

SEA-GOING LIQUOR MAKES IT WARM FOR G. O. P. AT NATION'S CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The past week has brought a series of unexpected developments to add to the discomfort of Republican members of congress, who already are weighted down by the oppressive heat of the capital and the legislative difficulties incident to the passage of the tariff, bonus and ship subsidy measures.

These developments have not added to Republican prospects for next fall, making the forced summer stay in Washington more irksome than ever to majority members, who are at a disadvantage because of their inability to go home to build political fences for the November election.

Things have been breaking so badly for the Republicans recently that they jump nervously at the sound of their voices, blending together in one loud course against the cruel fates that have thrown so many obstacles in the way of another easy victory at the polls.

Hopes Soon Are Dashed.

Hypodermic injection of hope are a regular part of their treatment these troublesome days, but when they recovered from one nervous attack there comes another discouraging report from a state-wide primary election, or trouble breaks out unexpectedly in a new quarter.

Newest in the list of administration troubles in John J. Barleycorn, over whom obsequies were spoken and requiems sung three years ago.

It now appears that he walked out of the mausoleum erected to his memory by Andrew J. Volstead and went swimming in the deep, and that A. D. Lasker, chairman of the United States shipping board, saw him splashing and forthwith hired him to be a bartender for the American merchant marine.

How long he will last in his new capacity cannot be prophesied from the maze of conflicting opinions that emanate from various branches of the government's legal department, probably not long, now that both the wets and the drys are camping on his trail.

Adolphus Busch, former St. Louis Brewer, was the first to penetrate his disguise of a steward on an American liner, but a similar observation soon was made by Wayne B. Wheeler, the chief lookout for the Anti-Saloon league.

Busch and Wheeler Team It.

Liquor hasn't much chance to thrive with those two pulling together, which is what they are doing—for the first time—in this instance.

Chairman Lasker professes to see nothing anomalous in the fact that, on a vessel traveling between the United States and a distant port, liquor is being sold under the protection of the American flag. Besides, he says, it is necessary to sell liquor on American ships so long as the ships of competing nations dispense intoxicants on board, if the American Merchant marine is to survive. He has the backing of expert legal opinion on the subject, and for the present the question still is open.

Nevertheless it is common belief here that the profits from "American moonshine" and Pilsner beer, sold on American vessels, soon will be cut off. The team of Wheeler and Busch will attend to that, aided by the prohibitionists in congress, who have demanded the drying up of American ships as the price of their votes for the administration ship subsidy bill.

No sooner had the first howl subsided than a Democrat, appeared with an amendment to the ship subsidy bill which would withhold government aid from any vessel that sold intoxicating liquor on board.

Committee Kills Amendment.

This amendment was voted down by the Republican majority on the house committee, and the bill was reported to the house without amendment.

Such an amendment, however, is virtually certain to be offered from the floor unless steps are taken by a government agency to remove liquor from American ships on the high seas.

Minor consideration, such as commercial treaties between nations, the principles of international law, or the general effect such a drastic course might have in American relations with foreign powers, is not expected to figure in the calculations of the dry enthusiast.

Aside from the wet and dry issue involved, Republican members of congress regret the whole affair because of the political effect it may have. Both the wets and the drys are aroused over the situations, and for once they are together.

Hardly had the Republican members recovered from this shock, when the press dispatches carried extracts from a speech made at Cleveland by John W. Weeks, secretary of war, inveighing against the direct primary election, and holding it to be the cause of the "low depths" to which congress "has fallen in public esteem."

View of Weeks Resented.

A number of them refused to take him at his word, that he was speaking on his own responsibility, but accepted it as a reiteration of an administration view. Aside from the unfavorable editorial comment that followed, the speech led to bitter attacks in congress, largely from Republicans.

Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, Republican, denounced it as being an attempt to return to a monarchical form of government, while Congressman John G. Cooper, of Ohio, has prepared a scathing reply to be made in Youngstown next week. The Ohio delegation took special umbrage at the speech because it was made in Ohio, and construed it as a reflection upon the ability of the Ohio members, all but two of whom are candidates for re-election.

The excitement from the Weeks speech had not subsided when there appeared in the newspapers a copy of a petition, signed by 150 Republican members of congress, calling upon President Harding to uphold the policies of Elmer Dover, assistant secretary of the treasury, who is trying to oust Democratic holdovers from the internal revenue bureau.

Secretary Andrew W. Mellon, who has backed David H. Blair, commissioner of internal revenue, in every skirmish with Mr. Dover over treasury patronage, immediately served notice to congress and Republican politicians generally that there would be no political raid on the department so long as he was at the head of it.

Cabinet Upheaval Possible.

There is little political danger so long as the situation remains unaltered (but if the constant pounding on the part of Mr. Dover's friends leads to a cabinet upheaval, another serious burden will be added to the congressional candidates seeking re-election this year.

These are three of the major developments of the week that have brought grief to the Republicans on Capitol Hill, already overlaid with legislative responsibilities that they are unable to shake off during the torrid months.

Weeks of dreary debate have failed to produce substantial headway on the tariff bill, and fear now is heard that it will be disposed of too late to be of any political advantage in the 1922 elections. Senate leaders are harassed by captious comment from the Republican press and occasional criticism from their own side of the chamber.

This week the tariff reached the vaudeville stage, with Senator Porter J. McCumber's demonstration of a "cuckoo clock" made in Germany, and other exhibits of foreign-made articles which, he says, are being dumped into the country to be sold at exorbitant profits. The tariff itself is not so funny—the laughs have arisen from the arguments and moves that have been employed to push it across.

Bonus Means Real Fight.

Between times, the real battle is being staged on the senate majority side of the bonus measure. Congress does not seem to be able or willing to believe that President Harding was in earnest when he said it had to be financed by a sales tax or be postponed indefinitely.

Much as he loves his tariff bill, Senator McCumber is making the fight of his life to sidetrack the tariff temporarily for the bonus bill. He has locked horns with the President and with Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, the majority leader, who is attempting to carry out the President's wishes for enactment of the tariff and ship subsidy bills before anything else is considered.

Tomorrow probably will bring the majority leadership to the test. The outcome of the caucus called by Senator Lodge will have a determining effect on the legislative program of the senate for the remainder of the session. Someone is going to be disappointed, and it will not be the Democrats, who will have plenty of talking points either way.

Another source of constant worry to the Republicans in the ship subsidy measure, which, the President insists, must be acted upon at his session, lest there be an extraordinary session called solely for its consideration. President Harding has told congress that the only way the American merchant marine can be saved is through a subsidy.

Liquor Issue May Count.

He has put it squarely up to congress, and though there is great gnashing of teeth, it is said to be likely that administration influence will prevail, unless the sudden injection of the liquor issue breaks the lines that have been formed so carefully.

Out in the Middle West, Republican candidates are being nominated on the anti-ship subsidy issue. Representatives now in congress from that section are torn between party loyalty and a desire to appease their constituents. They have not abandoned hope that the issue can be postponed until after the November election, but there is no relenting at the White House.

Not the least of the worries besetting the Republican majority in both branches of congress is the progressive trend in politics, which has sent Old Guard candidates crashing down to defeat in Indiana, Pennsylvania and Iowa, and threatens to upset party traditions in other states.

North Dakota, Minnesota, Massachusetts, Ohio and other states still remain yet to be heard from. Minnesota will vote tomorrow, and although Senator Frank B. Kellogg virtually is certain of renomination, there are reports that he is to face the same sort of opposition in November which triumphed over reactionary forces in Iowa.

Under the circumstances no great surprise should follow any character of legislation emanating from Washington these hectic days, when there are so many extraneous subjects to take the minds of the legislators from the main business at hand.

There are nearly 200 alphabets known to educators, of which fifty are now in use.

WOMAN BESTS MEN AND WINS FIRST PRIZE IN BASEBALL RULES CONTEST

Miss Mary Massa, box 1167, Ranger, has proved herself a discerning baseball fan by furnishing the largest number of correct answers in the Times baseball contest published Wednesday, and outdistancing a large number of others seeking to qualify as baseball authorities, in quest of the prizes offered. Miss Massa was awarded first prize of $5.

The second prize of $4 was won by Harry Heath, of 1108 Haig street, city, and the third prize of $3 by James Alson, box 752, Ranger.

The questions were in the form of drawings of ball players in action, in the ads of ten merchants and business men of the city, in which from a baseball standpoint there was something technically wrong with each figure or play illustrated.

The correct answers follow:

Baum's Booterie—Pitchers never wear chest protectors.

Gilbreath Grocery—Shortstops never wear shin guards.

People's State Bank—Base runners never allowed to catch the ball.

Cornell's Variety Store—Batters never wear masks.

The Globe—Umpire giving the wrong signal for strike.

W. N. McDonald Plumbing and Heating—Second baseman out of position; right fielder using glove instead of finger mit.

Stafford Drug Company—Batter carrying bat around bases.

Postoffice Garage—Batter standing on home plate.

Texas Drug Company—Base runner should not advance on fly ball until caught and should not advance on base occupied by another.

Sanitary Bakery—Base runner headed in wrong direction.

Crawford's Pharmacy—Umpire giving wrong signal for out at base.

That's what the negro population here says of Ed Luck, negro workman, who was overcome with heat yesterday and toppled from a three-story building to land in a sand pile below. Luck picked himself up after the fall and was able to report at the office late yesterday for the cash for his day's work.

HOME RULE FOR SCOTLAND NEXT BRITISH ISSUE

LONDON, June 24.—Some Scotchmen in the house of commons want home rule for Scotland and intimate that there may be "trouble" in Scotland soon if Scotland doesn't get it. They got an opportunity to say what they thought about it the other day when the "Government of Scotland bill" was unexpectedly introduced. So also did some of its opponents who were very strongly of the opinion that it was not wanted.

Alexander Shaw, a Scots member, protested that there was no desire for anything like separation in Scotland. Under the bill the Scottish representation in the Imperial parliament would remain unchanged, but one legislative body would be set up in Scotland to deal with its local affairs.

Land Question An Issue.

Sir Donald McLean, the staunch anti-coalition Scots Liberal, gave the bill his blessing. He alluded to the land hunger in Scotland and told how it had led to the seizure of land there since the war. If they had had a Scotch legislature the land question, he declared, would have been settled long ago. At the next election every candidate for a Scottish constituency would have to support the principle of home rule for Scotland. It would give England a better chance to attend to her own legislative business properly.

Dr. Murray, a representative of the Western Isles, darkly suggested that the house should pass the bill while Scotland was yet calm, and not wait to be coerced into doing so by the burning of sundry ancient castles of Scotland. The bill was finally "talked out" while there were still a lot of members anxious to air their views about it. The hope was expressed that an opportunity might soon be afforded for really testing the feeling of the house concerning the matter.

FARM LAND SURVEY TO STOP LAND FRAUDS

LANSING, Mich., June 24.—If the state department of agriculture is successful in securing the passage of hoped for legislation, Michigan will be the first state in the union to classify and certify its farm lands to protect purchasers against fraudulent sales of worthless lands.

A "land settlement" bill, which has received the endorsement of the state department, is to be presented to the next session of the Michigan legislature. Its principal provision will be that every tract of farm land which is undeveloped or on the market, will be classified by the state department and certified as to its proper classification. In effect it will mean, if enacted, that land in Michigan will be graded and certified as seed potatoes are now graded and certified. Dealers in farm lands will be required to furnish prospective purchasers of Michigan lands a certification from the state department, which will describe the land, designate its quality and tell the prospective owner what rotation of crops it can best produce and what treatment will make it more profitable.

BANDITS' VICTIM GETS PRISON TERM

NEW YORK, June 24.—Robert P. Walker, 22 years old, identified Arthur Guilfoyle, subway conductor, last month as the man who had held him up in Brooklyn.

When he learned that "Guilfoyle had a family and several kids" he said the conductor wasn't the bandit. Today he was sentenced to Sing Sing for six months for perjury.

THE VAMP SQUAD!

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, June 24.—Deputy sheriffs patrolling highways leading into this city have become known so well by speeders that the latter drive slowly so long as the officers are in sight, but cut loose as soon as they know they are safe.

To catch the speeders, Deputies William Campbell and William Yost, dressed as "flappers," and started to ride about on a motorcycle.

The net result of their efforts was brought to light today when fourteen motorists were called into Justice Arthur Gorman's court and assessed $14.75 each. The motorists, who thought they were flirting with "flappers," soon learned that there were flirting with the law.

Deputy Campbell says that his henna wig set off his features so well that he made a dozen "dates."

AUTO DRIVERS MORE RECKLESS, FIGURES SHOW

BALTIMORE, June 24.—Are drivers of motor vehicles becoming more negligent, less regardful of their own safety?

It would seem so from actual observation made by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. For more than two years this railroad has been placing men at crossings where there are usually a large number of automobiles passing. These observers make note of the number of machines crossing and take down the license number of those whose drivers fail to take any precaution to assure themselves that it is safe to pass over the tracks. This safety precaution consists of the driver's slowing down or stopping, and then looking and listening. When a driver dashes over without taking any of these precautions, his license number is noted and a card telling him of his negligence is sent him, with request to guard his life and property the next time he goes over a railroad track.

In the year, 1920, the Baltimore & Ohio observers took note of 398,000 vehicles in the States through which it operates. In that year, according to the records of these observers, there were 25,690 drivers who failed to take any precautions at highway crossings. This was 6 per cent of the total observations made.

In April of this year there were 16,477 automobiles checked by the railroad's observers. There were 2,972 of the drivers of these reported as failing to stop, look or listen before passing over the tracks. This was a safety "failure" of 18 per cent.

For the first four months of this year there were 58,833 machines observed and the "failures" reached 17 per cent.

The increase in the number of drivers failing to take safety precautions seems clearly to indicate, in the opinion of the road's safety department, that the automobile driver is becoming more negligent.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 24.—Herbert P. Vernier, assistant production manager of the Brown Lipe Gear company of this city, was sentenced to serve five months in the Onondaga county penitentiary after he had pleaded guilty with his wife to a charge that they kept their 5-year-old son, Kenneth, imprisoned for five months in an old dry goods box in the coal cellar of their home.

The boy, half starved, indescribably filthy with cellar dirt, and wearing only a thin cotton shirt, was rescued from his prison by the children's society two months ago. At the same time County Judge William L. Barnum sentenced Mrs. Vernier to serve ten days at hard labor in the same institution.

Vernier's attorney asked the court to consider that the Verniers have brought up a large family and that all their other eleven children are well cared for and have a good home.

"Vernier," Judge Barnum said in passing sentence, "you are not here in court because you brought up eleven other children well. You keep your young son locked up down in the cellar without proper food and clothing and care for a period of about five months. You must serve the same period at hard labor at the Jamesville penitentiary."

HUNDREDS GUARDING LEVEE AT MERCEDES

BROWNSVILLE, June 24.—A hurry call from Mercedes for men to guard the levees in that district tonight was received here late today. About 100 men left for that place soon after the call was received and others will be sent as soon as they can be recruited. Other towns, reports said, are also sending large numbers of men to that district to guard the levees. Latest reports from Willacy county indicate that a considerable acreage of farm lands in the western part of that county is being overflowed from waters traveling north of the Mercedes-Harlingen district.

MAIN STREET SHOWN UP.

"I saw the pictures of the new station in yesterday's paper," says one of the constant perusers. "It is a splendid building, and a credit to Ranger. But don't you think it rather shows up the rest of the town? A visitor can't stay there all day and admire, and after a while, he's going to ramble up Main street. I honestly believe Main street would look better without that depot than it does with it. For the depot is spic and span while Main street is somewhat the worse for the ravages of time."

"There are those tumble down awnings at certain places that have an atmosphere of happy-go-lucky squalor rather than up-and-coming progressiveness. And worse than that, there are signs scattered about, relics of the defunct enterprises of former days. What business have they staying up, anyway? Why don't you have them taken down?"

The Times, of course, is gratified at this repetition of the belief that the power of the printed word can accomplish all things that should be accomplished. But such is not the case. Newspapers can suggest only. And only action can accomplish improvements. Surely no one expects the Times force to go out personally and remove other person's signs and awnings.

So far as suggestion goes, those very things have been suggested by the Times; not once, but on divers occasions. The suggestion was indorsed by numerous citizens, but they, like the Times, had no power and no leisure to personally see that these things were accomplished. That is a matter that requires a common policy and that policy can only come through organization.

The suggestion is hereby repeated that a clean-up of what is virtually the rubbish of bygone days would improve the looks of Ranger. Now if the members of civic bodies who think the same way will exert some pressure, it is possible that there would be something doing besides talk.

STRIKE MASSACRES.

No sympathy is expressed for the victims of the mine massacre at Heroin, Ill., a news dispatch says in substance. It is felt that the workers are responsible for their own demise by taking the jobs, and the blame is to be attached to the operating companies for sending them there.

Here again is proof that a number of kinds of people make up the world. The judicious observer might possibly stand off and say, "Yes, the men shouldn't have been sent there." He may admit that they should have known better than to take the jobs in the face of an aroused community. But the fact remains that the strikers who yielded to blood lust and slew these men while they were helpless prisoners are guilty of a dastardly outrage and should be punished with the full severity of the law. Their passions may have been out of hand, but in these alleged civilized times, there is supposed to be some restraint on passions.

SLEEPING MAN STRANGLES ON FALSE TEETH

CHICAGO, June 24.—The body of a man believed to have been James E. Straud, of 506 West One Hundred and Forty-seventh street, New York, found behind a West Side residence here, presented an unusual mystery to police, for, after a preliminary investigation, they were unable to determine whether the man had been murdered or accidentally had been strangled by his false teeth while asleep.

The neck was discolored, indicating strangulation, and a stained hatchet handle near-by led at first to a theory of murder. Further examination showed that a set of false teeth had lodged in the man's throat, leading police to believe that he may have fallen asleep and strangled when the teeth fell back.

HOOVER URGES PLACING OF BAN ON AIR STUNTS

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Declaring that not a single life was lost in straight commercial flying last year, the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, in a report to Secretary of Commerce Hoover, made public Monday, urged limitation and control of stunt flying.

- Besides federal regulation such as that proposed in the Wadsworth-Hick bill to create a bureau of commercial aviation in the department of commerce, the chamber sets forth these prime requisites to safe flying: 1—A machine aero dynamically and structurally sound. 2—An engine of sufficient power and which operates satisfactorily. 3—A competent conservative pilot and navigator. 4—Air ports and emergency landing fields sufficiently close together to insure gliding to safety. 5—Nation-wide weather forecasts specialized and adapted to the needs of fliers.

FARMERS HIRING FEW HANDS IN HARVEST FIELD

CHICAGO, June 24.—"Put the whole family to work." This according to B. W. Snow, noted crop expert of Chicago, is the watchword on the farms of America today.

College men who annually invade the harvest fields in great droves from now until July 15, will run into a stiff jolt this year, according to Snow, who has just returned from a swing around the grain belt. The collegians, and, for that matter, the migratory worker—the "ho," so to speak will find it harder to pick up a "stake" as they will find the farm head on the job, assisted by his boys and in some cases by "the wife."

After Cheaper Production. "Cheaper production—that's what the farmer is after, this year," said Snow. "He's got to have it. Wheat has dropped 20 cents a bushel and the farmer knows he must keep down to brass tacks. Time was when he might motor to town two or three days a week, but not this year. He's at work."

"College men have been tolerated under more affluent conditions, or in times of extreme labor shortage, but the farmer generally regards him as a comic supplement. He's a tender-foot."

Fair wages—$3 to $3.50 a day—are being paid, but the men must be husky and experienced and, what is more important, willing to do a good day's work for the money.

Crop Prospects. Crop prospects according to the veteran crop expert, are quite favorable. While there is some apprehension concerning the dry weather of the last two weeks over the wheat belt and because of the prevalence of red rust no great injury has as yet been done, he said. Corn, while two weeks behind in development, is progressing well. The acreage of oats, however, is the smallest in years, and the crop is promising poorly.

"Farm wages," he added, "have declined somewhat in proportion to industrial wages, but the striking feature is that farmers are hiring very few at any wages."

BABIES MADE TO ORDER NEXT STEP OF SCIENCE CHICAGO, June 24.—"Babes to order" will not be unknown to future generations of parents, according to Dr. Sarah M. Hobson, president of the American Homeopathic Institute Fraternity. Dr. Hobson expressed the belief that present experiments in the determination of sex ultimately will be developed to a state of practical usefulness and that the sex of a child will be determined by the parents, as a matter of course. "It will not be in my time," she said, "but I believe it is coming and that it is a good thing. No family should be composed of all boys or all girls. Children of both sexes should make up the normal family."

Just Getting Experience For Vice Crusade, Says Minister Caught in Room with Woman INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 24.—How far a minister may go in a personal investigation of moral conditions in Indianapolis, was a question which had Judge Delbert O. Wilmett, of city court, guessing today, and he took under advisement the case of a minister from Rapid City, N. D., charged with vagrancy, after his arrest with a woman in a room. The minister, who declared he was a delegate to the Northern Baptist convention here, was released, pending a decision. In a signed statement made to police the minister declared that he was surprised by Police Lieutenant Johnson with the thought that the experience would prove to be useful in a vice campaign in his home town. The woman, he declared, he met at the door of the tabernacle when he left the Sunday night services there. Her invitation to take a stroll offered a way to learn first-hand of the iniquities of a city. As evidence of his good intentions the minister pointed to an argument that ensued in the woman's room when he repelled her advances, an argument which still was in progress, Lieutenant Johnson declared, when he knocked on the door. The minister

NEWLY TESTED 'LOCKOUT' GIVES RADIO SECRECY

By Associated Press
CHICAGO, Ill., June 24.—Radio a la carte instead of table-de-hôte—in other words, with the listener able to select any program he desires and bar all others and the sender thus enabled to have his message received only by the one for whom it is intended—now is possible, according to experts who have tested lockout systems designed to assure secrecy in the wireless telephone.

Like the radio itself, the lockout systems really are an outgrowth of the war, and their development was not pushed until the radio had achieved its sudden popularity among both young and old.

B. F. Meissner, who served as a government expert on radio dynamics during the war, recently tested a lockout system which he invented and radio authorities pronounced it to be a success. John Hays Hammond, Jr., with whom Mr. Meissner was associated during the war in the invention of a wireless controlled torpedo and similar devices, also has announced a lockout system which he declares is satisfactory.

Mr. Meissner actually invented his lockout device in 1912, but not until recently was any thought given to fully developing it. It is operated by turning a switch.

Switched Back and Forth.

During his recent demonstration several broadcasting stations were sending simultaneously on the same wave length. Mr. Meissner switched back and forth from one program to the other, locking out all except the one desired. Inability to obtain secrecy in radio messages heretofore has been the greatest drawback to the radio, not only for war-time use, but for peace service, in the opinion of wireless advocates.

Mr. Meissner's tests were said by radio engineers to prove conclusively that secrecy in radio messages may be obtained at any time desired.

Mr. Meissner's secrecy involves a complex wave in which a high frequency carrier wave is modulated at a constant superaudible frequency and again modulated at audible frequencies in accordance with voice or other sound waves. With such a complex wave form the high frequency which is still above the limit of audibility and the still lower variable and complex forms of audible frequencies carry speech or music.

WOMAN'S PRIDE BARS HER LANDING IN U. S.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Refusing to be classed as a "domestic" to enjoy exemption from the quota law, Mrs. Anita Notti, whose fingers gleamed with diamonds, was escorted from Ellis Island yesterday afternoon and placed upon the steamer which brought her here from Italy.

She had been excluded on three counts—likely to become a public charge, excess quota and no visa on her passport. But, it was apparent that the action of the board of special inquiry in excluding Mrs. Notti had been chiefly due to the conflict of testimony as to her status under the immigration law.

The woman claimed she was a visitor to the United States and that her husband, a wealthy importer and exporter of Italy, is a close friend of Alfredo Calore, president of the Banca Nazionale Del Reduce, No. 231 East Fourteenth street, New York City.

In rebuke more than refutation of the hint that she might become a public charge, she displayed her hands radiant with rare jewels. But, in place of Mr. Calore, the friend of her husband, the cashier of the latter's bank appeared and astounded the immigration authorities by declaring that Mrs. Calore was a "domestic." Servants are exempt from the quota, but the rich woman from Italy would have none of it.

The woman exclaimed: "I am not a domestic, and I cannot permit myself to be so styled."

At her request she was escorted back to the steamer Reliance, which sails today on its return trip. Incidentally, Mrs. Notti informed the immigration authorities that she had in some way become parted from a bracelet worth $10,000. She could not recall how she had lost it, but said she was so excited aboard the ship when they told her she could not land in America she must have misplaced the costly trinket.

At the bank of which Mr. Calore is president it was said that the cashier who had styled Mrs. Notti as a "domestic" had done so through a misunderstanding. It was said that she is a very wealthy woman.

MIDLOTHIAN, June 24.—"Ditt" Curry, catcher of the Midlothian Highlanders, was accidentally struck on the forehead yesterday in batting practice at Itasca, fracturing his skull. Your Theory May Be a Wonder,
But What Is It?

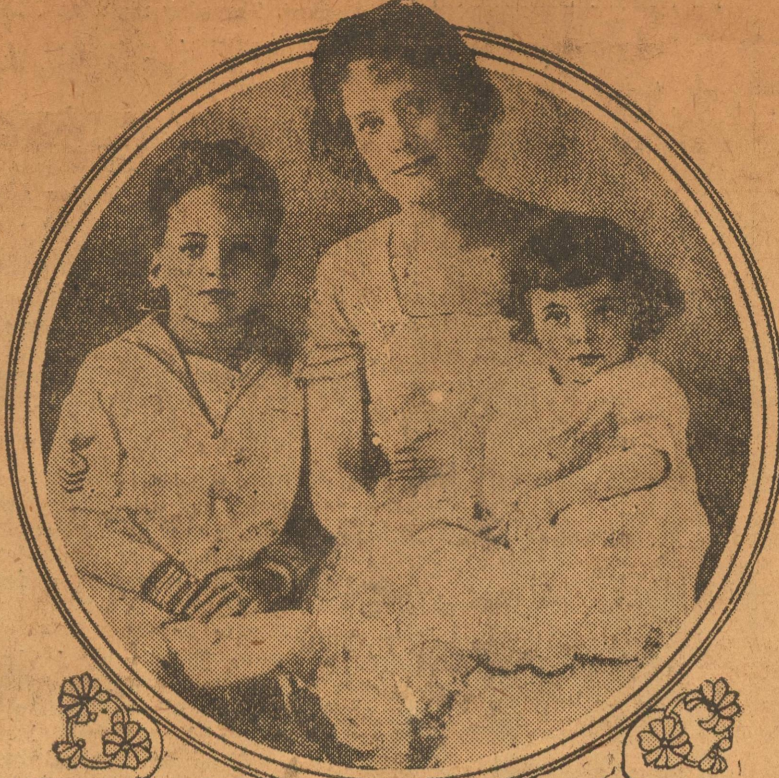

TOKIO, June 22.—Mr. Ichiro Sakai, Spanish language instructor at the Colonial school in Koishikawa, claims to have discovered a theory of absolutism, which is contrary to Einstein's theory of relativity. He developed the idea of explaining the universe by absolutism while looking for the best method of teaching grammar.

Interviewed by the Nichi nichu Mr. Sakai said:

"I wonder why men of profound thinking like Professor Einstein could not discover the theory of absolutism. I did not encounter any great difficulty in discovering it. Kant and Socrates will dwindle into insignificance beside this theory which will revolutionize the medical, philosophical, physical, economic and religious worlds. What gives me great satisfaction is the thought that the theory which I discovered will strike at the very foundation of monism. The theory of absolutism proves the reality of the conceptions of soul, heaven, hell and other ideas which believers in the doctrine of monism laugh at as creations of a cracked brain. The theory of relativity cannot be explained unless by means of high mathematics while the theory I discovered is easy to understand.

"According to my theory, the soul is as stern a reality as the most visible thing on earth. The eye, mouth, leg, hand, color, sound and everything else on the earth are not dead but liv-

MRS. LOVEJOY NO. 4 COMPLAINS IN DIVORCE SUIT THAT HUSBAND WAS TOO FOND OF THIRD WIFE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 24.—Mrs. Delphine Lovejoy, daughter of Charles Shubert, wealthy retired contractor of Chicago, against Howe Lovejoy, former head of the Lovejoy Tool company of Chicago, will be made in Judge W. Summerfield's court Saturday morning.

Lovejoy is contesting the suit of Delphine, his fourth wife, only on the grounds of alimony.

The fourth Mrs. Lovejoy's chief complaint was that her husband still thought fondly of the third wife, now Myra Sonne, who lives very close to the Lovejoy love nest. So close that the bride could see into her predecessor's bath room.

Always Talker of Spouse No. 3. Mrs. Lovejoy No. 4 took it to heart that her spouse was always talking of the wonderful soup No. 3 used to make, of the way she made beds.

One day he kindly offered to bring No. 3 into the flat to show No. 4 the correct method of making beds. No. 4 rebelled.

Mrs. Lovejoy also felt hurt at the fact that her husband kept in his rooms various pictures of himself and his third wife, taken when they were quite close together and much in love with each other.

She declares that one time Myra called up Lovejoy and asked him to send over a bottle of cocktails which seems to have belonged to her. He replied he would not send it, but would bring it. The fourth wife says the third wife received him in a kimono, and that he put his arms around her and called her "dearie" and sat down with her on a sofa.

Defied Husband and Bore him Baby Girl.

Then there was a matter of babies, before she married him, Lovejoy raved about them, she says. After marriage he would not let her become a mother, tho' she wanted to, she says. But she defied him, and she says, she went to bed weeping every night for months, she bore him a child, a girl, born in November, 1920.

Mr. and Mrs. Lovejoy were married in Chicago in January, 1919, and the next day after the wedding, Mrs. Lovejoy says, she read in the Chicago Tribune "A List of His Martial Escapades" that was a shock to her.

YOUTH KILLS SELF TO DODGE FORGERY TRIAL

DENVER, June 24.—Llewellyn Jones, 18, committed suicide in his home, to escape being jailed on charges of forgery and passing worthless checks.

G. E. Reynolds of the Brun's Detective service and Patrolman George Magor had just placed the youth under arrest. Stepping into the bathroom, ostensibly for his coat, Jones quickly swallowed a vial of powerful poison. He died as he was being taken to the county hospital.

According to the arresting officers, young Jones was alleged to have passed a forged check for $25 on a local clothing store. They also alleged that at a local department store he accidentally pulled from his pocket a number of checks signed by different names, arousing the suspicion of clerks in the store. This resulted in an investigation which culminated Monday night in Jones' arrest.
