KLAN PLANNING BIG MEETING AT ARLINGTON

DALLAS, Aug. 29.—What will undoubtedly be the largest picnic ever held in Texas is scheduled to take place at Arlington, between Fort Worth and Dallas, on Septem-ber 11 and 12, when the Ku Klux Klan will celebrate and entertain for two days with free barbecue, ball games, and diverse amusements.

The state klorery is to be held in Fort Worth at the same time, and the picnic is planned in connection with the convention.

Fifty thousand reservations have already been made, according, to the committee chairman, and fully 100, 000 are expected.

Special trains from all over Texas and southwestern states, and from northern and mid-western states, as far north af Ohio, will be operated to Fort Worth and Dallas to bring visitors for the cevnt.

The size of the affair is indicated by the order for eatables. 125 baby beeves will be barbecued. Two bar rels of pickles will be on the ground The onions and tomatoes will cost $50 and sauce for the barbecue $300. There will be 10,000 loaves of bread and 400 cords of woods have been delivered for fuel. It will take 50 men two days to dig the trench for the barbecuing operation.

A mammoth initiation of candi dates on horseback will be one of the spectacular features of the program

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood-cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood-cells,—the spark that rejogs your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.

Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

DALLAS MAKING RAPID

By United Press.

DALLAS, Aug. 29.—Dallas as port of entry is experiencing a mos unusual and unprecedent growth, according to Gus J. Geyer, customs of ficer. Imports coming direct to Dallas as the port of entry amounted to more than half a million dollars during the fiscal year just ended.

Dallas was established as a port of entry (meaning that goods from foreign countries can be billed di rect to a consignee here and not open when taken from the boat), and has made such a steady growth that it has become necessary for the customs officer to secure larger space for the receipt and inspec-

With shaking fingers, she ripped open the cheap, white envelope.

"Dear Russett," the letter read. "I trust this letter will find you well and happy. After I sent the odd farmer to get you the day of the acceident, I beat it. I thought you were dead when I saw you lying under the car, and I knew if I stayed I'd be mixed up in a scandal. Believe me, I was glad when I heard that you'd sonly had a few broken bones. If anyone happened to find my silver cigaret case, will you send it to me?"

"Below the letter he had penciled his address.

He was living on Forty-Second street, in New York.

Forty-second street! The words brought to Gloria a sudden vision of electric lights, dashing faxicabs, gay crowds of people red-striped awnings before restaurant entrances.

on her dresser, where she would be sure to see it.

She had given up all hope of Wayburn's paying back the money!

There was corned beef for dinner that night—corned beef with horse-radish sauce and boiled cabbage.

"I hate corned beef!" Gloria exclaimed when the meal was almost over. "I wish you'd give me a little more money to keep house on, Dick. Then we wouldn't have to eat this horrible stuff, just because its cheap!"

Dick laid down his knife and fork on his plate. He looked across the table at Gloria thoughtfullq.

"That reminds me," he said. "Miss Briggs said she let you have $200 of mine while I was sick to spend on the backyard. I'm afraid I'll have to ask you for that money, Glory.—We can't afford to spend it just now. That's why I'm trying to fix the place up, myself."

Under the tablecloth, Gloria's hands were twisting and untwisting themselves frantically.

She tried to open her mouth to the money to go away on your trup?" she asked. "I should think you'd go right back to work tomorrow, if you are down to your last dollar! Instead of planning an expensive trip!"

Dick groaned desparingly as he dropped into his armchair.

"That's what I'd like to do—get back to work," he said, "but Doc Seymour won't let me go back into the office until I've put on ten pounds. He says I'll go all to pieces if I do."

He cleared his throat and went on with difficulty.

"I'm going to mortgage the house." he said. "You see, I've just got to get some money to tide us over 'til start earning again. Gosh, I hate to put a plaster on it, too, but I guess it can't be helped. We've had a pretty tought run of luck, lately, you and I—haven't we, sweetheart?"

Gloria nodded. She patted the bandage across her aching shoulder. "I should say we have!" she answered.

When a Town Went Up In Smoke

Fifty-two buildings were destroyed when fire swept the newly-born oil town of Liberty, Texas. The buildings burned included the railway stations, both hotels and more than two dozen business structures. Damage was estimated at $200,000.

"By the way, what's become of Wayburn?" Dick asked. "I still have that cigaret case of his. I ought to give it to him."

"York today. I told Ranghild to put it on your dresser. Did you get it?"
"Yes," Gloria faltered. "I did." "You can't," Gloria answered.
