Farmers Disregard Advice

More Than $1 Million Spent Spraying Operation Going Full Blast

While greenbugs (the wheat aphid) drains the sap of the grain sorghum plant all over the Texas Plains, farmers have not been able to sit back and follow the advice given by entomologists against spraying.

The skies in Bailey County and all surrounding areas are filled with spray planes and helicopters applying chemicals to the plants where as many as 20,000 greenbugs per plant have been counted.

Therefore, within about 20 miles of Muleshoe, more than one million dollars has been spent for chemical, a majority of which has been against the advice of men experienced in the field of advising farmers spray for damaging insects, entomologists from research stations which have been working within this county and other counties.

"Spraying drastically reduces the populations of beneficial insects which are also building up in increasing numbers," the entomologists point out.

"These beneficial insects should be given a chance to work in reducing the number of greenbugs which they can and will do if not killed by chemical application, costing the farmer countless dollars which could be avoided by letting nature take its course."

"Although the buildup of the damaging insect has reached alarming proportions, the actual damage being done is what actually counts," the experts outline.

Chemical applications are not altogether being discounted as the research men do advise farmers to watch for the insects to move up on the stalk as is their characteristic and should this condition become a reality, tested types of chemicals to be applied have been researched.

These insecticides available for controlling the greenbugs include phosdrin, endrin and parathion. Extreme care should be exercised in applying these materials, cautions the entomologists. The waiting period from the time of application until harvest is as follows: phosdrin, three days; endrin, 45 days and parathion, 12 days.

In further explaining the greenbug situation, experts relate that in fields, particularly the fields that are planted to varieties that have the compact heads, the greenbugs have moved up on the stalks and Frank Ford, Republican candidate for State Representative, has outlined a three point program for reducing the rising crime rate in Texas.

"Salaries for our Department of Public Safety and local law enforcement personnel must be such as to keep and attract high-caliber, dedicated men," said Ford. "And these men must be provided with the best in training."

"Volunteer work with youth must be stressed to help our young people develop into good citizens, and support for law enforcement evidenced in home and school."

Fire Destroys Roberts Home

The Burley Roberts farm home near Enoch was totally destroyed by fire while the family was away from home around midnight Saturday.

"All the family saved from the devastating blaze were the few items they had in the family car, which were few as they had only gone to Clovis for the night, and the clothing they were wearing."

The frame and stucco house was located half a mile south of Enoch on Highway 214.

Morton's fire department answered a call to the farm at 2 a.m. Sunday morning after the burning rubble was discovered by two teen-age boys, David Woods and Lester Gillian who were enroute home from Morton. The youths drove to the home of Mrs. Robert's father, Bailey County Commissioner R.P. McCall, who notified the Morton Fire Department.

"By the time firemen arrived on the scene, the flames had already engulfed the home to the point that none of it could be saved," a bystander said.

Texas Plains Travel Trail Folder Released

Muleshoe and Bailey county, a part of a region of Texas that once was trackless grassland, is featured in the newest Texas Travel Trail folder released today by the Texas Highway Department.

The Plains Trail reaches from Dumas on the High Plains to Gall, the county seat of Borden County, and from Muleshoe and Morton on the west to Matador and Turkey on the east.

The descriptive Plains Trail folder which interprets the entire route is available at Chamber of Commercials along the way, at Texas Highway Department Tourist Bureaus, and by mail from the Texas Highway Department, Travel Information Division, Box 5064, Austin, Texas 78703.

Bailey County is featured in the folder. A portion of the county and city resume is as follows:

"In Muleshoe, named for a famous early cattle brand, a number of historical markers have been erected at significant sites. Perhaps the most unusual, and always a subject for a snapshot is the town's

ADVERTISERS... We Invite You to Take Notice Of This Exciting New Sales Opportunity

YOU NOW WILL BE ABLE TO REACH MANY MORE READERS REGULARLY...

HERE IS WHAT THIS NEWSPAPER'S TREMENDOUS EXPANSION MEANS TO YOU

THIS NEW CIRCULATION IS RIGHT WHERE YOU WANT IT

Practically the entire campaign gain of the Muleshoe and Bailey County Journals circulation has been made in the trade area within reach of Muleshoe merchants. New families of readers have been added all over the area. Each of these new readers means a new door has been opened, hundreds of new prospects located, for businessmen advertising their merchandise and services in The Muleshoe and Bailey County Journals.

These new readers will be kept posted on what is happening in the area, what the merchants are advertising and what they are selling. As buyers of this newspaper, they have demonstrated their interest in Muleshoe and the merchandise and services offered here.

They're the kind of people, the kind of customers, whose friendship builds sound business progress and whose patronage can be yours. They now take their place with the hundreds and hundreds of other readers of the Muleshoe and Bailey County Journals who keep a close watch on what The Muleshoe merchants have to offer from day to day. The Muleshoe Journal maintains a complete advertising service which is at all times at the free disposal of Muleshoe business people.

THE MULESHOE & BAILEY COUNTY JOURNALS ARE HELPING TO BUILD A BETTER COMMUNITY!!

This sudden and dramatic circulation increase represents a step forward, not only for The Muleshoe and Bailey County Journals but for the community as a whole. At a time when we are becoming increasingly aware of the competition in every field, it is more important that the city publicize its goods and services in a medium that reflects the best Muleshoe has to offer.

The Muleshoe and Bailey Journals went to great expense to put on this circulation campaign and expand its reading audience. While these costs will be written off over a period of years, the investment itself represent confidence in the Community and in the business firms that use newspaper space to reach their customers.

We believe our investment and faith are well placed, and we believe the only limiting factors which can slow Muleshoe's growth and progress area are in our own minds. This community's future has never looked brighter! We pledge our full support where it is deserved and our fullest cooperation in every effort that is aimed at making our community a better place in which to live. In return we ask only that amount of support and cooperation which is commensurate to the efforts we have put forth.

Well Received — Campaign workers heard many good words for the Muleshoe and Bailey County Journals wherever they went. Old subscribers were eager to renew —many new ones had waited for a campaign worker to call. It is becoming more and more important to the people of Muleshoe and surrounding trade territory that they get a newspaper that "covers" the important news and provides a fine balance of advertising, general news, features and pictures from week to week.

THANKS TO OUR CAMPAIGN WORKERS

The Muleshoe and Bailey County Journals are sincerely grateful for their efforts and for the fine spirit they showed throughout the campaign. They have placed The Muleshoe and Bailey County Journals in this trade area's subscriber lead among all other papers in the area. Again we say THANK YOU to all of the candidates who have worked so hard to make this campaign a success.

Without the constant and spirited work of The Muleshoe and Bailey County Journals campaign candidates these big circulation gains would have been impossible. These workers went from house to house and from farm to farm to find these hundreds of new subscribers. They visited with old and new subscribers alike, brought back hundreds of new subscribers and renewals. We also wish to thank all of our subscribers, old and new, in behalf of each candidate.

Destroys...

It has been reported that the Morton Fire Department were unable to determine the origin of the fire, due to the complete destruction of the house. The house was leveled and only remains of such items as the refrigerator was identifiable.

A remodeling job had just begun and the family had just purchased a new living room suite, washer and dryer and work had been started on a patio along with other interior and exterior improvements.

"When the idea for the monument was announced, donations were received from throughout the nation. In fact, a gift of 21 cents was sent by a mule driver from Samarkand, Uzbekistan, Russia."

The travel folder also mentions the fact that while driving through the Muleshoe area the tourist is traveling through a small portion of what was the world's largest ranch the three million-acre XIII.

Several other facts concerning the county and crops are included in the folder.

The Texas Plains Trail is one of the 10 Trails designated by the Governor's Travel Trails Committee. The trails program is designed to focus attention on the diverse regions of Texas and to lure travelers onto less-traveled routes.

The folder also contains a map of the entire area, spotting the special markers and points of interest along the route.

hundreds of greenbeans have been found in the heads. This situation seems to be found more in the compact heads that have just about completed blooming. This report comes from Cochran County agent Roy McClung, who adds that "although the population or number of bugs has increased in that county, the damage has not increased."

Talking with experts on the situation throughout the general area reveals that "honeydew" from the aphid will be a problem in harvesting.

For the most part, until this season, this little bug was feared during the wheat growing season, however this year they are back to create havoc with the grain sorghum and cause a raging debate in the minds of farmers--to spray or not to spray.

It has been reported that they are infesting fields from Clovis, N.M. all the way into the state of Illinois.

Some farmers report that they were so thick in the air that he could hardly make a water setting. One talkative farmer said he was forced to keep his mouth shut of late. The small insects have been noticed in town, also.

The creatures normally do not have wings, but develop them only when the population in a field becomes over crowded and the insects are forced to move to another field in search of food. They bear live young, with the smaller aphids being about the size of a pin head. Adults are approximately twice that large.

Pool Recounts County Life

"Bailey County and Muleshoe have been good to me," recently reminisced local insurance agent, W.M. Pool, Jr.

Pool had been asked by Muleshoe Publishing Company to recount some of his experiences for the upcoming book commemorating the 50th anniversary of the county.

This long-time Bailey County resident recalled that he made two trips to the county before buying two labors of land one mile north of present-day Needmore in November, 1924. He and his wife, the former Bertha E. Anderson, moved to Bailey County on February 5, 1925.

In August 1924, after laying by his crops, Pool and his brother-in-law, Oscar Anderson, now of Earth, came to Bailey County prospecting for land. They had heard that the big ranches were being cut up into farm tracts.

"We drove up in a Model T Ford and had brought with us our cooking utensils and bedroll. We pitched camp north of the Santa Fe depot on ground that is now the Lenua Addition, but at that time, it was a prairie dog town," he recalled.

"We needed some water so we came across the railroad to what was the White Front Garage at that time. There was a hand-dug well there with an old hand pump over it and we filled our buckets and water jug.

"While we were over in town, I went across Main Street to an adobe building where the Moellers ran a grocery store. When I went in, no one was to be seen. In a little while Mrs. Anna Moeller came from the living quarters in the back of the store to wait on me.

"Next day, we looked at land about every direction from Muleshoe," he remembered. "We met late R. L. Brown and R.E. Canfield who were in the real estate business here in Muleshoe. We then went on to Sudan and were shown land by the late E.W. Miller and his son, Francis Miller, who had their offices in Sudan. We didn't buy land at this time."

First child born to Mr. and Mrs. W.M. Pool Jr. was Betty Jo, born September 12, 1923 at Olton. She is now Mrs. Randy Johnson of Muleshoe.

On January 21, 1925, the day the late W.M. Pool Sr. and Mrs. Emma C. Pool arrived in Littlefield, Lamb County, to make their home, the second child of the W.M. Pool Jr.s, was born. She is now Norma Lee Jones of Muleshoe. The Pools next two children were boys, W.M. Pool II was born January 31, 1926 and Carroll A. was born February 5, 1936, eleven years to the day after the Pools moved to Bailey County.

Moving to Bailey County proved to be no easy chore for the Pool family as everything was moved to the county by wagon and team. In recalling that move to a new country Pool reminisced, "The weather was very cold and we walked and drove our teams most of the way to keep warm."

"For the first few years we did our banking and trading in Sudan as there was a good dirt road between our

"A few Model-T Fords were around but these weren't too dependable," said Pool, "we had lots of broken or sprained arms from cranks these old Model-Ts as they would backfire and kick you."

The Pools were instrumental in organizing a church in Longview, southwest of Muleshoe. The Pools are charter members of the church and he was ordained a deacon there.

For some years, Pool and his father operated a certified grain sorghum seed farm. He served six years on the board of directors of Plainview Production Credit, then resigned to open a branch office in Muleshoe. He also opened an insurance office at the same time.

Two years of driving back and forth from his farm to Muleshoe convinced Pool that he needed to live in Muleshoe where his two businesses were located. So, in the fall of 1942, he disposed of his farm machinery and livestock, rented his land and moved to town.

Finding that two jobs consumed more time and proved to be difficult to handle, he resigned from his job with Plainview Production Credit in

Following the program a tour was made of the rooms and parents could view the work of their child for the school term. This was followed by going to the lunch room where refreshments of home made ice cream and cookies were served.

Lyndon B. Johnson, President: "I come to San Salvador to learn...I come to ask what more we can do together."

Nelson A. Rockefeller, Governor of New York: "We must protect the consumer against the small segment of the business community which engages in unfair or fraudulent sales practices."

Ronald Reagan, Governor of California: "Little minds and timid men do not build great societies; only a great people can do that, and we are a great people."

Superintendent Marion McCannell, director said, "this is the best program the government has." He feels that the program gives children of low income levels the experience needed to compete effectively in school and therefore are better first grade students.

Grave Concern Expressed Over Sorghum

Texas Farm Bureau President Sidney Dean has expressed grave concern over depressed prices for the grain sorghum crop now being harvested in South Texas.

"The Texas Farm Bureau is going to make every possible effort to try and improve the price of grain sorghum to producers," the Texas farm leader said. "It is financially disastrous to a farmer to spend his money and time to bring a crop to harvest and then be forced to accept the prices that are now being offered," he added.

"We are contacting feedlot operators in Texas and the Far West as well as other State Farm Bureaus that have grain marketing programs in a concerted effort to move this grain to market at better prices," Dean said.

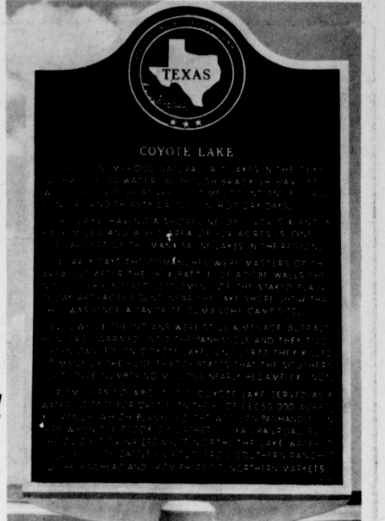

The TFB leader said the fact that buyers are apparently waiting for the prices to dip lower before buying is aggravating the price situation.

"We are hopeful that we can alleviate the glut from this stage of the harvest and bring competition into the market," he said.

The Farm Bureau president said Ken Warden, TFB marketing director, is in the process of contacting large feedlot operators, particularly in California and South Carolina Farm Bureau organizations," Dean said.

"The California Farm Bureau has market outlets in Japan and the Far East while the South Carolina Farm Bureau has been moving a lot of grain sorghum to markets in Europe. We are also contacting other State Farm Bureau marketing organizations to help us with this problem," the TFB leader said.

ANOTHER MARKER--Perhaps few people, many who are residents of Bailey County have seen this historical marker. It has been erected on the west side of Coyote Lake. Its inscription tells that it is one of numerous natural salt lakes in the Texas Panhandle. Its waters, although blackish, have been welcome enough at various times to Indians, buffalo hunters and thirsty cattle on hot, dry days. The story on the marker goes on to tell of early days and the Indians and hunters who used the lake as a watering hole.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edwards.

Vows were exchanged before a decorative background of four candelabra and two candelabras, dressed in huckleberry greenery. The choir rail also was trimmed in huckleberry. Flanking the setting were two baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums.

The bride was presented in marriage by her father. Her formal gown of white French satin was fashioned with a sheath skirt and caplet sleeves. Aleoan lace, terminating in scallops covered the sleeves and empire waist which was enhanced by a bow in front. Lace medallions also trimmed the chapel train which was attached at the shoulders. The lace of the gown was embroidered in seed pearls and crystal seed beads.

Complimenting the dress was a crown of lace and seed pearls with iridescent crystals creating a special adornment between the petals of the crown. The crown caught a shoulder-length veil of French illusion. She carried a cascade of white roses and glameillas.

intestinal bleeding. Demanding immediate medical attention are signs of an earache and indications of a head injury, particularly when accompanied by vomiting.

Some doctors say that it is not necessary for parents to call a physician when children contact routine colds. However it is necessary for a parent to contact the family doctor if the child looks different in general appearance or acts differently.

Unusual paleness, tiredness, lack of interest, unusual irritability, anxiousness, restlessness and prostration must all be noted and when there is no known cause it is best to consult your family doctor by phone.

Almost all mothers have been faced with the problem of when to call a physician for a consultation about a sick child. Most think twice about calling the family doctor at 3 a.m.

Doctors urge that a physician be called whenever a child's temperature rises rapidly and exceeds 101 degrees, no matter the hour. In addition, a headache that has persisted for more than twelve hours, an extreme loss of appetite and a cold or cough that has persisted for three days all merit a physician's attention.

A physician should be consulted when a child has unusual pain in any part of the body, sudden and unusual loss of bladder control, persistent vomiting and indications of

John Tower

This is the last of my regular reports for this congressional session. As you know, it has been my practice in past years to suspend this nonpartisan report during the convention and campaign periods of election years. That time is once again upon us.

In this last report of 1968 I'd like to talk with you about jobs.

A good deal of our nation's attention has been centered in recent months on the need to improve employment opportunities for all our citizens. For several years Congress has been trying to assist by developing programs of job-training supported at least in part by federal funds. We also have proposed the providing of tax incentives to private industries that devote resources and efforts to job-training programs. Recently a further idea has been put forward that may go a long way toward helping us meet our national goal of increased employment for our children.

Today, many of our people are enveloped in a vicious cycle of poverty. Because they do not have a good education, they cannot get a good job and they cannot afford decent housing. Because they live in slum housing, they find it difficult to establish a sound and stable home for their children.

This dependency cycle must be broken at every point—jobs, education, and housing.

In the long run, of course, quality education is the most important factor. But, even if we were to transform our educational system overnight, the result of the miracle would not be felt for years—for education, by its very nature, is a time-consuming process that proceeds and builds in logical steps. Moreover, for two-thirds of today's poor, the days of basic education have passed.

Decent housing is vital, and as the ranking minority member of the Senate's Housing Subcommittee I have sought for years to establish federal programs which would assist low-income families to acquire their own homes. Just this spring Congress has approved the first of these low-income home-ownership programs. I think it will work, and I'm hopeful it can later be expanded to provide assistance to even more low-income families.

But housing alone can never resolve the basic conditions of ignorance, joblessness and despair.

Decent housing—and furniture and clothing and food and entertainment—are the products of a good education and good jobs, not the reverse. What is needed now, I believe, and what can be provided now, is the dignity and satisfaction of working for a living and earning the money that will give a person the economic power to buy the things that make for a decent home and a good life.

What can we do to make it possible for more people to hold productive jobs?

Well, we know there are three requirements for a man to be productively employed. First, he must be qualified for the job; second, the job must be available; but third, he must know about the job. Thus far, we have concentrated on the first two conditions, which is certainly not wrong, but we have failed to place adequate emphasis upon the third.

It is in this area, I believe, that rapid progress can be made, and it is in this area that the National Job Bank proposal addresses itself.

In our country to date job opportunities and to train people, we have largely ignored the problem of communication about jobs. Today, tens of thousands of jobs are going begging, and tens of thousands of people are not aware of them.

A National Job Bank would use existing computer technology to match the qualification of job-seekers anywhere in the country with a job opening anywhere in the country.

Such computer job-matching systems have been used for years in industry to match professional workers to professional job opportunities. There seems to me to be no real reason why we should not attempt to match those seeking entry-level jobs to the jobs available.

One approach would be to establish a major computer center in this country which would be located in the depressed sections of our cities. A person could walk in off the street and give all the essential facts to a computer operator—what kind of training he has, what kind of educational background he had, in what area he wanted to work, the income he needed, how many hours he could work. This information would be fed into the computer which would have been previously stockpiled with the job opportunities in private industry and business in non-profit organizations and in government.

The computer could then provide the applicant with a report of the opportunities available in the community, the city, the state and even the nation. This would expand his knowledge of job options, to expand his freedom of choice.

I believe the time has come to put computer technology to work resolving a part of our complex job crisis.

Every child should have his chores whether the family be rich or poor, and yet it is surprising how often the unemployed allow their children to live idle, wasted lives.

Texas Cotton Production Down Past Season

AUSTIN, Texas (SpI)—Texas cotton production was down 1.1 per cent during the 1967-68 season, the Cotton Economic Research office at The University of Texas reports.

Tabulations as of Jan. 16, 1968, showed 2,636,896 running bales ginned. At the same time in 1967 there were 3,143,925.

The estimated value of lint cotton and cottonseed produced in Texas was down more than $37 million from that of the previous season, the "Summary Report" said.

"The decrease in the value of production affects the entire economy of the state," the report explains, but hardest hit were segments of the industry other than the grower, primarily the gins, oil mills, compresses and warehouses.

"The report also indicates a decrease—that unpredictable Texas weather coupled with an increase in diverted acreage. The report forecasts a brighter picture in 68-69.

"All indicators point to an increase in the planted acreage in Texas for the 1968-69 season, along with improved weather conditions, for increased production. New and improved varieties are being planted for improved cotton quality rather than for yield alone. Single copies of the report are available free of charge from Cotton Economic Research, The University of Texas, Austin, Texas 78712.

A broader NATO is urged by Rockefeller.

VETERANS Q's and A's

Q - Will the new surtax on incomes which is retroactive to last April 1 apply to the educational allowance I receive from the Veterans Administration under the G. I. Bill?

A - No. Educational allowance, compensation and pension, and even G. I. insurance dividends are exempt from taxation, including the new surtax. The only taxable VA payment is the interest earned on G. I. insurance dividends left on deposit with the VA. This is not considered a veterans benefit and must be reported as earned income.

Price Criticized Department For Federal Jobs Request

Fanhandle Congressman Bob Price, a member of the House Republican Task Force on Crime, today sharply criticized the Justice Department on its recent request for 291 new federal jobs to administer the grant programs of the recently enacted Omnibus Crime Bill. Price said that "no matter what Congress has to say about it, the Johnson Administration seems bound and determined to pour the taxpayers' money down a bureaucratic rat-hole."

"The law enforcement grant program was not intended to be an excuse for the creation of another federal bureaucracy," he said. "Under the provisions of the bill as passed by Congress, probably fifty people or less, including clerical support could handle its administration at the federal level. The Justice Department request is absurd."

The Task Force pointed out that the procedures set up by Congress called for "block grants" to state governments for operation of their law enforcement and criminal justice programs.

"In addition to guaranteeing that the States and not the federal government have control over state crime programs, block grants minimize the need for administration at the federal level. They are supposed to insure maximum expenditures for action and the very minimum for overhead," Price explained.

"The funds are distributed to the States more as a matter of right than of discretion," Price said. "Under this system there is nothing under the sun that can justify almost 300 new federal jobs, unless the Administration is going to completely disregard the will of Congress and send these people out to muddle in State law enforcement affairs anyway."

"We strongly urge that authorized federal positions to administer the crime bill be cut to the neighborhood of 50 and that the proportionate savings in administrative expenses be redesignated for action programs where they belong, and where Congress intended them to be," Price concluded.

Kerry Moore, Students In Workshop

Kerry Moore, speech and English teacher in Muleshoe High School, and several high school students are attending the Speech and Drama Workshop at the Stephen F. Austin College in Nacogdoches.

Moore is assisting Dr. Waters in directing duo-acting scenes and the debate students and speech-drama students are working through a very rigid schedule of activities from 8:40 until 5 p.m. each day. Then they do research from 6 a.m. to 8:30 each evening.

This is a two weeks workshop and is designed to instruct students in the basic fundamentals of speaking, acting and debating. Each speech participant must give a seven minute selection of either prose or poetry, a 10-15 minute duo-acting scene; participate in a 35 minute one-act play, give one five minute improvisation and one five minute audition. The debaters have to prepare a five minute affirmative and negative speech each day, and research a minimum of three hours each day prior to the five days of debating.
