REJECTED LOVER SUSPECTED OF MURDER

TEXAS EX-RANGERS BRING REUNION TO CLOSE

MAJOR GREEN AGAIN CHOSEN FOR COMMANDER

Officers Ex-Ranger Association Elected; Resolutions Honoring Dead Adopted.

Following is the list of ex-Texas rangers who died during the past year: Lee Groomes, Austin; G. S. McKenzie, Comanche; J. H. B. Norfleet, Silver; A. T. Ritchie, Sydney; C. M. Sterling, Montague; J. N. Schrock, Spanish Court; T. W. Thomson, Evans; J. H. Wallace, Decatur; G. M. Wright, Granbury; J. M. Womack, Brownwood; Henry Evans, Talpa; V. I. Branton, Brownwood; J. C. Bird, Alpine; L. C. Carvey, Archer City; T. H. Hammonds, Comanche; G. W. Johnson, Camp Springs; Frank W. Dallas; J. W. Proffitt, Fresno, Calif.

By a vote of 14 to 13, afterwards made unanimous, Ranger was selected this afternoon by the Texas ex-ranger's association as the place for their meeting next year.

Although all the ex-rangers are pleased with their treatment in Ranger this year and appreciate the hospitality of the town, yet the murmuring river and big shade trees that abound at Menard called to many of them with insistence.

Officers for the ensuing year of 1925 were elected at the morning session with Major W. M. Green of Meridian re-elected commanding officer for the sixth consecutive time and Miss Ruby Green, re-elected secretary. Others elected:

W. H. Roberts of Llano, captain. J. H. Renick of Gorman, first lieutenant. L. H. Cook of Bangs, second lieutenant. S. P. Carter of Gorman, adjutant. J. O. Allen of Crosbyton, chaplain. W. Y. Luke of Weatherford, color bearer.

C. M. Grady of Brownwood, assistant color bearer. Resolutions commending the services of Major William M. Green of Meridian towards furthering work of the organization and pension work during his terms of office, and the work of Miss Ruby Green, daughter of Major Green, for her services as secretary, were passed at the morning session.

Visit Old Courthouse.

The business session then adjourned until this afternoon and the members and their families were again seized on by the Lions' club and driven out to the old Eastland county courthouse on the W. V. Brewer farm. The first courthouse in Eastland county, located a short distance from the Meriman church, is now being used for a barn. Little do the stock inhabiting the barn realize that they are tenants of a building that once housed the legal departments of Eastland county and that trials of illustrious outlaws were held in it.

The distinction of arresting the first man in Eastland county goes to Major W. M. Green, commanding officer of the association, who chased an alleged cattle thief named Taylor clear to New Mexico and then brought him back. After safely seeing him in the county jail, Major Green and three other rangers went on the man's bond. Later on he was acquitted of the charge of cattle stealing.

The final afternoon of the ex-ranger's reunion in Ranger this week opened with a big barbecue at Shamrock park today at 12:15 o'clock where barbecue, hot and juicy, was served to the rangers and their families under the auspices of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce. Following the barbecue, served by the Boy Scouts, who also served at the fish fry, the ex-rangers met again at headquarters for the afternoon session.

Seventeen on Honor Roll.

Resolution eulogizing the 17 members of the association who died during the last year, were adopted by the ex-Texas Rangers' association at the business session held yesterday afternoon. The business session was cut short to enable the ex-rangers to attend the game between the Ranger and Eastland Lions' baseball teams. Resolutions thanking Ranger for hospitality also were adopted.

A real old-fashioned fish fry was served last night by merchants of Ranger under auspices of the Chamber of Commerce to the old warriors in the convention headquarters. Long tables were placed in the big hall and plates and other articles furnished by the First Baptist church. Fish was donated by the City Fish market, Ivo Navokovich, proprietor. Over 500 pounds of fresh catfish were used for the fry and the rangers enthusiastically declared it was the best they had eaten in many moons. The fish fry was arranged (Continued on page two)

LAMB KILLED WHEN CAR GOES OVER CLIFF

Drilling Contractor of Tulsa Meets Tragic Death in Stephens County.

Walter M. Lamb, aged 38, drilling contractor for the Red Bank Oil company of Tulsa, Okla., was instantly killed shortly before daybreak Wednesday morning when the car in which he was driving plunged over a 40-foot embankment into a ravine about 15 miles from Breckenridge on the Throckmorton road. Just about a week ago C. N. Ochiltree of Ranger was injured when the car he was driving was wrecked in a collision with a car driven by Lamb, the latter coming from the rear and attempting to pass Ochiltree, who was taken to a hospital for treatment of his injuries and is yet unable to return to his work.

The Breckenridge American, telling of the crash in which Lamb was killed, says: The catastrophe was first discovered about daybreak by Lee Thompson, service car operator of Breckenridge, who was passing along the road. He reported it to the Thompson Undertaking company which rushed an ambulance to the scene and brought the body back.

Lamb's head was crushed in the fall, the car landing nose down in the bottom of the creek and then crashing over on its side, a complete wreck. His head was thrown out onto the ground.

He has a wife and family in Tulsa who have been notified. Cards and letters found in his possession revealed that he was a thirty-second degree Mason, a member of the lodge at McAllister, Okla.

He was well known in oil circles in Breckenridge and was popular among his fellow-workers. This is the fourth tragic death in or near Breckenridge within the last five days. Fred Lambeth and his nephew, Gordon Reese Alderman, were killed Friday night when the car in which they were riding skidded and turned over in a ditch about three miles outside the city on West Walker street. H. C. Foster, Dallas commercial aviator, was killed when the plane he was driving collided with another plane here Saturday afternoon during the dedication of the Oil Belt fair race track and landing field.

WICHITA FALLS MAN 'TO ADDRESS GRADUATES

AUSTIN, Aug. 14.—W. B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls has accepted an invitation to deliver the principal address for the August commencement exercises at the University of Texas on August 29, according to Dr. J. B. Wharey, chairman of the committee in charge of the program. Rev. Sam Barans, D.D., president of Southwestern University, Georgetown, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday night, August 23. Hamilton received his master of arts degree from the University of Texas several years ago. His active interest in education has been shown by a monetary donation he recently made to Southern Methodist University. Hamilton has achieved success in the oil business since leaving the university.

President W. M. N. Splawn will present diplomas to approximately 350 graduates. Both the baccalaureate sermon and the commencement address will probably be given in the campus open air theater, Dr. Wharey stated.

COMMON PEOPLE IN CLEVELAND BEAT PARTIES

Organized Politics In City Wrecked by Vote for Proportional Representation

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14.—Organized politics, which for many years had held dominant sway over the municipal government, is perilously near a complete wreck as a result of the vote of the people for proportional representation and amendment of the city charter against the advice of politicians.

The two great political machines combined in a movement to kill the amendment for proportional representation, working hard several months and even circulating petitions in opposition to it. They believed that few voters would visit the polls in mid-summer, in which they missed their reckoning. As a substitute for proportional representation they offered an amendment to the city charter for re-establishment of the old ward system, which had prevailed prior to 1921.

Proportional representation is a system of voting which is designed to secure representation in direct ratio to numerical strength. Under it the city is to be divided into four large districts and a varying number of councilmen elected from each district.

People Must Suffer When Servants Are Lazy or Incapable

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Action of the interstate commerce commission in declining to reduce coal rates generally, not because the reductions were unjustified but because it was unable to make an adequate investigation, is certain to start a rumormongering congress reconvenes. The action is scored by one of the commissioners, G. C. McChord, who dissented in part from the step, saying: "I conceive it to be our duty, if the present record is incomplete, to ascertain or develop with our own staff or by other appropriate means all evidentiary matters essential to an affirmative determination. If our present appropriation is inadequate for the purpose, we should at least make what efforts we can to obtain through the proper authorities the necessary funds."

Negro Dentist at Houston is Given Tar and Feathers

HOUSTON, Aug. 14.—Police Friday were searching for three men who, it is alleged, Monday night tarred and feathered a negro dentist, R. H. Ward. The alleged maltreatment of the negro did not become known until Friday, when the investigation got under way. Ward believes the attack on him was made because of mistreatment of a white youth last November for which he was fined, he said. Ward claims he was taken to a place near one of the boulevards of the city, his clothing removed and tar and feathers applied.

STATE BUILDING CONTRACTS BEING AWARDED SLOWLY

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—Only three of 34 contracts calling for building construction at state institutions have been awarded to date, the state board of control announced. The last legislature appropriated more than $1,000,000 for construction, repairs and remodeling work at a number of the state institutions, but the board has been slow in awarding the contracts on account of delay in getting the plans and specifications ready, they say. Work is due to start on the various jobs on Sept. 1, but it will probably be considerably later before it actually begins.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 14.—Mary Pickford failed to register sympathy today in commenting on the cases of Charles Stevens and Claude Holcomb, found guilty by a jury of conspiring to kidnap her for a ransom of $200,000.

"The jury must be right," the famous actress told the United Press. Reports that she had asked clemency for the convicted conspirators were denied.

Mail Truck Driver Arrested on Charge Robbing Own Truck

KEWANEE, Ill., Aug. 14.—Joseph Jackson, driver of a government mail truck, which he reported robbed of a sack of registered mail here late yesterday, was in custody today. One of the federal agents investigating the affair said Jackson had made a confession to the robbery. According to this officer, Jackson simply hid the sack and then told a false story of a man forcing him to drive several blocks to a waiting automobile and then forcing him to give up the sack. It was indicated Jackson had disclosed the hiding place of the sack of mail, which contained several thousand dollars, one of the agents said.

INDIANS KILL SWEETHEART OF TEXAS RANGER

J. O. Allen Tells How, Inspired By Wish for Revenge, He Chased Comanches.

J. O. Allen of Crosbyton, Texas, 75 years old, erect, with a military bearing, today is one of the exceptions to the old rangers who seldom emerged from the service with bullet and arrow holes in them. With his right hand crippled, his right hip bearing the mark of an Indian lance and both knees having bullet holes in them and the mark of a spent ball on his chest, Mr. Allen today has good reason to remember the days when he served as a Ranger and fought outlaws and Indians.

Serving with the rangers from 1867 to 1914, Mr. Allen concentrated the most of his energies, he said, on fighting the Comanche Indians. Kill Lucy Russell. "I had a good reason to remember the Comanche Indians," Mr. Allen said. "In a massacre of the Russell family in Jones county, in the winter of 1869, they killed and scalped my first sweetheart, Lucy Russell. Sneaking up on the unsuspecting homestead, the Comanches murdered the father and mother and carried off the two girls. The body of Lucy was found about two miles from the home, scalped and mutilated. I swore revenge on them and from then on concentrated my efforts towards hunting the Comanches."

How Mr. Allen in his quest for revenge started on the trail immediately and in a battle, fought about a month after the massacre, a majority of the raiding party were killed and on one of the Indians was found the scalp of Lucy Russell, identified by Mr. Allen and later by the Russell boy, who escaped being killed as he was away from home at the time. Several years later, still on his quest for Comanches, Mr. Allen said that he and his partner, Frank Eberson, were near a small stream about a mile from their home ranch when glancing up he perceived a file of Comanches slipping up the hill. Dropping to his knees, he fired with his Winchester and killed the leader. They cut in between him and his partner and his horse became so unruly that he could not get back to the stream. That undoubtedly saved his life as Eberson was downed immediately and the Indians turned a stream of arrows loose on Allen, who circled off to the right and made his way to the ranch. One of the arrows hit him on the right hand, the mark of which he bears to this day with a crippled hand, as the arrow was poisoned.

Scalped But Alive.

Three other men farther up the river made their way to the ranch and together the four went back to the creek. No trace of Eberson was discovered until a voice from the mesquite bushes was heard. "I am not dead yet, boys," Eberson had 14 wounds and had been scalped and left for dead. Reviving somewhat he crawled to the bushes and awaited the coming of his comrades who he knew would return to the spot. It required three hours to carry the wounded man to the ranch where for four days he suffered untold agonies. His head with the skin removed and nothing but bone exposed was horribly mutilated and on the morning of the fourth day the odor became so bad that the men had to take turns of five minutes each, remaining in the room with a pipe full of old cut-plug tobacco to endure it. Eberson was also suffering from poisoned arrows that had filled his system with poison and, between being scalped and poison arrows, on the night of the fourth day he died, fully conscious of everything that had transpired.

Many other narrow and thrilling escapes were passed through by Mr. Allen and today he is still able to bear his part in any emergency, he declares.

YOUTHFUL SLAYER MAY PLEAD "NOT GUILTY"

SEDALIA, Mo., Aug. 14.—Everett Adams, 17, slayer of R. K. Clawson, will waive a preliminary hearing and plead "not guilty" to a charge of first degree murder against him, Henry Adams, the boy's father, said this morning. Both seemed in a more cheerful mood today.

If the preliminary hearing be waived, the youth is expected to be held for trial at the October term of the Pettus county district court, Roy Rucker, prosecutor, said he would seek to have the boy held without bail.

ARCTIC FLIERS ESTABLISH NEW NORTHERN BASE

One Plane Springs Leak From Icy Surf Pounding, But Being Repaired.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Continual pounding of the icy Arctic surf has sprung the seams of the NA-2, one of the three naval planes with the MacMillan Arctic expedition, and only with the greatest difficulty was it prevented from sinking, Lieutenant Commander Byrd notified the navy department from Etah, Greenland, by radio today. The plane was hoisted on a ship and is now being repaired.

In another dispatch, Byrd described the flight from Elles Merland across to Havesjord, where for the first time the planes were able to alight in the open sea. A base is now being established at this point, the other two planes carrying over food and supplies.

Dorothy Ellingson Affected by Charge That She is Insane

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Time and again, Dorothy Ellingson, defending herself against a charge of slaying her mother, will hear the words, "She is insane." It was the constant repetition of these words in the bickerings of the lawyers that caused the girl to collapse a score of times at her last trial, when she was committed to an asylum, and later freed as mentally competent to stand trial.

That she may collapse again under the strain of the "confessed" matricide does not think she is insane, was considered likely by court attaches.

DOROTHY ELLINGSON STARTS WAYWARD CAREER EARLY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—The tale of a wayward girl who started running away from home at the age of 12 years was recited from the witness stand today when Joseph Ellingson testified in the trial of his daughter, Dorothy, for the murder of her mother.

In a low voice the father, called as a defense witness, haltingly gave intimate details of the girl's jazz career and told how he had learned she and another girl had slept all night in a box car with soldiers they had picked up on a runaway excursion.

DALLAS, Aug. 14.—The reports to an officer that a "kid's" soda pop stand in South Dallas was staying open all night, and was doing a land-office business, prompted an investigation the other day.

ENGLER FAMILY MAY HAVE BEEN LOVER'S PREY

Trail of Investigation Leads Towards Mexican Formerly Employed on Engler Farm

AUSTIN, Aug. 14.—A trail that led to San Antonio was staked up Friday by Travis county officers in their investigation of the murder of the Engler family. Working on a theory that a Mexican was the murderer, a deputy sheriff was to leave for San Antonio to search for a Mexican who a year ago was employed on the Engler farm and who is now said to be living in San Antonio.

Information came to the sheriff's office that the Mexican declared his love to Miss Emma Engler, adopted daughter of the Englers, who was slain with her foster parents, and proposed marriage. The proposal was rejected and a few days later the Mexican lover disappeared. Recently her engagement to wed a young Travis county farmer was announced and when that news reached the discredited suitor it probably aroused his jealousy to such a degree that he may have sought revenge through murder, according to investigating officers.

A Feldman of Houston, brother-in-law of Mrs. Engler, who a few days was fined for assaulting John Sternad while the latter was held in the county jail here for questioning, returned to Austin today accompanied by a Houston detective. Both went immediately to the scene of the murder to be forcibly investigated independent of all other forces.

Arctic Ship, Lost Three Years, Reported Now on Its Way Home

NOME, Alaska, Aug. 14.—The Amundsen ship, Maude, which was heard from Wednesday, after she had drifted through Arctic ice pack three years and was believed lost, will not arrive here until the last of August. Radio communication with Captain Whistling, of the Maude, disclosed today that she is now at East Cape, Siberia, short of fuel oil, before she can steam to this port. The Russian supply vessel is not due at the cape until the last of the month, it is said.

UNKIND MANNER OF THEATRE MANAGER BLAMED

DALLAS, Aug. 14.—A man, who says he is a disabled world war veteran, filed suit in district court here today against a local theatre for $15,000 damages, $10,000 actual and $5,000 exemplary, claiming that he has had an attack of heart trouble since being forcibly ejected from the theatre recently. The plaintiff says that he had paid admission to the theatre and then went out, getting a return check from the usher. He returned later and seated himself. It was then that he was called out and thrown out. He says that the manager disbelieved that he had paid admission, thinking that he was someone else, and accused him of "being up to his old tricks."

His heart affection resulted from the incident, he says, and he bases his claim for damages on the affection.

BIBLE THOUGHT
 He leadeth me—I will bring the blind by a way that they knew not; I will lead them in paths that they have not known; I will make crookedness light before them, and crooked things straight. These things will I do unto them, and not forsake them.—Isaiah 42:16.

THE VERA VRUZ INCIDENT
 During the trouble with Mexico in 1914 a United States battleship stationed at Vera Cruz bombarded the city without orders. The story related in the senate at the time was to the effect that certain rules had been issued by the Mexican government which were not known by the Americans, and when a boat load of marines, on shore leave, violated these rules they were arrested. About two hours later they were released and returned to their ship, with no harm done. But the officer in command, issued a short notice to remove the women and children to places of safety as he proposed to bombard the town. The notice was not taken seriously as everything was peaceful and orderly, but at the hour designated the American ship opened a bombardment on Vera Cruz, and a large number of innocent people, said to be hundreds were killed. American marines landed, took forcible possession of the port for a couple of days and then quietly departed. Now the matter is up again by way of official claims for damages and the deaths of eighteen unidentified persons, totalling nearly half a million of dollars, besides individual claims by relatives of the identified that will amount to as much more. Preparedness sometimes means over-anxiety for action.

THE BALANCE OF POWER
 A vicious result of the World War is the development of the propaganda narcotic. As a people we are becoming propaganda addicts. Political parties always did use it. Now railroads, industries, financiers, public service corporations and others employ expensive publicity bureaus to either formulate public opinion or lull it into dreamy unconsciousness. Perhaps the most pernicious propaganda is that of the "Balance of Power" a scheme to combine England and the United States to rule the world. The argument advanced is that events have shown that a world of isolated states is impossible; that the separate states of Europe cannot be combined unless Great Britain be eliminated. Therefore the logical conclusion is that the United States of America should extend its protection over England and her colonies—but one joint navy and army be maintained and the markets of the world be divided commercially—ostensibly to prevent opium smuggling. And this propaganda is not classed as "bolshievic"—far from it, because it is discussed in high society and by the makers of public opinion. It is the hope of the British Empire and the object of the Rhodes Foundation.

The intellectual, political and ethical leadership of the nation has passed into the control of fluent writers as so much per line, or per column and if newspaper editors "fall" for it what can be expected of their readers?
 Police records show that the average age of hold-up men is between 18 and 25. Most "stick-up" men are drug addicts and before setting out on a job fortify themselves with a generous sniff of "coke."

Fees collected from motor vehicle licenses and permits by various states and the gasoline tax levies amounted approximately 305 million dollars and served by the entertainment committee, Rev. W. H. Johnson, chairman; Mrs. W. E. Hickey, Mrs. R. B. Campbell and Mrs. W. N. McDonald. John Thurman, chief de luxe, reigned supreme in his kitchen set up in the rear of the hall, where he soon had the odor of frying fish attracting all.

 Old-time fiddling and piano playing by several old-timers prior to the fish fry was greatly enjoyed. Music was played throughout the meal by Ray Judia of Ranger.

Simple Entertainment.
 Elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the ex-rangers were not made because C. E. Patterson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was asked that nothing but the simplest plans for the reunion be made. The fish fry, with coffee served in tin cups, fried fish and potato salad with pickles, comprised the bill of fare and was voted to head the list of the various forms of entertainment devised by the clubs and organizations of Ranger who were hosts to the organization. A genuine old watermelon feed, with a band concert was provided for the ex-rangers and their families Wednesday night. Many gathered around and watched J. B. Ames, in his white trousers and white shirt and big Panama hat, swing a wicked looking butcher knife in his hands while slicing the ice cold melons, frozen through the courtesy of the Southern Ice & Utilities company. Enough ice cold melons were sliced and placed in rows on the big table by the band stand for the crowd gathered to hear the band concert to be invited to help eat them. Where the melons were obtained is a secret, J. B. Ames refusing to divulge the exact location of the patch from which the big, juicy melons came.

TEXAS EX-RANGER NOW MEMBER SALVATION ARMY
 Among the Texas ex-rangers in Ranger for their annual reunion is L. P. Arnold of Beaumont, for the last ten years, he said, stationed there as a member of the Salvation Army. For 32 years he lived in Brownwood, and in 1870 and 1871 he was a Texas ranger, part of the time stationed at the old Camp Colorado post, about eight miles from the present site of Coleman. Mr. Arnold said he had several exciting and rather dangerous experiences while serving as a ranger, but that he had enjoyed the life. He is waging warfare now along different lines, but just as earnestly as when he rode with the rangers.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton ©1925 NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY SO FAR:
Gloria Gordon, beautiful flapper, marries Dick Gregory, a struggling lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes, but no work or children.

Dick borrows Maggie, his mother's maid, to teach Gloria to cook. But she refuses to learn.

The young Gregory give a house-warming. Among the guests is Stanley Wayburn, an actor with whom Gloria once was in love.

The "wild" party breaks up when Lola Hough scolds Bill, her husband, for petting Maggie, disgusted quits her job. Gloria hires Ranghild Swanson to take her place, although Dick tells her they can't afford a maid. Then she buys hundreds of dollars' worth of clothes, and insists upon a new car for herself. Gloria and Wayburn go joy-riding in the car, and are seen by Mother Gregory.

Next day Gloria invites Wayburn, May Seymour, wife of Dr. John Seymour, and May's admirer, Jim Carewe, to the house. Dick returns unexpectedly. He puts the guests out. Because of her affair with Carewe, May is voted out of the Home Women's club. Utterly crushed, she gives up Carewe. Gloria goes to see Wayburn in his rooms, and returns to find that Dick had been brought home ill, by Miss Briggs, his secretary.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:
Gloria was furious with Miss Briggs for bringing Dick home. He could have come home alone in his taxi, just as well as not. But no, she must be a Ministering Angel to Dick. That was her pose, Gloria thought angrily.

Why couldn't these secretaries realize that their jobs began and ended in the office? Gloria, herself, had never been interested in her employers when she had worked, except as employers. She was sure of that!

"Miss Briggs didn't come into the house," Ranghild said. "She paid the taxi driver, and went away. He and I got Mr. Gregory upstairs, and put him on his bed. Oh, ma'am, what do you think is the matter with him?"

Ranghild was almost in tears. "Oh, nothing much, but the flu," Gloria answered. "He's had it twice this winter, and he gets right over it. He'll be all right in a day or two."

"I tried to telephone you all over town," the maid went on. "I phoned Mrs. Seymour, and Mrs. Gail, and Mrs. Hough, and Mr. Gregory's mother."

"Don't ever do it again!" Gloria cried sharply. "I'm usually down town shopping, so it's no use trying to get me by phone, anyway. Let's go up and stay for a while. Mr. Gregory is in bed before the doctor comes."

They were unlacing Dick's shoes when Dr. John arrived. Deftly as a nurse, he undressed Dick and put him into bed. He took out his stethoscope and listened to Dick's back and chest. Then he gravely nodded his head as he timed Dick's pulse.

"Just what I told him he'd have if he didn't take better care of himself," he remarked dryly. "It's pneumonia. I think I'd better telephone Mrs. O'Hara right away. She's the best pneumonia nurse in this town."

Gloria stood like a statue in the middle of the room. In a dream—a nightmare—she heard Dr. John call Mrs. O'Hara, and send a taxicab for her.

She listened to him ordering things from the drug store—camphorated oil, cotton, brandy. And all at once, it was brought home to Gloria why it was that Dr. John couldn't go with May to all the parties and dances. People needed him, as Dick needed him now! Their very lives depended on his not going to parties with his fun-loving wife—on his sticking to his job!

Gloria had never thought of it in just that way before. She had always pitied May, because she was a doctor's wife. Well, she still pitied her, and yet—

"Now, then, Gloria, the best thing you can do is to move all your things out of this room! And I want you to stay out, yourself!" Dr. John said briskly.

Gloria gave a nervous little laugh. "No need to ask me to stay out of this room," she said. "I'm frightened to death of sick people."

Her eyes were wide with fear. "What makes him breathe like that," she asked. She had been watching the quick rise and fall of Dick's chest under the bed clothes. He breathed as if he had been running a long way and was utterly exhausted.

"Fever and the disease, both," Dr. John said shortly.

Gloria gathered together her belongings—her clothes, her perfumes, and powders, all the silver things from her dressing table—and took them into the guest room.

She stood looking out of the window. A taxicab was coming down the street. It slowed up before the house and stopped.

Gloria opened the door for the woman who descended from it and came up the walk toward the house. The woman's face was vaguely familiar. And when she spoke, her voice was, too. Gloria was sure she had met her somewhere, before.

"How do you do?" "I'm Mrs. O'Hara," she said, as she came up the front steps. "I feel as if I know you, Mrs. Gregory. My sister, Sue Briggs, has worked for your husband for a good many years."

Miss Briggs' sister. This woman! That was why she had looked so familiar to Gloria. She had the same shadowy blue eyes and delicate features. Her voice was as low and sweet as Miss Briggs' own lovely voice.

"Will you go right upstairs?" Gloria asked with cold politeness. "Dr. Seymour is waiting for you."

Without another word, the nurse disappeared around the turn at the stair-landing.

Gloria went out into the bright kitchen. Ranghild, in her black dress, stood at the sink washing lettuce leaves in a colander.

"Will we have dinner at the usual time?" she asked chokily. Her eyes were red-rimmed.

Without warning she began to cry, covering her face with her wet, red hands. Gloria stared at her.

"What in the world is the matter with you?" she asked. "You've just got to get hold of yourself, Ranghild! Mr. Gregory's not dead, yet, you know!"

"Oh, I know that pneumonia! My man, he died of it five winters ago in Sweden," Ranghild sobbed. "She took a handkerchief from her apron pocket and wiped her swollen eyelids.

"That's how I happened to come to this country. I couldn't bear to stay at home without my Henrik. Everything made me think of him—the pine woods where we went for picnics, the light from the black furnace where he worked. Shall we have the potatoes baked or mashed for dinner, tonight, Mrs. Gregory?"

Ranghild asked, with a mighty effort for self-control. She could see that Mrs. Gregory was not interested in her story.

"I didn't know you were a widow, Ranghild," Gloria said, "and bake the potatoes, please."

She went back into the living room and picked up a fashion magazine. "Mrs. Gregory!" came Mrs. O'Hara's voice from the stairway.

Gloria went out into the hall. The nurse had changed into her white uniform and cap. She was bending over the banisters.

"Your husband is calling for you," she said softly.

"I thought he was delirious. He didn't know anything a while ago," Gloria answered.

She did not want to go upstairs to Dick. She hated the thought of seeing him breathe in that terrible, hurrying way. It frightened her.

The look of his face had frightened her this afternoon, the skin flushed, the eyes bright with fever. No, she was not going to go upstairs and see him again, if there was any way out of it!

"Dr. Seymour told me to keep out of Mr. Gregory's room," she said to the nurse. "He made me take all my things out of it, even!"

Mrs. O'Hara smiled gently. "Dr. Seymour is still upstairs. He told me to call you myself," she said.

With slow, reluctant feet Gloria went upstairs.

From behind the closed door of Dick's room she could hear a low, moaning sound. It was not like Dick's voice. And yet it was his voice.

"Gloria," it said over and over. With her hand on the knob of the door, Gloria turned and faced Mrs. O'Hara who had followed her upstairs.

"I can't go in!" she protested again. "I simply can't! You don't know what you're asking of me."

She darted across the hall and into the guest room, closing the door behind her.

She threw herself down on the blue silk cover of the bed, and covered her ears with her hands to shut out the sound of Dick's moaning. But she heard it, anyway. It went on and on in her brain—"Gloria, Gloria, Gloria."

At last she got up and tapped on the door of the sick room. Mrs. O'Hara opened it at once.

Gloria tiptoed into the room. The silk curtains had been taken down. A newspaper shrouded the rosy shade of the reading lamp. A white towel had been laid on the top of her own dressing table. And on it was a whole row of bottles. A hospital chart hung at the foot of Dick's bed.

And on it Dick lay, breathing in those short terrible gasps.

"Is he going to die?" Gloria whispered to Mrs. O'Hara.

Mrs. O'Hara studied Gloria with her serious eyes.

"How can I say?" she asked very gently. "He's a very sick man, Mrs. Gregory but I've seen worse cases than his. Don't worry. Pray."

Gloria couldn't remember the last time she had prayed. It was so long ago.

She had been so busy living life that she had forgotten all about the Giver of Life!

She went lightly to the side of Dick's bed, and took his hot, dry hand in hers.

At her touch Dick stirred. He half-opened his eyes.

"Ricky-Ticky-Tavy," she said, calling him the foolish little pet name that no one but herself ever used for him.

He closed his eyes. A feeling of pity swept over Gloria. Dick seemed so alone in his pain—in his struggle to live.

Had she ever really given him any comradeship? Any happiness? She wondered.

Of course, she had, she told herself. She had been his wife. He had had her kisses, hadn't he? He had held her in his arms—and what else was there to love but love-making?

Dimly, Gloria knew that there was something else in Dick's love for her. But what was it? Unselfishness, perhaps.

The sick man moved again. He was trying to say something. Gloria bent her head to listen.

"Gloria," Dick moaned. "Here I am," Gloria whispered. "Right her, Dick. Right her beside you."

She stroked his forehead. He put up both his hands and thrust her away.

"I want Gloria," he moaned again. Gloria rose and turned away from the bed. Angerily she faced Mrs. O'Hara.

He doesn't even know me," she said. "Now don't ask me to come in here again! Because I won't."

PEOPLE AVOID YOU IF YOU ARE PIMPLY

A boy or girl may have ever so perfect a face, neck and poise, but if even one little pimple, blotch, bump or red spot shows, it ruins their whole appearance. You know how true this is, because you just naturally avoid people whose appearance is not pleasing.

These things are no longer to be endured, however, because thousands of people are getting rid of the worst and most stubborn cases of such skin diseases easily and quickly by using Black and White Ointment, and Soap. It seems like magic to eczema, ring-worm, itch, "breaking out," etc.

Dealers everywhere are recommending Black and White Ointment, and Soap, now. They are economically priced in liberal size packages. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size.—Adv.

LIONS ROAR AT EACH OTHER IN FEARSOME RAGE

Eastland Den Shows Skill on Ball Field, Defeating Ranger, 11 to 9.

Spectacular ball was played by the Lions' ball teams of Ranger and Eastland in the slugfest at Nitro park yesterday afternoon when Ranger suffered defeat for the second time, 11 to 9. Shining stars as hitters were developed in the fray yesterday, but the batters modestly declined to have their batting averages figured out, many of them giving the credit to the fielders who undoubtedly did all in their power to aid the batters in scoring safe hits.

Wordy arguments between the members of the two sides occupied a large part of the time except when the Lions were after the umpires. Fans witnessing the game from the stands were of the opinion that the umpires played the biggest part of the game and suffered most from the avalanche of hits that resulted. The game was eventually called in the eighth inning on account of darkness and the ex-rangers who were the guests of the Ranger Lions' club at the ball game breathed a sigh of thanksgiving, many of them remarking that "hostilities" were on the verge of beginning in several instances of the game. However, when opposing members of the teams were seen to shake hands and depart arm in arm, they again remarked on the changeability of the younger generation, as in "the days of their youth, hostilities would have been started with much less provocation than existed on the diamond, and been fought to a finish."

Pitchers for both teams were pounded freely with Sam Day, eminent justice of the peace of Eastland, voluntarily removing himself from the box in favor of Collie, youthful district clerk of Eastland county, in the second inning of the big game. Collie proceeded to lob them over the plate and batters and sometimes even going over the catcher, but the majority of them were called strikes anyway so it was all the same. Collie was hit freely, but the Ranger Lions were unable to connect with his easy lobs and were swinging wild.

J. M. White, erstwhile hurler from the days of yore, started the game for Eastland and had the Eastland Lions eating out of his hand until the fifth, when Rip Galloway relieved him and was immediately romped on by the Eastland Lions. Rip, attempting to live up to the family reputation, acquitted himself nobly, if attempting the impossible stood for credit, but was touched up freely for hits, although only a few runs were scored off his offerings. But Eastland acclaimed itself, patted their players on the back and decided they had enough runs to win the game anyway, so the game was called in the eighth inning on account of darkness.

WOMAN SAVES PURSE AND CAPTURES PICKPOCKET

By United Press.
DALLAS, Aug. 13.—A woman who was strong of arm and fleet of foot gave a Dallas negro a little excitement last week that may not break him from being a pickpocket, but will give him one lesson anyhow. The black sneaked up behind the woman and made a snatch at her purse that was hanging on her arm. But she tightened her arm before

Simmons University Entering on 34th Year of Activity

The remarkable growth and development of West Texas during the past 35 years has no parallel in the development of Simmons university which passed this year from the college to university class. This school had its beginning in 1891. At that time the entire west was a vast cow country, undeveloped and sparsely settled. The men who were responsible for the launching of Simmons were rugged pioneers who foresaw the possibilities for the building of a great empire in the west, and it was their dream to build along with this empire a great denominational school.

Like the great west, for the first 10 years Simmons college, then only the purse got away, and not only held on to the purse but the would-be thief also. She landed on his face with both hands and was scratching him up freely when he broke away.

The woman gave chase quickly and had a number of followers. They scurried through the thousands of downtown workers at the noon hour for two city blocks, and finally ran the black down.

When he gets out of jail his face will bear the marks of his error.

an academy in reality, had many bitter struggles and setbacks. The annual enrollment was less than 100. In 1902 Dr. O. H. Cooper, one of the outstanding educators became president and during the six years of his administration the enrollment increased from 189 to 340, and the property and endowment increased fourfold.

In 1909 the present president, Dr. J. D. Sandefur, assumed management of the institution. He had a vision of a great west and a great university, and he has spent these 16 years in carrying out his ideals. That his faith in West Texas and a great university were not misplaced is indicated by the fact that this section of Texas has developed into the greatest section of the entire state. With this development Simmons has always kept pace. The school goes into the university field of education with a plant valued at about one million dollars and an endowment of nearly a half million. On the beautiful 40-acre campus there stands nine modern and modernly equipped buildings, including a large auditorium and administration building, one of the largest and best equipped science buildings in the state, a 100,000 fine arts building, two large girls' dormitories, a large gymnasium with swimming pool, basket ball court and other equipment for the physical development of students. The most recent additions to the campus is a $150,000 men's dormitory being completed this summer and a modern fire-proof library building. Twelve hundred and sixty-eight students enrolled last year and the indications are now that this number will be exceeded during the coming year.

The thirty-fourth annual session of Simmons university begins Wednesday, Sept. 16. A faculty of 42 trained Christian men and women have been selected to help guide the destinies of the hundreds of sons and daughters of West Texas who will attend the institution this year. The summer session of Simmons university will close on Aug. 19. There are 35 students who are candidates for graduation in this class, making over one hundred graduates from the institution for the year. The fall term of the university will begin Sept. 16 and a record-breaking attendance is expected.

TREMENDOUS SALE OF TEN MILLION PACKAGES ST. JOSEPH'S MEDICINE EACH YEAR UNEQUALED

Druggists Say They Give Such Universal Satisfaction They Are Gladly Recommending Them.

So few things which are offered to the approval of the public, gain even a small degree of success, that when the now famous St. Joseph's medicines passed the ten million mark last year, it was an achievement to be proud of and to be regarded with significance by the big multitude of people who find it necessary to use medicines in their homes. St. Joseph's G. F. P., the phenomenal medicine which women and girls now depend on to restore their vitality, is believed to be the first direct specific for so-called "female troubles"—which have now been proven to be caused by catarrh of the generative organs. St. Joseph's Liver Regulator (in the BIG 25c CAN) is correcting chronic constipation, so regularly and unflinchingly that its fame has spread more quickly than anything of a similar nature. Druggists everywhere are now familiar with all the St. Joseph's medicines, and it is suggested that when you need the help of the peculiar merits of the remarkable preparations, to correct some acute or chronic condition in your system, ask your druggist first. In many cases he can spare you disappointments, and long drawn out periods of suffering and discomfort.

TEXAS COW SAVES MAN FROM MISSOURI MULE

By United Press. MERCEDES, Texas, Aug. 13.—A short-horn Texas cow took some of the fight out of a Missouri mule the other day, and incidentally saved her master from being masticated by the hungry, vicious brute that not only didn't want a drink but didn't want to be led to water.

E. Sprague, farmer, was trying to lead the brute to the watering tank, and he was balky. When he forced the issue, the Missouri mule took a kick at him and broke two ribs with a terrific south jab. Sprague was too near out to counter, and the mule followed the body blow with pusillanimous tactics that are taboo even in the prize ring. With one bite, he severed Sprague's ear from his head and spit it out.

At this juncture, the cow, who was no cowheart, saw red and entered the fray. The mule was quickly put to rout and the muley heifer declared the winner by default.

TEXAS STATE TEACHERS PLAN BIG CONVENTION

By United Press. DALLAS, Aug. 13.—The annual convention of the Texas State Teachers' association, which will meet here Nov. 26, 27 and 28, will be by far the largest and most eventful to date. Plans for the entertainment of 10,000 school teachers of the state are being made by Ray M. Camp of Fort Worth and Norman H. Crozier, superintendent of the Dallas public schools.

A number of notables will be present and will include Royal B. Farnum, director of art, Boston; A. H. Harmon, superintendent of Birmingham, Ala., public schools; Jessie H. Newton, superintendent of the Denver, Colo., public schools, and Mabel Walker Wilderbrandt, assistant attorney general of the United States.

Arrangements have been made for special railroads from all Texas points to Dallas in order to stimulate interest in the convention and insure a large attendance.

UNIVERSITY JUNIOR COLLEGE LOCATED IN SAN ANTONIO

Special Correspondence. AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—Money for maintaining the new junior college of the University of Texas to be located at San Antonio is to be derived from tuition charged the students, according to an authoritative announcement from the bureau of extension.

The rate of tuition will be $85 a quarter, or $105 a year plus fees which will amount to $40 to $45 more. This will bring to total cost to about $150 for the year. The San Antonio public schools will furnish the physical equipment for the college, such as library, laboratories, lights, janitor service, and the like.

Members of the faculty, which have not yet been selected, will serve as full time instructors. It is expected that about 250 students will enroll in the junior college this fall, as more than 180 have already made application for admittance.
