Steve is now living with a christian couple in Ranger, and is working on two ranches after school.

Steve will be working with Jr. High and High School kids on the weekends. They will be going on field trips, and showing films and having Bible discussions. Steve hopes the group becomes like "one" and starts relying on each other for help. He also hopes to teach the Bible in more of a practical way. REPORT FROM THE HOUSE

By Jim Parker

I wish I could ignore the problem and it would go away but it won't. So this week I will attempt to address the D.W.I. issue.

The pieces of legislation with D.W.I. almost outnumber the sum total of legislators, but can be grouped, generally, under one major heading, that being more stringent application of punitive measures taken against persons convicted under the Act. Perhaps it would be helpful to commence with a little legislative history of the issue.

The 1979 Session passed legislation whereby a person first convicted of drunk driving would mandatorily, forfeit his driver's license and be subjected, additionally, to fines, probation, etc. The effect of the legislation was apparently perceived by the judges across our state as being too harsh, in as much as it inordinately deprived the family breadwinner of means of transportation to and from work. The judges were, of course, not blameless but one can understand how it would be much easier in theory to do serious economic damage to a statistic than to an individual from the judge's community and with Mr. and Mrs. George Hollifield.

THE GORMAN PROGRESS

well-known to him.

Social conscience not withstanding, the net effect was a little item called "deferred adjudication" whereby a judge and prosecutor, in an attempt to avoid the harsh economic aspect of the legislation, agreed to "put off" a finding of guilt or innocence for a "probationary" period of time. If the defendant successfully avoids further difficulty for a required period of time, a finding of "not guilty" was ultimately entered and the case dismissed. Two immediate problems were caused, the first being that after dismissal, no record existed of the prior offense, eliminating increases punishment for subsequent offenses. The second problem occurs when we find it is not at all unusual to have a defendant on deferred adjudication in two, three or more counties at the same time, since county probation departments quite often have little or no communication with other probation departments.

If history is, in fact, our best teacher, then we should probably, before hasty action, inquire as to the possibility and effect of a backlash to the proposed legislation, like we saw to the 1979 legislation. Almost all of the legislation proposed would mandate a jail term for conviction of the offense of D.W.I. I worry whether or not the authorities would, to avoid sending a "good ole boy with a little drinkin' problem" to jail, simply reduce the charge to public intoxication or some such, and further aggravate the problem. It simply has not been historically shown that more stringent legislation, over the long term, leads to lessening of the problem, in fact, quite the contrary has often proven true. Those are facts, like them or not.

At issue is another consideration near and dear to the social conscience of those often labeled "liberal", that being that alcoholism is now, even in rural Texas, pretty well recognized as a medical problem rather than one of morality. The argument most often advanced by this faction is that society would be appalled at the incarceration of an epileptic, and is there any real difference? Supposedly, both problems are beyond the sufferer's control.

The very nature of this subject precludes my being able to use any more space in the publication to address the D.W.I. issue this week. With your endurance, I will continue my comments on D.W.I., the "open container" legislation and raising the minimum drinking age in following weeks.

See you next week!

Weekly Report From Senator Bob Glasgow

Probably the most publicized and important topic being considered in the State Legislature this Session is the Sunset review of the Public Utility Commission.

At this time the measures relating to the PUC on the Seante side are in a Subcommittee on State Affairs and should be reported out at any time to the full State Affairs Committee.

There are five measures that are considered the major PUC Sunset bills. They are S.B. 5 by Senator Doggett, S.B. 9 by Senator Mauzy, S.B. 232 by Senator Caperton, S.B. 260 by Senator Parmer and S.B. 548 by Senator Grant Jones.

The most controversial part of each measure is the process of selection of the Commissioners for the Public Utility Commission. The bills by Senators Doggett, Mauzy, Caperton and Parmer call for elected members in various ways while Senator Jones' bill calls for Commissioners to six who would be elected from six single member districts and serve six year staggered terms.

The measure by Senator Mauzy would expand the membership to nine, and these commissioners would be elected from nine single member districts. The terms would also be six year staggered terms.

The measures by Senators Doggett, Caperton and Parmer prohibit automatic fuel adjustment pass-through. Instead, the fuel cost would be considered by the Commission as part of the operating expense.

All of the bills filed are extremely long and complex. They deal with a variety of the issues including methods considering rate of return and how to deal with construction work in progress.

If any of you would be interested in copies of any of these bills, please write to me at P.O. Box 12068, Austin Texas 78711.

REPORT FROM THE HOUSE

By Jim Parker

In what may or may not be a departure from an issue presentation, this week I would like to discuss a proposed tax reform. Representative Bob Barton is preparing for filing a most interesting item of legislation that would effectively eliminate residential property, both rural and urban, from ad valorem tax consequence, in so far as such taxes have and are being used to support the public schools. The proposed legislation would exempt any property used as principal residence from school ad valorem taxation and, to make lost revenue, would substitute an additional statewide one-cent (1c) sales tax.

Since, with the ever-narrowing tax base, more and more of the burden of supporting public schools has fallen to the home-owner, the proposal has some very attractive aspects.

Proponents say a one-cent (1c) additional tax would generate approximately one billion dollars which would more than compensate for lost ad valorem revenue; that the State of Texas could more equitably distribute the funds, eliminating some of the disparities between "rich" and "poor" school districts; that a sales tax, exempting food and necessities, is not regressive, as is commonly thought, but is on the other hand, progressive; that the sales tax method of financing would more equitably spread the burden of supporting the schools to all citizens of the state of Texas; and that the average Texas taxpayer's property tax would be cut in half.

Opponents feel that the ad valorem tax base tends to keep school control on the local level; that the sales tax is a regressive tax penalizing those most who are least financially able; that people in 42 states pay more sales tax than in Texas and, perhaps most important, that we should not preempt this statewide tax avenue, for what many perceive to be a localized problem, at a time when the state of Texas may, because of budget necessity, desperately need statewide tax generating possibilities for general state revenue.

I can readily agree, and do see, that the homeowner is one of an increasingly smaller group of people who must bear the ad valorem burden. With over 65 exemptions, open space exemptions, various agricultural exemptions and other statutory ad valorem tax exemptions, the entire ad valorem tax system may be headed down a "self-destruct" path. My greatest concern and most serious question is, assuming we all recognize that the ad valorem tax system is basically an inequitable system that must eventually go the way of the dinosaur, do we eliminate it, eventually, in one swell swoop, or do we eliminate it a piece at a time as past legislatures have

LIGHTNING SAFETY RULES

The Governor of Texas has tentatively designated the week of March 6-12, 1983 as Texas Severe Weather Awareness Week, and the Gorman Police Dept., in cooperation with the National Weather Service, will be presenting tips on weather safety.

The first tip deals with actions to be taken or avoided during a thunderstorm in order to avoid injury from lightning. When a thunderstorm threatens get inside a home or large building, or inside an all-metal vehicle (not a convertible). Inside a home, avoid using the telephone except for emergencies.

If outside, with no time to reach a safe building or automobile, follow these rules:

- 1) Do not stand underneath a natural lightning rod such as a tall isolated tree in an open area.
- 2) Avoid projecting above the surrounding landscape, as you would do if you were standing on a hilltop, in an open field, on the beach, or fishing from a small boat.
- 3) Get out of and away from open water.
- 4) Get away from tractors and other metal farm equipment.
- 5) Get off of and away from motorcycles, scooters, golf carts, and bicycles.
- 6) Put down golf clubs, rakes, hoes, or other metal objects.
- 7) Stay away from wire fences, clotheslines, metal poles, rails and other metallic paths which could carry lightning to you from some distance away.
- 8) Avoid standing in small isolated sheds or other small structures in open areas.
- 9) In a wooden area, seek shelter in a low area under a thick growth of small trees. In open areas, go to a low place such as a ravine or valley. Be alert for flash floods.
- 10) If you are hopelessly isolated in a level field or pasture and you feel your hair stand on end--indicating lightning is about to strike--drop to your knees and bend forward putting your hands on your knees. Do not lie flat on the ground.

A SKYWARN class will be held at the Gorman Senior Center at 7:00 PM on Tuesday, March 22, 1983, and the public is encouraged to attend. The meeting will be presented by a meteorologist from the Weather Service Forecast Office, and he will show films and slides on tornado safety and will explain how to recognize clouds that spawn tornadoes.

I do not think this Legislature is vested with the intestinal fortitude to attack the problem, in its entirety, head-on; but if we adopt this proposal of sales tax substitution for the limited purpose stated, what of the fate of the even smaller base of tax carrying the ad valorem burden? Surely you would have an opinion. My address is: Jim Parker Texas House of Representative, P.O. Box 2910, Austin, Tx. 78769

It's time to spray fruit trees if you want fruit free of worms this year. Peach, plum and apricot trees should be sprayed at pink bud stage and again when 75% of the petals have fallen.

The spray should contain an insecticide to control insects and a fungicide to control diseases. The suggested insecticides are Topsin M, Malathion, Sevin, & Zolone. The recommended fungicides include Captan, wettable sulfur and Benomyl. Follow the directions on the amount of chemicals to add per gallon of water. Some fruit tree sprays have a mixture of insecticide and fungicide.

Repeat this spray 10 to 14 days after petal fall and again 10 to 14 days after the second spray. It may be necessary to apply as many as 5 applications at 10 to 14 day intervals except on early maturing varieties. Do not apply insecticides within three days of harvesting plums or within seven days of harvesting peaches.

We have Home-owners fruit and nut spray schedules in the Extension office to give you more information on fruit tree spraying.

At this time of the year, lawns need a boost to get them in shape for the growing season, which is just around the corner.

Scalping a lawn in late winter serves to revitalize it and promote spring and summer plant growth. Begin this operation by mowing the blade of your lawnmower one-half inch below the normal setting. Then, mow the lawn in two directions that are at right angles to each other and remove the clippings after each mowing.

To keep crabgrass, grassburrs and other unsightly weeds from appearing, apply a pre-emergence herbicide (weed killer) in early part of March. The pre-emergence herbicides will only control annual grass and weeds - those that come up from seeds each year. Dacthal (DCPA) and Balan (Benfen) are examples of commonly used pre-emergence herbicides. When applied properly, these chemicals form a barrier in the soil that will prevent the germination of any seed. This barrier must be in place before the weed seed begins to germinate in order to get control.

The chemical barrier formed by the herbicide usually lasts from 60 to 120 days, depending on the soil and environmental conditions. Since some weeds may continue to germinate through spring and early summer, it may be necessary to make a second application in early summer to get season-long control.

Any lawn maintenance operation that stirs the soil such as dethatching and aerification may cause the chemical barrier to be broken and allow weeds to germinate. For that reason, it may be well to plan these operations before the pre-emergence herbicide is applied.

Combinations of herbicides with fertilizers are available and convenient to use, but should only be used according to instructions on the label. If you apply herbicides and fertilizer separately, wait until April to apply the fertilizer.

FACTS & FIGURES

One of the world's best-known cigarette advertising slogans is "I'd Walk A Mile for A Camel." If smokers had indeed walked a mile for every Camel produced since 1913, they would have journeyed to the sun and back more than 17,000 times. Had their destination been the moon, they could have made 7 million round trips.

Since Old Joe, the shaggy brown dromedary, first began representing the cigarette, more than 3.25 trillion of them have been produced by R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. More Camels have been produced and sold worldwide than any other brand.

If all the tobacco that has gone into the brand was rolled into one long cigarette, a smoker could stand on Mars and light the cigarette with the sun, a distance of about 143 million miles.

William Swindle, associate professor of Education at TSU, will be the instructor and the registration is $45.

The course has been created in cooperation with the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Standards and Education and meets the educational requirements for the instructor certificate.

The 70-hour basic course for reserve law enforcement officers will be taught March 21 through April 7, with classes meeting from 5 to 9 p.m. Monday through Fri-

Get a bonus from Texas Electric.

TEXAS ELECTRIC SERVICE COMPANY

PAY TO THE ORDER OF John Doe 1983 $240.00
Texas Electric Service Co. #1100

The amount shown is for a 3-ton central electric air conditioner with an SEER of 9.0.

If you replace your central electric air conditioner with one that's more efficient, Texas Electric will pay you a bonus of $80 per ton.

Not only that, you'll save on your electric bill as well. For example, a high-efficiency 3-ton unit can save you up to $190 a year.

This equipment costs more initially, but the bonus from Texas Electric plus the savings on your electric bill will make up the difference in just a few years.

If enough people buy high-efficiency equipment, summer peak load growth will be slowed—and so will the need to build new generating plants. In the long run, this will help hold down everyone's electric bill.

So if you're planning to install a room unit, or replace central air conditioning or a year-round heat pump, ask your dealer about equipment that qualifies for a bonus check from Texas Electric.

And put money back in your pocket.
