FATE OF MITCHELL HANGS IN THE BALANCE

GRADY DANIELS MAY DIE FROM PISTOL WOUND

Tom Raney Held In Jail In Connection With the Shooting

Grady Daniels of Eastland, is lying at the Eastland hospital where he was taken early Sunday morning suffering from a gunshot wound, from which physicians say he has but a slight chance to recover. A bullet from a 38-calibre automatic pistol entered the body near the right groin, passing through the lower bowels and lodged somewhere, the exact whereabouts not having been located by attending physicians.

Tom Raney, also an Eastland man, is charged with having shot Daniels, the shooting having taken place at the Bill Turbow home, a few miles south of Eastland, sometime about 12 o'clock Saturday night. Both Daniels and Raney are married and are said to have been the best of friends.

Following the shooting, Saturday night, Raney took his wife and two children in his car and drove out of Eastland. Officers located him Sunday about noon at the home of relatives in Stamford, where he was arrested and brought back to Eastland by Deputy Sheriff V. F. Foster of Eastland and lodged in the county jail. County Attorney Barnes stated this morning that he understood that Raney could and would make bond.

A charge of assault to murder has been filed against Raney in the justice of the peace court at Eastland. This charge, County Attorney Barnes stated, would be changed to murder should die from the results of his injuries.

Daniels' mother and several brothers live in Eastland. Raney, it is stated, has also lived in and around Eastland for a number of years.

"Road Hog" Annoys Motor Drivers on Bankhead Highway

Three motorists traveling in a Ford sedan are positive they saw the biggest road hog in captivity, on the road between Ranger and Eastland, Saturday night. The "hog" drove a Ford car, and it hailed from Cleburne, Texas. At least that is what the name-plate on the rear said. He was fond of red, as a red ribbon flaunted from his car in a long streamer. Others driving along the same road with him saw red without looking at that streamer. He traveled leisurely until the car behind him would attempt to pass. He then got into action, thrust himself in the middle of the road and went "whole hog" so there was nothing to do but to fall behind. At least 10 times the sedan tried to pass, and at least 10 times the hog pulled the same stunt.

At last one of the ladies, for she was a lady, got exasperated, as she was waging a verbal battle with her husband to help her pass. He then got into action, thrust himself in the middle of the road and went "whole hog" so there was nothing to do but to fall behind. He fell behind for about five minutes and then passed the sedan. After that he gave them an opportunity to pass him, only to re-pass, and so on until they got to Eastland. The parties in the car tried to feel that they were warranted in turning him in, but being "good sports" they did not, so the "hog" roared on for other gentry to annoy.

Texas, the biggest state in the union, grows the biggest road hogs in the world, if this one is an example.

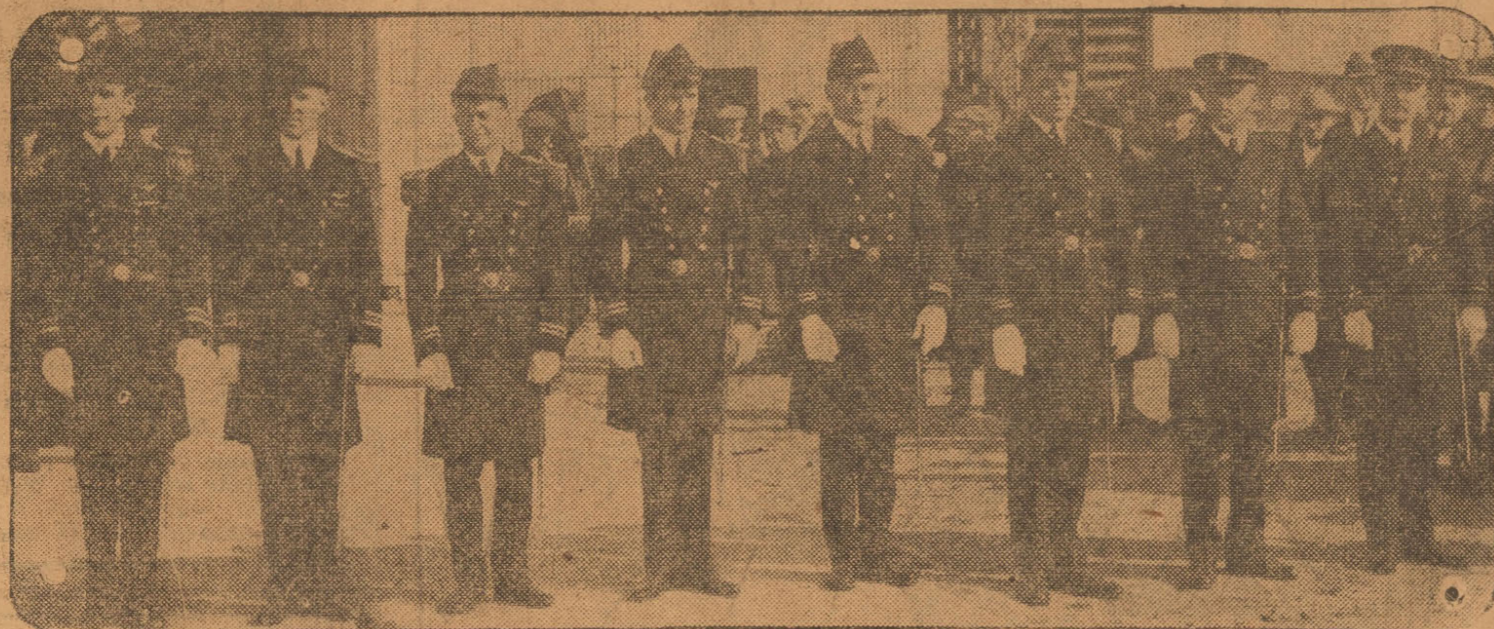

Youth Just Released From Insane Asylum Confesses Murders

CEDAR GOVE, N. J., Sept. 7.—Harrison Noel, alleged slayer of 6-year-old Mary Daly, whom he kidnaped from her Montclair home, today pleaded guilty to a charge of murdering Raymond Pierce, negro taxicab chauffeur, whose car was used in the abduction. Noel was arraigned before Police Recorder Robert Evans. His voice was almost inaudible when he entered his plea. Noel, 18 years of age, is a son of Dix W. Noel, a leading New York lawyer. He was formerly in the Overbrook asylum for the insane, but was released in custody of his father about one week ago, apparently having been cured. He was identified by John Sandin, the chauffeur who sought to save Mary Daly, as the man who had shot him.

The body of the little girl was found Sunday night in a hut near Cedar Grove. A bullet wound in her temple and another in her throat showed how she had met death. Daly admitted that he kidnaped and killed the girl, police said.

DYNAMITE AND GUNS SLAY ONE WOUND THREE

Police Use Drastic and Fatal Measures in San Angelo Mexican Raid

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 7.—Gun-fire and dynamite were used by the San Angelo police Sunday to force alleged criminals, barricaded in a house in the Mexican quarter, to surrender. When the melee was over, the dead body of Joe Tafolla was found riddled with bullets. This came as a surprise to the police. Tafolla had been wanted for some time and his whereabouts, according to officials, were unknown. Chief of Police Willis Barbes, received a flesh wound in his left arm during the fight. Esbell Martinez and a woman named Marie Vasquez, were also wounded.

Among other things captured in the shanty, where two revolvers, two Winchester rifles and a coffee pot full of cartridges. The battle occurred during an effort to make arrests growing out of disturbances centering around a fight between Juliana Gonzales and Mrs. Deitrich, wife of the proprietor of a cold drink stand. Until the blazing bed containing Tafolla's dead body was dragged from the building which the police had twice dynamited in their siege, it was believed that it was Deitrich who was barricaded in the building.

Stephenville Eleven Will Open the Football Season in Ranger, Coming to Meet Ranger Bulldogs September 19

The light but nimble boys Coach Cherry confidently counts on to show football fans how a team can win by art and not by beef alone will have its first public opportunity to show its stuff September 19 when the Stephenville eleven, which came in one of winning Class B laurels last year, comes to romp on our boys or be romped on or both. And the nimble Ranger bunch is getting nimbler every day, according to the coach.

The line-up for the Stephenville game can be pretty closely approximated at this time. Eugene Glynn who is easily the fastest man on the team and who seems to have learned about himself what everybody else has known for some time, that he is deserving of every one's confidence, including his own, will undoubtedly play left. It is about equally certain that Walker will do the other half-back stunts and according to the coach, Walker is due for his biggest year this season.

Another youngster who is coming on strong is Garland Himman, who is now believed to be the logical choice for the tackle position made vacant by Husky John Collins, one of last season's idols. S. R. Black, if he shows up as he has started out, will have a good chance at the other tackle's position.

The fight for ends is a free-for-all between Phillips, Grubbs, Shipp and Johnson at this time with the chances apparently about even. Captain Shell and Cooper each has a chance at center. Dupree, Short, Williams and Gullhorn are fighting it out for guard positions.

The teams will have a thirty-minute scrimmage practice Tuesday and another Saturday.

The schedule as announced by Coach Cherry gives Ranger the long end of the first games as will be seen by the following game dates: Stephenville at Ranger Sept. 19; Clyde at Ranger, Sept. 25; Sweetwater at Ranger, Oct. 3; Strawn at Ranger, Oct. 10; Breckenridge at Breckenridge, Oct. 17; Eastland at Ranger, Oct. 24; Abilene at Abilene, Oct. 31; Cisco at Cisco, Nov. 11. The Sweetwater game is tentative. All others fixed dates. The Schedule is incomplete.

Yancey Story, Held On Criminal Charges, Is Married in Jail

DALLAS, Sept. 7.—Yancey Story, under indictment in Denton county on a charge of bank robbery and another for murder, was married to the sweetheart of his youth, Miss Burette Litsey Chadwick, in the Dallas county jail Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock.

Tom Hickman, ranger captain, who led the raid on the Story farm in Denton county, resulting in the charges against the alleged robber and killer, acted as best man at the wedding. There were a score of women from Dallas and Denton counties at the ceremonies. The only prisoner attending the wedding was Shelby Stiff, held in jail here with Story on charges of bank robbery.

COTTON BEGINNING TO COME INTO RANGER

Forty-seven bales of cotton were ginned last week at the Moss gin in Ranger, according to H. L. Stewart, manager of the gin. Three bales were at the gin early this morning and, if the weather continues dry, Mr. Stewart looks for a busy time all this week.

CONGRESS MAY PROBE ALLEGED INCOMPETENCE

Senator King Prepares Resolution Providing for Search For "Brain" Force.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—A resolution demanding congressional investigation of the Shenandoah catastrophe as well as other sea, sea and air tragedies in the navy and army air service will be introduced when congress meets in December, Senator King, democrat, of Utah, said today.

"There is no doubt in my mind that this recent series is due to official incompetence, negligence and ignorance," King said.

"The navy department especially needs cleaning from top to bottom and the senate must do it. There is something radically wrong with the navy department which would permit such tragic events to occur in rapid succession. I am drawing a resolution to provide for a committee of five senators to investigate the tragedy of the Shenandoah, the wreck of warships on a reef off the Pacific coast, the Kuroki catastrophe, the turret explosion on the Mississippi river, the loss of the flight capsule on its way from San Francisco to Hawaii and other tragedies in the navy."

REVIVAL IS STARTED WITH ENTHUSIASM

Evangelist and Mrs. Flowers, At Methodist Church, Have Message to Interest All.

There is an old saying that "a good beginning means a bad ending," but in Texas all signs fall and especially when applied to revival meetings, for it's the meeting that starts warm and full of interest that winds up successfully. If time is lost in warming folks up, the precious hours are gone before most of the congregation realizes a meeting is in progress. The revival meeting at the Methodist church started out with an impetus yesterday that is sure to gain momentum at each following service. It was a great day in Ranger churchdom. There were capacity crowds at each service and two rousing sermons. The work is fully launched and interest in the meeting is manifested on every side.

Mrs. Flowers will speak tonight every man, woman and child in Ranger. It's Labor Day, it's true, and a great many will find recreation elsewhere than in the church, but these men and women represent the highest type of labor. They are laborers in the work of the Lord and Master. Each day is Labor Day for them—laboring as they build up the Kingdom of God and to preach his Gospel.

At 4:30 this afternoon the boys and girls up to high school grades will meet in the basement.

At 7:30 there will be a meeting of all Sunday school workers of the city, with A. J. Flowers, in the basement.

At the same hour the young people of the league and the B. Y. P. U. will meet with R. L. Flowers in their room on the main floor.

Tuesday morning and every day thereafter there will be services in the morning from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m.

The booster bunch, boys and girls, will meet each day at 4:30 in the basement.

Several of the other churches dismissed their congregations yesterday, so that they might attend the revival services. Each church in the city is asked to feel that the meeting is its meeting and to attend every service possible.

Bible Class to Be Conducted By Supt. Holloway

A Bible class, conducted in some building or hall in Ranger, on the undenominational club plan, is under way, of which R. S. Holloway, superintendent of the Ranger city schools will be head and teacher, if plans set on foot Sunday are carried out. A meeting tonight of a committee in charge, is to be held to perfect these plans. The purpose is to reach high school boys not attending any Sunday school, as well as other men and young men in all walks of life.

The election of officers, membership drive, a feed and all that goes with the formulation of a men's club, built around the idea of studying the Book of Books, are items being considered. There will be no fees and no salaries, it is announced. Men of all churches and no churches at all, will be made equally welcome and the Bible studies, it said, will be of such a character as will be instructive to all and objectionable to none. The movement was given its impetus at the Christian church Sunday morning.

OFFICIALS TRY TO 'PASS BUCK' TO PRESIDENT

Coolidge Appears Reluctant to Interfere; Issues May Reach Congress and the People

LEGIONNAIRES GIVE SUPPORT.

PARIS, Texas, Sept. 7.—Texas legionnaires were asked today for their unanimous endorsement of the stand of Col. William Mitchell in his criticism of the American air defense policy. The executive committee of the William F. Brown post No. 30 of Paris, Texas, wired all Texas post commanders endorsing Mitchell's statement and asking similar action by other posts.

"We are in full accord with you," the Paris post wired Colonel Mitchell. "And the people of the United States will be under obligation to you for your efforts to organize an efficient aeronautic department that will be in keeping with the American idea of efficiency."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The fate of Col. William Mitchell, former assistant chief of the army air service, will be left in the hands of President Coolidge, army officers forecast today. After launching a formal investigation of Mitchell's statement through Major General Ernest Hines, commanding general of the Eighth corps area, Acting Secretary of War Davis will place the question of proceeding against the flecty critic of the war and navy department squarely before the president.

The issues raised by Mitchell, who charged the department with incompetency and criminal negligence far transcend the matter of disciplining an insubordinate officer and involve the administration, it is said, therefore the president must direct what action shall be taken.

When Mitchell returns to San Antonio today or tomorrow he will be asked by Major General Hines, under informal instructions from Washington, to affirm or deny his statement. His reply will be sent to Davis, who will lay the whole matter before the president, who is due in Washington Wednesday. No real action is expected for 48 hours. Everything awaits the investigation by General Hines.

"The flying general" who already has suffered demotions and banishment from Washington for his outspoken criticism of the administration air policy, faces court-martial, dismissal, possibly jail and slender suits by high government officials whom he assailed as "grossly stupid, incompetent and criminally negligent."

The situation created by Mitchell's latest outburst has deeply stirred the armed service of the country and a showdown is certain.

By United Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Col. William Mitchell's home is swamped with telegrams today, all congratulating him on his attack on the present air service management and assuring him of their support. Members of the family refused to divulge who any of the telegrams were from until the colonel himself returns from his fishing trip at Aransas Pass.

Coolidge Disposed to Hold Himself Aloof

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 7.—President Coolidge will let the war department fight out any controversies of the aircraft situation, including the wrecking of the Shenandoah and the new attacks of Col. William Mitchell.

If the war department sees fit to fix responsibility upon some one for the Shenandoah disaster, or decides to court-martial Colonel Mitchell, President Coolidge will not interfere, it was learned here from a source close to the summer white house.

The president is said to feel that it is up to the department to settle the disputes that arise within the department.

Army and navy officials here expressed the belief that Mitchell might succeed in making a martyr of himself, a situation that the military powers wish to avoid.

COTUS CLARK, OIL FIELD WORKER, SERIOUSLY HURT

CISCO, Sept. 7.—Cotus Clark, Cisco oil field worker, is at a local sanitarium suffering from a fractured skull sustained Saturday while working in the Moran fields. He was in an unconscious condition when brought to the sanitarium. Little hope is entertained for his recovery.

Clark, it is stated, was injured early Saturday morning when gas in the well being ignited and he ran a pipe into the hole to extinguish it. The pipe was blown out and struck him on the head, just above the right temple.

LABOR DAY.
 By S. P. HOLLINGSWORTH
 WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Organized labor in America felt a new significance in Labor Day today for it is the first time in the 44 years existence of the American Federation of Labor that Samuel Gompers, the great leader, has not been on hand to help carry out the spirit of the occasion.

In the past Labor Day has a time for rejoicing. Today it is regarded as a day for serious reflection by the men and women who have picked up the torch as it fell during the year from the hands of their chief.
 Great preparations have been made by the labor organizations of the country to make this a day apart from all other Labor Day celebrations. The record of trade unionism in America as it was built by the master hand of Samuel Gompers has been set before the workers by their present leaders as the foundation for the memorial of a greater organization reared upon the ideal which he left to them.

To carry on Gompers Program.
 President William Green, who was chosen to "carry on" the work of the man who served continuously as president of the organization which he helped to found in Pittsburg in 1881, appealed to organized labor today to help him carry out the program of the federation as it was laid down by Samuel Gompers.
 In an address at Detroit, President Green was to rally the labor organizations to a new zeal in a great campaign about to get under way for increasing the ranks of their unions. Organization of the workers so that they may receive the benefits of trade unionism, was the keynote of addresses to be delivered by President Green and Secretary Frank Morrison, the one in a great city of the east, the other in the newly developed south. Morrison was to speak before labor organizations of the southeast at Petersburg, Fla.

From a small band of less than 50,000 loyal trade unionists, the federation of labor has grown and expanded until it consists today of an army nearly 3,000,000 strong.
 In its record are many advancements in human progress, as well as the numerous benefits in working conditions which organized effort brought about.
 The policy of Samuel Gompers, notable until his death, of non-partisan political action to accomplish the "partisan" program of labor, will be carried out by President Green.
 The rock upon which the labor movement was erected—the principle of collective bargaining—will be the starting point and the basis of advancement in the future, and every deviation from this principle will be strenuously opposed, the new leadership has stressed.
 The words of Samuel Gompers calling back from the grave were in the minds of the leaders today:

CRIME SUPPRESSION.
 A national crime commission, the purpose of which is to institute an intensive campaign to decrease crimes of violence throughout the United States through education and legislation, has been organized with Mr. F. T. Davison of Long Island, as chairman. Mr. Davison announces that an executive committee representing various states will be appointed and a capable staff of statisticians appointed. The matter of funds is also under consideration.
 It occurs to the onlooker that the most effective method of putting an end to crime is to take away the gun. Deprived of revolvers the stick-up man will disappear, for without the little persuader he cuts no figure. Incidentally a license law limiting the sale of pocket arsenals would reduce the number of murders, homicides and accidents. The poor munitions maker might be out of luck—but he's far more deadly than the brewer.

INVITATIONS RECEIVED
 The following invitations are being received by many Ranger folks today: "Yourself and lady are invited to attend a Fred Cahoon dance, Ranger Elks club, Thursday, September 10, nine till 12, $2.50." The music on this occasion promises to be something great. Most any radio fan in Ranger can tell you how Fred Cahoon's orchestra can play, as their concerts have been broadcasted regularly over the radio from the Star-Telegram station, for many months. Doubtless a great many folks who do not dance will take advantage of this opportunity to hear this orchestra.

LABOR DAY SUNRISE DANCE
 The Labor Day sunrise dance at the country club, beginning this morning five minutes after midnight, was a very successful event and launched the day with a flourish for those who are enjoying a holiday. There were some sixty couples present. Music began at 12:05 and continued until sunrise. Gus Coleman's "Rhythm Squad" as he calls them—though Mr. Webster would say, "rhythm"—furnished the music for the dance and responded generously to encore after encore. There were no special decorations, as it was just an informal, early morning dance. There were guests from all over the oil fields, but the most of those in attendance were from Ranger.

RUSH FOR BEST NEWSPAPER EXHAUSTS SUPPLY OF TIMES
 Special Correspondence.
 We never miss the water till the well runs dry. Sunday, Rangerites set up a cry that echoed all the way from Strawn to Eastland when their supply of daily papers ran out. What with Gloria, the Fence Rider, the snappy, spicy, newsy sheet—best in the oil belt (we admit it ourselves!) the dealers and newsboys ran out of copies of the Times long before noon. The office force was routed out before some of them had finished their Sunday morning nap and every nook and corner was raked and scraped for copies to supply the demand and stop the cry. Moral: "Buy early and avoid the rush."

Wounded Palo Pinto Man Dies; Assailant Is Held in Jail

PALO PINTO, Sept. 7.—I. W. Grimes, who was shot six times late Wednesday afternoon by D. C. Robertson, died at the home of his brother, O. N. Grimes, from the effects of his wounds, which at first were not considered necessarily fatal. He was buried at the local cemetery.
 Robertson, who was placed in jail shortly after the shooting, and charged with assault with intent to murder, and held without bond pending action of the grand jury, which will convene in October.
 When Grimes' condition took a sudden and unexpected turn for the worse, complications manifesting themselves, County Health Physician Smith operated in the hope of saving the man.
 It is said by County Attorney Oscar M. Herring that the shooting of Grimes was the result of an attack made upon a young daughter of Robertson, who runs a meat market here. Grimes was convicted of assault upon the girl, and sentenced to jail and to pay a fine of $100.
 A few hours following the conviction of Grimes, the two men met in the business section of the town. They had some words, and then retired behind a building. A few minutes later six shots rang out, and Grimes was found badly wounded.
 Neither man would make a statement following the shooting.

TEXAS UNIVERSITY IS NOT BIDDING FOR INCREASE

AUSTIN, Sept. 7.—No great increase is expected in the number of freshmen students entering the University of Texas this fall, according to E. J. Matthews, registrar. The drought, the opening of the junior college in San Antonio in connection with the extension work of the university, and the higher entrance requirements are given as the three reasons why the enrollment will probably be cut down somewhat.
 With the beginning of the long session of 1925-26 no student will be allowed to enroll in the university without 15 full units, instead of conditionally with 14 units as heretofore. Of these 10 are in English, two in social sciences, one of which must be in history, two in algebra, one in plane geometry, and two in foreign language, ancient or modern. The

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS LEARNING SELF-GOVERNMENT

Special Correspondence. AUSTIN, Sept. 7.—Believing that through matriculation in the University of Texas, a student neither loses the right nor escapes the responsibilities of citizenship, the faculty has allowed the student to be governed by student organizations. However, the president of the university has full jurisdiction over all cases of discipline, and to assist him in making investigations there has been provided a committee on discipline. The Students' association of the university, composed of all students enrolled in school, was organized in 1902 in order to facilitate student self-government. This is now composed of the Students' association as the executive branch, the Student's assembly, the legislative branch, and the Men's and Women's councils as the judiciary branch. Members of these divisions are elected by the student body. The power of the Students' assembly is limited by the constitution of the association and by the veto of the president of the university. The Men's council is responsible for the administration of the honor system among the men students and the Women's council performs the same service among the women students. For instance, when a student is reported having cheated on an examination or as having turned in work not his own, the evidence against him is come over by members of the council, a verdict is reached, and the findings of the council are turned over to the dean of students, who makes known to the student the penalty recommended. Appeal may be made to the discipline committee concerning decisions of the council and the committee may mitigate, increase, or reverse the penalties assessed by the committee.

When Pirates and Giants Clashed

New York went baseball crazy when the Pittsburgh ball team came to New York city to play the New York Giants. Base New York, the scene of four successive world series championships, took more interest in this series of five games than it has taken in the last two world series. Apparently everyone in New York journeyed up to the Polo grounds to see the Sunday double header. The stands were completely filled an hour and a half before the game time, and it is estimated that fully 50,000 fans were turned away by the police. Photo shows mounted police trying to stem the surge of baseball-crazed New Yorkers that attempted to crash into the ball park after the gates had been closed.

TWO GIRLS HELD IN JAIL BEG TO BE GIVEN DOPE

Two girls who reported themselves from Dallas and who languished in the Ranger city jail Saturday night and begged for "dope," took a tug at the heart-strings of all who grieve every time a young girl makes a trade with the devil exchanging her charm for the drug that brings sweet dreams and ruins a sweet life. One of the girls wired for money from home—and got it, so the var charge didn't stand up and these two objects of pity went on to some other town in search of the dream stuff—or, let us hope, they went back home to a mother.

Condemned Man, Forgotten by Hangman Must Be Re-Sentenced

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 7.—Johnny Washington, negro, whose day of execution passed by unnoticed, was held at the county jail today en route to Jackson to be re-sentenced. On July 28, the day set for his execution, people in Jackson county watched for accounts of justice in newspapers. There was none, so they made inquiry and found prison authorities had forgotten to put Johnny to death. A long technicality was unearthed in the investigation, which set forth he could not have a new trial. His status was that of a living dead man. But he will be re-sentenced.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

THE STORY SO FAR:

Gloria Gordon, beautiful flapper, marries Dick Gregory, a struggling young lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes, but no work or children.

She refuses to cook or keep house. She hires Ranghild Swanson to do it for her, although Dick says they can't afford a maid. And she swamps him with debts for her clothes and an automobile.

Gloria becomes infatuated with Stanley Wayburn, an out-of-work actor. She and Wayburn, with May Seymour and Jim Carewe make a jolly foursome. Wayburn is offered a job on the New York stage. Gloria lends him $200 of Dick's money to help him out.

Dick becomes ill with pneumonia. When he recovers, Dr. John Seymour, husband of the flighty May, sends him away for a rest. Gloria refuses to go along, because Dick's mother, whom she hates, is going.

As soon as they leave on their trip, Gloria sets out for New York. She goes straight to Wayburn. But he spurns her, and tells her he has just married his leading woman, Sonya Chotek.

For two weeks Gloria tries to land a job and fails. Finally she comes home to Dick. He takes her back into his house, but not as his wife. He feels sure that she would never have come home if Wayburn had wanted her to stay in New York. One night after her return Gloria finds Dick having dinner in a downtown restaurant with his secretary, Miss Briggs, of whom Gloria has always been jealous.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY: Gloria's first impulse was to laugh when she saw Miss Briggs and Dick at that half-hidden table in the corner of the little restaurant.

It was certainly the best laugh of the year—to catch the straight-laced Dick out "stepping" on the sly! To catch him taking his secretary out to dinner without telling his wife about it! It was too funny. The corners of Gloria's mouth went up in a malicious little smile.

Then Dick turned and saw her. And something in his eyes startled her with its intensity. When he and Miss Briggs been talking about to make him look like that? Could it be that he was in love with her, after all?

All the laughter died on Gloria's lips at the thought. Was she going to play second fiddle to Miss Briggs in Dick's life? Was she going to be one of the great army of wives whose husbands are in love with their office secretaries? Well, she just guessed not! Not so you could notice it!

With fury in her heart, Gloria marched forward to the table where Dick was sitting with Miss Briggs. Dick jumped up and pulled out a chair for her.

"Well, this is a surprise!" he exclaimed.

"Yes—I noticed you looked surprised when you saw me," Gloria answered with sarcasm that bit.

Without a word of greeting to Susan Briggs, she sat down at the table.

"Have the waiter bring the rest of my dinner over here," she commanded Dick. "Unless you have something to say to Miss Briggs that you'd rather not have your wife hear?"

She laughed unpleasantly. She took out her vanity case and dabbed a bit of rouge on either cheek. Then she raised her eyes to Miss Briggs. "You don't have to wear rouge, do you?" she asked. "You're as red as beet. You look as if you have a fever, right now!"

It was true. Poor Miss Briggs had flushed to a deep, unbecoming red under Gloria's words.

She looked as if she wished that the earth would open and swallow her up. And, as a matter of fact, Miss Briggs was devoutly wishing herself out of that little restaurant.

She had come there that night alone, when Dick had asked her to work late. Five minutes after she had begun to eat, Dick, himself, had walked in. It would have been queer if he had not sat down to share her lonely meal. A friend could do no less, could he?

Miss Briggs wished now that Dick would explain the whole thing to his wife. But she knew he wouldn't. She could see that he was going to let Gloria think anything she wanted to think.

And what Gloria evidently thought was that Dick had taken Miss Briggs out to dinner, to "show her a good time."

Miss Briggs drew a breath of relief when Gloria turned her shoulder upon her, and began to talk to Dick.

"By the way, dear," she said with sugary sweetness, "I forgot to ask you if your mother's better. Did her trip with you do her good?"

"She's much better," Dick answered. He was puzzled. He knew that the very last person on earth that Gloria cared to hear about was his mother. He knew that Gloria detested his mother. What game was his wife up to, now, he wondered.

He soon found out. Gloria went on talking to him about things that didn't matter to her or to him, either. She kept up a flow of foolish chatter. She spun it out until the meal was almost over.

She did her best to shut Miss Briggs out of the talk. She snubbed her. She talked in a half whisper so low that Miss Briggs couldn't have caught a word if she had tried.

Dick saw the rude and cruel thing that Gloria was doing. And he came to Miss Briggs' rescue just as he would have rescued a mouse that a cat was torturing.

me about today, Susy?" he asked gently.

"About that Parmley injunction case," Miss Briggs answered with lips that trembled. She fumbled in her purse and pulled out a $2 bill. She laid it on the tablecloth.

"That's to pay for my dinner," she said, "and I think I'll leave you people now, and get back to my work. Goodnight, Mrs. Gregory."

It cost Miss Briggs an effort to bid Gloria goodnight. And Gloria knew it.

"Goodnight, Miss Briggs," she said airily.

She smiled, with narrowed eyes. She knew she had spoiled Miss Briggs' dinner. And she was glad of it! She'd show Dick's secretary that she couldn't go dining around with him, and get away with it! She'd show her a trick of two worth knowing!

Miss Briggs got up to go. Dick rose with her.

"I wish you wouldn't rush off like this, Susy," he said. "See you later, though. Get together the data on that injunction case, will you?"

Wordlessly Miss Briggs nodded. She walked out of the little restaurant, jerkily, as if she were pulled by unseen wires.

Gloria watched her go, with an amused smile. Then she turned furiously to Dick.

"So?" she cried. "This is why you didn't want me to come downtown to eat with you! This is why you don't want to kiss me any more! I see it all now! How long has this affair with Miss Briggs been going on, for goodness' sake?"

"Affair with Miss Briggs?" Dick repeated quietly. "I don't know what you're talking about. Do you know, yourself?"

Gloria stared at him.

"Do you mean to say you don't know Susan Briggs is cuckoo about you?" she asked. "It would be just like Dick not to be able to see it!"

"You ought to know it!" she went on. "She doesn't take the trouble to hide the fact that she's gone on you. You're only got to look at her to know!"

At that the smouldering anger in Dick burst out. He brought his fist down noisily on the thickly padded tablecloth in front of him.

"You ought to be ashamed of talking about a decent girl that way, Gloria," he said. "And the way you treated her just now was about the rottenest thing I ever saw."

"What do I care?" Gloria cried wildly. "Who's Susan Briggs that I should bow and scrape to her? She needn't think she can go jazzing around with my husband, and have me treat her like a tin can!"

Dick looked at her from under his lowered brows.

"You think I'm 'jazzing around' with Susan Briggs?" he asked shortly.

"Sure I do!" Gloria's tone was airy.

"You know I'm not," Dick said quietly. "You know I'm not the kind of man who chases women. You know I run away from them. If I'd known Susan Briggs was coming here tonight to eat, I'd have gone somewhere else. And you know that, too!"

Gloria gave a short, ugly laugh. "You can bet your boots she knew you were coming here, though!" she said. "I'll bet she even knows where you go to get shaved, and where you buy your collars—everything about you! She makes a study of you. And she came here tonight, knowing that you'd show up if she just waited long enough. And sure enough, you did!"

"I hardly ever eat here," Dick answered. "So she couldn't have guessed I was coming here, in a month of Sundays. Come on, let's go! I've had enough of this! Do you want to come back to the office with me, or are you going home?"

"I'm not going back to the office," Gloria answered shortly. And left him.

She didn't want to go home, either. After Dick had left her she walked slowly along the street, looking into the shop windows and the lighted lobbies of the moving picture theatres.

Suddenly she saw two faces that she knew in the moving throng around her—little blond Mrs. Wing and Gretchen Geist. The two were chums. Gloria had played cards with them dozens of times. They had been at her house for lunch, often.

And now she smiled at them in greeting. But the smile froze on her lips.

For both women looked her full in the face for a moment. Neither spoke. Then they looked sharply away. And the coldness in their eyes were like a slap across Gloria's face. She smarted under it.

She stood, quivering, for a long moment. Here was a new problem! These women must have heard the story of her love affair with Stanley Wayburn—these women who had been her good friends. Oh, she couldn't lose them! They were the people with whom she would have to live her life, now that she had come back to Dick!

As a crowning man clutches at a straw, Gloria's thoughts turned to Mother Gregory. She would have to go to Dick's mother and ask her to stand by her. As long as Dick's own mother was her friend, no one would dare to believe the story that she had left Dick for Stanley Wayburn!

Gloria looked at the clock in a jewelry store. Half past nine. Too late to see Mother Gregory tonight. She would go to her first thing in the morning, though.

In the meantime, she could telephone May Seymour. May would be sure to know whatever gossip was "out" about her. May was a born news pad.

There were scores of people in this town of ours who "knew for a fact" that Gloria Gregory had left her husband, and had run away with a Broadway actor named Stanley Wayburn.

No one knew where the nasty bit of gossip had started. But it flew all over town on the wings of the wind.

Gloria's card club heard it, and voted Gloria out of the club.

Lola Hough heard it and said it wasn't true. She defended Gloria.

May Seymour heard it, and said she didn't blame Gloria for going. May, herself, would have been glad to escape to New York for a few weeks. For the gossips were busy with her and Jim Carewe again.

"Sure, they've been talking about you," she told Gloria cheerfully that night on the telephone. "They say you ran away with Wayburn, and that Dick went down to New York and brought you home."

Gloria sighed dimly.

"What a tale!" she said. "If they must talk, why don't they get things straight?"

"Didn't you run away with Stanley Wayburn?" There was surprise in May's voice. She, too, believed the story of Gloria's desertion of Dick.

"Of course not! Don't be silly!" Gloria said sharply. "I went down to New York to go on the stage. I didn't even see Stan Wayburn!"

"That was a lie," she told herself bluntly, as she left the telephone, and began to undress, "but it's my story and I'm going to stick to it!" She would never let anyone know that she had followed Wayburn to New York and that he had turned her down! She could never raise her head again and look people in the eye, if they found that out!

Gloria tiptoed out into the hall and half way down the stairs. She thought she heard the sound of Dick closing the door. But no one was in the lower hall. The clock there struck 12 slowly and booming.

Where was Dick? Why didn't he come? Surely he and Miss Briggs couldn't be working until midnight—

Presbyterian Church Of Eastland Extends Call for Pastor

At a congregational meeting held yesterday morning, the congregation of the First Presbyterian church of Eastland voted to extend a call to the Rev. L. R. Hogan, of Clarksville, Texas, to come here as the minister of the church. Mr. Hogan preached here last Sunday and made a favorable impression on the people. His answer is expected within a few days.

At the night service, Mr. Reemtsma spoke on the subject, "The Greatest Advertiser in the World." In his introduction, he spoke of the science of advertising, especially in America. He also showed that in America we are inclined to overstate. He then spoke of the heavens as declaring the glory of God, and that this is the greatest advertising in the world. Man is the greatest advertisement of the world's greatest advertiser, he declared.

First Christian Japanese Bishop To Attend Episcopal Convention

A native Christian Japanese Bishop, Rt. Rev. Joseph S. Motoda D. D., Bishop of Tokyo, will be one of the notable figures at the forty-eighth Triennial General Convention of the Episcopal Church, which will assemble in New Orleans, October 7th next. The occasion will mark the first time that a Bishop of any native Church in the Orient has been a visitor to the General Convention in the United States. Bishop Motoda, representing the Nippon Sei Kokwai, or Holy Catholic Church in Japan, presides over the great Diocese of Tokyo where the American and English Churches once shared jurisdiction, but withdrew in his favor, when the National Church of Japan was established. The Bishop is one of the recognized educational leaders of Japan. On several occasions he has represented his government at educational conferences in various parts of the world, and in this capacity he will attend the Christian Conference in Sweden in August, later coming to the United States for the Convention at New Orleans. The Bishop as a boy, entered St. Paul's Episcopal College, Tokyo, graduating from which he came to the United States and entered Kenyon College. Thereafter he studied at the University of Pennsylvania and the Philadelphia Divinity School and was ordained in 1896 by the late Bishop Whitaker. Returning to Japan he became Headmaster of his Alma Mater, St. Paul's College, now a great University in the hills outside Tokyo. He was elected Bishop in the Spring of 1923, and his consecration fixed for the ensuing December. In the interim, the earthquake of September 1 laid waste Tokyo and the surrounding country; in spite of which Bishop Motoda insisted upon the consecration service being held, and on December 7, he assumed jurisdiction, in his own words "over a heap of ruins." Under his administration, and with the co-operation of the Episcopal Church authorities in the United States, the destroyed churches in Tokyo are rapidly being rebuilt, and a new Tokyo is arising from the ashes of the old. This will be the first visit of Bishop Motoda to the United States since his elevation to the Episcopate.

Plan to Unite Millions of Citizens In Revolt Against High Local Taxes

AKRON, Ohio, Sept. 7.—A revolt against governmental extravagance and high taxes is taking form here. Jacob Pfeiffer, president of the Miller Rubber company, is planning to unite millions of people in a nationwide effort to reduce and eliminate unnecessary taxation. The movement is to be fostered by the Taxpayers Union which is endorsed by many powerful business and industrial leaders of the country.

Pfeiffer has outlined the organization's aims to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Vice President Dawes, Budget Director Lord, and many other high government officials. Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, has endorsed the plan. In sanctioning the movement, Budget Director Lord wrote to Pfeiffer that tax reduction was a matter of urgent national requirements.

"We have on the one hand, a material reduction in Federal taxation, and on the other hand, as I understand it, a menacing increase in state and local taxation," said Lord. "With this situation in mind, I can conceive of no work more essential today than that directed to lighten state and local taxes. Four years ago the cost of government devices approximately sixty per cent federal and forty per cent state and local government."

"In the short span of four years this ratio of government cost has been more than reversed standing today at approximately 36 per cent federal government and 64 per cent state and local government. This is a startling change in conditions." The newly-formed Taxpayers' Union will endeavor to show how excessive taxation cuts the profits of business concerns from the largest manufacturing corporation to the little corner grocery. It will endeavor to show how it increases the living

Gay Flapper Now Evangelist

Three years ago it was the gay, carefree life of the flapper that appealed to Bessie Mae Randall, then a stenographer in the oil promotion office of Dr. Frederick A. Cook. One night she strolled into a revival meeting and was converted. She began a course of study at a school for evangelists in Los Angeles. She is now conducting services in Fort Worth after which she will start on a world evangelistic tour.

Music Club's Head Approves State Fair Pipe Organ Programs

DALLAS, Sept. 7.—Miss Dorothy Drane of Corsicana, president of the Texas Federation of Music Clubs, in a letter to officials of the State Fair of Texas, has expressed her appreciation and approval of the programs to be given by Clarence Eddy, dean of American organists, on the new fair park auditorium organ, during the 1925 fair, Oct. 10-25.

Miss Eddy, who is now on the Pacific coast giving a series of recitals, submitted programs covering alike his dedication on Saturday, Oct. 10, and for each day thereafter throughout the state fair. The programs were in turn submitted to Miss Drane, with the request that she give an opinion upon them.

The dedication recital will be at 2:30 p. m., Oct. 1. Daily recitals by Mr. Eddy thereafter will be in the forenoon, probably between 11 and 12 o'clock.

For the dedication recital Pietro Yon's "Hymn of Glory," dedicated to the American Legion, and Eric Webster's "Berceuse"; the Bach prelude and fugue in D minor and Carl Diton's "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" will be featured, indicating that there is to be a happy mixture of the classic and popular in the organist's selections.

This indication is carried out in the daily program as well. Such things as Mr. Eddy's own arrangement of the anonymous "Russian Boatman's Song"; G. B. Nevin's "Rural Sketches"; Vice President Charles G. Dawes' "Melody"; and Cadman's "At Dawning" appear, along with Dudley Buck's magnificent "Star Spangled Banner," the Homer Bartlett arrangement of the overture from "Tannhauser" and Meyerbeer's "Coronation March." The Handel "Largo" is one number, of course, and Ernest Hawke's "Southern Fantasy," dedicated to Mr. Eddy and including "Old Kentucky Home," "Dixie," "My Maryland," and the others, will appeal to thousands.

Unfit For Animals

Yet Mother Was Evicted From This House to Bear Child in Open
Evicted from a pigsty home, which officials say was not fit for animals to live in, Mrs. Anne Cooper, 19, of Phoenix Park, near Chicago, gave birth to a baby under a tree. The baby died. Mrs. Cooper, whose husband fled three months ago to evade robbery charges, has never paid rent due to the dilapidated state of the building.

DALLAS.—Additions and better-cost about five million dollars. Aments to the main pipelines of the Lone Star Gas company in North Texas now under construction will supply of the territory served.

Fits Well

This smart little felt hat that turns away from the face so appealingly has ticks at the side that form a trimming and at the same time make it possible to fit the crown smoothly and neatly. The deep, perfectly fitted crown is one of fashion's musts.

Menus for the Family

Breakfast—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, crisp whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Creamed carrots, toasted cheese sandwiches, celery, apple sauce, gingerbread, milk, tea.

Dinner—Lamb loaf, creamed potatoes, buttered peas, salad of tomatoes stuffed with pineapple and cream cheese, blackberry cream, plain cake, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

If every family will use plenty of tomatoes and apples during the season for the fresh fruit they will be that much healthier. Babies less than a year old are given strained tomato juice and apple sauce as protective and corrective foods. Apples and tomatoes are usually cheap, and they surely are quite as delicious as the most expensive delicacy.

BLACKBERRY CREAM
Two cups blackberry pulp and juice, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups milk, 1 cup whipping cream, 2 eggs (yolks), 2 tablespoons gelatine, 1-4 cup cold water.

Beat yolks of eggs with 2 tablespoons of sugar. Scald milk, and slowly to first mixture. Add 1-8 teaspoon of salt and cook in double boiler until mixture coats spoon. Soften gelatine in cold water and dissolve over hot water. Stir into custard. Let stand until cool and add berry juice and sugar. When mixture begins to stiffen fold in cream whipped until firm. Turn into a mold and let stand on ice for several hours to chill and become firm.

FACTS ABOUT THE MAKING OF "THE TEN COMMANDMENTS"

AFTER eight months of preparation, production was started in desert locales closely duplicating Israel's exodus from Egypt and stay in the Sinaitic Wilderness.

More than 2,500 people were employed in the Biblical scenes of the picture.

Fifteen tons of modeling clay, 300 tons of plaster, 550,000 feet of lumber, 25,000 pounds of nails, and 75 miles of cable and wire were used in building the immense sets.

Sixteen miles of cloth were used to make 3,000 costumes. Three tons of leather, made into 250 sets of Egyptian chariot harness.

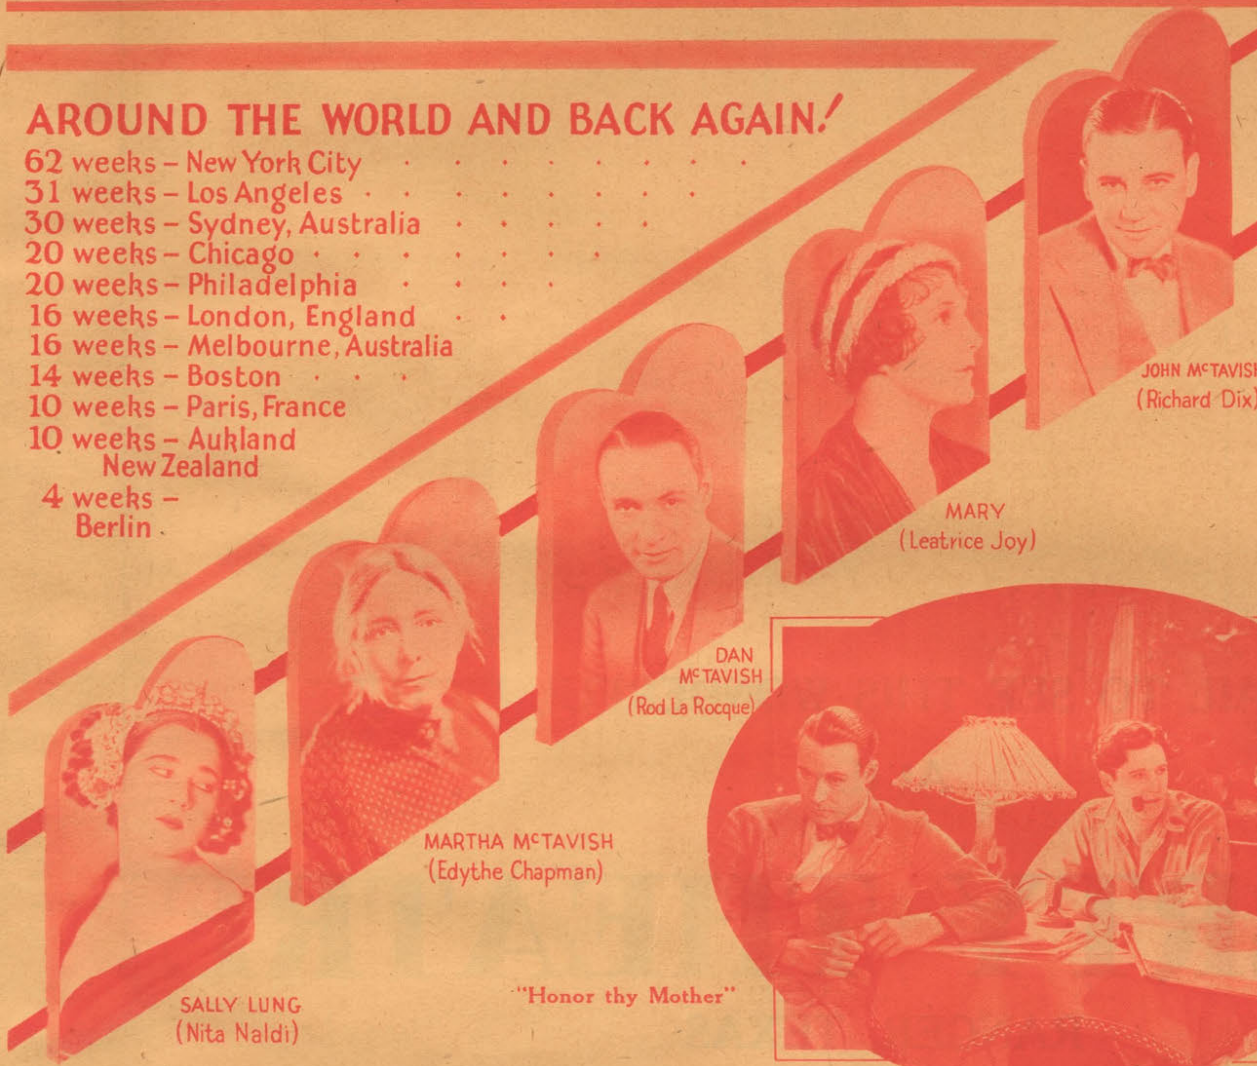

Ten tons of hay were required to feed 900 horses, 200 burros, 50 camels, 500 sheep and 1,000 cattle.

The nationalities of the players included Arabians, Palestinians, Turks, Caucasians, Mesopotamians, Greeks, Roumanians and Moors—thirty nations represented in all.

The Ten Commandments is the most wonderful production ever made since the motion picture was first projected before the eyes of Man
