FOOD INHALATION IN CHILDREN

About 66 to 77 children - most

under the age of five - die by choking

on food each year, says a Texas

small pieces of food can also go deep initial coughing fit may end and the

such as pneumonia, may show up

The Willing Workers Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church met for their Christmas luncheon and party in the home of Winnell Bryant, our teacher, on Dec.

The lunch consisted of a covered dish from each member of which made a lovely and delicious meal. The Christmas theme was carried through out, with much love expressed for our Lord and Savior, and each other. In the afternoon a program and exchanging of gifts followed. Christmas carols were played. Olga Kinser brought the Christmas story, that was enjoyed by all. Those present were: Winnie Thompson, Olga Kinser, M.L. Skiles, Ina Mae Torrence, Estelle Dickey, Carrie Cook and the Hostess.

-GP-CHILDREN CAN

CHOKE ON FOOD
Parents who consider safety when buying their children's toys often forget to use the same caution in preparing children's food. "Food asphyxiation accounts for as many childhood deaths annually as poisoning but has received much less public attention," says Dr. Mary Ann Heussner, a health education specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service. A recent nationwide study of children's food related choking fatalities found that children choked most often on hot dogs. Other foods on the list were candy, peanuts and other nuts, grapes, cookies, meat, carrots, apples, popcorn and peanut butter, she notes. Foods such as peanuts or hard, round candies should not be given to children younger than four or five, she advises. Foods that must be chewed should not be given to children until they have developed a complete set of teeth at around age two.

There are well over five million native pecan trees along Texas rivers and streams. Little wonder the State claims this popular and productive tree as the official State Tree of Texas.

The pecan, whether native or a named variety, is often claimed as a good yard or shade tree. Not only does it provide shade but rewards the grower with desirable nuts as well. The pecan makes a stately shade tree and is comparatively fast growing. It is quick to lose its leaves come fall and late to leaf out in the spring, thus allowing the desired winter sun more than most other tree selections.

Winter is pecan tree planting time. Planting when the tree is dormant and the season cool and moist is important for good livability.

For success in planting pecans, select and buy sound, virgorous trees. The pecan is purchased barerooted, thus, choose trees which are not dried out, and keep the root area moist at all times. If there is a delay in planting, cover the root area with moist rags or with moist soil until planting.

Select a tree 3 to 6 feet in height...above the root line...and prune at least onethird of the top growth away. Cutting the new tree back is often difficult for most gardeners; yet, pruning the tree will pay off with faster establishment of roots and faster growth the first critical year after planting.

Locate the pecan planting in well-drained soil and where there is ample sun and growing room away from the competition of neighboring trees.

The grower must dig the planting area large enough to easily accommodate the tree's root system. Set the tree at the same depth it stood in the nursery row...not too shallow, not too deep. Replace well-prepared topsoil around the roots, firming it well to eliminate possible air pockets, and water well after planting.

Do not fertilize the tree until it is well established and growing. Usually, it is best for the grower to wait until the second spring or growth season to begin a fertilizer

Perhaps the most difficult and the most important item in growing pecans is to choose the proper variety for one's specific area. New varieties which are of better quality and more disease resistant are replacing the older and less desirable ones. The following are recommended pecan varieties for Eastland County with some of their outstanding characteristics:

In-shell pecans for retail sales and home use:

CHOCTAW is a large pecan of excellent kernel quality. Choctaw develops a 59 percent kernel and requires 37 nuts to weigh one pound under optimum growing conditions.

KIOWA is a brand new USDA release. Kiowa nuts look like Desirable. The tree is more vigorous, produces larger crops, but is not as consistent as Desirable.

MOHAWK is a large pecan of fair to good kernel quality. Mohawk develops a 60 percent kernel and requires 34 nuts to weight one pound under optimum growing conditions. Mohawk makes an excellent dooryard tree because of its diffuse branching and heavy, dense foliage. Mohawk is also ed to areas of North Texas because it matures pecan early in the season.

MAHAN is a large pecan with variable kernl quality. This is an old variety which has had good market acceptance in spite of poor kernel quality due to its large size. The Mahan tree has a dark rich green color and is an excellent tree for ornamental purposes.

SHELLING PECANS FOR WHOLESALE TRADE AND HOME USE:

SIOUX is a small, excellent quality pecan. Sioux develops a 60 percent kernel and requires 61 nuts to weigh one pound under optimum growing conditions.

WICHITA is a medium-tolarge western pecan variety with very good quality kernels. Wichita develops a 62 percent kernel and requires 44 nuts to weigh one pound under optimum growing conditions. Wichita must be harvested when mature and stored properly. The tree is very productive and comes into production at an early age. Wichita requires zinc management for proper leaf development and tree growth. Wichita is not disease resistant.

CADDO is small pecan of good kernel quality. Caddo develops a 63 percent kernel and requires 57 nuts to weigh one pound under optimum growing conditions. Caddo is very productive and comes into production in approximately 6 years. The tree is a vigorous grower, has strong disease resistance and is a regular producer. It is protandrous, pollen first, varies

DECEMBER 31ST ENDS 1984 CROP INSURANCE PERIOD

GEORGETOWN, TEXAS -December 31st ends the 1984 Crop Year insurance period for Peanuts grown in EASTLAND County and insured by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC), or by a private company reinsured by FCIC, according to Ardell M. Kalmbach, a representative for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

'Any notice of loss must be given no later than 30 days after total destruction of the unit, completion of harvest, or December 31, whichever occurs earlier," according to Kalmbach.

The producer who anticipates a claim should notify his or her Crop Insurance agent immediately.

"Under the terms of the policy, any acreage on which harvest will not be completed must be left intact until an inspection is made. Any claim for indemnity may be rejected if these loss reported requirements are not met," Kalmbach stated. - GP -

TEXAS PECAN CROP SHORT

About a third of Texas's 1984 pecan crop has been harvested, and a crop of less than 20 million pounds is expected, down sharply from last year's 80 million pounds,

This year's crop is down mainly because of the large crop in 1983, some tree damage from the severe freeze last December, this year's extensive drought, and heavy infestation of the pecan nut casebearers, the chief pecan pest, notes a horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University

SOUTHWESTERN EXPOSITION AND FAT STOCK SHOW SET

The 89th edition of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show may well be another banner year, according to W.R. Watt Jr., show president/manager. He based the forecast on early indications of livestock entries for the Jan. 23 through Feb. 3 show.

Watt said the American Polled Hereford Association, which will hold its 62nd national show in conjunction with the 1985 Stock Show, reports record entries of 700 head of breeding cattle.

These early figures, coupled with entries from the American Shorthorn Association and the Santa Gertrudis Breeders International, two other breeder groups holding national shows during the Stock Show, and other entries of cattle, sheep, swine and horses, indicate a big livestock show is in the offing here, Watt

Last year, a record 16,700 head of livestock was entered for the Stock Show. Although large animal entries closed this week, exhibitors of poultry, pigeons, and rabbits have

DECEMBER 13, 1984 until Jan. 15 to enter.

The Stock Show is scheduled in conjunction with 23 performances of the World's Original Indoor Rodeo. The 23rd performance was added this year as a 2 p.m. matinee on Friday, Jan. 25, the newly designated Public School Day at the show.

Rodeo tickets are on sale in the lobby of the Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Tickets for the Public School Day matinee and other 2 p.m. performances Monday through Friday are priced at $6; Monday through Thursday nights are $8; and Friday nights and all week-end rodeos are $10.

In order to meet the basic requirements for Divorced Spouse's Benefits, an individual must be at least 62 years of age, currently unmarried, and the marriage to the wage-earner must have lasted at least 10 years. Governor Urges Cut In Teacher Paperwork ing among educators for the new emphasis on academics and other educational reforms adopted by the Texas Legislature and implemented this fall in school districts across the state.

By Governor Mark White

But while classroom teachers tell me they support the reform program, they express concern that increased paperwork is infringing on the time they can devote to teaching and preparing

The goal of House Bill 72 is to recapture the school day for academics, not for filling out forms.

How can any teacher be expected to do a quality job if he or she is not allowed the time to work with students? How can we expect teachers to meet students' needs during the work day and then spend their evenings completing forms or filling out excessive lesson plan requirements?

I have posed these questions in a letter mailed to the members of the newly appointed State Board of Education, asking the board and the Texas Education Agency to address this problem as soon as possible.

The education reform bill adopted this summer contains specific language instructing the board and TEA to make every effort to require no additional paperwork from local school districts, but instead to substitute

AUSTIN-Enthusiasm is grow- any new information needed for previous reporting requirements.

This same attention to the needs of school districts should also be paid to the needs of teachers. It is imperative that we alleviate the undue burden of excessive paperwork.

Any investigation of this problem inevitably leads to a review of House Bill 246 passed in 1981. That bill was an attempt to get curriculum writing out of the Legislature and into the hands of professional educators.

That law is quite short but the guidelines it generated are extensive. Even though comprehensive guidelines are necessary, it should not be necessary to require experienced and professionally trained teachers to fill out form after form to document the basic elements in their daily lessons. The essential elements should be documented in curriculum guides, not in daily lesson plans.

I know that the members of the State Board of Education share my concern, and I am confident that they will make it their top priority to resolve this legitimate complaint of teachers throughout
