TROUBLE WITH THE LEAF WORM

Farmers of Eastland county are having trouble with the leaf worm, or army worm, as it is called, according to R. H. Bush, county agent for Eastland county. Ordinarily the leaf worm is harmless to the cotton crop, but this year the worms invaded Eastland county earlier than usual and are doing much damage to the immature cotton. Territory around Ranger is not affected by the sudden plague of leaf worm, but Carbon, Kising Star, Gorman and Nimrod farmers are having trouble getting rid of the pests.

Mr. Bush has been assisting the M. college, the entries of the Driskill Leghorn farm of Ranger are maintaining their previous high record and making new ones.

In the highest individual contest for the month, won by a white leghorn with a 29-egg mark, hen No. 266 of the Driskill Leghorn farm tied with eight others for third place with a 28-egg mark, yet in the total average for the contest thus far this hen stands fifth among the Driskill entries, the record of each of the six entries to date being: 181 eggs, 178 eggs, 169 eggs, 161 eggs, 150 eggs, and 135 eggs.

The Driskill Leghorn farm is also shown to be one of the eight entries

A pole long enough to reach over two rows is secured and a bag is tacked to each end of the pole. The sides of the bag are tacked the full length and a hole is bored at the top of the pole so that the poison may be inserted through a funnel. The arsenate is used in powder form and the dry dust, like powder, is then dropped on the cotton from the pole being shaken out through the sacks.

GERTRUDE EDERLE FAILS TO SWIM ENGLISH CHANNEL

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, Aug 18. Gertrude Ederle collapsed and abandoned her attempt to swim the English channel at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Beaten by unforeseen weaconditions that arose after she had reached a distance of about seven miles of Dover. The collapse of Miss Ederle, who was regarded to have the best chance of any woman Charles Tot, American, who tried and succeeded in 1923, came as a blow to her admirers.

In all, only five men have succeeded in swimming the channel. Next Tuesday will be celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the first success ful attempt, that of Captain Webb Aug. 24, 1875.

The report of the department of commerce that rubber can be successfully grown in large quantities on most of the rich soil of the Southern group of the Philippine Islands merely re-emphasizes a fact long known. The rubber tree has been cultivated there during the last two decades with increasing success. Climate, soil and labor conditions are suitable. Two factors, however, have checked the investment of large sums of money in the industry.

THE STORY SO FAR:

Gloria Gordon, beautiful flapper, marries Dick Gregory, a struggling young lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes, but no work or children.

Dick borrows his mother's maid, Maggie, to teach her to cook. But she refuses to learn. Later Maggie leaves, disgusted with Gloria's "wild" parties and jazzy friends. Then Gloria hires Ranghild Swanson, although Dick tells her they can't afford a maid. And she swamps Dick

"So that's it! You're tired of me!" "So seems a little better. Wouldn't you like to stop in a minute to see him? He's awake," said Mrs. O'Hara in her sweet voice, that was so like Miss Briggs' lovely accents.

"I think I will," the girl answered. She went upstairs and took off her wraps. With unfailing coquetry, she powdered her nose and fluffed up her hair before she went across the hall to see Dick.

The Gloria Gordon, beautiful flapper, me!" she declared. "You want to kid me into thinking I'm crazy about to see him? He's awake," said Mrs. O'Hara in her sweet voice, that was so like Miss Briggs' lovely accents.

"I'm homesick to see you," Stan said frankly. "And I have a fine bit of news for you, too. If I promise to hide all the pictures of my old sweethearts, will you come over to ee me this afternoon?'

Gloria hesitated.
"Come on—be a sport and say es,'" Stan urged.
"All right, I will," Gloria answer

He greeted her jauntily. He tried o put his arms around her, as he elped her off with her coat.

But she slipped out of them "What's your wonderful news? Gloria asked! She took refuge in dignity that was new to her.

"Nothing except that I think I've landed a job in New York," he said carlessly, dropping into a chair opposite her.

Gloria felt as if he had dropped a bomb-shell at her feet.

"Well, of all things!" she cried.

"In New York!"

"Oh, I can't bear it. I can't bear it!" she cried, suddenly burstin into tears. She put her head down on the arm of her chair and sobbed. Her heart seemed to be Stan came over to her, and lifted her head. He looked into her tear-stained face.

"I haven't gone yet," he said. "There's many a slip 'twixt the man and his job, you know! But you do love me a'little, don't you, Russet?"

He looked down at her intently. "Do you know you're an awfully sweet little kid?" he murmured into her hair.

Gloria couldn't speak. There was nothing in the world for her at that moment but the sound of Stan's voice, the blue of his eyes that looked down into hers, and his arms that held her. These, and the aching thought that soon he would be gone away from her
