

HULLS

By KERNEL GENE, aPo
March 8, 1965, Houston

Dear Kernel Gene:
After reading some of your comments about the so-called "right-to-work law", I can no longer remain silent.

The following quotation comes from the March 4 issue of the Progress, "If Texas loses its 'Right-to-Work Law' we won't need a minimum wage law. The labor unions will take care of that, which will probably be pretty rough on farmers and small businessmen."

My question is simply this: how will repeal of Texas' so-called "right-to-work law" be harmful to farmers and small businessmen?

There are a few things I would like to point out. First, there is very little organized labor in Texas, only about 20% are union members. Secondly, the existence of a union in any firm is a result of an election by the employees and supervised by the National Labor Relations Board. In such an election, a majority of the employees must vote in favor of the union for it to become their official bargaining agent.

The so-called "right-to-work laws" protect the "free rider", the man who works for a firm and is represented by a union and, while receiving union derived benefits, refuses to support his union. A recent letter to the editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer by a teacher at the university of Cincinnati gives a very good definition of "right-to-work" issue. The letter states the following, "... In the final analysis, the right-to-work issue can be restated as the right-not-to-pay-dues, and yet accept the benefits of the union. In short, to obtain something for nothing."

In closing, I would like to pose one question. If someone is against the "something-for-nothing" boys, how can he at the same time support the so-called "right-to-work-law?"

Sincerely yours,
C. C. Reeves

Dear C. C. — I am honored that you read the Progress, and grateful that you express your opinion, I hope we will be able to people have that privilege today. Regardless of our differences of opinion, I hope we will be able to retain our friendship and respect for each other.

"Free Rider" is a new expression to me. I understand that anyone not associated with unions, or who did not agree with their way of thinking was considered a "scab". However, I hold no animosity against the original principles of union organization because it is an asset to many working men. BUT, I believe the unions of today are quite different from the unions of yesterday. For instance, the Typographical Union, a few members of which I have had direct dealing, was at one time one of the most highly respected unions in the United States. Men who carried a Typographical Union Card could be depended on. Most of them still fit into the above category... but, as the saying goes, "a few bad apples can spoil a barrel full."

Now, if you are still with me, I would like to present the so-called "small businessman's side of the story. Perhaps, I should say "pee-wee" or firms who have ten or less employees, especially small town newspapers and print shops. I think our government considers small business at around 100 or more employees which would run their gross business in the upper bracket. Small town newspapers are fortunate if they have a fifteen to twenty thousand dollar gross business.

In the past, most of these small places allowed young men and women to work in their plants and learn a trade. They were permitted to work in all departments and learn the business from the front to the back until they found the type of work they liked best. No time was kept because the owner paid according to the learner's ability and what he could afford to pay, plus taking lots of time to teach him the trade. When

BISHOP POPE TO DEDICATE THE METHODIST CHURCH MARCH 28

Bishop Kenneth Pope, newly appointed Bishop of the Dallas-Fort Worth District, will participate in the dedication services of the First Methodist Church here Sunday, March 28th.

Others taking part in the services will be Dr. S. Wayne Reynolds, Superintendent of the Cisco District, and Rev. Robert Sanders, former pastor and now pastor of Ferris Height Methodist Church in Waxahachie, and Rev. B. C. Huddleston, local pastor.

The church plant construction was begun in 1957 under the able leadership of Rev. Robert Haynes, pastor, who remained through the three year building program.

The educational building and fellowship hall was built first and church services were held in fellowship hall while the old church building was removed and the new sanctuary was completed. The church membership have paid in full the entire $97,000 indebtedness and cost of the red brick construction which is located on the corner lots of 317 West Roberts Street where the First Methodist Church has been for as long as the town.

The church has kept five years ahead of the annual payments on the building, and a drive was recently made to raise enough funds to pay the church debt in full.

The Lord's Acre Program, which was started by Rev. Robert Haynes has been instrumental in raising funds for the church payments. The membership of the church is to be commended for their per capita giving which has averaged $98 for the past eight years.

A new brick parsonage, containing 2000 square feet of floor space with central heating and cooling, was built in 1963 on the lot joining the church. The parsonage was built under the leadership of Rev. Robert Sanders. Bishop Kenneth Pope will preach at the 11:00 a. m. Sunday worship services, and a covered dish luncheon will be held in Fellowship Hall at noon. Rev. Robert Sanders will preach at the 2:30 p. m. services.

All former pastors were sent invitations to attend and all former members and friends are cordially invited to attend the all-day services Sunday, March 28.

PEANUT FARMERS TO HEAR NEMATODE DISCUSSION IN GORMAN ON MARCH 26

All Gorman peanut farmers are invited to attend a meeting in the high school auditorium on Friday, March 26 to hear a discussion and see some slides on nematode control according to County Agricultural Agent J. M. Cooper, who has arranged the meeting.

Ron Townsend, entomologist for the Dow Chemical Co., whose firm manufactures several types of soil fumigants, and his assistant, will be here to head up the discussion Cooper said.

Several demonstrations in the past several years in both Eastland and adjoining counties where the soil was fumigated prior to planting peanuts, have given startling results in increases of both nuts and hay. Two demonstrations were conducted this past year, one at the D. B. Warren farm north of Gorman, and the other on the Herman Schaefer farm near Nimrod.

Results from these, as well as others in the peanut growing belts of Erath and Comanche Counties, indicate that damage to peanuts from the small, microscopic eel-like animals runs into the thousands of dollars annually.

At least three kinds of nematodes have been found working on the roots of peanuts here in Eastland County; namely, the root knot, the sting and the lesion.

The meeting has been called for 7:30 p. m. on the above date.

In addition to nematodes, the use of limestone will be discussed by a representative of a rock crushing firm.

The county agent urges all area peanut farmers to attend this important meeting.

WCS Study The Church's Concern For New Nations

The Woman's Society of Christian Service, meeting with Mrs. B. C. Huddleston Monday, engaged in a study of the Church's Concern for New Nations.

Mrs. Edward Harrison, in the discussion of political state and economic status of newly developed countries said, "in the past 18 years the political community has doubled." The economic status of the new countries lag in spite of their keen desires and foreign aid.

Th United States, she said, encourages democratic government for these people, but the people are not ready for a political state which the United States has been almost 200 years in achieving.

Where there are democracies they are limited. For example, Pakistan, who has controlled democracy, and Indonesia, with a guided democracy, and Egypt who has popular democracy.

Mrs. M. E. Shell gave a story of a Peace Corpsman whose experience shows the Corps' success in it's "I'll show you how to keep yourself" program.

The Monday, March 22 meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. G. C. Acrea.

It's Time For... EYE CARE

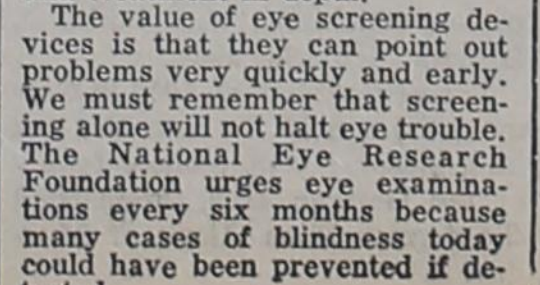

Dr. Newton K. Wesley
VISION SCREENING

We hear the expression "vision screening" many times of late. Schools have vision screening programs and industry screens the vision of its applicants and personnel. When you apply for a driver's license you have your vision tested, or screened.

Many precision instruments have been created and developed to aid industry and the schools as well as for use by your eye doctor. The tests usually cover points to determine whether the individual sees with one or two eyes, whether he is having difficulties with his eye muscles, his depth perception. First the right eye, then the left and, finally your sight is tested with both eyes open.

Tests are made at near-point to find out whether you see properly. An experienced person operating these instruments can tell a great deal about the individual being tested. He can then recommend that those who are having, or are suspected of having visual difficulties, see their optometrist or ophthalmologist for diagnosis and treatment in depth.

The value of eye screening devices is that they can point out problems very quickly and early. We must remember that screening alone will not halt eye trouble. The National Eye Research Foundation urges eye examinations every six months because many cases of blindness today could have been prevented if detected.

Historical Information Received On Pleasant Grove Cemetary

EASTLAND (Spl) — A Sweetwater citizen, native of Eastland County, has come forward in response to a call by the Eastland County Historical Survey Committee, with detailed information on the Pleasant Grove Cemetary.

Rev. Robert Butler, a retired Methodist minister, made the trip to Eastland to give the information to Mike Collins, committee chairman, who had ask that persons, knowing of old county cemeteries, contact him to help in the committee's project of marking and preserving the history of these plots which are fast disappearing because of road route changes and neglect.

Rev. Butler said the cemetary was established in 1910 with B. M. McKleskey giving a deed for five acres of land to the trustees of Pleasant Grove Methodist Church.

He recalled the legal struggles during the oil boom days when church factions split over whether or not to make oil leases inside the 5 acre plot. The case was carried to the Texas Supreme Court and finally decided in favor of the "no-lease" group. A well drilled just outside the fence, with the rig touching the fence wire, is still producing after some 40 years and is now the property of L. R. Pearson of Ranger.

One Number For A Lifetime Says Social Security Rep.

The social security account number shown on the card you obtained from the social security office is the one that you will keep throughout your working lifetime. To this account will be credited your earnings regardless of where you work or live, according to H. L. Weatherly, field representative, who visit Gorman regularly.

"The earnings credited to your account will be the basis of determining the amount of benefits you and your dependents or survivors will receive when you become disabled, retire, or die.

"To assure yourself that all creditable earnings have been reported, and that your benefits will be the highest possible, you should check your social security account from time to time," he added.

Ask at your social security district office for Form OAR-7004 "Request for Statement of Earnings," or write directly to the Social Security Administration, P. O. Box 57, Baltimore, Maryland. Print your name, social security account number, and date of birth.

Be sure to sign your request for earnings statement. Or, meet Mr. Weatherly at Gorman on April 5 at 10 a. m. at the city office.

Jim Womack Gives Program For Young Homemakers Meeting

The Young Homemakers have been asked to model at a style show for the Shakespeare Club at Smith's Store on March 31.

Omar Bureson, M. C.
17th. District, Texas

WASHINGTON, D. C. — AN OLD INDIAN PRAYER: "O Great Spirit, Maker of men, forbid that I judge any man until I have walked for two moons in his moccasins."

MANY YEARS AGO AMONG SOME OF OUR INDIAN TRIBES it was the custom to appoint judges who would travel from one Indian village to another trying cases, similar to our own District Judges nowadays.

EACH MAN THUS CHOSEN WAS REQUIRED to go into the forest by himself to beg the Great Spirit for guidance, and the words above were his prayer. In his way, he was asking for enlightenment. He was asking for a mind cleansed of littleness that might becloud judgement; a mind from which all passion and prejudice had been washed away. He wanted to put himself in the other man's shoes; to understand what made a man do what he did — to listen with his heart before he judged him guilty or innocent.

IN THESE TIMES OF TENSIONS, when the very air we breathe is septic with fear and suspicion, we might well follow our Indian judge's example — before we judge the other fellow too harshly. If we did, we would not be so quick to condemn what we imperfectly understand — or do not understand at all. We should remember that hearsay is punitive and capricious. We should never forget that the light of every soul burns upward, and make allowance for atmospheric disturbances.

TODAY THERE IS TURMOIL, DISTURBANCE AND DISRESPECT FOR LAW in many parts of our Country. President Johnson has expressed deep concern by reason of the increase in crime, and proposes a Commission to examine problems of law enforcement and justice over a two-year period.

THAT THERE HAS BEEN A DECLINE IN RESPECT FOR LAW is obvious. Laws are now being flaunted by many of those for whom the Law was designed to protect. The erosion of respect for law enforcement is one of the consequences of the Civil Rights struggle. It is the business of the Federal Government to enforce the Laws on its Statute Books, and not for the individual or any group to decide courses of action under pretense of gaining personal freedoms. When this happens it becomes anarchy and not law. Such seemingly has been the case in a great many places. Rebellious students at the University of California at Berkley, riots in Harlem and Brooklyn, New York, and the situation in Selma, Alabama, are examples.

IN CONNECTION WITH CRIME ITSELF, one of the complexities is the decline in the common regard for law enforcement. One source of this decline is the emphasis during the last decade on individual rights. The problems of men pursuing criminals have frequently been less respected by the Courts and the intelligentsia than the rights of the criminals. The demand for what these elements call "rights" could lead to a restriction of freedoms, the very thing they loudest deit last year, are "cutting and slashing at the race's self-respect, some thing they can never reuild with their knives, their baseball bats, mand. These restrictions could come about by the establishment of a centralized Federal police force, which is not a part of our system, but an essential part of any dictatorship.

RESPONSIBLE LEADERS IN CIVIL RIGHTS, SUCH as Roy Wilkins of the NAACP, believe that those who demand greater protection of their civil rights have as much at stake as any citizen in encouraging a revival of regard for law and order. Their own lawless elements, as Roy Wilkins put brass knucks and their filthy language."

THE LONG-TERM INTEREST OF THOSE who are making demands under the banner of Civil Rights and those genuinely concerned by the increase in crime, would best be served by joining the President and the Nation in a positive move to reassert the regard for law.

The term "delayed cure" may sound like a health fad, but it actually refers to a new textile process which represents happy news for the family wardrobe.

Wash-wears finished by this technique have an exceptional ability to retain their shape during wear and after laundering.

Durable creases and pleats can be set in to last the life of the garment, even after repeated washing.

Slacks, trousers and work pants were the first cotton garments to be made by this new process. Sport shirts, blouses, and dresses are expected on the market this spring, and all-cotton suits are now being developed for men. At present, most of the fabrics used are a blend of cotton with either nylon or polyester fiber.

The finish requires two steps. First, the fabric is treated with thermosetting resin and goes to the manufacturer to be made into garments - including sharp creases or pleats, if desired.

Then the finished garments are placed in a high-temperature oven to "cure" the finish by heat. This permanently "sets" the shape of the entire garment. It also reduces the problem of subsequent seam pucker and eliminates the need for touch-up ironing.

Certain wools are also being treated by a chemical process with a delayed setting similar to that used for cottons and cotton blends. Creases or pleats are made in finished woolen garments, and the setting takes place in a subsequent step - again assuring the durable sharpness so important to a pleated fashion.

YOUR BETTER WAY TO COOK BECAUSE IT'S FLAMELESS

Only electricity cooks meats without flame in their own savory juices

For a new taste sensation, try a rolled roast, ham or chicken cooked in an electric rotisserie. The meat bastes itself as it revolves on a slowly turning spit under radiant, flameless electric heat. The result is mouth-watering juiciness and flavor that will have your family coming back for "seconds." You can bake and broil foods, too, in your electric rotisserie. And because it's flameless electric, you can plug it in anywhere, cook wherever you choose - in the kitchen or family room, on the porch or patio. Delaware Basin Pipeline Project Announced By Pioneer

Amarillo, Texas, March 17 — Plans for the construction of a large diameter natural gas pipeline from the Delaware Basin area of West Texas to Odessa were announced today by Pioneer Natural Gas Company and Odessa Natural Gasoline Company. The intrastate pipeline will be jointly owned by the two companies. Present plans call for the termination of the pipeline near Odessa where it will connect with the pipeline systems of each company and implement the supply of gas to their customers in Texas. Representatives of the companies stated that excess capacity would be provided in the pipeline for future expansion. Initial construction will cost approximately 5 million dollars.

Pioneer Natural Gas Company transports and distributes gas for residential, commercial, industrial and other uses in an area of West Texas covering 40,000 square miles and including 78 cities and towns. Gas sales by the Company in 1964 amounted to 145 billion cubic feet. Annual gas supply requirements of Pioneer have increased by 90 billion cubic feet in the past 10 years and comparable increases in the future are expected.

Odessa Natural Gasoline Company operates a gas transmission system which delivers gas to a petrochemical complex near Odessa. Plants in the petrochemical complex are owned by El Paso Natural Gas Products Company, Rexall Chemical Company, Shell Oil Company, American Cyrogenics, Inc., General Tire and Rubber Company and Big Three Industrial Gas & Equipment Company. Odessa Natural will also serve additional plants which are under construction by El Paso

County Given $3100 Worm Project Quota

Eastland County has been assigned a quota of $3,100 in the state-wide drive to raise $300,000 to carry on the screwworm eradication campaign until July 1, according to Chairman Oscar Schaefer.

Plans for raising the money were worked out at a meeting of cattlemen and civic leaders last Saturday, Mr. Schaefer said. The county's five banks have agreed to accept donations from the general public, he added. Agriculture teachers of the various county schools will be in charge of the drive according to Schaefer.

Schaefer plans to attend a meeting of the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation in Austin on Friday, March 26, to hear full details of the program. It was understood that the federal government will take over the program after July 1, leaving the financing for the months until that time up to the state and to the various counties.

"This is an important matter to our region where cattle raising is a big industry," Schaefer said. "The general public can have a part in this program by leaving a check at their local bank."

County Historical Survey Committee To Meet March 29, Cisco

The Eastland County Historical Survey Committee will hold the March meeting on the 29th. at 5 p. m. in the Community Room of the First National Bank in Cisco, according to the Committee Chairman, Mike Collins of Eastland. Mrs. Alex Spears is the Cisco Director of the committee.

Collins also stated that the County Historical Committee would participate in ceremonies in Desdemona in the near future at the placing of the State Marker on the site of old Fort Blair. The date and time will be announced when plans are complete for the State Highway Engineers to erect the granite monument. Mrs. Howard Williams is the Desdemona Director for the County Committee.

Fort Blair was established in 1857 and during the Civil War years, 1861-1865, several Eastland County families moved inside the fort walls seeking protection against Indians. Among the families seeking protection of the fort were the William Arthurs, C. C. Blairs, J. M. Ellison, Jasper, Jim and Tom Gilberts, W. H. Manskers, W. C. McGoughs and others. Many of the descendants of these families are still citizens of Eastland County. Ammunition and supplies could be bought only by making long, dangerous trips to the Brazos Settlements or to the Couth. Candies, soap, soda, food, clothing were made in the fort by use of fat renderings, beeswax, wood ashes, wild herbs, bark, roots berries, and animal skins. The families had to promote education for their children.

Collins stated that the current project of the Committee, Cemetery History, is gaining interest daily and he believes the results will be something of which every citizen in the county will be proud.
