OUR 83RD YEAR OF SERVICE NUMBER TWO GORMAN, EASTLAND COUNTY, TEXAS 76454

Joe Bennett, Publisher

First, we would like to congratulate all the Gorman basketball teams for their fine play this season. The Junior Hi girls and boys both won championships in their district. The high school girls were runner up in their district, but lost to Santo in the playoff game. The Panthers won the district title and will play Santo this Friday night in Ranger High Gym at 7:30 p. m. for the Bi-District title.

It is truly a blessing to have such fine youth in our community.

We were blessed with some good rainfall on the weekend. It sure helps to get the moisture in preparation for gardens and crop plantings. We all thank the Lord for the wonderful rain and hope more is forthcoming.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur (Coach) Williams have moved into the former Davis Smith home and is now doing some remodeling. They are converting the garage into living space. Their daughters who have been living in the home the past few months have moved in a mobile home on the James Mears lots and are residing there.

Johnny and Pat Ingram are building a new addition to their home. They have added quite a bit of floor space and the project is coming along fine.

The Larry Maynards are doing a remodeling project to their home. They are living in the former Russell Cordell home next door to Donnie Self on the street behind the Mobil station. They have added some floor space and are also doing extensive renovation, including exterior siding and a new wood fence.

Ruth Koonce has just about completed the remodeling project on her home in Desdemona. She built an upstairs addition to her home and it sure looks great.

Pug and Vonnice Guthery are still busy at their remodeling project. Poor Ole Pug looked awful tired on Tuesday and said Vonnice had been working him awful hard lately and was rushing him to complete the job. Vonnice, you take it a little more easy on Ole Pug.

It is beginning to look like the price of oil might drop some and that would mean a drop in gasoline prices to consumers. Folks are watching and waiting for news of the OPEC decision on oil prices. It sure would be nice to see gasoline prices come down, but some folks are wondering what that would do to the overall economy if the price for oil drops a great deal.

It won't be long now before the warmer weather starts moving in. It has already been rather warm a few days at a time, but the old weatherman keeps sending those cold spells our way. Anyway, folks are beginning their gardening and either planting or preparing to do so. Probably the weatherman will send one last cold blast our way between now and Easter. It did thunder in February.

And remember to smile because God Loves You!

Thanks to the great Care given by Drs. L and N and the Care by the Nurses both at the Blackwell Hospital and the Gorman Care Center, the Honest Reporter is doing much better. George now can sit in the wheelchair for awhile each day. Once again he is full of vigor and is giving every one a hard time.

Mr. Bennett will not be able to write his article for awhile. He wants all of his readers to know just how much he appreciates them. They have given him the enjoyment of telling his memories and made many hours full that otherwise would have been empty.

He would enjoy hearing from his friends, old and new. Just write him at Gorman Care Center - Room 38 - Gorman Texas 76454.

Thanks so much for caring.

The family of George F. Bennett

All of this, obviously, requires money, and only the community can provide it. As we all work together with hundreds of volunteers across Texas and the nation, we can make a strong impact on the struggle to control cystic fibrosis."

Endowment to Texas A&M University

Kenneth R. Huddleston, son of the late Ray Huddleston and Jewell Dukes Huddleston Comanche, Senior Vice President for Production with Pennzoil Exploration and Production Co., has provided a $25,000 endowment to support faculty activities and student scholarships at Texas A&M University, his alma mater.

The Huddleston endowment was made available by Huddleston, a 1950 petroleum engineering graduate and matching funds from Pen-nzoil.

Dr. Douglas Von Gonten, department head said he was extremely grateful for the endowment because it helps the University support the type faculty activities and quality of students needed to maintain the department's key role in energy production.

Texas A&M now has the world's largest petroleum engineering program, enrolling 1,775 students last fall, an increase of 12-fold over a decade ago. The department is widely regarded as the best nationwide in terms of quality.

In addition, the program is top producer of engineering graduates worldwide.

"Responding to society's demands for energy places us in a vital position. We must strive to attain and maintain quality faculty and students, and to support their activities if we are to remain there. The Huddleston Endowment is a prime example of what can be done to meet those challenges, and we are very thankful for the generosity of Mr. Huddleston and Pennzoil," said Von Gonten.

NOTICE

The members of the Church of Christ in Desdemona wish to appeal to our friends and neighbors in the community to help us stop the abuse to our parking lot and church building. We are glad for anyone to use the property for parking conveniences, but some are using it as a playground for their cars; cutting "doughnuts", which leave deep ruts, and slinging gravel, dirt or mud on the porch and front of the building. Needless to say, it is expensive and time consuming to clean up and repair these damages almost every week, so we would appreciate anything you can do to help us eliminate this problem.

Thank you for your cooperation.

CITY CHIT CHAT

By Charlie L. Garrett
Mayor

We have at last erected some NO PARKING signs down town. You will find one in front of the City Hall that is reserved for the Police Car, one in front of the Post Office reserving the space in front of the ramp to be used for people needing it to go into the Post Office, and one that will be in front of the ramp at the Senior Center. I am asking that you observe these signs at all times. By observing these, you will make it very convenient for those who need these spaces.

Thanks for not parking there.

We hope to get the parking lines painted on the main street some time this spring so that we may have a more orderly parking situation down town.

Election time is just around the corner for the election of two Commissioners. The last day to file for a place on the ballot will be Wednesday, March 2nd. The election will be on Saturday, April 2 at the firehall. Any one living within the City of Gorman and is a registered voter within the city may vote. I urge each of you to plan now to go to the polls and help elect your city officials.

During 1982 our city sales tax was down by over 15% from 1981. In 1981 we collected $31,122 and in 1982 $26,951 which was $4,171 less. This much loss hurts when we are operating as close as we are. I am hoping that this will change in 1983.

Have you noticed anything new around town? There is something new that the Senior Citizens have been looking forward to for several months. Last week the Ranger Junior College delivered a bus to be used by the Center. This bus was secured through a grant by the Agency on Aging of the West Central Texas Council of Governments and was handled by Ranger Junior College, who sponsors our local Center. I was asked several months ago if we had any need for the bus. I replied that we possibly could make good use of it. The paper work was started then and now we have it. We want to thank those at Ranger Junior College as well as those at WCTCOG for their effort in securing the bus.

I want to express a very hearty thanks to W.C. (Check) Smith of Smith Brothers Chevrolet Company for providing storage for the bus. We had no place where we could store it and have it locked up at night and this storage is being provided by Smith Brothers. Again I say, "Thank you", for my self and all of the Senior Citizens.

REPORT FROM THE HOUSE

By Jim Parker

Things are beginning to heat up but in the House assignment of bills continued. Possibly one of the most revealing referrals was the assignment by the Speaker of H.B. 440 dealing with pari-mutual wagering. This bill would create, generally speaking, a condition on the State of Texas where persons could, in counties choosing to exercise the option, wager on horse races, and perhaps, dog races. The assignment of this bill to the Urban Affairs Committee is revealing in that it was not assigned to the State Affairs Committee where it is rumored Representative Pete Laney, the chairman of the Committee, would be opposed to it. The bill was also not referred to the County Affairs Committee, the Committee on which I sit and which is made up primarily of rural-oriented representatives. Obviously, the Urban Affairs Committee has little or no rural representation. I can only draw the conclusion that the Speaker desires that the bill have favorable Committee treatment and at least be reported to the House where we will all literally have to "fish or cut bait."

This, of course, provides the perfect predicate for this week's issue discussion, pari-mutual wagering. This issue has been before the Legislature; at each regular session, for a number of sessions, and has, to date, met with little success. It would appear that the horse racing lobby has about one million dollars to spend on the issue this session and that much money will get people's attention on any issue.

Proponents of the issue point at the fact that Texas is the largest horse raising state in the nation and we are geographically surrounded by horse racing states. They cite the increased revenues, both in the private and state sectors, that will be generated by horse racing industry and make it sound reasonably palatable to a state legislator who must, to maintain his position era general tax increase. Proponents say that the prohibition ear taught a lesson that morality cannot be legislated and further point to the fact that on any given fall weekend literally millions of dollars are wagered on high school, college and professional football games with absolutely no regulations or controls and with no state revenues being generated. The number of Texas licenses in Ruidoso, New Mexico, in racing season may be one of the most visible indicators of revenue Texas is losing.

Opponents are of the opinion, and probably to some extent rightly so, that estimates of the revenue which the bill would generate, are grossly out of proportion; that the climate provided by race-tracks would be an open invitation to organized crime; that hard-earned money justly and properly destined for upkeep and maintenance of homes and families would be squandered away; and, increased cost of necessary policing efforts would far and away exceed any benefits derived.

The legislation proposed would earmark funds received on taxation of wagering operations for increased expenditures for aid to financially dependent children and education, both areas desperately in need of funds.

In fulfilling my offer repeated promise of frankness and candor, I will omit that I am, to a great extent, in a quandary as to how I should react to the issue. Should it

Pressure of stress is something all of us experience in varying degrees at various times of each day, week, month, and year of our lives. It occurs as the result not only of unpleasant circumstances which, no matter how enjoyable, still require significant expenditures of our energy. Usually, minimal degrees of stress motivate individuals into productive action; maximum degrees of stress, on the other hand, often times result in little or no productive outcomes.

ultimately come down to a choice between a general tax increase and pari-mutual wagering, I would probably feel compelled to choose the latter for the reason that I do not think my constituents can stand a tax increase and for the additional reason that I cannot, in light of my current understanding, conceive of a major wagering facility being located in my district, since the bill is on a local option basis.

I will do what you want me to do but you have to tell me before I know.

Talk to you next week.

Americans are expressing a new and growing concern for coping with the stress of everyday life. Close to one in two American families (44 percent) are finding it harder to cope with problems such as high food costs, meeting monthly bills, saving for the future, fear of crime and time constraints caused by family and work responsibilities. Eight out of ten family members now indicate a need for less stress in their daily lives. Indeed, most persons agree with the experts that stress is one of the most important factors preventing their being as healthy as they could be.

Most of us are able to recognize when we're experiencing stress. There are emotional, mental and physical signals which "flag" the fact that we're in a stressful situation. Recognizing and being aware of symptoms of stress in yourself (and others) is important so that you can work out ways of coping with stress. By becoming aware of the first signs of stress we can 1) more clearly identify the causes of stress for ourselves, and 2) learn to discharge the stress before it becomes a very distressful situation. Recognizing stress is the first step in dealing with it.

What are these recognizable signs that serve as stress indicators? Are the signs the same for everyone? In fact, there are almost as many reactions to stress as there are individuals. Not everyone reacts to stress in the same way.

Some of the more common signs and symptoms of stress include: Emotional changes such as: irritability, lowered self-esteem, angry outburst, lack of interest, restlessness, anxiousness, withdrawal, reduction of personal involvement with others, critical of self and others, and appetite extremes.

Mental-intellectual changes such as: forgetfulness, preoccupation, errors in judging distance, lack of concentration, lack of attention to details, reduced creative, and diminished productivity.

Physical changes such as: increased heart rate, elevated blood pressure, tightness of chest, sweaty palms, trembling, ticks or twitching, tightness of neck or back muscles, headache, diarrhea, nausea and vomiting, sleep disturbance, fatigue, accident proneness, susceptibility to minor illness, slumped posture and shallow breathing.

In order to cope with stress, one needs to communicate. Communicate your feelings to someone you trust who will listen without criticizing. Talk, cry, express anger. No matter what you feel, express your feelings and get them out in the open rather than bottling them up.

If you cannot control or change the situation which is the source of stress, you can try to adapt. Adaptation is a long process which does not occur spontaneously. Attitude is important to coping with stress. Recognizing and accepting one's limitations fosters a realistic attitude and reduces distressed feelings. Being organized in daily activities gives the feeling of being in control rather than being ruled by circumstances. A good sense of humor is an asset to handling stress. The ability to laugh at yourself or the situation is a healthy emotional outlet for dealing with life's crises.

LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Ralph Hudson and Patricia and Estelle Craddock spent the weekend in Richardson with Kay Ann Craddock.

Diamonds are a proper gift to give on both the 60th and 75th anniversaries.

The term "Hallmark" originates from the practice of jewelers in Goldsmiths' Hall in London who put a seal on their gold and silver products to certify value.

2 teaspoons vanilla
4 eggs
4 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup dates (you might want to use condensed mincemeat instead)
1 cup coconut
1 cup nuts (you might try sunflower seeds)
1 1/2 cups oatmeal
4 cups corn flakes, crushed or rice crispies

Cream first four ingredients. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing well. Add flour, soda, and salt and mix well. Set aside. Mix remaining ingredients. Add this to flour mixture and stir. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased cookie sheets. Bake at 325 degrees F. for 12 minutes. Yield: 12 dozen cookies.

I could tell Dad was proud,

And even Aunt Harriet got a little misty around the eyes.

Aunt Harriet always swore I'd go to the dogs.

Mom always wanted me to be a doctor. Dad didn't much care, as long as I amounted to something. But Aunt Harriet was convinced I would come to a bad end.

The reasons Aunt Harriet was not exactly kindly disposed toward me stemmed from when I inadvertently left a pet caterpillar in her sterling candy dish. After that, Aunt Harriet felt that my chances of evolving into a responsible human being were bleak indeed. "Headed right to the dogs, that boy," she'd mutter.

To overcome this grave flaw in my character, she began bombarding me with U.S. Savings Bonds. Figuring, no doubt, that money might lead me away from evil rather than toward it. After all, I needed all the help I could get. And Aunt Harriet couldn't have helped me more. Those Bonds grew up, along with me, into a nice, fat nest egg. One I kept tapping as I moved along in my life.

I finally hung out my shingle today: John Petrie, doctor of veterinary medicine. I could tell Dad was proud, and Mom was really beaming. And even Aunt Harriet got a little misty around the eyes. After all—she's the one who predicted I was going straight to the dogs!

Buying U.S. Savings Bonds on a regular basis helps America. And it can help a dream become a reality instead of something that might have been.

Take

Is your heating/cooling system gobbling up too much money?

If electric bills are taking too big a bite out of your budget, consider equipment with a higher energy-efficiency rating. The higher the rating, the less electricity it takes to heat and cool your home. And using less electricity will help hold down your bill.

High-efficiency equipment costs more, but when the equipment qualifies, Texas Electric will give you a bonus check to help pay the difference. So if you're planning to install a room unit, or replace central air conditioning or a year-round heat pump, ask your dealer about equipment that qualifies for a bonus check from Texas Electric.

And put money back in your pocket.
