GEORGE HASSELL GOES TO ELECTRIC CHAIR CALMLY

Murderer Of Thirteen Persons Pays With Own Life, Says Ready to Meet His God, Who Understands Him

By United Press. STATE PRISON, Huntsville, Feb. 10.—George Jefferson Hassell died in the electric chair early today with the blood of eleven children and two women literally on his hands.

Hassell, 39, was executed for the murder of a 21-year-old step-son, at Farwell, Texas, on December 4, 1926. The step-son shot to death, was the last of the family of nine to suffer death at Hassell's hands.

The man who had bragged to newspaper men of his career of embezzler, soldier, sailor, draft dodger, deserter, swindler and paramour of his brother's wife, walked leisurely from the cell to the electric chair where his life of crime was ended.

"Is there anything you would like to say, George," Warden N. L. Speer asked.

Hassell twisted his hands and in his voice there was a slight trace of a whimper.

"I would like to announce to the world that I am ready to meet my God. I have made my confession to God and man. Man has misunderstood me but my God has not. That's all."

It was 12:25 a. m.

The body quivered as the first shock coursed through the veins. Then the tip of the man's nose showed red, then white, then red again as the three shocks were applied. It was 12:29.

Two minutes later Hassell was pronounced dead. The straps were unfastened, the electrodes removed and the shaven bullet-head fell down on the shaft.

Around the skull there was a burn where the lightning had crashed through to still the brain.

Hassell was followed to the chair by Robert Lee Benton, alienist, and Robert Standley, negro, whose life was taken for the murder of D. E. Morgan, Crosby county farmer last year.

The play has been advertised extensively and a crowded house is expected to greet the players. "Comrades" is a play with the World War as its theme. The opening act is set in the Willouby home in New York. The scene then shifts to the front, later to an emergency hospital, and the last scene is again the Willouby home.

WELCOME VISITOR AT THE END OF THE DAY

The EVENING newspaper is a FRIENDLY newspaper.

It reaches the home at the friendliest hour of the day—evening. It greets the members of the family who have been absent from home all day, who are tired, who want to read the news of the city, of the state, of the nation, and of the world. Happy because they are reunited, relaxed because their day's work is over, the members of the family are in a pleasant frame of mind.

It is at such an hour that the EVENING newspaper arrives at the home, to spend the night. A cordially welcomed guest is the EVENING newspaper.

In fact, the EVENING newspaper is more than a guest; it is almost a member of the family. Its place in the family circle is established. Its arrival is looked forward to with the same eagerness as the arrival of other members of the household.

Little wonder, then, that the EVENING newspaper is a powerful advertising medium. No other salesman can interview the entire family at such a moment of relaxation. No other salesman finds the entire family waiting to extend a sincere, friendly greeting.

Business interests using the EVENING newspaper as an advertising medium have the satisfaction of knowing they are meeting the RIGHT PEOPLE at the RIGHT HOUR.

This is an EVENING NEWSPAPER.

GOVERNOR MOODY GAINING IN FAVOR WITH DEMOCRATS

Is Being Boomed For President by Friends Who Sincerely Regard Him as Leader and Enemies Who Want to Get Him Out of State Politics

(United Press Staff Correspondent) AUSTIN, Feb. 10.—That politics swings like a pendulum is again being demonstrated in Texas.

The Moody pendulum swung to the top when the youthful attorney general defeated Governor Miriam A. Ferguson for her second term. It swung back when a number of Moody's pet campaign measures failed to pass the legislature. It reached the nadir when the constitutional amendments backed by Governor Moody were slaughtered at the polls.

Then came the up swing on the other side. Now Moody is being heralded as a possible nominee for president.

The movement is unique in this respect. Most booms for a governor are "favorite son" movements. In the case of Moody, the matter is receiving more serious consideration outside Texas than at home. It seems to be the old case of a prophet and honor.

One newspaper syndicate has had a scout in Texas investigating the strength, the why and the how of the Moody movement. He came from Ohio—home state of the Anti-Saloon League. Texans returning from trips into other sections of the country bring tales of inquiries about Governor Moody. It cannot be doubted that he has made the same sort of a hit through the country that he made in Texas when he began his political career.

Some Would Flatter. Inside Texas, the movement has four classes of supporters. Those who believe that the Democracy is waiting for some upstanding young man like Moody; those who want to flatter the young governor; those who want him out of the governor's office, and those who want him as a leader with whom to offset other movements.

The principal movement which Moody is sought to offset is the "un-instructed delegation" movement. Those against it are not so much against an uninstructed delegation as they are against the possibility that the uninstructed may be on the part of the people and not the delegates. They fear the delegates, if not privately instructed for some one, will at least be hand picked.

As to the flatterers, there are always persons and interests wanting back in executive sunshine. One of the weaknesses admitted against Moody is his unwillingness to affront a friend. Any state house newspaper man can cite instances when the governor has refrained from correcting a so-called spokesman for the reason that he thought the spokesman was sincere and he didn't care to hurt his feelings. This leads many to the mistaken conclusion that Moody is easily flattered.

He is further handicapped by the feeling that for him to go about deifying aspirations would be in effect an admission that he had such things in hope. He doesn't forget either that it was his chief political enemy —Jim Ferguson—who first linked Moody's name with the presidency. Ferguson criticized Moody during the last campaign, charging that Moody aspired to be president.

Cotton Move Good. Those who sincerely believe the Texas governor needs the Democratic party are being heard in other states—particularly Ohio.

Ohio is the home of the Anti-Saloon League. Dan Moody's defiance to Tammany Hall at a time when his name was being linked with Governor Al Smith of New York in connection with the presidential nomination must have been heard by the league leaders.

Those who want Moody out of the gubernatorial race, naturally would like to see him in the bigger arena. Louis J. Wardlaw, national officer, however, while in Austin Wardlaw was so closely in touch with the Jim Ferguson leaders that he was looked upon as the Ferguson choice. It is the men who have been on the Moody side in the recent political fights who would see their way cleared if Moody stepped into national politics.

For all Governor Moody's innocent smile, there isn't much put over him politically. He isn't falling to see how much he is profiting by the storm over what he will do. He knows that when he makes his definite announcement concerning his future plans much of the present interest will die down. No one works at a cross word puzzle after the missing words have been filled in.

Meantime, Governor Moody is believed to be strengthening himself politically through his movement for a cotton acreage reduction. It has made him better known through the south. Only one southern governor has been a hold out on the proposition. He likely will fall into line before February 20—the date set for the conference of southern governors called by Moody.

Senator Earle Mayfield is sponsoring a similar bit of campaign work for his campaign for re-election through his bill to stop government reports on cotton.

Not doubting the sincerity of both movements, their political effect can not be ignored.

THE AMERICAN LEIGON.

Most of us are more or less ignorant of the aims and purposes of one of the most important and worthy organizations in existence in this country today—the American Legion. Or rather may it be said that we are not altogether ignorant of its aims, but are passive rather than active in our response to the efforts being put forth all over the country by this organization. Particularly is this true of the great majority of people who are without active membership in the organization.

If we will but study the preamble to the constitution of the American Legion, we doubtless will have a greater appreciation of the work the order is doing. Our response to its efforts will doubtless be positive rather than negative, which too often has been the case in the past.

Following is the preamble:

"To uphold and defend the constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a 100 per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and goodwill on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

GETTING OUT OF THE RUT.

The agricultural industry in Texas is gradually but surely getting out of the rut in which it has been traveling for so long a time. Farmers all over the state are gradually getting away from the one-crop idea and the farms that formerly grew only cotton are now being planted in feed, vegetable products as well as cotton. Also the farmers are rapidly turning a good deal of their attention to two very important agricultural branches, dairying and poultry raising.

This is undoubtedly the one thing that will bring prosperity to the farming business in Texas. It is the one thing that will convert a poor, dilapidated looking farm into a real home for the farmer and his family.

A quarter or a half century ago many of the more intensely farmed states of this country were combating now facing. They had been reduced to almost the point of insolvency by the one-crop idea. Some of them grew only wheat, others grew only corn, while still others devoted most of their efforts to some other one particular crop.

They solved the agricultural problem just like Texas is solving it today. They cut down their acreage of wheat, corn or oats and devoted some of their time and farm space to a good dairy herd, to chickens and hogs. The result is that farm land that was then worth not more than $25 or $30 and acre is today worth four or five times that amount.

Now Texas farmers are doing the same thing and it will not be long until every worth while farmer in East Texas, north Texas, West Texas and South Texas will have a real farm, with a real farm home.

TEACH VOCATIONS TO GRADE SCHOOL PUPILS

By United Press.
HONOLULU.—Solutions of problems of vocational education is being reached in Hawaii more rapidly than in many of the states on the mainland, according to James R. Coxen, director of vocational education in the department of public instruction. Vocational education in most places is confined to boys and girls of high school age, while in Hawaii this activity is mainly with boys in the elementary schools who may never reach high school.

"In Hawaii it is being demonstrated that boys graduated from the elementary schools turn to agricultural classes in the territory. Here, the task of fitting growing children for the task of earning a livelihood is yearly growing more serious. So-called "white collar" jobs are scarce, since there is practically no manufacturing in the islands, due to the great distance from supplies of raw materials.

Already there are not sufficient clerical positions to supply mounting applications. With its sugar and pine agricultural in its industry. The apple plantations, Hawaii is essentially agricultural in its industry. The territory's population is constantly increasing and unless there is a growing "emigration" to the mainland or back to the Orient, territorial officials ultimately will be faced with a problem of unemployment due entirely to refusal of coming generations to work on the land.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN AND CONSTIPATION

Thousands of people eat bran regularly for the healthful roughage it provides. It is a splendid practice. But be sure you are really getting all the roughage you need when you eat bran. Doctors say it takes 100% bran to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only accomplish part-way results. That is why they fail!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. Just two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

You'll like the flavor and crispness of ALL-BRAN. Serve with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Mix with other cereals. Sprinkle into soups. Use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Service Department Aids Western Towns

STAMFORD.—Five towns who have made application to the service department of the West Texas chamber of commerce within the past months have been enabled through that organization to secure advantages which they sought for themselves. Barstow, Jacksboro, Logan, Bledsoe, and Miami, have each been seeking various additions for their cities in the form of hotels, bottling works, laundries and druggist.

Barstow writes the headquarters office here that arrangements are being completed for a hotel in that place. J. A. Loftin, secretary of Jacksboro, sends appreciation of the president of that organization for service of the West Texas chamber of commerce in helping to locate men interested in putting in a bottling plant and a laundry in his territory.

W. T. Patterson of the Rotan chamber of commerce notifies the regional chamber that the laundry project for his city is taking definite shape. Bledsoe advises that a druggist has been secured and that a doctor is now desiring, Miami writes that a laundry is performing satisfactorily in that place now.

These towns are representative of a number of the 300 affiliated towns making up the West Texas chamber of commerce membership, who call upon the service department of the organization throughout the year for aid in securing industrial and commercial enterprises. The department is under general direction of Manager Wade.

CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE HEADS TO MEET MONDAY

PORT WORTH.—Matters of mutual interest to Texas' three regional chambers of commerce will be discussed here February 13 at a conference of the three managers of the organization; Manager Homer D. Wade of the West Texas chamber of commerce; Manager W. N. Blanton of the East Texas chamber of commerce; and Manager Ray Leeman of the South Texas chamber of commerce.

We know what we are talking about because we have been in her kitchen several times—and we know also you are going to agree with us after you have spent a few days with her.

So instead of telling you about the virtues of La France Flour, we are going to let Mrs. Chitwood tell you what she thinks about its quality.

But we do want this occasion to express our warmest appreciation for your patronage on La France Flour. And to ask that you tell your friends about how well you like it. Gripings
By GUS

Due to the fact that tomorrow is Saturday, making tomorrow night Saturday night, permit us to call the attention of the dear reader to the fact that the parking spaces along the main drag will probably be as crowded as usual.

That fact itself is very dull and uninteresting. However, some of the incident circumstances attendant thereto are quite provoking to those in quest of a place to park. By that we mean the stunt of finding a parking place big enough for two cars and then driving your car right square into the middle of it and taking up all the room.

The curb is marked plainly into spaces that are plenty big for a car and if you would just watch and drive in between those marks you would be doing the other fellow a favor and the street would afford parking space for more cars. A little thing perhaps, but a feller has to gripe about something.

We were just wondering why Joe

Repaying Lindy's Visit to France

Making the 100 mile flight from Mexico City to New Orleans with all the grace with which Col. Lindbergh flies, the French aviators, Lieut. Joseph LeBrix and Capt. Dieudonne Costes, have arrived in the United States to repay Lindy's visit to Paris. From New Orleans they winged their way toward Washington, via Montgomery, Ala. Their plane, "Nungesser-Coli" is shown above with Le Brix (left) and Costes shown in the inset.

Thompson has one red wheel on his car.

No. We haven't bought a new car, we just had the old one washed. If the guy that done us would send us a bill marked paid we'd tell you who done it.

Watch the record of "suits filed" you might find out, 'cause he'll probably have to file suit to get his money anyway.

That bears out the truth of the statement that many a good coat of paint is hidden under the dirt.

CAPITOL ROTUNDA ROPED OFF WHILE CLIMBER WORKS

By United Press.
AUSTIN, Feb. 10.—The state capitol rotunda was roped off today to keep people from possible injury by a fall of "Bode" White, human fly, climbing its interior.
The rotunda has one death to its record. Ed Wheeler, painter, fell while painting the rotunda walls in 1923.

The moon is out nearly every night now, and we all could be enjoying bobbed parties if we had some snow and some sleds.

Aggies Start Spring Football March 12

By United Press.
 COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 10.—Spring football training will start at A. & M. March 12, with 75 griders expected to report to practice. The call was issued this week by Coach Dana X. Bible.

The training period will extend for six weeks under the direction of Bible and his assistant, Chuck Bassett.

Most of the time will be spent in developing a line to succeed the 1927 one, which carried the Aggies to a Southwestern championship. Many of last year's linemen will be lost through graduation, as will be Joel Hunt, one of the greatest backfield stars in conference history. Among the veterans of last season who will not return are Hunt, Sikes, Mosher, Deffbach, Figari, Holmes, Sprott, Rektorik, Wylie and Lister.

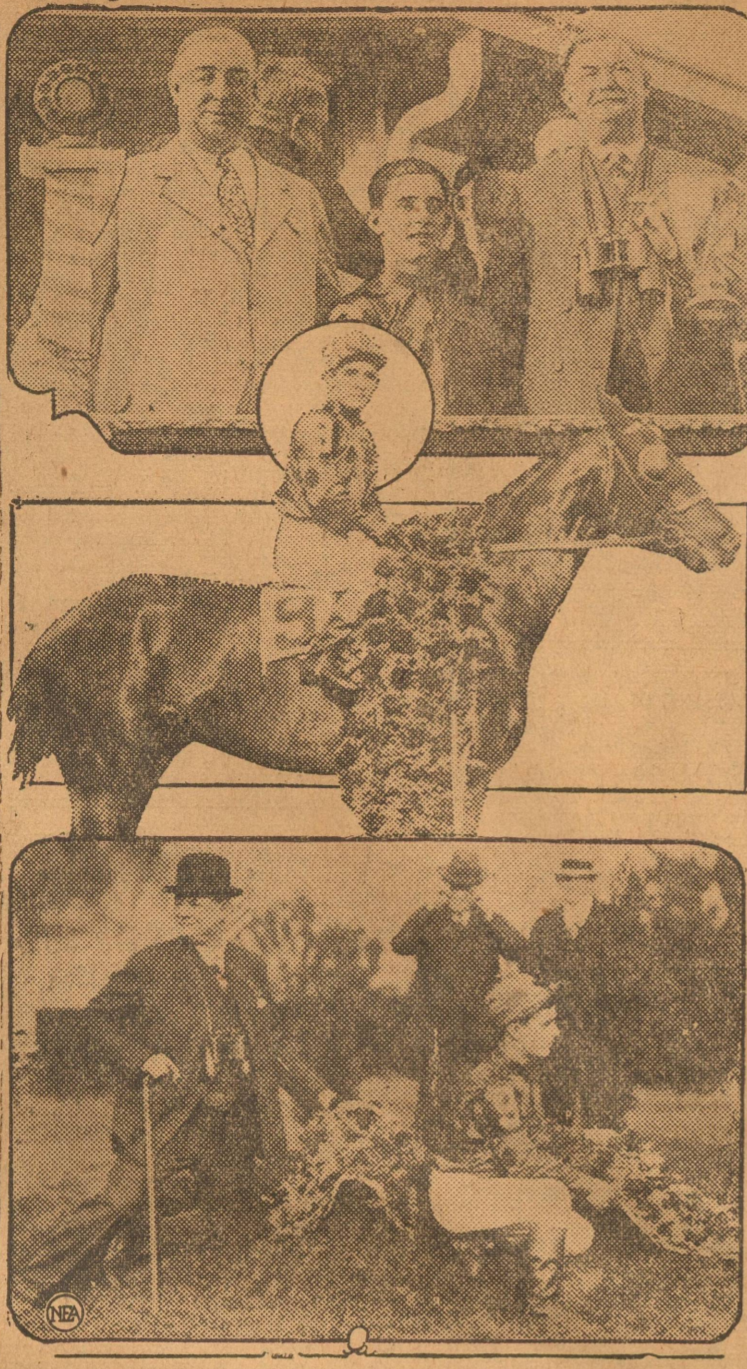

FRENCH SENATE TOO HOT FOR POINCARÉ

By United Press.
 PARIS.—Owing to the difference in temperature between the Palais Bourbon, where the chamber of deputies holds its sessions, and the Palais du Luxembourg, where the dignified senators sit, Premier Poincaré and Senator Chéron had to stay in bed for several days at the end of the budget discussion.

As head of the government, Premier Poincaré had to make 10 trips back and forth between the two houses at the last night session. Senator Chéron as reporter of the bill in the senate was obliged to do the same. The lower house has a normal temperature but the upper house is like a hot house. Moreover, it was bitterly cold and rainy that night.

When M. Poincaré did not appear for a couple of days the reports got around that he was about to retire. The telephone bell in his home in the Rue Marbeuf buzzed and buzzed. M. Poincaré, who merely wanted to get a little well earned repose, settled the matter by taking the receiver off the hook.

Twenty Candidates Out For Horned Frog Track Practice Wed.

Special Correspondence.
 FORT WORTH, Feb. 10.—Twenty candidates for the 1928 Horned Frog track team reported Wednesday afternoon to Coach Matty Bell. Practice will begin immediately, equipment having been issued to the entire squad.

The track men will work out daily at 4 p. m. Cunningham, former Frog track and field star and co-captain of the team last year will serve as Bell's assistant and will be manager of the team.

Cunningham probably will have charge of the squad most of the time until after the Frog basketball team finishes its Southwest conference schedule. As usual, Coach Bell is up against a tough proposition in developing a team as track talent has always been rather scarce at T. C. U.

The situation was made all the more gloomy when Merlin Toler, Sweetwater, flash, dropped out of school for a term. Toler served his first year as a member of the Frog varsity track team last year and showed promise of developing into the greatest all-round track and field man to perform under T. C. U. colors.

The 1928 team is led by Kenneth McCorkle, Strawn, the fleet youngster who received national attention last year when he unofficially tied the world's record in the century dash. He placed in every meet the Frogs participated in and carried off first honors in the dashes in several of them. "Bud" Norman, Fred Brasted, and Charlie Hilburn are the other last year men back. Cecil "Buzz" Morgan, San Angelo, who lettered in 1927, also will be back this year.

Ranger High Girls Meet Cisco Tonight

The Ranger high school girls basketball team will invade the camp of the Lobo Queens, tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Cisco.

It will be the first time this year that the Ranger girls and the Cisco girls have met on the court.

Miss Wilma Simer, coach of the Ranger team, has developed a strong first year contender. It is the first time in years that Ranger high school has had a girl's basketball team.

The Lobo Queens were the state champions in 1927 and have been playing consistent ball all this season.

The Ranger squad has a nice record for past performances. They have won by good margins over Strawn, Caddo and Olden and have lost but one game.

They lost to Dublin by a small margin. The Dublin aggregation is making a strong bid for the girls basketball championship and have scored 1 wins over all of their opponents this year.

The game at Cisco tonight is due to be hard fought from the first whistle and a crowd of high school students are planning to accompany the Ranger team to Cisco.

Starting Ranger line up: Zetha May Lindsay and Net Egan and guards; Frances Conchlin and Corrine Bearden, centers; Rebecca Rogers and Olive Moffett, forwards.

Razorback Football Schedule Announced

By United Press.
 FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 10. Three Southwestern conference football teams are included on Arkansas university's football schedule this fall.

Arkansas will open the season with Mississippi university at Oxford on Sept. 29. The first conference game will be with Baylor university at Little Rock on Oct. 13.

The next week Arkansas plays Texas university at Austin and the following week meets Texas A. & M. at Fayetteville. The fourth week Arkansas plays Louisiana State university at Shreveport, which will be included as a conference game.

The scheduled for the year: Mississippi at Oxford, Sept. 29; Hendrix at Fayetteville, Oct. 6; Baylor at Little Rock, Oct. 13; Texas at Austin, Oct. 20; Texas Aggies at Fayetteville, Oct. 27; Louisiana at Shreveport, Nov. 3; Rolla Miners at Fayetteville, Nov. 17; Oklahoma Baptist university at Fayetteville, Nov. 24; Southwestern university at Memphis, Nov. 29.

Arkansas was also scheduled to play Rice at Houston on Dec. 8, but the game was cancelled when conference officials prohibited a game that late in the year.

MEXICO HIKES STAMPS FOR AID OF AVIATION

MEXICO CITY.—Mexico will raise $500,000 for civil aviation during 1928 through increased postal rates. Beginning Feb. 1, an increase of two centavos (one cent) will go into effect on all first class mail going into the interior or to foreign countries. A letter will cost ten centavos to mail instead of eight.

The government's order for the increase was inspired partly by the visit of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and the consequent great interest in aviation.

In order to encourage thrift among the poorer classes, the government will also begin on Feb. 1 the sale of thrift stamps.

about the same time every goal is made. You will say that don't mean anything, but don't try and tell me.

"What I mean to say is there are enough saps to get a crowd to anything if you only arrange it properly and inject the element of sport name-ly that there will be a lot of argument and nobody wins too often. By combining chess and some other game you would: 1—introduce a new sport. 2—Get the chess public to know other game. 3—Get the other public to know the chess. 4—Thereby win both ways, which is the idea in sport.

"Topping you will publish this for it is the goods. "JOE CARUPA."

DRIVES AUTO OVER RAILWAY 125 MILES

By United Press.
 MIAMI, Fla.—"Walking the rails" has now been superseded by a more modern version, "riding the rails."

The practicability of running the automobile over railroad ties was demonstrated recently by Claude Nolan, wealthy Miami sportsman, who drove a La Salle roadster from Miami to Key West, a distance of 125 miles, over the trestles of the Overseas railroad extension in 14 hours. Nolan emptied a bottle of water from the Atlantic taken from Miami Beach into the Gulf of Mexico at Key West to mark the completion of his exploit.

Three of his tires, chewed by the cross trestles and bolts of the track, blew out while crossing the Knight

Key trestle, a seven-mile span over the depths of the Gulf of Mexico. Kenneth Goodson, Nolan's relief driver, changed the tires wearing a safety belt similar to those used by window washers on skyscrapers, dangling from the ties of the trestle. Both drivers were burned a brilliant red at the finish of their exploit from the long hours beneath the brilliant tropic sun.

HOOKS and SLIDES

Big Shots of Tennis
 The United States Golf association already has announced the ten amateur players which, in its opinion, ranks above every other golf star and because of the predominance of American golf that territory taken in by the golf association may be considered to be the whole universe.

With the tennis association, however, the situation is slightly different. American tennis doesn't predominate the world and in fact the "first ten" soon to be announced by the United States Lawn Tennis association may not include a number of the ranking stars who in a world ranking group would be very much in evidence.

The "first ten" has not been announced by the tennis association but there is no death penalty for guessing and a number of very curious guesses have already been made.

Knowing that, here's one guess that may appeal to some as good a guess as any made.

Big Bill Tilden, Francis T. Hunter, Manuel Alonso and George M. Lott Jr., are sure to be included in the ranking ten. So that leaves only six places to really guess at and the guess of this column for the other six places is that Johnny Hennnessy, John Van Ryn, Arnold W. Jones, Lewis N. White, John Doeg and Fritz Mercier will be ranked along with the four aforementioned stars.

Drop Johnston?
 Don't be too surprised, if you are surprised any at all, if the elimination of little Bill Johnston is announced.

Remember that Dick Williams, one of the pets of the association, was not ranked several years ago because he was laid up with a lame ankle and was not able to play in enough tournament competition.

Johnston was never physically able to play last year and he also saved himself as much as possible in order to have every ounce of strength available for the defense of the Davis cup.

That America failed and France won the Davis cup certainly cannot be blamed entirely on Johnston. Perhaps, however, he could have been placed somewhere on the list.

Williams, when he was left off the ranking list, was so disabled physically that he couldn't play at all. Little Bill played his heart out.

The ascent of young Lott over Alonso can be expected in the rankings of he announced officially soon.

If such a thing occurs, it is a very promising thing for American tennis because Alonso is one of the best players in the world, and the rise of Lott, as well as Can Ryn, White, Doeg and other youngsters, is an indication that while Tilden and Johnston are going fast, there are some youngsters who are breezing along to take their place.

The position of Hunter in American tennis is, of course, beyond doubt and he surely will be ranked just below Tilden again this year.

All in all, the guess, as a whole, looks pretty good.

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

A correspondent who has for some time been honoring this column with extraneous advice now comes to the fore with some suggestions regarding chess and kindred sports. Joe Carupa is well known to our readers and needs no introduction. Here is his latest letter:

Harrisburg, Pa.

"Dear Sir:
 "I see you published the letter I sent you giving the dope on the boxing situation. I think you have some sense after all. I will now write you about an idea that I have that somebody ought to jump on before somebody else does."

"I see by the papers that a guy that won the world's chess title is holding out for a bigger guarantee. Well, you can't blame him for that. But the idea I have is why don't they whoopee this situation so it will mean something instead of just being a pain in the neck."

"When the last chess series was fought some people said it was in the bag. I am for that. That is what gave me my idea. I don't believe it was, or it would of been interesting."

"Now that is what I am getting at. If somebody would work up a little noise over the chess situation and say there wasn't any logical contender and all that hokey like you do about boxing or whatever there's a champion of they could save a world series at Madison Square Garden. You will say it takes fifteen or twenty minutes to make a move and everybody would walk out on them. Well, try and make Tex Rickard sore by walking out after you've been in. But they wouldn't. They would stay in and make remarks like take your whiskers out of that soup, etcetera, and chess players are very temperamental like tennis players.

"But my idea is to combine some similar sport like wrestling that also takes about fifteen minutes to make a move, and put it in between moves. They could start off in snappy with the first move in the chess and then start the first wrestling bout. At the end of ten minutes they could ring a bell to show people there was only five minutes left for Flat Face like to throw his opponent and also that Battling Bogorjubov only had five minutes to start the second chess move. Then the excitement would get big and finally after the four-minute bell and three-minute bell, etcetera, whoever's turn it was to win would get a full and vice versa on the chess.

"If you object to this I would say help yourself about the game you have with the chess. It might be ice hockey. That's my idea of another good bad game. I saw a game once and nobody can tell me that anybody could put that little MUCK in the cage if I was there trying to stop it. Also I see a light go up by the cage

Poultry Producers Of Eastland County Purchase New Truck

The Bankhead Poultry Producers' association, with headquarters at Eastland, has just received a new one-ton Pontiac truck, which was purchased from R. J. (Bobbie) Bates, dealer of Eastland.
This new truck, said by Mr. Bates to be the first received in Texas from the new $8,000,000 factory, is a wonderful performer, according to George W. Briggs, secretary of the Bankhead Poultry Producers' association. It has four-wheel brakes and four speeds. An individual body is being built for the chassis, which will be designed especially for the Bankhead's use and painted with Bankhead signs on it.
The new truck will be used largely to haul Bankhead Poultry Producers' association products from Eastland to Fort Worth, a distance of 115 miles, and will be on the highways much of the time. Being a thing of beauty as well as a wonderful performer, the new truck will be a traveling advertisement for the Bankhead Poultry Producers' association, the city of Eastland and Eastland county, "the egg basket of Texas."
George W. Briggs, secretary, and I. E. Box, manager of the Bankhead Poultry association, state that many new members are being added to the association. Six, they state, have been added this week.
Mr. Briggs stated this morning that the association continues to pay an average of three cents more per dozen to its members for eggs than non-members are receiving from other sources.
Mr. Briggs stated also that the association would have some important announcements to make in the very near future regarding plans that would greatly increase the usefulness of the association to its members.

SEEK NEW LIST OF BEAUTIES OF WORLD

LONDON. — Comeliness experts here are once more trying to solve the problem as to who are the world's most beautiful women.
One gives the following three as topping the lists for all time: Queen Nefertiti, the Egyptian; Mona Lisa; and Mrs. Davenport (as portrayed by Romney).
Another expert is of the opinion that the three most beautiful women of modern times are: Viscountess Curzon; Lady Nuburnholme, and Lady Brownlow.
It is worthy of note that Lady Brownlow, formerly Fiss Kitty Kinloch, is a member of the Davenport family; also that Mrs. Richard Norton, another of London's beautiful women, belongs to the Davenport line.

HAWAIIAN SUGAR CROP SET AT 816,000 TONS

By United Press.
HONOLULU, T. H.—Preliminary estimates for the Hawaiian raw sugar crop for 1923 has been placed at 816,000 tons by the Hawaiian Sugar Planter's association. Experts believe that in all probability the estimate is too low and that it will later be increased to between 840,000 and 850,000 tons.
Arthur H. Rice, retiring president of the Honolulu stock and bond exchange, believes that as a result of increasing acreage and more intensive cultivation the time when the annual Hawaiian sugar crop amounts to 1,000,000 tons is not far distant.

THE STORY THUS FAR
 Margaret Odell, the "Canary," a former Follies girl, was one of Broadway's favorites and a prominent figure in New York night life. When her strangled body was found lying on the davenport in her apartment, New York was confronted with one of the most baffling murders in its history. Markham brings Vance with him to the disordered apartment, where police investigation is under way.

CHAPTER IV
 The two rooms had apparently been thoroughly ransacked. Clothes and various articles were strewn about the floor. The doors of both clothes closets (there was one in each room) were open, and to judge from the chaos in the bedroom closet, it had been hurriedly searched; although the closet off of the living-room, which was given over to the storage of infrequently used items, appeared to have been ignored. The drawers of the dressing-table and chest had been partly emptied onto the floor, and the bedclothes had been snatched away and the mattress turned back. Two chairs and a small occasional table were upset; several vases were broken, as if they had been searched and then thrown down in the wrath of disappointment; and the Marie Antoinette mirror had been broken.

The escritoire was open, and its pigeonholes had been emptied in a jumbled pile upon the blotter. The doors of the Boule cabinet swung wide, and inside there was the same confusion of contents that marked the interior of the escritoire. The bronze-and-porcelain lamp on the end of the library table was lying on its side, its satin shade torn where it had struck the sharp corner of a silver bonbonniere.

Two objects in the general disarray particularly attracted my attention—a black metal document box of the kind purchasable at any stationery store, and a large jewel case of sheet steel with a circular inset lock. The latter of these objects was destined to play a curious and sinister part in the investigation to follow.

The document box, which was now empty, had been placed on the library table, next to the overturned lamp. Its lid was thrown back, and the key was still in the lock. In all the litter and disorganization of the room, this box seemed to be the outstanding indication of calm and orderly activity on the part of the wrecker.

The jewel-case, on the other hand, had been violently wrenched open. It sat on the dressing table in the bedroom, dented and twisted out of shape by the terrific leverage that had been necessary to force it, and beside it lay a brass-handled, cast-iron poker which had evidently been brought from the living-room and used as a makeshift chisel with which to pry open the lock.

Vance had glanced but casually at the different objects in the rooms as we made our rounds, but when he came to the dressing-table he paused abruptly. Taking out his monocle he adjusted it carefully and leaned over the broken jewel case.

"Most extr'ordin'ry!" he murmured, tapping the edge of the lid with his gold pencil. "What do you make of that, Sergeant?"

Heath had been eyeing Vance with narrowed lids as the latter bent over the dressing-table.

"What's in your mind, Mr. Vance?" he, in turn asked.

"Oh, more than you could ever guess," Vance answered lightly. "But just at the moment I was toying with the idea that this steel case was never torn open by that wholly inadequate iron poker, what?"

Heath nodded his head approvingly.

"So you, too, noticed that, did you? And you're dead right. That poker might've twisted the box a little, but it never snapped that lack."

He turned to Inspector Moran.

"That's the puzzler I've sent for 'Prof.' Brenner to clean up—if he can. The jimmying of that jewel-case looks to me like a high-class professional job. No Sunday-school superintendent did it."

Vance continued for a while to study the box, but at length he turned away with a perplexed frown.

"I say!" he commented. "Something devilish queer took place here last night."

"Oh, not so queer," Heath amended. "It was a thorough job, all right, but there's nothing mysterious about it."

Vance polished his monocle and put it away.

"If you go to work on that basis, Sergeant," he returned carelessly, "I greatly fear you'll run aground on a reef. And may kind Heaven bring you safe to shore!"

(Tuesday, Sept. 11; 9:30 a. m.)

A few minutes after we had returned to the living-room Doctor Doremus, the chief medical examiner, arrived, jaunty and energetic. Immediately in his train came three other men, one of whom carried a bulky camera and a folded tripod. These were Captain Dubois and Detective Bellamy, fingerprint experts, and Peter Quackenbush, the official photographer.

"Well, well, well!" exclaimed Doctor Doremus. "Quite a gathering of the clans. More trouble, eh? I wish your friends, Inspector, would choose a more respectable hour for their little differences. This early rising upsets my liver."

He shook hands with everybody in a brisk, business-like manner.

"Where's the body?" he demanded breezily, looking about the room. He caught sight of the girl on the davenport. "Ah! A lady."

Stepping quickly forward, he made a rapid examination of the dead girl.

Stepping quickly forward, he made a rapid examination of the dead girl.

scrutinizing her neck and fingers, moving her arms and head to determine the condition of rigor mortis, and finally unflinching her stiffened limbs and laying her out straight on the long cushions, preparatory to a more detailed necropsy.

The rest of us moved toward the bedroom, and Heath motioned to the fingerprint men to follow.

"Go over everything," he told them. "But take a special look at this jewel-case and the handle of this poker, and give that document-box in the other room a close-up-and-down."

"Right," asserted Captain Dubois. "We'll begin in here while the doc's busy in the other room." And he and Bellamy set to work.

Our interest naturally centered on the captain's labors. For fully five minutes we watched him inspecting the twisted steel sides of the jewel-case and the smooth, polished handle of the poker. He held the objects gingerly by their edges, and, placing a jeweler's glass in his eye, flashed his pocket-light on every square inch of them. At length he put them down, scowling.

"No finger-prints here," he announced. "Wiped clean."

"I mighta known it," grumbled Heath. "It was a professional job, all right." He turned to the other expert. "Found anything, Bellamy?"

"Nothing to help," was the grumpy reply. "A few old smears with dust over 'em."

"Looks like a washout," Heath commented irritably; "though I'm hoping for something in the other room."

At this moment Doctor Doremus came into the bedroom and, taking a sheet from the bed, returned to the davenport and covered the body of the murdered girl. Then he snapped shut his case, and putting on his hat at a rakish angle, stepped forward with the air of a man in great haste to be on his way.

"Simple case of strangulation from behind," he said, his words running together. "Digital bruises about the front of the throat; thumb bruises in the sub-occipital region. Attack must have been unexpected. A quick, competent job, though deceased evidently battled a little."

"How do you suppose her dress became torn, doctor?" asked Vance. "Oh, that? Can't tell. She may have done it herself—instantive motions of clutching for air."

"Not likely though, what?"

"Why not? The dress was torn and the bouquet was ripped off, and the fellow who was choking her had both hands on her throat. Who else could've done it?"

Vance shrugged his shoulders and began lighting a cigaret.

Heath, annoyed by his apparently inconsequential interruption, put the next question.

"Don't those marks on the fingers mean that her rings were stripped off?"

"Possibly. They're fresh abrasions. Also, there's a couple of abrasions on the left wrist and slight contusions on the thenar eminence, indicating that a bracelet may have been forcibly pulled over her hand."

"That fits O. K.," pronounced Heath, with satisfaction. "And it looks like they snatched a pendant of some kind off her neck."

"Probably," indifferently agreed Doctor Doremus. "The piece of chain had cut into her flesh a little behind the right shoulder."

"And the time?"

"Nine or 10 hours ago. Say, about 11:30—maybe a little before. Not after midnight, anyway." He had been teetering restlessly on his toes.

"Anything else?"

Biscuits . . .

and what Mrs. Johnston found out about the taste of cooking fats!

"WHEN I first saw the Crisco advertisement which said, 'Taste your Cooking Fat,' wrote Mrs. W. L. Johnston, 'I, being a woman and curious, opened the Crisco can and took a very little upon a spoon. I received such a surprise—and such a pleasant one! No wonder my biscuits, pies and cakes are so much better since I have been using this pleasant, sweet tasting shortening, Crisco.'"

Have you yourself ever tasted Crisco? Put a little Crisco on the tip of a spoon; on the tip of another a little of any other shortening. Taste first Crisco, then the other fat. Isn't the difference astonishing?

Crisco will make just as much improvement in your cooking results as its sweet, fresh taste would lead you to expect. Just try the recipes given below and you'll know exactly what we mean.

 Use one cup whole-wheat flour in place of 1 cup bread flour. Add ½ cup Sultana Raisins before adding milk.

Lemon or Orange Tea Biscuits
(Dropped or Rolled)
 Stir in 1 teaspoon grated rind before adding milk.

Maple Nut Biscuits
(Rolled)
 Roll dough ¼ inch thick, spread with ½ cup shaved maple sugar mixed with 3 tablespoons Crisco. Roll and cut as for cheese biscuits. Lay in pan, sprinkle maple sugar over each and bake with ½ walnut in center.

Peanut Biscuits
(Rolled)
 Sift 1 tablespoon sugar with dry ingredients. Beat two eggs, add enough milk to make ¾ cup. Stir in ½ cup chopped peanuts before adding milk.

Cheese Rolls (Rolled)
Delicious for soups and salads
 Roll dough ¼ inch thick. Sprinkle with about ¾ cup (grated) cheese. Roll as you would jelly roll. Cut slices ¾ inches thick, lay in Criscoed pan cut side down.

Delicious Raisin Biscuits
(Rolled)
 Sift ½ cup sugar with dry ingredients. Beat one egg, add enough more milk to make ¾ cup. Stir in ½ cup chopped raisins before adding milk.

Date Biscuits
(Rolled)
 Follow recipe for Peanut Biscuits omitting nuts. Roll thin, cut in rounds, put stoned date in center, wet edges, fold over, press together.

Cheese Biscuits
(Dropped or Rolled)
 Stir in ½ cup grated cheese before adding milk.

Master Recipe
for both "Drop" and "Rolled" Biscuits
 2 cups bread flour ¾ cup milk or water
 5 teaspoons baking powder (for "drop" biscuits)
 ¾ teaspoon salt ¾ cup milk or water
 4 tablespoons Crisco (for "rolled" biscuits)

Sift dry ingredients together 3 times. Work Crisco in with fork. Add liquid gradually.

FOR "DROP" (Emergency) BISCUITS: drop by spoonfuls on Criscoed baking pan. Brush top of biscuits with melted Crisco or milk. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 10 to 15 minutes.

FOR ROLLED BISCUITS: form dough into shape, roll ¼ inch thick, cut. For scone-shaped biscuits, cut squares, then diagonally in half. Brush top of biscuits with melted Crisco or milk. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Makes about 12 biscuits.

To use buttermilk or sour milk beat in ¼ teaspoon soda for each cup of milk. (If milk is very thick, use a little more milk.) Use same amount of baking powder and follow method for either "drop" or "rolled" biscuits.

January Commercial Failures Show Decline

AUSTIN, Feb. 10.—"Commercial failures during the first month of the year were the fewest for any January since 1920," according to records observed by Beverly Nichols, editor of the Texas Business Review, monthly publication of the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas.

"There were but 66 insolvencies having a liability of $1,571,000, compared to 134 failures involving $2,348,000 in January, 1927," writes Mr. Nichols in the Review. "An increase in the business mortality rate from December to January is a normal movement and a comparison of the two months should be made from that standpoint. However, companies going into bankruptcy amounted to

PERSONALS.

Stewart Nemir, formerly engaged in the mercantile business in Eastland who still has real estate and other interests in the city, is in the city for a few days visiting his brother. "Eastland looks good to me and I may again locate here," Mr. Nemir said.

COOKING OF MEATS DEMONSTRATED BY MRS. CHITWOOD

Preparation Of Vegetables Is Also Place On Friday's Program At Cooking School

After spending three days demonstrating to large crowds of interested spectators, on how to prepare the dainties that go to make up any meal, Mrs. Ida Chitwood, lecturer and demonstrator of home economics, on the fourth day of the fifth annual cooking school being sponsored by the Ranger Times, told a crowded house how to prepare the base of the meats—meats and vegetables.

She gave short lectures on the two meal elements to the large crowd of women who attended the meeting Thursday at the American Legion club rooms, Ranger. "Feeling your interest so keenly in meat cooking suggestions," she said, "and knowing that the cooking meats is the important element in correct diet, I herewith present a few timely suggestions relative to the preparation of different meats.

"For a roast, meat should be placed in an oven in which the temperature is between 400 and 500 degrees F. This will keep the juices from escaping. After 15 minutes the temperature should be lowered to about 350 degrees.

"If soup is desired, the meat should be cut into small pieces in order to expose as much surface as possible. It should be placed in slightly salted water and allowed to stand until the liquid becomes pink. This will be an indication that most of the juice has been drawn out of the muscle tubes near the surface. Heat should be applied slowly so that the connective tissues will swell gradually and squeeze out more juice from the fibers in the interior. The meat should be allowed to simmer for a long time, but it should not be allowed to boil. This gives a nutritious broth.

"Bacon, pork chops and other fat meats should be cooked slowly. The fat should be removed as fast as it fries from the meat.

"To produce a dish in which the meat retains part of its juices, as in a stew, all or part of the meat may be seared lightly and then cooked slowly.

"Tough meats may be softened by chopping or grinding, by pounding to tear apart the connective tissues, or by the use of acids such as vinegar or lemon juice.

"Long hanging, at a low temperature, develops acids within the meat which soften the tissues somewhat without injuring the quality of the meat."

Mrs. Chitwood told the audience of the value of vegetables and of the different proportions of food values in each vegetable.

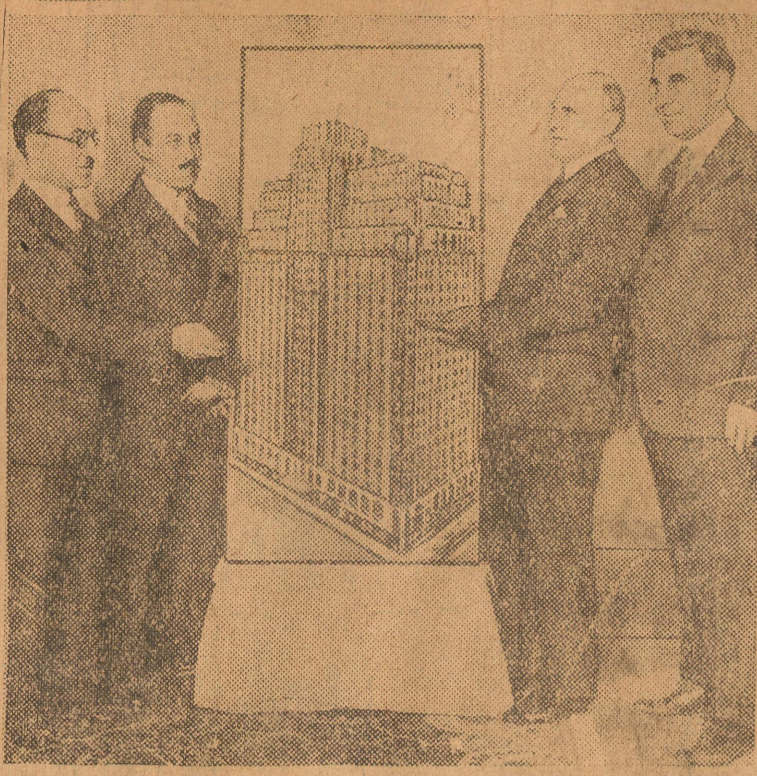

"In the vegetable kingdom, the cereals form a very important part of our diet by supplying chiefly the carbohydrates, or heat giving matter. Another nutritious group termed pulse are those which have their seed enclosed in a pod. The most familiar are peas, beans and lentils; peas and beans are eaten in the group or unripe state, as well as in the dried. Vegetables included in the pulse group are very nourishing if they can be digested. They contain a large amount of flesh forming matter, usually a fair amount of starch, but are deficient in fat. Peas and beans also contain sulphur. Lentils contain less sulphur.

PIMPLY-FACED PEOPLE ARE SELDOM POPULAR!

Nowadays, the person who is sought after and admired by others is the one with a clear and appealing complexion. Distressing skin conditions, such as pimples, rashes and eczema, may now be quickly banished if you will ask your druggist for Black and White Ointment and use it according to directions. It is pleasant to use, highly beneficial and scientifically safe.

For best results use Black and White Skin Soap with Black and White Ointment. All dealers sell them at small cost.

Hotel Lincoln Dedicated To The Public

An idea, unique in the dedication of public buildings, will be utilized on Lincoln's Birthday when the new 1400-room Hotel Lincoln, Eighth Avenue, 44th to 45th Streets, New York City, will be dedicated to the Civic interests of the City. Photo shows Irwin S. and Henry I. Chanin, builders and operators, presenting a model of the hotel Lincoln to John C. Forster, President of the Eighth Avenue Association and John E. Gratke, representing the Broadway Association.

COWBELL IS EMPLOYED TO QUIET SCIENTISTS

PARIS.—Members of the Academy of Sciences have been so noisily interested in each other's conversation during official sessions that President Henry has introduced a cowbell to still the clamor instead of the ordinary small tinkling affair which nobody heard.

Sessions of the scientific institution sometimes resembles a country fair, the learned men ballyhooing each for his particular invention or discovery. While some noted savant was reading a paper on the authenticity of the Glosel finds or the affinity of man and the ape, a score of the conferees are exchanging views on a score of other subjects. At one of these sessions President Henry arose and said:

"My dear colleagues, the little bell which I found on my desk on my election to the presidency of this august assembly, is entirely insufficient to bring you to order. Therefore, permit me to offer you this cowbell from Chamonix, in the Alps. It has resounded for many years in the region of eternal snow and its appeal has been heard over many miles of Swiss valleys. Listen to it."

He grabbed the handle with both hands and when the echoes died away there was a silence in the hall like that in the neighborhood of the North Pole.

Hundreds of New Yorkers paused to watch the skyscrapers sway in the recent high winds. Isn't New York enforcing that curfew law?

SHOW HATS LIKE FISH LONDON.—Hats which resemble fish are the latest models to be displayed in the fashionable shops of Mayfair. The most unique style is made of velours, stitched with silk to resemble scales. The impression of fins is obtained with fluted ribbons which are attached to both sides of the hat. Two jeweled beads placed on the front of this tight-fitting model complete the mermaid effect. Although shimmering silver and glistening green are popular colors for this newest innovation in millinery, an exotic mackerel shade is by far the most lovely.

ROME.—If an Italian having a liking for high-powered motor cars should decide that he wanted numbers of autos instead of one capable of making 100-horsepower he could sell his speed car, and with the saving on taxation buy two small cars annually. A 100-horsepower automobile is taxed $640 per year. "Eat German meat," he cried and there came a response from a member of the Opposition, "and pour German water into German milk," a sally which was greeted with roars of laughter in the house when members suddenly remembered that the wife of the fervid Nationalist, who is a landowner, had recently been fined heavily for selling adulterated milk.
