The Morning Light Is Breaking

A missionary hymn is made popular by a secular tune

Like his English predecessor, William Carey, England, sailed for America to cast his lot at writ-American pioneer Baptist missionary Adoniram ing music. To pass time on the old windiammer ing music. To pass time on the old windjammer, Judson had to light his own lamp and find his own path. A century and a half ago Protestant foreign missions was in its infancy and Judson worked in Burma for 15 years before he saw light on the horizon. But by 1829 Judson had built a school and a church, converts began coming in and the courageous missionary reported "The Light is Break-

While Judson was in Burma, Boston's Harvard graduate Samuel Francis Smith was studying for the ministry at Andover Theological Seminary.
Smith knew half a dozen languages, could write poetry and was engrossed in the foreign missions movement. While translating a stack of foreign songs for Choir Director Lowell Mason, student Smith had come across a German tune he liked and wrote some verses for it and started America to singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee." That was in tist Missionary Union. At 86 he had learned 15 languages and started studying another. Boarding February, 1832. That same month Linquist Smith read Missionary Judson's report and write a poem about the light breaking in the foreign missions field.

While all that was going on George James Webb, sung to music written for a song about a lark. Here musician son of a wealthy farmer in Salisbury, are Smith's words . . .

The morning light is breaking, The darkness disappears; The sons of earth are waking To penitential tears.

Each breeze that sweeps the ocean Brings tidings from afar Of nations In commotion, Prepared for Zion's war.

See heathen nations bending Before the God of love, And thousand hearts ascending In gratitude above;

While sinners, now confessing, The gospel call obey, And seek a Saviour's blessing, A nation in a day.

Blest river of salvation, Pursue thine onward way;

Flow thou to every nation, Nor in thy richness stay; Stay not till all the lowly

Triumphant reach their home;

Webb wrote a secular number called "Tis Dawn, the Lark is Singing." He had no more intention of composing a hymn tune than he had of swimming

Samuel Smith's missionary hymn was sung to various tunes for nearly 30 years. Then, in 1861, it was published to the tune George Webb had written on board the boat. It became so popular that three years later soldiers of the Union Army began singing the recently written "Stand Up for Jesus" to the same music and both hymns have been sung to Webb's secular tune ever since.
