Athletes and Students Feted at Banquet May 17

Approximately 175 attended the All Sports and Awards Banquet Saturday evening, May 17 in the school gym to pay tribute to members of the 1974-75 athletic teams, both boys and girls, band members and UIL participants of Gorman High School.

The annual banquet is sponsored by the Gorman Lions Club.

Gene Foster, Lions Club president, served as master of ceremonies. Invocation was given by Bill Wilson, Church of Christ minister.

Ron Butler, basketball coach and athletic director at Ranger Junior College, was guest speaker for the evening. He was introduced by G. W. Maxfield, school superintendent.

Mr. Butler captivated his audience with several humorous stories before the serious message of expressing his ideas of the human needs of identity of one's self. In his experience in teaching and coaching—he stated that participation in sports gives students identity and one does not have to be an outstanding athlete to be identified. Participation in some kind of sport or school activity with adult guidance is the best way to teach guidelines one must follow when he gets out in life on his own. He stated that "students from small schools are fortunate in the fact that they have a better opportunity to participate in sports and a great opportunity to be identified with something."

He urged students to do their very best in whatever they do and also urged parents to permit their children to participate in the sports or activity of their choice. "In our rapid changing society it is becoming harder to be identified as an individual," he said.

Athletic awards were presented by Mr. Allen Gibbs, Mr. Maxfield and Mr. Dail Ables.

In boys basketball David Eaves received the Sportsmanship Award; Kris Brown, Outstanding Player.

In football, Mr. Gibbs presented awards of Best Linebacker to Rodney Warren; Best Back to Kris Brown; Best All-Around Player to Larry Thompson; Bill Clark Fighting Panther Award to Ricky Fuller; Sportsmanship to Mike Carr; and Outstanding Athlete to Kris Brown. Kris Brown also received the Outstanding Track and Field Award. Mike Shipman was recognized for his efforts in football after being injured three times in the early part of the football season.

Mr. Maxfield presented the Lions Club Awards to the girls basketball team. Joetta Bennett received the Sportsmanship Award; Kerrie Jolley, Fighting Heart Award; Phyllis Guthery, Outstanding Guard Award; Outstanding Forward was Charlene Self; and Most Valuable Player was Krista Henderson.

Mrs. Linda Glover presented UIL participants awards and winners.

Those receiving awards in this area were: George Broom Regional prose reading and District feature writing; David Eaves, Regional spelling and District science; Kerrie Jolley, District ready writing; Kathy Ripley, 5th in Regional shorthand; Kirk Arnold, Regional typing; Carl Burleson, publication of poem; Benny Butler, Regional number sense, science, slide rule, Area one act play, District All-Star Cast; Alecia Cornwell, Regional shorthand and District feature writing; Norma Dennis, 6th in State editorial writing, 8th State headline writing, and District ready writing; Bruce Gibbs, Area one act play, Zone and District All Star Cast, and Special awards were presented to Mrs. George Warren and Mrs. Ted Underwood for their outstanding work in managing the concession food booth for the basketball and volleyball games Mrs. Graydon Baze received a belated plaque for her management of the food booth last year.

Gene Foster paid tribute to Jack Harrison in behalf of the some 24 graduating students in expressing appreciation for his help and personal guidance in the many school activities he has helped with during their years in Gorman Schools. Gene stated "without his ideas leadership and devotion to the duties of his job, the school could not operate without him."

After lying around Texas for 55 million years this lump of coal has finally gone to work.

This is a piece of lignite, a form of soft coal. Even though it's 55 million years old, it's relatively young compared to 300-million-year-old hard coal.

Texas is fortunate to have fairly large deposits of lignite; it's generally low in sulfur content, so pollution problems are minimized. We're turning to lignite to fuel new electric generating plants, because natural gas and oil, the fuels we've traditionally used, are harder to get and more costly.

Lignite plants cost more to build, which, along with inflation, means electricity will have to cost you more. But the increase won't be as much, because lignite fuel is available and more economical than new supplies of natural gas and oil.

Electricity today is still a good value. Especially when you consider that during the past ten years the cost of living has gone up more than three times as much as the price of electricity.

We're continuing the orderly development of our power system so that you'll continue having the electricity you need.

This year over 20% of your electricity will be produced using this 55-million-year-old fuel.

Oil Price Controls

WASHINGTON—If a hostile foreign power wished to cripple our efforts to attain energy independence, it would be hard pressed to do more damage than the liberal majority in Congress already is doing.

America has become dangerously dependent on foreign sources of oil. We have to import about 40 per cent of the crude oil we use, and the $25 billion we have to pay OPEC to get it is depressing our economy, worsening inflation and wreaking havoc with our balance of payments.

What Congress should be doing to keep this bad situation from getting worse is to provide incentives to increase domestic production of energy, and to take measures to curb energy use.

But Congress instead has mounted an assault on common sense and elementary economics that began in March with the virtual repeal of the oil depletion allowance.

The result of THAT folly already is clear. Drilling activity in Texas and other oil producing states has dropped off sharply. Oil rigs which at this time last year were probing the earth for new sources of oil are standing idle. The major oil companies have announced sharp cutbacks in domestic exploration. The high risk capital needed to finance "wildcat" expeditions is drying up.

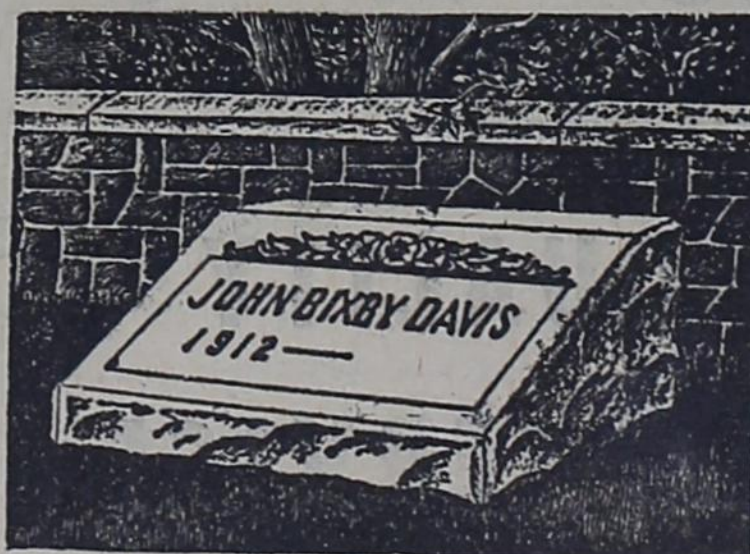

It is hard to imagine a blow more damaging to domestic oil production than the repeal of the depletion allowance, but Congress has come up with one: the Petroleum Price Increase Limitation Act of 1975.

Up until now, we have had a two-tier pricing system for domestic petroleum. While the price of "old" oil has been held artificially low, the price of "new" oil has been allowed to rise to freemarket levels. This two-tier system has introduced distortions into the oil market and has hampered development of energy resources.

In order to spur domestic production, President Ford plans a step-by-step reduction of controls on "old" oil. A recent federal study indicated that decontrol would increase our domestic oil recovery by 10 billion barrels per year, which would reduce the amount we would have to pay to OPEC by $8.5 billion per year.

But Congress seems determined to see that OPEC will get not only that $8.5 billion, but a lot more as well. The Petroleum Price Increase Limitation Act not only would bar the lifting of price controls from "old" oil, it would slap controls on "new" oil as well.

It follows logically that if controls on old oil limit production, controls on new oil will limit it further. It requires no great expertise in economics to see the relationship. But Congress, alas, has no great expertise in economics.

The Gorman Progress

Senior Citizens

We played 84 one night and 42 one night. Mama played on night. Though she is baby sitting with Big Foot. We borrowed Murel from Fats one night. Though she was so nervous worrying about Fats. She was afraid he would not check on her mother cat, Cindy. You see, she is expecting any minute. (I mean the cat). We made up a pot and sent Mae on a months vacation. So Kent is already getting nervous. She doubles her coffee intake now. My Boss keeps me busy on housework and gardening. Though Tester and Double Six are the garden champions. They just have three so far. They have been running a "boarding house" all of May so far. Easters are in the garage business and chasing around.

Our office is still fairly quiet. The fishing fever, or I should say fish feeding, has caused Doc to quit his practice almost. Though he goes out with Ham Hock and the Fisherman. Trailer Clyde has been with us some lately, as has Rabbit Clyde. He is busy gardening some.

Uncle Sam and Floyd are here at times. Their arguments are so interesting. Speck has been with us some lately. Though the Rambling Rose still keeps him tangled up a lot. Marcy plays some. Though nearly every time I go to the "Rest House" he is there beside his wife, helping her any way he can. That is one good plus for him. Luke is still out a lot. His mother is a patient in the hospital. We visited her and Mrs. Haynes Sunday morning. Hurry back Digger. We miss your deep belly laughs. Tater is all aglow as he got a part of some tax rebate. The Air Man stopped farming for a few games. Taller was there for a few settings.

Have you noticed how much brighter everything is since the president gave an ultimatum to Cambodia to free the crew and men of an American ship. They refused and the order was given to rescue the men and ship. After the bombing and a fight, all were rescued.

I thank God that we did not have some of those Communist Democrats in the president's chair. Such as Hog Jowl Humphrey, Mansfield, Jackson, McGovern, Ted Kennedy (the man that drowned his mistress, that showed his true color, a woman killer), and even Texas' own Lloyd Bentsen. All of these Senators said let's talk this out. The only way the Communist understand is for America to beat them to the draw.

I almost forgot to mention Windy Burleson. When we play at the hotel, he must think he is a head shrinker, as he feels my head and admires my curly hair. I believe that he is jealous.

My wife and I attended a World War I meeting and luncheon in Ranger Saturday and so many from the Ranger Post have answered the "Final Roll Call."

The ones that are left are not as spry as they were some 58 years ago. How times have changed since I came home on May 22, 1919. That was at the height of the oil boom. After I paid my insurance, allotment and laundry I had the large sum of $9 per month. All clear profit. I started to work at $5 per day seven days a week. I really thought that I was getting rich. In three months I was making $300 per month, about 35 times my Army pay.

The 30's were the killer years. You worked for free then. I remember selling a bale of cotton at Carbon. I kept the seed. I hired it picked. After paying for picking and ginning, I had $1.31. Walter Gilbert (Floyd's Dad) said for my boys and I to go to the cafe and get free chili. I bought an Ingersol Watch for $1.25. Gave Elbert and Vernon the money to buy candy. Good times now.

Good Luck Grads of '75

THE DAY OF BEGINNING...

Graduation is one of the most important milestones along the highway of life. It is a significant accomplishment. Yet, while it marks the achievement of a successful program of training and education, it is not an ending, but in a real sense it is a beginning.

The future belongs rightfully to those who have prepared for it, who will now move upward, striding confidently toward a new plateau-- to higher education, and along the routes designated commerce, industry, public service, and medicine, to name but a few.

Graduation has opened the book of life to a fresh new page, to the beginning of a new chapter; and each member of the Class of 1975 through individual effort shall determine what will be recorded thereon.

Salutations and best wishes on this momentous occasion!
