PRESS POINTS

JOE BENNETT, Publisher

The crops around here are looking a lot better since the recent rain. Some are burning a little, especially in the sandy soil, but on the whole the crop seems to be coming along real fine. If we can just get some more rain in July and August, then the crop should be real good this year.

The baseball season is moving right along at Gorman's Peanut Park. Most every night there are baseball games of some sort going on. This is a real fine program for the folks of our community and area. There will be a baseball tournament at the Peanut Park this weekend. There will be several teams entered with plenty of top-notch action in each game. Go out and back your favorite team and support the baseball program. The baseball organization has done a great job for the youth of our community. Next time you see one of them, give them a pat on the back and thank them for the fine job they have done.

The Junior Rodeo was enjoyed by an overflow crowd last weekend. There were a record number of entries and the crowds attending saw some of the best rodeo action they have ever seen. It was great to see the large crowds in Gorman for the rodeo each evening and for the Parade on Saturday afternoon. Everyone also enjoyed the dance on Friday and Saturday nights. The riding club is doing a marvelous job and should be commended.

Well, Estelle has taken off on us for a couple of weeks. So, as you would expect, this place is falling apart. We may be a little late this week. However, Joetta, Lonnie and Kernel Gene are all pitching in to help take up the slack. But we will sure be happy to see her return. Anyway, if things are not like they should be this week, well just blame Estelle for leaving us all alone with all this work. We hope that she and Kay Ann are having a marvelous time in Washington D. C. and other points of interest.

And remember to smile - because God Loves You!!!

Mr. and Mrs. John Gilbert of Wichita Falls visited from Monday to Wednesday of last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gilbert.

REVISE LAMINACK
Revise Laminack, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Don Laminack.

RICKY FULLER
Ricky Fuller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Fuller will receive the Star American Farmer degree for Area IV which consists of sixty-three schools.

CARD OF THANKS

For your prayers, your presence, your kind deeds, your loving concern, for everything. We thank you. We cannot begin to enumerate all the persons and groups who ministered to our loved one and to us, for your tremendous response makes us feel that surely everyone in the community must have loved Dona Moorman. Remember us in your prayers as we face the difficult days that lie ahead for us.

Don Moorman
O. D. Moorman and family

ASK
Dear Mr. Bullock:
I read somewhere that the Texas Legislature passed a law exempting from the sales tax goods sold at fund-raising events sponsored by churches and other non-profit organizations. Would you please explain the new law?
You are referring to Senate Bill 382 sponsored by my friend Sen. Max Sherman of Amarillo. That bill, by the way, already has been signed into law and is now in effect.
It allows religious, educational, charitable and other non-profit, tax-exempt organizations to hold one tax-free sale or auction each calendar year.
Please note that such groups are allowed only one tax-free sale a year. If they hold more, they must collect the sales tax. The one tax-free sale may not exceed 24 hours.
I know that a lot of churches and charitable organizations depend heavily on sales to raise money and, hopefully, this law will make it easier on them by cutting through some of the red tape.
Dear Sir:
Your office recently filed a lien against me for failure to pay my franchise tax on time. I've paid the tax, and want to get the lien released. How do I go about it?
A lien release will be mailed to you when we receive your franchise tax payment. To have the lien considered a sale of tangible personal property rather than a service and, therefore, is subject to the sales and use tax.

Family Care for the Elderly

Many bewildered senior citizens have written to the National Suggestion Box for help. The government offers to take care of them if they will move into a nursing home. But many would prefer to live at home with their families who want to care for them.

Ms. Roma Lowe of Nyack,

New York suggests that "the government subsidize families for taking care of their elderly members in preference to placing them in nursing homes."

The government prohibits family members from receiving federal funds to care for their elderly. Uncle Sam is afraid that families will keep the money for themselves rather than spend it on the elderly family member.

This federal policy, formulated in 1935, has facilitated the growth of today's nursing home industry. Five-billion dollars of federal funds were funneled into nursing homes last year alone. Nursing home abuses of federal funds are legendary. Meanwhile, many elderly citizens are forced to live apart from those they love.

Several citizens have advised us of small programs within their states which help family members care for their elderly. Texas has a program which actively seeks caretakers from within the older's family. In addition to keeping the family together, the program has reduced the number of elderly citizens institutionalized and saved the state taxpayers money.

However, because of the federal prohibition, states must rely on their own revenue to support such innovative elderly care programs.

If federal policy was changed to allow family care, results could translate into

Some people believe that if the first robin you see in the spring flies up, you will have good luck for the rest of the year. But if it flies down, you won't!

dollar savings for American taxpayers and end much unnecessary misery for our senior citizens.

If you have a suggestion for the solution of national problems, write to the National Suggestion Box, address shown above.

What do you do in home on wheels? — fun ideas for vacationing kids

"Remember the summer I caught six fish from that tiny lake in Idaho, and we ate all of them for dinner?"

"Remember that mountain in Colorado? We were so tired we could hardly climb back down."

"Remember the lumberjack in Washington last summer who told us all about evergreen trees?"

Memories — undoubtedly, one of the sweetest results of a family vacation. For children, a carefree family vacation can supply a school year's worth of stories and show-and-tell sessions.

Hit the road

"Tens of thousands of those carefree vacations now involve the use of recreational vehicles, and increasing numbers of Americans are learning that each year," says George Bemis, advertising director for Jayco, Inc., recreational vehicle manufacturers based in Middlebury, Ind.

The advantages of such a vacation are legion, Bemis says. "RVs permit great flexibility and freedom from train, bus or plane schedules; you can get off the 'beaten track' — and stay for a day, a week or however long you like; you don't have to worry about keeping luggage to a minimum, which can be a special boon when traveling with an infant; and, of course, RV traveling is far less expensive than staying in motels and eating in restaurants."

A few tips

To get the most out of your vacation, both for yourselves and the children, the Jayco executive gives a few tips to smooth the way:

"Give each child his own duffel bag to pack. Limit the contents to T-shirts, jeans, socks and underwear for five days, sweat shirt, tennis shoes, pajamas and two swimsuits. The packed duffel bags can double as backrests or pillows. In your RV closet, hang one good outfit for each family member in case you decide to have dinner some evening in a 'dress-up' restaurant.

Playing by ear

"In planning your travel route, decide in advance only on your destination or turn-around point. Because you're traveling in your own hotel you have the freedom to 'play it by ear' en route to your destination and back.

"Pack the supplies needed for each child to indulge his favorite hobby. For the family bookworm, three or four inexpensive books are in order. You might include a new notebook and a supply of sharpened pencils or ball point pens so he can keep a diary of the trip," Bemis adds.

A child who likes to paint might enjoy a new set of washable paints, brushes, and drawing paper. Besides painting pictures of the sights he has seen, he could paint smooth stones for paper-weights.

ily regularly requires prescription drugs, be sure to pack enough for the length of the vacation, and lock all drugs in a metal box. Those who have extra eyeglasses should pack them; otherwise, ask your optometrist for a copy of the prescription in case the glasses are broken.

Relax

"At the campsite, take a half an hour or so to stretch and look around before setting up. Everyone should help, whether that involves lifting the top of your camping trailer or just raising the shades and opening the windows of your travel trailer or fifth-wheel coach," Bemis suggests.

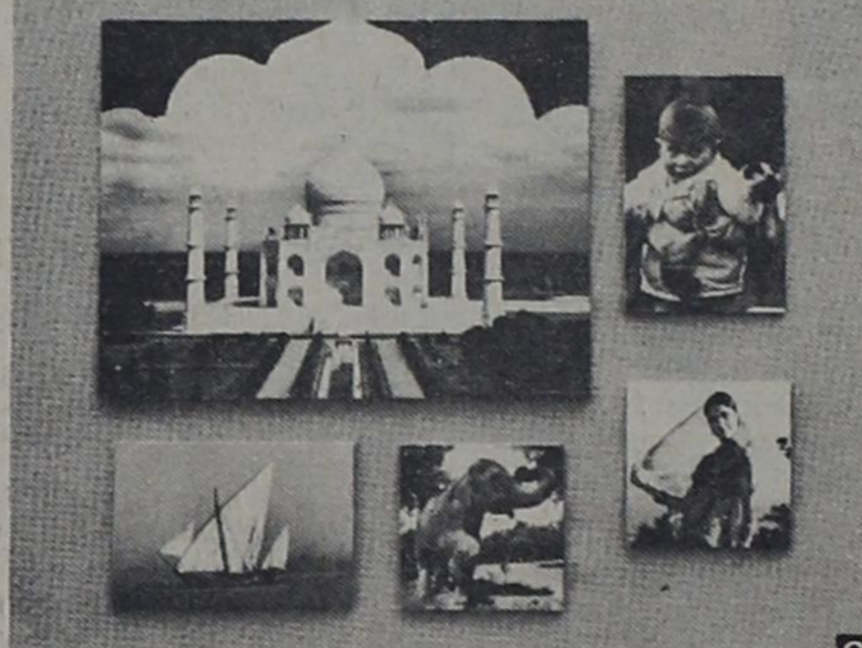

"Introduce yourselves to nearby campers. You'll meet some fascinating people who share your interests, and campgrounds generally abound with new friends for your children.

Free-wheeling

"A firm but easy-going attitude and an openness to new experiences will make your family vacation in a recreational vehicle a delight — and your memories of it will be as special as your children's," the Jayco official concludes.

FOCUS on FUN

WHAT SHALL I DO WITH MY TRAVEL PRINTS?

You're home from vacation with memories of shushing down slopes or relaxing on a Mediterranean cruise. As time goes on those memories will fade unless you keep them vivid with your travel photos.

Kodak photo experts recommend handling your developed prints and negatives with care. Pictures snapped with the easy-to-operate Kodak Trimlite Instamatic cameras are returned with numbered negatives in strips of four. Keep the negatives uncut in their original strip form to order additional prints or enlargements. Label their container or envelope with the date and a brief description of the subject matter and store in a cool, dry location.

ALBUMS: Arrange your family's travelog sequentially. Captions telling the names, dates and location pictured will help you recall the memories. Use white glue — to attach the prints to the album page. Photos glued to the page adhere longer than those inserted in photo corners.

FRAMES: Simple frames enhance rather than detract from photographs. Glass over the picture protects the print, but be sure the picture and the glass are slightly separated, perhaps with a mat or wedge between the borders of the print and the glass.

MOBILES AND SWINGING PICTURES: Mobiles of different shapes can brighten a room. Trim the pictures to various sizes, mount them back to back on light cardboard and darken the edges with a black felt marking pen. Three pieces of wire coat hanger can support the mobile, suspended from the ceiling on clear fishing line.

Take pictures!

Consider safety and strength when choosing a family recreational vehicle

To the uninitiated, buying a recreational vehicle can be a confusing process. The first step toward satisfaction with an RV should be taken at home. A family conference should be called to determine what style of unit — pickup camper, camping trailer, travel trailer or fifth-wheel coach — will best meet your needs.

Your needs will be partially determined by your vehicle. Car manufacturers provide literature describing the various power-owning specifications for their own models.

This pre-selection should also include these factors: the size of your family and children's ages; the style of travel you prefer or how much "roughing it" is right for you; and the climate of the area in which you plan to travel.

Studying up

The next step in buying your trailer involves visiting several RV dealers. Look at (and inside) all the models available, and talk briefly to the salesmen. Take brochures on those units that hold the most appeal. After carefully reading the brochures and studying floor plans, return to the dealer.

By this time, you'll have definite ideas and specific questions to discuss with the salesman; you won't find yourself bogged by an excess of details, which is what will happen if you try to look, question and select in one trip.

And remember, selection of a dealer can be nearly as important as choosing an RV. Your primary consideration in selecting a dealer is his service facility — there should be one. A warranty is of little value if your dealer can't honor it. Some RV manufacturers, such as Jayco, Inc., based in Middlebury, Ind., sell units only to dealers who have on-site service facilities with factory-trained mechanics. And, each Jayco dealer honors your warranty whether or not he sold you the unit, if problems arise on the road.

Your power steering
Your air conditioning compressor
Your smog pump

The experts at Dayco recommend belt replacement at 20,000 mile intervals to avoid expensive and frustrating roadside breakdowns. Look for these signs of replacement: separation, worn covers, glassed inner cord failure and cracking. Auto hoses keep the car earlier if...

- The hose looks and feels soft and spongy
- The skin of the hose is ruptured
- You can see a wire perforation on the outer tube.

Knowing the signs of wear on belts and hoses — and knowing how to replace them yourself — can save you not only annoyance but hard cash. For a free simple guide on changing automotive belts and hose, you can write to: Dayco Corporation, Dept. PR, 333 West First Street, Dayton, Ohio 45402.

Hurrah For A New Combination: Pasta-Filled Vegetables

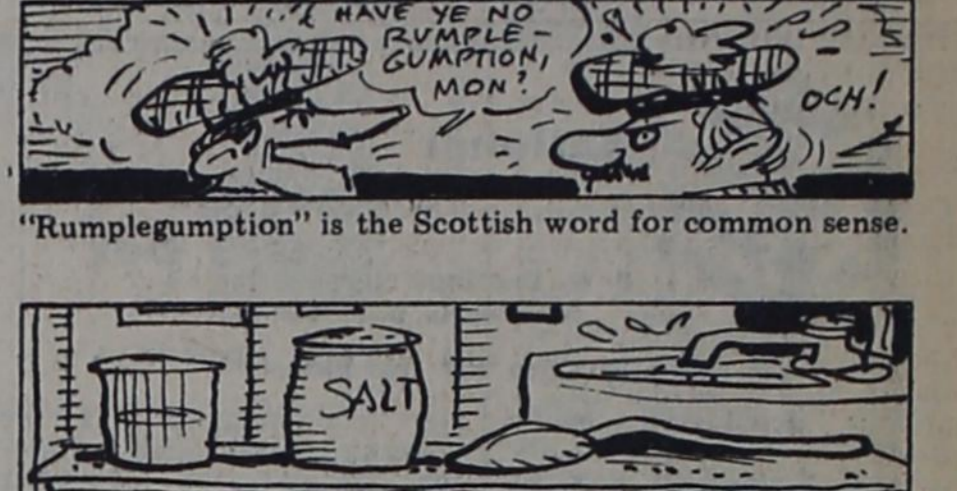

Italians like the vegetable and pasta combinations, and so do we. We've developed an entire main course by filling vegetables with canned pastas. Zucchini are tasty, stuffed with a special new canned macaroni product which has its own meatballs. Onions are cooked with spaghetti and meatballs in them. For the salad, scoop out tomatoes and fill with crisp cabbage and carrot cole slaw. If you're fortunate to still have these in your own garden, wonderful! If not, they're still plentiful and a really good buy at this time of the year.

Pet care topics 'Flea collar on house' helps control insects

By Dr. Bruce S. Ott, Director of Research and Development, Lambert Kay

For hundreds of thousands of American households, flea prevention this summer is going to require far more than a conventional flea collar. Fleas are difficult to control because they don't stay on a pet very long, dropping off after getting a meal. They then lay eggs and breed a new crop of pests.

Fleas and ticks flourish during the summer months, feasting on dogs, cats, and people. Wherever there's a dog or cat, there's a good possibility that flea eggs and larvae are also present, especially in animal bedding, crevices, carpeting, and similar warm, dark places.

Each household should devise a flea and tick control system according to its particular needs.

A "FLEA COLLAR" FOR THE HOME: An effective flea and tick control system must protect the home as well as the pet. Products such as the Lambert Kay Indoor Fogger, Lawn and Kennel Dust and Kennel Insecticide Spray can make this summer as flea-free as possible for pet and owner alike. Such products help keep fleas and ticks from breeding in the home and reinfesting the pet later.

Pet care topics Protect suburban pets from fleas and ticks

By Dr. Bruce S. Ott, Director of Research and Development, Lambert Kay

Summertime is prime time for fleas and ticks. Warm weather and increased humidity make breeding conditions ideal for these troublesome parasites.

Pet owners in suburban areas should take every possible precaution to see that their dogs and cats don't have to suffer the itching, self-mutilation, skin lesions and moist eczema or "summer hot spots" the bites of these pests can bring on.

Suburban pets generally spend a good deal of time both indoors and out, and there's always the danger that fleas and ticks picked up outdoors will be brought back in.

Once inside the house, fleas will drop off their hosts and breed in carpets, cracks, crevices, animal bedding, and other warm, moist places. A good flea collar, such as Lambert Kay's "Victory 120" collar, is essential as the hub of an ongoing protection program for the pet.

Before putting the collar on, however, check the pet to see if fleas and ticks are present already. A severe infestation should be treated with Lambert Kay's flea and tick dip to gain immediate control of the pests. The flea collar can be put on a few hours later.

To reduce the chances of the pickup of fleas or ticks in its immediate environment, periodically sprinkle lawn and kennel dust for continuing protection.

For more information on flea and tick control, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to "Flea Freedom," Lambert Kay, P.O. Box 418, Cranbury, N.J. 08512.

THE LIVIN' IS EASY FOR FLEAS AND TICKS TOO: Suburban pet owners are advised to take steps this summer to control fleas and ticks in their pet's immediate environment. CJC NOW ACCEPTING APPLICANTS FOR BEAUTY SCHOOL

The Cisco Junior College School is now accepting applications for places in cosmetology classes which will begin in August and September. Instructor Alta Dixon has announced.

The July classes will begin early in the month and August and September classes will begin on the first Monday of the month.

Ms. Dixon pointed out that learning to be a licensed beautician is an excellent road to a rewarding career with good earnings potential. The school accepts either men or women, and a high school diploma is not necessary, she said.

The one-year general program for beauty operators covers many subjects, among are: shampoo, hair and scalp treatment, cold waving, chemical hair relaxing, hair coloring, wigs and hairpieces, manicuring, facials, hair styling, and hair cutting.

The cost for the one-year program is $150 plus about $75 worth of equipment and books, the latter of which may be purchased in installments as the student takes the course. On-campus living is available for cosmetology students, which would, of course, entail additional room and board fees; but it is not necessary to live on campus. "In fact," the instructor said, "most of our students do not live on campus, but rather commute to classes from the general area served by CJC."

The school also offers specialty courses in such areas as Wig Specialist, Manicurist, Facial Specialist, Wig Instructor, Cosmetology Instructor, and upon request, a Refresher Course designed for licensed operators to learn the latest cuts and styles.

Upon satisfactory completion received, a public hearing will be scheduled and adequate notice will be publicized about the date and location of the hearing.

CITIZENS SENIOR

Well, here we are celebrating the first year of the Tri-Centennial Birthday of our country. So many people do not have any respect for "Old Glory" the greatest and grandest flag the world had ever known. It stands for "Freedom, Liberty and Justice". Tho our freedom is being chipped away a little at a time.

Our 84 gang was just to busy. Granny Kent was busy getting her grand-daughter married. Good Luck to your Patty and your Martin. Big Foot has been busy helping with the canning. I will bet Mama had a time keeping busy. My Boss keeps me on that same thing. I am so glad we finished knitting until winter last week.

Fats and Murel are busy visiting and enjoying those family dinners very much. Double Six has helped with her pea shelling. Fats and Dee (do not tell Dee's girlfriend) help shell while Cat Fuzz just snores away.

Here is an energy story. At Morton Valley there is a sign board about 2 x 4 1/2 feet, at the top it says Quarter Horse Stud for Service. On the lower part it says Beauty Parlor. That is energy saving and economy saving ads.

Our office has been rather noisy. Monroe throws his voice. He is so much like his cousin, Happy. Frank has about stopped taking care of Juniors hot dog. As Junior wants him fed steak and gravy. We still get plenty of fresh air all the time. Archie has been selling peas. He has a new bait for that. He includes a fresh bar-b-que rabbit with each batch sold.

I wanted to stay off politics for one week. Tho that is a job. The members of congress voted to keep that $13,000.00 raise per year voted for them and over 20,000 more with the raise. They say just think those on S. S. got 5.9 percent raise. They claim the raises were about equal. A Door Keeper of the Senate retired on $37,000.00. All employees in Washington will get near the same. So you can see why our Country is going to the dogs. (Money dogs for the big man). Many years ago Elbert and Vernon tied two cats' tails together and pitched them over the clothes lines. They said it was some fight for a time. I wonder how that would do for some politicians.

In November of 58, I fell out of a pecan tree. It tied my back in several knots. I went to the Hospital and spent several days. Dr. Rodgers said the fall did not hurt. He said I stopped too quick. I supposed he was right. He said you can quit or else. I have not worked one day since then. I am so blind and if I step in a little depression even now, it hurts my back so bad. That is the reason I never look up when I am walking.

In April of 63, I went to gather the eggs. There was some tickle grass in the back. Something got up my pants legs, so I hit the calf of my leg and rubbed it. In a minute it was on my thighs. I hit and rubbed again. In a minute it was inside my shorts. I pulled down my pants. It was a tarantula. It was as large as a straw hat. I killed it. I always thought they were poison: not so for me. In May, I started to rob a hive of bees. I took one super off and put it on a wheel barrow. Then the bees hit me. The humidity was high. I knew better than to try in high humidity. I put the top back on the hive. Over 100 stung me.

About Aug. 1st, I had been in the pasture burning trash from high water. When I got to the barn and climbed over a fence a rattler struck at me. They are blind that time of the year. He struck at me, missing me about four inches. About Aug. 20th, I was at the sheep shed checking on a baby lamb for worms. A yellow jacket stung me on the shoulder. I went to the house and told my wife to get ready to go to the Doctor. I started shaving. I got one side of my face shaved and said I have got to go now. So I called the Doctor and told him it was an emergency. Called two neighbors homes, no one was at home. So, I had to drive. My wife was not able to drive. I drove with one hand and scratched and cried. When we got to the office two Doctors and three nurses were ready for me. They corded my arm and gave me two shots. The pain stopped then. The Doctor asked if my eyes hurt. I told them no. They said they were as red as blood. Said when I got there I could not have lived over 15 minutes. They prescribed some pills for me. Said I had 30 minutes to live. Told me to take two pills and be ready to go to a hospital. Since that day in 63, I have not missed over five days having those pills with me. I call them my birth control bills. (Lifesavers for me).

Look up and smile. A smile will help you win. Remember that the Sun is shining just beyond those darkest storm clouds. Greet it with a smile. It will help you. Try it one time.

Inflation could be kept down if shoppers were careful not to bruise produce in the supermarket.

Inflation could be kept down if everyone conserved fuel by putting up storm windows and doors and installing insulation. Each of these measures can cut heating bills by as much as 30 percent.

Inflation could be kept down if shoppers bought for food for value. As a protein source, for instance, eggs are less expensive than meat when the price of a dozen large eggs is not more than a pound of boneless beef stew.
