GORMAN AND BAIRD MEET

By Carolyn Weldon BYNUM PITCHES NO-HITTER

The Regional Semifinal game on Tuesday evening against Loraine was a defensive piece of art. Tom Bynum pitched a no hitter with the help of a great team.

Jeremy Carroll's stand-up triple with bases loaded, sent the team well on their way to their 12th 10 run rule game of the season.

Coach Pettit said, "Now we will get ready for Baird. I hope we have another great game, because if we do, we will be at Austin."

Abilene Christian University will feel like home when the Baird Bears show up Friday at 3 p. m. to play the Panthers for the Region IA title. This will be a game you don't want to miss. Hope to see you there!

There wasn't much of a howl out of the Tornillo Coyotes after the Panthers arrived in Midland on Saturday. A smashing 24 to 1 win gave the Panthers their 17th win of the season and the second win in the playoffs.

Nic Guthery chalked up another victory on the mound and had an even better day in the batters box. He pitched the first two innings, with the Coyotes making one run. Josh Weldon pitched the next two innings with Jerry Krause closing out in the

The weather was very hot and so was the Panthers batters box. With 13 Panthers in play, they all reached base and scored. Nic went 3 for 4 with 1 RBI, getting a triple, a double, and a single. Catcher Don Mauney went 1 for 1 with 2 RBI's and Jeremy Carroll picked himself up a double going 2 for 3 with 2 RBI's. Jerry Krause was 3 for 5 with 2 RBI's and Ronald Majors picked up a double.

"This was a nice surprise. I didn't expect it to turn out as lopsided as it did. But we will take it," said Coach Pettit.

Texas EMU Ranchers To Gather at Southfork

Emu ranching is an exciting new industry nation wide. On June 3rd. and 4th Texas Emu ranchers will gather at Southfork Ranch in Plano, the home fo television's fictional Ewing family, for their third annual convention.

The ranchers -- and others interested in raising emus -- will spend the weekend generating more interest in emu ranching and discussing how to create increased consumer awareness of the products derived from the large flightless birds. Speakers will include state and national industry leaders as well as Dr. Max Coats, the Texas State Epidemiologist.

"One of the biggest attractions of the industry is the ability to raise emus on relatively small acreage," says Bettye Odle, prsident of the 'Texas Emu Association. "Emus have allowed a lot of dormant Texas farms to again become productive."

The potential of the emu industry seems wide open to current ranchers such as Jerry Wilson. "We already have strong national and statewide associations, marketing cooperatives as well as several private corporations, dedicating significant time, money, and talent to education, promotion and product development and research," Wilson says. "A cohesive industry provides the maximum application of resources to our common goals."

Exhibits will open at noon June 3rd and a reception will begin at 6 p. m. The event will conclude on Saturday evening with dinner and the Emu Oil Baron's Ball. Texas State Representative Layton Black, chairman of the House Administrative Committee, will be the featyred speaker. For more information and registration -- call the Texas Emu Association at 2141528-4614.
