

OIL DRILLERS SEEK DEEPER PRODUCTION

LARGER OIL RESERVOIRS MAY YET BE TAPPED IN SANDS BELOW PAY LEVELS SO FAR ATTAINED

There is evidence that oil men have faith in the doctrine that where oil was, oil is. This is borne out by the obvious tendency to direct their activities to the territory lying near the old shallow sand production, and there go on down for the deep Ranger State. This has concrete verification in the activities in the vicinity of the seven-year-old Palo Pinto well on the Swenson lease, which is reported to have made its owners $2,000,000 during its life and is said to be still one of the best producers in the field. "Vicinity" may be the most accurate word to use. As a matter of fact, Cosby, on the R. B. Thomas lease (the old Satterfield land) is about a mile and a half away from the Palo Pinto well to the southwest of it. However, a point of interest to oil men is, the Palo Pinto still shows good pressure and there is an apparent disposition to hug up as close to it as is permitted in recent prospecting, and to go deeper.

Ignore Shallow Gas.
Cosby, on the above named location, is now down 3363 feet. The owners passed up 4,500,000 feet of gas in the shallow sand to go on down for the Ranger pay, it is said. This well is in the canyon, some eight miles northeast of Ranger.

Seeking Ranger Sand.
Daniels & Holliday No. 1, on the Ranney, is reported to show for 3,500,000 feet of dry gas at 1925 feet. They are going on down for the Ranger pay.

Submarine Rammed-- Goes to Bottom

THIRTY-FOUR SAILORS FACE SUDDEN DEATH

Three Members of Crew of S-51 Saved After Crash, Others Believed Drowned.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 26. Hoping that some or all of the 34 men who went down with the submarine S-51 when it was rammed by the steamer City of Rome, may be alive, feverish rescue workers were making progress tonight.

The S-51 sank off Block Island, which is near the western tip of Long Island, almost immediately after she was struck last night by the City of Rome, a 3,000-ton passenger vessel en route from southern ports to Boston.

Three of the submarine's crew were saved by the steamer, but the other 34, including Lieut. R. H. Dodson, commander, are held prisoners, dead or alive, within the sunken hull.

Collision Reported.
First meagre word of the accident came in a message from Capt. J. H. Diehl of the City of Rome, reporting that his ship had collided with the submarine, the submarine had sunk and giving the names of the three men saved. Rescue ships were sent at once from the naval stations at Newport, R. I., and New London. Tonight the crews of the rescue ships and divers were trying to place chains about the submarine's hull as the first step towards raising her. The submarine was located directly over the spot where the S-51 and divers were sent down to the submarine.

Alfred Dyer of New Bedford, Mass.; Dewey Kyle of Peoria, Miss.; and Michael S. Lira of St. Louis, are the rescued men. They were taken to Boston late today by the City of Rome.

The S-51 was virtually cut in half by the impact of the collision, according to eye-witnesses. The three men said they were almost sure that Commander R. H. Dodson and several others had drowned before their eyes. None of the rescued men was able to give an exact account of the disaster. They agreed their rescue was nothing more of a miracle.

Feverish work is being continued by the salvaging crew over the spot where the submarine lies in 130 feet of water. Naval authorities have not given up hope of finding the men alive. They believe the submarine was not entirely crushed in the crash and there is a chance of finding some of the men alive in water-tight sections now on the bottom.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The navy department received a message tonight from Rear Admiral Plunkett, commandant of the New York naval district, stating that four naval vessels equipped with derricks and cutting equipment could not arrive at the scene of the S-51 disaster before noon tomorrow. Naval officers at most despaired of bringing any of the imprisoned men to the surface alive after this message came.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur today announced "immediate" investigation would be held of the ramming of the submarine S-51 by the City of Rome.

After calling personally at the white house to acquaint President Coolidge with details of the disaster, Wilbur said that relief work was being pushed as fast as possible.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—A terrific rush of men for the ladders, the splash of water, struggling humans in the water, noise and confusion and then rescue. This jumble of impressions tumbled from the lips of the three men who arrived here today and tried to tell of their escape from the submarine S-51, after it had been rammed and sunk.

The men were brought here on the City of Rome, scratched, bruised and shaken. Michael S. Lira, one of the rescued men, told a graphic story.

"I was asleep in my hammock below," he said. "Suddenly there was a terrific jolt that hurled me from my hammock. I rushed to the ladder. There were several officers and members of the crew about it. I saw Commander Dodson start up the ladder and I followed him. It was difficult climbing because the submarine was tilted at a crazy angle. I do not remember much about what happened, but the next I knew I was splashing about in the water. It was dark and there was lots of noise. Four men had been on watch duty. When the crash came they were thrown into the water. I recall seeing them struggling in the water for a moment. Then I didn't see them any more. I kept struggling to keep afloat. It wasn't very easy because the sea was high and there was so much excitement. But finally I saw a lifeboat coming.

"Dyer and Kyle and myself were picked up, but they couldn't get any of the others. They went down too

WOMAN KILLED IN FIGHT WITH ANOTHER WOMAN

Mystery Surrounds Recluse in San Antonio, Once Wealthy, Whose Body Is Unclaimed.

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 26.—From a life of wealth in New York or Yonkers, N. Y., to that of a recluse in San Antonio, Mrs. Mabel Longworth Sheridan, 30, is in jail charged with murder in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Sheridan who resided in the same house with Mrs. Cobb. The two women were found by officers lying on the floor in Mrs. Cobb's room after neighbors reported a fight had been in progress there. The walls were spotted with blood and the furniture overturned indicating a desperate struggle. Mrs. Cobb was slightly conscious and made signs she wished to speak but was unable to do so. Mrs. Sheridan was taken to a hospital, where she regained consciousness, and was then taken to jail. She has refused to talk.

Jewelry valued at $30,000 was found by officers in Mrs. Cobb's room, but none of it was identified by persons who knew her as jewelry they had seen her wearing. Mrs. Cobb was a mystery. She had no close acquaintances, but told a few who knew her slightly that her husband died 20 years ago and she had no children.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Jewels worth $25,000 sought following the killing of Mrs. Ada McCobb, were found today wrapped in a cloth and hidden in one of her trunks. This brings the value of jewelry found in her room to more than $50,000.

Mrs. Mabel Longworth Sheridan, 30, held in connection with the murder of Mrs. McCobb with a hammer today, made a signed confession to the district attorney which is said to have embodied a plea of self defense.

COUNTRY CLUB MEMBERS MAY SHOVEL GRAVEL

Proposal of Ice Company to Donate Teams to Build Roads, Meets Unique Response.

When Manager Coleman of the Southern Ice & Utilities company made proffer of the use of five teams and five men as many half days as is necessary to build a road to the Country club, at the first club meeting held last night at the Gholson hotel, he started something which culminated in a unique proposal by J. M. White, merchant, that the members would go in person and shovel the gravel or crushed stone to build the road. And in this, there was a ready acquiescence which members feel may lead the ladies to get into the competition and make the hall as rich with draperies and the like, which the feminine touch alone can supply, as the men make the road a delight to travel over.

The suggestion was not born of any stress of necessity. It was revealed during the meeting that C. E. Maddocks, who had been appointed special collector of dues and who will, if the suggestion of Dr. Wilson, chairman of the entertainment committee is carried out, become the club's first paid secretary at its next meeting, had been signally successful and the finances of the club are in flourishing condition. But that old law of ethics and psychology we love our benefactors more than our benefactors was applied out of the idea that the membership would feel a greater sense of devoted proprietorship if they have a hand in making the long-needed road to the club with their own hands, caught the fancy and it seems fairly certain that Mr. White's suggestion will be carried out.

Action Is Promised.
At all events, a committee, consisting of Charles Dyer, James Dodson and Gus Coleman, was named to take the matter up, reduce it to some concrete form, and ascertain where (Continued on page three.)

MAYFIELD SAYS COTTON REPORT IS MISLEADING

Declare U. S. Recent Crop Estimate Absurd and Will Demand Inquiry.

DALLAS, Sept. 26.—Declaring that the federal cotton crop report, issued earlier in the week, was "misleading" and "absurd," United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield, in a statement issued here today, said he would demand an investigation into the compilation of the bi-monthly estimate. He said the latest report, based upon adverse weather conditions throughout the cotton belt, increased the previous cotton crop estimate 191,000 bales.

"All private statisticians have given notice to the world that there has been deterioration in the cotton crop in the last 30 days of from 150,000 to 300,000 bales, yet the government came along Wednesday and, while giving a decrease in condition from the previous report, increased the cotton crop 190,000 bales," Mayfield declared. "The absurdity of such a report is patent upon its face, not only destroying confidence in the business world, but working an irreparable injury to cotton producers in the South," he added.

Carl C. Magee Loses His Son In Crash of Airplane In Oklahoma

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 26.—Carl C. Magee, Jr., secretary of the Noble Oil company here, and Dick Phillips, commercial aviator of Tulsa, were killed when a plane in which they were flying crashed near here tonight. Magee was the son of Carl C. Magee, editor of the New Mexico State Tribune at Albuquerque, N. M. Both bodies were buried under the falling machine. Witnesses said the plane did a nose dive and never straightened out.

Magee's father, Carl C. Magee, Sr., has become a national figure since his testimony in the Teapot Dome case and his big fight in New Mexico for free speech and the tragic incident when he accidentally killed another in a fight with J. Edgar Leahy recently.

Cattle Owners Asking Double Prices For Their Slain Cows

HOUSTON, Sept. 26.—One new case of the hoof and mouth disease was reported today to Dr. Marion Imes, federal expert in charge of eradication work. The cow infected with the plague was found among a small herd of 22 contact cattle. Arrangements were made today to kill the entire herd. A contact herd of 87 cattle were slain Friday near Arcadia.

Dr. Imes is very optimistic over the situation, expressing the belief that all embargoes against Texas will soon be lifted. However, the heads of the state commission are not so enthused. They say the state is almost without funds to pay for cattle slaughtered in Galveston County, where dairy cattle became infected.

Cattle owners, upheld by the recent decision in the Galveston injunction case, where the court, although denying the injunction, said a board must be created to pass on the price paid for the slain cattle, are demanding prices twice as high as the state formerly paid them, according to Dr. Frank Williams of the state board. He said it was up to the bankers to finance the state commission until the next session of the legislature, which will be asked for money for this purpose. Although Governor Ferguson recently arranged a loan of $100,000, it was agreed this was only for Harris County cattle.

BANKS EAGER TO BECOME STATE DEPOSITORIES

AUSTIN, Sept. 26.—While banks desiring to become state depositories have until Oct. 15 in which to make application for $5,000,000 of state funds, nearly all the funds which can be placed in state depositories have already been applied for, according to the state treasurer. The applications came from banks in every section of the state, Treasurer Hatcher said.

"The number of banks applying from other sections was as great as in the drought district," he said.

THREE HERRIN MEN KILLED IN MINE EXPLOSION

HERRIN, Ill., Sept. 26.—Three men were taken from mine No. 7 of the Consolidated Coal company early tonight, victims of another explosion. The explosion was attributed to seeping gas fumes. The three men had no chance to escape. Peke Sperrina, the only other worker in the mine, was further up the shaft and although badly burned was rescued alive. He may live.

French Studying American Counter Debt Funding Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The American-French debt funding negotiations today halted until Monday when renewed efforts will be made to reach an agreement. Finance Minister Caillaux notified Secretary Mellon that his mission had not completed its analysis of the American counter proposal handed him yesterday and would not be ready for further discussions until that time.

Caillaux was up early, arriving at the hotel where his delegation is stopping before many had arisen. Splitting up into sub-committees to examine the American proposal, the commission spent the morning hard at work.

PEACEMAKER IN QUARREL IS SHOT AND KILLED

HOUSTON, Sept. 26.—Andrew Castella, 27, was shot above the heart and died instantly, seven miles west of Houston this afternoon, while attempting to act as peacemaker in an argument between his brother and brother-in-law. Juan Devoni, the brother-in-law, was taken into custody late Saturday and a charge of murder filed against him.

CRASH OF AIRPLANE HALTS TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The airplane in which Paul Tariscon and Francois Coil hoped to make a non-stop flight from Paris to New York today crashed to the ground at Leux, 26 miles from here, badly injuring Tariscon and a companion. Fire following the crash destroyed the machine.

The smash probably ends all hope of making the trans-Atlantic trial flight this year.

Of the Kind of Women That Thrill Men

—is May Seymour. Every male creature reacts to every female creature of his kind. Every man reacts in varying degrees to every woman. Certain types of man react to certain types of woman.

But there is one type of woman that creates strange emotions in every man. Cleopatra was one. Madame Pompadour was another. We have them today. Who was that woman that married all those men, including that count?

Of this type is May Seymour, heroine of May Seymour (Footloose). These women are rare. They possess a strange, primitive magnetism. They are charged with a barbarian, animal influence from which no amount of civilization can render a male immune.

If you are a woman, you'll hate May Seymour. If you are a man, you'll find strange emotions within your breast. But in any event, you'll find her interesting. Read the story in this newspaper, starting October 2.

EXPOSITION AND CELEBRATION FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY NOTABLE EVENT IN EASTLAND'S HISTORY

The Central West Texas fair and celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the city of Eastland, came to a successful close Saturday night at 11 o'clock with the closing of the fair park gates.

The three-day program, which was said by many to have been the best and most complete ever put on at a fair in this section of the country, drew crowds of approximately 3,500 each of the three days, and this in spite of heavy rains on the night preceding the opening day and during the forenoon of the opening day.

Fair officials stated yesterday afternoon that they were well pleased with the attendance and that in every particular the fair was a success. "This is the beginning and it was a good one, but the next fair will be larger and better," Secretary George W. Briggs of the fair association said.

BIBLE THOUGHT.
 Abundantly Satisfied. — How excellent is Thy loving kindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of Thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of Thy house; and Thou shalt make them drink of the river of Thy pleasures.—Psalm 36:7, 8.
 Prayer.—O Lord, make us glad according to the days wherein Thou hast afflicted us, and the years wherein we have seen evil.

REPRESENTATION IN CONGRESS
 The constitution provides that congressional reapportionment shall be made every 10 years, based on the decennial census. The purpose was that the lower house should always represent the people, the senate the states.
 With approximately 25,000,000 added to the population since the 1910 census, it is evident that the house of representatives, with a membership of 435 is no longer representative in the sense intended by the constitution.

Congress has delayed action on the bills changing the apportionment, but it will be up again in this year. Democrats are represented as opposed to increasing the house membership because, they say, it would enlarge the membership of Northern or republican states, while the Southern or democratic states would be entitled to only slight gains.

Many objections are based on the circumstances that the increase, as proposed, from 435 to 483 members, would strengthen the hold of the radical or farm bloc and would not increase the "efficiency" of the house.

Those who favor increased membership for the house argue that the country has developed in the last few years to such an extent that the house no longer is representative of all of the population. They assert that the requirement of the times is to make legislative bodies more, not less, representative of the people as the only hope of keeping down unrest.

In 1793 the ratio was one member to 30,000; in 1883 it was one to 47,700; in 1893 it was one to 127,381; in 1883 it was one to 151,911; in 1901 it was one to 194,182; in 1911 representation was fixed at one to every 211,877 people. Our representation per population is about half that of European nations.

"PARKING.
 The demand for parking places is growing and the long lanes of life are becoming littered with parkers. Times was when the corner grocery was the community parking place. Today it is anywhere, everywhere.
 Progressive business institutions and successful men do not tolerate the habit one minute. To them real life is movement. The man who stands still not only lays himself open to temptation, but he slowly shrivels and his courage fails. One can almost read the sign "Park here" on his face.

But why park, anyway? If your goal is worth attainment keep moving toward it every moment of the day, keeping constantly in mind the fact that while the other fellow is "parking" the gates are open, the fences down, the field wide open for development—and it's your business to do the job.

A unique football contest at the State Fair of Texas, Dallas, October 10-25, will be the game between Wichita University, Marshall, and Oklahoma Normal of Coyle, Okla. The teams are composed of negro students of the respective institutions, and the game is a regularly scheduled conference contest.

Plans for the year's work were discussed, interesting talks being made by Superintendent Holloway and Mrs. C. E. Maddocks. Miss Pinson was elected secretary and Mr. Pickett corresponding secretary. The election of other officers was deferred until the next meeting. All patrons of the high school and every one who is interested in the welfare of the high school are urged to attend the next meeting.

MERRIMAN P-T. A.
 Reports from the first meeting of the Merriman Parent-Teacher association, for this year, are very favorable. The club met on Friday night and there was a good number present, all ready to go to work. It was decided at this meeting to buy a Victrola for the school. Mrs. William Gunkle was elected secretary, taking the place of Mrs. A. H. Silliman, who was elected third vice president. Practically the whole evening was devoted to business. At the next meeting, on October 9, there will be a children's program and all patrons and friends of the school are invited to attend.

A SON IS BORN.
 Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Beet of Young Addition announce the arrival of a nine-pound son, who was born at the family home, September 23.

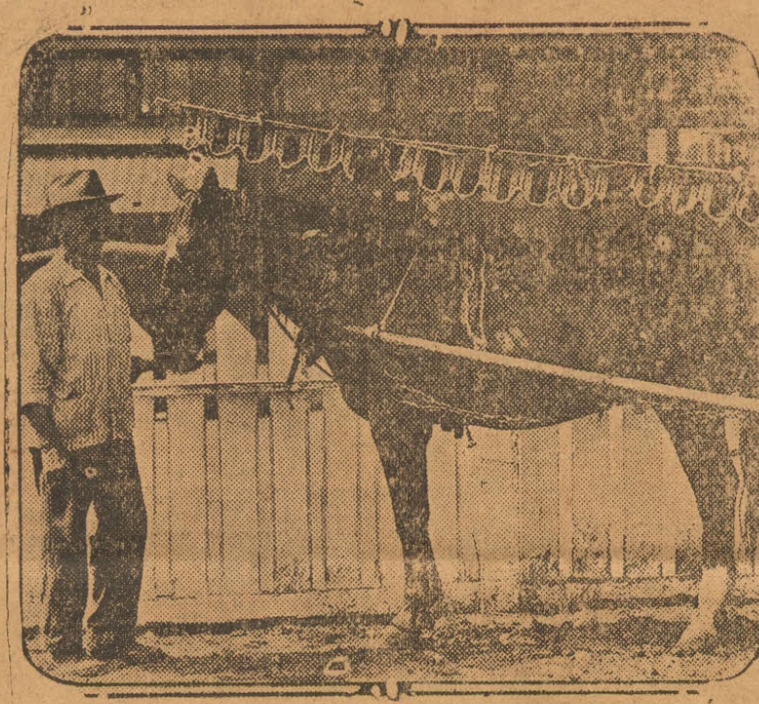

ATTENDING THE GAME.
 Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Harkrider and children, Art and Diana, accompanied by their guest Mrs. Frank Rarey, left early Saturday morning for Fort Worth, where they will attend the games of Saturday and Sunday. They will return Sunday night.

GUILD MEETING.
 St. Mary's Guild will meet with Mrs. Garvin Chastain Monday afternoon at 3 p. m. Each and every member of the guild should make a special effort to attend this meeting, as there is important work to be attended to.

YOUNG MATRONS' S. S. CLASS.
 The Young Matrons Sunday school class of the Methodist church will meet Friday afternoon in the basement of the church for a social meeting. All members are asked to reserve this date for this meeting.

SOCIAL MEETING OF MISSIONARY SOCIETY.
 There will be a social meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church Monday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Mills

 Circle 3 meets with Mrs. Purser, on the Radio road, and Bible study will be led by Mrs. O. S. Driskill.

The box that the circles are packing for Buckner's Orphan Home has room for many more articles of clothing. All who have contributions are asked to phone Mrs. B. V. Bollinger, 272, who will call for them. This box will be shipped on October 3, and surely there are many folks in Ranger who have a few garments and articles that they would be glad to contribute. Chairmen of the various activities have been named as follows:
 Missions, Mrs. O. S. Driskill; mission study, Mrs. R. E. Barker; benevolence, Mrs. A. C. Rice; White Cross, Mrs. Haden Neal; social service, Mrs. H. G. Burch; educational, Mrs. Barney Carter; publicity, Mrs. W. M. Myers; vocation, Mrs. A. L. Leake; historian, Mrs. J. N. McPatterson.

BRIDGE TOURNAMENT.
 An event that looms large on Ranger's social calendar is the bridge tournament that will be given by the ladies of the Country Club, Tuesday afternoon, at the Gholson Hotel. Advance sale of tickets indicate a large crowd will be in attendance. Prizes will be handsome and every detail of the affair as charming as a number of enthusiastic women can make it. This is the first large bridge party in a long time and folks are naturally looking forward to it with much pleasure. It is given for the benefit of the Country Club kitchen and dining room, by the wives, mothers and daughters of the Country Club members, and it is hoped that a nice sum will be realized from the tournament to apply on the furnishings of these two rooms. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock. Refreshments will be served on the mezzanine floor and tables will be arranged there and in the Green Room.

BROWN-CARLYLE WEDDING SOLEMNIZED.
 Miss Nila Brown, a popular young lady of Ranger, was married at 8 o'clock Saturday night at the home of her parents, on Eastland Hill, to Roy Carlyle, who is in the transportation department of the Thurber Products Manufacturing company. The wedding was solemnized by the at 9 promptly. Not only will this dance usher in the social season, but it will be a formal opening of the Coffee Shoppe, which has been closed for several weeks for refurbishing and redecoration. The Coffee Shoppe will open for regular business on Tuesday morning. From rumors gathered from various shops the affair will assume some what the airs of a style show for it is rumored that a number of exclusive gowns have been sold for this occasion, which naturally calls for one's "best bib and tucker," so those who do not dance can enjoy the music, the dinner and the display of clothes that are sure to do there. The management of the Gholson promises a number of innovations in the way of food and entertainment, and every indication is that the opening of the Gholson Hotel Coffee Shoppe will be one of the most brilliant affairs of the season.

CINGHAM DRESS CONTEST OF CENTRAL BAPTISTS.
 The Central Baptist church cingham dress contest between the Althean class for women and Dr. Wier's Bible class, is arousing interest. The women are urged to wear cingham or percale dresses without hats when attending Sunday school and church, but it is not required.

WICKWARE-JOBE WEDDING SOLEMNIZED.
 Miss Violet Wickware of Ranger and Brittin Jobe, of Jobe Bros., grocers on the Strawn road, were married last night by the Rev. W. H. Johnson, pastor of the First Baptist church of Ranger. The ceremony was solemnized at the parsonage.

SAILING HOME.
 Mrs. Charles Norton writes that she and her daughter, Virginia, will sail from New York on the 30th for Ranger. They left Portland, Me., several days ago and encountered a norther at Rochester, N. H., that sent the thermometer down to 40. They are now in Boston and report the pleasure of seeing Zeigfelds Follies and the opera, "Rose Marie." Mrs. Norton and Virginia will arrive home about the 7th.

ELKS' DANCE.
 Keeping right in step with other social activities, the Elks of Ranger announce a Jack Gardner dance on Wednesday evening at their delightful clubrooms in the Halbert building on Main street. It is rumored that this will be one of the last dances that Jack Gardner plays for here, as he is to go under contract to furnish music at some large hotel in Dallas. This has not been verified, still it might be true and naturally everybody wants to hear Jack Gardner play anyway, whether it's in first or last appearance in Ranger. It's an invitational dance.

Mr. Gehing has just arrived from Glenwood Springs, Colo., to take up his duties as clerk at the Gholson Hotel.
 Mr. Guy Cummings spent the weekend in Abilene, attending Traveling Men's Day at the fair.
 L. C. Childs and Spud Reynolds of the Exide Battery company are in Fort Worth today, attending the game.

Ranger High Third Line Defeated By Eastland's Second
 Coach Cherry reports that his third High school boys, who played Eastland's second string men with a sprinkling of first team men at the Central West Texas fair yesterday went down in defeat by a score of 19 to 3. The only score made by Ranger was a field goal kicked by Edgar Perry from the 30-yard line. Coach Cherry's brother, a second year man at T. C. U., had the team in charge. He reports they game enough after they got over their first fright.

WILL PLAY IN THE EASTLAND TOURNEY
 The following members of the Ranger Country club have planned to go to Eastland today to play in the golf tournament: Logsdon, Finney, Cameron, Calbert, Glegg, Harkrider, Milliken, Russell, Dodson, Hugaman, Williams, Galloway, and Craig.

Heister Is Elected Head of Elks' Lodge

At a meeting of the Ranger Elks held last night, J. B. Heister was elected exalted ruler to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of F. A. Brown, who is leaving for Phoenix, Ariz. This election created a vacancy in the office of esteemed leading knight, hitherto held by Mr. Heister, and L. E. Beavers was elected to fill that vacancy.

Former Exalted Ruler Brown will leave immediately for Phoenix where he will look into the matter of accepting the position as manager of a California loan company. He leaves his family in Ranger and the city commission, of which he is a member, has not yet accepted his resignation, acting on the assumption that he may return and resume his duties as city commissioner.

POKER RAID NETS ELEVEN.
 A raid by the Ranger police on alleged poker games in the neighborhood of Main and Cherry streets, Saturday night, brought into the net 11 negroes. Three of the number paid fines, the same number made bonds and the rest were locked up.

ON THE RANGE AT RANGER

By THE FENCE RIDER.
 (Items for this department must be phoned in to the Fence Rider, by 12 o'clock daily in order to insure their insertion. Don't be haphazard, jingle the telephone bell.)

"Cowboy, stay in y'r own pastur'," was the advice a friend gave the Fence Rider when he strayed over into the editorial columns Friday and tried to rope in Legion, football fellows, kiddies, church people and the rest of the big herd with that bunch of long grass labeled "Praying and Playing." Not bad advice—that.

Nothing's all right in Ranger these days of deep well drilling and making gasoline from gas. Everything's oil right.

Don't kick unless you can make the football team where your punts count for distance. Even then you lose the ball every time you kick.

There is a deep, dark mystery about those snapshots of the street markers which the president of a certain local club is still trying to fathom.

A revenue officer who comes to Ranger frequently and has a number of friends here, bears the unique name of Overacre. If he'd join the moonshine and bootleg squad, they might just change that name to over-taker.

A California Lions' club sent a picture recently to the Ranger bunch showing their members going home in barrels' after donating the clothing off their backs to a local charity they wear promoting.

Let's put up a sign at Main and Rusk street or some other busy corner reading B. T. O. E. and meaning Best Town On Earth.

No matter how we felt when it was a Cat-and-Steer mixup, now it's Texas against the rest of the south in those Dixie series games and we're all for Texas. After all, there isn't so much difference in size or importance between Texas and the rest of the south.

WASHINGTON—Domestic and not foreign competition is responsible for the slump in "down east" industries.

More tariff protection won't help the situation. This will be the argument of numerous mid-western and southern legislators when New England manufacturers, especially of textiles, make their expected appeal to Congress next winter for a higher wall against imports.

PRESS comment from the Mississippi valley and south of the Mason and Dixon line concerning the New Englanders' plaints is pretty much all to the same effect—that the east doesn't realize to what an extent the rest of the country is becoming industrialized.

The west says they continue to assume that their factories are rivaled only abroad, whereas their most formidable competitors now are right here at home. Most of the western and southern lawmakers who already are in the capital speak in much the same way.

THE mid-westerners and southerners make out a good case in favor of their contention that eastern captains of industry have overlooked the recent rapid development of electric and water power in their respective territories, the trend of comparatively cheap colored labor away from the farms and into their factories and the significant growth in importance of southern ports.

THAT the mid-west, in particular, was quicker than the east to appreciate the value of Latin American trade is very clear.

The east had a spasm of activity in that direction immediately after the war, but it didn't last.

Managers of most eastern plants soon lost interest in it and re-concentrated on domestic markets. Those in the Mississippi valley hung on.

Moreover, they began bringing in increasing quantities of raw materials from the non-industrial Latin American republics, and shipping them back, and to the east, as finished products.

No Bobs for Aristocracy

The Hungarian aristocracy refuses to surrender to bobbed hair. Notice the hairdresser of Mme. de Kenyeres, one of the most beautiful society women of Budapest.

just as much if not more than the business man in a large city. We in a small town become bored with seeing the same faces day in and day out; there is no transient population except an occasional traveling salesman; there are no great amusement parks where we can take our family out for an afternoon or evening-out; we are compelled to spend our recreative periods in company with almost the same identical persons with whom we associate daily in a business or professional way. The necessity, then, for something in the way of recreation that is not boring, that is healthful and entertaining but at the same time close enough home to be easily accessible, is apparent.

Action Is Needed.
"The legislators in their wisdom have placed a ban on practically all forms of public indoor recreation. The only thing left is the movies, bridge, a few hands of poker on the sly—none of which force the lungs to breathe invigorating fresh air nor bring any great number of muscles into action.

"Pool and billiards can no longer be played by the general public. Boxing exhibitions have been frowned upon by reformers. It is, therefore, necessary for men to organize and provide for themselves satisfactory recreations. Many athletic sports are too strenuous and require too much physical preparation for the average business or professional man to actively participate in them and these things must be taken into consideration in preparing the facilities of the country clubs. 'Country club' is a misnomer. It leads to the assumption that it is a place where the idle rich can get away from the conventional restraints and indulge in all sorts of frivolity and hilarity. What it really is is a place of recreation where men can relax their minds, exercise their bodies, and keep themselves physically and mentally fit to face the battle for bacon and beans.

"So, having satisfied myself that a country club is not a monument to idleness nor a necessary evil, but a place where men can go and, in a pleasant and restful environs, relax their minds and muscles and pursue whatever recreative means they choose, preferably a friendly competition in some open-air sport, it is only necessary to set the old imagination to work and visionize the kind of a country club we would consider perfect—the ideal country club.

Clubhouse and Way to It.
"The 'ideal' should be easily accessible by means of a good, smooth-surfaced road in which there would be no sharp rocks to cut up the tires nor rough stretches to try the temper. This road would end in a beautiful oval parking space lined with big trees to give off a friendly shade, and it would not be amiss to have a fountain spraying its myriad streams of water up into the glistening sunlight and falling back into a lily pond.

"A cozy but not necessarily large clubhouse nestles back amid the trees, its restful atmosphere inviting the weary to come and drape his frame on a porch swing and rest to his heart's content. From this point of vantage he could overlook a big Bermuda lawn, meticulously groomed and free from grass burrs so the kiddies might romp and play. Surrounding the lawn is a well kept hedge with flowers and shrubbery at every hand.

"The interior of the house is cozy but not gaudy, has some comfortable furniture and a fair sized dance floor where members and guests may pursue that form of recreation. There are also adequate locker rooms and shower baths so that one may take an invigorating shower after a round of golf or a set of tennis and go home feeling fit instead of arriving home sore and tired and stiff from having too long delayed his rub-down. The kitchen and dining room need not be elaborately equipped but should have facilities for handling a full-sized gathering.

On the Golf Links.
"For outdoor sports, a golf course is necessary with well kept greens and fairways. A tennis court finds a place in the hearts of the followers of that game. A lake where boating, fishing and duck hunting may be indulged in, a trap for shooting clay pigeons, a practice green for putting contests and other little things make a country club membership a thing to be sought after rather than to be sought by.

"The 'ideal' would have all the things mentioned above administered by a paid secretary who would be responsible only to the club-president and board of directors. Every other employe on the grounds to be accountable to the paid secretary and receiving their orders from the club committees through him.

"There would be a director of athletics who would serve as golf instructor and administrator of outdoor activities but be accountable to the paid secretary.

"The last item in the ideal is the membership. A bunch of good, clean sportsmanlike fellows who interested in the doings of their club. Not men who sit back and do nothing but are ever ready to criticize whatever is being done.

Duty of Members.
"The country club is just exactly what its members make it—no more and no less. It can be a notorious rendezvous for peering parties. It can be a place where the general public can enjoy all of the privileges without shouldering any of the responsibilities. It can be host to a gang of thugs and hoodlums who impose their presence at every function and make it unsafe to leave your car with reasonable assurance that it will not be stripped of every movable accessory. It can be all this and more if the members look on it as 'the country club out there' and not 'my country club.'

"The club as a physical asset could be ideal. It could have spacious grounds, handsome appointments, ultra-modern conveniences, all sorts of athletic devices, but without the proper attitude of its members would fall far short of its mission. But with a live membership, ready to do their part, sold on the country club idea and truly wanting to have something worth while the ideal would be much more easily obtainable accessory. It can be all this to greater use. But even the ideal would not be worth a damn unless it gave back full value to its members in usefulness and pleasure."

Billy Evans Says

FAITH OF GOSLIN

"GOOSE" GOSLIN, star outfielder of the Washington champs, is one of the best hitters in the game. Goslin has a world of natural ability and an equal amount of confidence. If you doubt it listen to this story.

In Washington, a well-known tailor offered a suit of clothes for every home run made by the Washington players. He's a friend of Goslin's by the way.

Before the season opened Goslin dropped around to his place of business and had four suits of clothes made. Even his tailor friend didn't understand the method in Goslin's madness when he said:

"Charge 'em."
"Goose," of course, expected to clean up the account with home run drives.

Recently while in Washington I asked Goslin how he and his tailor friend were making it.

"I am sorry but I have disappointed him a trifle. At this late date I still owe him one home run on those four suits," said the "Goose."

SPIRIT OF CLUB

THAT'S the old confidence for you. Ordering four suits on the cuff, satisfied he would be able to pay off in home run drives. Making a home run on the Washington park isn't any fluke affair, either. It is the toughest field in either major league to hit for the circuit.

It is just such spirit that permeates the entire Washington club and makes it a tough aggregation to beat.

The team feels it can deliver in the pinch and usually does. If a double play is much desired, the infield sets itself to make a two-ply killing. And how that Washington infield makes 'em!

If a relief pitcher is needed to save some faltering twirler, the club believes in Marberry and Russell. They seldom fail.

When winning a game is decidedly essential, the players to a man have faith in Walter Johnson, Stanley Coveleskie, Tom Zachary and "Dutch" Reuther.

Already these four veteran twirlers have turned in some of the most sensational pitching of the year.

The great success of the Washington club is largely borne in the confidence the players have in themselves to deliver in the pinch.

the sirens of ambulances, nor the din of traffic with its bells and lights and horns and police whistles. If we need exercise why not walk from home to business? Our temper might be much sweeter and we would not waste nearly so much time hunting lost balls. So why a country club in a country town?

"The reason for having one is that it fills a need for which every little town has felt a want. The business man in a little town needs recreation from county commissioners or elsewhere) wagons and gravel may be obtained so at the next membership meeting the club may take final action in the premises and go right to work and build the road.

Fred G. Yonker, the club president, presided, and acted as toast-master of the club's first meeting, at which Gus Coleman was the principal speaker. He called it a little get-together meeting, and it justified the title—all but the word, little. It proved big with consequences, although an even two dozen comprised the attendance. Dr. W. C. Palmer made the grins come. Other speakers of the evening who made quips and turns linctured with suggestions were Messrs. Dodson, Hiss, Wright, Wilson, Maddocks, Walker and Dyar.

The high lights among the several suggestions offered, all of which seemed to meet with general approval were a good road, fountains, draperies, keeping the membership down to a small paid-up list, a paid secretary with provision for telephoning members reminders of their invitations to functions, etc., and the full co-operation of the membership.

Address By Coleman.
The chief address was made by Gus Coleman on "The Ideal Country Club." Mr. Coleman is well known as a musician and is becoming very favorably known as an orator, for he always has something to say that is well worth hearing and he says it well. In part he said:

"In dealing with this subject it is very necessary that we have some understanding as to just what we mean when we say 'ideal.' My little dictionary tells me that the word ideal means: existing in imagination only; visionary; conforming to standards of perfection; perfect.

"Therefore, since each of us is by nature fully equipped with a brain capable of conjuring up the most vivid imaginations, and, since each might have a different vision of a perfect country club, and, since we might not be able to agree on what constitutes a standard of perfection, I shall not ask you to take my opinions as final. Neither shall I ask you to agree that they are practicable since because the imagination is not always governed by reason and dreams do not always come true.

Need For Country Club.
"Before going too far with our elaborate dissertations it might be well to question ourselves as to the necessity of a country club in a country town. Why is a country club? Especially in a little one-horse town.

We are not compelled to breathe the poisoned atmosphere of the city all day. We can almost throw a rock to the city limits. We hardly need to seek quietude for we are not harassed by day nor kept awake by night by the clanging of street cars,

Walter Hagen Wins Golf Championship For the Third Time

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Walter Hagen this afternoon won the national professional golf championship for the third time, something no player ever has done before. He defeated Bill Mehlhorn of Chicago 6 and 5 in their 36-hole match for the 1925 championship. Hagen was supreme, playing golf that was virtually unbeatable, being under par throughout.

T. C. U. ELEVEN WINS FROM EAST TEXAS TEACHERS

Notre Dame Wins From Baylor Bears Score 41 to 0

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 26.—Out of a squad of reserves and last year's freshmen, Coach Knute Rockne has built another Notre Dame football team that was good enough to overwhelm Baylor university of Texas, 41 to 0, here this afternoon. His Irish crew looked far better than any expected and may make the going rough for many another team this season. With one set of backs the Irish scored one touchdown in the first quarter. A fresh set of backs in the second made two touchdowns. In the third quarter Rockne sent in his initial ball carriers and they scored two more touchdowns and one more in the last quarter.

FORT WORTH, Sept. 26.—The Fort Worth Panthers took the lead in the Dixie Series here today by trouncing the Atlanta Crackers, 6 to 2. S. M. U. MUSTANGS WIN FROM NORTH TEXAS NORMAL

DALLAS, Sept. 26.—Southern Methodist university opened their pre-conference series of practice games today by burying the North Texas State Normal team 48 to 0. The Mustangs depended upon straight football and weight to carry them through.

PITCHING JINX

THE art of winning ball games in the majors is often a most perplexing problem. If you have your doubts on that point, please consult Pitcher Eddie Rommel of the Athletics.

On August 7 Rommel won his twentieth ball game of the year. He gave a remarkable exhibition of pitching in turning the trick. Cleveland was shut out, making only two hits.

Another unusual thing in connection with the game was the fact that it was played in 65 minutes, the shortest contest ever staged in the American League.

With 20 victories in the first 100 games played by his club, it was freely predicted that Rommel would certainly win 25 games and had a chance to reach the 30-mark.

Then Rommel and his pitching fell into evil ways. Trying to capture victory No. 21 proved to be a real jinx.

In the games he started, something invariably happened to cause his removal. If it wasn't his pitching, then it was the failure of his teammates either at the bat or in the field.

For five weeks Rommel put forth his best foot in an effort to win a ball game but the breaks foiled him. It was Friday, August 7, as mentioned, that Rommel won victory No. 20. It was September 18 before he annexed another.

The Chicago White Sox fell a victim to Rommel in helping him break the jinx that relentlessly pursued him for so long a time.

ROMMEL'S CASE

NOW pitchers have their good and bad days. That is, on a certain day they may have all the stuff in the world, while four or five days later may have little or nothing on the ball.

During Rommel's long run of defeats, I saw him driven from the rubber several times when he appeared to have all his stuff and then some.

Rommel, at the top of his game, is a great pitcher. He has the most tantalizing knuckle ball in the game, good speed, a fine curve and a mystifying change of pace.

I umpired a number of games recently in which Rommel seemed to be at his best, only to see him driven to the showers before the completion of the game.

The day that Rommel was hit, Chicago and broke his jinx in winning his twenty-first victory, he remarked to me as he started for the rubber: "Well, I didn't seem to have a thing while warming up, so I may be able to get through nine innings."

In the first four innings Chicago made seven hits but only one run. It was apparent that Rommel wasn't right but he was getting by.

Then there came a reversal of fortune and in the last five innings Chicago made only one hit and no runs. Yet it could be seen that Rommel was not at his best.

"I never had less stuff in my life," he remarked at the close of the game.

There you have one of the perplexing problems of the game, a pitcher with everything loses, the pitcher with nothing wins.

RINKY DINKS VICTORS OVER BEAR CATS

Neither Team Scores in First Half, but Mavericks Forge Ahead in Third Quarter.

Two football elevens, prospective candidates for place on the Ranger High football team in a few years, met in a fierce contest on the Central school grounds yesterday morning, when the Rinky Dinks won from the Bear Cats by a score of 19 to 0. It was not a walk-away either, for every point they made and won only after a hard contest.

The Rinky Dinks, elated with their victory, are trying to arrange for a game on the Central school grounds in Ranger next Saturday morning with an Eastland eleven.

Star players for Rinky Dinks in yesterday's game were Rex Alworth, T. L. Bumpers, Bailey Thomas, Robert King and the Terrell boys. Those winning special distinction for the Bear Cats were "Red" Long, Monroe Blackwell, and Estes Horton.

The lineup: Bear Cats—Lerne Lyons, Sidney

Blackwell, backfield; Ray Bishop and Donald Champion, ends; Smoot and Ernest Long, tackles; Tom McClanahan and Richard Conley, guards; J. G. Blackwell, center.

Rinky Dinks—Billy Terrell, Rex Alworth, Bailey Thomas and T. L. Bumpers, backfield; Wilbur Jones and Polk Robinson, ends; Harry Hubbard and Robert King, tackles; Charlie Terrell and George Albert Bumpers, guards; James Smith and Saundito Gregg, center.

T. J. Melton acted as umpire and referee and Clare Winton as head linesman. Time of game 1 3/4 hours.

Dillingham Adds to His Ranger Holdings

O. D. Dillingham, owner of the Banner Ice Cream company and other interests, who also has owned 11 homes in Ranger, has just purchased the seven-room modern dwelling at the corner of Spring road and Blundell, in block 10, Young addition, from Barney Carter, making him an even dozen.

This place is known as the Tom Adams home. It makes a material addition to Mr. Dillingham's Ranger holdings, which comprise not only the dozen homes but various business properties and shows another man's faith in Ranger's future.

Half Million Women Send Delegates to Convention

Half a million women from all parts of the world are interested in the Forty-eighth Triennial General Convention of the Episcopal Church which will assemble in New Orleans, October 7. For in connection with this Convention the Woman's Auxiliary of the Church will meet concurrently in triennial convocation, and included in their ranks will be representative women from practically every race and clime.

Many of the foreign delegates will appear in their native costumes at least for the service which will be held in Trinity Church, New Orleans, October 8, at which the United Thank Offering of the Auxiliary will be presented. This offering is the triennial gift of the Auxiliary to the Church. It is presented in the yen of Japan, the peso of Spain and Latin America, in Mexican dollars, American gold, certified checks, pennies, nickels, dimes, etc., the funds having been raised by Chinese and Japanese women, Filipinos, Africans, Hawaiians, Haitians, Alaskans, etc., who during the preceding three years by toil and the manufacture of head, straw, linen and cotton fancy work have gathered together their contributions.

Thirty-six years ago when the United Thank Offering was instituted, the gift amounted to $2,000. Three years ago it was $618,145. This year the Auxiliary hopes to present to the Church a round million of dollars. From the funds thus collected, women workers are engaged in educational, medical and evangelistic work to preserve the American Church overseas.

Some of the most distinguished women of the United States are included in the membership of this organization—ladies active in religious, charitable and social service work in all parts of the country. Miss Grace Lindley is the executive secretary of the Auxiliary.

Mrs. J. M. McBride, a distinguished daughter of the South, engaged in industrial reform and other social service activities, who will preside at the Triennial Convention of the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church, representing half a million women from all parts of the world, which will assemble in New Orleans, La., October 7.

The Auxiliary's Convention will be in session about two weeks in New Orleans and the honor of presiding over its sessions has been accorded to Mrs. J. M. McBride, President of the Auxiliary in the Diocese of Louisiana, where the Convention will meet. Mrs. McBride is also General Chairman of the Advisory Committee which is arranging the program for the Auxiliary Convention. Mrs. McBride in addition to her Auxiliary work is interested in industrial reform and other social service efforts.

DIVORCE IS REFUSED TO CONGRESSMAN AND HIS WIFE

By United Press.
ALPENA, Mich., Sept. 26.—Both Representative Frank B. Scott of Michigan and his wife, Edna James Scott, were denied a divorce today, in a decision handed down in circuit court by Judge Frank D. Emerick.

"It is my deliberate conclusion that neither party is entitled to a decree," the court said. Scott first brought suit for divorce in December, 1922, charging cruelty and misconduct, naming three co-respondents, Harry Wickoff, a hotel clerk; Capt. Wilbur Sumner, of the United States air service, and one other. In her cross bill, Mrs. Scott made sensational charges of gambling and excessive drinking, substantiating her charges of alleged drinking in congressional circles in Washington.

"In this case," Judge Emerick said, "it is my deliberate conclusion that neither of said parties is entitled to such a decree."

By United Press.
DETROIT, Sept. 26.—A new suit for divorce, charging desertion, probably will be brought in the Wayne county court by Mrs. Scott against her husband, it was indicated here today by Ward D. Peck, her counsel. He said he did not expect his client to appeal from the decision dismissing the suit. "It is more logical," he said, "to begin an entirely new trial."

Dr. Howard was captured by the bandits several months ago.

Breakfast—Baked apples, cereal, thin cream, fried tomatoes in cream sauce on toast, crisp toast, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Eggs baked in tomatoes, brown bread and butter sandwiches, ginger bread, sliced bananas and peaches with cream, milk, tea.
Dinner—Lamb stew, baked squash, endive with bacon dressing, peach cobbler, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.
 September mornings are often cool and a hearty breakfast is appreciated. Children particularly need a more substantial meal after school begins than during the summer months.
 As long as fresh tomatoes are available it's a good plan to use them whole. There are the winter months coming when they must be used canned so when they appear now contrive some way out of the ordinary.
EGGS BAKED IN TOMATOES
 Four small tomatoes, 4 eggs, 4 squares toast, dried bread crumbs, butter, salt and pepper, 4 tablespoons grated cheese.
 Dip tomatoes into boiling water, let stand half a minute and then plunge into cold water. Slip off skins. Cut a slice from the stem end and remove seeds. Sprinkle salt over the inside of the tomatoes and dust them inside and out with the crumbs. Put into ramikins or well buttered muffin pans and break an egg into each tomato. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot with butter and cover with cheese. Bake in a moderate oven for twelve minutes. Just long enough to cook the egg. Serve on toast.

YOUTH UNSHAKEN IN PROTESTING INNOCENCE

By United Press.
 KANSAS CITY, Sept. 26.—Unshaken after hours of severe grilling, Terrence Mahone, 17-year-old youth held in connection with the fatal shooting of Miss Edith Krumm and the wounding of And Loftus Jr., main tained his innocence of the crime.
 "I didn't do it," whispered the youth, his defiant attitude replaced by one of fear. "I'd tell you in a minute if I did, but I can't say I did something I didn't do." Again and again the boy insisted he was innocent. The police say they would recommend his release today.
 This leaves the authorities without an tangible clue to the identity of the man who shot Miss Krumm and wounded Loftus near Overland Park in Kansas a week ago last Friday night.

The Boy Who Stole

First Offender, In Penitentiary, Blames Parents For Not Punishing Early Wrong-Doings

"I'm facing a year in the penitentiary," a youth says by way of introduction to an amazing disclosure in October Good Housekeeping. "My crime warranted a much heavier sentence, but on account of my youth, and of its being my first offense, the Judge gave me a light sentence, while my mother sobbed and the other ladies in the courtroom wept in sympathy.
 "These women who loved me all tried to do their best for me. They had for me the kind of affection that endures, suffers, forgives and hopes in the face of everything. Their one comfort now will be to feel that they never failed me when I was in trouble. I don't begrudge them that comfort. But for the sake of the generation of kids who are starting now just as I started, I'm going to write a few words to women.
 "I am twenty-one years old. I have been a thief for seventeen years. And today I got a light sentence for a first offense!
 "I don't mean one childish theft and then today. I mean that for seventeen years I have been a habitual thief. I mean that all my life I have done things that made me a legitimate subject for the children's court and the reform school. And they let me get away with it.
 "I mean that in the last few years I have repeatedly committed serious crimes, offenses which are justly punishable by stiff sentences. They covered it up and let me get away with it.
 "When I was five years old, an old man next door had a reading glass through which I loved to look at pictures. One day he fell asleep in his chair when I was in the room. The glass was on the table beside him. I thought how wonderful it would be if the glass were mine and I could look through it whenever I wanted to. I tip-toed up to the table, slipped the glass inside my little blouse, went home and up to my playroom, and began to scan Cock Robin's adventures through my new treasure. I was absorbed in the delight when my mother came in the room suddenly. Startled, I let the glass fall, and it broke into pieces.
 "Mother questioned me, and I admitted that I had taken the glass without the old man's permission. I didn't call it borrowing or stealing. I didn't call it anything. But in my childish heart I knew that I had meant to keep it always. Mother called it "borrowing without permission." She wept as she explained how wrong it was and how the entire family would be disgraced if any one knew that I had done such a naughty thing. I was an affectionate, easily-moved child, and my tears flowed freely with hers. Mother explained that she would buy another glass exactly like that one and replace it. She said I would keep the dark secret, and I would never, never, do such a naughty thing again.
 "No wholesome humiliation for me; no stiffening of my moral fiber through having to face the stern old man myself and give him the new glass. Some penitent tears and promises, and it was all over. I had got away with my first theft.
 "I don't know just how long after that it was when Mother discovered a red rubber ball in my pocket. Questioned about it, I said I had traded my top for it, which might have done very well had not the top inopportunely dropped from another pocket. I hastily framed another story, but I was not hardened in the ways of sin, and my scarlet face gave me away. I admitted that I had taken Eddie Marnard's ball from a bench in his back yard. Again mother explained the naughtiness of borrowing without permission, and how no one would love me if they knew I was such a naughty boy. Again we both wept. When I had repented for a half-hour, I went over to Eddie's house, put the ball down exactly on the spot from which I had taken it, and beat a hasty retreat. Again I had got away with it.
 "No, I don't think my fault should necessarily have been blazoned all over the neighborhood to people whom it in no wise concerned. But I do know that if I had been made to face the wronged ones and feel their contempt, it would have made me realize the truth of that homely old saying "Murder will out." I do know that the lesson poor mother all unwittingly impressed on me was that it would be a terrible disgrace if people knew that I had taken something that was not mine, and that sin could be covered up and forgotten."
 Recalling his full career of thievery in October Good Housekeeping, this young man drives home a lesson every parent will take to heart.

Only Woman "Bulldogger"

The only woman "bulldogger" in the country is said to be Miss Fozz Hastings, Pendleton, Ore. Each year she throws a bell at the rodeo there.

would be adequately exploited, rural phone extensions to outlying districts given consideration and many matters for the public good that are needed for the good of the city would be actively stimulated.

If the proposed plan is put over, the present board of directors would submit the names of 50 men to the city commission, which would select 15 who would draw lots for one, two and three-year terms. Each year after the first year, the board of city development would submit the names of 15 men to the city commission, from which five would be chosen.

Every month, or each three months as desired, there would be prepared and issued an itemized statement of all funds received and expended and placed on file by the city commission for public inspection.

The burden of aiding industrial development of the city would be divided equitably between the local business people and out-of-town owners, who in a majority of instances, do not share in the various contributions for city development, although sharing in the profits. With a tax of two mills on the dollar, or $2 on the $1,000, none would have to pay more than a fair share. The plan has the approval and support of a large majority of the business men and property owners.

It is hoped that prompt action will be taken by the city commission, which looks with favor on the proposition. Now is the time to enact the ordinance so as to start the board of city development functioning, for it has the almost unanimous approval of all cities where it has been tried and should prove as successful in Ranger as elsewhere.

ANNA Q. NILSSON IN "JULIET" ROLE

Anna Q. Nilsson has ascended the balcony of the immortals—the balcony of "Juliet."

Not in a revival of Shakespeare, however. It is merely an incident in "One Way Street," which is the attraction today at the Liberty Theatre. Ben Lyon, with whom she is co-featured in this First National drama, is her Romeo.

The episode is an innovation in films, as it is presented in an entirely modern setting. Anna's role is that of a famous opera singer cast aside by London society when she becomes old. Regaining her youth by surgery, she comes back, her identity unknown, determined to renew her triumphs of thirty years earlier.

Miss Nilsson's "Juliet," however, is ill-fated, and her house of hopes falls with a crash. The web she had spun about a youth whose love she coveted was responsible for the spectacular fiasco which brought about her discomfiture.

In "One Way Street" the author, Beale Davis, has fashioned a drama which for power and suspense has seldom been equaled, and Director John Francis Dillon has transferred all its gripping tenseness to the screen.

Board of City Development Proposed In Ranger Similar to Plan Working So Successfully In Other Cities

Five cities in Texas are maintaining boards of city development, or chambers of commerce, supported by the municipality, with marked success. They are Amarillo, San Angelo, Sweetwater, Plainview and Cisco. This movement appears to have been begun in far West Texas more than a decade ago, and citizens where it has long been in operation appear so well satisfied with it they would not return to the old system.

The board of city development, as proposed in Ranger, would entail a tax of $2 on each $1,000 property valuation, provision for which has been made in the Ranger charter. Two different committees, each composed of leading business men, have appeared before the Ranger city commission in advocacy of the plan, and a petition signed by 150 of the leading taxpayers has been presented, and members of the city commission, individually, have expressed themselves in favor of the proposition. Officers and directors of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce have also gone on record in favor of it. A tax of two mills on the present property valuation would provide about $10,000 a year for support of the work, a sum much less than is raised annually in Cisco, Abilene or Breckenridge and about the same as in Eastland, but with the natural advantages Ranger possesses this sum would assure that the community activities and development of the city would be cared for. This amount would insure proper publicity in the various trade papers. Now industries could be taken care of, agricultural expansion and farm development

Butterfly Farm Hatches Its Cocoon by Electricity

Breeding butterflies under artificial conditions is the occupation of a California farmer. His incubator is an electric oven, with the humidity regulated to suit the type of cocoon being hatched. On the farm he grows plants and flowers suited to the palate of the flying beauties. For hardier butterflies, demanding cooler air and ample moisture, a cave is provided.

Discarded Automobile Radiator Makes Good Ground

An excellent ground can be made for the radio set by using a discarded copper automobile radiator, which can be purchased from a junk dealer or at an automobile-wrecking plant. The ground wire is first soldered on, and the radiator is then placed in the ground at a depth of from 4 to 6 ft. A layer of earth, about 1 ft. deep, is tamped down firmly on the radiator, and a hole is sprinkled over this. Alternating dirt and salt are tamped in.

Perils in Drinking Cup Evoke Warning from U. S.

With a million sufferers in the United States every day from respiratory diseases which may be spread by the common drinking cup or glass, the public-health service recently issued a special warning to beware putting the lips to a container which someone else has used, unless it has first been well sterilized.

All but two of the states have passed laws banning community use of drinking vessels, and they have been forbidden for several years on trains and steamers in interstate commerce but in spite of this fact, many people, the government says, defeat the law by failing to insist on its enforcement.

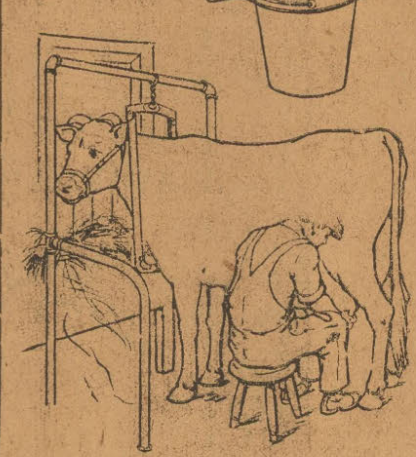

Some cities, the bulletin states, have passed ordinances forbidding the use of glasses at soda fountains, but in others, the receptacles are rinsed again and again in the same water until the wash itself becomes more dangerous than the used glass. Citing the Ohio laws as an excellent example of good sanitation, the public health service points out that they provide a soda-fountain glass or other publicly used container must, after each use, be first washed in cold water, then in hot water with soap or suitable cleansing powder, or exposed to live steam, boiling water or hot air for not less than five minutes, then rinsed in clear cold water and drained. If hot air is used to kill the germs, the law provides the temperature must not be less than 260 degrees. Heat is about the best sterilizer known, and boiling water will kill most germs within five minutes.

Motor tourists should provide separate drinking cups for each member of the party, the health service adds, and care should be taken to keep them clean.

By soldering the holes in the corners of the top of the coil box of a Ford car, a water-tight dipper is formed that will serve for filling the gasoline tank when no other receptacle is available.

Milk-Bucket Support Holds Pail Conveniently

Holding a milking pail can be made much easier by using a support of the kind shown in the drawing. Take a piece of heavy wire about 5 ft. long, bring the ends together and splice them. It is better to solder the joint so that wire ends will not catch and tear the clothes. Set the milk pail inside of this loop, and twist the wire on each side near the top of the bucket to form two small handles of equal size. Give these handles a slight curve so that they will fit over the knee securely and at the same time comfortably.

Lobsters Colored to Taste by Dyeing Their Food

Lobsters may be colored to any hue desired to suit the particular scheme of dinner decoration simply by putting coloring matter in their food, according to a well-known German scientist. He discovered that they turn red after they are boiled because of the action of the heat upon a chemical in their shells.

SHENANDOAH INQUIRY FINDS SENSITIVE SPOT

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 26.—That failure to remove "gem pot" covers from the Shenandoah safety valves may have been a contributory cause of the crash of the dirigible, was brought to the front, as one of the valves with cover attached was brought to the court of inquiry today. It consists of two metal rings, each three feet in diameter, over which is a movable section of canvas, covered with rubber called a "gem pot" cover. Before today witnesses had agreed that these covers had been removed before the dirigible started on its last flight.

Too many cooks didn't spoil the broth of "Sky High," the Shubert Broadway musical comedy, to be presented in the new State Fair Auditorium, Dallas, October 10-25, according to Eastern critics. One points out that a number of well known composers, librettists, dance masters, etc., contributed to "the excellent potpourri of music, smart lines and rich dances," that go to make up the offering.

BRECKENRIDGE TO BE BOMBED EARLY MONDAY

Bombing Party, Commanded By James Boze, Will Start From Ranger.

Mere distance, even if it be as much as 35 miles, will not protect Breckenridge Monday morning, when a bombing party sets out from Ranger to subdue that city on the eve of the opening of the Stephens County fair. But the ammunition in the bombs will not be shot and shell—only good wishes and a salute or two in recognition of friendship and a token of good cheer for the big fair.

The bombing airplane, which will leave Fort Worth early Monday, is due to arrive in Ranger at 8 o'clock. James A. Boze, electrical and high explosive expert, will board the ship at Ranger, carrying with him a couple of hundred bombs, some of them filled with smoke, but most of them only loaded with concentrated noise. The trip to Breckenridge may occupy 15 minutes and then the bombing will begin. From a height of about 2,000 feet the bombs will be unloosed. All will be timed to explode about 1,000 feet above the city and the noise may be heard, it is said, about 15 miles. After the city is properly subdued, Boze and the pilot will make a landing and receive the keys of the city. Another plane is due to arrive at Breckenridge from Fort Worth about the same time as the bomber. It will carry photographers to make a record of the attack for the files of the historians.

Chrysler Dealers Not In Any Sense Insurance Agents

In an opinion rendered by Assistant Attorney General J. Fred Johnson Jr., of Alabama, and delivered to the state superintendent of insurance, Frank N. Julian, Chrysler dealers and distributors in selling Chrysler cars insured against loss, fire and theft for one year, are not under the law, insurance agents.

The first question that presents itself in making a study of the Chrysler plan of lowered finance charges and reduced insurance rates on Chrysler cars sold on the deferred payment basis, says Mr. Johnson, is "whether this certificate of insurance is a domestic or foreign contract, that is whether it is an Alabama or a Michigan contract. In my opinion it is so obvious as to require no further arguments, discussion, nor citation of authority, that it is a foreign contract made in Michigan between parties in Michigan, and subject to the lex loci contractus, which in this case is the law of the state of Michigan."

"In the second place," continues Mr. Johnson, "is the Chrysler dealer to be deemed an insurance agent by reason of his negotiating a sale of a car, which has been made subject of this insurance, and hence is he required to obtain an insurance license."

"Chrysler dealers have absolutely nothing to do with the contract between the Chrysler corporation and the Palmetto Fire Insurance company. They solicit no insurance," continues Mr. Johnson, "have no connection or correspondence with the Palmetto company, did not put the insurance on the car and cannot take it off. They do not receive or transmit the certificate of insurance, nor do they collect or remit any premium, nor did they do any act or thing in the making or consummating of the contract of insurance."

"In my opinion there is no reasonable interpretation of the law whereby they may be deemed to be insurance agents on the above stated facts, and hence they may not be required to procure licenses as such."

ANNA Q. NILSSON IN "JULIET" ROLE

Anna Q. Nilsson has ascended the balcony of the immortals—the balcony of "Juliet."

Not in a revival of Shakespeare, however. It is merely an incident in "One Way Street," which is the attraction today at the Liberty Theatre. Ben Lyon, with whom she is co-starred in this First National drama, is her Romeo.

The episode is an innovation in films, as it is presented in an entirely modern setting. Anna's role is that of a famous opera singer cast aside by London society when she becomes old. Regaining her youth by surgery, she comes back, her identity unknown, determined to renew her triumphs of thirty years earlier.

Miss Nilsson's "Juliet," however, is ill-fated, and her house of hopes falls with a crash. The web she had spun about a youth whose love she coveted was responsible for the spectacular fiasco which brought about her discomfiture.

In "One Way Street" the author, Beale Davis, has fashioned a drama which for power and suspense has seldom been equaled, and Director John Francis Dillon has transferred all its gripping tenseness to the screen.

EASTLAND WINS FOOTBALL GAME FROM DELEON

Contest Harder Than Score of 18 to 0 Might Indicate to the Fans.

By JAMES B. NUNN
 The Eastland Mavericks won from the De Leon High School Friday by the score of 19 to 7 before one of the largest crowds yet seen on the local gridiron. The game was Eastland's from the start, De Leon being unable to penetrate the line, but showing skill in their aerial attacks. With only five minutes left to play, De Leon opened a passing attack that practically caused the Mavericks to blow up. With Steakley, Butler and Easterling on the receiving end of passes, and two wide end runs by Boswell, the visitors managed to bring the ball within five yards of the Mavericks' goal. The ball was taken across by a pass, Boswell to Butler.

Eastland's first touchdown was made early in the third quarter, when De Leon punted to Williamson, who was stopped in his tracks. Seastrunk, Cox and Hunt each making long gains finally brought the ball to the visitors' ten yard line, Cox carrying it over on an off tackle play. Late in the same quarter De Leon punted from their one yard line. Seastrunk and Hunt brought the ball within twelve yards of the goal on two plays. Williamson then placed the ball on the five yard line and Seastrunk carried it over for Eastland's second touchdown. Cox failed to kick goal.

In the fourth quarter DeLeon was forced to punt from behind the line. The punt went out of bounds on the 20-yard line. Cox made a wide end run, which brought the ball within a few inches of the goal, Edwards taking it over on a line buck, and V. Day kicked goal.

The Mavericks brought the ball close to the goal many times during the first half, but lacked the punch to go over. Ed Cox showed some of his old form in his end runs and off tackle plays. Hunt, Seastrunk and Simmons showed brilliant form in making long gains and in their side-stepping tactics. Matthews in the line and Harrell at end played a good game for the Mavericks. For the visitors Boswell and Steakley were the outstanding players.

The lineup:

DeLeon	Position	Eastland
Easterling	V. Day
Harvey	Left End
J. Smith	Left Tackle
Storm	Left Guard
Nance	Center
W. Smith	Right Guard
Butler	Right Tackle
Steakley	Right End
Mulloy	Quarterback
Hamm	Left Halfback
Boswell	Right Halfback
	Fullback

Score by quarters:
 DeLeon 0 0 0 7—7
 Eastland 0 0 12 7—19
 Touchdowns—Cox, Edwards, Seastrunk, and Butler. Goal after touchdown, V. Day and Boswell.

Chevrolet Motor Co. Adds to Sales and Production Records

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 26.—The Chevrolet Motor company has added another record to the series of sales and production marks established this year. The new records is represented by the deliveries to Chevrolet dealers during August. A final check of August deliveries places the figures at 41,500, a larger number of cars than the company ever has placed with its dealers during any preceding August.

The August deliveries even exceeded those made during either June or July of this year. The achievement of the August record preceded by only a few days production of the two-millionth car by the Chevrolet Motor company, the first manufacturer of selective gear shift automobiles to attain that figure. Maintenance of deliveries through the summer is cited by R. H. Grant, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, as endorsement of his statement made several months ago that the automotive industry is approaching a more stable and uniform basis.

"Eventually automobile production will be nearly uniform throughout the year," he said. "The seasonable peaks and valleys of production are being flattened out."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By E. R. Waite, Secretary Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

Louis T. Golding, publisher of the St. Joseph, Mo., News-Press, says: That most of us Americans are paying more attention to the conduct of others than we are to our own.

That most of us Americans are too much disturbed over what the other fellow drinks and not enough about the impracticability and unsuccessful operation of the laws we have made to prohibit it.

That most of us Americans are more worried because some people do not believe as we do, than active in practicing what we say we believe.

That most of us Americans appear to be ignorant that we are rapidly drifting towards tyranny by majority, which will be as bad as ever was tyranny by autocracy.

That most of us Americans put in too much time thinking about the fellow's salvation and too little about our own.

That if a man does not do as we do, he must be wrong, because, of course, we are right.

That most of us Americans are so intent upon admiring our own methods, our own progress, our own wisdom, that we have not time to observe our own faults.

Unless most of us Americans return to a humble recognition of our own faults and give earnest attention to their amendment, as a nation, we will soon be in the position that St. Paul prayed to be delivered from, when he wrote: "Lest, when I have preached to others, I myself should be a castaway."

No more RHEUMATISM

IT'S GONE! That awful agony! Rheumatism can't stand the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build.

But rheumatism will bring pain and misery to your joints and muscles just as long as you are without plenty of rich, red blood in your system.

It's the red-blood-cells that S. S. S. helps Nature build that drive out of your system the impurities that cause rheumatism. And until you do build up your blood to where it is pure and rich and red, you simply can't get rid of rheumatism.

And S. S. S. is the thing. Red blood conquers rheumatism. Everybody knows that.

S. S. S. means millions of red-blood-cells—means health all over. No more rheumatism. Nights of rest—days of joy, filled with the happiness of accomplishment—made possible by a body brimful of red blooded life, energy and vitality.

That's what the end of rheumatism means—that's what S. S. S. brings to you. Get S. S. S. from your druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

MOTOR LAWS BECOMING MORE UNIFORM

The tendency to make laws regulating motor vehicles more and more uniform should have the support of all concerned.

Kansas allows 40 miles. Nevada permits 45 miles. Missouri and South Dakota allow but 25 miles.

Wyoming specifies a "reasonable and proper" speed. In some states speeds in excess of what the law permits are regarded as prima facie unreasonable.

Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Minnesota and Alabama. Connecticut is the first state to enact a minimum speed law; vehicles that cannot make 12 miles an hour will not be registered.

Fast driving isn't necessarily dangerous driving. It is reckless driving that must be stopped.

Study the newspaper accounts of motor vehicular accidents. Invariably someone is selfish, reckless or ignorant.

Keep your car in order. Be careful of your brakes. Be careful of worn tires, especially on front wheels. They are dangerous. Be careful always.

Exceeding the Speed Limit Regarded in Many States as Prima Facie Reckless

PLEASE LET US GROW!

A poor fire record has, in past years, deprived Eastland of many advantages. And it still hurts.

Today, due to the co-operation of the citizens and the aid of our splendid fire department, we enjoy the maximum credit, a distinction given but very few towns in Texas.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton ©1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

GLORIA GORDON, beautiful flapper, marries DICK GREGORY, a struggling lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes . . . but no work or children.

She refuses to work and hires a housemaid. But Dick has to let the maid go, for Gloria has swamped him with debts.

She becomes infatuated with STANLEY WAYBURN, an out-of-work actor, and follows him to New York. But he spurns her. Then she tries to get a job as a chorus girl and fails. Discouraged, she comes home to Dick. He takes her back, but not as his wife.

Gloria begins to suspect that he is in love with his secretary, SUSAN BRIGGS. And the breach between husband and wife widens daily. Gloria discovers that Miss Briggs is in love with Dick. She orders him to discharge his secretary, and when he refuses leaves him.

Dick sends her $50 weekly, but she returns it to him and gets a job as stenographer for ULYSSES X. FORGAN, a wealthy real-estate operator. But Forgan makes love to her, and she gives up her position.

Gloria's family, headed by AUNT DORCAS, decided to have a counsel settle her tangled affairs for her. Not knowing this, Gloria goes with her father and mother to Aunt Dorcas' house for Sunday dinner.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

Dick walked slowly into the hall. He picked up the telephone and gave the familiar number of the Gordon home. He could hear Central ringing.

Then, resolutely, he snapped the receiver back on its hook, and set the little instrument down on the table.

He stood there looking at it. With his hand raised to his lips, he pressed Gloria's handkerchief hard against them. . . . That bit of cambric seemed to hold some of the fragrance of her in its scented folds. Her hair had smelled of mimosa flowers.

Dick put out his hand again for the telephone. But suddenly, he snatched it back, as if the little black instrument had been flame.

There was subdued panic in the speed with which he snapped off the lights, and left the house. He flung himself into the little blue car, and backed it down the driveway. "If I'd stayed a minute longer, I'd have called her up . . . told her to come!" he said, disgustedly to himself, as the car rolled along the road.

He took out his watch and looked at it. "Ten o'clock . . . Too early to go to bed on a moonlit night like this."

He drove aimlessly around the dark streets where the trees made black shadows along the sides . . . every street a Lover's Lane tonight! The same moon that had looked down on the lovers of Babylon and Nineveh looked down on the couples that were abroad tonight . . . the immortal Two, a Man and a Girl.

And then, almost without surprise, Dick found himself turning into the street where Gloria lived. He seemed to have known all along that this was where he was going.

He passed the house, with his eyes straight ahead of him. But halfway down the street, he turned in his seat and looked back at the gray, blurred outlines of it. There was a light in the window of Gloria's room.

The blue car slowed down and almost stopped. Its breaks screamed in the stillness of the street.

Then, suddenly, it shot forward in salient flight. Its tail-light winked like a small, evil eye as it turned the corner.

"Were you just bluffing me when you said you were going back to work?"

Not knowing whose car it was, Gloria heard it as she stood before her dresser, getting ready for bed.

She looked at herself in the mirror . . . What was the good of all her beauty, she wondered, when Dick wasn't there to see it?

Her hair might just as well be drab instead of red gold in all its deep waves. And her mouth . . . why should it be shaped for kisses, when he had grown tired of kissing her? . . . Gloria turned away her head, so that she couldn't see her reflection.

She put up her hand, and turned out the light with a vicious little movement. Then she lay down on the bed, and tried to sleep . . . It was past midnight, before she finally dropped off.

The next morning dawned to the sound of slow dripping rain on the leaves outside her window.

She ran downstairs, through the early Sunday morning hush of the house, and brought in the newspaper.

The "Help Wanted" columns . . . they were what she wanted. . . . She went quickly through them, and marked two or three that looked promising. She'd go downtown first thing in the morning, and find something to do . . . That was the thing, to keep busy! To keep from thinking!

When she heard her mother moving around in the kitchen, she dressed and hurried downstairs to help her.

"We won't have much for breakfast . . . just some berries and toast and coffee, I thought," Mrs. Gordon said. "Your Aunt Dorcas always has such big dinners that we'll all be sick if we eat too much, now."

Whit a shudder, Gloria remembered that they were going to Aunt Dorcas' house for dinner!

At one o'clock they went. Aunt Dorcas, flushed and beaming, welcomed them with her best manner as Head of the House, Uncle Henry, small and silent, stood behind her.

And as Head of the House, Aunt Dorcas took her place behind the platter of stuffed, roasted veal at the dinner table. Aunt Dorcas always carved, just as she always drove the family car.

Cousin Lulu and her young husband, George, were there, too. The New Baby, they explained, was taking her nap upstairs on Aunt Dorcas' bed.

"What are you going to name her?" Gloria asked innocently.

Lulu and Aunt Dorcas turned reproachful eyes upon her.

"We're going to name her Dorcas, of course," Lulu said. "Why, she's the living image of Mother . . . hair and eyes, and all!"

Once more Aunt Dorcas beamed. Even The Baby had deferred to her.

as Head of the House. And all was well.

Gloria was afraid of Aunt Dorcas. "I do hope she doesn't get started on me and Dick, again," she said prayerfully to herself, as she ate the hot cherry pie that followed the meal.

But she soon found out that what the family had really come together for, was a counsel. Aunt Dorcas, with her finest military air, took the floor the minute they were all settled in the living room.

"Your mother tells me you've gone back to work, Gloria," she began severely. "What's the meaning of that?"

Gloria drew in her breath. "Why shouldn't I work, Aunt?" she asked. "I'm used to working."

"Doesn't this young Gregory intend to give you a red cent?" Aunt Dorcas went on with her investigation.

"He's sent me money . . . but I gave it back to him. I didn't want it," Gloria answered in a low tone. She could feel the blood rising to her cheeks.

Aunt Dorcas looked at her with disgust. "Well, you are easy!" she exclaimed, "to let a man treat you the way Dick Gregory has . . . And then to let him go scot-free without giving you any money at all! You are a ninny!"

Gloria said nothing. "What are you going to do about it?" her aunt prodded her. "Don't right that you should take his money. You realize that it's no more than you're his wife."

"Yes, and if Gloria divorces Dick she ought to get good, fat alimony!" Cousin Lulu broke in shrilly. "She's a fool not to start suit tomorrow!"

Gloria felt her mother's tender, wounded eyes pass over her. She heard her voice, soft and low after Aunt Dorcas' strident tones.

"No, there won't be any divorce," that soft voice said. "Such a thing as divorce has never been in this family . . . There isn't anything for Gloria to do that I can see . . ."

"There are several things she can do!" declared Aunt Dorcas. She was like a lawyer giving an opinion. "She can sue young Gregory for alimony."

Or she can go back to him, if she wants to."

She stopped suddenly. Gloria had risen, and she stood facing them with fiery cheeks and eyes that were too bright.

"Haven't I told you before that that's the one thing I can't do!" she cried out. "I've been on my knees to Dick to take me back, if you must know! And he won't have me back! He's sick and tired of me! Don't I know . . ."

Aunt Dorcas nodded her large blond head. "Then there's more to this affair of yours than anybody knows," she remarked sagely. "People don't separate unless one of 'em is in love with somebody else . . ."

She studied Gloria with her prominent blue eyes, as if she could read her thoughts if only she looked at her long enough.

The girl knew she couldn't bear to be in the room a moment longer. It was none of her aunt's business whether she took money from Dick or earned it typewriting!

And it certainly was nobody's affair whether she lived with Dick, but his and hers . . .

She looked from her aunt to her cousin Lulu with hostile eyes. "They don't want to help me, anyway," she told herself the brutal truth. "They just want to find out all my business . . . so they can talk me over afterwards!"

She turned swiftly toward the wide doorway that led out into the hall of the house. "I've got to go," she said wildly. "I promised May Seymour I'd go for a walk with her . . ."

It wasn't until she was out on the sidewalk that she realized that May Seymour wasn't in town . . . probably never would be in town again!

"Oh, well, what if they do know that I fibbed to them?" she thought, furiously. "People who pry into everyone's business don't deserve the truth . . ."

But she hated herself for lying.

She walked slowly away from the house where the Family were still holding their counsel. She imagined her Aunt Dorcas' rich voice saying: "Well, Gloria's having what old Aunt Fanny used to call the 'high strikes!' Se's always so excitable. Can't talk over anything calmly!"

Glad of her escape, and soothed by her long walk in the sunshine, Gloria turned into the park.

There were the usual Sunday crowds here, scattering newspapers, bread-crusts and egg-shells from their picnic baskets on the yellow-green grass.

With her eyes on the dusty, blinding ground, she walked on through the intense midsummer heat. At last she found an empty bench under a lilac tree, and sank down upon it, exhausted. She closed her eyes.

She dreamed that she was in the hall of her own house . . . her house and Dick's . . . and that he was there with her.

But between them, there seemed to be a high wall of fog.

And in her dream, Gloria was trying to pull the wall down, while Dick watched her . . . gravely, just as he might have stood, looking at her, had the dream been life, itself.

The sense of his nearness was so real to Gloria that when she awakened and opened her eyes, suddenly, she wasn't startled by the man who stood beside her bench. It was Dick, himself!

"You!" Gloria said to him, thickly. "I was just dreaming about you . . . I guess I was asleep."

"You guess you were? You know you were!" Dick answered. "If I'd been a thief I could have got away with this." He handed her her little head bag which had dropped to the ground.

"I suppose it's full of your week's wages," he added, dropping down onto the bench, beside her. "Or, didn't you get a job? Were you just bluffing me when you said you were going back to work?"

Hudson-Essex Line Of Cars Increasing Popularity Steadily

One of the best automobile seasons in years is looked for this autumn by the Gullahorn Motor company, Hudson-Essex distributors, who declares that every factor he can observe points to unusual prosperity and activity.

"The most important of all factors," said Mr. Gullahorn, "lies in the fact that the average motor car buyer believes that right now he can obtain the best values ever offered him. The best engineers and experts agree that this is so. With this firm belief in his mind, the motor car buyer is obeying his impulse to buy the car which he may have been considering for months.

"The great nation-wide factors favoring this activity are generally good crops, good prices, widespread employment at good wages and a general air of enterprise and optimism. When you add to these underlying factors the all-important favorable opinion of the man who is going to buy you have a situation which means good business for all concerned.

"We dealers who handle the Hudson-Essex line of cars are gratified to see the increasing emphasis which is placed upon value in motor cars. Value is made up of no one thing in a motor car nor even a combination of special features, but rather is the whole total of the usefulness and reliability of the whole car. The motorist things to himself: 'What will this car do for me? What service will it give, and' is that service in proportion to the sum which I am asked to pay for it? This state of mind in the buyer is commendable indeed, and incidentally it is one which Hudson-Essex has been seeking to create over a period of many months. 'Value for the money offered' has been the very keynote of the Hudson-Essex story.

"The sale of Hudson and Essex cars continues most active. In part this is undoubtedly due to general conditions, but there is behind it also a particular demand for our line of cars. At the present time, as for several months, Hudson-Essex is the largest manufacturer of six-cylinder cars in the world. It is this volume indeed which makes our values possible."

LEGION TO OPEN ARENA MONDAY WEEK

Wrestling Match With Talent Said to be Extraordinary, Will be Staged.

After many consultations with counsel and legal authorities, the Ranger Legion which was stopped from staging boxing bouts on the grounds that they were believed to be paid exhibitions, has decided to open up their arena in Ranger one week from next Monday with what, it is said, will be one of the best wrestling matches staged in this part of the country.

This information was obtained late Saturday from the athletic committee of the local post. The talent for the first match has not yet been announced. Should the Legion add any features to any of these athletic events for the entertainment of the members of the athletic association, they will be free features, it is said, and even the wrestling matches, though entirely legal, may be confined to members of the athletic association.

That this was the intention heretofore when boxing bouts were featured, is also stated, although some members of the association seemed not to have appreciated their membership cards but treated them as admission tickets purely.

All these details have been worked out, but it is certain the Legion will do all in its power to make all its entertainments clean and sportsmanlike and coming fully within the law, it is stated. The funds raised through memberships are to be applied to the relief of disabled veterans, widows and orphans of veterans, and for completion of the Legion home in Ranger, it is said.

RANGER HIGH DEFEATS CLYDE SCORE 48 TO 0

Callahan County Team Gritty, But Outclassed by the Bulldogs.

As a foot race, Saturday's entertainment out in Nitro park was full of thrills. As a football game, it was a joke. The final score was 48 to 0 in favor of Ranger and the Clyde team never had the Ranger line endangered during a single instant of the game. Clyde got but two first downs, one of which was on a penalty, notwithstanding the fact that Ranger played second string men entirely during the third quarter and many second string men during all four quarters.

That last statement is subject to one exception. Johnny Walker, who is making a record for never missing a play, was allowed to stay in when the first line was called out in a faint hope that ticket buyers might have a chance to see a game. The only result of this wholesale shift from first to second line men, was a slight tightening up of Clyde's defensive and holding down the score so it did not run up into the seventies as it threatened to do.

There were many sensational plays during this game but they were discounted by the inability of the Clyde lines to hold anywhere except when the raw Rangerites went in. J. Walker, Buster Mills, Harvey, Eugene Glenn, T-Bone Shell (who got a touchdown after blocking a kick), Hipman, the raw recruit, who makes em say "rah", A. Glenn, and others starred in the game with end runs, breaking through the line, gaining distance through broken fields, making one good long forward pass (Mills to Harvey), and about everything else known to football.

Both teams are called bulldogs. Clyde's bunch under Coach Murphy, showed true bulldog grit to the last play and in one or two instances, threatened to develop some real plays, Anderson and Campbell making fair gains by hard hitting work.

Coach Coan of Breckenridge, Boyce House, staff correspondent for the Fort Worth Record, and J. E. T. Peters, secretary of the Cisco Chamber of Commerce, watched the game. It is interesting to note that every Ranger man who has gone out for football this season had a chance and played in some game yesterday. The third string playing Eastland's string men in Eastland at the fair and the first and second strings going in for a goodly amount of play at the Ranger grid.

Very few passes were attempted at today's game. One only was intercepted—by Clyde. Ranger's interference was rather exceptionally good for a second game and showed vast improvement over the Stephenville game, as did their speed.

The pep squad wasn't very peppy, claiming as an alibi the fact that their new jackets hadn't arrived. The attendance was rather good in spite of the fair in Eastland and the unusual number gathered round radios to get returns from the Dixie series game in Fort Worth.
