SEAPLANE PN-9-1 AND CREW ARE RESCUED

WILL BREAK GROUND FOR TWO HOUSES

Acute Housing Problem Will Be Partially Solved By Physician.

Ranger's housing problem has grown so acute as to engage the attention of the Chamber of Commerce and others. The opening of the new oil pools, notably the Carter and Moorman, and the school opening have contributed to the demand for homes or lodgings which the town is unable to supply. One local physician who now owns 25 houses will break ground for two more Tuesday, and three others within a few days, which will be only a drop in the bucket. One small house which is to be vacated, but which has not been advertised, has 12 on the waiting list as prospective tenants, it is stated.

The two new houses which will be begun Tuesday are to be built by Dr. L. C. G. Buchanan. Both of them will be strictly modern, two-story duplex dwellings and will accommodate at least two large families each, it is stated. One will be at the corner of Pine and South Hodges and the other in the 200 block on South Hodges. The other three which Dr. Buchanan announces he will erect as rapidly as possible, will be in the same vicinity. They will be smaller but all modern cottages, it was stated.

It is interesting to note that these five houses will bring the number owned by Dr. Buchanan up to 30. Should he feel so disposed, he might arrange to have the rent on these come in on different days and collect one rental every day in the month. That he has no idea of stopping with these 30 was indicated, though his present plans do not embrace any other dwellings at this time.

128 Bales of Cotton Ginned in Ranger Shows Increase

The ginning of 35 bales of cotton Thursday brought the season's total up to 128 bales, according to the ginners, which was a very decided increase over last year's record to a corresponding date. Picking is in full blast and the yield is very gratifying, both to ginners and growers, it is said.

Sale of Two More Houses Is Recorded

Road Master Edgar and Mrs. W. L. Smith are two of the latest Rangerites to enter the own-your-own-home movement in a practical way. They bought two of the Barney Carter houses on North Bank street, during the past few days and will occupy them. Both houses were modern cottages, according to A. F. Hartman.

PRESIDENT OVERJOYED BY RESCUE OF SEAPLANE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—President Coolidge, when he arose today was informed of the rescue of the PN-9 No. 1 and its crew of five men in Hawaiian waters and he was greatly relieved that a tragedy had been averted. He is not planning to issue a statement, following his policy of silence last week when the Shenandoah was wrecked and the PN-9 No. 1 was thought lost.

Ranger Woman Sells 31 Lots in One Body

A deal has just been closed, pending abstract, of 31 lots in Berger's second addition, by Miss Ella E. Berger to Pink Stafford. It is said some of these lots will have homes built on them in the near future.

NAVAL OFFICER URGES SEAMEN FOR NAVY FLIERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—Captain Standford E. Moses, commander of the trans-Pacific Hawaiian project, today discussed the charges of inefficiency of the department by Colonel Wilbur Mitchell.

"The personal telegrams I received praising the action of Captain Rodgers as a navigator confirms the need of having naval officers for naval use," Moses said in a statement. "The seaworthiness of the planes of Rodgers and Snoddy, which came down under a full load, stresses the advantage of having sea planes flown by naval officers who understand the seas."

PRESIDENT CONSIDERING AIRCRAFT CONTROVERSY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—President Coolidge, on his first day at the white house after his return from a vacation, dealt with the Mitchell aircraft controversy. Following a cabinet meeting, the president was escorted in a long conference with Secretary Wilbur of the navy and Acting Secretary of War Davis.

Installation of New Fixtures in Main Street Store

In keeping with the upward trend in Ranger business circles, The Globe store on Main street has just completed the installation of expensive and elegant new fixtures consisting of a nest of 24 haberdashery cases, a large alcove mirror and three new cabinet cases, making a very decided improvement in the Main street business section.

SOAKING RAINS OVER WIDE BELT ARE WELCOMED

Showers Rather Than Washing Floods Now Aggregate Nearly Inch in Ranger

Good rains coming in the form of showers that soak in rather than floods that do damage, have fallen in Ranger and surrounding territory within the past 24 hours, the showers this morning having become down-pours sufficient to turn the streets into little rivers and bring the aggregate fall up to a little less than an inch. Streams, dry for some time, are flowing and the atmosphere has been cooled.

Reports from the surrounding country indicate that these rains have been quite general throughout Ranger's trade territory.

A splendid rain fell in Eastland and over the surrounding territory last night and this morning. It began falling about 2 o'clock last night and fell pretty steadily until long after daylight this morning. While it will be of benefit to late feed crops, it will really do more damage than good to the cotton crop, according to some farmers.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE CONCLUDES SESSIONS

The Eastland county teachers' institute, which had been in session in Eastland since Monday morning, finished its work and the session, said to have been the most successful in the history of the organization in the county, was brought to a close at about 12:30 o'clock today.

The attendance at the meeting was good, there being something like 250 teachers present. The faculty in charge of the institute was unusually strong, and to them and Miss Beulah Speer, county superintendent, is given much of the credit for the success of the meeting.

All schools in the county took part in the institute, something that had not been done for a number of years, several of the independent districts preferring to hold their own institutes, which they are permitted to do under the law.

BOY BURIED BENEATH LANDSLIDE IN PIT

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Racing against time, a party of rescue workers equipped with machinery, today tore desperately at a spot where Thomas Zydell, 14, lies entombed under tons of clay and sand. While it is feared the boy is dead, the rescue workers kept steadily at their labor in the hope that he still breathed.

The boy was buried late yesterday by a huge cave-in at the pit of the Boneste Brick company on West Side avenue.

Chester Emmerling and another boy were caught with Zydell while playing in the pit. Chester was buried to the shoulder, but kept his head free and was rescued. The third boy extricated himself and ran in terror from the scene. Rescuers hope that Zydell by working his arms above his head, may have been able to open a narrow shaft sufficient to give him life. Shifts worked throughout the night and were busily at work today.

SEAPLANE AND ITS COMMANDER, LOST WITH CREW OF FOUR MEN ON PACIFIC, ARE RESCUED

Here is the PN-9, used by navy aviators on a non-stop flight to Hawaii, which failed just short of completion because the gas became exhausted and which, with all its crew, has just been found and rescued, the men being alive and well.

COM. JOHN RODGERS

Six Homes Bought And Sold In Six Weeks at Profit

The sale during the past week of two Travis street dwelling houses by the Maddocks agency for S. Suggs to Ray McHenry and Wesley B. Crow, is said to mark the end of a six-week ownership of six small dwelling houses bought by Mr. Suggs early in August, which have been sold through C. E. Maddocks & Son at the rate of exactly a house a week during his period of ownership.

These houses, none of them large, but all modern dwellings, were bought for speculation, it is said, all in one purchase from a non-resident owner. Incidentally the profit on them was $2,500, making an average of more than $400 a week for the short time they were held.

Police in Berlin Seeking Origin of German Ku Klux Klan

BERLIN, Sept. 11.—Otto and Gotthard Strohschein, Americans, believed by the police to have participated in the organization of a strong anti-Semitic German Ku Klux Klan, were to be examined at the American consulate today.

They protest they are "innocent ministers of the Gospel," and deny that they conspired, as the police claim, to build up an order which at its root is "aimed to eliminate impediment in the way of Germanizing the race here."

SPANIARDS BEGIN THEIR OFFENSIVE AGAINST KRIM

FEZ, Morocco, Sept. 11.—The great Spanish offensive aiming to crush Abd-El Krim into accepting peace has started. The French drive already has reached the old line in the central section at the front held by them at the beginning of the summer.

West Texas—Tonight and Saturday partly cloudy to cloudy, probably showers in northwest portion.

POLICE CHIEF WARNS YOUTHS AND CYCLISTS

Says Complaints Are Made Against Children Drivers And Open Mufflers.

That numerous complaints are coming in to Ranger police headquarters of "infants not a span long" who are entrusted to drive cars, bicycle riders who use the sidewalks as tracks for their wheels and especially of motorcycles with open mufflers which punish people's ear drums, was stated by Ranger Chief of Police Davenport, Friday.

"The law is quite plain in all these cases," Chief Davenport said. "The age limit for car drivers is 16, but the force has been instructed to give particular attention to little children entrusted with their own lives and the lives of others or of any who show their inability to manage a car, as well as to sidewalk riders and noisy motorcycle drivers. The police hope a word to the wise will be sufficient and that this warning will be heeded without their being compelled to resort to more drastic measures or citizens being compelled to keep up their complaints."

EASTLAND CITY PAVING BONDS TO BE PRINTED

Commission Canvasses Election; Tax Suits to Be Filed; Gas Plant Purchase.

At a meeting of the Eastland city commission Wednesday night, which was a postponed meeting of Monday night, Sept. 7, all members of the commission were present. Judge G. O. Hazel presided.

The returns from the recent bond election were canvassed and as a result the election was officially declared to have carried. The bonds will be ordered printed and placed on the market, where, it is stated, numerous buyers are ready to submit bids for them.

Colonel Mitchell Planning to Enjoy Week-End Wolf Hunt

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 11.—Notwithstanding the expected arrival of Col. George N. Nugent of the army inspector general's office, to investigate his severe criticisms of the army and navy in relation to their conduct of aviation affairs, Col. William Mitchell today was making preparations for a week-end wolf hunt in the Bander hills, 40 miles northwest of here.

Colonel Nugent, who was expected last night, failed to put in an appearance this morning, but is expected to show up during the day. His investigation is likely to be short and consist of only a few questions put to Mitchell, who will answer he made the statement appearing in print and has sufficient proof to back it up. No action is expected until after Colonel Nugent makes his report to Washington.

GERMANY INVITED TO SECURITY PACT CONFERENCE

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 11. British Foreign Secretary Austen Chamberlain announced to the press today that a note had been drafted inviting Germany to a conference of foreign ministers over the proposed allied German security pact. The time and place of the meeting, however has not yet been decided.

BOY SCOUTS MEET POSTPONED

Owing to the revival meetings in progress at the Methodist church, the regular meetings of the Ranger Boy Scouts for tonight and next Friday night, have been postponed, according to Scoutmaster B. H. Peacock.

BULLETS GLANCE FROM ARMOR OF FLEEING MAN

Nashville's Marauder Who Attacks Women Still at Large, But Being Hunted.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 11.—Nashville's midnight marauder, wearing his bullet-proof vest, paid his nocturnal visit to the scene of his crimes early today but no attack was made. As on previous nights, his steel jacket saved him from capture and possibly death. A policeman, detective and citizens guarding the North Nashville district fired at a fleeing figure, but the bullets glanced off and fell to the ground flattened. Some of the shots were fired at less than 100 yards and the fugitive was seen to stagger several times, but finally escaped.

The detective had been hiding in an alley anticipating the prowler's coming. A tall figure approached rapidly. He may have worn a mask, but the detective was not sure. The detective challenged him and he turned and ran. Later in the early hours of morning, a taxicab driver said he heard a voice on the telephone saying: "If I am seen leaving here I will be suspected as the prowler."

The taxi driver said he met the man according to plans and drove down town. Later he told the police the man answered the description of the prowler.

AROUSES FEDERAL IRE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 11.—Agents of the department of justice may take a hand in the hunt for the mysterious night marauder whose nocturnal operations have terrorized the north section of Nashville. He wrote to a Nashville newspaper today suggesting that for a momentary consideration he might be induced to cease his attacks on women. It would be on this the federal government might prosecute him for misuse of the mail.

WILLIAMSON COUNTY TOWN HAS DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

GEORGETOWN, Texas, Sept. 11.—The entire business section of the little town of Prairiedell was burned at midnight last night. Eight stores and shops were completely gutted by the flames. Several members of the local fire company went to the aid of the citizens there.

No estimate of the damage was available.

WISCONSIN METHODISTS VOTE FOR UNIFICATION

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 11.—Delegates to the Methodist Episcopal conference in session here today voted 100 to 19 to merge the Methodist church of the north with the Methodist church of the south. They also voted 67 to 45 to admit laymen as delegates each year.

Hodges Tract Is Being Platted For Addition to Ranger

That Ranger is to have a town lot sale in a new addition is indicated by the platting into lots, blocks and streets, of the north 20 acres of the 120-acre Hodges estate land, the present owner of which is the Provident National bank of Waco. John T. Rowe of that place has the matter in hand. No definite plans have as yet been announced.

COMMANDER OF SEAPLANE PN-9 GETS REWARD

To Be Assistant Chief of Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, Secretary Wilbur Says

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Commander John Rodgers of the seaplane PN-9 No. 1 will be appointed assistant chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics to succeed Capt. A. W. Johnson, who has asked for sea duty, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur announced today.

Secretary Wilbur, when informed of the finding of the missing plane and crew, exclaimed: "I'm delighted and very happy." He asked eagerly for details of the discovery of the plane and when told the crew were in good health said repeatedly, "that's fine, that's fine."

The successful ending of the 10-day search vindicates Secretary Wilbur's determination to continue until the last thread of hope was gone. When flight officers of the Pacific coast were ready to give up hope and to recall the searching vessels, Wilbur ordered them to cover again the area they had been over and wherever there was the slightest possibility the plane might be found, and also directed the United States fleet returning from Australia to engage in the search southwest of Hawaii island.

Navy officials were notified of the finding of the plane early this morning in the following dispatch from San Francisco:

"Seaplane PN-9 No. 1 found by submarine R-4 15 miles from Nawalwili. Now en route to Lihue, towing the plane. Commander Rodgers and crew in good health."

Cotton Coming to Eastland Gin In Increasing Amount

Cotton is coming into Eastland at a lively clip and is being turned out at the Eastland gin in good order and in good time. Prices being paid by Eastland buyers are the equal and, in many instances, better than those being paid at other towns. Following are some of the farmers, who brought cotton here Thursday:

All of the above parties who sold their cotton received 23.25 per cent, except about three who got 23.37 1/2 cents per pound. There were two of the number who did not sell. All of them were well pleased with the service they got at the Eastland gin and also with the price obtained for the cotton. D. L. Harper stated he was exceptionally well pleased with his turnout at the gin. Mr. Hogan also commented upon the good service he got at Eastland.

E. C. Satterwhite, Eastland hardware man, who, for 14 years was in the gin business, stated this morning, after inspecting cotton and cotton seed ginned at the Eastland gin, that the gin was doing as good work as could be expected.

Commerce Body Has Several Good Jobs For Cotton Pickers

The application of one Carbon farmer for cotton pickers made Thursday to the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, with similar calls by other farmers, has led Secretary C. C. Patterson to establish a temporary free employment bureau which, it is said, will endeavor to find jobs for all seekers and pickers for all farmers, if these two things are possible of accomplishment.

The staple is opening very fast, it is stated, and the shortage of pickers is providing jobs for the unemployed if such there be.

CALLAHAN COUNTY WILDCAT WELL LOOKS FAVORABLE

BAIRD, Sept. 11.—The wildcat well of W. W. Webb and associates, on the Zeke Marvin lease, in the northwest corner of section 70, B. O. A. lands and about four miles from production, is down 655 feet and said to be making a favorable showing. When shot, it is believed the well will make about 25 barrels of oil daily.

LONG FLIGHT AIRSHIP FOUND NEAR HAWAII

Men Well and Stay on Plane Until It Is Towed Into Port of Lihue.

HONOLULU, Sept. 11.—Nine days of terror behind them, the commander and crew of the seaplane PN-9 No. 1 were landed at Lihue, on Kauai island, northwest of Honolulu, shortly before midnight, according to radio dispatches received here. Refusing to leave their craft until it had been tied up, after being towed to Lihue by the submarine R-4, which found them, Commander Rodgers and his men were then taken to a hotel and put to bed.

Almost Beach Goal.

The PN-9 No. 1 was found by the submarine R-4 about 8 o'clock last night floating on the water about 15 miles from Nawalwili. It was nine days since the seaplane, almost within sight of its goal on a non-stop flight from San Francisco to Honolulu, was forced down after its supply of gasoline had become exhausted. The last message received from Captain Rodgers said:

"We will be gone if we have to land in this rough water without gas."

But in that forecast, the commander was mistaken, for the seaplane rode the waves easily. It drifted, however, much farther than any person had any idea it would drift.

Each of the men is in as good physical condition as could be expected after the hardship they had been through, said the report received here, although their faces were lined and haggard and they were visibly near exhaustion.

"We saw one merchant ship and glimpsed an airship," Commander Rodgers said. "The worst weather was on the third day, when it rained, but the plane rode the waves well and, aside from getting wet from the rain, we did not suffer. We spread a canvas to catch water for drinking. We had no food after the fourth day, for we did not stint ourselves on the emergency rations, all the time being confident of rescue."

"The search over the Hawaiian coast was ready to give up hope and to recall the searching vessels, Wilbur ordered them to cover again the area they had been over and wherever there was the slightest possibility the plane might be found, and also directed the United States fleet returning from Australia to engage in the search southwest of Hawaii island."

Navy officials were notified of the finding of the plane early this morning in the following dispatch from San Francisco:

"Seaplane PN-9 No. 1 found by submarine R-4 15 miles from Nawalwili. Now en route to Lihue, towing the plane. Commander Rodgers and crew in good health."

RELATIVES OF MISSING MEN HEAR GOOD NEWS

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 11.—"I just knew that John would be found. I prayed for his safe return and never gave up and my prayers have been answered." So spoke Mrs. John A. Rodgers, mother of Commander Rodgers of the seaplane PN-9 No. 1, when informed early today that her son and his companions on the missing plane had been rescued.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—Mrs. Byron J. Connell, wife of the aviation officer of the PN-9 No. 1, was in Miami, Fla., when she heard the news of her husband's rescue broadcast from the radio station. Afraid to rest her hopes too heavily on the radio, she wired headquarters here for confirmation and was sent a reassuring message.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 11.—News of the finding of the PN-9 No. 1, with its crew, was received with relief by relatives here. James R. Connell, father of Lieutenant Connell, was located at Lock No. 1 on the Monongahela river, where he is employed. He was overjoyed at the news. "This is the first I have heard of it and I am certainly delighted," he said.

TERRA HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 11.—Mrs. Theresa, Stantz, young wife of Otis Stantz, radio operator on the PN-9 No. 1, never abandoned faith that her husband would be found, she told the United Press today when informed of the rescue. "He has been lost before, but never for so long, of course," she said. "I was sure the navy would find him."

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 11.—"I am overjoyed, of course. The flyers had one chance in a hundred to be found and luck was with them."

BIBLE THOUGHT
 Kingdom is within—Neither shall they say, lo here; or, lo there! for, behold the kingdom of God is within you.—Luke 17:21.
 Prayer—May we this day enthroned Thee, O God, most Merciful and Mighty, supreme in our lives, that the Kingdom of God may be in us and abound.

The Director of the Budget plans to cut $20,000,000 from the naval appropriation for next year and a tremendous protest comes from job-holders in Washington. Government employees seem to feel that they have a vested right to their jobs, largely because the Congressman or Senator is under some political promise or obligation. As a result some of the big newspapers, creators of public opinion devote more or less editorial space in sympathetic strain. The cold fact is that the needs of the country demand a radical reduction of governmental expenses and government employees should receive no more consideration than employees of any other business concern receive.

To avoid a disastrous coal strike the British government granted the mine owners a subsidy of about $100,000,000. The government now proposes to make the poor man pay the bill by putting a tax on his beer. It will be noted that a tax on champagne is not mentioned. That would be dreadful. The average consumer usually pays most of the government expense account, whether in England or the United States, because taxes of all kinds are figured as expense and passed on.

The Public Works Department of London has banned banks from choice corner locations on the ground that banks are dull buildings and have no place in prominent corners passed by thousands of curious pedestrians hourly seeking recreation and new ideas in the course of their tours of window shopping. Such a rule in the United States would be labeled "socialistic."

Evolution alone is responsible for the proposed change of name of America's famous "Bean City" to "Onion City." Dr. Chance, of the Massachusetts Agricultural College says Boston consumes 25 pounds of onions per capita annually—by far the largest per capita consumption of any city in the United States.

With more than 50,000,000 tons of coal in stock dealers feel compelled to advance the retail price because of the "shortage." Some day farmers will have money enough to hold their wheat crop and create a "shortage" and then there'll be a howl that will be heard 'round the world.

The American debt commission has set a goal of cleaning up all war debt funding in time for action by the next session of congress and to that end has made new progress in bringing the remainder of the smaller debtors to the point of negotiations.

Do you really think, or only think you're thinking? Today you are where your thoughts have brought you. Tomorrow you will be where your thoughts take you. Do you know what a thought is?

When the Nation has one law for the rich and poor alike, and promptly enforces it, as is done in England, for instances, a greater part, if not all, of this increasing lawlessness will cease to exist.

Dayton and Cincinnati banks have found a way to elude hold-up men. They transfer money and valuables by airplane.

AND THE ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN IN RANGER

Mrs. R. B. Campbell, Editor
Telephone 224

SATURDAY.

Public library open from 9 to 11 a. m. and 1 to 5 p. m.

A. JOSEPH SENDS CARD.

A pretty card has been received from A. Joseph in which he states that he is having a wonderful time but real anxious to return to Ranger. The card is sent from Shweifat, Syria, being mailed there on Aug. 25 and depicts a pretty roadside scene. Mr. Joseph's friends will be glad to have him return to Ranger.

TUESDAY BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. C. M. Edwards, at her home, 400 Blundell street, entertained the members of the Tuesday Bridge club that are in the city, on Thursday afternoon. The ranks of this club have been quite depleted this summer as so many of them have summered far from Ranger, so on this occasion there were only two tables at bridge. It was a very pleasant meeting with its favors and table appointments favoring of a full-sized party. Mrs. C. N. Ochiltree made the high score and received as a prize some hand-embroidered guest towels, while the second prize, a lovely vase, went to Mrs. D. L. Jameson. A two-course luncheon was served at the end of the games to the following club members: Meses. A. G. Jury, D. L. Jameson, J. A. Martin, C. N. Ochiltree, Charles Schram, P. J. O'Donnell, John Moyer of Cisco, Walter Cash.

THURSDAY BRIDGE CLUB.

The Thursday Bridge club is another one of Ranger's clubs that has felt the exodus of its members during the summer and even as late as it's getting now, a number are still away. At the regular meeting yesterday afternoon three extra guests substituted for absent members. Mrs. W. Thomas, who is one of the newly returned home, she and her little daughter having summered in Colorado, was hostess and there were three tables at bridge on this occasion, each table pretty in its tallies and other bridge appointments. The high score prize, a set of salad plates in green, went to Mrs. Roy Jameson, while the low score prize, some dainty "thankies," went to Mrs. Garrett Bohning of Eastland. A dainty plate luncheon followed the game and was served to the following members and guests: Meses. Saunders Gregg, C. C. Craig, A. N. Harkrider, Frank Brahaney, E. E. Crawford, J. T. Gullhorn, B. S. Dudley, Roy Jameson, John Thurman, Garvin Chastain, Gifford Clegg and Garrett Bohning of Eastland. Mrs. A. N. Harkrider will be the next hostess.

DEMOLAYS ENTERTAIN.

The members of the DeMolay chapter of Ranger had a great time last night, when they entertained their best girls at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. N. Harkrider, Main street. The lawn of this home looks as though some one who loved to see others have a good time had arranged it just for the pleasure of their friends and is an ideal place for a lawn party. With its splendid illumination from Ranger's white way, it is always as light as day.

Dr. and Mrs. Harkrider are always interested in the young people and last night extended the hospitality of their lawn and their home to the members of the DeMolay chapter. There were about 20 couples present and games and dancing were enjoyed on the lawn until the northern struck, when the crowd adjourned to the house to complete the evening's festivities. Ice cream and cake was served. Dr. Carl Wilson and mother, Mrs. H. B. Wilson, assisted Dr. and Mrs. Harkrider in looking after the needs of the boys and girls. Earl Robertson and Robert Robertson, both of Fort Worth, both past master councilors, were present, and were the out of town visitors.

CATHOLIC LADIES MEET.

The ladies of the Catholic church and the member of St. Rita's Altar society, had a splendid meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Yonkers, Wednesday afternoon, at which time plans for the fall and winter work was laid out. Chief among these plans was a decision to hold a bake sale every third Saturday of the month, the first one being September 19. Refreshments were served after the business session. The next meeting will be at St. Rita's school, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

ELKS DANCE.

Reports from the Elks dance, given last night at their delightful club rooms in the Halbert building, indicate that it was one of the most delightful affairs of the season. While the crowd was comparatively large, still there was not the usual jam that attends these dances, thus enabling the dancers to dance in comfort. The music was up to expectations and the musicians responded to encore after encore. The Elks as usual proved their hospitality and set the fall social season off with a flourish.

PERSONALS.

Paul Teal, one of Ranger's ex-citizens, is greeting friends in Ranger today. Paul has been in California for the past 18 months and is now on his way to Florida, traveling in a Stutz touring car.
 Miss Ella Berger, another one of Ranger's ex-citizens, but now of near Aledo, is a visitor in the city today, disposing of some of her property here. The Berger additions were named for her family. Mrs. Berger has a well stocked farm near Aledo.
 Miss Marie Flahie a teacher of expression in the Ranger public schools, has returned from her vacation spent in Indiana and Oklahoma, and is ready to take up her duties where she left off last spring.
 Charles Mead and Joe Dutton have returned from an auto trip through Louisiana and they report a great trip.

OUT OUR WAY

BY WILLIAMS

Mrs. Gholson of Fort Worth, the venerable step-mother of Mr. John M. Gholson and Mrs. George Bohning, is visiting both families this week and attending the revival services at the Methodist church, where nightly she greets many of her old friends.
 Miss Emma Stevens underwent an operation for the removal of her tonsils, this morning at the City-County hospital and is doing nicely.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 M.E.A. SERVICES, INC.

THE STORY SO FAR:

Gloria Gordon, beautiful flapper, marries Dick Gregory, a struggling lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes, but no work or children.

She refuses pointblank to do her own housework, and hires a maid. But Dick has to let the maid go, because he can't afford to pay her wages. Gloria has swamped him with debts for her clothes and a new automobile.

She becomes infatuated with Stanley Wayburn, an actor. She lends him money, and when he leaves town to go to New York, Gloria follows him. He spurns her, telling her that he has just married a Russian actress. Then Gloria tries to land a job as a chorus girl and fails. Discouraged, she comes home to Dick.

He takes her back, but not as his wife. One night Gloria leaves him to work late at his office with his secretary, Susan Briggs. When Gloria is at home alone, the house is burglarized. Dick doesn't get home until early morning. Gloria wonders if he was with Miss Briggs all that time. But next morning she learns that he was at the house of Dr. John Seymour, who had killed himself because of the love affair between his wife May and Jim Carewe.

Gloria goes to Dick's office to tell him about the robbery, and to make one last attempt to win him again. Dick is out, and Gloria has a long talk with Miss Briggs. She accuses Miss Briggs of being in love with Dick.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

Miss Briggs stood up then, and faced Gloria.

The flush in her cheeks had gone, and her eyes were the cold blue of a polar lake.

"What right have you to say such a thing to me?" she asked.

Gloria's laugh was taunting. "Well, it's the truth, isn't it? You are in love with Dick, aren't you?" she said.

She could see Miss Briggs' breast heave under her plain blue dress.

"What if I am?" she asked. "I'd never let him know it! It wouldn't hurt anyone."

She seemed to be lost in thought for a moment. Then her eyes flashed with spirit.

"I am in love with him—you may as well know it," she cried. "I do care about him!"

Gloria wouldn't have believed that such a tone could have been wrung from the sedate and proper Miss Briggs. It was vibrant with tenderness.

"I do love him!" she said, again, as if it gave her a certain fierce satisfaction to say the words she had been waiting to say for years.

Gloria blinked with surprise. She couldn't imagine Miss Briggs telling her secret to the wife of the very man she loved. There must be something back of it. Perhaps Dick loved her. And she knew it, and didn't care who else knew it!

"And Dick? Is he in love with you?" Gloria asked. "Does he make love to you down here in this office when you're alone with him all day?"

A queer expression of disgust went over Miss Briggs' white face.

"Oh, no!" she said. "I wouldn't care for him if he were that kind of a man! I'm just the woman who works for him. And I'm contented to be just that—for him!"

The whole spirit of her love for him was in the words. They filled Gloria with pity for her.

"Miss Briggs," she said, "I'm truly sorry for you. You'd rather hope to marry Dick all those years when he was a bachelor, hadn't you?"

Miss Briggs smiled a very little smile that twisted her mouth up at one corner.

"I suppose I had, without quite knowing it," she said. "Oh, let's stop talking about it—you'll never speak of it to Mr. Gregory, will you? Please. I'd die of shame!"

"Well, I'm not so sure you ought to go on working for him, feeling about him as you do," Gloria answered. "Do you think you should, yourself?"

Miss Briggs looked at her long and gravely. "She could scarcely believe that, in her moment of weakness, she had told Dick's wife that she loved him."

"I've felt that way for a good many years—and it hasn't done anyone any harm," she said miserably.

"It has done you harm," Gloria told her. "If it hadn't been for Dick, you'd probably have married long ago."

"Oh, no!" Miss Briggs cried. "You see, this was my first job. Mr. Gregory's been my whole life for years. I couldn't have thought of marrying."

"That's just it," said Gloria. "If a girl happens to work for a young, good-looking man, she's so likely to fall in love with him! She's the sort of a day-time wife to him, looking after his comfort, reminding him of his engagements, keeping his pencils sharpened. Oh, I know! I used to be a stenographer, myself, you know."

"And were you in love with the man you worked for?"

"Heavens, no! You should have seen him! Old as Methuselah, and crosser than two sticks!" Gloria answered. "Well, I guess I'd better be going—tell Dick I stopped in to see him, will you?"

Miss Briggs nodded, dumbly. She looked as if she wanted to say something else. But before she could frame the words, Gloria was gone.

She sat quietly at her desk when the sound of Gloria's high heels had died away down the corridor. All around her was a blankness that left her brain naked to outward impressions—the loud ticking of a clock in Dick's private office, the clanging sound of the elevator outside the door.

"I shouldn't have told her," she thought at last. "How did I happen to tell her—of all people? I must be losing my mind."

She got up and walked, in her small dignity, to the clothes rack, and took down her hat.

She closed her desk, and went out of the office. She knew she couldn't face Dick that day.

But she faced the world with a high bravery. She smiled at the elevator boy, and told him it was a lovely day and she was going out to enjoy it—to play hockey for once. From sheer habit, she bought a paper.

She wondered if she would ever enjoy anything again. Her heart was breaking. And her pride was broken, too.

"I suppose I'll lose my job," she thought dully. "She's sure to tell Mr. Gregory. She'll make him discharge me, sure as death."

It was characteristic of Susan Briggs that she never thought of the man she loved except as "Mr. Gregory." She never had.

As Gloria went up the front steps of her house, the mother of the Donberg twins came across her front lawn toward her.

"There was a policeman at your house a while ago," she said, pleasantly. "What crime have you been committing?"

She carried her mending basket in her hands. Gloria could see that she was primed for a neighborly chat. But she didn't want to be neighborly with Mrs. Donberg. She was the type of woman for whom Gloria had no use—the home body who talked of nothing but marmalade, marketing, and moth-marks.

"We had burglars last night," Gloria said, without a smile, "and I've been so excited all day that I haven't done a bit of housework. I've got to get busy now and do it before my husband comes home."

She went into the house, and closed the door behind her.

There was a musty smell in the rooms. The house needed a thorough airing, as well as a good cleaning.

Gloria threw the windows wide open and went upstairs. She took off her hat and went to work.

All the soiled linen came off the beds. She made them up fresh and smooth. She hung a neat row of towels in the bathroom, and scoured the tub.

She began to enjoy her job. It was rather fun to dash around from room to room banging the ashes from the tray on Dick's bedside table, slapping up the pillows on the window seat in the room where Dick had banished her.

Well, she wouldn't stay in banishment much longer, Gloria made up her mind.

She would show Dick that she really did mean to be a good wife to him—and he would take her back into his heart, again.

It was perfectly silly for them to live apart this way, under the same roof. And unnatural, besides.

"And if Dick ever brings up Stanley Wayburn again, I'll accuse him of being in love with Miss Briggs," Gloria said to herself. "I'll tell him she would never have fallen for him if he hasn't made love to her, first. That'll shut him up, quick enough."

The more she thought about Miss Briggs the more firmly Gloria decided to tell Dick he'd have to send her packing. To have a secretary around who was in love with Dick was just throwing temptation in his way. Few men could resist a woman who was crazy about them. She appealed to their love of flattery.

And no man was deaf and blind to flattery—not even the level-headed Dick. Yes, he'd have to get rid of Miss Briggs. That was all there was to it.

Gloria ran downstairs. She heated the water in the kitchen tank and washed up the dishes in the sink. She scoured it out, and mopped the floor. It didn't look much better when she had finished than when she began—but it had the strong, pungent smell of a good cleaning, anyway. That was something. At least Dick could see that she was trying her best to be a housekeeper.

That, if anything, ought to melt him!

At 5 o'clock Gloria ran upstairs and bathed.

At 6 she looked like anything but a woman who had spent the afternoon cleaning up a house.

She was herself, again—a creature of beauty charged with elegance. Her head was like molten copper. Her skin was sweet in its sheer cleanness. And all around her hung the old fragrance of mimosa-flower that had always turned Dick's head.

She was Gloria at her loveliest—her most alluring.

When she heard Dick's key in the lock she ran downstairs to him, on winged feet.

"I was just going out to buy some things for our supper," she said to him with an adorable smile. "I've been so busy all day that I forgot to phone the grocer."

Her voice was as natural and sweet as if it had never uttered a cruel word. It implied that she and Dick were the best friends in the world.

"The stores are all closed at this time of night, and you know it," Dick said to her. "Don't talk. What do you want to do? Go downtown and eat? Gosh, I'm getting tired of eating in restaurants, though! Try to have something cooked tomorrow night when I get home, will you?"

"You know I will," Gloria answered. "I'll even get supper here tonight, if you'll drive me over to the delicatessen. Let's get some ham and eggs and you can show me how to fry them. That'll be fun!"

"No," Dick said wearily. "I'm too tired to fuss around. I didn't have a wink of sleep last night. You heard about John Seymour, of course?"

Gloria nodded. The feeling of horror that she had every time she thought of Dr. John's suicide closed down over her like black wings.

"Oh, Dick," she breathed, "wasn't it awful? I've just been sick about it all day!"

She waited for him to put his arms around her, to comfort her—as he would have done a few weeks ago. But he made no move toward her.

"I tried to get you on the phone last night when Lola Hough phoned me to go to Seymours, but central said you didn't answer. I guess you were asleep," Dick said. "Come on, let's go."

"I was not asleep!" Gloria answered. "The telephone wires were cut. There was a burglar in this house last night while you were out! He was near enough to me to touch me. I even saw him in the dining room!"

Dick stared at her, with his hand on the open door of the hall.

"What did he take?" he asked.

"All the forks and knives and spoons that your mother gave us for a wedding present," Gloria said. "But that's not the point. The terrible part of it was that I was frightened out of my wits, almost. And I'll never stay in this house alone, again, so long as I live. See?"

GOING OUT TONIGHT WITH THAT PIMPLE SHOWING

The boy or girl who has nothing to worry them about the way they look are so much more noticeable when compared to the shrinking and backwardness of the ones who are afraid to mingle in the fun because they know how unattractive they must look on account of their pimply, blotchy or rough, eczemic skin.

Their one friend is Black and White Ointment, if they will just use it faithfully, because it will get rid of all those ugly bumps and make their skin soft, smooth and lovely. Then, to keep it that way, be sure to use Black and White Soap when you wash. They are both economically priced in liberal packages. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and the Soap.—Adv.

GOVERNOR PINCHOT TRYING TO BRIDGE COAL DISPUTE

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 11.—Governor Pinchot took his first step towards bringing about peace in the anthracite coal fields today by inviting spokesmen for the miners and operators to meet him at his home. John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, will meet the governor Monday.

It is probably Major W. W. Inglis, spokesman for the anthracite coal operators, will meet the governor tomorrow, although no acceptance of the invitation has been received yet.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

To break up a cold over night or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza or sore throat, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the nausealess Calomet tablet, that is purified from dangerous and sickening effects. Those who have tried it say that it acts like magic, by far more effective and certain than the old style calomet, heretofore recommended by physicians.

One or two Calotabs at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea, nor the slightest interference with eating, work or play. Next morning your cold has vanished and your system feels refreshed and purified. Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, price ten cents for the vest-pocket size; thirty-five cents for the large family package. Recommended and guaranteed by druggists. Your money back if you are not delighted.—Adv.

FINAL CLEARANCE DAY

For White's "End Of The Season Sale" Will Be Saturday

It always requires time to clear up the odds and ends of a gigantic clearance sale, such as the one recently closed by J. M. White & Co., consequently the buying public of Ranger has had an opportunity to buy articles at sale prices. Saturday night will mark the final closing-out of the big sale, and Monday morning a new policy of business will be inaugurated by White's.

Stunning Creations in Fall Wear For Milady

Are included in our big Clearance Sale. You will see every correct model of assured favor in styling, material, trim and color. Our price emphasized at the season's very beginning the advantages of selecting your new apparel at White's.

Every article in the house was marked down to bedrock during the big sale and due to the rush of business we have been unable to clear up our depleted stock, so as to remark the goods. Consequently, one more day will go by before we are able to remark the goods.

LONG FLIGHT AIRSHIP FOUND NEAR HAWAII

This was the reply of Col. William Mitchell when asked for an expression concerning the finding of the seaplane.

"We cannot too greatly rejoice with the country on the rescue and safety of so brave an officer as Commander Rodgers and his men," said Mitchell. He also voiced congratulations for Rodgers when told of latter's appointment as assistant chief of the bureau of aeronautics.

In St. Paul not far from the Minnehaha Falls, made famous by Longfellow's poem, "Hiawatha," is Henry Ford's Twin City plant. Electrical energy to operate this automobile factory is supplied by both a steam-driven and a hydro-electric generating plant. The steam plant has a capacity of 5,000 kilowatts and the hydro station is equipped with four 4,500 kilowatt turbine driven electric generators.

ON THE RANGE AT RANGER

By THE FENCE RIDER.
(Items for this department must be phoned in to the Fence Rider, by 12 o'clock daily in order to insure their inclusion. Don't be bashful. Jingle the telephone bell.)

The ear of corn in the window of the Times office was taken from the county poor farm. It is the small cob, cane grass variety which produces, it is said, rain or shine and will be used to make bread for the inmates. The little branch off a cotton stalk with the five big bolls on it, came from the Whitten farm adjoining.

"Twenty per cent better than last year" was the way one discerning Ranger fan expressed his estimate of the High school football team. If that be true, what's going to become of Cisco, Breckenridge, Abilene and all the other o's and enes who aspire to pigskin laurels?

One more game and then the season closes, was the sentiment expressed at the Lions' dinner about that postponed baseball game with Eastland which, it now appears, may be played next Tuesday. "And it won't do any good for Bobby Bates to show up with his usual challenges," one member said, adding that Ranger had punished Eastland sufficiently for one season anyhow.

To give names would be telling, but it is alleged that a Ranger citizen recently ran over a man with his car and knocked him golly west and sky winding, and the poor fellow, when he staggered to his feet, produced a bottle and handing it to the reckless driver, said, "Take a drink?" And he did!

"I regard your work second to none, not even to mine," remarked Superintendent Holloway to the public health nurse recently. Which is to say, heads won't function unless bodies be kept healthy and a school of Tom Toddlers, all heads and no bodies, would be a pathetic joke.

During the rain this morning a man was seen at the corner of Main and Rusk streets, standing out in the heaviest downpour in his shirt sleeves eating an orange and looking as contented as a kitten on a warm hearth.

Jack Eckenbrack of Ranger fought Red Wells to a draw in Cisco Thursday night in a six-round bout.

Evangelist Flowers Preaches on "The Five Roads That Lead to Hell"

If any attended the services at the Ranger Methodist revival last evening in hopes of hearing Ranger's five main roads berated, they were disappointed, for "the five roads that lead to hell from Ranger" were personal roads, that lead men, women and children all over the world to perdition. The text was taken from Matthew, 7th chapter, 13-14 verses. "Enter ye in at the straight gate, for wide is the gate and broad is the way that leadeth to destruction and many there be which go in thereat: because straight is the gate and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life and few there be that find it."

Dr. Flowers said that he believes people who reject Jesus Christ as their personal Savior are lost. He believes in a personal devil, because the Bible teaches that there is a devil and because human experience, with which he himself often comes in contact, teaches him that the devil is at work. That Satan uses the spirit of commercialism to lead people astray. That we forget that we are dependent on God and that it is a sad day when we go to trusting in things material and leave God out.

The evangelist said he thinks it's fun to be religious and that God delights in us having wholesome good times, but there are many questionable forms of amusement that rob one of their spiritual power, their physical power and their heart power. He touched on dancing and its aftermath, for he had seen with his own eyes the modern ballroom and the exodus of its young people to cars during intermissions, for a drink and a petting party. He did not say that Ranger was any worse than any other town in this respect. He did say that a physician at a certain insane asylum where he once visited said that the reason they had Friday night dances for the insane was "because it's good for weak-minded folks." He also stated that the W. C. T. U. women of American stated in a recent investigation that 85 per cent of our young women who led a life of shame started their downward career from a dance hall. He said that Christians of today were winking and blinking at conditions and afraid of public opinion. He said that gambling had the same relation to stealing that dueling has to murder and that people who are always playing cards for prizes are breaking the laws. He said that Japan wasn't the only country that had pagans, that they were right here in Ranger. He urged his hearers to quit the various roads they were traveling in sin, to "get out of the road of fear" and to lift up your hands and arms in a mighty plalanx for God and His cause.

His sermon tonight will be "What ever Ranger Sows, Ranger Will Reap."

A large audience heard the message last night, there being representatives from nearly every church in the city. Boosters meet this afternoon at 4:30. Young people's meeting at 7:30. Teachers' meeting in the basement at 7:30. Preaching at 8 o'clock.

EVERETT DAVIS HIT BY AUTO AND BADLY BRUISED

Everett Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis of the Gulf addition in Eastland, and a carrier boy for the Eastland Daily Telegram, was run down by an automobile Friday morning about 10 and injured to the extent that he is confined to his bed and physicians say it will be several days before he can be out. The accident happened near Lake Eastland and the name of the driver of the car that struck young Davis was not given. The boy was considerably bruised, but it is believed that his injuries will not prove serious, as it is stated that no bones were broken.

EVANGELIST FINDS RANGER SUBSTANTIAL
 Compares Favorably With 150 Cities, Including Eight Oil Towns Visited

"The thing which impresses me most in Ranger is the substantial character of the town and its buildings," remarked Evangelist R. L. Flowers, Thursday. "This is the eighth oil town in which we have held revival services, and while it is not the only one which appears to have built to stay, none of them shows greater apparent stability," he added.
 The evangelist was asked to give his reactions and observations with entire fairness and to speak of civic and industrial conditions as he saw them purely and solely, leaving all allusions to the spiritual atmosphere for discussion in the pulpit. It developed that he and his evangelistic party had visited something like 160 cities within the last 11 years, holding meetings in each of them. These cities are scattered all over the United States, from New England to California. He is obviously a close observer of conditions and he spoke without any semblance of flattery but with frankness and candor.
 "One of the finest things I have seen here is your wonderful highway," he said, referring to the Bankhead highway. "Only in the old settled New England states have I seen such roads as these. Then he remarked on his visits to the oil cities of Mexia, Burkburnett, Eldorado and Augusta, Kan., Graham, Olney and Electra. He said some of these cities, though not all of them, showed a tendency to erect temporary buildings, as though they expected to move out overnight. That Ranger is "built to stay" was noted, as evidenced by the very substantial character of the business blocks and residences, and, more particularly, by the schools and churches. He paid the Ranger Methodist church the compliment of being the finest building save one in which he had ever held a meeting.
