that is said.

4. Some have head noises that stay with them day and night. We could go on and on, but its obvious from the above that it is impossible to fit the many different types of hearing loss with just a hearing aid. Neither could you take one set of glasses and fit everybody's eye loss.

To fit the hard of hearing as they should be fitted, a complete test must be run to find the type of hearing loss they suffer from. Then using the Evaluator we are able to know what to build in your Instrument to correct your hearing loss. With the Evaluator you will know exactly how you are going to hear before we send your prescription to the Lab to be built. In most cases the cost is less than you would pay for a hearing aid, so why take a chance.

If you have a hearing problem of any kind you owe it to yourself to come in for a test. (The test is free.) Remember - It's better to light a candle than to cuss the darkness.

Mr. Treadway will hold his regular Hearing Clinic at the Gorman Hotel in Gorman on Monday, May 17th from 3 PM to 5 PM.

Our Temple office is open each day to serve you, altho Mr. Treadway is there only on Thursdays and Fridays. We do repair service and have supplies for all makes of hearing aids.

Claude Fuller Reports On Washington Trip

We arrived in Washington, D. C. Monday afternoon. Tuesday morning our first visit was Farmers Union National Headquarters in Washington, D. C. We talked with President Jim Patton and his assistant, Ruben Johnson. They assured us, they would do everything possible to prevent the transfer and sale of allotments from one district to another. Ruben then went with us over to Capitol Hill and pointed out the office buildings in which we would contact Congressmen and Senators.

Our first stop was at Omar Burleson's office. He stated that he felt that the sale of allotments would cripple the economy of this area. He had discussed with Ross Wilson the Title Six Farm Bill. I feel that Omar Burleson will help us all he possibly can. Omar called Congressman Poage, who is vice-chairman of the Agriculture Committee, and he came down to Omar's office. We had a lengthy discussion with him. Congressman Poage told us the viewpoints of this bill, both for and against. He would not commit himself as how he would vote, until he had more time to weigh the fact of the matter.

We then went to the office of Congressman Jones of Missouri. He is Chairman of the Oilseeds Committee. Peanuts come under oilseeds. The Congressman was not in his office, however, we talked to his assistant. We then visited with Congressman Gathings of Arkansas, who is also a member of the Oilseeds Committee. After returning home, I received a copy of a letter Gathings wrote Burleson in which he stated to Burleson he would bear carefully in mind the objections of his constituents, to Section VI of H. R. 7097, and was happy to have talked with us.

Our next stop was at Senator Yarborough's office. We just spoke to the Senator as he was on his way to a Committee meeting. We did talk with his assistant, Alex Dickey. Mr. Dickey gave us some encouragement. We left the Senator's office and headed back to our hotel at 5:30 p. m. It seemed we had walked 20 miles that day.

Wednesday we stopped by the office of Carl Albert of Oklahoma. He was in a committee meeting. We talked with his secretary. Next we saw Senator Tower of Texas. We talked to his assistant. I have received a letter from Tower since I have returned home. Congressman Mahon of Texas was out of his office, but we did talk to his secretary. We were lucky to get to talk with Harold D. Coolley of North Carolina. He is the Chairman of the Agriculture Committee. We called on others, but they were in meetings.

Mailbox Improvement Week Set May 17-22

Each spring the Post Office Department designates a week during which patrons on rural routes are encouraged to examine and improve, where necessary, the appearance of their mailboxes. This year the week of May 17-22 has been selected.

The purpose of Mailbox Improvement Week is to call attention to the need for providing mail receptacles which are conveniently located, neat in appearance, safe to use, and which protect the mail from the weather. Mailboxes that meet these requirements contribute to a more efficient delivery operation and, therefore, result in improved service to the entire route.

Mailboxes of the approved traditional or contemporary design are required. Patrons still using obsolete, top-opening boxes may continue to use them at that location, provided they are kept in serviceable condition and otherwise meet the requirements.

Boxes and supports should be kept painted and free from rust. The name of the owner should be shown on the side of the box visible to the carrier as he approaches, or on the door where boxes are grouped. Mailboxes on both rural and star routes must be located on the righthand side of the road in the direction of travel of the carrier wherever it would be dangerous to serve the boxes on the left, or where this would be a violation of State or local traffic laws or regulations.

m. Wednesday very tired indeed. I hope we have been of service to Eastland and Comanche counties. It will probably be about thirty days before hearings will be held on Section VI of H. R. 7097, and sometime later we will know the results.

Making the trip were Oral Davis, a farmer of Rising Star; Lyndell Coan, farmer of De Leon; E. O. Kiser, businessman of Rising Star; and myself.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank the people who contributed to the Washington Flyer fund. This made the trip possible. E. O. Kiser of Rising Star, financed his trip himself.

President of Eastland

HOSPITALS AND YOU

by Gerald Geyer, Member, Council on Public Education Texas Hospital Association and Administrator, Memorial Hospital, Seminole

Much has been written in recent years about the financial plight of the nation's hospitals and the constantly increasing costs of hospital care. Some of you may remember reading a recently published report of a large metropolitan hospital which closed its fiscal year with over a million dollar loss! Some of you may also be aware that one out of four hospitals over the nation has a deficit in income in relation to expenses.

Community hospitals are an organized health team made up of doctors, nurses, technicians, social workers, secretaries, bookkeepers, accountants, telephone operators, clerks, engineers, dietitians, cooks, dish washers, carpenters, electricians, housekeepers, janitors, and many other "behind the scene" employees — including volunteers. Your hospital is an immaculate, superbly equipped workshop for physicians. It is a center for community health. It is an institution designed, equipped and staffed to provide hospitalization care and service 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, to the community in accordance with accepted medical

Mrs. Joe Ormsby and Mrs. Thurman Jay were hostesses for an ice cream supper Thursday night, May 6 in the home of Mrs. Jay, honoring their sons, William Jay and Jerry Ormsby, Gorman High School Seniors.

The party was planned for a practice. You are urged to visit your local hospitals the week of May 9-15 during National Hospital Week. The theme for the week-long observance is "People - Heart of the Hospital."

The provisions of such service in the long run must be balanced by income. Faced with limited income, your hospital has three alternatives: either to restrict its program of medical care and hospitalization, or to operate at a deficit, or to close its doors.

Hospital costs can be reduced only if the quality and quantity of service is lowered. All hospitals have to do to make ends meet is cut down on the services which save lives and restore health. If necessary, hospitals could revert to the turn of the century and provide (such as it was) room, board, and routine nursing care.

Hospitals can halt the rising costs if they turn a deaf ear to the tremendous technological and scientific advances that have been made and will continue to be made in medicine.

But hold on a minute — Can hospitals do this? Hospitals deal not in apples, oil, cotton, and staples; hospitals have but one product to sell — service to suffering humanity.

Admitted, hospital business is "big business," reported recently as the 5th largest business in the nation. It is big business "plus" and this "plus" is what distinguishes it from commerce. Here are just a few of those "pluses."

With few exceptions, hospitals are nonprofit organizations. Its "product" is human life. Its principals are professional people. Its services are not infrequently rendered at a fee below the actual costs of such services.

The end product — community health — not financial profit.

back yard event but due to the high wind they had to move inside.

Guests were members of the senior and junior classes.

Refreshments of dips, chips, drinks, ice cream and cake were served.

A juke box furnished music for dancing.

Jerry plans to enter Texas Tech in the fall and William Lee plans to attend college but has not chosen one at this time.

The strength of faith—a parental bequest no money

Something so priceless you give it away

Art Linkletter, famous TV personality, tells this story about faith. A little boy, busy with crayon and sketchbook, was asked what he was drawing.

"Just a picture of God," said the boy casually.

"Nobody knows how He looks," said Linkletter.

"They will," replied the boy, "when I get through."

What he lacked in ability, that boy made up in faith. The faith of children, once firmly founded, is a lasting faith. This is why it's vitally important that parents start early to give their children a faith to live by.

Only you can do this job as well as it must be done. No other provision you make for your family will ever take its place.

Otwell furnished a tent from Nabors Funeral Home along with a tub full of iced drinks.

People attended from Abilene, Dallas, Weatherford, Cisco, Iraan, De Leon, Comanche and Gorman.

After lunch came a real old-fashioned get-together. The highlight of this was a reproduced photograph of Uncle Bob Roscoe and his wife.

How well I remember Uncle Bob and his long, long red beard, plaited and tucked inside his shirt. Incidentally, his granddaughter, Mrs. McGurie, brought the photo.

This picture turned my mind down memory lane of people of long ago who are resting here. In the fall of 1890 my grandmother suffered a fatal stroke. A good neighbor, Bob Grizzle came across the field with seamless meal sack of fine beef. Strange the things that stick in the mind of a little girl, not quite six. I remember how those red and blue stripes on that sack looked.

Mr. Grizzle's daughter, Lily, sweet as the flower for which she is named, is resting here.

And the Foote family. Somehow a special bond between us. The same slow fever that claimed Mrs. Foote's lovely Christina, little Willie and Joe, left my mother an invalid for life. What a wonderful job "Pappy" Foote did in raising his motherless children.

How well I remember the pleasant Sunday afternoon Uncle Tom and Aunt Mandy Haile spent at our house. How on Sunday a woganload of us young folks were caught in a sudden downpour on our way to a singing convention, right in front of Uncle Harry Hamlin's. They invited us in. One of our group was a song leader, another an organist. We sang till the sun came shining through. Pleasant memories about Mr. Little and his wife. No one could sing bass on "Life's Evening Sun Is Bending Low," like Mr. Little when Fosse Smith lead it. TB claimed Fosse while he was young. He left two little boys and I wonder if they know their father is resting at beautiful Oakland Cemetery.

No homecoming and memorial day service would be complete without some member of the H. S. Anglin family present. Especially Lee and his sweet wife.

This is a time for greeting old friends and meeting new ones. Why don't you come next time?

New Insecticide To Be On Agenda At Annual County Pecan Meeting

The new systemic insecticide - Di Syston - for the prevention of aphids and honey dew on trees is on the program agenda for the annual meeting of the Eastland County Pecan Growers Association at Cisco on May 17, according to those in charge.

It was pointed out that demonstrations on trees in two widely separated pecan orchards in the county last year proved that the material was very effective. It was also explained that although the material has been approved for use in New Mexico it has yet to be approved in this state.

The morning session to be held in the conference room of the First National Bank in Cisco will get underway at 10:00 o'clock. Oscar Schaefer, Cook, President of the organization, has announced.

Other items on the morning program include fertilizer, shuck-worm, and pecan weevil research results and other topics. After a Dutch Treat lunch at noon the afternoon part of the program will be spent at the Jim Jennings Orchard, a mile east of Scranton. Here the group will check the stage in the life cycle of the pecan nut case bearer, most destructive of small pecans of all bugs, to determine time to spray.

Tom Denman, Stephenville Agricultural Experiment Station, and B. G. Hancock, Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M, two of the top horticulturists of the state, will appear on the program, it was explained.

Out of the county pecan growers are also cordially invited to attend according to Schaefer, who said that women would be as welcome as men at the annual affair.

identified as they have a lining permanently fused to the outer fabric.

Laminates are lined with a foam backing. They are very light in weight, but yet very warm.

Bonded fabrics are lined, usually with a knitted backing. Sometimes taffeta is used as the backing fabric. This lining is used on wools, mohair fabrics and laces, just to name a few. This bonded backing actually "self-lines" the fabrics - but, do not let this "self-lined" confuse you - this is added primarily to give stability and body to the fabric, and usually the bonded fabrics still require a lining. The bonded backing will not serve the same purpose as lining a garment.

When buying Laminated or Bonded fabrics or garments, check the grain line of the outer fabric to make for sure it is straight. The bonded fabrics can be straightened a little, however, the laminated fabrics cannot be straightened at all.

When selecting a pattern, select one with as few seams as possible and avoid a detailed pattern. The laminated fabrics will not ease, so avoid set-insleeves, or any other construction detail that would require easing.

When cutting these fabrics, lay the pattern on the right side of the material and place the pattern pieces on the straight grain of the right side.

Set your sewing machine stitch for a medium to long stitch, use a medium to light tension and pressure and a fine to medium needle. Any thread which is suitable for the outer fabric may be used.

The laminated fabrics must be lined (lining sewn separately from the garment) or underlined (lining sewn in all seams and treated as though it were part of the outer fabric.) The lining will permit a smooth fit and also prevent the foam backing from tearing.

When sewing the laminated fabrics with the foam side out, use newspaper or tissue paper on the bottom and top of seam, to allow the fabric to feed through easily. Tear the paper away after the stitching is finished.

The seams in laminated fabrics will not stay pressed open, so stitch along both sides of your seam line to "press" the seam open, or use a flat fell seam. You may want to "peel" the foam backing off the seam allowance (after you stitch the seam) to avoid extra bulk in the seams.

Where a facing or pocket is used, use the lining fabric or other fabric that matches, for these, or peel foam backing off fabric, to prevent extra bulk.

In hemming laminated fabrics, make for sure your stitches come through to the outer fabric (as the stitches will not hold if caught only in the foam.)

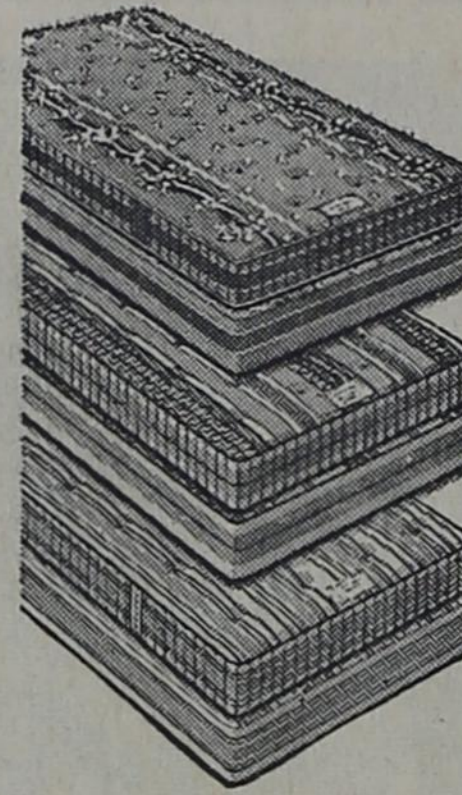

In hemming the bonded fabrics, the stitches can be caught in the self-lining as they will hold, and need not be caught to the outer fabric, as well.

Next week we will study the selection, sewing and care of knit fabrics and garments.
