Watch Out for Spring Scams

Just as sure as the rye grass begins to green up and the fruit trees go into bloom, the springtime scams pop-up at the Better Business Bureau.

Your Bureau is advising homeowners to be vigilant when home improvement companies just show up unannounced on your doorstep.

The Bureau has received a rash of complaints this year about shoddy and unfinished work. There are some things you can do to prevent from getting taken in a home improvement scam. We offer the following tips:

- *Beware of people who just show up with a little "left over" from a previous job, or completed a job for a neighbor down the street.

- *Obtain the name, address and phone number of the company. An 800 number doesn't legitimize a company and is often not enough.

- *Get all the details of the offer in writing.
- *Verify that the contractor is properly licensed.
- *Call the Bureau for reliability report 915/691-1533

- *Do not pay money up front. Do not pay in full until all work is completed satisfactorily.
- *Any legitimate company will be happy to allow you time to "check them out."

KOKOMO NEWS

BY ZELDA JORDAN

Our many thanks to all who helped in any way to make the Kokomo Community Stew Supper a great success. We appreciate each of you. A special thanks to the former Miss Kokomos, Angela Burgess Buckley, Delia Eaves Lewis, Nelda Little Fails and Charla Little Burgess, who came to help serve. We really appreciated your help. A special thanks also to the City Grocery for their donation. A large crowd attended and seemed to really enjoy the food and fellowship. The profit will benefit the Gorman and Carbon Fire Departments and West Texas Rehab Center at Abilene.

The Sunday morning service of the Kokomo Baptist Church was a special emphasis on Missions. Doug Adkins of Dallas was the guest speaker and told of some of the mission work being done by members of the First Baptist Church of Dallas of which he and his wife, Carol, are members. Carol Adkins rendered special music and Woodrow and Helen Browning and Ruby Lee Kinser also rendered special music. Other visitors were Deliah, Chris and Jon Lewis of Ennis, Ray and Sandy Yarbrough of Flatwoods and Bit and Lori Lewis of Desdemona.

A video, "On Missions Together" was shown on Sunday night.

Those from the Kokomo Baptist Church going to Heritage Manor in Gorman for the church service on Sunday afternoon were Bro. Clarence and Leona Wilson, Woodrow and Helen Browning, Jimmy and Verna Lee Little, Hope Joiner, Nancy Hendricks, Ruby Lee Kinser and a visitor, Ruth Bryant.

Bro. Clarence and Leona Wilson were lunch guests of Woodrow and Helen Browning on Sunday.

Billy and Christi Langley of Green Forrest, AR visited from Thursday night until Saturday with Sylvia Buchanan.

Deliah, Chris and Jon Lewis of Ennis visited from Friday evening until Tuesday with Delmon and Joyce Eaves. Others visiting in the Eaves home were Mark and Delores Peterson and their children, Marshall, Tony and Annalisa of Houston.

Ted Snider, Danny, Dianne and Sandra Snider visited with Hazel and LaVon Snider.

Nelda and Jarad Fails of Arlington, James, Jill, Ashley and Breckley Little of Lake Leon and Ray Neal, Melissa and Emily Little of Eastland visited with Jimmy and Verna Lee Little on Saturday night. Earl and Betty Little also visited with them.

Joe Fields of Carbon visited with Vernon, Deon and Lindell Fields. Zelda Jordan and Cassie Brasher were in Abilene on Tuesday and met Glenda Black for lunch.

Frasier of DeLeon, Howard and Pat Hagood, Anna Rush, Amy Fraley, Mayvis Lasater, Ruth Bryant, Nancy Hendricks, Denzel and Fay Ables, Bruce and Lavoyce Hirst, Gene Foster, Eunice Love.

AG TALK

By Charlie Stenholm

This past Wednesday, the House Agriculture Committee conducted a hearing with the American Farm Bureau Federation to review federal farm commodity programs in order to gather suggestions for the next Farm Bill. Our own Bob Stallman, formerly president of the Texas Farm Bureau and now President of the American Farm Bureau Federation, testified before the Committee. The Farm Bureau used the hearing to re-emphasize some of the problems we know are facing US agriculture. The European Union (EU) continues to out-spend the US in their domestic farm support programs by a margin of four to one. A strong US dollar has hurt agricultural exports. Prices are expected to remain depressed in the short-term, and government support is needed and expected.

The Chinese have not yet followed through with their trade commitments. This hurts US agricultural exporters by denying them full access to the huge Chinese market.

During the hearing, the Farm Bureau called on Congress to authorize $12 billion a year in additional spending for farmers. This request for more funds is comparable to what other agricultural groups are claiming is necessary for support in the coming years.

The Farm Bureau also recommended that the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) be expanded to 38 million acres. This would represent a 4.4 percent increase in the amount of acres available to be retired at a cost of $500 million annually.

The biggest items on the Farm Bureau's wish list include: $3 billion for a counter-cyclical income assistance program; $3 billion for conservation measures; and $2.3 billion to increase loan rates for all program crops relative to soybeans (which would remain unchanged at $5.26 per bushel).

Other Farm Bureau recommendations include: extending the dairy price support program ($150 million); support for fruit and vegetable growers ($1.5 billion); re-establish non-recourse loans for wool and mohair ($20 million); and alter the loan deficiency payment (LDP) program ($300 million).

The Farm Bureau recommended Farm and Ranch Risk Management (FARRM) accounts, which would provide tax deferral to help farmers save for years when prices are low or crops are poor.

They believe this type of self-insurance program will help agriculture producers to weather the cyclical nature of the farm economy. Additional spending suggestions include an increase in agricultural export programs, expansion of rural economic development programs, and increased funding for agricultural research. Until a new farm bill is signed into law, the Farm Bureau is urging Congress to pass $9 billion in emergency assistance for this fiscal year "as soon as possible" and an equal amount for 2002.

Genetically Modified Wheat

This week, Monsanto announced that it has Roundup Ready wheat that will be available for farmers in two to four years. This strain of wheat will allow producers to grow their crop with greater efficiency. Monsanto estimates that, through the use of Roundup Ready, a wheat crop could yield an additional $6 to $11 an acre. There will probably be a problem in selling this wheat, however.

Buyers from Japan to Europe and Egypt have told US exporters that they will not accept genetically modified wheat. Europe in particular has been reluctant to accept genetically modified foods.

When a market as large as Europe refuses to take the products we export, this significantly hurts American farmers and ranchers. I am frankly getting sick and tired of the barriers and excuses the Europeans are throwing in the way of fair trade with the US.

It is worth noting, however, that US exports to Canada are up 61 percent. In fact, we sell more to Canada than to the European Union. Perhaps of even greater significance is the fact that US exports to Mexico are up 131 percent. If current trends continue, US sales to Mexico will surpass those to the European Union, and Mexico will become our largest trading partner. In any case, biotechnology is an issue that will receive increased attention in the months ahead.
